Before Wilson's Presidential bee was born the professor wrote books. In his "History of the American People" Wilson made sneering references to the Farmers' Alliance, and characterized the Knights of Labor as being "tinctured with the hideous doctrine of anarchy." He paid this tribute to the alleged superiority of the Chinese as slaves to American capitalists:

"They (the Chinese) had, no doubt, many an unsavory habit, bred unwholesome squalor in the crowded quarters where they most abounded in the Western seaports, and seemed separated by their very nature from the people among whom they had come to live; but it was their skill, their intelligence their hardy power of labor, their knack at succeeding and driving duller rivals out, rather than their alien habits that made them feared and hated and led to their exclusion at the prayer of the men they were likely to displace should they multiply. The unlikely fellows who came in at the Eastern ports were tolerated because they usurped no place but the very lowest in the scale of labor."

At late as June 13, 1909, Woodrow Wilson showed his contempt for organized labor. On that day he delivered the baccalaureate address to the graduates of Princeton University. In that address Wilson said:

"You know what the usual standard of the employe is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trades unions, and this is the standard to which it is made to conform. No one is suffered to do more than the average workman can do; and in some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the least skillful of his fellows can do within the hours allotted to a day's labor, and no one may work out of hours at all or volunteer anything beyond the minimum. I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. It is so unprofitable to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth his while to attempt anything at all. He had better stop altogether than operate at an inevitable and invariable loss. The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under its present regulation by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. Our eeconomic supremacy may be lost because the country growws more and more full of unprofitable servants."

Does Wilson deserve your vote, Mr. Workingman?

Does Roosevelt deserve your vote, Mr. Workingman?

JUSTICE.

Air: "Marching Through Georgia."

I

Lift the anthem, Comrades, and unite the world in song,
Right forever on the throne, the scaffold for the wrong;
We are bound to triumph, for we're many millions strong,
And we are working for Justice.

CHORUS.

Hurrah! hurrah! Mankind shall soon be free!
Hurrah! hurrah! for World-Fraternity!
Love and Truth and Justice now clasp hands across the sea,
And we are working for Justice.

II

Lift the child from sorrow, dry the mothers' sacred tears,
Raise humanity from serfdom, hatred, wrongs and fears;
Right, not Might, shall rule the world thro' all the coming years,
Comrades, we're working for Justice.

CHORUS.

Hurrah! hurrah! We'll set the children free!
Hurrah! hurrah! We'll raise humanity!
Love and Truth and Justice clasp hands across the sea.
Comrades, we're working for Justice.

III

Stretch the hand of Fellowship o'er plain and hill and dale,
Let the glad world echo with Fraternity's deep hail,
Let the lightning flash it, let it ride upon the gale;
Comrades, we're working for Justice.

CHORUS

Hurrah! hurrah! World Comrades we will be!
Hurrah! hurrah! for Hope and Liberty!
Love and Truth and Justice now clasp hands across the sea.
Comrades, we're working for Justice.

WORKINGMEN, VOTERS!

Our bosses pay us as little as they dare. They work us as long as they can. Their horses and dogs are better fed than our children. Our bosses go to Europe and to magnificent country houses in the summer. We stay and sweat for them all the year around in our stinking tenements.

Their children go to colleges; they tell us fourteen years is a generous limit to the schooling of our children.

They and their families live in comfort and ease. We work for them all our years and think ourselves lucky if they don't fire us.

They hunt pleasure. We hunt jobs.

Why?

Because we don't vote together. Our bosses give millions of dollars to the politicians and their newspapers. They keep on fooling us every year.

Half of us vote for one party, half for another. The bosses and the politicians divide us up.

They are afraid that we will vote together. They get us to vote against each other. It's an old game and always works.

Workmen, be men! Don't be led around like a pack of sheep.

As we work together in our unions, and strike together, let us vote together.

Vote a working class ticket, vote as workers. Vote for Debs who was imprisoned because he was winning a strike.

Vote the Socialist state ticket.

Vote for Comrade Bachman for congress and the entire district and county ticket.

Vote for Belcher and Haak for common pleas judges and Enoch B. Eubanks for probate judge.

Then we shall have in Congress for the first time a Comrade who will work for us. Then we shall have a man standing up for us first, last and all the time.

We have the vote. We have the power. Let's, at last, use it now.

Workmen! Stand together! Vote together! Win together this year!

TO THE OLD PARTY WORKINGMAN: It seems a little, trivial thing to go up to the polls on election day and cast your little, insignificant vote for one of the old parties. But your little insignificant vote massed with a lot of other thoughtless little insignificant votes cast in the same way, is just what makes it possible for capitalism, through one or the other of its parties, to stay in power and to KEEP YOU AND YOUR KIND IN ECONOMIC MISERY IN SUMMER AND IN ECONOMIC TORTURE IN WINTER. It is always good times for the plutes, you know—and you certainly know by this time that it is always hard times for you and the rest who labor.

Every time you vote for a capitalist party or faction you betray the common people, the people whose toil, whether in mine, factory, office or store, makes all the wealth that is so grandly enjoyed by the few.

The seasons in their changes bring no relief to the average citizen, the average family. It isn't only a case of ice and coal. Capitalism gets you on ALL the necessaries of life, in season, out of season, monthly, weekly, daily, hourly. It runs your whole life for you and permits you to go just so far and only so far. You simply live by permission.
go just so far and only so far. You simply live by permission.

American labor is astonishingly productive. It heaps up the national table as history never saw it heaped up before. And capitalism sits down to the table with its bottomless appetite—and you and your kind do the waiting. You ought to be sick of the struggle by this time. Yet when you cast a capitalist ballot you give your consent for this unholy condition of things to continue. How can you look your wife in the face when you return from the polls? How can you look upon trusting childhood in your home without a blush of shame after what you have done?

If this appeal, this challenge to your common sense and manhood, would only set you thinking! If it would only WAKE you up! !

When you go to the polls this year do not commit political suicide. And do not be fooled by the old politicians' quarrels. When a new party starts up, talking reforms, but made up of the same old politicians, the same old familiar "mugs," you may well beware. No matter what a trap is baited with, it is a TRAP. And a trap is for the interests of the fellows behind it. And behind every one of the old parties are the fat, sleek fellows of Wall street fame, the Morgans, Ryans, Belmonts, Perkinses, Flinns, etc., etc., etc., etc.! Certainly you must see your duty by this time!

It is hard to have to talk to you this way, but you know you like to still make yourself believe that you are part of the ruling class. You like the plutes' pleasant smile (on election day only) when you vote as they want you to vote.

If you and enough like you wake up this year and vote with the common folks against all the capitalistic candidates, you will rescue the land from the coal thieves and all the other thieves—you will make it possible for the government to work in YOUR interests. You ought to do it. You ought to do it because NOW IT'S YOUR TURN!

"The country is free from labor trouble—Taft poster. A few months ago all New England was aflame with the revolt of the mill workers, the silk weavers at Patterson were out on strike, the miners and railroad men were demanding better wages, and at present the pressmen of Chicago, the workers of Illinois Central R. R. system federation are struggling to enforce better working conditions, and down in West Virginia one of the fiercest contests in the history of the country is raging between the miners and mine owners. These struggles are, of course, mere trifles, incident to the capitalist system and not to be considered seriously by Mr. Taft and his followers.

The funniest thing that a Socialist meets with is the man who will look at you with a patronizing air and tell you that Socialism is impractical, that it is a dream, that it can never be because of one or more of the reasons that his little brain conceives to be the death blow to the movement. Poor fool, he probably is not aware that there awaits an unlimited amount of money for the man who can devise some means of proving that it is not practical or wont work, etc. If it were not true its opponents would have killed it long ago.

Boosters' Department

—By F. E. JOHNSTON—

Next Tuesday, Nov. 5, we are going to pause long enough to go to the ballot box and count noses, then we are going to start in on Nov. 6 to fight some more. As the rising sun of a summer morn, gradually diffuses its soft light, and awakes the earth to activity and life, so is it with our propaganda. Light is beginning to shine in dark places.

Where once ignorance reigned supreme, the bright light of the coming emancipation shines forth in brilliant lustre from the eyes and faces of thousands of our fellow workers.

Where once plodding willing slaves were found, we now see thousands of red blooded revolutionists, with the fire of determination in their eyes, walking side by side to the ballot box, determined to end once and for all, the exploitation of themselves and their fellow beings.

Oh! it is a glorious cause. It is a nobble cause. Aye, it is the noblest and grandest cause ever written in the heart of man by the finger of his maker, and yet they say that Socialism is not patriotic. We say that Socialism is the most patriotic movement that the world has ever known. Surely it is patriotic to want to see the world well fed, well clothed and well housed. Neither were our revolutionary forefathers patriotic from the viewpoint of King George. Yet those men and women whose memory we cherish, suffered and sacrificed on a thousand battle fields to give posterity the right of suffrage. They builded the best they knew. They solved the problem of their day, and we must solve the problems of our day. We must take from the capitalist the power of this country. We must take over o fthis country. We must take over all the tools that are used to produce and distribute wealth and make them the common property of all the people. We can make progress no other way. Let us go to the ballot box united with a firm front. The world for the workers. On the co-operative commonwealth.

FEDERATION OF LABOR TAKES POLITICAL STAND

Passes Resolutions Condemning Taylor, Black and Badger.

Congressman E. L. Taylor was branded by the Columbus Federation of Labor last Monday evening as a public officer who at all times has been bitterly opposed to organized labor.

The resolution declaring him to be opposed to organized labor, received unanimous indorsement by the delegates from the various trades unions which compose the federation and carried with it an appeal for organized labor and its friends to remember this fact on election day and vote for those candidates whom they know will be fair.

Following is the resolution adopted:

Knowing as we do the attitude of certain candidates in the political field toward men who toil, and believing as we do that the public should be so informed, we, the delegates to the Columbus Federation of Labor, in regular session, have adopted the following resolution:

Be it resolved, That Dewit C. Badger, Samuel L. Black and Edward L. Taylor have at all times been bitterly opposed to organized labor, and we would ask that all friends and members of trade unions remember this on Nov. 5, and vote for those candidates who are more fair to organized labor.

One special reason advanced for not supporting Congressman Taylor was that he voted for the repeal of the law establishing an eight-hour day for workmen employed on government contracts. His general attitude on all questions involving organized labor is bad, it was said.

Judge Black has been on the unfair list for some time. He is charged with employing nonunion men in the erection of a building at Spring and Front streets. His alleged attitude toward union strikers during the street car strike in the summer of 1910 also was urged against him. It was said he threatened to send all youngsters who called strikebreakers "scabs" to the Lancaster Reform Farm.

A resolution was passed demanding that the Ohio buildings at the Pan-American Exposition in San Francisco be constructed by union labor. A communication from the Brickmakers' Union asking the purchase of union made paving brick was referred to the city council.

With your credentials, present yourself at the polling place where you are assigned at seven (7:00) o'clock p. m. Monday, Nov. 4th, when the election officials meet to organize.

Present your credentials at this time and insist that you be sworn in as inspector or witness for the Socialist Party at this time. (Section 4979, in part, "At this meeting they, judges of elections, shall make all necessary arrangements for x x x the witnesses and challengers designated by each political party, as provided in next section")

If possible, put in your time on election day outside of election polls, getting out the full vote and distributing such literature as may be furnished by the County Central Committee for the occasion.

Be at the polls before they close (5:30 p. m. in the city and 6:00 p. m. in the townships).

Read the instructions on the back of your credentials so as to be posted as to what are your rights as a witness or watcher.

Watch the count carefully to see that all ballots are properly counted and accredited.

After the count is completed, secure your copy (Section 4933) properly signed by the officials.

Immediately telephone in the results on the following offices of all parties in the order as they appear on the ballot, first, Democratic candidates; second, Republicans; third, Socialists, and fourth, Progressives; presidential electors, governor, congressmen, state legislators, county auditor, probate judge and judges of common pleas court.

Varian Hall, on third floor, No. 7 East Town street, has been engaged, where the returns will be received on the night of election and witnesses or watchers in all the city precincts (after telephoning in the results as above instructed) will personally deliver the certified statement of the election at Varian Hall that night and witnesses in precincts outside of Columbus will bring the certified statement to Varian Hall election night if possible or mail at once to the County Central Committee, Socialist Party, No. 108½ South High Street.

Telephones.

Citizen No. 5333, Socialist Publishing Company; Bell, Main No. 4090, Varian Hall. Phone results to either of the two above places.

Caution.

In telephoning, arrange to be brief as possible, as telephones will be overtaxed. In case any question arises, or further information is desired, call either of the above phones after 6:00 p. m. on election day or at any other time call the Socialist Publishing Co., Cits. No. 5333.

DEBS' MEETING

is raging this very hour. I saw the palaces of the plutocrats and the shacks of the slaves. There are 75,000 miners, a majority of whom live in hovels where a wild beast wouldn't live unless chained. They have a Bull Moose Governor, Democratic Senators and Republican Sheriffs, and all of them lend their power and their offices to oppress the miners."

Debs went on to explain that a recurrence of panics is inevitable under present conditions. "You produce too much of everything, and in the shadow of that abundance you yourselves produce, you suffer. The Republican party has long since outgrown its usefulness. It is hopelessly corrupt. It is not necessary for me to tell you that. Roosevelt already has done that for me.

"Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt applied the same tactics of which he now complains. There never was such political debauchery in history. How any self-respecting workingman can vote for Roosevelt is hard to understand.

"Mr. Wilson is a very agreeable, ladylike fellow. Personally I haven't a word to say against him and he hasn't a word to say for himself. But not one of these candidates ever trampedth e streets looking for a job, not one was ever on strike, not one was enjoined by a capitalist court, not one was ever in jail. If you workers had the intelligence they give you credit for—during a campaign—they would be working for what they get and you would be getting what you work for.

"Society must be reorganized. Competition once constituted a constructive force; now it represents a destructive force. Capitalists have been compelled to centralize. The trust is the twentieth century tool of production. A new principle has been introduced, and that is co-operation. The trust has recognized its importance and is teaching it to the working classes. It is here to stay.

"Socialism is industrial democracy. Vote with the only party the workingman ever has had. You may lose your job, but you will find yourself.

"You have come at last to understand that what is done for you, must be done by you; I appeal not for votes for myself and my colleagues, but for you to think for yourselves. The capitalistic class does not elect its own candidates. You are responsible for their being where they are, and you where you are. You elect their candidates for them, but you are not going to do that to the same extent this year."

Beckman's Address

Mr. Chairman, Comrades and Friends: This is a day of co-operation and collectivism. The mass of the people, the workers of the world collectively, produce the wealth and the trusts and the capitalists collectively own it (applause). We have today instead of individual tools of production, the collective tools of production, and these tools of production are collectively owned by the capitalists and the trusts, and we, the working people, use that collective machinery and produce the things that are necessary for the comfort and welfare of humanity, while those who collectively own the means of production, collectively own the things that are produced (applause).

Now, the trusts have taught us a lesson, and I want to say to you, Mr. Capitalist, if there are any of you here tonight, that we are going to follow your example. You have taught us that it is a good thing to do things collectively, co-operatively. You are co-operating in your business and, therefore, you are controlling everything that the people produce. Now you have taught us that it is a good thing. We have prosperity—Taft tells us we have prosperity (applause and laughter) but we, we the common people, don't know it because the prosperity belongs to those who collectively own the products and not to the collective producers. When the collective producers get into the collective ownership, we will all have prosperity (applause). And that is what the Socialist Party stands for. That is the reason we are here appealing to your reason, trying to educate you, but we have the forces of captalism opposed to us. They have everything in abundance—more than they can use, and you haven't enough. They have accumulated the wealth in their hands, taking it away from the producers. They fix the prices of the product; they fix the wages of the producer; they have fixed the prices of products away out of reach, hence the high cost of living. Is there any mystery about it? (voices—no, no) I think not, and just as long as there is one set of people who own the means of production, fix the prices of the products, fix the wages we have been paid, and when they fix that at one-fifth or one-sixth of what you produce, you can never buy the products that you produce, can you? This is the condition of the country today. But, they say this is a bad thing—the co-operative commonwealth—they tell us it is a "It is beautiful in theory but it is wrong in practice." Well, now, they have been practicing it on us. They want to keep it all to themselves and don't want you to have it, don't you see? Now when you get your eyes open and get into the ring yourself and say that we believe in co-operation; we believe in collectivity, but we believe that the people, that all the people, should be taken into this collective ownership, collective production and the collective use of the things that are produced. That is Socialism (applause).

You remember reading, no doubt, about a committee that is investigating the contributions to the campaigns of the old parties. And you will find that they are contributing to Taft, to Wilson and to Teddie's campaign; aren't they? It don't make any difference which one of the three you vote for, you reach the same result. The co-operative commonwealth in the hands of the capitalists and the mass of the people who produced all the things that are necessary for the welfare of humanity in wage slavery. Did you find any one that came before that committee who testified that he or any person representing him, or any person in his knowledge, contributed to the campaign expense of Eugene V. Debs? (voices—no, no) Not one (voices—no, no)? Not one. Not one. Why? Because Eugene V. Debs stands for the Socialist Party, which means that the people, all of the people shall own all of the means of production and distribution, produce the things that we need and receive full share of the product of our toil (applause).

Millions of dollars have been contributed for Taft, for Teddy, for Wilson. Not one penny for Debs or the Socialist Party. Why Because this is not their party. They are satisfied with either one of the trinity because it stands for the same thing—the continuation of the present system of capitalism and exploitation (applause). No question about it. Therefore, there is only one class of people that we have to depend upon to finance our campaign. The Socialist Party in the city is largely in debt. We have large expenses and we will be at more and more expense to get the tidings of glad joy—the news of the co-operative commonwealth and hog to get it out among the people. We need speakers, we need halls, we need literature, and we must have some money; therefore, I am going to ask this evening that each and every one of you who are able, to contribute five dollars, one dollar, fifty cents, a quarter—anything that you have to spare for your [illegible].

In the name of a hundred thousand babies that are starving to death in this country every year. I hear their voices crying out for salvation. I see those little hands appealing for something to eat, for they want to live. In their name let's save them, and you can do it only through the Socialist movement. There are two million children under the age of twelve in the shops and factories that are giving their lives to make profits for capitalism under this system. Eight years is the allotted time or the average length they may live upon the face of the earth. I hear their wailing cries for salvation. Let us come to their rescue tonight (applause). There are seven or eight million more working in the shops and factories and clerking in the stores for a wage that is insufficient to live on, and they are crying to humanity for aid, for assistance. Let us save our women from the red light district where they are driven through necessity in order to keep body and soul together. Let us place them back in the home with their families among the children and take care of them (applause). They are appealing to you tonight for salvation. There are forty million working people, working in shops and various hundred ways, at arduous tasks for a wage that is admitted by the statistician of the United States to be insufficient to provide the necessaries of life in this land of plenty, where we can produce, under proper conditions, ten times as much as we would need for every person to give him the necessaries, comforts and the luxuries of life. For their sake let's contribute to help this movement along for the final emancipation of the wage slave of this country.

The Parade.

To a medley of "Marching Through Georgia," "On Moonlight Bay" and the "Marseillaise," 1500 men, women and children—members of the Socialist party, their wives, sons and daughters—paraded through the streets last Saturday night in the demonstration which preceded the meeting at Memorial Hall.

The line of march formed at Broad and Third Streets. Led by the Fourth Regiment Band, it moved west to High Street, north to Chestnut, countermarched to Main Street, and, returning to Broad tSreet, it proceeded to Memorial Hall. At the head were two huge American flags and directly behind appeared two large banners of red, the color of the party.

Why Thomas Lost Thousands of Dollars by an Abstract from The Guarantee Title and Trust Company.

In the case of Thomas against the Guarantee Title and Trust Company (81 O. S. 432) the Supreme Court of Ohio decided that Thomas could not recover damages for a loss resulting from an incorrect abstract of title issued by the Guarantee Title and Trust Co. which represented one Cavanaugh as the owner of a perfect (fee title) title, when he had only a life interest in the premises purchased from him by Thomas, the plaintiff in the case.

People should not be deceived by advertisements wherein so-called Guarantee Title and Trust Co's. claim to be reliable and responsible abstracters or makers of perfect "guaranteed" abstracts, when in fact they certify at the end of each of their pretended abstracts that all matters therein contained are stated on mere belief.

The trust recently bought up several abstract concerns, expecting by promiscuous hired help to flood the market with their wares at high prices.

The scheme has failed; but it has served as a warning.

As a result there has been a greater demand for abstracts which have stood the test of time.

The quality of abstracts cannot be considered proven until the lapse of many years, when defects of title may have had time to develop.

A THIRTY YEARS' RECORD: MILLIONS HAVE BEEN INVESTED AND NOT A DOLLAR HAS BEEN LOST BY OUR ABSTRACTS.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Election Returns.

The office of the Socialist Ntional Campaign Committee will be open all night on election day, November 5th.

Comrades are requested to wire returns prepaid.

Wires will be sent collect to locals or papers who file written requests in advance and guarantee telegraph tolls.

The reports of Socialist Day, October 13th, show that the organization is a unified, militant body and knows how to work together for a great cause. From the Atlantic to the Pacific meetings were held, composed of thronging thousands in some cases, and the few and faithful in other localities. The cheering messages of our presidential candidates were read at each meeting. A larger number of people heard those messages read than ever heard any document issued by a political party before.

A Letter Writing Day!

In the Campaign of Education: Every Socialist and sympathizer will, on Friday, November 1st, write a personal letter to some friend or relative. If you have a lot of friends or a big family write a lot of letters. These letters will tell why the writer will vote for Socialism and reasons why the friend should vote for Debs and Seidel.

The bright-eyed sons and daughters of the coming revolution will write of their faith to their friends—hundreds of thousands of letters all in oneone day.

November 1st, a letter writing day in the Campaign of Education. Take "your pen in hand," or your old stub pencil—but write on November 1st.

Are You With Us?

The National Campaign Committee, in session October 7th, took an account of stock and discovered that the books might then be closed even. But ordess for tons of free literature were on file to fill which would insure a considerable deficit in the funds. The committee realized that the years have been spent in creating this demand and that the special function of the party is to educate the workers.

The committee boldly chose its course and decided to supply the demand and face the deficit. Are you with us to wipe out that deficit?

Send contributions to the Socialist National Campaign Committee, Chicago, Ill.

THE CAUSE IN JACKSON.

The stand-pat Republicans had a rally in this city Saturday, October 19th. A band was secured to try to draw a crowd. In the afternoon the band played three or four selections at the Opera House, where the meeting was supposed to be held. Unable to attract the attention of the voters they came to public square and held their meeting. In the evening the band paraded the streets again and they drew an audience of 104; only 41 remained until the finish of the speeches. R. M. Switzer, Ralph Cole and T. L. Lewis were the speakers. We do not know whether it was the record of the speakers that kept the crowd away or whether the people have lost all interest in the old organization. T. L. Lewis gave us the same hot air that we have heard for so many years. The reason the miners did not turn out to hear him is because they consider he is a traitor to their class. It looked strange to see Mr. Lewis being led around through the county by one of the largest operators of this district and telling the laboring people that we are having the greatest prosperity the country has ever experienced, telling this to men who are working 10 hours a day for $1.80.

They were asking Socialists to sit on platform with the speakers but none would stoop that low.

The Bull Moosers had a hard time getting enough signers on their petition to get on county ticket.

The outlook for Socialism in this county is bright. We expect to elect a Representative and also looks as though we will elect the entire county ticket. If you can make up an article out of this we will appreciate it very much.

GEO. V. BOOTH.

You are flying in the face of evolution itself to talk about destrying, or even effectually regulate, the trusts. What you workers want is to OWN the trusts. Use your ballot.

Mr. Worker, are you again going to be deluded and misled to the detriment of yourselves and class? There is but one party that stands for you and yours and they alone have any claim on your intelligence and suffrage—the Socialists.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR

The Ohio State Federation of Labor Convention held in Canton proved to be one of the most successful ever held in the history of that organization; over two hundred delegates, representing nearly every locality and every trade and calling in the State made up the attendance at the Convention.

The report of the officers showing the work done during the past year in the campaign for Constitutional amendments was heartily approved, and in appreciation of the work done all of the old officers were reelected by acclamation.

Prominent men of national reputation like Louis D. Brandies, the famous attorney of Boston, Mass., Mother Jones, United Mine Workers, President Johnson of the International Association of Machinists, President Flory, Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Union, Hon. Thos. Duffy, Chairman State Liability Board of Awards, Tom Flynn, for the American Federation of Labor, addressed the delegates on matter of importance to the labor movement.

Sec. Thomas' financial report showed a balance on hand of $960.00 to start the new year's work, and whilst the growth of the union affiliating was not what it should be, the prospects look brighter during the past few months and he had hopes that some day all of the two thousand unions in the State would get into the Federation.

Some sixty-five resolutions dealing with new labor laws required by the various crafts, regarding union label and organizing, were introduced, discussed, and acted on by the convention. The most important being:

"Increase in Factory Inspection Force" so that labor laws may be properly enforced.

"Mothers' Pension."

"A State Printing Office."

"Asking for Prohibition of employment of all female labor under 18 in the factories, workshops and department stores of the State, also eight hour law for women in all industries."

"Asking that all unions urge their respective city and county officials to use union made paving brick in paving their streets."

"That new county office be created to be known as "The Public Free Legal Adviser and Adjuster."

"Prohibiting the discharge of men for belonging to a labor organization."

"Providing that prisoners' earnings shall be used for the support of their families."

"A weekly pay-day, and conveniences in rolling mills, mines, shops and factories for the employees to wash and change their clothes and other sanitary regulations."

"Compulsory payment by employers into a State Insurance Fund for the benefit of injured empployees and dependents of those killed, also a complete investigation of the extent of occupational diseases in the State, and provision made for compensation for the cripples by disease."

"Providing that the various labor departments of the State be brought together under an industrial commission of three members, similar to the commission provided by law in Wisconsin; this commission plan of enforcing labor laws has proven very effective in that state and should be adopted in Ohio."

"That licenses be renewed to Engineers and Firemen without cost."

"Better laws for the protection of the men employed in the dusty trades and painting and paper hanging crafts."

"That all coal be weighed before being screened."

"Saturday half holiday."

For the Street Railway Employees: "Asking for the abolishment of the running boards, trailers, and other dangerous methods of operating street and interurban cars, also asking for seats and other conveniences for the welfare of Street Railway employees."

"Mechanic's Lien Law for the protection of men employed in building and other constructive work."

"Eight hours for men and boys in all industries that operate twenty-four hours per day."

"A State insurance department, providing all forms of insurance for the citizens of this State."

"Laws safeguarding men employed as electrical workers."

"Prohibiting the employment of of anyone for police, or detective duties, other than the regular constituted police force of the City, County, or State."

"Providing for a minimum wage commission."

"Asking that public schools be opened for public use."

Resolutions were also adopted endorsing the A. F. of L. campaign for organizing the Iron and Steel Workers and urging all of the Unions in the State to aid in this organization work.

Resolution endorsing the labels of the Garment Workers, Tobacco Workers, and Bakers were introduced and adopted and special organizers Scannell, Hille and McAnders talked to the Conventon for these labels, and the Bakers also asked for special aid in their fight against Ward's "Tip Top," Bread and the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., and same was granted.

James P. Egan of Toledo was elected delegate to the A. F. of L. and Portsmouth selected for the next meeting of the Federation, October, 1913.

HARRY D. THOMAS,
Secretary.

WISDOM FROM CLEVELAND.

The absurd motion made by Lacol Elyria, clothed in language that would delight a dime novel fiend or Bowery tough, calling for the revocation of the charter of Local Dayton and a lot of other balderdash, has finally secured the seconds of five small locals after several months of laborious effort. Now the members of the S. P. may halt their campaign some more to engage in a referendum discussion and balloting to satisfy a few conciled asses roaming at large around Elyria, b'gosh. Our prediction is that the Elyria japs' motion will be smashed so hard that its sponsors will be ashamed to look in a mirror for a month of Sundays. Dayton Socialists, who have one of the finest locals in the state, which includes many men who pioneered and sacrificed when it cost something to be a Socialist and when the Elyria heifers were browsing around in old party clover, are entirely unconcerned as to the possible outcome and don't intend to lose a minute's time or waste a postage stamp to hang onto their charter. They are going to try to elect Strickland to Congress and their local candidates as well while the "direct actionists" talk noisily about themselves and how clear-out they are. No wonder the referendum is coming to be regarded as an expensive luxury and dangerous plaything in the hands of irresponsible dumphools.

It is unofficially reported that State Referendum "E," initiated by Local Columbus to recall the State Executive Committee, has been carried by a vote of 1,300 to 900. The motion was aimed at the old S. E. C., only three members of which—C. E. Ruthenberg, of Cleveland; Margaret Prevey, of Akron, and Josephine Bates, of Toledo—are on the new committee, which was elected about the time the referendum was started. The whole trouble was precipitated by the disreputable efforts of the International Socialist Review, controlled by the Kerr-Haywood-Bohn crowd of half-baked anarchists, to split the Socialist party into two factions of so-called "Reds" and "Yellows," and the Ohio S. E. C. fell under the influence to some extent of the rediculous propaganda. The Kerr-Haywood-Bohn outfit plotted to make the Socialist party a sort of wet nurse for the I. W. W., and just as De Leon in the S. L. P. days denounced everybody as a "faker" who refused to swallow his Socialist-Trade and Labor Alliance dope, so the men and women who have given the best years of their lives to the cause of socialism and declined to fall down and worship the "one big union" were ridiculed as "yellows" by a lot of windbags some of whom were not even members of the I. W. W. themselves. A number of the state speakers who were averse to magnifying the importance of industrial unionism and "direct action" were stricken from the list and others substituted who could rave about re-revolution loud enough to scare all the little children in Ohio. It has been wholly a family quarrel, and the probabilities are that judging from the sentiment that has crystalized throughout the state, the Review crowd's conspiracy has about run its course and will be buried so deep that it will never be heard from again at the next state convention.—Cleveland Citizen.

Some men are born liars, some have to lie for a living. That's all the old party office holders do before and after they are elected. And you intelligent working men don't like to see them out of a job.

The Big Bull Moose is the most overrated and best loved fakir since the time that the "Golden Calf" was on exhibition. And then they want to tell us that the American workingman is real intelligent! Well, so is a snail.

Socialism will soon be embraced by those who were its bitterest opponents.

WORKMEN, UNITE.

Learn a Lesson from World-Wide Labor Movement.

By Morris Hillquit.

The labor movement, all over the world is, on the whole, uniform in its aims and weapons. As the movement itself was produced by historic necessity, so its weapons were forged for it in its involuntary struggles. But with all that, the movement of each country presents special and distinguishing features in the form of its organization and methods of action. In some countries, notably those of the Anglo-Saxon races, the economic organization of the workers predominates, in others, such as Germany and Austria, the political struggle is the paramount factor of the labor movement, and again in others, particularly in Belgium and in the Scandinavian countries, both movements are practically merged in one.

The labor movement of each country reflects the special economic and social conditions of the country, and the historical development and national temperament of its people. The movement of each country, in spite of its general uniformity differs somewhat in character and appearance from that of every country, but in no case is the difference probably so great as it is between the labor movement of the United States and that of the rest of the world.

There are certain distinct and important features in the labor movement of Europe which are absent from our movement here.

The most notable of these features is the unity of the movement. The workers of Europe realize that the economic and political struggles of the working class are but two phases of the same movement, and what is more, they recognize that the distinction between these two forms of struggle is more artificial than real.

Whenever workers seek to reduce their hours of labor, or to improve their shop conditions by the strength of their trade organizations, whether by means of strikes or voluntary agreements, they are engaged in an economic movement; whenever they seek to attain the same ends by means of legislative enactment, they enter upon the political field. The difference between the two phases of the labor movement is one of form and degree rather than of substance and kind. The economic battles of the workers are usually confined to one establishment or industry, while their political struggles, as a rule, extend to their entire class or some important division of it. But both serve the same general aim—the betterment of the toilers; they are conducted by the same class of people—the workers, and they encounter the same opposition—that of the intrenched interests of the employing classes. They are both equally essential to the cause of labor.

The workers of Europe have long recognized this truism, and have organized themselves politically as well as industrially. In some countries, such as England and Belgium, one organization, a labor party, performs both functions; in others the workers maintain separate organizations for the economic phase of their struggles, the trade unions, and a separate one for their politics, the Socialist parties. In the latter instance Socialism is frankly recognized as a wing of the labor movement equal in importance to that of individual organizations, and the closest harmony and co-operation prevails between them. A condition of antagonism between the trade union movement and the Socialist movement, such as sometimes exist in this country is almost unthinkable in Europe.

Another distinguishing feature of the European workers is their class consciousness. But I do not mean class hatred. The "class consciousness" of the European workers is not based on a silly presumption that all workingmen are good and all capitalists are bad, but on the recognition of the simple fact that the economic and hence also the political interests of the workers are different from those of their employers. They realize that the capitalist as such is necessarily concerned for his profit, and that this profit comes primarily and principally from the underpaid work of the employes. They realize that whatever improvements are to come into their lives will come not as the free gift of the employing classes, but as the result of the struggles of labor, of hard, persistent, well organized and well directed struggles. The European workers are more self-reliant than their American brethren. They have emancipated themselves from the tutelage of the ruling classes, they are the guardians of their own welfare. They would as little entrust their politics to their employers as they would their economic battles; they would as little seek to realize their political demands through the medium of the Democratic or Republican parties as they would leave the conduct of their strikes to the National Manufacturers' Association.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

By Frederick Monroe.

The one big fact that sticks out as a result of the investigation being conducted by the Clapp committee, which is investigating campaign contributions is that a very large part of the expense connected with the three Roosevelt campaigns has been contributed by big interests.

Approximately a million dollars, according to the testimony, was contributed by J. P. Morgan, E. H. Harriman, John D. Archbold, George J. Gould, and H. C. Flick in the 1904 campaign.

About a quarter of a million has already been spent in the pre-convention of Col. Roosevelt this year. The total amount which will be spent up to the day of election can be guessed at. From the testimony before the Senate committee, it appears that "Bill" Flinn, of Pittsburg, contributed $150,000; Dan R. Hanna, of Cleveland, Frank Munsey, George W. Perkins, and others came through together for approximately $100,000 more—a total of $350,000 in the pre-convention campaign alone.

William B. McKinley, manager of the Taft pre-convention campaign, has testified to an expenditure of at least $295,000 from the Washington headquarters alone—to say nothing of state funds—in securing Taft's nomination. This was furnished in part by the President's brothers—Charles P. Taft and Henry W. Taft—while John Hays Hammond came through with $35,000; Andrew Carnegie shoved over another $35,000, and E. T. Stotesbury parted with another $35,000. Mr. McKinley's memory was very bad. He couldn't remember in detail any other contributions; he kept no books; but he "guessed" that the total would come to about $9,000 aditional, making it almost $300,000 used in the preliminaries.

Of course any man is at liberty to interpret these facts in any way he chooses. Any man may believe, if he chooses, that these men made these contributions "for the good of the country." J. P. Morgan testified that his contribution was made for that purpose. Any one who wishes to believe him can do so, of course. But when the average individual hears T. R. talk about "social justice" for the workingman; when he hears the Taft spellbinders plead for a continuation of Taft and "prosperity," and when Woodrow Wilson tells him that "reduction of the tariff" will bring surcease of the workingman's woes, it is not to be wondered at if his mind travels back to the men who invested those hundreds of thousands of dollars in the campaign funds of these three worthy candidates.

If he thinks about this thing at all, he is likely to go on thinking that the millions and millions of dollas piled up by the men who made these contributions were wrung from the same workers that the candidates are now promising to benefit.

When the average individual has gone this far in his cogitation, let him try to recall the names of the millionaires who have contributed to the campaign fund of Eugene V. Debs.

WILL WOODROW WILSON ANSWER?

The Issue of 1912 the High Cost of Living.

The Republican party recognizes the fact that in this campaign the material question that confronts them is one that will influence more votes than any other. At no time in the history of the race has the power to produce things that will satisfy human wants been greater than at present. Then WHY is it that those who do the work of producing find it more difficult to satisfy their needs? The Republican party disavows the responsibility and cites the fact that the same phenomena exists in all countries where our present so-called civilization prevails.

In free trade England, as well as in tariff-ruled Germany, the high cost of living is oppressing the working class, but the Republican party's statement does not tell the people the CAUSE WHY nor how they are going to get relief.

Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party charge the high cost of living to the monopolizing influence of the tariff, and they boldly say that they will reduce the cost of living by taking away the protective tariff from the trusts.

Now as Mr. Wilson will speak for the Democratic party, we would like him to answer the following questions:

The Sugar Trust. Will he try to break its monopoly by putting sugar, in all forms, on the free list?

The billion dollar Steel Trust. Will he put all forms of iron and steel on the free list?

The Tobacco Trust. Will he, if elected, recommend the placing of cigars and tobacco on the free list?

Mr. Wilson represents the Democratic party. In their press and in their speeches in Congress they charge that the tariff is responsible for the trusts. Will they pledge themselves, if entrusted with power, to repeal the duties on all products in which the trustification has presented itself?

And while he is at it, will Mr. Wilson explain WHY IN FREE TRADE ENGLAND THE PROBLEMS OF THE HIGH COST OF LIVING ARE AS ACUTE AS IN TARIFF-RIDDEN GERMANY OR THE UNITED STATES? He would also please a great many workers who are thinking on the subject, if he will explain how free trade will tend to lower the cost of living. TO WAGE WORKERS THE COST OF LIVING IS RISING STEADILY. THEIR POWER TO PRODUCE IS CONTINUALLY INCREASED. EVERY IMPROVEMENT IN THE ORGANIZATION OF INDUSTRY, EVERY NEW INVENTION ADDS TO THE PRODUCTIVITY OF THEIR LABOR, AND IN THE FACE OF THIS INCREASED PRODUCTIVITY LABOR HAS TO FIGHT TO EVEN GET AN EXISTENCE WAGE.

The fact that the working class does not participate in the advantages that come from increased possibilities makes it clear that the remedies proposed by the Democrats and Republicans do not meet the case. The Democrats and Republicans can not meet the situation. They may talk about the high cost of living to fool the working people, but those whom they represent profit by the distress imposed upon the workers by the high cost of living.

The Steel Trust will furnish money impartially to Wilson or Taft just as it did to Roosevelt, just as C. R. Crane gave $10,000 each, to help the Democrat, Wilson, the Republican, La Follette.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING DOES NOT DIVIDE THE CAPITALISTS WHEN THEIR INTEREST IS AT STAKE, and right here Mr. Wilson, we would like you to answer, explain or justify the fusion of Republicans and Democratis in Milwaukee, not on some local issue, but even to beat Berger and Gaylord for Congress.

Mr. Wilson, if you justify it, you will admit that the fight between the Democrats and Republicans is only a sham and a scheme to divide and fool the workers. Be assured you can not fool the workers much longer. They (the workers) will realize that the higher cost of living IS CAUSED BY THE PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF THE SOCIALLY ORGANIZED INDUSTRIES WHICH DEPRIVES THE WORKERS OF THE OPPORTUNITY TO PARTICIPATE IN THE ADVANTAGES THAT COME FROM INCREASED POWER TO PRODUCE. Will Mr. Wilson answer?

PARABLE OF THE RATTLESNAKE.

And it came to pas in the days of commercialism that all men and women were self-seekers.

Deception, cunning, cheating and lies became the price of commercial seeing the futility of finishing his job for the storms of old age under a system where the rights of private property had become as divine as the claptrap of the cunning priest of the Whilom mayoralty campaign, had really solicited a pension from Foxy Andy.

Think of it! A president of a university asking for alms when men of commonest kind of good sense are demanding plain justice.

That's treason against commercialism, hoots the owl from his White House.

Verily it came to pass about this time that a rattlesnake with venom all over him, through him and his entire makeup, denounced Mr. Horned Owl as an ingrate, liar, mollycoddle, and named others of the rabble as undesirable, then used three other epithets, all of which made up seven venomous rattles on his venomous tail—so venomous that mere touching would kill—kill dead.

Straightaway all apparently respectable members of the animal kingdom shunned the rattle snake—some even planned to destroy him.

But Capitalism, of which the Horned Owl was president, had the keen instinct to understand that too much fraud and respectable stealing would affright the jackals off which it lived, and counseled with the Prairie Dog like this:

Verily I say unto you, your competence is half assured; we can furnish your house for old age and none will lose but the rabble—the common herd.

One thing you must do quickly—stop tearing the mask of deceit from the capitalist system.

Furthermore, by all means do not tell the rabble to abolish profits.

This Rattler Roosevelt is a demagogue, we all know that, but we must appease him before his quarrels exposes our entire system of graft and deceit.

And straightaway the Prairie Dog, the Horned Owl and Rattlesnake took counsel together—they all agreed to live peaceably forevermore in the slimy hole the dog had built.

Then forthwith all three came forth before the jackals, the rabble, the common people, with meaningless phrases contradicting syntax and deceptive declarations, but one of the conspirators suggested to the jackals a solution of the injustice of the day. And the rabble voted for them.

Like good and faithful servants of capital, the conspirators were amply provided for during the balance of their lives—they were even crowned with laurels and lived in heavenly bliss. Capital furnished the Prairie Dog's hole—yes, even made it a palace of sin and indulgence.

And it came to pass that in that hole of venom, deceit and cunning was fulfilled the adage of our forefathers: "A prairie dog, a rattlesnake and a horned owl shall live in one hole in harmony and bliss."

OLD PARTY CANDIDATES DODGE.

Our reporter attended a meeting of the Northwood School Extension society, where evil conditions under our present laws, pertaining to stock corporation were to be discussed. Fred Green, president of the society, told haw he had lost money by investing in the glass factory in Milo or Grogan, how he had lost all he had invested in a coal company through a good friend; and lastly, how he had lost $300 by investing in a stock company through the advice of certain clergymen. After completing his talk he called on those candidates for the legislature who were present to express their views along those lines. Mr. Lungin, Democrat, was the first to respond. He says: "I have got to attend another meeting but will say, I am going to be elected. There will be some mighty weighty questions to be considered at the next meeting of the legislature and I will give them my most careful consideration but as I have to attend another meeting I must be going." What can the people expect from the men whom Jim Ross has selected to represent him and his special interest? You can rest assur that if Jimmy succeeds in electing his candidates, that Mr. Lungin will not be required to give the "questions before the legislature" any consideration, as Jimmy would not have selected him if he had not known that he would accept the instructions coming from the Democratic bosses.

Marsh C. Green next took the floor and showed that the party he represented had no particular interest in protecting the capitalist, but if elected would use all their efforts in protecting humanity. He showed the necessity for some protection to our girls and women from a system that drives them to prostitution. This turned it into a Socialist meeting, and for nearly two hours E. B. Wharton, F. J. Johnson and Marsh C. Green discussed the many phases of Socialism to an appreciative audience. The other candidates who were there sat idly by or contenteed themselves by asking questions, but the question of protecting stock gamblers was lost sight of after the first speaker. Let the comrades attend all such meetings and convince all that humanity must be placed above the dollar.

COUNCIL AGAIN BEATS MINIMUM WAGE LAW.

Printing Proposition Goes Back to the Committee—West Siders Want Something.

The two main features of the city council last Monday evening were the defeat of Democrat Lucks' $3.25 minimum wage for city employes and the reference of the city printing back to committee. Socialists favor not less than $3 per day for all who work for the city in any capacity.

Councilman Zimpfer declared he had investigated the records of wages paid in the department of waterworks and had discovered that $3.79 a week was the average earnings of laborers during a busy season. The average was taken over a period of six months.

"These men have absolutely not enough to keep their families," he said. "They do not work regularly and are paid only for the days on which they may work."

Councilman Bohnert introduced a resolution starting action toward building a shelter house, comfort station and sidewalks in Glenwood Park, with a bond issue of $20,000. This is the West Side park, where the city has never done anything but cut the weeds. The people in that section think that it is time that the West Side had something besides the morgue, the Imbecile and Insane hospitals and the workhouse.

The printing contract is again in the hands of the committee, every effort to give the work to the lowest real bidder having failed.

NEW COUNCILMAN.

The State Journal last Tuesday records the doings of Councilman Alcock. We wonder what ward Alcock represents.

WHAT TAYLOR THINKS AND SAYS!

"We are suffering from too much prosperity. Let us not listen to these demagogues who are preaching this doctrine of discontent. They work not for the good of the nation but they tend to add red flags to street parades."

These are the words uttered by Congressman E. L. Taylor, who seeks re-election, at the meeting of the Kid-Glove Buckeye Republican club last Saturday night.

WORKINGMEN, PLEASE NOTE, "TOO MUCH PROSPERITY."

Have you too much food, clothing or shelter?

Have you too much money?

Have you too much comfort?

Taylor says you have.

Guess the working class, and that includes most of us, will vote the Socialist ticket this year.

THE CITIZEN AGAIN BETRAYS THE PEOPLE.

The Columbus Citizen advocated the election of Senator Burton and later confessed it had made a mistake,

The Citizen supported Senator Pomerene and afterwards apologized to the public.

The Citizen supported Harmon for governor and later expressed its sorrow for having done so.

The Citizen advocated the election of Knight, Peters and Harbarger to the constitutional convention as progressives, only to find that Knight and Peters were traitors.

The Citizen recently sent a circular to the legislative candidates of the various parties in Franklin county, as to their stand upon twenty-two progressive measures. The only candidates to "come clean" upon all issues were those of the Socialist party. Yet the Citizen, following its old-time policy, comes out and urges the people to vote for five Republicans and two Bull Moosers.

The Citizen is again seeking to betray the people. It advocates advanced ideas and then tells the voter to support men who cannot be trusted.

The only safe way is vote for J. M. Suddick and T. J. Johnson for state senators, and A. E. Eby, D. J. Farrell, M. C. Green, R. M. Woody and E. B. Wharton for representatives.

Socialism Gets 1,200,000 Votes in U. S. Against 424,000 Four Years Ago

Franklin County Rolls Up Over 7,000, an Increase of 600 per cent. Over Four Years Ago—State Vote About 100,000—Returns Are Meagre—Democratic "Prosperity" Will Now Manifest Itself.

The total Socialist vote in the United States four years ago was 424,488.

The Socialist vote in Franklin County is over 7,000 this year against 1,811 four years ago, a gain of 600 per cent.

Ben Wilson was elected on the Socialist ticket in Kansas as a member of the Legislature.

The Socialist vote in Ohio will approximate 100,000 against 38,795 four years ago, indicating a phenomenal increase.

Woodrow Wilson swept the country and was given the largest electoral vote ever known. He carried 39 states and got 415 electoral votes.

Colonel Roosevelt is estimated to have won enough states to give him nearly 100 electoral votes.

President Taft, on the face of the latest returns, carried three states: Idaho, Vermont and Utah, with twelve electoral votes.

Congressman William McKinley, standpatter, has probably been defeated in Illinois.

The Democrats retain control of the House and have captured the U. S. Senate, their majority in the House being about 99.

Woman suffrage was adopted in Kansas, Arizona and Michigan.

Among the states which voted for Wilson Tuesday and which stood by Taft four years ago were Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Maine, New Jersey, Indiana, Connecticut and Delaware.

Wilson's plurality in Columbus is 5,847. The townships will add about 2,000 to this. Four years ago Taft carried Franklin County by 5,600.

Cox's plurality in Columbus is 8,185. Brumbaugh's 7,888.

Prosecutor Turner got a plurality of 5,489 in the city, leading the county ticket.

Bachman polled 6,358 votes in the city this trip and over 7,000 in the county and city.

New York, Nov. 6.—Revised returns and estimates made for localities where returns are yet incomplete, indicate that the Socialists polled nearly 1,200,000 votes in the presidential election for their candidate, Eugene V. Debs, against 420,793, given him in 1908.

Gains were made by the Socialists in practically every state, but the largest were recorded in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Maryland, West Virginia, Colorado and Oklahoma.

In New York state the Socialist vote of 1908 was more than doubled, great gains for the party being made in Buffalo, Rochester, Schenectady, Troy and Utica.

A gain of 3,400 was made over the 1908 returns in Buffalo, a 12,000 gain is claimed for New York City and 3,000 in Rochester, while the vote yesterday in Troy, Utica and many of the smaller cities in the state more than doubled that of four years ago.

The most surprising showing made by the Socialists in the Empire State was in Schenectady City, and county. Complete returns for the city gave Wilson 4,134, Taft 4,089, Roosevelt 2,057, and Debs 2,781, while in the gubernatorial fight Chas. Edward Russell, Socialist, polled 3,041 against 4,760 for Sulzer, 3,944 for Hedges and 3,199 for Straus.

Congressman Victor L. Berger went down to defeat in Milwaukee against the Fusion candidate.

The Socialists polled a big vote throughout the state for Debs. Berger's opponents united to defeat him and succeeded.

The Socialists made pronounced gains in Illinois, especially in Cook county, and the party leaders on the early returns claimed the election of Wm. H. Cunnea, assistant states attorney for Cook county over McClay Hoyne, Democrat.

Returns from all but 300 of the Cook county (Chicago) election districts gave Debs a vote of 40,000, nearly double that given him four years ago, and only a few thousand less than given Taft. Kennedy, the Socialist candidate for governor, made a strong showing.

In Pennsylvania the Socialists polled about 20,000 of the 110,000 cast in Allegheny county (Pittsburg).

IT WAS A GLORIOUS VICTORY.

It was a glorious victory. From reports obtainable at this writing, our vote in this country will reach a total of not less than one million, two hundred thousand. If Mr. Wilson, Taft or Roosevelt or any other capitalist candidate can get any satisfaction from the face of those returns, they are thrice welcome.

Each and every vote cast represents a vote cast for the overthrow of the capitalist system which the trio, named above, so ably represent.

This vote means, that practically one man in fourteen is voting for Socialism, which presages the early doom of the entire capitalist system.

We have taken our proper station with the other nations of the world and from now on we will deal the system such sledge-hammer blows, along educational lines, that the wage-slaves of the mines, mills and factories, in ever increasing thousands, will revolt against the master class that crushes them down.

We made it no concern of our which of the three capitalist candidates were elected, as they all stood for identically the same thing as far as the working class were concerned. Each stood and still stands for a system of government that allows a few men to own all the machinery that is used to produce and distribute food, clothing and shelter, and, inasmuch as the ownership of the machine carries with it the ownership of the product, these "eminent respectables" can charge the dear American public whatever prices they please for their own goods.

The horny handed sons of toil who furnished the votes to put Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey Trust Fame, into office will now have four years of the hardest picking in the history of this country.

We predict that Mr. Wilson will leave the presidential chair four years from now the most thoroughly discredited and unpopular President that we have ever had.

We base our prediction on the fact that the Democratic party is absolutely reactionary and can do and will do nothing to alleviate the industrial slavery of the working class.

The people wanted a change and they struck blindly, throwing out one set of capitalist politicians and putting in another.

We have no apology whatever to make for the result in Franklin County. We got every vote we were justly entitled to. No more and no less. Already the campaign for the election of our 1913 municipal ticket is under way.

Every vote we got this time was a class-conscious Socialist vote. Every vote we receive next year will be the same. We are now down to bed rock and henceforth will move forward with a power that will be irresistible. We may make mistakes now and then but we will move over forward towards the goal and this city will do its share towards aiding to usher in the co-operative commonwealth.

As a suit of clothes wears out and becomes unfit for use, so it is with the capitalist system, but as the workers have voted for four years more of the same old capitalist suit, they have no one but themselves to blame if they are merely a bunch of rags at the end of that time.

TO ACTION! TO ACTION!

That is the cry on the lips of all today.

Stock-taking of the membership is the order of the day.

Resolutions—good, earnest resolutions—are being made by all, resolutions that I know will bear fruit.

Suggestions and plans for our immediate future are offered, and most pleasing of all, everybody seems to agree on what is our mission—the education of the working class, and by literature at that.

We might be somewhat disappointed in Tuesday's election but we have nothing over which to be discouraged.

The falling off in the vote locally is nothing but the process by which the chaff has been automatically eradicated and a good, healthy membership of willing workers preserved.

Our loss of votes Tuesday has fired this resolute membership to a pitch in which they will give of their energies many fold what they have in the past.

Their efforts, united (as indications lead me to believe they will be), points to things doing. So much in fact that there will be no chance for reviewing the past as it should be; the past will be buried by so much good constructive work there will be no chance for its resurrection.

We are now on our way to a municipal campaign and must immediately begin the education of the working class. We will not wait till the eleventh hour.

To carry on such work money must be raised.

This will be done and our membership solidly cemented together by keeping them in good standing with a systematic collection of dues and more observance of the social features of our organization.

It is not necessary to constantly deplete the pockets of our membership but by social doings occasionally our friends can and will aid, thus giving us the wherewith to secure literature for general distribution.

This will not only give us recreation and education but a working organization that will be the admiration of all.

Monday night the City Central Committee elected a committee to plan our municipal campaign and they will be ready to submit their plans at the mass convention of Local Columbus next Sunday afternoon.

All are invited to participate in the discussion of these plans, so let your presence be the test of your earnestness.

To action, comrades, all to action!

W. E. BUES,
City Organizer.

Wilson and Democratic prosperity is on the way. A manufacturer in the North End received an order some time ago for two carloads of iron products. Last Wednesday the firm received a telegram cancelling the order. Mr. Worker, kiss yourself goodbye. Maybe next time you will think enough of yourself and family to vote for them.

MASS CONVENTION.

Local Columbus, Federation Hall, 121½ East Town Street, 2:00 o'clock p. m., Sunday, November 10, 1912.

Business of an interesting and important nature will be up for discussion and the members are requested to be present.

As the Campaign Committee wishes to balance up their accounts so as to make a final report, all members holding Debs and Keir Hardie tickets are requested to report on them at once to the Organizer's Office, 108½ South High. This will avoid the trouble and loss of time of some one calling on each one holding these tickets for a settlement on them.

IS SOCIALISM ONLY A DREAM.

"Socialism may be all right in theory. It is a beautiful dream. But how are you going to put it into practice? And even though we may have Socialism in the distant future, what good is that going to do us today?" Such questions are put to Socialists repeatedly, and they deserve a fair answer.

The questions themselves are based on a misunderstanding of the Socialist movement. For Socialism is not a ready-made scheme or sort of a social machine that can be put in operation at any time. The Socialist movement is a natural outgrowth of the economic and political needs of the working class. At present the capitalists control the instruments of production, and thereby control and rob the workers. In order to escape this robbery—in order to secure for themselves all that they produce—the workers are beginning to see that they must get possession of these instruments of production. But they cannot secure control of these machines, factories, mines, railroads, etc., as individuals, since they are too costly. Therefore they must unite as a class to get them. But even as a class they cannot buy them. Therefore they must secure control of the state, and, through the use of the state, gain control of the instruments of production. Thus the workers are forced to go into politics as a class in order to secure control of the instruments of production and put an end to exploitation. This is the fundamental goal of the Socialist movement—to put an end to the robbery and injustice of capitalism by establishing the social ownership and democratic management of all important industries. But we realize that this cannot be accomplished in a day. It will probably take several years to educate a majority of the workers up to a point where they will realize that they can secure economic freedom and justice only through the social ownership and operation of industry.

What Socialists Will Do in Cities.

In the meantime, however, Socialists will be securing control of cities and states. Now, inasmuch as the Socialist party is the party of the working class, it will begin at once in these localities to do what it can to serve the working class and to strengthen their power. In so far as possible, it will municipalize all local industries, such as street railways, gas and electric light plants, bakeries, laundries; coal and wood yards, and it will run these industries for the public rather than for profit. Every effort will be made to provide the best possible working conditions and to pay the workers the full value of their services. Model dwellings will be erected for the workers, to be rented at cost. The highest standards of sanitation and safety will be enforced in factories and workshops. The best facilities will be provided for the education and amusement of the public. In brief, all the powers of the municipal and state governments will be used to socialize local industries and to increase the security of the working class.

Much Can Also Be Done in Congress

At the same time, a growing group of representatives in state legislatures and congress will force the ruling class to grant concessions to the working class, in order to stem the rising tide of Socialism. Thus it is certain that state insurance against sickness, accidents and unemployment, besides old-age pensions, will be secured long before the Socialists have a majority in congress. Moreover, it is probable that the telegraph, express and railroad companies, together with most of the mines, will be taken over by the national government before the Socialists are completely in control. In fact, the transformation of private industry into social industry and the protection of the workers by legislation is already well started. It is much farther along in Europe than in America, because the Socialist party is much stronger than here. But as the Socialist vote grows, and the Socialist representation in our city, state and national governments increased, the change will proceed more rapidly.

No Violence or Bloodshed.

In view of these facts there is every reason to believe that our social system, in America at least, will be transformed from capitalism to Socialism without violence or bloodshed. The process is already begun. Socialism is no longer a dream, but a growing reality. The Socialist party stands not only for the ideal social system of the future, but for the immediate improvement of conditions in the present. The Socialist party is fighting the battle of the working class here and now; it is gaining concessions for the working class every day. Therefore it is not the workingman who votes the Socialist ticket that is the "dreamer," but the workingman who continues to vote the Republican and Democratic tickets. As long as we have voted the Republican and Democratic tickets we have been ignored and despised. Isn't it about time that we workingmen quit our political dreaming and tried the practical method of electing our own representatives to office?

MACHINISTS WIN.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 8.—A shop strike took place in this city recently involving eighty machinists. After being out a short time a settlement was reached, the disturbing factor, the overtime system, having been eliminated by establishing a nine-hour day and adding a night shift.

To speak of liberty in America sounds like a mockery, while millions of men, women and children are peons in the prison pens of wage slavery. Liberty is not the heritage of a slave.

FOUR STATES VOTE WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

New York, Nov. 6.—Advocates of women's suffrage were delirious with joy today. Four out of five states carried yesterday for the amendments striking the word male out of the state constitutions was considered sufficient cause, and it was stated that Saturday night's great parade up fashionable Fifth avenue, to be participated in by thousands of men and women representing every state in the Union would be a record-breaker.

One state, Wisconsin, rejected suffrage. Four approved—Arizona, Oregon, Kansas and Michigan—bringing the total of states where women have all of the rights of men up to ten.

In addition to the election of William Sulzer as governor of New York, the Empire state has for the first time in its history a friend of the "cause."

TENTH WARD BRANCH.

The Tenth Ward Branch will open the campaign of 1913 at its hall, 764 West Broad street, next Tuesday night. Comrade C. E. Belcher will deliver an address. Everybody invited.

PRIZE CONTEST FOR CHILDREN.

Socialist Councilman Warren of the 13th ward offers a prize of $5.00 to the pupil, attending the Columbus grade or High School, who will write the best article of not to exceed 1000 words to prove that the Socialist party is a political party of opposite politics to the Democratic or Republican parties. Our city solicitor and some of our councilmen have decided this question in the negative. We want some school boy or girl to give them some points.

Socialist Councilman Zimpter offers a prize of $3.50 for the second best essay upon the same topic.

Contestants may consult any reference, but must not receive any assistance from others.

Sign name and address and give name of teacher and dschool. Send all articles to the Social Pub. Co., 108½ S. High St., Columbus.

Contest will close midnight, Dec. 24, 1913. We reserve the right to publish a select number of these articles in The Socialist.

CODE OF MORALS FOR SOCIALIST WORKERS

Thou shalt not, at any time, deviate from the straight and narrow path marked out for you by the Capitalist class.

Thou shalt, at all time, keep the working class well filled, lest they, through hunger, cast an unintelligent ballot. The capitalist class suggest that you contribute freely to the charitable institutions that have been made for you, to guard against such a calamity.

Thou shalt, at all times, keep the capitalist class informed as to any action or actions you contemplate, so that those within your ranks, who are properly endowed with respect for public justice, may come to the aid of those who are now controlling the destiny of the working class.

Thou shalt not, at any time, complain of any methods that are used against your doctrines by the capitalist class, but always remember that obstacles overcome will develop strength in your organization.

Thou shalt keep in mind at all time that it is the business of the capitalist class to mislead and confound the working class and thou shalt not, in any manner, encroach on that sacred privilege.

Thou shalt, in most cases, have the right of free speech, but you must not at any time speak ill of the capitalist class, neither must you ask the working class to do anything that will not be in conformity with the rules of society or the laws that we have passed for your benefit.

ANDREW CANARY,
JORGE GOLD,

SPITE WORK AT BLIND COMMISSION SHOP

The management of the Ohio Blind Commission factory on East Fuulton street are very careful lest the unfortunates there should be contaminated. A blind man put up a Debs and Seidel picture in the shop last Friday but the boss ordered it taken down. He was afraid some of the "boys" would "see" it.

PRIEST SAYS CHARITY HAS FAILED.

Church Must Begin to Consider Socialism!

That the Socialist movement is gaining strength every day and that the people of the United States must prepare to face the movement with intelligence was the warning uttered by Father M. W. Ross, of St. Alban's Church, in his sermon at the afternoon services yesterday, says the Superior Wis.) Telegram of October 21.

"The man who ignores Socialism today is either misinformed, is not informed at all (or is a coward who does not dare to deal with the issues of the present day," said he.

"Socialism is a movement which is shaking the foundations of all Europe, a movement before which kings and emperors tremble, and which is gaining strength in this country every day. We must prepare to face the fact.

"We as Christians are looking for the coming of a day when our Lord Jesus Christ will be recognized as King, and Lord of Lords. Looking out over the world, and recognizing the strength of this movement, if it is true as has been said, that it is anti-religious, then it is the duty of every man to go forth and fight the movement even unto death.

"It has been said that Socialists are bad men, that they are infidels who hate, revile and seek to destroy the sanctity of the home.

"Even if this were true, if every man in the Socialist movement lead an evil life (which is not true), that would not make Socialism bad. If I knew that every Socialist in this country was bad and that the theory of Socialism was right, I would nevertheless have to give my allegiance to the movement without question.

"But the charge that Socialists are evil in their lives is a lie. I have among my personal acquaintances men of pure and honorable character who are as enthusiastic for the movement as any Socialist orator who ever stood on a soap box—men who are giving their time, thought and money to build up the movement.

"It is true that there are bad men, who live impure and unwholesome lives, but that is no argument for condemning Socialism. If we accepted this as an argument we would be forced to condemn Christianity itself.

"The thing we must look to is the principle of the movement and not the character of the men in the movement."

Father Ross also held that the fact that those in authority were opposed to the Socialist movement did not condemn it for Christ Himself had been opposed by the leaders of His time.

"It is also argued against Socialism that it will overthrow the present state of society.

"This is absolutely true. But let us consider—is the present state of society such as to develop all the good there is in man, does it give him all that his Creator intended, does it bring justice, or does it not rather foster injustice?

"It is said that Socialism means many things. It is a fact that the name is applied to many movements, from mild efforts at social reform to the theory which advocates direct action, the destruction of the present social state by violence if need be to make place for the new.

'But the fundamental principle on which all Socialists agree is that Socialism is a movement to bring about a condition where the people as a whole own the tools of production and distribution.

"This is the essential thing. Along with this men build up different theories. However, the differences are in the non-essentials, the fundamental principles they all agree on. The thing for us to determine is whether or not this thing will bring about a condition more favorable to Christian life than that of the present day. If so, it is our duty to do all in our power to further this movement.'

Father Ross told of his investigations while in New York City this summer, of the great organizations which had been built up to alleviate the misery on the poor in that city.

"But with all these wonderful organizations in that great city, where millions are spent each year, they do not begin to meet the needs. There are thousands of people in that city tonight who are starving. Because of the inadequacy of the provisions for the alleviation of these conditions, the charity workers must investigate before giving relief—and while they investigate the people die.

"When I asked the workers in these organizations what they thought of Socialism I found that the great majority of them believed in it. They believe it to be the only solution of the terrible conditions now existing. The consensus of opinion among the workers who come in actual contact with these conditions is that the coming of a Socialistic state will remedy these conditions.

"We as Christians must face these facts. If Christ were living today among men as He did once, would He not take an interest in these matters?

"If we have read the Gospels, we know that He would.

"The charge is made by Socialists that organized Christianity is against them because it is largely supported by the rich, those who pile up wealth at the expense of the poor. They say that it doles out charity instead of justice.

"This is sometimes fearfully true. But the church as a whole does not tolerate justice. It is the fault of individuals that this condition exists, not that of the organization as a whole.

"After a study of this question I have reached the conclusion that it is the duty of the man who believes in the Eternal God and the All Merciful Christ to stand out on the firing line and fight for the cause of the working people.

"This question deserves your consideration and it is possible that after a study of this greater world-wide movement, which is an attempt to bring order out of chaos, that you will reach the conclusion that instead of being antagonistic to Christianity it is the ray of hope shining down into the present darkness, and that it will hasten rather than retard the coming of the Kingdom of the Compassionate Christ."

A WORKINGMEN'S COLLEGE.

Rand School of Social Science in New York Trains Men and Women to Serve the Labor Movement.

The growth of the labor movement on both the political and the industrial field is bringing an ever greater need for working men and women trained and equipped to do efficient work as speakers, writers, editors, teachers, secretaries, organizers, and even as public officials in the many places that are coming under working-class control. Comparatively few working people have had a chance for even a high school education, and still fewer can ever think of going to college—besides which, the colleges do not offer just the kind of education needed in the service of the labor movement.

In Europe the trade unions and the Socialist Party have for several years co-operated in maintaining schools for the special purpose of giving to their members the instruction necessary to fit them for such work. The Ruskin Labor College in England and the Social Democratic Party School in Berlin have had brilliant success along these lines. Encouraged by their example, the Rand School of Social Science in New York has undertaken a similar task.

The Rand School has been in existence for six years, but only last year did it begin to be more than a local institution. During the winter of 1911-'12, however, ten young men and women from seven different states attended the school as full-time students, devoting their whole time for several months to carefully directed study along the lines of American History and Government, Theory and Policy of the Socialist and Labor Movement, Economics, Labor Legislation, and Social Reform, together with English Grammar and Composition and Public Speaking. Most of these are now at work in the service of the movement in different parts of the country, and are full of praises for the opportunities given them by the Rand School.

A similar course is being offered this year. The same subjects will be covered by a staff of competent instructors, among whom are Algernon Lee, formerly editor of the New York Call; John Spargo, well known as an author and lecturer; Dr. I. M. Rubinow, the recognized American authority on Workmen's Compensation and State Insurance; Meyer London, whose activity as counsel for the Cloak Makers and other trade unions has given him a national reputation; Dr. Helen L. Sumner, formerly of the University of Wisconsin; Robert W. Bruere, who was formerly active in the Milk Committee work in New York and is now becoming widely known as a magazine writer on economic subjects; and George R. Kirkpatrick, author of "War—What For?" a book which has already run to its fiftieth thousand and is still reaching hundreds of new readers every month.

The Rand School is not a business enterprise, but an institution of the labor movement, which does not seek to make profits upon its work. It is partly supported by an endowment given by the late Mrs. Carrie D. Rand, which enables it to offer its services at terms which make it accessible to persons of limited means. The tuition fee for full-time students is fixed at $60, which covers the whole service of the school during the term of five months, and includes also a free supply of all the necessary text-books. The school also does what it can to help students from out of town in getting board and lodging at reasonable rates and is sometimes able to provide them with part-time employment by which they can cover a part of their expenses while pursuing their studies.

This year's course begins on November 11 and will continue till April 11. There will be five evening lectures and five or six afternoon classes each week. Besides attending these the students will read assigned lessons and write papers, which will be carefully criticized by the instructors with reference both to subject matter and to grammatical correctness and style.

Students have enrolled in advance from the states of New York, Virginia, South Carolina and Illinois, and others are expected from Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and other parts of the country. There is still an opportunity for more students to join the class, but any who think of doing so should communicate with the school without delay.

The office of the Rand School is now located at 43 East Twenty-second street, New York, in the building of the Women's Trade Union League; but about November 1 it will move to 140 East Nineteenth street, where it has leased a whole building as a permanent home. Here will be installed the school's excellent library, containing over 3,000 volumes on all aspects of History, Economics, Sociology, and related subjects, as well as the most valuable current papers and magazines. Here, too, will be the social and intellectual center of the radical and labor forces of the metropolis, with a meeting hall, where lectures will be delivered by some of the best known thinkers of the day.

The position of Executive Secretary of the Rand School has just been assumed by Mrs. Bertha Howell Mailly, whose name is known to many readers throughout the country by her work in the "Coming Nation." The former Secretary, Algernon Lee, retains the position of Educational Director.

TRIAL OF GRABOW "CONSPIRATORS"

The third week of the trial opened with Organizers C. L. Filigo and Clarence Edwards in jail on an alleged charge of tampering with witnesses. At mid-day on Tuesday Organizer E. F. Doree arrived in town from Texas and was thrown into jail on the same charges. The arrest of these Organizers while all the Burns Detectives are still left at large, and the outrageous reports of the trial in Lumber Trust papers, especially the raw sensationalism regarding William D. Haywood and Covington Hall, has, according to reports from all sections, done more to anger the general public than anything else The Plunderbund has yet done. The whole South is rapidly awakening to the fact that, innstead of having "a government of the people, by the people and for the people," it has a government of the people, by gunmen and detectives, for an Industrial Oligarchy. The three Organizers are still in jail and our lords and masters, the Burns Detective Agency, are still threatening. But the One Big Union is growing faster than ever and the indications are that every man, woman and child in the timber belt have taken up the work of organizing and leading the Union on to victory. So, Let Them Arrest And Keep On Arresting. Now is the time to make the jail record and the blacklist a roll of honor. Up to the 24th, the Prosecution witnesses told the same monotonous story and as regularly went to pieces when cross-examined by the Defense.

At 2 p. m. of the 24th the State of Louisiana called a star witness of the first magnitude, Detective L. T. Mabry, to the stand. Detective Mabry had joined the Brotherhood at De Ridder in June, 1911, so he stated, and had so wormed himself into the confidence of President Emerson and Secretary Smith as to be made an Organizer and to be admitted to the "inner circles" of the Union. Detective-Organizer Mabry swore that Vice President Fussell was the only man in the B. T. W. who always and at all times opposed "violence," though he had previously stated that in his speeches to the Timberworkers, he (Mabry) had told them they "had a right to organize and fight capital, that is in an honorable way," but that he wanted it distinctly understood that he did not advocate "violence," which left his hearers wondering when it was he told the truth, "so help me God, if I die in this chair," whether it was when he wanted it distinctly understood that he had never advocated "violence," or when he said that Fussill was the only man who always and at all times opposed "violennce." He swore that Haywood had said, "Stay on the job and put the machinery on strike;" that Emerson, Hall, Lehman and Smith had agreed with Haywood, but he had never heard anyone advocate killing anybody. Detective Mabry swore that he did not know if his brother, Giles Mabry, was a detective or not; that, he considered himself a law-abiding man, and that he never organized Unions of Timberworkers for the purpose of afterwards betraying them, which was, of course, "true, so help me God, if I die in this chair." The Burns star was followed on the stand by W. R. Briggs, who testified he rented a wagon to somebody and that it was brought back, horses, mules, harness and all, safe and sound. The State then called Detective T. N. Harell, alias Harry Thomas, star witness of the second magnitude, who answered to questions put to him by Congressman Pujo of the Prosecution, that he did not know "William D. Haywood of Idaho;" that, so ffar as he knew, Moyer had not followed Haywood of Idaho;" that, so far as speeches, nor had Pettibone, which, considering that Pettibone had been dead several years, is nothing against sleuth Harrell's defective work and we hope Society Savior Burns will not demerit him therefor. Sleuth Harrell admitted that he had lied to everybody and everywhere, except to Burns and on the witness stand, and was far more shameless than Mabry in the part he was playing, for Mabry had often flushed deeply when Judge Hunter was holding up the role of a Burns Labor Detective to the public gaze. Sleuth Harrell saw and heard more things at Grabow and elsewhere than Saul saw when he made the Witch of Ender call up the ghost of Samuel, this though he seemed to be running all during the battle of Grabow. He said that he had never heard the Unionists advocate violence; that he did not go into jail to spy on the boys; that he did not worry Louis Brown to get a "confession" out of him; that he was only nursing because he was wounded; that he did not know why he was arrested, nor for what; that Deputy Sheriff Del Charlau had made the arrest and had read a warrant charging him or somebody with something and put him in jail, but he had not been charged with the same high crimes and misdemeanors as had been the Unionists. Sleuth Harrel said he had detected much Socialist literature in the jail and said they all seemed to be Socialists. He had joined the B. T. W., but had never, never, never counseled "violence." He said he had never seen Prosecuting Attorneys Moore, Pujo or Powell taking statements in jail, but he was not asked to say if he saw the Burns Detectives doing so. He had attended a secret meeting of the Grabow strikers called by Emerson and Haywood and held on the main streets of Merryville, La. Detective Mabry and Sleuth Harrell helped the State of Louisiana to shoot the "conspiracy of Grabow" to pieces some more, and their testimony, following so closely on the arrest of Organizers Doree, Filigno and Edwards, has done much to swing public sentiment to the accused men and the Union, despite the desperate efforts of the Lumber Trust papers to side-track the issue at stake and prepare the way for further arrests. The last witness called by the State was Postmaster D. V. McFatter of Grabow, whose testimony did not amount to much either one way or the other.

The State then rested its case at 10:3 a. m., of the 26th, and the Defense immediately called to the stand its first witness, D. W. Ellis. Counsel for the Defense in this case are: Judge F. T. Hunter, and Hawthorne and Hundley of Alexandria, La.; Cline, Cline and Bell of Lake Charles, and Kay and Jackson of De Ridder, La., all of whom have made a splendid record in the case. Judge Hunter is leading counsel for the Defense, while Hawthorne and Hundley are the Brotherhood's regular Attorneys and have general supervision of the case.

Mr. J. Cline, the witness, said both Havens and Emerson talked only on Unionism; that the first shot was fired by a man who came out of the office and gred directly at the wagon where Emerson was speaking; that the man who fired the first shot was John Galloway; there had been no disturbance before first shot was fired; that two more shot followed in rapid succession—the firing then become general. From this story of the trouble the prosecution could not shake him; in fact, his clean-cut answers strengthened it. To the District Attorney, Ellis stated that the substance of Havens' speech was to get the men to join the Union and shut the mill down; that they meant to shut the mills down by honest men quitting and withdrawing their labor." To Congressman Pujo he said: "No, sir, it was never the intention to kill anybody for beating tin cans and saws," though, personally, he "thought they ought to have been, considering all the insults the Unionists had received." The next witness called by the defense was Wiley Green, a stock raiser and farmer living near De Ridder. To Mr. Bel he stated that when Emerson started to speak, John Galloway and a crowd went towards the office and he saw John Galloway come out of office and level a gun, but he did not see who first first shot; that two shots followed in rapid succession and he went on west side of commissary; that he saw neither Emerson or Havens there; that he was not armed and they were anticipating no trouble at Grabow that day. To the prosecution he stated that he was a member of the B. T. W.; was a man of independent means; was in jail, indicted for murder on three charges; that he had gone to Carson to hear Creel speak; that Creel was not there and he had gone to Grabow with the boys; that he knew he was doing no wrong to go to the meeting and felt he had every right to do so; that he did not come in and surrender until he got ready, which answer Congressman Pujo tried to twist so as to make it appear that the old man was a "fugitive from justice." He said he saw three or four guns when the crowd stopped at the branch near Grabow. To Judge Hunter he said it was nothing in his section to see men with guns at every public meeting; that they went to Grabow with no intention of causing trouble; that he was never a "fugitive from justice;" that Sheriff W. A. Martin had given him permission to herd his cattle before he was jailed. When Judge Hunter asked the question, "Do you know the Constitution of the United States gives you the right to bear arms, and that it can never be abridged nor denied?" the State objected and was sustained by the Court. The next witness called by the defense was E. Bryant. To Mr. J. Cline he gave an account of the trip from De Ridder and from there to Grabow; that at Grabow he was standing with his feet on the hub of the wheel of the wagon from which Emerson spoke; that he saw two men go to the office and one pushed open the door with his gun and fired, as did the other; that the first or second shot struck Louis Brown, who was in the speakers' wagon; that he was positive first shot came from office; that last words Emerson said before first shot was, "don't shoot!" Emerson was facing office. Said he was on opposite side of wagon when first shot was fired and so was able to see the man who fired the first shot. The prosecution failed to shake his testimony and at 5 p. m. Court adjourned until 9 a. m. Monday mornng.

As our witnesses are on the stand and the case is drawing to its end, we make one more appeal to the working class for the funds we must have, if our brothers are to be saved and labor's right to organize established in the Empire of the Sawdust Ring.

Yours for the overthrow of the peonage,

COMMITTEE OF DEFENSE,
Brotherhood of Timberworkers.

How long are you workers going to continue to wear your master's collar and chains? Awake! Resolve that you will be free, and then vote that way.

If the old party politicians really thought that you workers were as intelligent as they tell you that you are, they wouldn't palm off such "fishy" tales as they do.

JUST THE TRUTH.

Bessemer, Ala., Nov. 2.—It was recently reported in one of the daily papers in Birmingham that the Bessemer Foundry and Machine Company had recently placed its workmen on a nine-hour shift, the company being given credit, in a laudatory manner, for its treatment of the workmen. As a matter of fact this company was approached by a committee in one of the departments for the purpose of requesting the establishment of a nine-hour day, and in answer to the request the committee was asked to hand in its time and the members were discharged. As a result of this act by the company the other employes refused to continue to work. The company shortly found that it was unable to secure non-union men to fill the places of the men whom it had discharged and who had quit, and as a result the company finally concluded to adopt the nine-hour day, which was done. Therefore, the shorter workday was granted not from any philanthropic motive, but because workmen could not be secured to work longer hours.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

DIVORCE AS A SOCIAL FUNCTION.

It is rumored, by those whose work it is to furnish satisfactory rumors, that is, the capitalist press, that the Dahlgren divorce suit will be an "unusual social function."

Erie B. Dahlgren's father invented a gun, or got a patent on one, and made a big fortune.

Mrs. Dahlgren is of the Drexel family, bankers, and also has a big fortune.

Consequently, when two such fortunes are legally to be separated it necessarily becomes a social event. After the disunion there can come two unions, and society will be concerned as to what other fortunes these two matrimonially freed fortunes will ally themselves.

For the divorce proceedings, which are to be held in open court before Judge Gavegan, some "stunning gowns" are promised. A stunning gown is one that costs a great deal of money and for which the actual makers are paid sweatshop rates. These gowns, however, are necessary to the proper setting or dressing of a social divorce suit and are highly important. Those who wear them do not break up families, they simply change around a bit within their own circle, pass the contribution basket now and then in some exclusive church and denounce the poor for their immorality and improvidence.

The public generally will not be admitted to the proceedings because it is a function, and no one not possessed of a stunning gown and a sufficient amount of cash can get into a function. That is one of the prerogatives of higher society, an exclusive performance that would be disgraced by the presence of any one without an adequate check book. Usually such shows are pulled off before a referee. But society needs new thrills, new sensations, new topics for tittle tattle and scandal. So it is becoming quite the thing to stage your divorce for the entertainment of those worthy to witness it.

WHAT EVERY BABY NEEDS.

The doings of the Vanderbilt baby are of absorbing interest to every one. Though not yet christened it has gone out and acquired a model dairy for its own exclusive use. This dairy will have select cows, producing select milk, and the men who attend the cows will be thoroughly sterilized. The Vanderbilt baby has not omitted one detail that makes for plenty, comfort and safety. For a baby only a few days old to have the forethought to acquire a dairy for its own use shows that the superior brains of the owners of this country begin to work at an early age.

Ordinary babies, without forethought, initiative and resourcefulness, are content with dip-milk that just barely measures up to the low standard required by law. That is why so many of them die. Sometimes the milk is fairly good, sometimes it is rank poison. Now, if these babies would get a move on and each of the few millions of them acquire a special, select dairy, there would not only be plenty of milk but it would be of a safe quality.

There are eight of the Vanderbilt baby cows and two men look after them. On this basis, if we have 8,000,000 milk drinking babies, all we need would be 16,000,000 milch cows. There are less than 6,000,000 in the country. But that is the fault of the babies. Then it would require 4,000,000 men to look after the cows, if the babies had them. Besides the babies would need each a day and night nurse, a physician and a governess or tutor. That would be 8,000,000 more people looking after them, or 12,00,000 in all.

If each baby could not consume the milk of eight cows, then some of it might be given to children or to the adults who looked after the cows and the babies. This, however, would tend to make them dependents, and would lower their standard of self-dependence. They should each go and get eight cows, which would simply mean 720,000,000 for the ninety or so million people in the country. It seems like a tremendous herd, but if the Vanderbilt baby needs eight, why don't the others? And if the Vanderbilt baby can get eight, why can't the others? If at the age of a few days a Vanderbilt baby can get possession of eight cows, why can't an adult do it?

These are serious questions, for those eight Vanderbilt cows have set a standard. No respectable baby can ever have fewer, and all babies who intend to be respectable should get a move on and acquire them.

THE PERIOD OF ORGANIZATION.

The five-months period immediately following the election will be the greatest period of organization in the history of the Socialist party in America. Tens of thousands of working-class voters have been wrenched loose from their old political ties. Thousands of these have heard with approval the Socialist message, and will be ready to come into the Socialist party. Intelligent, faithful, and energetic work on the part of Socialist organizers and propagandists will result in a rich harvest for the cause of Socialism. There should be no let-up in the campaign. The form of the work will change somewhat; instead of a campaign for votes there will be a campaign for party members. But there should be no resting time—no vacation period. The new campaign should start with the counting of the votes on election night.

In this post-election campaign education is a prime need. The new or prospective members must be made acquainted with real Socialism, and with the tactics and principles of the international Socialist movement. Often they are misled by vagaries of one sort or another and switched off into the following of will-o'-the-wisps and delusions. It is the duty of earnest Socialists to see that they get started right—that they learn what Socialism is, and not what some notoriety-seeking or cash-hunting "leader" pretends it to be.

No better agency for this work will be found than The Socialist. In the future, as it has done in the past, it will appeal to common sense and reason. It will not indulge in sensationalism. Neither in its news columns nor in its advertising columns will it tolerate the swindling of its readers. It will support the fundamental principles of Socialism and the tactics and principles of the Socialist party. It will show small patience with self-appointed "leaders" or with freakish visionaries. It will give the latest authenticated facts drawn from government and other sources, and will interpret them in the light of Socialist philosophy. For the immediate future it will make a feature of the authentic and official returns of the presidential vote. It will give all the party news. All in all, it will continue to be an organization paper—a paper which treats the Socialist party as the organized expression of the Socialist movement. It will continue to be an invaluable aid to the earnest party worker.

USE THE SUBSCRIPTION BLANK.

In this edition of the paper you will find a subscription blank. Now is the time to get busy, comrades, and boost the circulation. It matters not where you are or who you are. Get the blank filled up and fire it in. Your neighbor will want to keep tab on the Socialist movement as the enormous vote cast will make the average man curious to find out what it is all about.

There are thousands of names put on by comrades until after election. These will all get their last paper this week.

You should each and every one send in your subscription at once in order not to miss a single issue.

Fire them in, boys and girls, fire them in.

A ROTTEN FORM OF SCABBING.

Let us quit scabbing! Especially the forms of scabbing that hurt most.

The capitalist press is used by the Master Class for the purpose of keeping the toilers in ignorance, and also to mold public opinion against the political and industrial movements of the working class. For instance, let us not forget the nation-wide efforts of the capitalist press to influence public opinion against Unionism in connection with the McNamara case, that great "dynamiting" case. Everybody heard or read of it in the capitalistic newspapers.

You have got that, haven't you?

Well, now, why don't the same capitalistic papers make as big a "sensation" out of the "Dynamiting Conspiracy" of Lawrence, Mass.? Why are these papers as silent as they can conveniently be, concerning the latter conspiracy and so noisy about the former? Simply because the men implicated in the former case belong to the working class and those connected with the latter are capitalist.

You notice that the capitalist papers, as a rule, did not give the whole truth about the outrages at San Diego, California, nor about the massacre of union men by capitalists at Grabow, La. These papers engage in a conspiracy of silence, or else they distort the news, when the criminals belong to the capitalist class. But when any member of the working class makes a false step, the masters' papers make sure that every one in the country knows of it.

To get reliable news that concern our own class, my brothers, we must read Socialist and labor publications.

You will always find ads for scabs and strike-breakers in the capitalist newspapers, but never in the Socialist and labor press. If you wish to read clear and authentic accounts of the rottenness of capitalistic publications, their sly trickery, and the means they use to strangle the cause of labor, let me refer you to a pamphlet entitled "Tricks of the Press," 10 cents a single copy, by "The National Rip-Saw," St. Louis, Mo.

Of course, in the capitalist press, there are some rare exceptions, but they only emphasize the rule.

In the present strike of the Guggenheim employes at Bingham, Utah, and Ely, Nevada, the capitalist papers are following out their usual plan to influence public sentiment against the strikers.

Now, brothers, why, oh, why, do you support the master's press, when you know it is used as a weapon to injure our own class interests? WHY DO YOU DO IT?

Some people (who are not well posted on the class struggle) say, "We must take the capitalist papers to get the news." To you who think this way, let me say: Are you going to continue to take papers just to get the news that is misleading? After reading the capitalist dailies, you don't know what you have got so far as truth is concerned, for you have too often learned afterwards that the news you read were contradicted later by the facts of the case, so what do you gain by reading news of the variety on which you cannot depend? If you would give the same amount of support to the Socialist and labor papers they would soon be able to give as much news as the present capitalist dailies, and far more reliable.

Whenever you subscribe to a capitalist paper you simply furnish the ammunition with which the enemy crushes the cause of labor. And thus you act the part of a traitor to the cause of your own class. In effect, your action of supporting the capitalist press does more injury to you and your own class than the act of taking a striker's place, which is commonly called scabbing. Remember, that the class struggle is continuous; and will continue as long as you furnish the ammunition to your enemy, and until the profit system is overthrown and replaced by a CO-OPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH.

It is, therefore, quite plain and logical that any member of the working class who supports the capitalist papers acts the part of a scab and a traitor to himself and his own class. That is (next to voting the capitalist tickets) the worst kind of scabbing.

Brothers, let us all discontinue such actions. Take our support away from the enemy's press and give it to the Socialist and labor papers. By that action we down our foe and at the same time raise ourselves. Then you will see the circulation of the capitalist papers take a sudden drop, and their power to do us harm correspondingly diminish.

Let each and every working man act along the lines above stated. All of you who are Socialists should agitate the matter in your Local meetings; you will get lots of support.

Instruct your delegates to the Central Labor bodies and all other meetings of the working class. Do all you can to get your organizations to act collectively and individually. Let every working man forsake the capitalist papers and support the Socialist and labor press. In other words, let us all quit our scabbing and support those who help us.

Passing resolutions does not accomplish anything. We must act, with actions that speak louder than words, and the sooner the better.

Just think for a moment what a vast difference it will make when we—the working class—shall own and control the means that are now being used by the exploiting class, to turn public opinion against us, politically, industrially and socially.

Don't forget to do your part and to instruct your delegates in this matter. Go ahead, brothers, and carry out this program. Don't be held back and intimidated by the talk of corporation spies, and other reactionaries who carry union cards in their pockets, but who lack the principles of unionism and manhood in their hearts. Brush them aside, and let us all pull together in this movement. The writer is going ahead and will do all he can whether you do your duty or not; and he will keep up this agitation until support will come more freely in the near future, so let every class conscious man do the same.

Now, brothers, please listen. Don't simply read this and then go to sleep again; but act upon it, in your home, in and out of the shop or wherever you work; and don't forget your delegate at the next regular meeting and all subsequent meetings also. Keep it up! Be persistent! Keep on going until the press is eventually taken out of the hands of our exploiters; then they will be shorn of one of the great powers by which they keep us in ignorance and slavery.

Show this article to every worker you know or meet, especially to every progressive one, and don't forget to instruct your delegates.

Every wage earner should subscribe to this paper.

A CLASS CONSCIOUS WAGE SLAVE.

DESTROYING THE HOME.

The Western Clarion, under the caption "Can Socialism Destroy the Home?" has the following to say: "Home is a heavenly place. Such a halo of sanctity has become woven around the word that the mere assertion that Socialism would destroy it is sufficient to rally cohorts to its defence. More especially does this home-thrust appeal to women, why, "God knows."

"It may be all very fine among the wealthy or even the well-to-do, whose homes are their private dwellings, where the household duties and cares are shouldered by hired slaves and slaveys, where they may eat, drink and be merry, entertain their friends, enjoy solitude or do what they will.

"But what does the worker's home hold that they should be solicitous as to its preservation, more particularly as regards the worker's wife? What is here home but her workshop? In the country, a shelter wherein she may cook and feed and wash, when she is not in the stable or the field, by day; by night, but a rude stall for sleep. In the city, when not a full-blown boarding house, with roomers inhabiting all rentable corners to help pay the rent, while she lives in the kitchen and sleeps in the dining room with her lord and their brood.

"Before she married, perhaps, she slaved for some capitalist for a minimum wage and with uncertainty of employment. Married, she has a steady job—for her board and clothes. Her job is steady enough, if that is any recommendation. To cook and wash dishes, sweep and scrub, wash and iron, mend and darn, day in and day out, except while the Lord is delivering her one of his 'blessings.'

"Slave? The man is a slave enough, but after his day's slavery and his supper, he can throw up his feet and revel in the perusal of his favorite purveyor of fiction and perverter of fact. The wife has yet the dishes to wash, the brats to scrub and put to bed, the floor to sweep once more, stockings to darn, and what not.

"He, when he has delivered up his quota of labor-power where it belongs, is, for the time, free. She is free only when she sleeps, and is free then only to store up energy for the next day's slavery.

"Destroy the home? Cheerfully, if Capitalism leaves us any to destroy. And the wive-slaves will owe us a hearty vote of thanks."

WHO ARE THE CHRISTIANS?

An extraordinary situation has developed in Germany. The federal Socialistic trade unions, having a membership of over 3,000,000, have placed it on record that they are opposed to war with France or any other country, while the Hirsch-Dunker organization, a so-called Christian labor association claiming to have 100,000 members, has adopted resolutions pledging itself to support the government's war policy. Now many people are wondering who are Christians and who are pagans.

WHAT LYCEUM WORK WILL DO FOR YOUR LOCAL.

By William R. Shier.

It will stimulate the comrades into renewed activity.

It will drill them in propaganda and organization methods.

It will secure for the movement a great deal of favorable publicity in the newspapers of your locality.

It will arouse interest in Socialism among all classes of people, break down their prejudice against our party, and effectively educate them into an understanding of our principles and ideals.

It will treble the sale of Socialist literature in your community and make people more disposed to read the Socialist leaflets you distribute from house to house.

It will, if properly managed, place your local organization upon a sound financial basis, leaving, after all bills are paid, a substantial surplus in the local treasury.

It will energize the comrades, build up the party membership and win for your battalion of the revolutionary political army many new recruits.

It will put hope into the working class, help roll up a big Socialist vote and prepare the way for victory.

THE MARSEILLAISE.

Ye sons of toil, awake to glory—
Hark, hark! what myriads bid you rise!
Your children, wives, and grandsires hoary;
Behold their tears and hear their cries,
Behold their tears and hear their cries!
Shall hateful tyrants, mischief breeding,
With hireling hosts, a ruffian band
Affright and desolate the land,
While peace and liberty lie bleeding!

Chorus—
To arms, to arms, ye brave!
Th' avenging sword unsheathe,
March on, march on,
All hearts resolved
On victory or death!

With luxury and pride surrounded,
The vile, insatiate despots dare,
Their thirst for gold and pow'r unbounded,
To mete and vend the light and air,
To mete and vend the light and air,
Like beasts of burden would they load us,
Like gods would bid their slaves adore;
But man is man and who is more?
Then shall they longer lash and goad us?
(Chorus.)

Oh, Liberty! can man resign thee,
Once having felt thy gen'rous flame!
Can dungeons, bolts, and bars confine thee?
Or whips thy noble spirit tame?
Or whips thy noble spirit tame?
Too long the world has wept bewailing,
That falsehood's dagger tyrants wield;
But freedom is our sword and shield,
And all their arts are unavailing.
(Chorus.)

WEST MOUND PAVING MUDDLE BEFORE COUNCIL.

Rail-Light Plays Old Game of Bluffing the People of City.

Much debate was indulged in by Council Monday night over the Mound street paving controversy, which came up this time in the shape of an ordinance to proceed with the paving of the street as far west as Glenwood avenue. The paving can go no farther than this until a settlement is reached with the Rail-Light company, which declines to consolidate its broad-gauge tracks with the standard-gauge interurban tracks. The company sticks to its perpetual franchise from the county commissioners but Socialist Councilman Bohnert is pretty confident that the city can force the company to back down, while if the street is paved up to the part in dispute the paving is likely to stop at that point, with the Rail-Light sleeping comfortably on its perpetual franchise. So the ordinance was referred back to committee.

The concern which has applied for a franchise to construct a cross-town car line in Fifth avenue will have to bid in competition with "all comers" for the franchise, which is to be granted, according to the resolution adopted, to the bidder who will agree to maintain a first-class street railway for the lowest fare.

LET'S USE IT.

(By Jerry Jinger.)

Workers of the Buckeye State, unite under the new Initiative and Referendum clause and get what you want. You have nothing to lose but two to four hours every day and whatever the boss pleases to pay you and you have an eight-hour day, a minimum wage and a lot of other good things to gain.

This is the only excuse I can offer for writing this article: My personal desire is not to have to work any more than I can help and get as much money as I can for that work. I attended a lecture by Father Kress, the noted Catholic smasher of Socialism, and he told us the Socialist platform was "an excuse for not wanting to work." I was surprised at the Rev. Father's perspicacity, but laid it to the fact that he had undoubtedly at some time or another in his life read the Socialist platform.

Yes, sir, you heathen Democrats-Republicans, I am tired of work. Tired of leaping madly out of a nice, warm bed at the command of an infernal combination of springs and and wheels, called an alarm clock, and at the unearthly hour of 3:30 a. m., jump into my breeches, hickory shirt and gum boots, rush down stairs into the kitchen, dive into breakfast, bolt it—the grub—then grab my dinner pail (full, of course), make tracks to the mill and "ring in" one minute and twenty-nine seconds late, and hear the BOSS shout, "Jerry, why in —— don't you buy an alarm clock. 'Spose this company's runnin' a philanthropic institution?" And then, after two weeks of this twelve per day (hours, not dollars, Lord, no!) business, gratefully give the paymaster a receipt (first, of course) for the wonderful sum of 24 bones, 12 per week.

So, I'm a Rebel, with a big B. I want to destroy society (gasp from the good citizen) and build a decent system of society. I don't believe in putting good men in office (another gasp from g. c.); in fact, I vote 'er straight—also Red.

Now, Comrades, why not put this ring in the Bull's nose and get an eight-hour and a minimum wage law on the statute books of Ohio? The Socialist party has the organization par excellence for getting up a petition. Let's fix it so we can sleep a little later in the morning and get off a little sooner at night, so we will have more time to talk to "Mary and the kids" (apologies to Comrade Sharts, of the M. V. S.). It will help to put the Alarm Clock Trust and the Doctors' Trust, as well, out of business, for if we work less and play more we will live longer and be healthier (Father Kress notwithstanding).

Now that the election is over, we've made good our boasts—the capitalists are scared clear down to their pocketbooks, and the Democrat-Republican (don't be hard on him) sees what a jackass he has made of himself, we can start a campaign for such a measure and put a spike in another of the enemy's guns. Of course, they will raise the cost of living a little higher, but that will simply prove our contention about the see-saw of the class war and make the heathen a little hungrier, consequently a little more inclined to jump the fence into the Socialist clover field.

But, really, I believe it would carry. A promise of $3.00 per day would cause a great many political ignoramouses to ask, What's in political action of the Socialistic brand, anyhow?" which would result in a big increase in the ranks of us rebels, so it would pay, even though we lost. Yes, by all means, let's get busy. Every shot counts, and bye and bye we will have the privilege of bearing out the defunct remains of old Democrat-Republican-Moose, tenderly but joyfully place it in the political graveyard, under the whispering oaks, and above its head inscribe something like this:

"Here lies poor old Democrat-Republican-Moose, who lies no more. He died of a general bust-up, caused by the people getting their eyes open. Let him R. I. P."

REFORM MEASURES THAT MAKE FOR SOCIALISM.

Certain reform measures also make for Socialism. They may be altogether or only partially of capitalistic origin or nature and yet move in the direction of the Socialist goal. Whether these measures come from a sincere desire to improve social conditions or as a conscious effort to hold back the Socialist movement, whether they come as the result of agitation of the Socialists themselves, or as the inevitable development of the capitalistic system, it matters not; the fact is, they come, and coming they move in the direction of Socialism. Speaking of this matter Robert Hunter, in his book on "Socialists at Work" in the chapter on "Socialism and Social Reform," says:

"It is difficult nowadays for Socialists to keep the details of their immediate program in advance of legislation. For more than a half century Socialist and labor programs advocated the abolition of child labor without finding any considerable sympathetic response on the part of the general public. Only a few years ago a child labor law was considered an unwarrantable interference with the free conduct of capitalist enterprise. Today the legislation in some countries is in advance of the specific demand made by one or two of the Socialist parties. There was a time when the Socialists alone advocated national and municipal ownership of public utilities; today it is advocated by all the more advanced parties. A few years ago land municipalization would have been hailed as a revolution of the first order. Today there are few municipalities in Europe that do not see the necessity for radical reform in the ownership of land if slums are to be abolished. There are various causes for this extraordinary change in public policy, but few will deny that credit for it belongs mainly to the growing Socialist movement.

"The old parties quite naturally combat the intrusion of the new ideas when the Socialists in the legislative bodies endeavor to carry out their program; but the Socialists use such opportunities to review the evils of existing conditions and the necessity for reform, with the result that the community becomes aroused. The opposition, who first attack a Socialist measure as criminal and vicious, then as well intentioned but impractical, finally, after as much delay as possible, reintroduce the measure in as weak a form as they dare submit it, and pass it as a great and virtuous public act. It is not, I think, an exaggeration to state that on the continent of Europe this is the legislative history of most of the important measures in the interest of labor passed during the last twenty years. The Socialists are really not permitted to pass legislation, but in the way described they are really the directing force in nearly all the continental legislative bodies. In other words, the old parties are gradually being forced to follow the line of the immediate demands of the Socialist program."

To be sure, most of these reform measures are due very largely to the influence and agitation on the part of the Socialists and the Socialist party. It is doubtful whether many of them would have gone as far as they have had it not been for the Socialist party. However, they have come through the capitalist influences and may stand to their credit. Speaking of the influence of the Socialist party in these matters, Mr. Hunter says:

"The power to accomplish this remarkable work resides in this independent political movement, this party of the workers now forcing its way into power. In the face of its criticism the old order dare not press the kind of class legislation which was so common a few decades ago. It dreads the criticism of the new party, which appears as the expression of the exploited and disinherited, produced largely by the iniquitous legislation of the past. It realizes that any serious blunders on its part, any corruption, any favors to private interests, means the strengthening of this active subversive group of Socialists."

Public Ownership.

The third line of capitalistic development that is making strongly for Socialism is that of public ownership. To be sure, the public ownership of public utilities is one of the fundamental demands of the Socialist movement everywhere. The Socialist party works for the public ownership of all public utilities. The fact remains, however, that public ownership measures are going forward everywhere under the capitalistic system and sometimes with the consent and through the agency of the old political parties. We may therefore treat of these public ownership measures as a part of the development of the capitalistic system, bearing in mind, meanwhile, that they are also a fundamental demand of Socialism.

The extent to which public ownership has gone forward in the various cities, states and nations of the world is almost surprising. And this remarkable development serves at least as a very striking demonstration of the practicability of this fundamental principle.

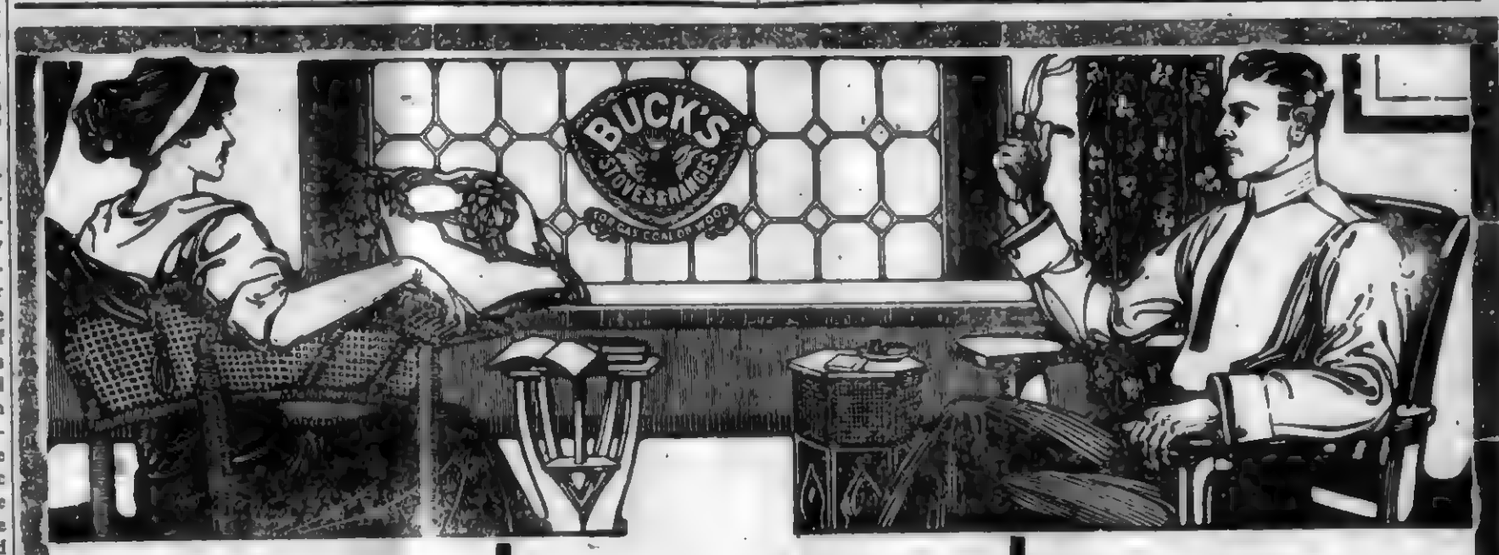
For example, the public school system is a collective institution. So far as the educational forces are concerned, they do not operate upon the capitalistic principle. They are practically free, in many cases the books and equipment are supplied free and in some cases even necessary medical treatment, food and clothing. Here, then, the capitalist system has departed from its fundamental system of profit making. To this extent the principle of collectivism has been introduced. The same may be said in regard to postal system. Here again, not only in America, but in practically every country, the principle of public ownership and operation has been introduced. Furthermore, the principle of profit making has been abandoned and the principle of service at cost substituted. The same principle has been applied with regard to innumerable matters, such as libraries, museums, parks, public roads and the like.

Municipal Ownership.

But perhaps the most notable development of public ownership is in the sphere of municipal government. In Great Britain 282 cities own and operate their own gas plants; 334 cities own their own lighting plants; 38 own their own street car systems; 51 cities have built and operated slaughter houses. The development of municipal ownership has gone even further in Germany and is almost equally advanced in other European countries. Even in America municipal ownership of water works, gas plants and lighting plants has gained considerable headway and is growing. Thus, under capitalism and without intending to be Socialistic, the principle of public ownership develops.

But perhaps most striking of all is the capitalist development in the direction of government ownership. Fifty-nine out of sixty-four nations already publicly own and operate all or parts of their railway systems. Practically every nation, with the exception of the United States, owns its telegraph system. Other nations have inaugurated to some extent at least the government ownership in mines, forests, waterways and other natural resources and public utilities.

Thus the capitalistic system is developing within itself, and in spite of itself, the elements of the Socialist order. To be sure, these movements come not as a conscious effort to establish Socialism or to secure the results which the Socialists desire. In fact, they may be instituted and often are instituted by the capitalists in the hope of forestalling Socialism. Furthermore, the concentration of ownership in the hands of the city, the state or the nation may be used, and in some cases is used, for the very purpose of increasing their power of exploitation. Government ownership, if the government be in the hands of the capitalists, might become a most tyrannous form of organization.



The Socialist, therefore, seek not merely government or municipal ownership, but first of all and all the time the democratizing of government. They seek government ownership, to be sure, but what is just as important, they seek first of all the ownership of the government by the people.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

The National Organizers who have been on duty during the season just closing have uniformly made good records. All of them will retire from the field after election with the exception of E. J. Squier. He will remainn in Delaware for the present, for the purpose of attempting to form a state organization. Delaware is the only remaining unorganized state. It is difficult to meet the requirements for a state organization there on account of the diminutive size of the state. A state convention will be held November 10th at Wilmington.

J. E. Snyder will spend two weeks or so in the National Office finishing up the correspondence work in connection with the Southern organizing campaign.

State Secretary Jackson of Florida reports that nine locals with a total of eighty-six members were organized in that state during the month of September. Also that fifteen locals with a total of two hundred members were organized during October up to the 28th of the month.

"The New Review" is the title of a new thirty-two page Socialist weekly scheduled to make its appearance on January first, 1913. The office of publication is 150 Nassau St., New York City, and the subscription price $3.00 per year. Upwards of three dozen well-known names are given as a partion list of contributors. The editor is to be Herman Simpson, formerly editor of the New York Call. Alexander Fraser is president of the association. The following compose the Board of Directors: Jessie Ashley, L. B. Boudin, Bertha W. Howe, Nathaniel F. Jones, Joseph Michael, Moses Oppenheimer, Charles Edward Russell, Herman Simpson and J. G. Phelps Stokes. Copies of the Prospectus, which states the nature of the publication, can be secured from the above address.

State Secretary Williams of California reports sixteen locals and branches organized in that state during the month of September.

State Secretary Bostrom of Washington reports fourteen locals, organized in that state during the same month.

By a recent referendum, Louis Kopelin, 425 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., was elected as a member of the National Committee to represent the district.

State Secretary Thompson of North Dakota reports as follows:

"We beg to inform you that at a meeting of Local Schaller of Morton County, North Dakota, October 13th, Chas. P. Pehl was expelled from the party for violation of party principles."

The Proceedings of the National Convention of the Socialist Party, held at Indianapolis last May, will be ready for delivery in a few days. Paper binding; price 25c per copy.

Hitherto the Proceedings of previous conventions and congress have sold for 50c in paper binding. These prices have been cut in half. So the Proceedings of the National Convention of 1904 can now be purchased for 25c. Also the Proceedings of the National Convention of 1908. Likewise the Proceedings of the National Congress of 1910.

These four books may be had, single or assorted, at a discount of 25 per cent. from these prices on orders amounting to $5.00 or over.

The Proceedings of 1904 were also published in cloth binding. In that form they have hitherto been sold for $1.00. This price has been reduced to 50c.

The Proceedings of the International Socialist Congress of 1910, compiled by May Wood-Simons, Secretary of the United States delegation, have hitherto sold for 10c. This price is also cut in half and the booklet can now be had for 5c per copy; 25c per dozen, $2.00 per 100.

These reduced prices have been made in order to put these books into circulation, instead of letting them lie on the shelves of the National Office. When the supply begins to run short, the higher prices will doubtless be restored.

Address, National Office, Socialist Party, 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

The amount received at the National Office for dues during the month of October was $6,398.50. The average membership for the first ten months of 1912, as evidenced by the dues received, was 117,534.

INTER-COLLEGIATE SOCIETY.

The Press Committee of the New York Chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society is planning, as part of its work for the coming winter, to arouse its members to a more active interest in contributing to the Socialist Press. Many of the members are teachers, writers or students of special subjects, and we feel that whatever knowledge and literary ability they possess should be used in the service of our movement to a much greater extent than is now the case.

We intend to canvass the membership to find out which ones can and will write articles on Socialism and allied subjects, or on any topic of general interest suitable for a Socialist paper. Good fiction, if we can get it, would also be very desirable for Sunday issues.

It would systematize our work greatly if we knew what sort of contributions would be most acceptable to editors of Socialist publications. Will you kindly co-operate with us to the extent of answering the following questions:

1. Is there any subject or class of subjects you would especially like to see treated in your paper?
2. Do you prefer long or short articles (please state about how many words) or is this immaterial to you?
3. Do you run a Woman's Department?
4. When a subject is too large to be treated in one article would you like a series of short articles to appear at definite intervals?
5. Can you offer any suggestions to increase the efficiency of the Committee's work?

While we cannot promise to give you what you most want, we shall try to do so, and we will be more likely to succeed than if we were working in the dark.

Fraternally yours,
THE PRESS COMMITTEE.
Mrs. Clara G. Stillman, 36 E. 37th St. N. Y. City.

INTERNATIONAL NOTES.

Hungary.

Groups of persons are still being tried in connection with the police battle at the suffrage demonstration at Budapest, on May 23. Last week forty-three were tried, one being condemned to three years' penal servitude, and twenty-seven others to terms of imprisonment varying from one to eight months. The trial of the next group began on the 10th. Many members of this group are children, who are tried by a special court.

On October 4 the Social Democratic party held forty protest meetings in Budapest and the provinces against mobilization and the impending war.

Russia-Austria.

Another abominable case of violation of the right of asylum is reported by l'Humanite. Some time ago four Russian revolutionists were arrested in Austria at the request of the Russian government. Owing, however, to the intervention of the Socialists in the Austrian Reichsrath, and others, three of the prisoners were set at liberty, and only one was extradited. Mikhail Kouliak, also called Michalski or Piotre. He was accused of belonging to the anarchist communist group of Moscow, and taking part in three armed expropriations. Gouliak was extradicted under the conditions of his being judged only for the above crime (punishable by a maximum of fifteen years' penal servitude), and by an ordinary (non-military) court. These conditions have not been observed. He was condemned on October 31, 1911, to twenty years' penal servitude, and not satisfied with that the Russian government now asserts that his real name is not Gouliak, but Artinof, and that he has been "wanted" by the police since 1907 for three other crimes—a terrorist attack, armed resistance to his arrest, and escape from the prison of Alexandrovsk—and they now threaten to bring him before a military tribunal which can only pronounce a sentence of death. Artinof wrote immediately on hearing of this new procedure against him, to the Austrian Minister of Justice, asking if the Austrian government knew the circumstances, and whether it intended to consent to his being tried for his life. Roubanovitch, writing in l'Humanite, contends that if the Russian government claims to have made a mistake as to the identity of the prisoner its correct course of action according to intednational law would be to return Artinof to Austria, and then make a fresh application for his extradition on the newly discovered grounds. But Russian is not likely to do that. The question is: What will Austria do?

Italy.

The League of Young Socialists' organizations held its fourth Congress at Bologne last week, about 6,000 members being represented. A resolution was carried to the effect that in Socialism the bourgeois idea of the Fatherland as a community of the interests of the members of the nation is now overcome. Also that war arises from a conflict of interests which has nothing to do with the patriotic ideology with which it is often cloaked. The resolution expresses the determination to fight against war and militarism by encouraging the sentiment of international friendship and solidarity on the part of the proletariat of the various nations. Finally, it demands that knowledge on international subjects should be extended, so that the proletariat should understand the aspiration of all nations toward liberation from the political and economic yoke. A message of sympathy was sent to the Turkish Socialists. It was decided to found the institution of "sou de soldat" at once. After the Congress the participants proceeded to Imola to lay a wreath on the grave of Andrea Costa.

MANY NEW PAPERS SHOW ADVANCE OF SOCIALISM

"Of the making of books there is no end," The same thing can be said of Socialist papers. New ones are springing up so fast that it is hard to keep track of them, and it will soon be a very backward community that does not boast a "Red" publication of some kind.

Justice, published weekly by the Socialists of East New York, Brooklyn, is a new addition to the Greater City's list of Socialist papers. Justice is a four-page sheet affiliated with the group of papers with headquarters at Ann Arbor, Mich. It contains a variety of excellent propaganda articles and news of the Socialist movement in Brownsville. Harry Uswald and William Harbers are the editors.

At Hancock, Mich., away up in the Upper Peninsula of the Wolverine State, where much of the iron, copper and lumber of the country is produced, the first issue of the Weekly Call has just appeared. The purpose of the Call, which is edited by Edward J. McGurty, is to give such news as the capitalist papers of the iron and copper country suppress. The Call also aims to give the news that the other papers color, minus the color. It's a safe bet that the workers of the Peninsula will learn much of interest from the Call concerning the ways of the mining and lumber corporations which run their part of Michigan.

Muscatine, Iowa, where buttons come from, has a new paper called the Muscatine County Socialist. Muscatine has been in the limelight in the past few years because of the strikes of its button workers. The Socialists have been in the thickest of the fights with the button bosses and at recent elections have elected members of the City Council and have thrown a bad scare into the old party politicians. They hope to sweep the county at the coming election and the Socialist is doing valiant work in showing how the button manufacturers and other capitalists are behind the old party candidates.

Even in the South, long the despair of the Socialists, new papers devoted to the emancipation of the working class are being started. The Louisiana Socialists are now getting out a weekly, the New Forum, published at Winnfield. The Forum has, of course, been devoting much space to the trial of the lumber workers at Lake Charles. Besides the longer articles, the Forum prints many paragraphs, short and to the point, which will doubtless teach the Southern workers a thing or two about the system under which they live.

The Huntington Herald, published at Huntington, Ark., is to be changed to a weekly and called the Southern Worker. The paper will be enlarged and its field extended to cover not only Arkansas but th entire South. In speaking of its new plan the Herald says: "We are going to issue a paper that no Southern worker will want to do without. Each and every issue will be full of convincing propaganda and organization articles, dealing with the economic and political problems peculiar to the South."

Besides Justice, Pittsburg Socialists now have another paper, the Pittsburg Socialist, published Saturdays by the Pittsburg Socialist Publishing Company. Apparently, it is the plan of the Socialist to lay more stress on the political organization of the workers than does Justice, and if it can resist the temptation to raise rows within the party, should prove of great value in converting to Socialism the wage slaves of the Smoky City, as it is a neat and well written paper.

Among other new publications received by The Call are the Ohio Valley Socialist, a weekly, published at Cincinnati in the interest of the workers of Cincinnati, Covington, Newport and vicinity; the Liberty Bell, a monthly in magazine form, edited and published by William G. Schell of Bellefontaine, Ohio; the World for the Workers of Denver, Colo.; Truth, an attractive weekly of Tacoma, Wash.; the Arizona Socialist Bulletin, published weekly at Phoenix, Ariz., and the New Mexico State Socialist, the first issue of which has just appeared at McDonald, N. Mex.

Everything is turning RED—A sign that nature is making a change, and that many men carrying red cards of the universal brotherhood will be elected to law-making positions.

ANTI-VICE CRUSADES AND SOCIAL REFORMERS.

By Barnet George Braverman.

What would you think of a dentist who claimed that the only way to extract a tooth would be by giving it one gentle yank every day for several weeks until it was out?

Such a person would be regarded as a fool by friends and a maniac by outsiders.

Now, social reformers are not considered to be maniacs, but they are. Every social reformer who continues to believe in the private ownership of social needs and who maintains that vice, gangs; boss-rule and economic exploitation can be abolished has the same mental attitude sociologically that this particular dentist has about teeth-pulling.

The social reformer believes that little yanks—little petty reforms—will banish the ills of society. Anti-vice crusaders, trust-busters, settlement workers, boss-rule opponents, and other species of reformers may be sincere but they are maniacs—socio-economic maniacs.

Look at the anti-vice crusaders. The dear things! As a rule the anti-vice crusade society is composed of a few well-meaning women, ministers and business men who do not pay their female employees living wages. Ask any member of an anti-vice crusade society to explain the cause of vice and every reason but the real one will be given. The usual remedy of anti-vice crusaders for the solution of vice is segregation; if segregation fails, try the jails; if jails are ineffectual, then deportation is suggested. But deportation only strengthens the evil in another city.

Police officials and level-headed social investigators are agreed that all these methods are futile. Raids are becoming rare, and secret prostitutes are no longer hampered.

Once the general belief prevailed that the problem of prostitution was an individual amtter. But during the last few years a new attitude has developed which declares that this is no longer an individual matter but a matter of social concern. This attitude is emphasized by the American Federation of Sex Hygiene exhibition in Washington, which imparts to us the fact that this country has 300,000 licensed prostitutes, 1,000,000 secret prostitutes, and the traffic costs the nation $3,000,0000,000 per annum. Rather disgusting facts for esthetic sensibilities. True, no one likes facts when they are disbusting. Yet these are not Socialist facts. They are figures given to the American public by scientists and physicians.

The socio-economic maniacs have tried to lessen the effect of this evil but they have not and will not attempt to destroy the cause.

The kind of womanhood a country needs cannot be secured by low wages, long hours, and the uncertainty of employment. These are the fruits of the existing industrial system, and the socio-economic maniacs insist that the present economic regime is necessary.

But getting money by prostitution, gang-fights, assassination and burglary is just as much the result of the present capitalist system as getting money by bankrupting competitors, Wall Street investments, marriage, or bribing senators and congressmmen. Get money—no matter how—whether by preying upon the helplessness of working girls, children or men and murder, theft, deceit, or self-defilement. This is the only way to receive the approbation of bourgeoisie society. The only people who receive the sneers and scoffs of the bourgeoisie are the victims. And the victims are wealth-producers.

It may be very well for the socio-economic maniacs of the bourgeoisie a la Perkins, Roosevelt and Dr. Parkhurst to talk about sanctity and purity. But as long as economic exploitation continues to gnaw at the vitals of the social organism, our hearts can overflow with yawping sentiment like artesian wells—and we'll still have the problem of prostitution. Capitalism is based upon profit. The traffic in women is carried on for profit, and the only way in which to stop this traffic is by banishing the profit system from the face of the earth.

THE TRIBUTE OF IMITATION.

The real strength of any social movement, its power to effect its ultimate purpose, lies not alone in its ability to make progress along the lines which the logic of its position has mapped out for it and which its own integrity demands that it follow. It is by the influence which it exerts upon contemporary movements and events, how it affects their policies, positions and tendencies, that its actual value to its cause is to be judged. It must have a dynamic force far and beyond the radius of its own immediate activities, shattering set prejudices, dispelling ignorance and indifference and breaking up hardened ground in preparation for the planting of the seeds of the new order which it seeks to germinate.

It is in this regard that the Socialist Party has had tribute paid to it this year as never before. Standing squarely on its own platform, uncompromisingly adhering to the policy upon which it has built up its remarkable party organization and made itself a political factor in the nation, it has seen the conventions, platforms and declarations of its opponents adapt themselves in greater or less degree to meet the political situation which the Socialist agitation had assisted in creating. More than that, it has seen a new party launched which for its program appropriated many of those principles advocated by the Socialist Party—though not its fundamental ones—and heretofore identified solely with its propaganda.

When it is remembered that for thirty years the Socialist Party has had to face obliquy, ridicule and public scorn in its work of agitation and education along lines now suddenly become popular, the victory thus achieved is one of no small dimensions. And the victory is due to that very policy of no compromising so frequently deplored and denounced by reformers who consider party Socialists too rigid and narrow. It was that policy that built up the Socialist Party, made it possible for it to be the third party in the nation in four national elections, elect a Congressman and many state officials, capture a number of municipal governments and in general impress upon the minds of politicianns, press and public that Socialism is a vital force in the life and thought of the American people.—William Mailly in the October Metropolitan.

AN OPEN LETTER TO COMRADES ON THE STRICKLAND-MIDNEY CONTROVERSY.

(Gertrude Breslau Fuller.)

Dear me! Dear me! What a decay of originality and dimming of genius in these latter days!

Where may we look for the sulphide factor in present day writing and speaking when our erstwhile brilliant and scintillating Comrade Midney turns bromide and, copying Roosevelt, begins to hurl about heedlessly such commonplace and overworked epithets as "liar," "malicious liar," etc., at Comrades who differ from him in matters of party tactics?

There has just recently come to my notice an article in the East Liverpool Free Press, addressed "An Open Letter to the Rev. Frederick Guy Strickland," and signed "Frank Midney."

No one knows better than I do that the irritations, aggravations, anxiety, overwork, poverty, abuse and general hard knocks endured by the Stricklands and Midneys in the struggle for Socialism during the last eight years have been enough to land any ordinary person in the padded cell in the violent ward, to make acrid the sweetest spirit or induce a bishop to resort to desperate and profane lan-

Driving mules and putting up stovepipe is pie compared to working in the Socialist party.

We are in a transitory stage, the old things are torn up, the new order not established. It reminds me of moving into a new place where the stoves are not up, the water turned off, the gas disconnected and chaos reigns, though better things are to come.

I suppose I may be prepared to receive the treatment proverbially accorded to the would-be peacemaker. I shall likely emerge with two black eyes and need a crutch, but as I know, honor and trust both these Comrades, I will take the risk.

I cannot at all go into the part of Midney's "letter relating to Ohio matters, but I happen to be far better informed regarding the labors of Fred and May Strickland in Indiana than Comrade Frank Midney, or any other person in Ohio, probably, as I worked continuously with them there for four years, and spent my rest time mostly in their home. I may throw in the word that I do not agree either with Fred Strickland or Frank Midney in matters of tactics, but I know both families equally well, and I am convinced that each is passionately sincere in the belief that he has the very best method of shoving along the Social Revolution.

Comrade Midney is mistaken when he says that while May Strickland was State Secretary of Indiana Fred held an office of any kind. He went when called for by locals and lectured, and his work was much in demand. When Reynolds was State Secretary Fred was organizer, but not while his wife was in.

Mrs. Strickland did great work as State Secretary, and had she permitted her name to stand I do not think there is a shadow of a doubt but that she would have been re-elected by an overwhelming majority.

She took the helm with a deficit in the treasury, and by her good generalship and hard work left over $400 in it, with which to push forward the organizing work, and Comrade Midney quoted from her annual report to Ohio Comrades to show Ohio just how a state office should be run.

Both the Stricklands and the Midneys have endured bitter poverty and much hardship with courage and fortitude in their devotion to the Socialist movement. The heaviest brunt of this fell upon the women, Camille Midney and May Strickland. I know both Frank and Fred did injustice to their families and reduced their own powers and life energy for our sakes.

Strickland has more flesh, more music and more money just now than Frank, and naturally isn't so hot-headed and peevish, probably due to his better digestion.

This talk of graft on the part of either is contemptible piffle and I lose patience. When I came to Ohio, some one said to me, "How does Midney get his living? How can he pay $25 a month rent, etc., etc.?" I answered, "He sub-lets three rooms and pays less rent than you do, Comrade, and he and his wife both work until they nearly drop; then when the day's work is done they go home and prepare their meal together. I know, because I've often shared it, and sometimes we borrow a $10 from each other when there's a temporary pinch for either of us."

Stricklands lived poorer than a section-hand's family until his father and mother died and left him a small inheritance, which will just about put the kiddies through school. I don't tell these things because I think they are any of your business; they are not. But you machinists, carpenters and the rest, getting your homes and looking out for the old age and rainy day—you make me sick, crucifying your workers with suspicions and sneers when they demand a mere living wage, such as you'd expect another worker to ask.

You don't understand, I know. My lecture work is so nearly over because of my wrecked throat that I fell much more free to talk out for the benefit of those still on the firing line and you as well. No human being, man or woman, can stand lecturing more than two-thirds of the time—for a short work life term, don't forget that—the lecturer can hold no other position in the interim. This cuts down the salary one-third the first clip. Then there is much expense; three times as many clothes as one requires when not traveling; my own satchel bill is $50 per year—thanks to the baggage fiend; my postage bill never under $5 per month; my cuts which locals lose without conscience, another $50 a year expense; and we must buy and read everything going to "keep posted."

We travel by day and lecture by night, putting in usually fourteen or sixteen hours a day, deprived of the joy and renewing of home and families and beloved things. I have had five severe attacks from formaldehyde poisoning from poor food in cheap and guady hotels that looked good to Comrades.

Jack McKeown, of Sharon, Pa., was able to stand working ten hours a day before a tin mill furnace, dripping at every pore, for years; but less than two years of lecturing broke him all to smash. Irregularity of sleeping hours, poor and haphazard meals, long hours, anxiety, criticism, dripping perspiration and exposure—the constant draining of body, mind and soul—these wreck the strongest.

I hope the boys do get $15 sometimes; they have earned it.

Let us not slay the soul of Socialism and degenerate our ideals of a free and gentle Brotherhood, and mark and scar ourselves and others in these discussions over tactics. Shake out your ideas, Comrades, and lop off these unworthy personalities. When we strike out we hit the person nearest but let us remember the splendor of our cause and that we are all crippled by capitalism.

GERTRUDE BRESLAU (HUNT) FULLER,
Box 505, Pittsburg.

The way some workers talk about the monetary system one would think that they were going to enter the banking business.

You, union men, who have quit scabbing on the industrial field, should take a tumble to yourselves and stop scabbing at the ballot box.

BODY BLOWS — UPPER CUTS AND JABS.

By W. W. Green.

Whatever else can be said about Socialism, it has got the punch.

If our interests are identical, why don't the capitalists vote the Socialist ticket

People are wanting to know the politics of Schrank. He is a "direct actionist."

The worst thing ever said against Socialism was said when the Bull Moose called Debs "brother."

The literature on Republicanism and the literature on Democracy would compare with the libraries on Socialism as a hornets' nest or a wasp's nest would compare with a hive of bees.

The red flag is a danger signal. We are flagging down the juggernaut of capitalism.

Do you believe as your forefathers did? They are cannibals.

Come out of the shell before you get boiled.

What is the goal of the capitalist? Capitalism is going up while Socialism is going forward.

Which is the real bull moose and which is the "nature fake," "My policies" or "The confession of faith?"

The issue of tariff against free trade is like the story of the two bakers. One baker figured out that by cutting a larger hole in the doughnut, he could save flour. The other baker argued that it took more dough to go around a big hole than to enclose a little hole. Thus they argued. They are still trying to convince their customers who ask, Why cut any hole out at all?"

The thought of a Hell is the real cause of so many people thinking of Heaven.

Some men are homeless and some others that have a home are home less than they should be.

Some workingmen must love hell, or why would they continue to vote for conditions that make hell.

Uncle John D. Rockefeller, that santly old skate of oil fame, says he is feeling as fine as a fiddle. And why should he not? Gasoline is going up, and oil is selling at the same high price.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY—THE ORGANIZATION AND ITS WORK.

(By John C. Kennedy.)

At the present time the Socialist party of the United States has about 140,000 dues paying members. This party is the only party which is organized on a dues paying membership basis. Both men and women are eligible to membership, providing they are ready to sever their connections with the capitalist political parties and to subscribe to the Socialist platform and principles.

The monthly dues of the Socialist party are 35 cents, part of this going to the local organization, part to the state organization and part to the national organization. In this way a fund is raised which is sufficient to carry on a large part of the compaign work of the Socialist party. Whenever additional funds are needed they are raised by popular subscriptions, ranging generally from 5 cents to $5 each.

This Socialist party is not dependent upon corporations and capitalists for its campaign funds. Therefore it is in a position to stand squarely for the interests of the working class.

In every city and town of any prominence of the United States there is now organized a local branch of the Socialist party. In some cities, such as Milwaukee, there are foreign speaking branches, so that inability to speak English need bar no one from active participation in the party's affairs. The members meet in the ward branches for the purpose of education and to conduct the affairs of the party.

The initiative and referendum are used exclusively in conducting the business of the party. In this way everything is kept in the hands of the rank and file of the membership. While there may be leaders, there are no bosses in the Socialist organization.

There are many Socialists who neglect to join the party, thinking that they have done their full duty when they vote for the Socialist ticket. But what sort of a party would we have if all the workers took this position? There would be no Socialist ticket to vote for, and there would be no Socialist campaign to arouse and educate the voters.

By organization, and organization alone, is it possible for us to make headway. Every Socialist should be a member of the organization and should take an active part in conducting its affairs. Every member has an equal voice with every other member and is always welcome at any of the branch meetings.

If you believe in the Socialist principles and are not yet a member of the party organization, the time for you to join is now. We are about to begin the greatest campaign in the history of the Socialist party, and we need as large a membership as possible in order to do the most effective work.

It makes no difference in what section of the country you live; there is a Socialist branch meeting somewhere in your neighborhood.

If you are ready to join your fellow worker in this great political campaign send a post card to the National Secretary, 111 North Market street, Chicago, Ill., asking when and where the branch meets which is near to your home. He will then send you an application blank and give you such information as you desire.

Write at once. Get in line for the greatest political campaign that has ever been waged by the working class in America.

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, seems to be a pretty decent sort of a man. The Jewish Daily Forward, which has the largest circulation of any foreign language paper in America, reports that when Mayor Gaynor was presented with extras that more headlines: "Socialists Assassinate Roosevelt," "Roosevelt Was Shot By a Comrade,' and similar lies, the Mayor exclaimed: "This is impossible. This is a falsehood. I may disagree with the Socialists, but everybody must admit that their teachings are noble ones, full of the highest ideals.'

Is Socialism invading the South? A special election was held for a member of the Legislature in Pinellas County, Fla., and the Socialist candidate was defeated by his Democratic opponent by only 46 votes. The Republicans put up no candidate, the Federal office-holders supporting the Bourbon. The Florida Socialists expected to make some important winnings this week. The fossilized and corrupt Democracy of the South will be smashed in only one way, and that is by the enlightened and justly wrathful working class organized under the banner of the Socialist party. The day is drawing near when there will be a political revolution down South.

IN THE MAW OF MAMMON.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Some idea can be acquired of the income upon investments controlled by the various trusts and combinations by digesting the following summary, gleaned from the financial columns of numerous publications. The Republic Iron and Steel Company, it is stated, is now earning at the rate of $9 a share on its preferred stock, and is booked for months ahead, and some of the largest stockholders favor the resumption of the 7 per cent. dividend rate on the preferred stock. November dividend and interest payments amount to $114,036,000, as compared with $100,198,000 in the corresponding month of last year. Particularly interesting is the fact that the increased dividends and interest of industrial corporations contribute $8,302,000 to the total gain, whereas the railroads contribute $5,270,000 to the gain over last year. Reports of railroad earnings for September are coming in. The Atchison for the month earned considerable over $10,000,000, crossing that mark for the first time, with October being an equally good month. The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad reports a gross increase for September of $707,154, or a little better than 10 per cent. The net gain was $224,581, also 10 per cent. over last year.

SECURE ADVANCE IN WAGES.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 3.—One thousand miners who have been on strike since last spring, have returned to work in three mines at Dorothy, W. Va. The men are to receive 33 per cent. above the price paid under the scale of the United Mine Workers of America.

RECENT RAILROAD WRECKS.

Washington, Nov. 3.—News of recent railroad wrecks, gathered from various sources continue to be the order of the day. A Baltimore and Ohio freight engine near Hagerstown, Md., plunged over a twenty-five foot embankment and killed a flagman, while the engineer and trainmen suffered severe injuries. The engine ran into an open switch at the speed of twenty-five miles an hour. Governor Osborn, of Michigan, was one of the thirteen passengers injured in a train and street car wreck in Chicago recently, and four of the injured are thought to be fatally hurt. The wreck occurred when a Big Four train crashed into the rear end of a Michigan Central train, while a second wreck occurred when a Pennsylvania train struck a street car. A negro porter was killed, and Thomas H. Hubbard, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad, and three of the train crew were injured when a special train, containing directors of that road, was wrecked at Fillmore, Ind., recently. Forty-nine passengers were injured when an excursion train on the Illinois Central was wrecked recently. A broken rail, resulting in derailing four coaches, was the cause of the accident. The Pennsylvania Railroad's Buffalo flyer crashed into a box car at Newbury, Pa., the engineer being instantly killed. A Norfolk and Western passenger train was derailed at Cooper, W. Va., by an obstruction on the track and the engineer killed. The postal clerks of the train were injured, though not seriously. The Chicago express on the Grand Trunk Railway collided with a special train bearing a regiment of infantry, resulting in killing twelve and injuring some thirty others, the accident occurring near Streetsville, Canada. Three trainmen were killed outright and two others fatally injured when a logging train of the Cherry River Boom and Lumber Company went over an embankment near Grandbury Mountain, twelve miles from Richwood, W. Va.

"TO HELL WITH THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT!"

According to Vorwaerts, of Milwaukee, the Rev. Father Phelan, of St. Louis, the editor of the Western Watchman, a Catholic organ published in that city, recently uttered the following remarks from the pulpit. Comment would seem to be unnecessary:

"The significance of Catholicism is that Catholics love the church more than anything else in the world, that Catholics of all countries love the church more than their governments, yes, love it more than their own nation, more than their own people, more than themselves. We of the Catholic Church are ready to die for the church. Next to God it is the highest object of our reverence. Say to us that we think more of the church and we will answer, 'Certainly we do!' Say to us that we are first Catholics and then Americans or Englishmen. It is true! Say to us that in a conflict between church and worldly government we would stand upon the side of the church, and we answer, 'Certainly we would so stand!' If the government of the United States were to declare war upon the church we would say, 'To hell with the United States Government!' And if the church were to come into conflict with all the governments of the world, we would say, 'To hell with all the governments of the world!'

"You say of us, 'You are first Catholics and Americans only afterwards.' There can be no doubt of that. We are first and before everything else Catholics, and love the church more than anything else, and more than all governments of the world. Let the governments of the world set themselves clear upon the Catholic Church! Let the Kaisers, let the Kings, let the Presidents not come into conflict with the head of the Catholic Church! For the Catholic Church signifies everything for all the Catholics of the world. They renounce all nationality when their fiedlity to the church is in question. Let there be no misunderstanding on the subject. Catholics are Catholics first, foremost, and all the time. They are Americans, Germans, French, English, but only secondarily.'

"TO HELL WITH THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT!"

According to Vorwaerts, of Milwaukee, the Rev. Father Phelan, of St. Louis, the editor of the Western Watchman, a Catholic organ published in that city, recently uttered the following remarks from the pulpit. Comment would seem to be unnecessary:

"The significance of Catholicism is that Catholics love the church more than anything else in the world, that Catholics of all countries love the church more than their governments, yes, love it more than their own nation, more than their own people, more than themselves. We of the Catholic Church are ready to die for the church. Next to God it is the highest object of our reverence. Say to us that we think more of the church and we will answer, 'Certainly we do!' Say to us that we are first Catholics and then Americans or Englishmen. It is true! Say to us that in a conflict between church and worldly government we would stand upon the side of the church, and we answer, 'Certainly we would so stand!' If the government of the United States were to declare war upon the church we would say, 'To hell with the United States Government!' And if the church were to come into conflict with all the governments of the world, we would say, 'To hell with all the governments of the world!'

"You say of us, 'You are first Catholics and Americans only afterwards.' There can be no doubt of that. We are first and before everything else Catholics, and love the church more than anything else, and more than all governments of the world. Let the governments of the world set themselves clear upon the Catholic Church! Let the Kaisers, let the Kings, let the Presidents not come into conflict with the head of the Catholic Church! For the Catholic Church signifies everything for all the Catholics of the world. They renounce all nationality when their fiedlity to the church is in question. Let there be no misunderstanding on the subject. Catholics are Catholics first, foremost, and all the time. They are Americans, Germans, French, English, but only secondarily.'

CITY EMPLOYES WEEP BITTER TEARS WHEN THEY ARE "CANNED"

Karb Fires Poor Dupes Four Days After Election Another Example of Democratic Prosperity in City.

It is a joke. A huge, ghastly joke, and were not the effects so dastardly and appalling the situation would be amusing indeed.

"Thirty-five men discharged by city and fifty horses sent to winter's rest."

This was the gratifying news brought to our attention through the medium of the capitalist newspapers, November 9, four days after the election. The same mediums inform us that "many of the men wept bitterly when told that they were no longer needed."

The wages they had received while working was merely enough to keep body and soul together and now that they are on the verge of winter, with families to support, they certainly present a pitiable object to themselves and old party voters who vote her straight for the capitalist politicians and the continuation of the capitalist system at every opportunity.

It will be noted that the appropriation to keep these men on the job did not become exhausted until after election. Why? Because the Jim Ross, George Karb gang of boodlers, who are looting the City Hall, needed their votes to help put Mr. Brumbaugh, the "gang's tool," in congress.

The amusing side of this spectacle is that the horses were sent out to the city farm for the winter's rest. The horses are not worrying in the least, as they will all be well fed and well sheltered and will all return to work next spring in fine condition.

How the poor Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose discharged wage-slaves must envy the horses! How much happier would be their lot if they were the chattel slaves of the Master Class, for in that case they would at least receive as much consideration as horses. But they are Free Men. The wage-slaves of this country talk manfully of our country, our homes and institutions, and our government, when in truth they have no home, no country, no institutions, but the poor-house, and no say whatever in the government. They are afraid to vote for Socialism for fear they might lose their vote, or, that it will break up their home (that they never had), or they might be compelled to divide up, when in truth the only thing they have to divide up is some bad debts.

They would much rather vote for the miserable squalor in which they live, thereby contaminating the air so that one must hold their very nose when coming in close proximity to the neighborhood in which they live, than to vote for Socialism and institute a sane system of government that would give to each and every man and woman an equal opportunity to work and enjoy the full products of their own labor.

Whenever they arouse themselves and learn that they must take over the government and wield it to their own purpose by socializing all of the tools that are used to produce and distribute food, clothing and shelter, we will then find that such conditions where the lives of horses are placed above the lives of men and their families will be no more.

The Socialist party is the only party that stands for a fundamental change in the system of government.

By throwing out Mr. Taft and putting in Mr. Wilson the working class has simply jumped from the frying pan into the fire. Mr. Wilson can do and will do nothing for you as he believes that the capitalist system that places the lives of animals above the lives of the little children of the working class is God-sent and just. Your case is hopeless unless you learn to think and send your own class to office to legislate in your interest.

SOCIAL DANCE AND CARD PARTY.

The Campaign Committee (selected by the City Central Committee) has decided as "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" that, under their charge, a series of dances be given, the profits of which will be used for literature in our present (Municipal) campaign, which is now on.

This committee reported its action to local Columbus in mass convention last Sunday, and received its hearty endorsement; and they urged that every member get behind the proposition and give their best efforts to push it to success.

The committee is compiling a list of names to whom tickets will be mailed to sell, and it is requested that all who want to help put some money in our treasury in this way send their names and addresses to the organizer, at No. 108 1-2 South High street.

Beginning November 21, the dances will be given every Thursday night at Varian Hall, No. 7 East Town street.

The admission fee will be 35 cents per couple, and who do not dance can enjoy the beautiful strains of music furnished by the "Randall Orchestra" or participate in a game of progressive euchre.

Everybody come and bring your friends, and let's get acquainted.

We don't know yet what our actual vote is. But it is tremendous. What are we going to do with it?

First of all, build up the local.

Then distribute literature. You can purchase it at almost any party headquarters. "Right reading," to paraphrase Bacon's remark, "maketh the full party." There is plenty of literature now available, and in the columns of The Socialist this literature, already in print, will be discussed as well as the newer books. But read, and get others to read. The big times are coming.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

(By W. S. Morgan.)

Whoop-ee!
See me!
I've just driv up
With a new boss
And an old issue.
I'm the bold and Unterrified Democracy.
You can smell me
A thousand miles.
I'm it;
I am
And a whole
Dadgummed lot to boot
I'm seventeen kinds of
A Son-of-a-gun.
I own a mine of
Paramount issues and a
Grave yard full of Dead ones.
I haven't got
The consent of the governed"
To draw the salaries,
But I want it
And that's what
I'm in the ring for
When I speak
The American eagle sticks his head in a hole,
And the barkeeper
Gets a hustle on him.
My clarion voice reverberates
On the resonant rafters
Of the Universe
And the flag whirlers
Disfranchise the "niggers"
And deny the vote to women.
And other
"Undesirable citizens."
The A, B, C of politics
Is stuffing the ballot box,
Turning the hose on women,
And calling out the police
To club starving wage earners;
And the X, Y, Z
Is counting the votes
And electing the Man without a hoe
To some fat office.
I speak
And the voter
Curls up on the floor
And votes 'er straight.
Wall Street has me
In its vest pocket,
It took me in
Out of the rain
When it nominated
Woodrow Wilson;
I've got my hand
In the public crib;
And now
I'll keep it there or
Bust my breechin
A tryin'.
Perhaps I" start
Another panic,
And issue some More bonds
To pay deficits,
For there'll be deficits
If I get my hand
In the public crib.
Whoop-ee!
Hurrah for me!
I'll eat, drink
And be merry
For the next four years
For, in 1916
The Socialists
May scoop me.

ELECTION RETURNS COMPILED FROM LATEST NEWS

The following table of the vote cast for Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for President, is by no means to be taken as an accurate count, but may be regarded with a fair degree of confidence as a fair estimate. The figures have been taken from as many reliable sources as are available at the present time, in many cases the actual count of the State vote being already at hand. In the estimates in the larger States the lowest figures have been used. While some figures are probably overstated, the belief is prevalent that the million mark will be reached when the official count is made.

The vote given in 1910 was for the Gubernatorial and Congressional candidates.

SOCIALIST COUNCILMAN ZIMPFER TELLS ABOUT PARSONS AVE. VIADUCT

Statement of Facts in Regard to Much Discussed Issue of Interest to South Siders Given by One Who Knows.

I want to state my position on the subway versus the viaduct plan for the grade elimination on South Parsons avenue, at the T. & O. C. R. R. About five years ago (1907) the city engineers and engineers of the T. & O. C. R. R. went over this locality and decided that the logical improvement should be a subway on Parsons avenue and viaduct on South High street. Then blue prints were prepared and duly signed by the officials of both the city and the T. & O. C. R. R. In the year 1908 that plan was submitted to the people of the city for a popular vote, and those plans with others were almost unanimously adopted by a vote of the people. All went well until about eight or ten months ago, when the Columbus Iron & Steel Company, whose property lies along the T. & O. C. R. R. to the south, wanted to enlarge their plant and not being able to purchase to the south or west of their plant they purchased to the east, which is across Parsons avenue from their plant. Now I will admit switching cars across Parsons avenue will be more difficult with subway than with a vidaduct and if that company were the only one concerned I would gladly give them or favor what they want. But this company and the Buckeye Steel Castings Company are the only one favoring a viaduct, all other firms and property owners abutting on this proposed improvement are in favor of a subway and opposed to a viaduct. Mr. Maetzel, the city's chief engineer, and his assistant, Mr. Simpson, both say the subway plan would be best, but that we have no sewer to drain the subway, which would be filled with water in case of a storm, but in the same breath admit that a southeast storm sewer is very necessary and must be built inside of a year or two regardless of whether we have a viaduct or subway, primarily to take care of the large volume of water accumulating in that section, but most important as a health measure, as Kian Run, which the sewer would displace, is a disgrace to the city, especially to the south end of it. Every time it rains the people in that section have to block their sewers in their cellars; if they fail to do so, the sewage backs up into their cellars and spoils everything in it. So you see the subway is not the only reason we need a sewer.

The O. C. Railway Company complains of the grade because the viaduct on South High and a subway on Parsons avenue are near each other and the grade would be heavy, but by the engineers measurements from High to Parsons it is 3,000 feet and from Rich street subway to the Mound street viaduct is only 600 feet and the railway company overcomes that obstacle very easily, but in the South End anything has been good enough. But I will oppose a viaduct as long as I am councilman, as I think it is an imposition to have an unsightly viaduct on Parsons avenue, which will put two blocks of our best part of the South End out of commission. Although the railway company says it will pay all damages it is very slow in settling and I fear the small property owners on Parsons avenue will not get proper compensation for damages to their property. There are a few persons who own no property who are opposed to a subway and my only conclusions are that some one is paying them for their unusual efforts.

There are also a few persons who own property just north of where the viaduct is supposed to go who oppose the subway but for selfish purposes as they wish to destroy two blocks of the best business section of the South End and put all those merchants out of business and get the business for themselves or sell their property at a very much advanced price. I have no patience with such selfishness and cannot consider such opposition to a subway. Every property owner in the viaduct district has signed a remonstrance against a viaduct. In Cleveland and Chicago, where civic pride is very much greater than in Columbus, a viaduct has not been tolerated for years, every grade crossing is a subway. A subway is much cheaper, damage to property is less and the maintainance is almost nothing or about the same as any other street for paving and sidewalks. Council just appropriated $250,000 to rebuild the North Fourth street viaduct, which has been condemned a long time. Such an expense will never be possible with a subway, and I think it is a very important item of expense. Look at the West Mound street viaduct, it looks like Pike's Peak; no one with a heavy load can get over it and it takes a very good automobile on low speed to get over it, and it has destroyed a lot of valuable property, which will never be rebuilt and will always be an eyesore to the city. The railway company says a seven-tenths of one per cent grade, which would prevail, is rather steep, but I was speaking to a railway civil engineer who says he is constructing a railroad in eastern Ohio and Pennsylvania with a three per cent grade, about four times as steep as the one which would prevail on High street and Parsons avenue. Any one can see there is no impossible grade there. Mr. Frantz, of the Columbus Iron and Steel Company, told me if it had not been for his company owning the land on the other side of Parsons avenue opposite their plant he would much prefer a subway. I wish to state I have no interest in any land or property in that vicinity and if any benefit would befall me it would be by a viaduct, but I do not look at such an important matter with such a low ppurpose. I am representing the First ward and the city in general and cannot let selfish motives of either firms, corporations or individuals sway me from my public duty for the best interests of the city.

Yours respectfully,
FRED P. ZIMPFER.

WAYLAND OF "APPEAL TO REASON" ENDS LIFE

Driven to Suicide after Long Suffering from Cancer — Survived by Five Children After Devotion of Life to Working Class.

Girard, Kan., Nov. 11.—After suffering for several years from a cancer, J. A. Wayland, the "one hoss" editor, founder and proprietor of the Appeal to Reason, the fighting Socialist weekly which is published here and which has for the fifteen years of its existence been a thorn in the side of American capitalism, committed suicide in his home here last night.

Muffled in his bed clothes, with a bullet in his mouth, Wayland was found by his housekeeper after midnight. He died shortly afterward, without regaining consciousness.

Another factor which is believed to have prompted Waylands act is the fact that his wife, to whom he was very much attached, was killed in an automobile accident about a year ago. Since that time Wayland has never been himself, suffering from spells of accentuated despondency. Wayland is survived by two sons and three daughters.

That the suit against the Appeal to Reason, in which there was to be a hearing in the Federal Court before Judge Pollock today, had anything to do with the death of Wayland is strenuously repudiated here. It is a well known fact that the Appeal welcomed the suits against it by the government, as these suits always redounded to the positive benefit of the Appeal, increasing its phenomenal circulation and extending its power and sphere of influence.

The daily papers of Columbus, with apparent malicious intent, failed to state the facts in the case of Comrade Wayland's untimely death. They sought to make it appear that the dread of his approaching trial in the Federal Court caused him to take his own life. The capitalistic press will stoop to most anything.

Julius A. Wayland was a pioneer in the cause of Socialism and through the Appeal to Reason did valiant service in educating public sentiment. His loss will be keenly felt by the party of which he has been such an active member.

WHY?

Why do men starve in a land of plenty? Because they don't know how to vote.

Why do men go ragged when the land is groaning with good clothing? Because they don't how to vote.

Why do nine men out of ten pay rent for houses? Because they don't know how to vote.

Why do men willing to work have to beg the privilege of those who do not work? Because they don't know how to vote.

Intelligent laws will create conditions that will enable every man, woman and child to live in what is called luxury today by the labor of the father or brother. But ignorant voters can never make intelligent laws nor know who can.

SAID A YOUTHFUL SON TO HIS PA.

"Say, Pa, were you ever a soldier?"

"Certainly, my son, I was a soldier in the Civil War."

"And was you right out on the battlefield, Pa?"

"Why, of course I was—right out where the bullets rained like hail, where the cannons belched forth their shell and canister, out where the dead piled up in the trenches and the blood of patriots colored the soil of the Southland a crimson hue." Pa shuddered as his mind carried him back into the scenes of the past, and for some time both Pa and Young America remained silent.

"Say, Pa," and Young America's voice was very low and earnest, "I have been reading a book about this war and it must have been something awful."

"Awful!—awful, my boy, is no name for it—it was terrible—it was horrible—it was heart rending; it was Hell! Though fifty years and more have passed between, I can still hear the shrieks of the dying, the groans of the wounded, the wild, insane laughter of men who lost their reason. I can still see the mangled bodies of my comrades, and feel the warm blood spattered in my face as I swing forward in the charge. And when the darkness comes and stops the fighting we drop in our tracks on the gory battlefield I can still hear the cursing and the sobbing of the dying and smell the awful stench of this field of carnage and slaughter." At these vivid recollections Pa bows his head and his form trembles with suppressed emotion. These incidents have evidently been indelibly impressed upon his mind with such force that the passing years have not in any ways lessened their awful reality. Young America is also deeply affected.

"But, Pa, why did you do it?"

"My boy, I did it to free the black man from the cruel bondage of slavery."

"Wasn't there any other purpose in the war, Pa?"

"There may have been for others, but for me, my son, this was the one thing that appealed to me and caused me to enlist and go to the front."

"Isn't it too bad, Pa, that after all the bitter fighting and after blood was spilled as water and untold wealth spent in this awful war that the result desired by you was not accomplished?"

"Result was not—accomplished? Result—was not accomplished? I—I don't understand what you mean, my boy," and Pa looks very puzzled, indeed.

"Why, Pa, I simply mean that slavery still exists."

"Slavery exists? Slavery exists? Why, boy, what are you talking about? The glorious flag of freedom now waves over a nation without a slave, a nation of sovereign citizens; each man free and independent."

"Say, Pa, I heard Banker Skinem get that off at the last Fourth of July celebration myself, and I don't like it nearly so well as some of the things you have said to me today, for you spoke to me from your own bitter experience and expressed the truth, and I am quite sure, from this book I have been reading, that Banker Skinem did not tell the truth."

"See here, boy, what do you mean?"

"I mean that simply to change the name of slavery does not change the FACT. The essence of slavery is exploitation; the master takes the surplus value that the slave creates, allowing him only such part of his own product as is necessary to keep him alive and in working condition so that he may continue to create surplus product; before the war the colored slave, in exchange for his labor, was given his food, clothing, shelter, and because of his value as a chattel, was also given expert medical attention when sick, and considerable leisure and chance for enjoyment, to keep him from getting sick. After the war the Master was freed, not the slave."

"See here, kid, what kind of fool talk is this you are giving me?" and Pa commences to wax warm under the collar.

"It isn't fool talk, Pa, it is economic facts. The master was freed from all responsibility for the care and keep of the slave, also from any financial interest in his health or any loss from his death. But the slave was in no ways made INDEPENDENT—he had no land, he owned no tools, he was immediately forced by economic necessity to CONTINUE WORKING FOR HIS OLD MASTER, or for some member of the Master Class, the class that owned the land and the tools. Under the new plan, instead of receiving direct his food, clothing, shelter and medical attention, he was paid a "wage," which was barely sufficient to buy these things—but his EXPLOITATION NEVER CEASED; only the method of its accomplishment was changed.—Lockwood's The Prophet and the Ass.

If you cut profits under capitalism the masters will invest in other countries and you will lost your jobs. If you own the industries you will both own your jobs and end profits completely.

A LETTER FROM A RED-LIGHT INMATE

Here is a most interesting letter. It comes from one of the unfortunate inmates of the Chicago red-light district. We publish it for the reason that it explains clearly why women become inmates of resorts. The letter follows:

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8, 1912.

Editor Chicago World.

Dear Sir:—I would like to know what your opinion is of a red-light district. I am a daily reader of the World and never give the newsie less than a dime.

Inmates of resorts are not all bad. I dare say 80 per cent. of inmates are forced into the underworld because of poverty. I, myself am one, and I have many a pal.

My husband was killed four years ago and left me penniless with a baby to care for, and I must also support a dear old mother. My average expense amounts to $20 a week. I am willing to work but I could not possibly earn more than $8 or $10 per week anywhere else.

I have been able to save a little and I pray to God every night that I may some day have a little business of my own—before my little girl grows up—so that she may never know what her mother was forced to do.

I do hope that State's Attorney Wayman will give us a place to go. Saturday night I was driven from the resort with many others. We don't want to go into the residence section but we must go somewhere. We can't sleep in the streets.

It is very kind of the charitable institutions to offer us homes, but can they supply our needs? It is easy to say "the Lord will take care of you," but that does not bring you the necessities of life. Neither do vice parades help girls who are willing to be decent if given a chance.

One can count the good people of this city on their fingers. I know ministers of the gospel who patronize the resorts the same as other men.

If a red-light district was run under a strict police regulation it is a necessary evil a city like Chicago should have.

Yours truly,

DOROTHY DOE.

P. S—I forgot to mention the red-light district has donated more money to the church mission of this city than any dozen sections its size.

Firts of all we agree with the writer that inmates of resorts are not all bad—in fact, that question does not enter into this discussion at all.

The one big, overshadowing fact is that 80 per cent. of inmates are forced to earn a living in the underworld because they are unable to secure work at living wages. It is not a question of the goodness or the badness of women.

IT IS A QUESTION OF BREAD.

What these girls need and want is not charity and prayer, but a chance to earn a decent living. If they had that opportunity mighty few of them would inhabit resorts.

No one will say that a woman who is willing to sacrifice herself for the future of her little girl, and who supports her old mother is a bad woman.

All women are inherently good, but material wants force many of them to accept "the easiest way."

We agree with the writer that all the vice parades and all the rosy promises made these women by misguided reformers do not aid them in earning a living. These reformers mean well, but they are utterly ignorant of economic facts and do not understand that the lives of all men and all women are shaped by economic wants and the ability to supply them.

We do not believe in segregated vice. We do not believe that there should be a restricted district in any city, for the reason that such a section blazes forth an invitation to young men to come there and debauch their manhood. Then, again, too many unscrupulous policemen and detectives amass a fortune by forcing the keepers and inmates of the restricted district to pay them "protection money."

Such a district not only debauches young men, but it lowers the ideals of all those who enter there.

However, not much of a change in the situation isexpected.

Our well-meaning reformers will continue to carry on vice parades once every two years, they will get lots of newspaper publicity, and they will try to make you think that they are really going to do something—but that is all it will amount to.

They won't accomplish anything, because they don't know how to tackle the problem.

Not until capitalism is abolished and men and women are economically free will there be any change.

So long as we maintain a system of slavery—wage slavery for men and white slavery for women—just so long will we have young men and young women meet each other on a cash basis in the red-light district.—Chicago Evening World.

The International Harvester company is out with a little pamphlet telling why the Harvester trust was organized. They tell of how the orginical competing companies in their "selling methods" had "degenerated into a bitter, ruthless, wasteful warfare" and that it was seen that if something was not done "ruin faced the majority of the companies." It says that the "organization of one large company was the only solution." This is what the Socialists have said all the time. However, the Socialists believe in the social ownership of the "one big company" for the profit of all the people and you farmers know for whose profit the Harvester trust is run.

They have a wonderful organizaton. According to their statement they own their own timber lands and coal lands and produce most of their own steel. In fact, they are practically independent of all outside organizations. They have developed efficiency in production to the higher point and have almost altogether eliminated hand albor. This is a good thing but under the present system it is a good thing only for those that own the Harvester trust. The Socialists propose to make it a good thing for those that make the harvesters and those that use them.

"NOT GUILTY."

Declares Jury in Timber Workers' Trial, Thus Releasing 53 Unionists From Custody.

Lake Charles, La.—Securing a verdict of not guilty within an hour after the jury was given the case of President A. L. Emerson and eight other members of the Brotherhood of Timber Workers, charged with "conspiracy to murder," as a result of an attack made by drunken gunmen in the employ of the Timber Trust on a meeting of the organization at Grabow on July 7, the union timbermen won a victory that will be felt in the lumber industry throughout South Louisiana and very probably through the entire South.

The attack was made on the timbermen to stop the organizing of the workers throughout the Southern lumber camps.

The immediate effect was the dismissal of all three of the murder charges growing out of the clash at Grabow and the release from custody of 53 of the 58 men held on the indictments.

Seven timber workers are still in jail on a robbery charge brought by Deputy Sheriff Will Graham and Jim Whitton, who claim to have been held up by a crowd of union men following the disturbance.

The jury retired from the court room to consider the case at 3:36 p. m. At exactly 4:26 the foreman rapper on the door and asked the deputy sheriff in charge to inform the court that a verdict had been reached.

After a brief delay, to assemble the attorneys, the jury was brought in and the verdict announced.

A demonstration and general felicitation among friends of the defendants in the court room followed.

WILL ADOPT UNION SCALE.

Pittsburg, Pa. — Contractors performing work for the city will be required to pay the current scale of wages of organized labor and conform to the hours worked by union men. That is, the finance committee of the city council has recommended that such an ordinance be passed, the opposition to it being only one member of the committee. The bill regulates all city contracts, stipulating therein that competent and first class workmen must be employed by contractors, fixing the hours of labor and wages to be paid at the current scale, requiring proof of compliance with the ordinance by an affidavit filed with the controller and authorizing deductions to be made from the contract price for failure to comply with these conditions. While it is contended in some quarters that this legislation will be declared unconstitutional, yet it has been brought out that in other cities similar conditions have been imposed upon city contractors and have been productive of splendid results, both to the workmen themselves and to the city adopting such measures.

NEW UNION SHIRT FACTORY.

Cincinnati, O.—President Thomas Rickett, of the United Garment Workers, in conjunction with a local committee, recently secured an agreement with the Victor Shirt Company, of this city, which grants the use of the union label of that organization to the company. The employes in the factory recently formed a local union with a substantial membership, and with the agreement just noted there will be material addition to the product of union label goods in this city.

JOB PRINTERS GET RAISE.

Toledo, O.—The job printers in this city have just signed a five-year agreement with the employing printers which grants a raise in wages, the increase being from $18 to $19.50 for the first year and a half, and the following two and one-half years $20, and the last year of the life of the agreement the scale is advanced to $20.50. The amicable adjustment of the scale just mentioned, with a substantial increase in wages, concludes a series of wage increases secured within the past few months by all the printing trades in this city without any friction.

EXCELLENT REPORT.

Boston, Mass.—The October report of Secretary John F. Murphy, of the New England Typographical Union, shows conditions in the printing business to be good. Having charge of the employment bureau established two years ago, Mr. Murphy reports that 48 unions in September represented a total membership of 3614, of whom 2155 are regularly employed, 900 employed occasionally, and 53 unemployed, with 66 on the pension roll. There were 51 less unemployed in October than the previous month. The report also states that the Lynn (Mass.) Union secured $1 a week increase in the wage scale, and that at New Bedford, Conn., an increase of $2 per week has been secured.

MAILERS REACH SETTLEMENT.

Kansas City, Mo.—The mailing department of the Kansas City Star has for a number of years been run as an "open shop," despite the efforts of the local union to secure recognition by the publishers. Recently President Lynch, of the International Typographical Union, together with local officials, met in conference with the management of the company and secured an adjustment of the difficulty, which is stated to be satisfactory to both the mailers and the company.

BROTHERHOOD OF CARPENTERS.

Indianapolis, Ind.—General Secretary Frank Duffy, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners reports that the following unions were organized during the month of October: Oregon City, Ore.; Arma, Kans.; Charleston, S. C.; Truro, N. S., Can.; Detroit, Mich.; Raleigh, N. C.; Boston, Mass., and Arcandi, Fla.

VICE PRESIDENT-ELECT SOUNDS WARNING NOTE

The Little Word "If" Looms Up Big in His Statement.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Governor Marshall, assured of his election to the vice presidency, said:

"The Democratic victory will result in a restoration of representative government in America if Democratic officials, both state and National, shall constantly remember that executive duty consists in the enforcement of law and in the insistence upon legislative compliance with Democratic platforms and principles; if legislative representatives will remember that they are to represent the people and not any interests whatever and will be zealous to formulate into legislation the principles either enunciated in the Democratic platforms or growing out of the basic principles of Jeffersonian Democracy; and if judicial representatives will give us the perfection of reason in the light of today and not in the light of two centuries ago, and shall be content to construe and not to make statutory law.

"The principles of democracy, finding their expression in representative government, are now on trial. This is the last chance that will be given the office holder to prove himself the servant, and not the master, of the people, unless he really serves. Failing to guarantee honest individual opportunity to every man, unhindered and unhelped by law, the people will pronounce representative government a failure and will seek expression of democratic doctrine under some other system."

SOCIALISM OVER THE SEAS.

In France the Socialists polled over a million votes, and elected 75 instead of 54 to the Chamber of Deputies—a gain of 21.

In Little Denmark our vote is 76,018, and 28 out of 114 members of the lower house.

In Italy we had 325,965 votes and 40 delegates to the House of Deputies.

In Norway our vote has increased from 7,018 in 1900 to 90,986 in 1909, and since then has been largely augmented. The party owns eight dailies.

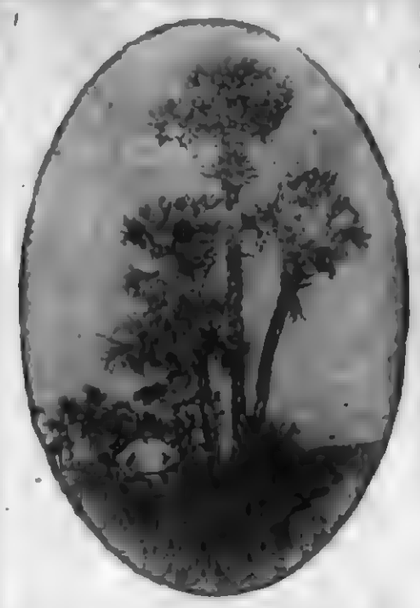
In Belgium our vote was 359,890 and 28 delegates were elected.

In Austria we have over one million votes and 84 members of the Reichstag.

In Sweden our vote increased from 55,000 in 1908 to 117,000 in 1911, with 64 members in the lower chamber.

In Finland 83 of the 200 members of the lower house are Socialists.

In Switzerland we polled 100,000 votes and have the municipal council at Berne.



In Spain, Portugal, Australia, and New Zealand our movement is rapidly gaining ground.

Dr. Yet-Sen, the leader of the Chinese revlution, which overthrew the Manchu dynasty, is a Socialist.

Cotton's Weekly tells the following story: A wage slave was employed in Brockville to make hammer heads. The hammers sold for $1 each. He got 8 cents a dozen for making the heads. To make his $3 per day he had to turn out thirty-seven and a half dozen. One morning he laid off, and in the afternoon, by working on the jump, he turned out twenty-five dozen. The boss came round, looked at the output, scratched his head, and said: "I guess you will get 5 cents hereafter."

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

MILLION SOCIALISTS—DEBS.

(By Eugene V. Debs.)

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—The returns at this time indicate that the Socialist party has at least doubled its national vote. We have every reason to congratulate ourselves upon the result.

There are now certainly a million clear-cut and uncompromising Socialist votes in the United States, and from now on the progress of the Socialist party will be rapid until it succeeds to power.

The Republican party is dead; the Progressive party will disintegrate, and what there is really progressive in it will find its way into the Socialist party.

The Democratic party comes in on a big landslide, but it will go out on a good deal bigger one. All the Democratic party needs to demonstrate its utter impotence and incapacity to deal with the present situation is power, and this it will have after March 4, and then it will split wide open and go to pieces upon the same rock that wrecked the Republican party.

No party can longer represent both the exploiting and exploited classes; it must be wholly one or the other.

The Republican and Democratic parties are of the past. The Socialist party is the coming party and is indeed already here.

The outlook could not be more promising for our cause. The results of yesterday's election are in the highest degree satisfactory and a distinct victory has been achieved.

The battle just closed is but the prelude to the greater one which now begins, and we must now as never before combine all our energies and activities in building up the party and developing its power for the great struggle which can end only in victory.

Hearty congratulations to all the Comrades upon the inspiring outlook. It is entirely possible that in four years more the Socialist party may sweep the nation.

FORWARD TO VICTORY.

(By Emil Seidel.)

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—It is yet too early to form definite conclusion as to the outcome of the election.

The people wanted a change. As they have got it, Wilson will be our next President, but it is a change in name only.

Big business will grow as before. It will have its pound of flesh and Mr. Wilson and his party will see to it that its rights are not impaired.

The standard of living of the working class will continue to go down and Mr. Wilson and his party will not be able to check it.

Organized labor will find that in strikes, lockouts, blacklisting and boycotting the Democrats will use the power of government to aid the masters just as the Republicans did.

Our duty as Socialists is clear. We must teach the working class the futility of correcting the present evil with a progressive beauty plaster. We must teach and train them in economics, solidarity and the class struggle.

Our movement is growing and no fusions nor combinations can prevent its final victory. More and harder work, patience with the workers and perseverance will finally win.

Forward and onward to victory.

JOIN YOUR PARTY.

The results of the election shows more than 5,000 Socialists in Columbus.

This is several times the size of the membership of our organization and it is those who do not belong to wrom we address these words.

Many of you are well-versed in the philosophy of Socialism and are interested in the movement and want to see it grow.

We know of parties so interested putting money into literature and distributing it in territory to be covered or probably already covered by some member of our organization.

Not only do they spend their money but also their time in its distribution.

Others put money in a few books which they hand to their friends.

This is all an unnecessary waste of time and money and proves that you should be a member of your party organization.

As a member your contributions to the literature fund goes many times farther than by your individualistic plan.

As a member your work of distributing literature with our system (as crude as it is) will go much farther than by your plan.

Your enrollment in the organization means a new member, it means growth, it encourages others to come in, it induces the membership to undertakes greater things and all this reacts upon you and spurs you on to greater work, too.

Yes, Comrade, you belong with us.

You should enroll at once.

In another column on this page is a directory of the various branch meeting places, where you can secure an application card for membership and be warmly welcomed.

Attend to it at once!

STATE VOTE.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Columbus, O., Nov. 12, 1912.

Inasmuch as our dear Comrade J. A. Wayland, of the Appeal to Reason, passed from life at Girard, Kan., Saturday, November 9th, after a brave struggle with an insidious disease, and years of manly, able and faithful service for the institution of the co-operative commonwealth; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Ward branches of the Socialist Local Columbus that we deeply deplore his untimely death, not only for the sake of his family and thousands of personal friends to whom he has endeared himself, but also the great loss which the Socialist movement has sustained. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Appeal to Reason and the Columbus Socialist.

Signed,

F. E. JOHNSTON,
A. MURPHY,
Committee.

COUNCIL FOR NEW MAYOR.

Canton Democrats Favor Socialist for City's Head.

Canton, Nov. 12.—A poll of Canton's Democratic Council today showed that that body will not block the entry of Harry Schilling, Socialist, into the Mayor's office Thursday morning. Schilling was recently declared Mayor of the city by order of the court. His bond will be submitted Wednesday night.

It is said that the refusal of Council to stand by Arthur E. Turnbull, who has been Mayor of the city for seven years, is the result of Turnbull leaving the Democratic party and joining the Progressives in the last campaign.

The change in the Mayor's office, it is said, will break up the so-called machine which has dominated Canton politics for the last decade.

SUPPRESSED EXCITEMENT SHOWN AMONG CITY COUNCILMEN.

Alleged Attempts to Bribe Are Told of By Reinhard—More to Follow.

There is sort of an air of suppressed excitement about the City Council these days, due no doubt to the intimations made of alleged attempts to bribe members. Councilman Reinhard has made some disclosures in regard to what appear to be efforts to influence his vote upon the Parsons Avenue grade crossing project. Others will no doubt talk when the investigation is taken up in earnest instead of being a farce as it was last Friday night before the committee.

There are also allegations of attempts to bribe in connection with the "Billy" Sunday tabernacle resolution.

The fight of the people of Shepard, a part of the city, which was started by Comrade John A. Schumm, an East Side Socialist, a year ago, to compel justice from the C. N. A. & J. traction line, seems likely to get the people something. An ordinance introduced last Monday evening provides that by its terms the Columbus Railway and Light Company is "authorized and directed" to extend its Leonard Avenue line from the viaduct over the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Line tracks, where it stops now, to Sunbury Avenue at the Southwest corner of the grounds of St. Mary's of the Springs and south in Sunbury Avenue to Fifth Avenue.

The length of the extension would be about one and a half miles. The same service as is maintained now on the Leonard Avenue line is sought. The end of the proposed extension would be about three-quarters of a mile west of the Ralston Steel Car Company's plant, which has threatened to build a connection of its own with the Bexley line of the Railway and Light Company.

LOCAL COLUMBUS IN MASS CONVENTION.

Local Columbus Socialist party met in joint session last Sunday afternoon to transact business and did so. Comrade D. J. Farrell was nominated as Local Columbus' candidate for State Executive Committeeman.

The new Campaign Committee elected by the City Local Committee was approved, together with its plans as stated. The committee consists of D. J. Farrell, F. E. Johnston, W. E. Bues, L. B. Taylor and N. C. Gallentine. Their first entertainment will be given at Varian Hall next Thursday evening.

The report from the local Speakers' Informal Committee, providing for a school of instruction in economics for the benefit of speakers and others, was endorsed. The proposal of the National Lyceum Bureau was turned down.

GUS TEGENKAMP ENTERTAINS.

Comrade Gus TagenKamp entertained a dozen or more Socialists at his home on East Mithoff Street last Saturday evening. The local speakers who had taken part in the recent campaign were invited and all who could attend declare that Gus and his wife certainly know how to have people enjoy themselves.

A bountiful luncheon was served and everybody given a chance to make a speech and everybody did.

CROWD AT CAPITOL.

Those who make a business of estimating crowds say that fully 10,000 persons passed through the Capitol Clothing Company's store in North High Street, last Tuesday evening. As souvenirs there were given away 100 gallons of cider, 10 bushels of chestnuts and 25 bushels of pears. The Old Guard paraded in honor of the event and discoursed martial music.

CIVIC BETTERMENT.

The proposal of a number of North Side citizens to beautify the two river banks and build boulevards and construct parks along their courses is the very best scheme of civic betterment that has yet been devised.

It is not to be compared to the plan last year that was defeated at the polls.

This river scheme will make it possible for every citizen of Columbus to nestle in the very bosom of nature and in turn receive her benediction of health and joy.

It is proposed in this scheme to elevate the embankments by dredging the beds of the rivers, thus providing against overflow, and at the same expense construct a water-way for boating that will rival the boulevard for pastime and pleasure.

This is the only and best scheme in which the laboring class can receive the major part of its blessings.

Come to Rankin Hall, 22 West Gay Street, Wednesday evening, November 20th, 8:00 o'clock, and take part in the discussion of this worthy enterprise.

E. A. PALMER.

Socialism stands for the redemption of countless thousands of women from the filth, horrors and degradation of prostitution, and the restoration of their souls to themselves, and their usefulness to mankind.

Socialism demands the control of the job by the man that works it, by giving the ownership of the tools to the producers, the ownership of the land and natural resources thereof to the nation, and the ownership of nothing to the exploiter and idler.

Socialism demands that the crippling and butchery of hundreds of thousands annually for profit, be stopped for all time. That their limbs and lives be preserved for their own happiness and for the usefulness of society.

Some of you working mules want to learn to bray louder and learn to kick. You have a whole year to learn.

Judging from the returns of the late election the working mules did not kick hard enough at the ballot box.

If some of you workers happen to shiver with cold this winter, be contented; you voted for just such conditions.

Fifteen million babies die of poverty every years. And every one of you asses that voted the old party tickets are guilty of murder.

A good workingman in the eyes of the master class is one who is satisfied to starve by degrees and see his loved ones spend their allotted days on earth in want, sickness and cheerlessness.

BOOSTERS' COLUMN

It was glorious. It was grand and soul-inspiring to note the manner in which the working class of this United States marched to the ballot box and registered a vote for the overthrow of the capitalist system.

Nothing can stop us now. We have passed a number of mile stones on the road towards emancipation. In many localities the Republican, Democrat and Bull Moose all united to beat the Socialist candidates, showing conclusively that there is absolutely no difference between them.

The work now immediately before us is to push the circulation of this paper, as the vote in any locality practically follows the circulation of the Socialist paper. Every worker should now begin pushing subscriptions. Last week a subscription blank was enclosed in each copy of this paper. Go out and get it filled up. We are now eminently respectable, as the tremendous vote cast has got the people thinking.

Another fertile field to work is amongst those poor deluded Bull Moosers. They have been jarred loose from their old party superstitions and it is now our duty to show them that the only progressive party is the Socialist party, and we guarantee that we will deliver the goods, if you comrades on the firing line will roll in the subscriptions. We have every reason to feel highly elated and encouraged, as we all know that the capitalist system is doomed, and with the proper amount of hard work by each individual worker, WE WILL ALL LIVE TO SEE SOCIALISM IN OUR DAY. On with the good work. Every one send in at least one new subscription next week.

In making your purchases, comrades, don't fail to purchase from advertisers and use the red tickets. Now is the time to show these men who use our columns that we mean business and purchase only from those who advertise with us. Do this and in this manner help the cause.

The progessives in all the old parties are at the foot of the procession in the onward march to freedom.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Charles Staley, whose residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 8th day of October, 1912, Sarah O. Staley filed her petition in the Court of Common Pleas, Franklin County, Ohio, cause No. 64025, praying for divorce on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The said cause will be for hearing on and after November 23, 1912.

HIGH AND GAY STS.

LIEBERMAN'S

$100,000 Stock

Must Go Quick

Prices Placed on This Tremendous Stock of Good Clothes Are Far Less Than Actual Cost; Seeing is Believiag

Beginning Saturday morning at 9 a. m. sharp, the doors of the old Lieberman Clothing Store will be thrown open to the people of Columbus and vicinity, who will then witness the most remarkable event in the annals of clothing history. Over $100,000 worth of good, dependable merchandise will be transformed from the shelves and counters in this store to the homes of economical citizens. The Gavin Clothing Company, realizing the accessibility and convenience of the location at High and Gay Streets, and having decided to enter the clothing field in Columbus, were compelled to purchase the old Lieberman stock, in order to obtain the lease. It is not the intention of The Gavin Clothing Company to continue its business along the lines of the Lieberman business, nor to offer to the people of this section merchandise of the character of the Lieberman merchandise. We purpose to introduce to Columbus a live, wideawake, dependable, trustworthy clothing store—one in which every patron is assured of a square deal and of greater values, made possible by spot cash buying, small profits, low overhead expense and improved 20th century methods of distribution and selling. We are not interested in how much these goods cost, or how much the final iventory shows that we must pay for them, but we are interested—mightily—in effecting an immediate riddance from this stove of every item that it contains. Not only will you find ridiculously low prices on clothing, but the sweeping reductions apply in full force throughout the store. You miss the oppotrunity of your life if you fail to visit this store during the opening days of this great sale. Come prepared, come ready to supply the needs of your entire family. Many men will buy three or more garments and put them away, for these prices will never be duplicated. If you need a winter suit and overcoat, don't buy it until you have seen this stock and compared these prices. Mothers: Bring your children to the Boys' Depatrment—you will save half your money. We shall have plenty of salespeople to wait upon you and to make your visit pleasant, as well as profitable.

Every Garment Remaining Almost Given Away---Read!

In going over this stock, we came upon about 300 good suits and overcoats that have tarried in this stock far too long. They are al good, all-wool, handmade, well-tailored, and are in good style. The original price, as shows by the Lieberman mark, was $15.00. In order to insure their immediate cleatance, as not a one of them will be permitted to remain in this stock, we offer them at a price that will not cover even the skillfull labor necessary to tailor them. Not a value less than $12.50,—almostall of them $15.00—forced out at $5.75

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

In Denmark the Socialist members of Parliament have just succeeded in putting through a law giving subsidies to the labor unions for their unemployed members. The old party members of Parliament, at the outset, lustily denounced the proposition as "paternalism." But the workers were not slow in educating the politicians. They showed that thousands were annually wasted in doling out charity that could be saved to assist needy workers, that the latter were not idle of their own choice, but because the breaking down capitalistic system could no longer employ them, and, finally, the politicians were given to understand that labor is the larger class, in the country and had right to live and would assert that right in the next edition. Many of the old politicians took the hint and supported the bill.

The place on the editorial staff of the Metropolitan Magazine, made vacant by the death of William Mailly, has been taken by Algernon Lee, formerly editor of the New York Call and otherwise well known in the Socialist and labor movement. The "Tidings of the Times" department will be resumed under his editorship in the December number. William J. Ghent, author of "Mass and Class" and "Our Benevolent Feudalism," will also be associated with the Metropolitan as Washington correspondent, and will from month to month record and interpret important developments at the national capital.

The New York Daily Volkszeitung wants to know whether the Socialist party isn't ashamed of itself in being so unpopular with the trust barons and other moneyed men of the country that it was able to raise less than $50,000 (one-third of which amount was regular dues at that) for campaign purposes, while the three capitalistic parties accumulated a million dollars a piece for the purpose of electing a man to a $75,000 job. The Volky says the "business interests" seem to have entirely repudiated the S. P., thank God. The largest contribution to the campaign fund was the Brewers' International Union, which chipped in $1,000, nearly all the rest being small sums of $5 or less.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

The campaign of 1912 has passed into history. It will be known in all the years to come as the campaign responsible for the breaking up of all the old parties, for a new alignment of political forces, and it will also be distinguished for the educational campaign waged by the Socialist party. A great party, the bulwark of capitalism, has gone to smash. The dominant issues of the campaign, though viciously perverted, were those first promulgated by the Socialist party.

The capitalist papers concede one million votes to the Socialist party and about four million to Taft. The returns on the Socialist vote are slow and unofficial. By such returns great gains are shown in the states of California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Illinois, Nevada, Minnesota, and a number of others. A safe estimate of the total is 900,000 straight votes.

At least eight Socialist congressional candidates were defeated only by an open and flagrant alliance between the old parties. In most of these districts but one capitalist candidate appeared and the issue was distinct, Capitalism vs. Socialism.

The books and office of the National Campaign Committee were closed at noon Saturday, November 9, and all accounts were turned over to the National Office. All campaign literature has been disposed of except 100,000 platforms and 80,000 copies of The Agricultural Revolution. Further orders for these should be filed with the National Office, also for campaign books, of which there are about 4,000 still in stock.

All letters relating to the campaign should hereafter be addressed to Comrade John M. Work. Personal letters for J. Mahlon Barnes should be addressed 355 North Tenth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

All further contributions intended to help meet the deficit incurred by the Campaign Committee in prosecuting an aggressive literature campaign up till election day should be sent to the National Office and plainly designated as for campaign fund.

J. MAHLON BARNES,
Campaign Manager.

GOOD NEWS FROM ATHENS.

Nelsonville, O., Nov. 11, 1912.

The Socialist vote in Athens county, as it does all over the state, shows a gain of at least 60 per cent over two years ago. The best thing about this vote is, that we got it in the face of the fact that another party paraded enough of our planks in its platform to catch all of those who were willing to give the old parties another chance. There is no doubt but what at least one-half of the votes cast for the "big noise" would have been for Socialism.

The biggest fish in the sea of life is the people; within the next four years there is going to be a mighty sick whale—even a whale will gag at a Jonah—and before many moons this whale, the people, is going to spew! and when it does, it is going to puke up the Jonah of Capitalism, and he will be ejected so hard that there will be nothing of him left on earth except a disgusting record of the beasts.

Local Nelsonville has commenced the 1916 campaign. We met November 6 to get our bearings and had a better meeting November 8. We have several applicants, which we expect to add to our local at our next meeting. At our last meeting we had some interesting propaganda from the Home Missions Society, 156 Fifth street, New York, in which they urge every minister of the gospel in the land to take up Socialism. A series of union meetings are to be held in the various churches of Nelsonville, beginning on the evening of November 17, and to continue from church to church to November 24, inclusive. The churches have always shied at Socialism and have contended that it would destroy the church, but they now see that instead of destroying the church Socialism will unite them. The church has already gone into many pieces and they have no one to blame but themselves. They have divided up, branched out, sub-divided and split until a man to be a devout believer in one of them must necessarily be an unbeliever in the other 1799 churches, which only gives him a very little advantage over the infidel, who believes in none.

The man who tells you that Socialism will destroy the church has very little faith in his particular brand as being the right one, since Christ said, "That the gates of hell should not prevail against the church of the 'true and the living God.'"

Socialism has no objection to your saving your soul. What it urges on you is that you also save your bacon.

We love the red because the master class and their servants hate it. In fact, we love anything that the masters hate. How about you fellows?

Capitalism has converted the police forces of every city and the state militia into uniformed strikebreakers and scabs. The proofs can be found at Lawrence, Mass.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL.

Attention is called to the fact that many comrades are turning in subs. without the street number of the subscriber.

It is very necessary and important that the street number should be turned in with the sub. in every instance.

WISCONSIN NOTES.

The Socialists in Milwaukee polled more votes last Tuesday than they polled two years ago, when they carried Milwaukee county and sent Comrade Victor Berger to congress. However, this year the fusion "Non-Partisan" ticket defeated the Socialist ticket, in spite of this actual gain in the Socialist vote. Now this means nothing except that the Social-Democrats of Milwaukee are not yet a majority party. Until we have a majority of all the votes we cannot expect to get and hold the city. Our work will be to make enough Socialists to have a clear majority. We only hope that the Republicans and Democrats will stay fused, so that from now on the issue will continue to be straight and clear-cut—Socialism against Anti-Socialism.

Returns thus far indicate also a large gain in the Socialist vote throughout the state of Wisconsin.

It was a dramatic scene in the vast hall of the Auditorium on Tuesday night, when 6,000 men and women, mostly Socialists, gathered to hear the election returns. The campaign had been so well fought, and the indications had been so good, that the audience firmly believed that the Socialist ticket had carried. Then Comrade Berger stepped out on the platform and calmly and bravely announced his defeat and the defeat of the entire ticket as only one incident of the great struggle for Socialism. "I am not discouraged at the outcome," he added cheerfully. "We will begin tomorrow our next campaign. We will start over again Wednesday and we will never stop until we have carried the city, the county, the state, the nation."

Next day the capitalist papers came out full of exultation. "Socialism and the red flag is a dead letter!" screamed one fusionist organ. "Final blow dealt to Socialism!" chuckles another "Non-Partisan" sheet.

Little they know the Socialist spirit! The next morning after election the Socialist headquarters was crowded with comrades, discussing plans for propaganda and organization work, for lecture courses, for a more systematic distribution of literature, for making the branch meetings better means of propaganda and education, in short for all kinds of methods of making new Socialists and building up the party till it becomes an impregnable stronghold.

Each comrade had some good suggestion. Not one faltered or wavered or showed the least sign of discouragement. Never did the Milwaukee spirit show itself so resolute, so persistent and so truly a Socialist spirit. Every man and woman was ready for more earnest work than ever before.

Such a movement cannot be killed. Its apparent defeats are its real victories.

OLD DUNKLEMANN REJOICES.

He Is Pleased Because Wilson Was Elected and Prosperity Is Near.

Columbus, Ohio, May 6, 1913.

Mr Editor:

I certainlie am glad that Mister Wilson hes bin lected by such a big maygority. It does my hart good to know that he will be suported by a Dimocrat Senat and a Dimicrat house of represintaves. Ther will be nothin' in the way of him betterin the kendishions of the preducers of this hear kountrie. And you Socialists will find thet when he hes past some laws regelating kempiteshun and kentrolin the big bizness intrist thet things will be a hole lot better.

This hear regulating kempiteshun is a grate thing and while I don't just jist know how they are going about it. I spose settin the selling price of a artikle will hev something to do with it. You see thet will hev a tendincie to stop the high prices. Now when the price of the things what you need to live on stops goin up an komes down a little you no it wont cost so much to live. This hear thing is grate, it gives the laborin man a chance. All hes got to do now is to sell his labor to the highest bidder. Do you see the change since the Dimicrats got lected? Before, a workin man had to go begging fer a job; now, since they are goun to regelate kempiteshun, all he hes to do is offer his labor.

Kerse I don't spose you will see the difference, but jist wate a year or so an youl find out. When Mr. Wilson takes his seat in the white house and when the dimicrat kongres hav met, then you will sea the grate army of idel workinmen, women and children dwindle and vanash frum the face of the world; then you will set a change in the standerd of livin thet will make you draw a deap breth to think thet sich a change could be in a land where the peopool rule; then you may sea the grate penal institushions of the contrie go into decay and ruins; then will hev kome the time when the workin class will havve learned thet the labor of the men, women and children of this grate land is, through the regelatin of kompiteshun and the kontrolin of the trusts, to be so gided and so fixed in valu, by the powers thet be that kapitel an labor will eventually assume there proppor posishun toward each other so that the surroundings of the hewman race may begun better and in time to kome the evolushun of man will be full filled and he will stand erect in the image ov his crater.

HOW HELEN KELLER BECAME A SOCIALIST.

By Helen Keller.

For several months my name and Socialism have appeared often together in the newspapers. A friend tells me that I have shared the front pages with baseball, Mr. Roosevelt and the New York police scandal. The association does not make me altogether happy, but, on the whole, I am glad that many people are interested in me and in the educational achievements of my teacher, Mrs. Macy. Even notoriety may be turned to beneficent uses, and I rejoice if the disposition of the newspapers to record my activities results in bringing more often into their columns the word Socialism. In the future I hope to write about Socialism, and to justify in some measure the great amount of publicity which has been accorded to me and my opinions. So far I have written little and said little about the subject. I have written a few letters, notably one to Comrade Fred Warren, which was printed in the Appeal to Reason. I have talked to some reporters, one of whom, Mr. Ireland, of the New York World, made a very flattering report and gave fully and fairly what I said. I have never been in Schenectady. I have never met Mayor Lunn. I have never had a letter from him, but he has sent kind messages to me through Mr. Macy. Owing to Mrs. Macy's illness, whatever plans I had to join the workers in Schenectady have been abandoned.

On such negative and relatively insignificant matter have been written many editorials in the capitalist press and in the Socialist press. The clippings fill a drawer. I have not read a quarter of them, and I doubt if I shall ever read them all. If on such a small quantity of fact so much comment has followed, what will the newspapers do if I ever set to work in earnest to write and talk in behalf of Socialism? For the present I should like to make a statement of my position and correct some false reports and answer some criticisms which seem to me unjust.

First—How did I become a Socialist? By reading. The first book I read was Wells' "New Worlds for Old." I read it on Mrs. Macy's recommendation. She was attracted by its imaginative quality, and hoped that its electric style might stimulate and interest me. When she gave me the book, she was not a Socialist and she is not a Socialist now. Perhaps she will be one before Mr. Macy and I are done arguing with her.

Mr. Wells led to others. I asked for more books on the subject, and Mr. Macy selected some from his library of Socialist literature. He did not urge them on me. He merely complied with my request for more. I do not find him inclined to instruct me about Socialism; indeed, I have often complained to him that he did not talk to me about it as much as I should like.

My reading has been limited and slow. I take German bimonthly Socialist periodicals printed in braille for the blind. (Our German Comrades are ahead of us in many respects.) I have also in German braille Kautsky's discussion of the Erfurt Program. The other Socialist literature that I have read has been spelled into my hand by a friend who comes three times a week to read to me whatever I choose to have read. The periodical which I have most often requested her lively fingers to communicate to my eager ones is the National Socialist. She gives the titles of the articles and I tell her when to read on and when to omit. I have also had her read to me from the International Socialist Review articles the titles of which sounded promising. Manual spelling takes time. It is no easy and rapid thing to absorb through one's fingers a book of 50,000 words on economics. But it is a pleasure, and one which I shall enjoy repeatedly until I have made myself acquainted with all the classic Socialist authors.

In the light of the foregoing I wish to comment on a piece about me which was printed in the Common Cause and reprinted in the Live Issue, two anti-Socialist publications. Here is a quotation from that piece:

"For twenty-five years Miss Keller's teacher and constant companion has been Mrs. John Macy, formerly of Wrentham, Mass. Both Mr. and Mrs. Macy are enthusiastic Marxist propagandists, and it is scarcely surprising that Miss Keller, depending upon this lifelong friend for her most intimate knowledge of life, should have imbibed such opinions."

Mr. Macy may be an enthusiastic Marxist propagandist, though I am sorry to say he has not shown much enthusiasm in propagating his Marxism through my fingers. Mrs. Macy is not a Marxist, not a Socialist. Therefore what the Common Cause says about her is not true. The editor must have invented that, made it out of whole cloth, and if that is the way his mind works, it is no wonder that he is opposed to Socialism. He has not sufficient sense of fact to be a Socialist or anything else intellectually worth while.

Consider another quotation from the same article. The headline reads: "Schenectady Reds Are Advertising; Using Helen Keller, the Blind Girl, to Receive Publicity."

Then the article begins:

"It would be difficult to imagine anything more pathetic than the present exploitation of poor Helen Keller by the Socialists of Schenectady. For weeks the party's press agencies have heralded the fact that she is a Socialist, and is about to become a member of Schenectady's new Board of Public Welfare."

There is no chance for satirical comment on the phrase, "the exploitation of poor Helen Keler." But I will refrain, simply saying that I do not like the hypocritical sympathy of such a paper as the Common Cause, but I am glad if it knows what the word "exploitation" means.

Let us come to the facts. When Mayor Lunn heard that I might go to Schenectady he proposed to the Board of Public Welfare that a place be kept on it for me. Nothing was printed about this in the Citizen, Mayor Lunn's paper. Indeed, it was the intention of the board to say nothing about the matter until I had moved to Schenectady. But the reporters of the capitalist press got wind of the plan, and one day, during Mayor Lunn's absence from Schenectady, the Knickerbocker Press of Albany made the announcement. It was telegraphed all over the country, and then began the real newspaper exploitation. By the Socialist press? No, by the capitalist press? The Socialist papers printed the news, and some of them wrote editorials of welcome. But the Citizen, Mayor Lunn's paper, preserved silence and did not mention my name during all the weeks when the reporters were telephoning and telegraphing and asking for interviews. It was the capitalist press that did the exploiting. Why? Because ordinary newspapers care anything about Socialism? No, of course not; they hate it. But because I, alas, am a subject for newspaper gossip. We got so tired of denying that I was in Schenectady that I began to dislike the reporter who first published the "news."

The Socialist papers, it is true, did make a good deal of me after the capitalistic papers had "heralded the fact that I am a Socialist." But all the reporters who came to see me were from ordinary commercial newspapers. No Socialist paper, neither The Call nor the National Socialist, ever asked me for an article. The editor of the Citizen hinted to Mr. Macy that he would like one, but he was too fine and considerate to ask for it point-blank.

The New York Times did ask me for one. The editor of the Times wrote assuring me that his paper was a valuable medium for reaching the public and he wanted an article from me. He also telegraphed asking me to send him an account of my plans and to outline my ideas of my duties as member of the Board of Public Welfare of Schenectady. I am glad I did not comply with his request, for some days later the Times made me a social outcast beyond the range of its righteous sympathies. On September 21 there appeared in the Times an editorial called "The Contemptible Red Flag." I quote two passages from it:

"The flag is free. But it is none the less detestable. It is the symbol of lawlessness and anarchy the world over, and as such is held in contempt by all right-minded persons."

"The bearer of a red flag may not be molested by the police until he commits some act which the red flag justifies. He deserves, however, always to be regarded with suspicion. By carrying the symbol of lawlessness he forfeits all right to respect and sympathy."

I am no worshiper of cloth of any color, but I love the red flag and what it symbolizes to me and other Socialists. I have a red flag hanging in my study, and if I could I should gladly march with it past the office of the Times and let all the reporters and photographers make the most of the spectacle. According to the inclusive condemnation of the Times I have forfeited all right to respect and sympathy, and I am to be regarded with suspicion. Yet the editor of the Times wants me to write him an article! How can he trust me to write for him if I am a suspicious character? I hope you will enjoy as much as I do the bad ethics, bad logic, bad manners that a capitalist editor falls into when he tries to condemn the movement which is aimed at his plutocratic interests. We are not even entitled to sympathy, yet some of us can write articles that will help his paper to make money! Probably our opinions have the same sort of value to him that he would find in the confession of a famous murderer. We are not nice, but we are interesting.

I like newspaper men. I have known many, and two or three editors have been among my most intimate friends. Moreover, the newspapers have been of great assistance in the work which we have been trying to do for the blind. It costs them nothing to give their aid to work for the blind and to other superficial charities. But Socialism—ah, that is a different matter! That goes to the root of all poverty and all charity. The money power behind the newspapers is against Socialism, and the editors, obedient to the hand that feeds them, will go to any length to put down Socialism and undermine the influence of Socialists.

When my letter to Comrade Fred Warren was published in the Appeal to Reason, a friend of mine who writes a special department for the Boston Transcript made an article about it and the editor in chief cut it out.

The Brooklyn Eagle says, apropos of me and Socialism, that Helen Keller's "mistakes spring out of the manifest limitations of her development." Some years ago I met a gentleman who was introduced to me as Mr. McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. It was after a meeting that we had in New York in behalf of the blind. At that time the compliments he paid me were so generous that I blush to remember them. But now that I have come out for Socialism he reminds me and the public that I am blind and deaf and especially liable to error. I must have shrunk in intelligence during the years since I met him. Surely it is his turn to blush. It may be that deafness and blindness incline one toward Socialism. Marx was probably stone deaf and William Morris was blind. Morris painted his pictures by the sense of touch and designed wall paper by the sense of smell.

Oh, ridiculous Brooklyn Eagle! What an ungallant bird it is! Socially blind and deaf, it defends an intolerable system—a system that is the cause of much of the physical blindness and deafness which we are trying to prevent. The Eagle is willing to help us prevent misery provided, that we do not attack the industrial tyranny which supports it and stops its ears and clouds its vision. The Eagle and I are at war. I hate the system which it represents, apologizes for and upholds. When it fights back, let it fight fair. Let it attack my ideas and oppose the aims and arguments of Socialism. It is not fair fighting or good argument to remind me and others that I cannot see or hear. I can read. I can read all the Socialist books I have time for in English, German and French. If the editor of the Brooklyn Eagle should read some of them he might be a wiser man and make a better newspaper. If I ever contribute to the Socialist movement the book that I sometimes dream of, I know what I shall name it: "Industrial Blindness and Social Deafness."

ORGANIZING CHICAGO BUTCHERS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Efforts have been made during the last few weeks to secure an organization among the packing house employes. These efforts have been successful to a considerable degree and meetings are being held regularly, and at each meeting many new applications are received. Indications are to the effect that before the winter is over Chicago will have organizations in the packing industry that will be sufficiently strong to secure a betterment of conditions.

LITTLE FALLS TEXTILE WORKERS.

More than two thousand textile workers in Little Falls have been on strike since October 10th. They came out in rebellion against a reduction in wages ranging from 75 cents to $3.00 per week.

When it is considered that the average wages of these workers was less than $7 per week, the inhuman viciousness of this reduction should be plain to all.

These workers have since been fighting desperately for their lives against a police persecution as brutal and reckless as has ever been seen in this country. In the face of tremendous provocation, they have remained peaceful and non-resistant. They have practically tied up the textile industry in Little Falls, and all that they need to win a decisive victory is YOUR support.

A victory in this struggle means much, as it will undoubtedly affect the textile industry throughout the Mohawk Valley. Already the strike has begun to spread to nearby towns, and an effort will be made to make it general, with Little Falls as the center.

To do this your aid is needed. The strikers have perfected a strong organization, which has withstood the murderous assaults of the police thugs. Nearly all the officials and original strike committee members are in jail, charged with rioting and assault, as a result of brutal attacks by police cossacks upon strikers while peacefully parading the streets.

Socialists who came from Schenectady to help the strikers by establishing relief stations and speaking for them have been brutally beaten and jailed.

The strikers' headquarters have been broken into by police and all contents wantonly destroyed. The strikers are forced to carry on much of their work in secrecy. Yet their spirit is undaunted and they are determined to win. This is the most important struggle for better conditions ever waged in this part of the country. Vicious, foul and lying newspapers are spreading much misrepresentation of the real conditions here.

Workers, everywhere, rally to the support of the strikers in Little Falls.

Don't permit the Russian methods of the blood-thirsty police in this struggle to be successful. Hold meetings. Mail or wire protests to Governor Dix, State Capitol, Albany; Mayor Shall, Little Falls, and Congressman Talcott, Utica, New York.

Send all funds to Textile Workers' Strike Committee, Robert A. Bakeman, P. O. Box 458, Little Falls, N. Y.

Organized vice yields corpulent dividends, and crusades consisting of "hot air" from pulpits will be powerless to wipe out the while slave traffic.

Show us a man or woman with a stuck up nose, and we'll show you an article with an empty noodle.

ELECTION RETURNS

Milwaukee, Wis.—In Milwaukee county only, Debs has polled 17,488. The complete Socialist vote in the state in 1908 was 28,164, and in 1910 it was 40,063.

Returns indicate a steady growth in the Socialistic strength. The total Socialist vote in the state was nearly 60,000 as against about 28,164 four years ago and 40,063 in 1910. Taft polled, it is estimated, 190,000, Wilson 215,000 and Roosevelt from 75,000 to 85,000.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The Debs vote in Allegheny county is about 21,000 against 7,300 in 1908. As a rule, the congressional nominees ran ahead of Debs, but no Socialists were elected.

James G. Greggerson, the Socialist candidate in the Ninth legislative district, McKeesport, was defeated by only 170 votes. In order to accomplish the defeat of Greggerson the old party politicians had to form a fusion party and with their combined strength they narrowly escaped conquest by the Socialists.

Fort Worth, Tex.—In Texas, where Cecil Lyon, the Roosevelt manager, promised the Progressive candidate a big vote, the Colonel ran a bad fourth. Debs polled almost exactly two votes to Roosevelt's one. Out of a total of about 300,000 Wilson received 199,000, Taft 38,200, Debs 19,600 and Roosevelt 6,300.

The Socialist vote in 1908 was 7,870. In 1910 it was 11,638.

HAMILTON COUNTY.

From all indications the vote in Hamilton county will reach seven thousand for the Socialist candidates. The Commercial Tribune accredits us with five thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, with several precincts to be heard from.

VOTE IN LORAIN.

The following is the total of all votes cast for the head of the tickets: Wilson, 1193; Roosevelt, 1186; Debs, 856; Taft, 845.

There were only 148 voters, casting their ballot for Debs, who "scratched" their ticket. This is significant, in view of the fact that it shows clearly the strength of the Socialist movement in Lorain.

Aside from these 148 voters, we can safely say that there are 712 class conscious Socialists in the city of Lorain.

CLEVELAND VOTE.

The Socialist party vote in Cleveland on Tuesday was 9066, and in Cuyahoga county, with three precincts still out, 10,030. The highest Socialist party elector in Cuyahoga county in 1908 received 4818. Ruthenberg for governor received 8851 in the city and 9503 votes in the whole county. Rupple received 8055 votes for congress in the Twenty-first district, while Willert received 4582 in the Twentieth district. Louis Katz led the Socialist ticket, receiving 14,931 for judge of the circuit court. Two years ago Clifford for governor received 5213 votes in the county.

STARK COUNTY.

The results in Stark county show a substantial Socialist gain. Four years ago the vote for Debs was 1110. This year it is between 3500 and 4000, a gain of 250 per cent.

Every one of the 1110 Socialists have converted 3 in 4 years. Another four years of this kind of work will give us a majority in the county. Yes, we have cause to rejoice.

ST. MARYS (OHIO) VOTE.

The Socialist vote in St. Marys, the home of Comrade Scott Wilkins, was 345 against 627 two years ago.

NOTICE TO THE WORKERS.

Members of Branches, Socialist Party

Comrades: Tomorrow morning (Sunday, November 17) there will be a collection of dues in the territory between Cleveland avenue and the city limits on the east and Broad street and the Panhandle railway.

This will be the initial step toward putting our organization on a good sound financial and working basis and is only one of the many good plans proposed of which others will be tried out later.

The committee selected to do this work needs assistance and requests as many as can to report at the branch headquarters on Galloway avenue, just north of Mt. Vernon avenue, tomorrow, November 17, not later than 7:45 a. m.

PLAN FOR SINGING SOCIETY.

Do you want to have a good time and at the same time help the Socialist party?

If so give this your attention. A singing society (English) is about to be organized for this purpose and promises to be a great success.

Any comrade who wishes to qualify if accepted may become a member. The membership is limited to twenty-four members. Ladies are eligible. Upon the application of the above number the organization will go into effect.

Are you interested?

If so, call L. R. Williams, Hilltop 1459, or drop a card to R. M. Spates, 305 1-2 S. High street.

COLUMBUS FEDERATION OF LABOR IN SESSION.

Action Taken Against Contract System—Selects Advisory Committee to Aid Toilers.

Plans for checking graft in public improvements were suggested in the Columbus Federation of Labor meeting last Monday evening. The next Legislature will be asked to pass a bill doing away with contracts on all sorts of public improvements, whether made by the State, county or a municipality. The Federation thinks the work should be done direct.

In order to aid persons unfamiliar with the laws who may be injured while at work because of negligence or fault of another workman or the employer, the Federation will establish an Advisory Committe of three, to whom such persons may apply for advice in making settlement for damages.

If necessary, an attorney will be employed. The chief aim of the proposal is to aid workmen in factories which are insured in companies and not in the State liability fund. This committee will be found at the Federation Hall, 121½ East Town Street.

The resignation of James H. Henderson as President of the Columbus Federation was accepted formally. His successor will be chosen at the next meeting from the following candidates: William McCartney, barber; Ed Wakefield, bricklayer; Marsh C. Green, carpenter, and Lon Rowe, painter.

Brother Henderson has been appointed as one of the National organizers of the American Federation of Labor and has already commenced his work in that capacity.

NOTICE TO COMRADES.

There will be a special mass meeting of Local Columbus, Sunday, November 24, to celebrate Woman's Day. A special program of interest to women is being arranged now. Comrades, make a special effort to get a good attendance.

MORE PERSONAL FINANCE.

R. W. Goodheart, receiver of the defunct Union National Bank, took judgment against W. S. Courtright, the bank's former President, on two promissory notes aggregating $15,971.26, late Wednesday before Judge Bigger.—News Item.

Just what right the President of a National Bank has to borrow money from the bank of which he is the head does not appear. This is a plain violation of the Federal law and deserves attention.

Mr. H. S. Waldo, whose adv. appears in this paper, has opened a first-class Furnishing Store at 2254 West Broad. He has a good location and a pleasant room for the convenience of his customers. The sign in his store:

"Our Motto Is 'Quality,'
Our Efforts Are Honest,
Our Goods Must Be Honest,"

seem to be purely consistent with the surroundings. Mr. Waldo was formerly in business in Mt. Sterling, O., and with his experience in the business and his disposition to give his customers good quality in merchandise, prompt service and courteous treatment, the public will doubtless find his store a pleasant, convenient and profitable place to purchase. Such a store is greatly needed on the Hilltop, and we trust the people will appreciate it to the extent of making it a success.

All employers under capitalism must of necessity be "unfair." They owe every worker all he produces and make a living from your labor at the same time.

GROCERY OCTOPUS REACHES OUT FOR RETAIL TRADE

Four Thousand Stores and Yearly Sales of Hundred Million in Sight—Farewell to Little Dealer.

According to a report current here negotiations have about been been completed for the formation of a tremendous big company to own and operate chains of retails grocery stores in the principal cities of the country.

The proposed company is to be organized in the shape of a securities holding corporation, and the banking house of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., of New York, is behind the deal. It is planned to cover the country with stores after the style of the United Cigar Stores company.

The deal as now planned is to start the company with about 4,000 retail stores, principally in the Eastern cities. It is said that there are fifty or more wholesale grocers and others operating stores like Kroger does in Cincinnati who are in on the deal.

The Kroger company is capitalized at $2,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is common, $400,000 6 per cent cumulative first preferred and $600,000 second preferred stock. B. H. Kroger, who is the president, holds principally all of the common stock. The company operates 210 stores, and last year, before the St. Louis chain was purchased, did $7,500,000 of business over retail counters.

The acquisition of the St. Louis chain, which is being increased from 32 to 100 and over, will make the company's business this year considerably over $10,000,000.

One of the concerns that it is said will enter the combine is that of James Butler, of New York City, who operates 174 stores in New York and Brooklyn. Butler and Kroger are very close personal friends and it is said that the tremendous success that the United Cigar Stores company has developed led them to see in their own business of retail groceries possibilities of even greater sales.

The 4,000 stores said to be going into the combination have gross annual sales of approximately $100,000,000, compared with about $35,000,000 for the United Cigar Stores.

The plan of the organizers is to ultimately cover the entire country with its retail stores, which are to be added until 10,000 or more are operated. All the buying for this enormous business is to be done through one office, which it is explained will enable the company to offer retail groceries and bakery goods at a price that cannot be equaled by the independent grocer.

HOW TO CAPTURE CITIES AND TOWNS FOR SOCIALISM

Do you want to capture Columbus and hundreds of other municipalities for Socialism in 1913?

Of course you do. How shall we do it?

In Columbus we can do it with a subscription list of 20,000 inside the city limits.

Now, comrades, this is the time to quite quibbling and get down to brass tacks. This fight we are in is no child's play. It is war. At each and every election the lines are being drawn tighter around our enemy, the capitalist system. The only weapons at our command are intellectual ones, and this paper furnishes the ammunition with which to batter down the citadel of capitalism so that the industrial army may rush in, take the works and come into their own. In soliciting subscriptions, you might ask the elusive Bull Mooser, or his parents, some of the following question from Pearson's:

Are you happy?

Is your daily work producing what you think it should?

What is the matter with this world?

Was it made all wrong?

Is it too full of people?

Does it belong to a few men, and are you an intruder here?

More than 5,000,000 men in this country have no work. What is going to become of these men? Do you expect them to starve quietly—to make no outcry whatever?

If Socialism is not the answer to their problem, what is?

Why do a few men who will work with no machinery want to own all of the machinery of the country?

Would these men care to own any machinery if the ownership did not give them an opportunity to get easy money?

Every political party except the Socialist party proposes that the few men shall continue to own the machinery and let all other men make a living only when it means profit to the few men. Every other party puts profit before people.

It is proposed by Mr. Wilson to "regulate" the trusts. We have been "regulating" for more than a generation.

How much good has it done you? How many generations do you expect to live? How much are political promises worth?

"Regulation" is like saying to a burglar, "Now, gentlemen, this must stop. None of you must carry a jimmy more than four feet long. Any burglar caught with more than twenty skeleton keys will be punished."

Socialists are committed to the task of making a few men surrender the power with which they rob all other men. If you do not believe that power is machinery, try to get rich without owning it or gambling in its products.

The answers to the above questions will be found in each week's edition of this paper. Once the people understand and the way is clear.

Already the dark night of utter hopelessness is past. Our propaganda has taken root and is bearing abundant fruit.

Let us show the world that our movement here is a giant, and next fall, by wire and wireless, the news will flash around the world, aye, who knows but that the wireless message may penetrate to unknown worlds, bringing the joyful news that Columbus has made herself a beacon light to guide the storm-tossed working class into its haven of rest, SOCIALISM.

BOOST FOR COLUMBUS SOCIALIST COMES FROM NEW JERSEY

November 15, 1912.

Dear Comrades:

Enclosed you will find a dollar bill to renew my subscription, and thus show my appreciation of your paper.

As one long in the movement, and knowing precisely why I am a Socialist and not an Anarchist, and as to why I am in the Socialist Party and not the Socialist Labor Party, I feel like thanking you for the able fight you put up for the tactics of the Socialist Party as repeatedly defined by its membership through conventions and referendums.

There is no such thing as an accident. Everything has a cause. The mere fact of the organization of a Socialist Party, when one (the Socialist Labor Party) already existed, proved there was reason for such action. While both stood for Socialism, they disagreed as to the tactics or methods by which it should be realized. Each succeeding year has more clearly proved the contention of the Socialist Party, and yet we have seen (and will see) determined effort by insidious methods to deflect us from the path that all our experience as a party proves the wise one.

Despite the attacks from within and the fightings from without we have reached the ear of the working class and made progress as never before, thanks to such papers as yours and The National Socialist, backed up by the sacrifice and work of that host of workers who are Socialists before they are Atheists, Christians, I. W. W. or A. F. of L., or anything else.

Here's wishing you growth of circulation and influence in the coming year, and that the line may be clearly drawn between Socialist tactics and Anarchist tactics, and that all who stand for either may be honest and brave enough to go their own road, build up their own organization and make their own battle.

Fraternally yours,
GEO. H. GOEBEL.

STRIKE-BREAKERS BEGGING FOR FOOD.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., NOV. 20.—Deserting strike-breakers from the coal mines in the Wanawha strike district continued to flock into this city today. They charge agents of the coal operators lure them from Chicago, New York and other large cities by false representations and without telling them they were to work as strike-breakers in coal mines.

Practically none of them has had mining experience.

In one crowd were two boys not over 16, who today are begging for food. In another were three men who claim many of the men paid $20 for the jobs.

WHY DO THE SOCIALISTS ORGANIZE?

FREDERICK GUY STRICKLAND.

When the worker learns that he can win in the struggle for life only by standing with his fellow workers, then we will call him "class-conscious." And the only way that he can get together with the rest of the workers is by ORGANIZATION.

We do not organize because we are angry with the capitalists. We get together because we have a common problem to solve; we must live. An individual capitalist may be kind-hearted; but the capitalists as a class are opposed to the workers as a class in the field of industry.

It is not from choice that we are caught up in a class-struggle. We were thrust into the present industrial situation. We must swim or sink. We must struggle as a class or cease to survive.

But we do not accept the present struggle as a permanent condition. Our fight is to end the class-struggle and to establish an all-inclusive industrial democracy. When the workers have won, all have won. All the able-bodied will have suitable work to do. There will be no social parasites left to continue the class-struggle.

So our organization now becomes the advance guard of the new civilization. It is as important as our deliverance and human progress are important.

We organize politically because our greatest social power lies in the ballot. We will organize on the economic field and in other ways, but at the ballot box is the only place where we can strike directly for possession of the organized power of society itself.

To belong to the Socialist Party is a privilege. It is the only political party that a workingman may join. It is a privilege to pay dues. If we pay our own expenses it is our Party. It cannot be otherwise.

All of the talk about the old (the capitalist) parties "betraying the people" is sheer nonsense. Parties belong to those who organize them and pay the bills. How could a party of the exploiting capitalist class "betray" US? We are simply not in it from the start.

Until we organize our own party we have no party. It may take some more drubbing for the voters to learn this, but we will find it out some time all right. Then we will build our own party, out of our own lives and our own struggle.

We are the only GROWING party of the world. And that the future is ours is as certain as the sunrise.

"We have a high price panic on our hands. High prices for everything but labor.

CITY COUNCIL AWARDS PRINTING TO THE SOCIALIST

This Paper One of Two Lowest Bidders—Solicitor Bolin Attacked for Action in Lighting Plant Case.

The City Council last Monday night, by a vote of 9 to 7, awarded the city advertising to the following papers at the prices stated:

The Socialist, 30 cents per square for the first insertion and 15 cents for each subsequent publication.

The Times, at 25 and 2s.

The Westbote, at 60 and 40.

The question was not taken up until midnight and was only reached by a vote to relieve the committee on printing of the report which had been prepared and signed but which Chairman Lucks declined to present. This report awarded the printing to The Journal at $1.00 and 50c and to The Times. Councilman Reinhard made a minority report which was the one adopted. It was shown that giving the printing to The Socialist would save the city not less than $10,000.

The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Bohnert, Connolley, Ellis, Reinhard, Sherman, Stribling, Warren, Wilson, Zimpfer—9.

Nays—Alcott, Baldridge, Barry, Brederman, Lucks, Nailor, Wegman—7.

It was declared by those who voted for The Socialist that they did so simply as a matter of economy and for this action they deserve credit.

For two dreary hours members of Council orated in regard to the electric light plant and the suit to enjoin the sale of electric current.

City Solicitor Bolin, upon the written request of James M. Butler, as a taxpayer and citizen of the city, filed the suit in Common Pleas Court against Mayor Karb, Service Director Kinnear, Safety Director Barger, Superintendent Eichhorn of the municipal light plant and City Auditor Cain asking that these officials be mandatorially enjoined from entering into any contracts to supply electric current from the municipal light plant to any persons or corporations for private purposes.

The Kilbourne & Jacobs Manufacturing company is also made a defendant, and it is asked that it be enjoined from using the day-load electricity from the municipal plant until such time as the plant will be able to furnish such lighting without loss to the city.

Councilman Connolley introduced the measure which precipitated the war of element and crash of words.

The resolution says that, whereas it is claimed that by the sale of the day load, the plant is prevented from extending the light system to newly annexed territory; whereas the director of public service and superintendent of the plant have frequently stated that th only hindrance to the furnishing of light in the new territory is the uncompleted condition of the substations now under construction; whereas if the suit is sustained the light plant would be seriously crippled and the city would be deprived of an annual revenue amounting to about $35,000, and

"Whereas, it is the sense and belief of council that day current has been and can be sold to a great advantage to the city and the said municipal light plant, if said plant is efficiently and intelligently managed.

"Resolved, That council committee on gas and electricity be authorized to inquire into the advisability and feasibility of employing counsel to defend the interests of the light plant and the citizens of Columbus in the pending suit."

City Solicitor Bolin was attacked for bringing a suit against the city when he is paid to defend the municipality. Here are a few gems from the discussion:

"I brought this suit merely to determine through an unprejudiced medium, the court, whether current is being sold below cost. Officially, I do not care whether I win or lose. I am not acting from any sinister motives."—City Solicitor Bolin.

"For a city official to attack the light plant in this way is not in spirit with the boosting attitude which he ought to have. Mr. Bolin either ought to withdraw that suit or resign. His action is disgraceful to the city of Columbus."—Councilman Nailor.

"You Republicans are playing disgusting politics. You are objecting to an investigation which may show up Herman Gamper, for it is he who made contracts at rates below cost."—Councilman Lucks.

"Republicans have been bemirching the integrity of administrative officers all year, yet they refuse to be investigated themselves by a court, which may demonstrate the falsity of their claims."—Councilman Barry.

"This suit has been brought by the administration to eliminate the day load and make the light plant's cost of operation greater. That the solicitor believes he will win the suit is proof that the present superintendent is inefficient, because current is being sold below cost now, whereas the same rates were not below cost when Herman Gamper was superintendent."—Councilman Sherman.

Socialist Councilman Bohnert took occasion to declare that the reason for the suit filed by Solicitor Bolin was that a certain $8,000,000 corporation in Columbus would be put out of business if the municipal electric plant was a success. He could not see how Mr. Bolin could defend anybody but the city.

Socialist Councilman Warren brought up the charge that members of the city law department, paid salaries for devoting their entire time to the city's service, were engaging in private practice. He denounced such action.

After most every member had said something upon the question, the resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of all present.

Councilman Barry introduced a resolution calling on the city solicitor to prepare an ordinance providing for a mortgage bond issue of $265,000 for an extension to the plant under the home rule amendment. This was accompanied by a letter from Mayor Karb urging the adoption of the resolution. It was referred to the finance committee.

The bonds have already been authorized and the resolution changes the character of them to mortgage bonds. The original issue of bonds has been made the subject of a suit in court.

Two ordinances, providing for a special election on the question of selecting a charter commission, were introduced Monday evening. Councilman Barry reintroduced the one which was presented by him last week. It was reintroduced by request of the North Side Chamber of Commerce, and Councilman Baldridge introduced a substitute with different wording and which he declares is better. It provides not only for the submission of the question of deciding whether a charter commission will be selected, but also for the election of commissioners on the same ballot. Both were referred to the judiciary committee.

OUTWITTING THE TIMBER BOSSES.

By E. G. Creel, in National Rip-Saw.

The Henderson and Boyd Lumber Co., Richburg, Ala., works convicts in its mill, logging camp and on its log road. Its partner in crime, the State of Alabama, receives from $30 to $40 a month for convicts which the lumber company must board. In the same county free white men receive 90 cents a day and house rent for railroad section work. On this pay they board themselves. The lumber company can get plenty of free negroes and white men for less than $1 a day, yet it pays $30 to $40 a month, plus board and lodging, for convicts. Why? Because convicts are ideal sawmill workers. They can be worked to the very limit of endurance and it means fearful beatings or death to rebel. They can be roused from vermin-infested bunks at daybreak and whipped to work till nightfall. They can be, and are, compelled to work in dangerous places, with death-dealing machinery—where no amount of wages would tempt a starving free man. The sawmill convict requires little medical care. One lumber man said to me: "A convict never has nothin' wrong with him that a good club won't cure." Overworked, underfed, sick and neglected, they are driven by the twin assassins, the Southern Lumber Operators' Association and the State of Alabama, to their tasks and in many instances to their deaths. The same hideous program is followed by other lumber companies in Alabama and in other southern states degraded by the hellish convict leasing system.

Dispelling Race Prejudice.

If you read the secret correspondence of the Southern Lumber Operators' Association, published in the June and July Rip-Saw, you noted how the companies gloatingly told each other that race antagonism would help them prevent the formation of a union of timber workers. I saw this in action at Glenmora, La., where the Cady Lumber Company gave its negroes a holiday on Emancipation Day and refused a day off to its white workers on the Fourth of July. I reached the place two days later and found many of the white millworkers up in arms—not against the company, but against the "niggers," whom, a carefully circulated report said, had agreed to stand by the company in case of "trouble." This was a lie made from whole cloth, but was being worked to create friction. An agent of the company attended my meeting and loudly demanded to know what I thought of such discrimination between white men and "niggers." Much to his surprise, I sided with the company, saying, "That's right. The niggers used to be chattel slaves. Now they're only wage slaves. They've been freed. The white men have not. The niggers have something to celebrate, while you white men haven't. Wait till you're freed. Then you'll be as good as the niggers, and if there's any privately owned lumber company left it'll give YOU an occasional holiday." The hoped-for race hatred fell through with a crash amid laughter. But this is a case in point. The Lumber Trust carefully studies methods for intensifying race antagonism and then sits back to watch it work. Black men or white men, a few lives more or less, are of no consequence to the masters of the swamp lands if their snuffing-out turns a profit to the companies.

New Kind of "Gamblers."

The union of lumber jacks, the Brotherhood of Timber Workers, was formed in the face of obstacles which seemed impossible to overcome at first. The vicious commissary, and payment in brass checks of paper "punch-outs" is the rule in practically every camp. Knowing that cash was necessary to finance a labor union extending over several states the companies redoubled their efforts to keep actual money from their employes. Most of the mills will not exchange coin for commissary checks held by employes AT ANY DISCOUNT. But to increase its revenue the trust has long made a practice of redeeming commissary checks at 10 per cent. discount from small merchants, bootleggers, prostitutes and gamblers. Shortly after the agitation for a labor union began the camps were infested with a new set of card sharks. Games ran all night long in the woods. The newcomers always won. Sometimes in a single night they would fleece an entire mill's force of every commissary check outstanding. No effort was made to stop this. Rather, the companies welcomed the gamblers, for the trust was getting its regular 10 per cent. rake-off on hatfuls of checks they won and turned into the mill offices for discount and redemption in coin.

Too late the employers awoke to the fact that the "gamblers" were not gamblers at all, but organizers for Brotherhood of Timber Workers, taking this means of making the companies finance the very union they were so bitterly opposing.

The Central Coal and Coke Company, known as the "Four C," with its mills at Neama and Carson, La., and headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., is an especially disreputable concern. Every share of its stock is blood-soaked through the action of its hired gunmen in the massacre of Grabow, La. I was told of a long trail of atrocities to its credit. One of them is its robbery of Ave Hickman, an aged homesteader. Nearly thirty-eight years ago Hickman homesteaded, or was allowed to believe that he had legally homesteaded, 160 acres of land four miles west of DeRidder, La. Much of the tract was in valuable timber. He has lived on the land for more than thirty-seven consecutive years and his sole means of livelihood has been the cultivation of a few acres. He refused repeated offers for his timber, saying he would leave it to provide for him when too old to work. During all this time no question was raised as to the legality of his title. A few months ago, however, the "Four C" dragged him into court, "found" a flaw in his title, dispossessed him, confiscated the land and cast him out in his old age, penniless and alone. In view of this and a long trail of similar outrages the following is refreshing:

Company Hires a "Spotter."

One of this company's log cutters at Carson secretly joined the Brotherhood of Timber Workers in September, was made Secretary of the local union in December and appointed organizer in February. On the very day he received his organization papers he was approached by Supt. Jack Morrison, who off-handedly asked what he thought of the "union talk." I give his experience as he laughingly related it to me:

"I don't know nothin' about the union," answered the lumber jack. "These doggone logs keep me busy without studyin' 'bout no union."

"Wouldn't you join if you had a chance? Are you man enough to not turn traitor to the company?"

"I never did 'turn traitor' an' I reckon I won't begin now."

"The union promises a lot."

"What if it does! That ain't givin' it. Them union fellers don't get me in their clutches."

"Say," said the superintendent with interest, "how would you like to do something special for the company—something to make the big men 'way up at Kansas City feel mighty good toward you?"

"I'm willin'. What is it?"

"You know the men pretty well, don't you?"

"Yes."

"You could learn things from them—if you tried?"

"Maybe."

"Well, see here: Why can't you gain their confidence, find out if any of them belong to the union and report to me?"

"How'm I go'n' to find out?"

"Pretend you want to join. Then if there are any union men here you can find out who they are. Let me know."

"That'll take time, Mr. Morrison, an' I've got logs to cut."

"We'll pay you full time while you're getting the information."

"But, see here, Mr. Morrison, you know I can't keep my temper. If I was to find a union man I'd cuss him out, we'd fight and the ornery devil would probably report me as a union sympathizer—maybe as an organizer—and I'd get fired. I don't want to risk it."

"I'll attend to that," gushed the official, who had now swallowed bait, hook, line and pole. "If anybody reports you I'll know he's a man we don't want, and I'll get rid of him. And when your work is finished I'll give you a bonus of $25."

"With this understanding, I went to work organizing the camp next morning," continued the log-cutter, with a grin. "Two anti-union men reported me the first day and one the second. And I'm darned if Morrison didn't fire them on the spot. At the end of four days I'd organized the entire camp with the exception of fourteen men who wouldn't join. I hated to do it, but I turned in their names as the only union men in camp. Morrison patted me on the back, paid me $25, sent for the fourteen and discharged them. They started on a walk to DeRidder, but I jumped a train, beat them into town, took twelve of them to union headquarters and paid their initiation fee with the "Four C's" $25. Two of the fourteen wouldn't join."

Great difficulty was experienced in organizing the Kirby mills in East Texas. Officials and gun men kept sharp lookouts and organizers met with threats and assault at many places. But in spite of this the camps are solidly organized now and the trick was turned while thick-headed bosses stood by, applauded and were even duped into DONATING MONEY TO PAY EXPENSES OF ORGANIZING!

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH MASSACHUSETTS?

The vote is awful, yet the party organization seems to be sound. It seems to have grown. Twenty years ago, for Harry Robinson, it polled very nearly as many votes as it did for Roland D. Sawyer. The first Presidential candidate, Simon W. Wing, came from that State. It was among the earliest to swing into line as an organized State. It was the first to elect a Socialist Mayor. It had Chase in Haverhill and Coulter in Brockton. Yet this year it makes the poorest showing of all the states. Its vote has dropped. Its organization seems to have been of no avail. In the big industrial towns from North Adams to the Cape it has lost votes. It has nothing to show for its work, in case any work was done.

In Lawrence, where a great industrial fight was conducted, and one financed by the Socialist party, there is no gain. In fact, it has fallen back from what it was a few years ago. That fight cost the Socialist party about $70,000, and yet there seems to be no Socialist sentiment among the people who were helped, whose children were brought to New York and who were assisted to ultimate victory through the work of a now defeated Socialist Congressman. What is the matter.

Are the comrades in Massachusetts to blame? It was a disgraceful showing, and a disgraceful showing in what was at one time the State that made the noblest battle for freedom. It may be that those who oppose political action have cut into us, have frustrated us and have placed more power in the hands of the master class. That, of course, is a question that cannot be settled until later. But at present we know, that there has been a loss of votes where there should have been an increase.

It is quite evident that there has not been conducted an adequate campaign. The comrades seem to be unable to do anything themselves and seem to be unwilling to allow anybody else to do anything. They neglected utterly the opportunity they had in the mill towns. They were entirely buffaloed by the presence in Boston of a cardinal. They have done no organization work in Fall River, New Bedford, Worcester or Springfield. The vote shows that they have failed all along the line. Why?

As this is one of the great industrial States of the Union, and as it is of strategic importance in the Socialist movement, it is important to know whether the Massachusetts comrades are alive, competent or willing. They surely were not effective in this campaign. They surely made nothing of the $70,000 spent in Lawrence. They surely have let every opportunity be taken away from them. They surely did not make a campaign. They have not manifested any interest in anything.

And there is their vote. It is what they earned.

A State which is of such industrial importance, which is so easily covered by an agitator, which is the most compact aggregation of human beings in the nation, deserves a better fate. But, evidently, there was nothing done this year or else the whole district is hopeless.

It is to be hoped that Massachusetts will get together and commence to get to work. It did not show well, even in comparison with New York City, where also we did not do well. But the old Bay State is the heart of New England, and on its success much of the success of other sections must be predicted. So it will be forced to begin all over again—begin where it was nearly twenty years ago.—New York Call.

THE WORKER.

By Berton Braley in Coming Nation.

I have broken my hands on your granite
I have broken my strength on your steel,
I have sweated through years for your pleasure,
I have worked like a slave for your weal,
And what is the wage you have paid me?
You masters and drivers of men—
Enough so I come in my hunger
To beg for more labor again!

I have given my manhood to serve you,
I have given my gladness and youth;
You have used me, and spent me, and crushed me,
And thrown me aside without ruth;
You have shut my eyes off from the sunlight,
My lungs from the untainted air,
You have housed me in horrible places
Surrounded by squalor and care.

I have built you the world in its beauty,
I have brought you the glory and spoil,
You have blighted my sons and my daughters,
You have scourged me again to my toil,
Yet I suffer it all in my patience
For somehow I dimly have known
That some day the worker will conquer
In a world that was meant for his own!

Your boss had a "good man" for you to vote for. And you easy mark were caught in the same trap that he has caught you in for more than thirty years. Will you ever get sense enough to vote for principle?

"Capitalists" never built the railroads of this country. The roads were built by donations from the nation, states, counties and individuals, and then the people are robbed by extortionate rates to pay "interest" on their own donations. The people would not cooperate to build the roads they wanted, so schemers cooperated them—and you can see the result.—Appeal.

ANECDOTES OF THE GREAT LEADER.

Sometime in 1904 or 1905 President Roosevelt favored the city of Chicago with his august presence on a visit, the purpose of which seemed to be to allow the inferior populace to look upon An Honest Man.

He was to arrive at the Auditorium Annex in the morning, and among the reporters that we assigned to the story was a bright and experienced young woman of the staff.

She was at the hotel waiting in an anteroom when the Pure One arrived, followed solemnly by the royal entourage.

The young woman noticed that as he passed he seemed to glare upon her with a sour and savage dislike, but knowing something of his charming disposition she gave small heed to that and was about to send in her card when there strode up to her an orderly from the entourage and peremptorily addressed her.

"Why did you not rise when the President passed you?" he demanded.

"Rise?" said the young woman with some acerbity, "why on earth should I rise?"

"Don't you know that it is your duty to rise when he appears? You must know that and I have been sent to ask you why you didn't do it."

"Well, you look here," said the young woman, bridling, "I don't know what you people may do in Washington, but out here in the rude, uncultured west men rise when women appear, but no woman rises when a man appears, and I don't give a hoot whether he happened to be the hired man of the nation that we call the president, or whether he is anybody else."

The orderly gazed at her with a kind of breathless awe and fascination as of one who beholds a strange beast. Then with a gasp he backward went his way as if by amazement bereft of speech and ordinary locomotion. But from the royal apartments there issued for that day no more "commands."—Charles Edward Russell, in Coming Nation.

SOCIALIST FORUM

(The following communication, although entirely too long, is published for the reason that the criticism urged by the writer has been heard often and should be noticed. We will publish articles discussing these points, but they must be shorter than the one below.)

WHY? WHY? WHY?

Editor Socialist:

In the recent struggle on the part of the Socialist party to secure greater recognition, there is much that is not above criticism. Candor compels the statement that the Socialist party is not organized along right lines on the one hand and is decidedly premature on the other. The party's organization is defective in that it resorts to the very thing it so vigorously decries, i. e., the "wearing of a party collar." Its organization is such that no voter can be recognized as a Socialist unless he be listed on the membership rolls of a Socialist local and agrees to subvert his opinions to the decision of the majority of that particular body. To any fair-minded person such a provision is not only irreconcilable with the fundamental principles of Socialism, but it places every member (upon whom it is imposed) in the "cannot-be-trusted" class.

Therefore, for the reason that this provision continues and is rigorously enforced, the claim of the old party politicians that "Socialism is inimical to individual initiative" is not without weight.

Organizations (large or small) like individuals are prone to error. History proves that the "concensus of opinion" is no more reliable than honest individual opinion. Had Wendell Phillips, Abraham Lincoln, William Lloyd Garrison, et al., been compelled to submit their views on slavery to a vote of the people (and of the North, mark you!) at any time during the fifties they would have been so effectually squelched as to render a marked departure from history as it is written. Lincoln's efforts toward conciliation and his issuance of the emancipation proclamation after he had secured a large army, serve to reveal the attitude of the people of the North toward the abolition of slavery. The freeing of the slaves was brought about by and through individual initiative. The emancipation proclamation was "sprung" at the psychological moment—when the Northern army was of vast proportions and the soldiers under long terms of enlistment. To have referred the proclamation to the people and the army would have jeopardized Lincoln's policy, to say the least.

To be a Socialist—to "take stock" of political and economic ills and seek to remedy them—one must be free—free from the thralldom of coercion or dictation in any and every form. While much can be said in support of the (at present) sentimental phrase, "Vox populi, vox Dei," it is exceedingly hard to reconcile it with the election of a Cleveland, a McKinley, a Roosevelt and a Taft. In view of the widespread ignorance concerning political and economic questions the phrase above quoted must remain in the sentimental class until ignorance is dispelled by enlightenment.

And when this phase of the situation is considered there comes the realization that a goodly proportion of every Socialist local membership is of the "half- or quarter-baked" variety—composed of men (and women, too), who "see yet don't see." Then what of the man or woman who, after years of study and research, is compelled to submit his or her views to a body composed largely of "half-baked" Socialists? Truly, he or she will feel the full import of the axiom, "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing"

In the foregoing the assertion is made that the Socialist party is and has been decidedly premature. It is and has been premature mainly for the reason that in its manifold attempts to follow the examples of the Socialists of Europe it has signally failed. It has failed for the reason that there is far less cohesion of the toilers in America than in Europe—for the reason that the old-line and well-organized labor unions of America have degenerated into a "species" of aristocracy, which prompts them to taboo political and economic questions and to depend solely upon themselves for betterment. How long this will continue is problematical. Be it sufficient to say, however, that as long as the workers of America are divided all efforts in the direction of imitating an almost solidified Europe will come to naught—just as they have come to naught.

The above has to do with what is termed "direct action," the rock upon which Socialism bids fair to split, if it has not already split. "Direct action" has been on the tongue's end of many Socialists ever since the once-persecuted and harrassed William D. Haywood "brought it over" from Europe and gave to it the stamp of his approval. It seems, however, that Haywood's hindsight is far better than his foresight, else he would have remarked the difference between the organization of labor in Europe and America and deferred "direct action" to a more propitious season.

Socialism is all right; it has come to stay. Just as "the wise man putteth his house in order," so will Socialism eventually put the world in order. But the first step toward that end is the recognition of toiler by toiler; and in view of the strained conditions in America there are many who believe that the first work of the "direct actionist" should be the cementing of all ties.

The street railway motormen and conductors of Columbus would have won their first strike of two years ago had the other workers shown a proper regard for their cause; many a printers' battle has been lost through failure of the pressmen to join hands with them and vice versa; the hod carriers have experienced the roughest sledding of all because of lack of sympathy on the part of bricklayers and carpenters, and so on, ad infinitum, ad nauseum, all serving to prove that education is the first essential to progress.

In conclusion, let it be said that there are many who believe that the Socialist party, as a matter of expediency, should not "mix up" in labor union affairs, other than to communicate with or address the toilers from time to time on the subject of economic liberty. It's bound to come and the duty of the Socialist party is to pave the way through appeal to reason and not to passion or prejudice.

First of all, however, Socialists must learn to trust one another. As at present constituted the Socialist local and other similar branches—county, state and national—amount to nothing more nor less than boards of censors, in many local instances composed of those who, by reason of industrial stress, have sought solace from those who have extended the hand of friendship.

The remedy? Well, the Socialist party must learn to trust its members as it now trusts its locals. Sooner or later it must realize that infallibility has no more to do with the one than the other.

Once imbued with the principles of Socialism no intelligent man or woman can go very far wrong in the matter of their furtherance; but a Socialist local, composed, as it frequently is, of those who have simply "caught the infection," is ever prone to mistakes and serious mistakes at that. Therefore until such time as every vestige of censorship has been eradicated from the party the old-line politicians may well say that "Socialism is inimical to individual initiative."

CAPITALIST LIE NAILED FROM BUTTE, MONTANA.

Mayor Duncan Tells Facts In Regard to Alleged Riot.

(From Lewis J. Duncan.)

The Associated Press dispatch sent out from Butte, Mont., on the morning of November 5th representing that a riot had been precipitated by the Socialists on Monday night by Socialist assaults upon an automobile in which were the Governor of the State and the Democratic candidates for Governor and U. S. Senator, and that later a Socialist cursed the American flag, tore it down from the speakers' stand at a Democratic meeting, and was chased by a mob and severely beaten before being rescued by police, is false.

The facts are that the whole affair was framed up by the Democratic campaign managers as a last desperate attempt to keep the county from going Socialist. The chauffeur of the automobile drove through a crowd gathered on the street listening to Socialist speakers. In the efforts of some of the crowd to escape being run down, the glass shield was accidentally broken and some men attempted to keep the machine from injuring others. No assault on the driver or the occupants of the car was attempted, but the accidental breaking of the glass was seized upon as an excuse to inflame the Democratic audiences by charging that it was an assault upon the Democratic candidate.

After the Socialist street meeting had adjourned and whilst the Democratic meeting was still in progress, a Democratic half-drunken rowdy with the Democratic Sheriff close beside him tore one of the small flags from the stand and began waving it violently in the faces of bystanders. He struck a bystander in the eye with the staff. The bystander struck the flag aside with an oath. Thereupon the rowdy cried out, "Here is a Socialist who says God damn the flag." A gang of Democratic ruffians sprang upon the already injured bystander and beat him up. Decent citizens, Republicans, Socialists and Democrats who stood near rescued the man from his assailants and chased the latter till they found refuge in a nearby cigar store, which evidently had been designated previously as the point of retreat, for, as soon as the rowdies entered, the doors were closed and locked.

The crowd then dispersed; but the Democratic campaign managers promptly got out a band, and the reassembled crowd, after being harangued by Democratic orators, who inflamed them with false representations of the earlier events and with harangues about Socialists being anarchistic, unpatriotic and seditious, formed an impromptu procession composed chiefly of rowdies, drunken men, slum proletarians in the pay of the Democratic machine, and headed by the chairman of the Democratic Central Committee and other politicians of the same faith.

The newspapers on election morning printed in detail the version sent out through the Associated Press, and this roorback unquestionably cost the Socialists hundreds of votes and the election. On Monday it was conceded the Socialists would carry the entire county overwhelmingly. They have lost it by a close margin of from 20 to 50 votes. The roorback and Republican votes for Democratic candidates, with frauds in precincts where there were no Socialist judges or clerks, all combined to bring this result.

Since election the Socialist committee has reliable information that this frame-up to impugn the patriotism of Socialists was proposed to the chairman of the Democratic committee a week before the election, but was rejected by him as "too sensational." The tremendous enthusiasm at the closing Socialist rally on Sunday evidently changed his judgment and the disturbances pulled off on Monday night were with the knowledge and consent.

MISTAKEN FOR MILK.

Some of the milk being sold in dairy lunch rooms is a slander on good, faithful cows of the State of Ohio.

If the cows of central Ohio were organized into the "United Original Milk Producers' Association" they would hold a convention and pass resolutions telling the people of Columbus that the stuff sold as milk in this city has been changed since it first went foaming and bubbly into the pail in the barn.

The original juice of the cow is a nourishing food. Some of the food experts tell us that a couple of glasses of real milk have as much nourishment as a pound of the best beefsteak.

Real milk is real food. It has a touch of yellow to its color and if you slant your eyes at it from the right direction you can see the gleam of fatty, nourishing substances. Such is real milk.

The peculiar pale stuff passed out in some of the dairy lunch rooms has a funny blue edge to it. It tastes like somebody made a mistake. It is a slander on the cows who are credited with having produced it.

SIGNIFICANCE OF TREMENDOUS VOTE.

While it is very evident that our total vote for President of this United States will be a million or better, this in nowise represents the total vote cast for various candidates on the Socialist ticket throughout the country.

It would be safe to estimate that between one and two million other voters voted at least a part of our ticket, due to local conditions. Of course, these votes did not represent votes for Socialism. In most cases they were cast by men who were disgruntled at certain persons running on the old party tickets and voted for our candidates merely as a protest.

Such as these need education and lots of it. They must be taught that the system of capitalism must be changed to a co-operative system under which society will own collectively all of the tools which are used by society to manufacture and distribute food, clothing and shelter. In other words, we want to own the mines, the mills, factories, land, railroads, etc., in much the same manner as we now own the public roads and the public schools.

Another class who voted part of our ticket, voted all of our State and county ticket but did not vote our National ticket, their argument being that "Debs had no chance to win." These voters are what might be termed "near-Socialists." A little more education and a little "Democratic Prosperity" and they will be lined up with us.

The significance of this matter, however, rests upon the fact that at least one-fifth of the voters have broken away from their old party superstitions and are no longer afraid to vote for a man because he is a Socialist. We have made a breach in the walls of ignorance and superstition.

Great times are ahead. The battle is on. We will win because all the forces of evolution are with us.

ADVANTAGES OF BEING REGULATED.

Taft's policy of dissolving the trusts and regulating the fragments is a policy that will be inherited and carried out by Wilson. There is nothing else for him to do. He is going to call a special session of Congress to placate the business interests. And, as an interruption, do you know of a session of any body in this country that was ever called for the purpose of placating the "labor interests," or allaying the fears of those who merely have to work for a living? At that session a new topic is going to be taken up—the good old tariff. Under President Taft we have had tariff to the ears. We have had upward revision, downward revision, and revision sideways. We have had all sorts of schedules thrown at us, and all sorts of convincing arguments, both for and against.

We also have had something else of late. The trusts have either been dissolved or they have been regulated. Thereby they have come under federal supervision and protection. No radical State government can touch them. And it is a mighty good thing for the trusts.

Not long ago Standard Oil was fined $29,000,000, which the federal courts said it did not need to pay. It took the federal courts at their words, abided by the decision, and did not need to pay.

Then the lower courts of various States said it is a monopoly in restrait of trade. The higher courts sternly said the same thing and ordered it dissolved. Still obedient, it dissolved.

And look what happened to it for its obedience. It pays a dividend of 59 per cent. in the year passed since its dissolution. There is a record of dissolution and obedience for you. For every dollar the good stockholder has invested, he receives 59 cents and he still has his dollar. That is what comes of obedience, dissolution and regulation as outlined, and as it will be practiced by the incoming administration. But, for every dollar you put into oil, you must add much more than a half dollar for the stockholders. For that is their reward of obedience, and they are entitled to it under the Demo-Rep, Taft-Wilson method of doing business.

MEMBERS OF ALL BRANCHES LOCAL COLUMBUS.

Dear Comrades:—As one of the steps to improve our organization is to to put the membership in good standing, the Campaign Committee, assisted by several other members, visited the membership of the Seventh Ward branch Sunday with goodresults.

About $9.00 in dues, applications for membership from several of those who were more than one year in arrears and three or four short-time subscriptions to the "Socialist" were secured and literature and short talks were given to interest the indifferent.

It was certainly fine work and demonstrates that the dues can be collected and members enlisted to actively participate in the cause. Other wards are in bad shape and the same assistance will be extended them if they do not take care of it themselves as has already been planned by wards that feel self-supporting and that do not like the idea of comrades coming from other wards to bolster up their organization.

Those who participated in the work last Sunday were well pleased with the results and felt they had done some good for the cause but more co-operation is needed from the wards in which the work is being done and in the future if assisted by the Campaign Committee the wards should give their heartiest co-operation, making the work shorter, easier and more pleasant for all.

Next Sunday, November 24th, the Sixth Ward will be visited in the same way and any one wishing to help is invited to meet with the committee at Socialist Headquarters of the Sixth Ward on Galloway Avenue just north of Mt. Vernon Avenue, on the above date, not later than 7:45 a. m.

Yours for better organization,

W. E. BUES, Organizer,
108½ Sotuh High.

"SAID TO BE AN ANARCHIST."

Canalejas, the anti-Clerical Premier of Spain, was assassinated in Madrid by a man "said to be an anarchist."

This is how the press reports have it, and there is surely a slip-up somewhere. The account sent to the United States should have read, "Said to be a Socialist," instead.

It matters not that Canalejas was not only an avowed anti-Clerical but also a Radical to the extent of being a "near-Socialist." The American public would have never tumbled to the fraud had it been properly presented in the headlines. Now that the Socialists have just polled a million votes or so here, such headlines would have been properly in order.

But may it not be that the wretched creature was a fervent Catholic acting on the suggestion of some Spanish prototype of Father Belford, of Brooklyn, or was he perhaps an ordinary Catholic of the Schrank type? Such conjectures seem certainly more probable than that he was either an "anarchist" or a Socialist, though, of course, it is always in order to describe an assassin as one or the other. We imagine, however, that the church on this side of the water will not denounce the action to any considerable extent, or shed any hot, unnecessary tears over the fate of the Radical Premier of Spain. Silence, as in the Schrank incident, is the best policy in this case also.

HAVE ATTAINED "BUSINESS" STANDING.

From the innumerable comments on the growth of Socialism in the capitalist press we select the following editorial gem from the New York World:

> If the Socialist vote has reached the million mark, as Socialist leaders claim, the party must be regarded as at last established on a practical basis. It is now full-fledged and in a position to make deals and trades. The Socialists, with a voting strength of their proportions, have "broken in." They have proved their right to receive the respectful attention of the older parties, and henceforth must be reckoned as a factor in National campaigns.

This is decidedly flattering, as coming from a spokesman of "Miss Democracy," and were it not that we know something of the political cannibalistic propensities of that amiable old hag, we might perhaps be induced at least to consider the proposition.

It certainly is an honor to be invited to do business and make deals and trades with these "old parties," but the "business" outlook, judging from the experience of our predecessors, is not particularly encouraging, and we may well hesitate.

We notice, for instance, in a casual survey of the premises of that old troglodyte, Miss Democracy, that there are innumerable footprints approaching her cave dwelling, but none coming back.

We notice, too, that some years ago, when Populism had "reached the million mark" and was in a position to "make deals and trades," that it headed for the cave of Miss Democracy, entered—and never came out.

On the whole, therefore, we think it prudent to decline "business" relations for the present. It is doubtful if we can really be considered a business factor at all—in that sense at least. If we have any business at all, it is to put those who invite us out of business; in short, to destroy their business, and the conducting of that business does not involve deals and trades."

Then, too, it is my no means certain that we have actually reached the million mark as yet, and are perhaps not qualified as to business rating.

The Bull Moosers have qualified. Let the World issue them the first invitation to deal and trade, and we will take note of and observe the negotiations and their outcome—from the outside.

The Socialist fly is not yet prepared to walk into the parlor of the capitalistic spider and accept his poisonous hospitality. When we do invade the premises it will be for the purpose of squashing the venomous occupant, not to make "deals and trades" with him. Our business relations with the "older parties" involve no more than that, and that is the only sense in which we mean business.

The invitation is therefore declined without thanks.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

Comrades, let us have a short heart-to-heart talk. We at this office know that your whole soul—your very being—is bound up in this greatest of all causes—Socialism. With a determined stand, a bold front, and some hard individual work, there is no doubt but that we can educate enough voters in this city by next fall that they will march to the ballot box, and vote straight for Socialism, and elect our entire municipal ticket.

What we want to do—must do—is put at least 20,000 subscribers on our subscription list. Perhaps you think this is impossible—not at all! If each subscriber would put on only a few new ones, the trick would be accomplished. We are not asking you to do even that well. All we ask of you is that you do the best you can, and get at least ONE NEW ONE NOW. All the forces of evil and reaction are combined against us, and the only salvation for us is to batter down their walls with a campaign of education.

Comrades, we are not pleading with you. We are merely placing the matter in your hands. This is your paper. You can make it what you will. But remember you can never make it better by withholding your support. On with the revolution!

Comrade Gallentine of the Thirteenth ward, turns in $3.50 for subs as a result of his last Sunday morning's work. The town is full of subs for this paper if you Comrades will go after them.

Many subs were picked up by the committee while collecting dues in the Seventh ward last Sunday morning. Make a campaign Sunday morning, boys. It's glorious work.

Sending in a yellow slip with his sub, Comrade Babbitt writes as follows: "Watch the corners close, my boys. There's lots of trickery going on. It is up to you to keep off war and bloodshed. Keep the peace as long as you can. Do all you can for the benefit of suffering humanity, in a loving way. God help us to do the right."

In making your purchases, comrades, don't fail to purchase from advertisers and use the red tickets. Now is the time to show those men who use our columns that we mean business and purchase only from those who advertise with us. Do this and in this manner help the cause.

SOCIALIST DANCE.

At the time of this writing our first Socialist dance has not yet been held, but from the report of the sale of tickets it cannot be otherwise than a success.

The dances will be held regularly every Thursday evening, at Varian Hall, No. 7 East Town street.

The next will be a "Thanksgiving Dance," Thursday November 28, and it will be a very fitting conclusion of your program of festivities for that holiday.

Every body come and bring your friends and in this way you can perfect your organization, assist your newspaper and purchase literature with the profits to be derived from these entertainments.

If there were more common sense and less soft, sickly sentiment in this world, there would not be such industrial prostitution and slavery.

The guarantee of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, is just an empty dream, when you fellows don't own the industries—the means of life.

Our "captains of industry" support the old parties because the old parties are willing and ever ready to support the "captains of industry." Wide-awake workers support the Socialist party because the Socialist party protects the interests of the workers of industry—and they are more important than the captains, too.

SOCIALIST LEGAL AID BETTER THAN CHARITY.

System in Operation for Nearly a Year —Open to All.

James L. Fieser, new superintendent of the Associated Charities, is planning a legal aid department for Columbus' poor. He expects to enlist the aid of some of the best attorneys in Columbus and to use Ohio State university law students as assistants. Through his new and unique department he expects to throw about Columbus' unfortunates powerful barriers against the interests that have been preying upon them.

Superintendent Fieser says that those who are forced to borrow money from loan sharks are driven from pillar to post until their condition becomes pitiable. They are compelled to pay interest at the rate of 120 per cent a year, whereas the business man pay only 6 per cent.—News Item.

It may be news to the Associated Charities, but not to hundreds of working men and women in this city, that the Columbus Socialist has, for nearly a year, been conducting a legal aid department, in charge of Attorney W. C. Bates, who has the assistance of some of the best lawyers in town. Our legal aid department gives advice and counsel free and is conducted upon a basis which obliges no one to lose his of her self-respect. Some very "pitiable" cases have come to our legal department and hope has been turned away. The office is at 108 1-2 South High street, Room 5.

Saturday Another Great Day at "The City's Center of Interest"

Crowds Rival the Monster Demonstration of Saturday; Added Bargains Insure Biggest Day of All Today

The people have welcomed The Live Store to Columbus in an unmistakable spirit of friendship, cordiality and good will. Crowds, rivalling those of the opening day, which outnumbered by many thousands the first day's attendance at any sale ever conducted here, again favored us with the largest week's business in the city's history. The one big, dominant and constantly recurring thought in this sale is that everybody (competitors excepted) is delighted; patrons most of all.

Here's the Secret (Mighty Simple and Recommended as CERTAIN). If You Want to Gain the Confidence of the People—Tell Them the Truth and Nothing But the Truth..

Because we tell the truth—and because we shall continue to tell the truth as long as we are in business—the people believed and responded—and best of all, received satisfaction. If there is a citizen of Columbus or vicinity who did not—WE URGE HIM TO RETURN THE PURCHASE AND GET HIS MONEY BACK. We will refnnd it as cheerfully as we took it.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONA SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

Carl D. Thompson has entered upon his duties as manager of the Information department of the National Office.

A state convention of the Socialist Party of DelawareParty of Delaware was held at Wilmington, Sunday, November 10, for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps towards forming a state organization. A state constitution was adopted and candidates for State Secretary and National Committeeman nominated.

The National Office will put the constitution and the candidates to a vote of the state membership. If the vote on the constitution is favorable, the question of granting a state charter will then be put to the National Executive Committee.

It will not be possible to secure accurate figures on the election of 1912 for some time. The official count is made at different times in different states. The information department of the National Office will take the matter up and secure the figures as soon as they are available. Meantime, it seems probable that we have doubled the vote of 1908. State Secretaries are requested to send the official vote of their states to Socialist Party, Information Department, 111 North Market Street, Chicago. If the official vote is not yet available, send the semi-official or unofficial vote.

State Secretary Vose of Tennessee reports eight locals organized in that state during the month of October.

Down along the big ditch, at Gorgona, Canal Zone, the people decided to hold a mock election and express their choice for president and other officials, even though their votes would not be counted. Comrade Frederick Einerman sends the results to the National Office. The vote for president was as follows: Taft 10; Wilson 101; Debs 285; Roosevelt 115.

He says, "Our opponents had the noise, but we had the arguments, the facts and the silent vote, as our landslide will show—I do not mean in Culebra cut, but on the ballot."

State Secretary Schawe of Ohio reports seventeen locals and branches organized in that state during the month of October.

The German State Agitation Committee of New York has arranged to hold a National Conference of all German branches affiliated with it, at New Castle, Pa., on the 27th and 28th of December, for the purpose of conferring on questions of organization and propaganda among the German speaking population of the country.

The organization now consists of eighty-three branches, with 4200 members.

As previously reported, the proceedings of the 1912 National convention of the Socialist Party are now in print. In accordance with the directions of the National Executive Committee, they were published as cheaply as possible, with inexpensive paper and rather small type, in order that they might be sold at half price at which former proceedings were sold. Price 25 cents per copy. Address National Office, Socialist Party, 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

Proposed National Committee Motion.

By Germer, Illinois: I move that the National Educational Committee, which was created at the last national convention, meet once a year at National Headquarters, on a date agreeable to the members of the Committee, for the purpose of devising ways and means by which the purpose o fthe Committee can be carried out. Wages and expenses to be paid out of the National Treasury.

An extraordinary international Socialist congress will be held at Basil, Switzerland, November 24, to consider the international situation arising from the Balkan war. The conference was called by the International Socialist Bureau at its recent meeting.

JOHN M. WORK,
National Secretary.

MUNSEY RAPS GOMPERS FOR ATTACK ON VICTOR BERGER.

New York.—The New York Press, owned and edited by Frank A. Munsey, and devoted to the cause of Roosevelt and Progressivism, prints the following editorial:

"Samuel Gompers has expressed satisfaction over the defeat of Congressman Berger, the Milwaukee Socialist, who was the lone representative of his rapidly growing party in congress. He thinks the reverses of the Socialists in Milwaukee and some other places will help the cause of union labor.

"Perhaps. But it is not apparent why anybody should rejoice over the loss of a single congressman by a party that polls nearly a million votes. Mr. Berger has been on the whole a useful congressman. He has made a good many people realize that the Socialists are not anarchists. He has demonstrated a sincere purpose of bettering the posture of the lower strata in the social and economic structure, and in the effort to do that has lined up for most of those specific measures which have been put forth by other sincere people in the effort to benefit those most needing improvement of their condition."

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

That there is a tremendous Socialist sentiment in India which it has been impossible to crystalize and organize because of the persecution of the English government is the statement of Hemendra North Bose, a Brahman, who is now a student at the Northwestern University, and who is living in Chicago.

"The persecution of the Socialists and radicals in India is like unto that of Russia," says Bose. "The British government has fought every attempt to educate the people, and the result is that today only about 25 per cent of the males and 10 per cent. of the females are able to read and write. Those who have sought to educate the people have been forced to flee the country in order to save their lives. They have gone to other countries and established papers and directed work within the Indian Empire, similar to Sun Yat Sen in China. In the City of Paris a Socialist paper is published called Samyaji Krishnavarma, or the Indian Socialist. Another is published by a woman in Paris, entitled Kama, meaning the Motherland. In Berlin, another Socialist paper is circulated, Talwar, or Sword. There are papers published in other cities also which I can not recall at present. In the City of Bombay the Socialists are particularly strong. The British government realizes the growing Socialist sentiment in India, and Lord Minto, in an address before the Indian rajahs, stated that the insurrecto movement was very Socialistic in tendency, and asked the rajahs to make common cause with the British against them."

In the recent election in Argentina, South America, where the right of franchise is limited, the Socialist vote increased from 7,000 to 14,000 after a lapse of only two years. Along with the Socialist growth there has been a like growth of the organized labor movement. Two members were elected to the Legislature. Palacios, who is described as the greatest orator in the republic, and Justo, the foremost writer on theoretic Socialism. The election result caused one of the leading old-party statesmen to lament: "The last election proves that a new power is arising in our midst that slowly but surely will attain to domination. The Socialist party is the coming threat. With secret suffrage this party will in two years, become a strong minority and within four years will have a majority in Buenos Ayers." His explanation of this is that "All other parties seek only political ends, but this new party has a social base, and in this we find the secret of its great success." And he added: "We must all stand together to stem this flood."

MARTIAL LAW IN THE KANAWHA DISTRICT PROCLAIMED AGAIN.

Four Companies of Troops Ordered to the Fields.

Charleston, W. Va.—Martial law has again been proclaimed by Governor William E. Glasscock in the Paint Creek coal fields, where the miners are on strike to enforce recognition of the union and establishment of the scale prevailing throughout the coal mining industry. The territory affected is practically the same as that which was under martial law two months ago.

Four companies of the First West Virginia Infantry were ordered into the district and, Gen. C. D. Elliott, placed in command, established his headquarters at Paint Creek Junction. A military court was named to try all prisoners taken in the martial law territory, which extends for ten miles along Cabin Creek from Paint Creek Junction to Eskdale, and on Paint Creek to Holley Grove, a distance of four miles. Maj. Thomas B. Davis was named provost marshal.

The bitter feeling which has existed between the striking miners and the Baldwin "guards" is breaking out once more, and clashes are expected. The operators are importing large numbers of men who know nothing of the mining business, and who have been brought here on false promises. They are being collected in all the large cities and promised positions in the construction camps of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. When they arrive in the district they are turned over to the mining companies and are watched by the Baldwin "guards" to prevent them escaping. If any imported strike-breaker attempts to leave the collieries he is instantly shot.

Just how the election of Wilson frightens the trusts appears from the following report after it became apparent that he would be the choice of the people: "After noon a buoyant outburst of buying swept into the market, carrying prices of the leading stocks up two to four points." Wilson will soon have a fine opportunity to be a hypocrite in his trust prosecutions just as Taft and Roosevelt were hypocrites.

UNION LABEL BUTTER.

Great Falls, Mont.—For a considerable length of time a local dairy company has been endeavoring to secure the union label to be placed upon butter, but owing to the fact that no organization existed in this industry the label could not be secured. Finally the matter was taken up by a local organizer and a federal labor union was organized and chartered by the American Federation of Labor. As a result of the organization of the people employed by the dairy company, an increase was secured, working hours established at eight, and overtime to be paid whenever it was necessary to work longer than eight hours. As soon as the organization was completed and the wages and hours and conditions of employment mutually agreed to an application was made for the use of the American Federation of Labor union label. The company in question has been granted the use of the label, and so far as known this dairy company is the only one using the union label upon butter.

A BANNER UNION.

London, Ont.—The local cigarmakers' union is the largest organization of the craft in Canada. It has almost doubled its membership during the present year and now numbers close to 600. This city is next to Montreal, the greatest cigar center in the Dominion. New factories are starting and the local concerns are increasing the number of people employed at frequent intervals.

"FLINTS" SEATED.

Rochester.—The Flint Glass Workers' Union was granted a charter by the executive council recently, in compliance with former convention instructions, although the International Association of Machinists filed protests. The machinists again protested the seats of the Flint Workers in the annual session now being held here, but the convention directed the seating of the "flints."

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIALIST SOCIETY.

Never before has the collegian shown a keener interest in Socialism than at present, according to Harry W. Laidler, organizer of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society. The society, which began the present college year with 48 chapters, is receiving constant promises of further organizations in the universities from Maine to California. George Washington University has just been granted a charter, and study groups are being formed at Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke, Dartmouth, Normal College of New York, Pennsylvania State College, Washington-Jefferson College, Miami University, Howard University, Hiram College, Kansas State Agricultural College, University of Indiana, Purdue University, Lopez College, the Universities of Arizona and Southern California and State College of Washington, and Queens and McGill in Canada.

The Harvard Socialist Society has just issued an excellent tract on "Socialism and Present Day Politics," written by Gerard C. Henderson, President of last year's Socialist Club. The University of Michigan Chapter states that their membership will, within a short time, number 150.

At New York the society recently held a meeting at Carnegie Hall at which J. Keir Hardie was the principal speaker. The New York Alumni Chapter is arranging the first dinner of the year for November 29th.

Plans are now under way for the fourth annual convention to be held in New York City, Friday and Saturday, December 27th and 28th. Delegates will be present from study groups throughout the United States and Canada, and some of the best known members of the Socialist movement will address the various meetings.

From the first to the middle of December Organizer Laidler is arranging a speaking trip in the Colleges of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

WHY WORKING-CLASS ETHICS?

(Frederick Guy Strickland.)

Any vital philosophy of human duty must deal with the facts. We are weary of utopian schemes of brotherhood, that lose themselves in the vapors of unreality.

The class struggle is on between the Haves and the Have-nots. To ignore the situation is fatal to any plan that deals with the present. Whatever ethics we can find in our day will be born of the existing class struggle.

But any real human contest usually produces some ethical value. It is on this ground that our "good" people make apology for war. So out of the "battle for bread," and the unavoidable clash of economic interests, comes the groundwork of ethics on which the new civilization will be built.

The solidarity of the workers is the fundamental ethic of the future. It is a class ethic now, but when the workers are victorious, and the class struggle is ended, then it will be a race ethic. The triumph of industrial democracy will mean the ending of exploitation.

Class-consciousness is essential now. The struggle is on. It must be fought out in the domain of social activity. The class-conscious workers will look for no victory except in the victory of his class. This is the moral value of class-consciousness.

The capitalist is class-conscious in his way, but his identity of interests lies only in the field of the victorious capitalists. He becomes a cannibal even to his brother capitalist and so out of his struggle comes no "comradeship." On the other hand, the workers must put protecting arms about their weakest brothers, because these are they who may break ranks and defeat the workers in the struggle.

It is impossible for the ethical position of the working class to be appreciated at present. The ruling (capitalist) class are in a position to dictate the generally-accepted code of morals. And the workers are the ones who most cheerfully accept and try to maintain the morals of any people. The king can do no wrong. The subjects are the ones who must obey.

So it becomes just as necessary for the working class to reinterpret the morals of the people as to conquer on the political and the economic field. We must establish our own ethical platforms. There is no other way out. We must not allow our good to be evil spoken of.

But since this work is in a distinct field it will develop its own form and tactics. Certain it is that the same exclusiveness will not be necessary which is vitally essential on the political and economic fields. For instance, a working man could most enthusiastically support a workers' ethical platform, and at the same time belong to the most capitalistic-ridden church, fraternity or club in existence, for the reason that every religion, fraternalism or morality will be captured by the new ethic. Whatever can not accept the new ethic can not survive.

Workers' ethical platforms will be loyal to the working class in all of their vital struggles, particularly on the political and economic fields. Toward every so-called moral institution the broadest spirit of toleration must be shown. Every institution in the field of morality or religion is in a condition of profound unrest.

This is not a new movement. It is only a part of the general social reconstruction which rests upon the broad shoulders of the workers. It is a phase of our propaganda which will normally develop as we proceed. In every land our appeal becomes increasingly ethical and esthetic.

This form of our propaganda will alone make it possible for us to make our campaign continuous. It is the note that we must strike especially following a general election. The public turns from "politics" to "morals and faith." We must follow the psychology of those whom we would convert.

Ours is the task to abolish individualism from politics, economics and ethics.

SOCIALIST ECONOMICS. THE CLASS STRUGGLE.

The people's political institutions and their moral ideas are the direct result of the way the people get their living—taken in connection with the way their fathers and grandfathers got their living. We also see how the laborers today get their living by creating surplus value for the capitalists.

Put these two thoughts together and what do they suggest? Here we have on the one side a class of capitalists living in luxury on the labors of others. Yet no one capitalist is forcibly robbing any one laborer. Quite possibly each capitalist, or at least the father or grandfather of each capitalist, has been a laborer himself. So these capitalists and their hangers-on persuade themselves and also persuade the less intelligent laborers that wealth is the natural reward of virtue and efficiency.

On the other hand, the more intelligent laborers realize that they are getting far less than they produce. They realize that the modern machinery now used makes their labor immensely more productive than labor used to be, yet they see that they are receiving as wages a smaller portion of their product than ever laborers received before.

So the class struggle is on. Socialists do not make it; they simply explain it, and point out the lines on which it must develop. Thus far the chief weapon of the laborers has been the labor union, and the fighting has been through strikes and boycotts. In the day of the small capitalist, real gains were made by the unions. But in this country the development of the unions has lagged behind the development of industry. The laborers today if organized at all are mostly organized by crafts, so that a corporation employing laborers of several crafts can make a separate contract with each, and when those of one craft are striking for better conditions can use their fellow workers in the other crafts to crush them. To contend with the great corporations on anything like equal terms, the unions will be forced to organize industrially, so as to include in the membership of one union every laborer in the employ of one corporation.

Again, the unions have thus far been made up mainly of the better paid laborers, and through these unions they have generally endeavored to hold on to what little advantages they have had, rather than to over throw the capitalists; they have been conservative rather than revolutionary. But the changing mode of production, irresistible force that it is, has cheapened the skill of the union laborers.

Every improvement in machinery enables each laborer to turn out a larger product than before in the same number of hours, and thus the employer is enabled to do without a part of his laborers. These displaced laborers make up the "army of the unemployed." If the workmen employed by a trust go on strike, a new force of workmen can soon be organized out of that army.

It is natural under such circumstances for the unions to resort to force, but here the capitalists are ready for them with superior force. The powers of government in America and in every other "civilized" country are at the disposal of the capitalist when a contest is on with the laborer.

Thus by the logic of events the class struggle has been extended to the ballot box. Here from year to year the voters have a chance to say who shall direct the clubs of the police and the rifles of the soldiers. Thus both in the shops and at the polls the struggle is on.

Let us take a look at the forces ranged on each side. The capitalists would have you believe that the battle is between hand workers on one side and brain workers on the other. But such an assumption is wholly untrue, and it is indirect conflict with the Marxian ideas that we are studying.

We have seen that classes of men are mainly moved by the economic conditions under which they get their bread. Now apart from begging and the various illegal methods of stealing there are just two ways to get bread and the other necessities of life under our present society. One way is to work with hand and brain. The other way is to own things and by this ownership to get hold of the wealth made by some one else. It is, of course, possible for one person to do both. It used to be more common than it is. It will soon be less common than it is. The lines are being drawn more and more clearly between those who live by working and those who live by owning. Once the employer was a laborer, who worked in a litfle shop along with the other laborers to whom he paid wages.

Later, he was a superintendent, who did not work with his own hands, but day by day directed the labor of the others to make it more efficient.

Still later, he hired a workman to do the superintending, while he went into the market to buy the raw material and sell the product.

Lastly he has sold his factory to a trust and has received in payment a block of dividend-paying stock or a bunch of interest-drawing bonds. Now he never need go near the factory; he may live where he lives, and spend his income as he pleases. All the buying and selling, all the account-keeping and planning, all the brain work as well as all the hand work is done by hired wage laborers. And the income he draws and spends without working is made possible only by the fact that those who are doing the work are getting for it less than they really earn.

So when the battle lines are drawn for the final contest between the capitalist and the laborer, there will be on the side of the capitalist only those who live by owning and those who can be fooled, or bribed, into voting against the interests of the class to which they really belong.

On the other side will be those who live by their labor. The distinction between bodily and mental labor is really an outgrown distinction like that between body and "soul." There is no bodily labor without mental labor. If a ditch digger were to put no intelligence into his work he could not hold his job. And there is no mental labor without bodily labor. No matter how sharp or unscrupulous a corporation attorney may be, he cannot earn his big fee without the bodily labor of dictating his legal papers and then examining them.

Again, it is absurd to attempt to draw a line between useful work and useless work under capitalism and to count those who do useless work on the side of capital. Useful work is that which satisfies the desires of somebody that has the price, and under our present system, when each member of the working class must find a purchaser for his labor power if he is to stay on the earth, it is foolish to count a man as being on the capitalist side because he has to earn his week's pay by setting jewels in a poodle dog's collar or adding up columns of figures in a bank.

And not all workers are employed on a weekly wage. When the railroad corporations received from their government millions of acres of fertile lands, they did not hire wage workers to go on those lands and raise crops for them. That was because they found that by selling the land to farmers who thought they were going to become wealthy by their labor they could get a great deal more out of each farm in interest and freight charges than by hiring laborers to work it. And these Western farmers are working longer hours for smaller pay than the average city laborer. What is more, they are as ready to rebel.

The small shopkeeper is also in the same boat. If he is stupid, he may think of himself as a capitalist, but if he is at all bright he is coming to see that his "profit" is mostly wages, and usually very low wages, for the labor he expends in taking care of his shop and selling goods. So his material interests really lead him to favor the social revolution that will bring him better pay for shorter hours of labor.

Thus we see that in the class struggle that is daily growing more intense, only those who live by owning, less than ten per cent of the people, have anything to gain by upholding the present social system, while those who live by working, more than ninety per cent have, in the words of the Communist Manifesto, nothing to lose but their chains and all the world to gain.

The classic book on this subject is "The Class Struggle," by Karl Kautsky, translated by William E. Bohn from the German work entitled "Das Erfurter Program." The book is a general exposition of Socialism, but its closing chapter, pages 169-217, deals specifically with the war between the classes.

"Socialism Made Easy," by James Connolly, is a simple and readable booklet for beginners, which is well suited to start wage workers on the right track.

WAGE INCREASE RUMOR.

New York.—There has been a rumor current in this city that the Board of Arbitration which has been investigating the demands of the engineers of the Eastern railroads for an increase in wages has decided to recommend to the roads that the demands be granted. A confirmation has not yet been received.

CIGARMAKERS GET RAISE.

Chicago.—International President George W. Perkins reports that the local union of Cigarmakers at New Westminster, B. C., has been granted an increase of $1 per 1,000 on all jobs. The cigarmakers are being universally successful in securing advances in wages.

NEW STREET CAR UNION.

Marshalltown, Iowa.—A revival of trade union sentiment is on here. Recently the men operating the street cars organized and secured a charter. The street car company has granted the first request to reduce the hours from fifteen to ten per day.

RAILWAY CARMEN.

Kansas City.—The members of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen employed by the Texas Midland Railroad in Texas have just secured a satisfactory schedule, and the agreement was reached without any friction.

AMALGAMATED GLASS WORKERS.

New York.—The Amalgamated Glass Workers' International Association has organized a local union of bevelers at Los Angeles, Cal., and also a local at Salt Lake City, Utah.

PAVING CUTTERS.

Albion, N. Y.—The members of the paving cutters' union, in voting on certain proposed amendments to their constitution, recently cast a decisive vote in favor of making the eight-hour workday universal in their organization. The date set upon which to inaugurate the shorter workday is June 1, 1913. At the present time about 25 per cent of the members of this organization are working nine hours per day.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Charles Staley, whose residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 8th day of October, 1912, Sarah O. Staley filed her petition in the Court of Common Pleas, Franklin County, Ohio, cause No. 64035, praying for divorce on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The said cause will be for hearing on and after November 23, 1912.

DUNKLEMANN OFFERS SOCIALISTS ADVICE

Mr. Editer:—

I see by the Socialist papers that you fellers are puttin up a grate shout abowt the inkrease in the Socialist vote. Sure you made a inkrease. Nobodie thot you wodent. What gits me is how you fellers fail for the things that are being pulled off on you all the time. I hant sayin you hant wright in a lot of things but I am sayin that when you spect to git your demands by egskatin the wirkin klass your takin a durn long root. I here som of you fellers talkin as how this here kooperative kommenwelth must be brot thru the avegrege intilligense of the workers. You kant measure the strenght of a thing by the average strength of any part kontained in it, as if you measure the Socialty muvement by the intelligense of the left egskated feller in it you hant never goin to git any place. Talk abot egskatin the voters, I no of som Dimikrat an Republikan jugess that dont even no how to kount a ballot after its voted let alone noing what theroy doin when they kast there vote.

What you fellers want to do is to take a little look at the Dimikrat partie. Jist look at the big magortie them fellers piled up. Do you think thet they relyed on the averege intillegense of the voters? If you think they did jist ask any of them, frum the top to the bottum how to regelate kompitishun. They wont tell you, cause they dont no an they dont kare. What the fellers thet are runnin the Dimikrat partie wants is to feed the workin class a little sop an the intillegint workin class is eatin it jist like as though it was porter shinty stake. We have you Socialist beat to a standstill. We will amaze you up with taffie by not lettin times get any worse for the next four years an when the dear peapool are kalled to the next presedental elekshun they will be so glad thet they are not all starved to death thet they will shout fer fore years more of a bare subsistince an elect a stanpat Dimikrat under whose adminestrashun they will expirence sich a lowerment of the standird of livin thet they will be sorely tempted to upset something. Dont worry though, they wont do it. The Socialty partie will stand between the mob an us fellers. How you fellers do love law an order. By thet time you will hev egskated the peapool up to the mediate demands an the progresife will go throu with a rush an the kountrie will be saved to kapitilist fer another fortie years.

PATHETIC TALE OF WOE FROM OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

Students in Need of Money Swindled by Designing Bull Mooseys.

There is an old adage that "murder will out," and lesser crimes than murder come to light. This is true of a sad incident which involves certain local "Progressive" politicians and about forty students of the O. S. U., who need every cent they can earn.

According to our informant the local Bull Moose politicians met the students at the Ohio Union building the Saturday before election and enlisted some forty of the boys to distribute campaign literature promising each $1 for the same. The students performed the service faithfully, we are told, but the local bosses have thus far failed to show up with the mazuma. This was cruel, but the boys will know better next time.

The Liberty is caught with the goods.

GRAND JURY WILL PROBE ALLEGED COUNCIL SCANDAL.

Council committee on railroads and viaducts decided at an informal meeting Friday night not to probe further the charge that a councilman was offered compensation for voting in favor of a viaduct at the Parsons avenue and T. & O. C. crossing. This stand was taken so as not to interfere with Prosecuting Attorney Turner, who has decided to investigate the situation.

$9 WEEKLY WAGE FOR WOMEN.

Dayton, Ohio.—The National Cash Register company of this city today announced that a new minimum wage of $9 a week for women has been adopted by the company. Over 600 employes are affected.

Anybody who knows anything about the National Cash at Dayton knows that the machines will be speeded up and the women and girls will be compelled to produce many times more for $9 per week than they ever did for $5 or $6. What a princely wage is $9 per week, any how!

LOCAL MT. VERNON TO GIVE BIG JOLLIFICATION.

Local Mt. Vernon has arranged to give a big jollification and Thanksgiving supper, Saturday evening, November 23, 7:00 p. m., at the Socialist hall, east side of Public square.

A stereopticon lecture, phonograph, recitations and several other amusements, with a bountiful supper to all who come, are on the program.

Now, Comrades, bring your friends and come to jollify with us; it is a splendid chance to get acquainted and see a good time. Everybody is invited to take part in this grand jollification.

LOCAL MT. VERNON.

Too warm for The Liberty—we must unload.

REPUBLICAN, DEMOCRAT WORKMEN.

Did you ever hear how a 150,000 English rule 200,000,000 Hindus?

It's very simple.

The Hindu nation consists of Mohammedans and Hindus, and this handful of Englishmen set this overwhelming mass of Indians fighting among themselves. The Hindus are on one side, the Mohammedans on the other. They fight each other. And so the Indian nation remains so weak that they stay under the heel of England.

Republican and Democrat workingmen—Bull Moose workingmen, if there are any—do you see the point of this piece of Indian history?

We workingmen are like the Indian nation. Standing together we are invincible. There are so many of us that none can resist us.

But we fight each other. Thousands of us stand with the Democrats, thousands of us stand with the Republicans, and a few of us with the Bull Moosers.

And so a few rich men stand on top and keep us continually under them.

Comrades, The Liberty has a surprise for you.

CONFERENCE OF SOCIALIST OFFICIALS

MARGUERITE PREVEY,

Now that the excitement of the battle of ballots is clearing away, it behooves us to prepare ourselves and our organization for the next conflict. Political action means far more than voting and electing men to office, it also means that we must be prepared to utilize to the very best possible advantage all political power won at the ballot box, the working class must be prepared to speak for themselves in our legislative halls if they are to succeed in emancipating themselves, therefore they must prepare themselves by closer organization, systematic, intelligent and disciplined organization.

We have many officials now serving as mayors, councilmen, members of school boards, justices, etc.; they are doing effective work and are solving and grappling with many problems that are of special interest to the comrades in the State, and especially so to the Socialists who will be compelled to serve as officials in the municipalities in the near future. We should go into the next campaign with a definite program for the municipalities. This can be done in a State far better than at a National convention, because the laws of only one State would have to be considered.

The commission form of government and new city charters are important measures that must be considered by the party in Ohio, so we may outline definite action on these matters. For this reason it seems to me the party in this State should call a conference of all the Socialists elected to office and now serving in this State. This conference should be held at Columbus, Ohio, by January 1, 1913. The comrades working in shops and factories can leave their work at that time better than any other because the manufacturer takes inventory about that time.

At this conference a municipal platform and program should be adopted so we could go into our municipal campaign with a definite program which would command attention instead of pursuing the old method of every little town with its own program entirely related to Socialist principles and tactics.

We should also request the attendance of the head of our National Bureau of Information to give us what information may be in possession of the National office on the question of municipal administration.

An assessment of ten cents could be levied on the membership in the State to pay railroad expenses of the officials, halls, etc.

Let us get down to business, comrades; let us take an inventory of our organization so that we may strengthen any weak spots and make it more effective for future work.

In going over the State in this campaign, I was amazed at the number of Socialist officials I met, and their experience as administrators is of the utmost importance to the movement. Let us get together and prepare to take advantage of the victories we are bound to win in the campaign already under way.

Akron, Ohio.

The Socialist Party can't free you industrial slaves; it only points out the way to freedom. If you wage slaves want to lose your chains you'll have to get busy yourselves.

ELECTION PROBE ORDERED AT STEUBENVILLE.

Fifteen Thousand Dollars Used Corruptly in Jefferson County.

With the expense accounts of candidates and committees in, which are to be laid before the grand jury for investigation, it is estimated that about $15,000 was put into the recent election from all sources in Jefferson county, Ohio.

At least four candidates in the November election are mentioned as having evidence against them for corrupt practices violation. Officials have learned that several political workers have been visiting certain persons who are expected to be called as witnesses. Considerable pressure has been brought to have the investigation stopped, and Attorney General Hogan has been seeking to delay the probe until in December, while Judge Richards at Steubenville insists upon going ahead at once. If this election fraud business keeps up there won't be anybody left with the right to vote except the Socialists.

MAYOR LUNN OUT ON BAIL IN FIGHT AT LITTLE FALLS.

Socialist Executive of Schenectady to Sue the City.

Little Falls, N. Y.—Mayor George R. Lunn, the Socialist executive of Schenectady, after spending last night in Herkimer county jail upon his conviction of violating a local ordinance, was released on bail late this afternoon, pending an appeal, and left for Schenectady this evening, charging the Little Falls authorities with malicious persecution and vowing he would sue the city for heavy damages for false imprisonment.

The bond for his release pending a decision on the appeal was fixed at $100, and one in that amount, signed by Mayor Lunn personally and Attorney Richard Hurley, of this city, was approved by the court.

I'd rather vote for my loved ones and be laughed at, than vote for my master and then be laughed at for being a sucker.

Did you working mules notice how pleasant the boss was to you just before or on election day? It'll be another year before you'll see him as agreeable and considerate. Can't you get next to the reason?

The papers are still concealing the Socialist returns. It doesn't merely happen so. They want to conceal the fact that Socialism is gaining, for the psychology of it. It does not impress the people of the country a month after the election. Socialists make a mistake when they do not report to their press the vote of their district immediately after hearing it.

Did some of you asses get a ride in an automobile or carriage to the polls on Tuesday? Well, that's the only one you'll get unless you can pay for it till next election. Say, but some of you fellows are a cheap lot.

DIRECT ACTION VS. POLITICAL ACTION.

At the time when the Socialist party should be working with the least friction and with most harmony it has got to fight for its life on account of the internal dissension fostered by a few, who are trying to steer us away from political action, or at least make political action of less importance than direct action.

I admire the man or woman who displays an over abundance of grit and enthusiasm, for they are made of the stuff that heroes are made of, but there is such a thing as going past the limit.

Direct action has no limit, has no boundaries, no place to stop; any thing is direct action from breaking an egg to breaking a man's skull; it needs no education to be a direct actionist of some sort. Every crime on the calendar is committed through direct action as well as every good thing.

Political action can only come through education, by awakening in the people a class consciense instead of a class hatred; by arousing the minds of the whole people to a realization of their condition and to show them what life could be under the co-operative commonwealth, and create in the whole people a desire for the things that "eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard."

Direct action is to political action what the man who studies to get perpetual motion is to the one who takes advantage of the millions of horsepower of perpetual motion that we already have latent in our great waterfalls and tides, only waiting for the hand of man, through the co-operative commonwealth, to turn them to use. Every brook is singing, every river is chanting and the ocean's tide joins in the base as it keeps time to the invitation, "Come, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

There are some who seem to think that direct action has a purifying influence on Socialism. Some who did not know might reason that to throw sand into the bearings of a great machine was better than oil, and would strive to prove it by calling attention to the brightness of its scoured bearings.

Direct action, to be of use, must be subservient to political action just as a union votes to go out on a strike.

The capitalist would a hundred times rather see in this country a bloody revolution than a revolution at the ballot box, because the revolution at the ballot box means that the people have become educated to the point that they know what they want and how to get it.

I should like to see the members of the Socialist party take up the study of constructing the great commonwealth, for once we get our minds on the future—begin to look forward—begin to live along the thoroughfares where parks and fountains, landscapes and flowers, and chime bells beckon us to come, even though we may in our time never realize them, yet we will die happier knowing that we have been instrumental in bringing about these conditions for our children's children, who will honor us for the proof they will have of our love for them, which "passeth all understanding."

DEBS, WARREN AND SHEPARD INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY AS BLOW AT "APPEAL"

Debs Issues Defiant Answer to Latest Move of Pliant Courts of Capitalism

Girard, Kan., Nov. 28.—In a desperate effort to suppress The Appeal to Reason, the fighting Socialist weekly of this town, the federal government and the postal authorities played a high card today by causing the federal grand jury at Fort Scott to return indictments against Eugene V. Debs, Fred D. Warren, managing editor of The Appeal, and J. L. Sheppard, The Appeal's attorney, charging an attempt to spirit witnesses away from the court's jurisdiction.

Warren and Shepard were arrested tonight and Debs will be arrested at his home in Terre Haute, Ind., if found there.

The case against The Appeal and Debs as a contributing editor, arises out of The Appeal's exposure last winter of the inhuman conditions prevailing at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, and which resulted in the discharge of several of the wardens incriminated by The Appeal.

DEBS LAYS INDICTMENT TO PLOT TO SILENCE "THE APPEAL TO REASON."

Editor Columbus Socialist:

The indictment of Warren, Sheppard and myself is based upon our alleged attempt to obstruct justice by inducing a witness against The Appeal to Reason to leave the jurisdiction of the court. The indictment is based upon a made-to-order lie. The prosecutor knows it is a lie, the court knows it is a lie, and everybody connected with the case knows it is a lie.

This infamous lie is all there is to support the indictment. It is sufficient. All that was needed was a pretext, and this foul lie was hatched by the blackmailing scoundrels who control the court machinery, and who have openly boasted that they would put us in the penitentiary and bankrupt and destroy The Appeal.

This case is but a continuation of the brutal persecution by the federal court of The Appeal to Reason for exposing the crimes of capitalism, especially the venal judges placed on the bench by corporate influences, the corrupt courts and the sinkholes of filth and horror known as federal prisons.

If the crimes committed behind the walls of the federal prison at Leavenworth were known it would shock and horrify and eternally disgrace the nation.

For having drawn aside the curtain for but a brief hour, The Appeal has been marked by the official mercenaries who have rioted in the proceeds of these crimes against the nation's unfortunates, and they have sworn that The Appeal must be wiped out of existence.

For six years these bloodhounds of capitalism have been on the track of The Appeal, backed by the federal administration at Washington and the plundering powers of Wall Street and, according to Harry Bone, the agent provocator who draws salary as prosecuting attorney, the end of The Appeal is now in sight, and we shall soon be in convicts' stripes.

I want to serve notice here and now that so far as I am concerned the working class shall not be held up for a single red cent for my defense by the blackmailing thieves and corruptionists who wear the livery of court officials, in which to serve the buccaneers who are robbing this nation and destroying the people's liberties.

I defy the whole infamous gang of judicial cutthroats and mercenary hirelings of capitalism to do their worst. I will accept no quarter at their hands. I scorn their mercy and hold their hideous travesty upon justice in loathing and contempt.

Having been the candidate of the working class for the White House, I can now well afford to be the candidate of the robber class for the penitentiary.

I am ready for the fight. I know what it involves and am prepared to stay to the bitter end.

They have me on trial now, but it will not be long before we will put them on trial before the American people. EUGENE V. DEBS.

STATE FAIR GROUNDS FOR PUBLIC PARK

Socialist Councilman Warren's Plan Encouraged by State Board Agriculture.

Some time ago, Socialist Councilman C. E. Warren of the Thirteenth Ward introduced a resolution in city council to approve a plan by which the city of Columbus would secure the use of the State Fair Grounds as a public park.

Service Director Kinnear, Councilmen Warren, Sherman and Connolley conferred with the State Board of Agriculture regarding the plan. The members of the board seemed Tuesday to approve the plan and Director Kinnear expressed the belief they will formulate a definite arrangement with the city soon.

It is estimated the cost of making a park of the grounds will be about $5,000. The city will pay all expenses of maintaining it between times for the fair and this will diminish the cost of upkeep by the State.

Elimination of the grade crossings of the Big Four, which runs along the fair grounds, is an important item in the proposal. This cannot be done until the suit on the $700,000 bond issue for that purpose is settled. It has been suggested that Fifteenth Avenue would become a boulevard connecting the fair grounds with the State University campus when the grade crossing at that street is abolished. The State Fair Grounds are actually in use only one week of each year. Under Councilman Warren's plan the people of the city and State would have the use of the place all the year.

OSCAR AMERINGER COMING.

Oscar Ameringer, the Socialist humorist, will speak at Federation of Labor Hall, 121½ East Town Street, on Monday evening, December 23. Admission 10 cents.

FIFTH WARD BRANCH DUES COLLECTION.

The Campaign Committee will be at 581 Kelton Avenue Sunday (tomorrow) morning to institute the collection of dues in the Fifth Ward. The following Comrades are expected to report, besides all the volunteers who possibly can come: Gus Tegenkamp, Edgar Wood, E. R. Lawrence and B. M. Woody.

COLUMBUS FEDERATION OF LABOR IN SESSION.

At the regular session of the Columbus Federation of Labor last Monday evening the election of a president to succeed James H. Henderson, resigned, was deferred until the first meeting in January. In the meantime Vice President Marsh C. Green will be acting president. H. J. Coslett was elected financial secretary to fill a vacancy.

The Federation appointed a committee composed of Alonzo Rowe, painter; Arthur Leavitt, fireman, and Charles Cashdollar, cigar maker, to look after the interests of injured workmen and advise them as to their rights under the new employers' liability law. The committee will employ an attorney to represent injured workmen when necessary. Any cases will be looked after whether the persons belong to a union or not.

A committee was also elected to investigate as to why the Lazarus store is conducting a barber shop with non-union conditions. The committee consists of Paul Meister, Ed Kinney and Fred Vance.

The garment workers' label will be promoted by John Patton, H. Ebright and A. E. Larison.

It was announced that the local barbers' union would celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization with a banquet on December 5.

State Secretary Dietz of Louisiana reports six locals with a total of thirty-six members organized in that state during the month of October.

16x20 Beautifully Framed Water Color Portrait of Any Person You May Desire

This paper has thousands of warm supporters. Hundreds of comrades are sacrificing time and money to put new subscribers on the list. The reward these workers get is the satisfaction derived from the fact that they are WORKERS FOR SOCIALISM.

However, to show our appreciation for all this self-sacrifice, we intend, beginning December 1, 1912, until further notice, to GIVE ABSOLUTELY FREE each month a full 16 x 20 WATER-COLOR PORTRAIT, BEAUTIFULLY FRAMED (of any person desired) to the one who puts on the most subscribers each month. IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHETHER YOU LIVE IN COLUMBUS OR NOT. Regardless of where you are, if you win the portrait is yours.

Every comrade (man or woman) has a picture of some loved one which they would like to have done in water-color. This gives you an opportunity to beautify your home and at the same time work for the cause nearest your heart. The artists' work on these portraits will be furnished by Columbus' most foremost artists.

START NOW AND WIN a beautiful New Year's present for some loved one.

THE SOCIALIST.

Enough is Enough

Last Monday night during the session of City Council Mr. Barry, Democratic Councilman from the Twelfth Ward, took occasion to blow up in his accustomed way, and in a fifteen-minute fiery denunciation, accused Socialists of being atheists, anti-religious and all the other old wornout stock arguments that have been used against us for the past twenty years. The result of these arguments has been that the Socialist party has steadily grown both in influence and power until we are now within striking distance of the Presidency of these United States, and why? Simply because the Socialist party has no claim upon any man's religion. We are a political party organized upon the political field for the express purpose of taking over this government, and using the power thus granted us to take over the industries of this country and make them the common property of all the people.

In our party we have Protestants, Jews and Catholics and members of all other religious organizations, just the same as the Republican or Democratic parties. With pride and in refutation of what these paid hirelings of the capitalist class may say, we point to the fact that some of the best workers in the Socialist movement are members of the Catholic Church. We further point with pride to the fact that the strongest Catholic wards in this city were carried by the Socialist party one year ago.

But we have had enough of this flub-dubbery about the Socialist party being un-American and anti-religious. If it is un-American and anti-religious to want to bring about a system of government that will guarantee that every man and woman who does useful and necessary work, shall be well clothed, well housed and well fed, then we proclaim to the world that we are un-American and anti-religious.

Let the exploiters of child labor, whether behind the walls of a shoe factory or convent, BEWARE. Already through the political power granted us by the citizens of the Tenth Ward we have bared to the world the horrible conditions existing behind the walls of the sweat-shop at the corner of Broad and Sandusky. Had this institution been owned and conducted by any Protestant Church, or by any individual, be he or she Protestant or Catholic, they would have received the same treatment at our hands, as in the case of The Hershey-Rice Company or Trinity Church, New York. This institution, as the readers of this paper know, was placed on the tax duplicate for $10,000 just the same as any other institution that operates for profit. Behind the walls of this institution were found little children of tender age who were having their little lives ground up into profit in the interest of a few parasites.

This paper published the facts to the world, and no greater monument to the truth of our exposure could possibly be had than the fact that the paper had no suit on its hands for libel. We were prepared then as we are prepared now to back up every statement ever made in this paper.

The Catholic Church stoutly maintains that it is not in politics. It will have a hard job convincing the patriotic citizens of Columbus that this is true after the mess Mr. Barry made of things in Council. The facts in the case are that in Germany and practically all European countries, the Catholic Church has its own political party and makes no bones about being in politics. They are in politics in this country up to their ears, and well had the American people better heed the warning of General Lafayette, who said, "IF THE LIBERTIES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE EVER DESTROYED THEY WILL FALL AT THE HANDS OF THE CATHOLIC CLERGY."

In conclusion we wish to state that this paper made the City of Columbus a business proposition to do the city printing that would save the taxpayers at least $10,000. This proposition was a material thing, had nothing whatever to do with the next world. A majority of City Council accepted our proposition on this basis and voted to give us the printing. We wish to state further that we have existed for two years without this city printing, and will undoubtedly exist many years more. In fact we are not in business for the purpose of getting business, at this stage of the game at least.

We will be on the job when the co-operative commonwealth is ushered in regardless of whetherthat is in five or fifty years.

COUNCIL AGAIN AWARDS PRINTING TO LOW BIDDERS

Councilman Barry Makes Bitter Attack Upon Socialists in Speech that Disgusts His Hearers.

The Socialists certainly were on the program of the city council last Monday evening, the principal features of the session being the awarding of the city advertising to The Columbus Socialist and The Times as the lowest bidders, the protest against The Socialist made by the Franklin County Federation of Catholic Societies and the holy show which Councilman Barry made of himself in a venomous attack upon Socialists individually and collectively. Barry fairly frothed at the mouth in his tirade until Mr. Sherman raised a point of order and Barry was called down by President-protem Baldridge. Socialist Councilmen Warren and Bohnert moved to allow Mike to fully unload himself. The "Bishop" refused to accept this courtesy until Louis the XIV. (Alcott) made the same motion. The speech of Barry was the most disgraceful and disgusting one ever delivered on the floor of council, according to men familiar with city affairs. It injured no one except Barry and his backers. The Socialist members have been warmly commended for dignified contempt with which they treated the ravings of the ranter from the Twelfth Ward.

The city printing question came up at once after roll call, when President Logan, properly, called attention to the fact that the resolution, awarding the contract to The Socialist and The Times, had only passed one reading at the previous session of council. Upon the motion to pass the resolution the vote was in the negative, 10 to 9. Mr. Connolley, who voted yea the week before, and Mr. Griffin and Mr. McGuire, not present before, lining up against the low bidders. Mr. Hayden, as always, voted for the lowest price.

Mr. Alcott, after a sneering allusion to The Socialist as "a one-legged paper," sought to have the question divided. Alcott's evident fling at the physical disability of the editor of this paper fell flat, and his motion failed.

Mr. McGuire moved to extend the present contract with the Journal and The Week for six months. This was defeated by a vote of 11 to 6.

Then came the surprise. Mr. Nailor, councilman at large, who had been persistently and consistently against The Socialist, moved to reconsider the vote by which the minority report of Mr. Reinhard had been defeated. His motion prevailed by a vote of 16 to 3. The original resolution or the minority report awarding the city advertising for the year 1913 to The Socialist at 30c and 15c per square, The Times at 25c and 25c and Der Westbote at 60c and 40c, was adopted with the following score:

Yea—Bohnert, Wilson, Zimpfer, Warren, Ellis, Reinhard, Sherman, Stribling, Nailor, Hayden—10. Nay—Alcott, Baldridge, Connolley, Griffin, McGuire, Barry, Lucks, Biederman, Wegman—9.

This action was taken after a prolonged discussion in which the Socialist Councilmen, besides several others, declared for the awarding of the printing contract upon the simple basis of economy, and Socialist member Bohnert thought that in view of the records of some of the councilmen they ought to favor the paper with the smallest circulation.

Under the head of petitions and memorials the following remarkable document was presented and read:

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Franklin County Federation of Catholic Societies, and the secretary was instructed to transmit a copy thereof to your honorable body:

Resolution.

Whereas, at the regular meeting of the Council of the City of Columbus, held on Nov. 18, 1912, a resolution was voted upon to grant to the Socialist paper the city printing for the ensuing year; and

Whereas, it is reported that said resolution will again be considered at the regular meeting of council to be held on Monday, Nov. 25, 1912; and

Whereas, said Socialist paper is not a political paper, but is in fact an anti-religious organ and is opposed to all forms of Christianity, Protestant and Catholic, and to all religions; and

Whereas, said Socialist paper is not a newspaper as contemplated by law; and

Whereas, said Socialist paper has made malicious and false attacks upon the charitable institutions of this city that have been doing charity work for more than fifty years last past, and are a credit to the city of Columbus; and

Whereas, if said city printing will be awarded to said Socialist paper the money of the taxpayers and of the Christian people of this city will be used by said paper to make continued warfare upon religion and upon Christian and charitable institutions of this city; therefore, be it

Resolved, that we, the members of the Franklin County Federation of Catholic Societies protest against the awarding of the city printing to said Socialist paper. Be it further

Resolved, that said Socialist paper is not entitled to said printing upon an economical or any other basis, because economy is insignificant compared to the harm that will and is being done by said Socialist paper. Be it further

Resolved, that we urge the members of the city council to vote for the welfare of their homes and of the city and the uplift of morality and refuse to award said printing to said Socialist paper.

The Franklin County Federation of Catholic Societies, through its various organizations representing all of the Catholic people and organizations of this city and on their behalf protests against the giving of the city printing to said paper.

N. J. WEISEND, Sec'y.

When the reading was completed Councilman Sherman got the floor and declared that council was no place for such a resolution to be read and that it was only a trick to coerce councilmen to vote for something they did not want. He said that no church had a right to interfere with councilmen doing their duty to their constituents and the taxpayers.

Socialist Councilman Zimpfer protested against the resolution being filed, as its statements were false from beginning to end. He said that as he understood the principles of the Catholic church it and the Socialist party were striving for the same thing. President Logan intimated that the protest of the Catholic would not be filed.

Socialist Councilman Wilson declared that of the people who drew up the protest would study Socialism a little they would not be so ignorant as to make such statements. He asserted that Socialists were law-abiding citizens in every respect.

Socialist Councilman Warren, before President Logan closed the discussion, said that if the Catholic Federation people were not satisfied with the action of council they could go to court with it. Neither Mr. Warren nor any other Socialist councilman said anything like "to hell with the resolution." The Ohio State Journal simply lied when it misquoted "a Socialist member."

Council, by a majority vote, took the minimum wage ordinance introduced by Councilman Lucks from the hands of the finance committee, and laid the matter over until next Monday night. The ordinance calls for a minimum wage of $2.25 a day for laborers in the waterworks, street sprinkling and cleaning departments.

Council Wilson, Socialist, moved to amend by increasing the amount to $3, but this was rejected.

SOCIALIST ECONOMIC SCHOOL.

The Economic School of the Socialist party, held at No. 755 West Broad street last Saturday evening, was a success. The subject matter for discussion was, "Value, Price and Profit," using Marcy's Shop Talks as a text book, and was very interesting.

The school is for the purpose of teaching the doctrines of Socialism, so as to fit the members of the organization to more clearly present it to the public. Every one should be interested and they should make their interest manifest by attending regularly.

The subject for discussion next Saturday evening is, "The Purposes of Life," subdivided under three heads, Self-Preservation, Gratification and Propagation. Gratification will be considered from a physical, mental, moral and spiritual standpoint. Propagation to be considered from the viewpoint of the marriage relations.

Comrade Eubanks and Comrade Wood will open the subject with short talks, after which the subject will be open for general discussion.

You are all cordially invited to attend this meeting at No. 755 West Broad street Saturday evening, 7:30, November 30.

COLLEGE SOCIALISTS WILL HEAR LAIDLER.

Harry W. Laidler, national organizer of the Intercollegiate Society, will speak at Page Hall, Ohio State University, on Friday, December 6, at 4 P. M. Comrade Laidler will meet the former students of all colleges the same evening at some place to be announced later.

Come one and all, come great and small, to the S. P. Dance at Varian Hall, south-east corner High and Town Streets, every Thursday evening.

HOW CAPITALISM MANAGES THE GREAT AMERICAN POLITICAL GAME

(By Robert Hunter.)

For about three-quarters of a century the chief end and aim in politics has been to get office.

Every political campaign has been engineered to that end alone. In fact, the actual work of the Democratic and Republican parties has been left largely to those who wanted public office, or contracts, or special privilege.

Before the days of our limited civil service reform every office holder had to get out and hustle at every election to keep his job.

We have been almost the only country in the world where it has been left mainly to office seekers and office holders to fight out political campaigns.

The ideas of rotation in office and the spoils of office arise from this peculiar American custom. And the chief result has been to breed gangs of professional politicians and public plunderers.

The capitalists have been too busy at their own job to take office themselves.

The workers and farmers have been too busy supporting their families to seek office, and too poor to risk the uncertainties of office.

The result has been the leaving of our politics to a class that is neither the working class nor the capitalist class.

For the higher and more important jobs, the capitalists have chosen lawyers.

The majority of our senates and assemblies and all the judges in our courts are lawyers who have rarely earned a dollar that didn't come from big and powerful corporations.

President Roosevelt did not appoint Morgan or Harriman, Archibald or Frick, as members of his cabinet. He appointed Elihu Root, the shrewdest legal adviser of these men, Charles Bonaparte, another able legal adviser of these men, and Attorney General Knox, the chief legal adviser of the steel and other trusts.

There are all grades of political work to be done. In the bigger cities criminal work is left to thugs, ex-convicts, dive-keepers, card-sharpers and con men.

The higher grade of work is turned over to big-hearted, generous fellows of the saloonkeeper type.

A still higher grade of work is turned over to ambitious young lawyers who have not yet acquired skill in legal service.

The highest work is turned over to men like Root, Gallinger, Bonaparte and Knox, who are among the most skilled and ingenious minds of the legal fraternity.

Most of these actual politics' workers are the Hessians of politics. They are not capitalists. They are paid personal servants of capitalism. They make the laws that govern industry. They control the offices to enforce those laws, and when the laws are brought into court they sit on the bench to interpret those laws.

Now another peculiar thing in American politics is this: No political program frankly stands for capitalism. Every political program conveys the impression that it stands for the people.

The politicians do not go out on the stump and tell you honestly that they represent big business and big business only. They come out with programs praising themselves, their party, and their work. They attack the other parties, and end by pledging certain new reforms.

The people write the programs of the old parties, but it is intended that you shall allow only the paid servants of Wall Street to carry out those programs.

Never before in the world probably has there been such lying and deceit, such hypocrisy and treachery, such double-face dealing and criminality as we have known in American politics.

Now, the Socialist party has had a slow growth in this country largely because it is unlike anything ever known before in the politics of this country.

The chief end of the Socialists is not office, and the programs of the Socialist party have not been drawn up with the idea of pleasing everybody.

We claim at the start that we can not represent everybody, and that statement is abhorrent to the politician.

We don't hold out any promise of good things for the trusts, for Wall Street, for speculators, and to the politician that is madness. It will lose us votes and more money than votes, he says—

Furthermore, we have a complete program that explains to you what we shall try to do today, tomorrow, and even for years to come. That is unknown to American politics.

Moreover, if Mr. Debs, Mr. Charles Russell, Mr. S. E. Beardsley, or, indeed, any one of our ablest men, merely wanted office, he would never have been a Socialist.

Debs could have gone to Congress years ago, and I doubt not that he could have been Vice President of the United States many years ago, had he not been a Socialist.

The man who wants office is a fool to become a Socialist in order to get it, because he could get office quicker and no end easier by serving one of the old political gangs.

If any one believes that Socialists have stood on soap boxes and been stoned, on platforms and been egged, to preach the gospel to a handful of miserable people because they wanted office, that one is easily deceived.

If any one believes that a man who wants office would fight for years with a mere handful of what has been called cranks and fanatics, he is easily deceived.

If any man believes that Victor Berger would have fought a hopeless battle for thirty years to get a job which he could have gotten in two years by serving some rotten political boss, he is both easily deceived and weak-minded.

There is very little in this world that the politicians would not give to win the services of such men as Debs, Berger, Wilson, Harriman, Hillquit, Lunn, Russell, Beardsley and other Socialists of their ability.

But, above all, if any individual merely wants office, he is very foolish indeed to tie himself to the Socialist party, which may, according to its own party laws, recall him any moment.

There may be some corrupt men in the Socialist party. There will be more as we succeed, but they will find little in this party to comfort or to profit them. They will discover that the membership has all the power and that would-be bosses have none.

Well, you may ask, why then do we seek office?

We seek office for the very reason that Wall Street buys political parties, political bosses and political power. Wall Street does not want the jobs. It wants to have its friends make the law, enforce the law and interpret the law.

It is not the many jobs we want. It is the power over the making of laws, the enforcing of laws, the interpreting of laws.

We seek office to carry out our program, to put into law our platform, and finally to help in the unfolding of our great ideal.

We seek office not to rotate them or to use them for spoils. We will not extend the civil service laws, because we don't want jobs in the civil service, but we do want to mold the law. We do seek power to enforce the law we mold. And we do covet the power to interpret the law.

It is for this reason that we have a party, with an enormous membership that pays dues and owns papers—a party that has power to initiate party laws, to pass on those party laws, and to recall its party servants.

It is for this reason that we go to the masses instead of to the few; that we seek to convert men's minds rather than to open their purses; that we have a real party which is democratically owned, controlled and financed, not a small gang around the table who seek spoils and divide them.

THE DEATH OF A MAN.

"One hundred years ago a man died"—Opening sentence of Victor Hugo's speech at the grave of Voltaire.

On Sunday night, November 10, at his home in Girard, Kas., J. A. Wayland, the "one hoss editor" of the Appeal, committed suicide. He took his life at the moment when the tides of adversity had turned and the victory he struggled so long for seemed in sight. His beloved movement had reached the million mark in votes, in spite of the terrific campaign that the deceivers of the people had waged and in the box at the masthead of his paper was recorded the fact that for the previous ten weeks over a million copies each week had gone forth from his famous press.

That he who had stood the watches in the darkness and the storms of the early days when every man's hand was against him should suicide when the light was breaking seems almost unbelievable and could not have happened had that once brilliant mind not been shattered by domestic sorrow.

It will be remembered by our readers that about eighteen months ago our comrade was driving home in the dark and accidentally ran into a telephone pole. His loving wife was killed by his side while he miraculously escaped. From that day on J. A. Wayland was never the same. The light went out of his life, the light that can only come from a loved and loving wife.

With the stoicism that was ever characteristic of the man he sought to conceal his sorrow. But those that knew and loved him could see that the blow was more than he could stand and accordingly the expected happened! The mind that once shone like a diamond was dimmed and went out in the flash of a gun!!

To his bereaved children the Rebel staff tenders their utmost sympathy and feels that they may draw consolation from the fact that their father dies with the laurels of immortality on his brow.

May we all hope that when life's race is run we may die with the same pure record of achievement for humanity that was made by the "one hoss editor" of the little old Appeal—the incomparable J. A. Wayland.

Since the above was written we have received from Allen W. Ricker, of the Appeal editorial staff, the following telegram in response to a telegram from The Rebel asking for particulars of J. A. Wayland's death:

"Girard, Kas., Nov. 14, 1912.

"T. A. Hickey, Hallettsville, Texas.

"J. A. Wayland took his own life on Sunday night, November 10, using a thirty-two caliber automatic revolver. The bullet was fired into his mouth, ploughed through his brain to top of his bedroom. He came in as usual Sunday night after the others had retired, sat in the library long enough to write the following on the fly-leaf of a book, 'Life under the competitive struggle is not worth while—let it pass.'

"He retired to his room, undressed to his underclothes, lay down on the bed, leaving the light burning and calmly shot himself. He was not in any manner deranged. A few days before he made a will appointing his two sons joint administrators of the family estate. He was being made the victim of malicious blackmailing and personal prosecution. For months government detectives aided and abetted by a well known Catholic priest of this section have been laying traps for and seeking to frame up evidence against the Appeal staff. Full particulars of which may be found in the current issue of the Appeal.

"Wayland, who never intentionally harmed a human being in his life, was literally hounded to his death.

"ALLEN W. RICKER."

It would seem from the above that there was more than the death of our comrade's wife, that led to the death of J. A. Wayland. It may be that the secret and open prosecution that the publisher of the Appeal was subject to was a contributing cause. That he was hounded as few innocent men were ever hounded by the mercenaries of the capitalist government goes without saying. The last Appeal just off the press tells a story of a Federal government conspiracy to destroy a man who could not be cajoled, bought or bribed that would remind one of the methods employed in the middle ages.

And just as then the priest appears behind the scenes playing his dark centuries-old role in the light of the twentieth century even as in the days when Eugene Sue wrote "The Wandering Jew!!"

Just as the courtiers of the king schemed to destroy the recalcitrant one who would not bow the knee to royalty so does Wickersham, the courtier of the sugar, oil, steel and railway trust use the Attorney General's department to ruin the irreconcilable at Girard who menaced with his press and pen the golden sovereignty of the masters of bread.

And so the spies who work in the dark and manufacture evidence were employed to do their nefarious work of character assassination. Instead of the letters de cachet we have the modern method of the dictagraph.

The machinery changes the principle remains.

Friends of the dead man are sought to be seduced with government gold; an innocent man in the employ of the government, is arrested on a trumped up charge and his very sickness is used to cause him to break down and swear away the life of their foe. The office of the Appeal is entered in an attempt to break the friendship of an editorial associate; an old friend is given a commission as private detective and is paid out of the federal government's funds to manufacture evidence and all this is done to break the spirit, weaken the mind, and failing that, place behind iron bars the man who exposed the robbery of the people.

And the scoundrels succeeded in their nefarious work! He of the iron heart and strong arm weakened at last. Constant dripping wears away the stone and the forest oak at last bends and breaks to the storm.

Since 1893—nineteen long years the "one hoss editor" has been fighting. More than any one man has he aroused a sleeping nation when the Knights of Plunder were undermining the citadel of our liberties. With his inspired pen he rent the gloom of intellectual night just as a lightning flash reveals the lanscape through simmering darkness and then the people saw and started to struggle toward the dawn!!!

For this the political gun men of capitalism plotted and planned his punishment, imprisonment or death.

They would thus warn others of like faith—the fools—Wayland's pen poured out a stream of ink that washed away the scales of ignorance from the eyes of a people and one hundred men now stand ready to step into the breach where he used to stand alone!!!

Onward then you of the guard—you of his unconquerable army.

Onward to the task—the destruction of these vampires who prey on the life blood of woman and rob the cradle of its precious freight.

Onward you who, like a modern Moses, he has led out of darkness into the light.

Onward you fighters and do what Wayland would ask you to do if he were in the flesh—put the Appeal on the 1,000,000 mark and thus avenge the death of he who died attempting the task.

It is only the fleshly form of Wayland that has gone! His spirit lives! His work goes on! His soul inspires! HE IS IMMORTAL!—T. A. Hickey in The (Tex.) Rebel.

In his "confession of faith" speech delivered at the "Bull Moose" gathering at Chicago last August, Roosevelt closed by saying: "We stand at Armageddon, and we battle for the Lord." We guess the Lord was busy on election day, anyway the roaring monkey exterminator that emerged from the African jungles a couple of years ago got his, and he got it plenty, too. Oh, you Mooseveltonians.

SCHRANK, WHO SHOT AT ROOSEVELT, DECLARED INSANE

The Would-Be Assassin Will Be Sent to the State Hospital at Oshkosh.

Milwaukee, Nov. 22.—The five alienists who examined into the mental condition of John Schrank, who pleaded guilty today to an attempt to kill Col. Roosevelt here, officially reported to Judge August C. Backus in the municipal court that Schrank is insane. That this would be the verdict of the commission of experts was unofficially reported several days ago.

Schrank was committed to the state hospital for insane at Oshkosh. He will probably be taken there tomorrow.

Following is the report of the alienists as presented to Judge Backus:

"We, your commission, find:

"First, that John Schrank is suffering from insane illusions, gradiose in character, and of the systemized avriety.

"Second, in our opinion he is insane at the present time.

"Third, on account of the close relation between his illusions and the act with which he stands charged, we believe him to be unable to confer intelligently with counsel or conduct his defense. (Signed)

GOMPERS IS RE-ELECTED.

"Big Bill" Haywood Attacks Delegate at Labor Federation.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected President of the American Federation of Labor this afternoon over Max Hayes, of the International Typographical Union. The vote was: Gompers, 11,974; Hayes, 5,074. It was the first time in 10 years that there had been opposition to Mr. Gompers, who has been re-elected annually since 1895.

The convention defeated the United Mine Workers' resolution calling for future elections by a referendum vote of the Federation's 2,000,000 members.

Seattle was chosen as the 1913 meeting place.

In the election the only contest other than that for the Presidency was over the Third Vice Presidency. James O'Connell, the incumbent, a member of the Machinists' Union, defeated William H. Johnston, President of the International Brotherhood of Machinists by 10,859 to 6,175.

Then the convention re-elected all the other officials by acclamation. The Vice Presidents are James Duncan, John Mitchell, James O'Connell, Dennis A. Hayes, William D. Huber, Joseph F. Valentine, John R. Alpine and H. R. Perham. Secretary Frank Morrison and Treasurer John B. Lennon were re-elected.

The following were named as delegates to the British Trades Union Congress which meets in Manchester, England, in September, 1913:

Charles L. Baine, of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, and Louis Kemper, of the Brewery Workers.

William J. McSorley, of the Wood and Metal Lathers' Union, was designated as delegate to the Labor Congress, which meets in oMntreal in September, 1913:

Late tonight the convention of the American Federation of Labor was thrown into tremendous excitement when "Big Bill" Haywood, leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, entered the rear of the hall and assaulted J. Mahlon Barnes.

The assault was witnessed from the chair by President Gompers. He startled the delegates by shouting: "Men, 'Big Bill' Haywood has just assaulted a delegate."

Every one of the 100 men in the convention sprang for the door. Haywood fled from the building, with the delegates at his heels.

Haywood was captured in Lincoln Monument Square, one block away, and pummelled severely before the police effected his rescue. Haywood pleaded with the officers to take him anywhere except to Convention Hall. He said his life would be in danger if he returned there.

THE SYSTEM.

By Jim Seymour (Hobo Poet).

Little drops of acid,
Squirted into meat,
Make the filth from Armour's
Almost fit to eat.

Little chunks of gristle,
Putrid scraps of lamb,
Make the potted chicken
And the deviled ham.

Little scurvy rodents,
Now and then a cat,
Lose their lives at Armour's,
In the sausage vat.

Little careless Polock
In the vat was jarred;
Armour sold the body,
Rendered into lard.

Little scraps of leather
Dyed and finely ground,
Make the finest pepper—
Forty cents a pound.

Little leaves of willow,
Long and bright and green,
Make the only Hyson
Workmen have seen.

Little hulls of barley,
Little crumbs of bread,
Make the worthless Grain-O
That the nation's fed.

Little germs of cholera
And formaldehyde
Make the milkman wealthy
While the babies died.

Little words in Latin
From the doctor's pen
Make the cheap prescription
Cost a dollar-ten.

Little operations
Kill the friendless poor
That the young assassin
Knowledge may secure.

Little wrecks on railways
Coin the people's lives
Into gold and silver—
And the game survives.

Little groups of strikers
Round the factory gate
Make the soldiers' targets
And their valor great.

Little wars of nations
Countries fair despoil,
Making better markets
For the Standard Oil.

Little thieves in Congress
Steal the people's dough,
Making light of freedom,
Causing endless woe.

Little daily papers
State these awful facts;
Show the reading public
How the grafter acts.

Little soap-box speakers,
Talking all day long,
Make the hosts of labor
See that this is wrong.

Little paper ballots
(When the workers see)
Make the grafters tremble—
'Rah for liberty!

A SAD LAPSE.

They can't get anything on me," says Mr. Roosevelt, referring to the Penrose-Standard Oil scandal, "because I have never done anything wong."

Alas, alas, what words are these, O Spotless Leader of Renown!

Done anything wrong? How could such a thought have entered your immaculate mind? It is perfectly well known to all the world that you not only could not do anything wrong, but you could not think anything wrong nor imagine anything wrong. Wrong and you are incompatible and alien, like fire and water, and as where one of these exists the other cannot be se. Your mere presence by its refulgence and exudation of virtue extinguishes all wrong. "Have never done anything wrong," indeed! Why, if we could conceive of you doing anything wrong the stars would fall from their courses, the sun and moon suffer eclipse, churchyards would yawn and the sheeted dead would squeak and gibber in the streets.

Well, I should say so, Emblem of Light and Learning. The mere fact that you are willing to mention wrong in any connection with your flawless and august self suggests anew that you must be losing your mind. Wrong indeed! As if it were not perfectly well known that if you do anything whatsoever the mere fact that you do it makes it right and fixes it forever illuminative among the whirling spheres of glory!

A LITTLE BOX-MAKER.

By William H. Waynick.

The family was wretchedly poor. There is hardly any need of saying that.

The mother had heard that more boys were wanted down at the box factory, which is not a great way from another factory that cans fish.

"Yes, mamma, if you want me to," was Fred's reply, when asked if he would like to be a little box-maker.

So the woman took her boy and hurried to the factory, fearful of losing the job by being a minute late. A watchman compelled them to wait at the gate, as only employes were allowed within. After a time they were permitted to pass the watchman and enter one of the buildings, where the factory boss looked Fred over in such a way that the mother began to suspect that she had reared a boy who differed from the tribe.

The boss took the boy to a section of the factory where another boy was feeding box-ends into a machine, the pieces forming a close and constant line as they passed under a cylinder, coming out at the end of the machine with a label printed on each piece. The lettering was faultless; also, there was a picture of a fish, a graceful profile executed by a series of art strokes, and when imprinted on the soft white spruce the effect was pleasing.

"This is just going to be fun, mamma," exclaimed Fred, appealingly, while the boss showed him how to tie the bundles of box-ends with pieces of tarred string. This was to be his job day after day, for time and time and a half, the limit of all that he would learn as a little box-maker.

As the days went by the boy began to wonder who it was that ate all the fish, since the people of Fishburg sold their canned goods to other people in distant places, keeping none at all for themselves. He wondered why. But he was young and jumped at conclusions, while the grown-up people of Fishburg were wise, in one way, and winked at the beautiful labels. The grown-ups never told him anything about the fish, because it would hurt business.

At night, when the boy had come from the factory, the mother would take the little hands and look them over, for they were growing hard and rough. The first finger of the right hand would become sore by pulling to make a knot, when the fiber of the string would cut the finger and cause the blood to flow, leaving an open line where the pink flesh was exposed. Each night the wound was dressed with healing ointment, and there came a thrill of pitiful rapture in the mother's heart when finally the hands could not be hurt, because they were so hard.

MASS MEETING LOCAL COLUMBUS.

Local Columbus, Socialist party, will meet in mass convention at Federation of Labor Hall, tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon to transact business of importance.

IS THERE TEMPORARY PEACE?

There is a report from the West Virginia coal fields that the difficulties have been temporarily settled, and that the strikers are going back to work with an increase in wages and a concession relative to hours and to working conditions. Every one will fervently hope that this is so, and that the West Virginia miners, so long considered mere assets of the ruling class, have at last come to the point where they can actually demand something and have their demands considered.

Since the period of the Civil War, West Virginia has been worse than a plantation. It has been so closely held and so closely operated that the labor leader and the Socialist agitator had hard work getting in. Then, rather suddenly, the people rebelled. That which we have had for the last year is only preliminary to what is to come. The people of West Virginia are on the move and they know the direction in which they are moving. They have really commenced to fight, and what happened in the Kanawha field is only a prelude to what is going to happen throughout the whole State.

West Virginia in Civil War days was one of the few Southern sections that stood by the Union. It was inflexible. That was because it had within its territory a number of wage slaves, even fifty years ago, superior to the chattel slaves held in Virginia or any of the neighboring States. Events prove the truth of this idea, for today that supposed anti-slavery State, West Virginia, is the worst exponent of slavery we have in this country.

INDUSTRIAL UNIONISM AND THE A. F. OF L.

By a vote of substantially 11,000 to 6,000, the American Federation of Labor has defeated the proposals to replace its present policy of craft autonomy by the policy of industrial unionism.

Though clearly worsted in argument, and compelled to indulge in personal abuse of their opponents in lieu thereof, the "stand-patters" won out by a vote of almost two to one.

Experiences of this kind are familiar to Socialists. Though they invariably carry off the intellectual palm of victory in controversy with their opponents, they are overwhelmingly outvoted when the national show of hands is taken. But at the same time, it must not be forgotten that the vote for Socialism as invariably increases.

And this is precisely similar to what has occurred in the American Federation of Labor. The triumph of the new over the old is usually a protracted business. Still, it is indisputable that within the American Federation of Labor the new principle of industrial unionism is making steady, though perhaps not rapid, progress.

Impatient industrial unionists, noting this slow progress, are often inclined to deny any progress whatever, and assert that the American Federation is hopelessly and inherently conservative and reactionary, and will never evolve within itself to industrial unionism. But after all, "never" means no more "a long time," and as they are not inclined to abide the long time, many of them seek to organize, outside the American Federation, labor bodies which start with the principle of industrial unionism.

No adverse criticism of this action is in order. It is in the nature of things inevitable, and therefore perfectly natural.

And in like manner, no adverse criticism holds against those who with more patience, but no less persistency, confine their efforts for industrial unionism within the ranks of the American Federation of Labor. In both these arenas of activity, both within and without the A. F. of L., the forces of economic evolution are making for industrial unionism.

And taking a broad view of the situation, perhaps it might be said that condemnation of the conservatives is also on the whole pointless. Change being inevitable, and change always involving struggle, a party in opposition to change has in the nature of things as much justification for its existence as its opponents.

Mr. Gompers and his associates have often been charged with the construction and maintenance of a "machine" by which they keep a majority of the rank and file in line to support their policies. It is perhaps useless to insist that the workers are thereby deceived and kept purposely in ignorance. After all, this is not a "moral" but an economic struggle, and Mr. Gompers and his associates have no other possible way of holding off the opposition.

In the last analysis the whole matter is dependent upon the growth of intelligence among the workers. Those who have already seen the need or inevitability, or both, of industrial unionism, cannot be dominated by the Gompers machine. And their success finally depends upon their ability to enlighten those who are yet dominated by it. It may be ignorance or prejudice or indifference, or all three combined, but it must be overcome. The argument for industrial unionism on the floor of the convention will only triumph when it has triumphed first among the majority of the rank and file.

FOOLING THE PEEPUL.

Well, brethren, the national vaudeville show is to start on or about April 1, 1913.

Woodrow is "going to go and kill bears."

He said so himself.

Likewise his ardent friends told us he would.

Congress will be immediately convened in extra session, for when Woodrow uses the word "immediate" he means it.

The Democratic party demanded the "immediate repeal" of all tariff duties on lumber, timber, logs and wood pulp—in 1908, as you will remember—and we got it, didn't we? Yes, we did not.

In like manner we are going to see Woodrow and the Democratic leaders give us immediate relief from the burdens of the Payne-Aldrich bill, you bet.

Woodrow promised us, Bryan promised us, the whole Baltimore convention, including Roger Sullivan and the Honorable Yellow Kid Hearst—promised us immediate relief from these extortions.

And we are going to get what was promised. Now, brethren, don't ask silly questions. Don't we always get what the politicians promise us?

We are going to see Congress again pass the farmers' free list bill, the free wool bill, the cotton schedule bill, the excise tax on millionaires—all of these will go through the new Democratic House and the new Democratic Senate as slick as goose grease.

After these "reform" measures are put through Congress President Woodrow Wilson will immediately sign them. The minute his golden pen signs these "reform" measures we will all be transferred to a land of flowing milk and honey.

But here are a few rude thoughts.

The reason why Guggenheim helped to finance Wilson's campaign is that he and his gang want the metal schedule revised downward at once, in order that their smelter trust shall not continue to make 1,000 per cent. profits.

The reason why Cyrus McCormick, President of the Harvester Trust, helped to finance Wilson's campaign is that Cyrus wants the steel and iron schedules slashed downward in order that his gang may not continue to pocket 1,000 per cent. profits.

The reason why Schiff, the banker, helped to finance Wilson's campaign is that Jacob wants the exploiting power of Wall Street rebuked.

The reason why sanctimonious Tom Ryan helped to finance Wilson is that Thomas wants the Tobacco Trust shorn of its "protection."

So, you see, brethren, we only have to wait until the lantern-jawed person is sworn in.

Then the word "immediate" will show up on the horizon and in all the electric lights.

All the bills that smiling Bill, the Fat, vetoed will return to the White House like the office cats that come back.

Try your best to live until next March. Don't expire before then, even if it requires barrels of oxygen and a staff of physicians to keep you alive.

And be sure to rise early on the first day of April.

It's going to be a great day, and we are anxious that you should enjoy your share of the happiness of seeing Guggenheim, the McCormicks and Ryans watch Woodrow slash the tariff downward.

Remember the day! It's the first day of April—otherwise knows as "All Fools' Day."

IT WAS GOOD BUSINESS.

Germany, which means the firm of Krupp, the cannon kings, sold arms to the Turks as long as it was profitable. Germany is Christian and civilized, and Turkey is infidel and half civilized.

France sold arms to the Balkan States, and it continued profitable up to the present. There are many Christians, of various tints, scattered throughout the Balkans.

Both nations acted in a truly Christian manner in selling arms to Christian and Turk. It was good business, and the result of it is now quite apparent. The later models in arms for the killing of human beings seem to have prevailed.

German supplies of ammunition fooled the opponents of Christianity most profitably. Instead of sending ball cartridges they sent blanks, and in some cases they sent soap. So the Turk has been undone, though it does not appear that there is any sorrow anywhere over the undoing, especially in those select circles where arms are sold. The thoroughly good business man will sell to enemies of his country arms that may be used to kill his neighbors. There is money in it, and no further explanation is needed.

Of course, the Bible and missionary societies have taught us that the Turk is "unspeakable," "barbarous," "terrible," and all that. But how about the eminent capitalists that have supplied him with the means of destruction?

Oh, they were merely business men, engaged in a trade that gives "profitable employment to the poor." The results of that employment can be easily summed up in the picture of a hundred thousand dead men, or at least all the inhabitants of Springfield, Mass.; an equal number of dying of hideous wounds, of starvation or of pestilence, and additional dividends for those who provide the means of murder, but who risk no danger themselves.

THAT BIRTHDAY GIFT.

Vincent Astor is now "worth" $65,000,000, not to us, but to him, or, rather, we as wage-workers and tenants are worth it to him. He "became a man yesterday," according to law, and he is now capable of managing $65,000,000 worth of labor power. We shall have to stand for it and let him go ahead under his expert advisers until such time as we, the working class, become of age and "inherit" something, instead of being regularly inherited, as in this case.

Vincent, in the slang of the day, is some boy, believe us.

He is the richest boy in the world because we are the most productive fools in the world.

He is on the Grand Jury, though we fail to find his name on the list of Socialist campaign contributors.

It worries all Socialists less that he isn't than it would if he was.

From the time of his birth to the present hundreds and thousands of people have been working for him. From now on more people will be working for him, and the wealth they create will be used by him in whatever way he sees fit. He has had a glorious coming to manhood.

When will the workers become 21 and possess what belongs to them?

SOCIALIST OFFICIALS ELECTED.

The following officeholders have been elected to legislative and other positions: Four in Nevada, one in Kansas and one in California; 27 state representatives, four to six in Illinois, two in Kansas, four in Nevada, two in Pennsylvania, one in North Dakota, two in California, one in Colorado, one in New York and nine in Wisconsin; carried in six counties, electing full tickets in two counties in Kansas, two in Montana, one in Pennsylvania and one in Nevada.

In eight congressional districts the Socialist ticket forced the old parties to fusion to defeat its candidates. Although Victor Berger, the only Socialist congressman, was defeated by fusion in Wisconsin, the vote for him increased from 11,000, which elected him, to 13,000.

Oh, you dance! Every Thursday night at Varian Hall, southeast corner High and Town Streets.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

FREDERICK GUY STRICKLAND.

Like many other old-fashioned things, the old-time Thanksgiving day is gone. Especially has the provincial spirit departed. This is just as well. Why should a professedly Christian nation give thanks for being more greatly blessed than the remainder of the human race?

But these are days that are fraught with good things. For we are in the midst of the battle for social justice, with every promise of early victory. The following are some of the good things that should fill us with cheer:

1. The spirit of democracy is spreading over all the world. The stagnant nations are coming to life. They are discovering themselves. The power of the common life is being let loose.

2. The social awakening is at hand. It is working as a ferment in all human institutions. Old landmarks are being swept away in religion, education and politics. We are finding that society is an organism, and that it is not necessarily saved by the saving of the individuals that constitute society.

3. The workers of the world are aroused and uniting. There can be no realization of human brotherhood until the last man, of his own accord, struggles toward the light. There can be no ending of the class struggle until the last underneath class has won its victory. Out of class solidarity comes human solidarity.

In the field of industry the workers must organize upon their own behalf. In the field of politics we must not only organize for ourselves, but we must vote exclusively for our own organization. But in the field of ethics we embrace all faiths and all the liberal schools of thought. We are in the field to capture all faith, art and ethics for the new coming of human brotherhood. We shall help every faith and ethics to its self-realization. Economic justice is the necessary ground work for any religion, ethical or esthetic experience.

A QUERY OF SOME INTEREST IN COLUMBUS.

Is the person who, about twenty or twenty-five years ago, enlisted in the regular army of the United States, at or near Boston, under the assumed name of Ed Smith, and while in the service was convicted of the crime of rape and served a term in prison therefor, the same person now so prominent in city council affairs in Columbus?

Is there any truth in the rumors and reports current on the streets in regard to this individual?

S. L. P. TACTICS IN MILWAUKEE.

Some years ago the S. L. P. in Milwaukee was used by the Democratic party as a means of keeping the Social-Democrats from winning an election. The word was passed to the men in the booths to confuse assisted voters into pulling the S. L. P. lever on the machine. Some three thousand votes were thus diverted, and the handful of S. L. P. men in the city took the gift from the dirty hands thankfully and boasted of the great gain their party had made. History sort of repeated itself in the election just passed. The S. L. P. had a state ticket in the field, but no local candidates, and therefore appeared on a few of the spaces in the "Independent" row. The general lever for this row was left unlocked on the machines contrary to law, and, as the knob somewhat overlapped the general lever of the Social-Democratic row it is now clear that many voters got mixed, so that whilst the S. L. P. only cast 175 of the separate ballots for president, the machines showed an S. L. P. vote for governor of 1,700 and a like number for the blank spaces, showing that they had been voted by the general lever. In other words our party lost that many votes through the mistake of the voters. That this was costly to the labor class may be judged from the fact that it would have elected another Social-Democratic state senator and two more assemblymen—three more labor representatives to battle against capitalism in the making of laws.—Milwaukee S. D. Herald.

Ruthenberg, Socialist, beat both Brown and Garford in Butler County. Ruthenberg beat Brown in two counties, Lucas and Summit, and beat Garford in five counties, Belmont, Fayette, Guernsey, Montgomery and Tuscarawas.

With the Prohibition and Socialist Labor vote in two counties, Brown and Mercer, unreported, the vote for Poling, Prohibitionist, for governor was 16,184; for Kircher, Socialist Labor, 2,661.

Without the Prohibition and Socialist Labor vote in these counties and the Socialist vote in Brown County, the total vote was 1,046,820. Cox polled 41.6 per cent. of the total vote.

In 1898 the Socialist party had 33,796 votes in the state of Ohio and only 1,211 in Franklin County, which includes Columbus.

Come one and all, come great and small, to the S. P. Dance at Varian Hall, south-east corner High and Town Streets, every Thursday evening.

BILL PATTERSON OF ZANESVILLE LIKES THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST.

I want to congratulate you on getting the city printing and also on the general improvement of the paper. I can't see the necessity of a state paper when we have as good a publication as "The Socialist." We dissipate our revenues too much in this paper business. W. N. PATTERSON.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS AND VIEWS

By Wm. H. Watts.

We have all heard more or less about the safety of British railways. It appears, however, that this safety is for passengers only. The English "Labour Leader" calls attention to the fact that during the past eleven years over 5,000 railway men were killed and more than 200,000 injured in the United Kingdom. Says the "Labour Leader": "Many of these deaths occurred because safeguards, such as automatic couplings, have not been adopted on the ground of cost. The solution lies in the nationalization of railways and the enthronement of life in place of profits." The wages on British railways are declared to be a national disgrace, the minimum being about $4.32 per week, while in Ireland it is lower yet.

The big railway strike in Spain has been won by the workers, who gain higher wages, shorter hours, old age pensions, compensation for injuries and other minor betterments. Fearing that the revolutionary sentiment would grow so powerful that it would sweep them out of existence, the privileged crowd surrendered completely.—Cleveland Citizen.

The Illinois Central Railroad, following General Manager Worthington's bitter attack upon Socialism in a recent address, issued a blank card to all employes, requesting them to mark it as they intended to vote in November for the election of President of the United States.

This action of the industrial tyrants is naturally resented by the employes, as the possibility of using the information so obtained in compiling a blacklist is obvious.

In Australia, as in Great Britain, a movement is on foot to amalgamate the labor organizations into one general union. Several conferences have been held by representatives of half a dozen national organizations to consider plans to combine, and the agreements arrived at have been submitted to the membership for ratification or rejection. The new organization is to be known as The Australian Workers' Union, and it is believed that in a short time all the organized toilers in the land will be included in the new body.

The labor organizations of New South Wales in indorsing the proposition declared their intention of making every effort to enforce a six-hour workday. The unionists claim there are still too many unemployed in Australia, and that those who are employed should work fewer hours and thus provide jobs for those involuntarily idle. A six-hour day! How happy American workmen would be if they could get an eight-hour workday!

The extent to which syndicalism has taken hold of the workers of France is shown by the statement that the General Confederation of Labor in France showed at its biannual convention in Havre that its membership is now about 600,000 in 55 national syndicates and 2,837 local branches.

Syndicalism is a form of industrial unionism, but should not be confounded with industrial unionism. Syndicalism has as its ultimate purpose the forcible taking possession of the industries by the workers. Industrial unionism, however, does not necessarily mean anything more than the more effective representation of the interests of the workers in the labor market.

THOMAS' STATEMENT.

The following statement by Comrade Harry D. Thomas, in reference to the circular letter he signed as Secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor, asking for signatures to a petition nominating Charles Thatcher ofr the Supreme bench, was ordered printed in the "Cleveland Socialist" by the Central Committee. This statement was made before the convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor at Canton:

"Delegate Thomas called attention to that part of the President's report which means a practical endorsement of the candidacy of Judge Wanamaker and Charles Thatcher for the Supreme bench, said Judge Wanamaker was not an independent candidate but the candidate of the Bull Moose party.

"Some notoriety had been given to the fact that the Socialist party had objected to his signing the official letter sent out with petitions for Mr. Thatcher, and he wanted it understood that the adoption of his report or the signing of the letter did not in any way pledge him to vote for these candidates."

INDUSTRIAL UNIONISM DEFEATED IN THE A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Debate Is Strenuous and Gompers Rallies All His Forces.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The resolution on industrial unionism to the effect that the American Federation of Labor indorse the plan of reorganization by industries instead of by crafts, was defeated at the session today by a vote of almost 2 to 1.

The vote against industrialism was 10,983. The vote for it was 5,929. The defeat of the resolution came after a day of hot controversy.

Ever since the convention opened on November 11, the air has been surcharged with expectancy over the fight that was felt to be inevitable over the question of industrial unionism. And the fight broke today when the committee made its adverse report.

It provoked the stormiest session of the convention, besides causing the most interesting discussion. It was easily manifest that the industrialists occupied the stronger position. Never once did the craft unionists meet their arguments squarely, resorting always to a policy of evasion and of injecting into the discussion palpably extraneous matter.

Those who aligned themselves in the discussion with President Samuel Gompers and against industrial unionism were Paul Scharenberg, of San Francisco; Jere Sullivan, of the Bartenders; John Lennon, of the Journeymen Tailors; James Egan, of the Typographical Union; Dennis Hayes, of the Glass Workers and also of the Militia of Christ; Andrew Furuseth, of the Seamen; Hugh McCullough, of the Typographical Union; John Dyche, of the Ladies' Garment Workers; Matt Cummerford, of the Steam Engineers; Daniel Tobin, of the Teamsters; J. Carey, of the Paper Makers, and H. Perham, of the Telegraphers.

This constitutes as reactionary a group as the less than 400 delegates could yield.

Industrial unionism was vigorously defended by A. Kugler, of the Brewers; Frank Hayes, John Walker, John P. White, Duncan MacDonald and John Mitchell (Mitchell acted under instructions), of the United Mine Workers of America; Joseph Cannon, of the Western Federation of Miners, and J. Mahlon Barnes, of the Cigar Makers.

The majority report of the committee had indorsed the trade autonomy resolution of the convention of 1901 in Scranton. The industrialists argued that in view of the fact that industrial conditions had changed materially since 1901, the federation ought to keep pace with the economic movement by solidifying its ranks along industrial lines.

The Gomperist apologists for craft unionism were at a loss for a real reply to the industrialists. In their intellectual helplessness, all they could do was to either assail the industrialists personally or cry out what would happen to them, and inferentialy their jobs, if craft lines were to be obliterated. What will happen to us? seemed to be the burden of the contention.

HEATH ORGANIZATION NEWS

Temporary State Executive Committee Elected.

The State Committee of Ohio has elected Theo. Miller, of Sandusky; Louis F. Schweickart, of Cincinnati; Frank W. Hinkle, of Hamilton; J. L. Bachman, of Columbus, and John C. Herman, of Canton, as temporary State Executive Committee to serve until the new Executive Committee is elected by the membership of the party.

STRIKE CALLED OFF.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 23.—After one of the most spectacular and effective strikes, which was inaugurated September 9, the street car men of this city concluded to end the contest after a conflict covering fifty-eight days. The sympathy of the entire public was with the street car men, together with practically every newspaper. The local Union of Street Car Men, in issuing a statement calling off the strike, says that "winter is approaching; the street railway company needs no bread and we and our families do." While the street car men have been unsuccessful, without a doubt the contest which has just closed will redound to the benefit of the street car men in the future. No strike is ever lost, and while the result may temporarily be onerous on a few men, it is likely that conditions will be materially changed by the management of the company, so that future contests of this character may be avoided.

RESOLUTIONS DEFEATED

Rochester, Nov. 23.—During the recent convention of the Metal Trades Department resolutions were introduced, the purposes of which were to amend the constitution, making it compulsory to elect the officers of the Metal Trades Department by a referendum vote. When these resolutions came up for consideration they were defeated by practically a unanimous vote, the sentiment among the delegates being to the effect that the referendum plan of election of officers in a federated body like the Metal Trades could not be put into successful operation.

TO AID MINE BUREAU.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The United States Public Health Service has joined the Bureau of Mines in its mission to lessen the dangers of mining. Surg. Gen. Blue has appointed Prof. Reid Hunt as a member of a committee which is being organized by the Bureau of Mines to study improved methods of resuscitating persons overcome by poisonous gases in mines. An investigation will be made in the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, commencing about the middle of this month.

I. T. U. FUNDS.

Indianapolis, Nov. 23.—The International Typographical Union, by referendum vote, has just amended a section of its by-laws relating to the investment of surplus funds of the organization. The Executive Council is now authorized to invest all funds in excess of $50,000 in bonds of the United States or in non-taxable state, county, township, city or school bonds. The Council is also empowered, if deemed advisable, to deposit the funds of the International Union in any reputable bank or banks selected and accept as security bonds from any approved surety company of good reputation. Under this law the Executive Council has invested $525,000 in approved securities, and as soon as other bonds of known value can be procured, an additional $75,000 will be invested. These investments will net between 3½ per cent. and 4 per cent. interest.

RULES ON LABOR DAY.

Washington, Nov. 23.—By a ruling of the Comptroller of the Treasury, just handed down, those per diem navy yard employers who worked last Labor Day get their regular per diem and nothing more. If it had been January 1, February 22, July 4, Memorial Day, or Thanksgiving Day, they would get double pay. Comptroller Tracewell finds that the law specifically provides that all employes who work on the holidays last named shall receive double pay, but that when Labor Day was established by law the provision for extra pay in case of working was not extended to this holiday. Therefore, he says, Labor Day, is on the same status as Saturday afternoons. The decision applies to all navy yard employes, the Government Printing Office, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who are paid on a per diem basis, and all other per diem employes of the government.

CHILD LABOR AND HEALTH.

Washington, Nov. 23.—"Child labor predisposes to tuberculosis. This does not apply exclusively to child labor in the factory. In many cases child labor in the home is as bad as in the factory, and the danger from tuberculosis is just as great. Tuberculosis is a social disease in the final analysis. It cannot be eradicated until we have social justice." These are among the statements made in a paper before the recent Congress on Hygiene and Demography in Washington by Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf, of New York.

LIKE A RELIGION.

Trade unionism is little less than a religion to millions of people, and runs in its influence far beyond the ranks of the unionists themselves. It permeates their wives and children and social intimates, who look upon it as their only defense against the injustices of the greed of capital. More, it commands the loyalty of thousands of wage earners who themselves have never joined a union. They regard organized trades as the trained armies of their class in industrial warfare, the soldiers of the common good and the bulwark of the unorganized workers against threatening reductions in wages and the standard of living.—Philadelphia North American.

Socialism offers to woman a vote and equal opportunities with men so that poverty will not force her to sell her body to keep from starving. What does the present system have for her?

THIS IS HELL.

Fifteen Thousand Suicides Last Year.

Fifteen thousand persons committed suicide during the year of 1911 in the United States. This statement is made upon the authority of Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician for the Prudential Insurance Company. "This voluntary tribute of human life too early," said Mr. Hoffman, "is equivalent to a contempt for a tolerable existence that is without a parallel in all history."

What means this? It means that death is preferable to an existence under this system. Men have figured that if life is solely a struggle for a bare existence from the cradle to the grave, that life is not worth the struggle. Men are thinking and have summed up the chances for an improvement in their condition. They have weighed life in the balance and they have found it wanting. Struggle, pinch, scrimp and scheme the best they know how and they find themselves growing poorer year by year. The hopes of youth are blasted before they reach their prime. The age limit is lowered year by year and the chances for steady employment grow less day by day. They don't like it and they are killing themselves because they don't like it. Hell has no fear for these workers and it has no torture for them. Hell to the worker appears more as a Palm Beach to him. He cannot be scared by the threats of hell, for in comparison with the hells of life, he figures he is the winner.

Fifteen thousand persons who decided in the year 1911, that life was not worth the struggle. What a condemnation of the so-called civilization of today! Death is more to be chosen than life. What is to be done? Make life more preferable than death; give man something more than a mere existence. Great fortunes grow; suicide grows; we are becoming decadent and civilization is toppling. The parasitical rich are tightening their hold. A new race of barbarians is being raised in the squalid centers and slums of the great cities. You answer, learning hasn't vanished, but capitalism has denied man the time to read. Invention has given us beside the steam engine and the printing press, nitroglycerine and dynamite. Deny hungry men and desperate men are not particular as to the choice of means.

It is time to do something, now, today, tomorrow may be too late. Fifteen thousand in the past year, and yet the kept ladies of the press talk about prosperity. These mental prostitutes are infinitely lower and more depraved than the women in scarlet.

Fifteen thousand suicides last year! Isn't it time something was done? We must make life more desirable than death; it must become more sacred than dividends.

The Socialist philosophy is the only hope of the workers. Forward, onward and upward with the gospel of hope and cheer for the disinherited.

Men court not death when there are sweets still left in life.

HARK! FROM THE TOMBS.

A thousand eager eyes are strained upon one spot, a thousand ears are listening for words of cheer or explanation, a thousand hands hold pencils ready to write down immortal words that, ringing out upon the vibrant air, may tell a waiting world how it happened.

But alas, the scene seems vacant. In the autumn sunlight can be discerned no warlike figures, on the autumn breezes are borne no bugle's challenge. Slowly the lid of the cyclone cellar is lifted, a set of teeth is exposed to view, and a high and squeaky tenor is heard saying, "I! My! Me! Mine!"

'Tis Armageddon and the man is sinking low.

Not so low, however, as the hearts of the brethren of the Pie counter that sizing up wrongly the standing there, stood too long to make a graceful escape.

Now faintly from afar is wafted a low and sad refrain:

"They stood at Armageddon and they battled for the wad. Where is that wad today?"

JUST A HINT.

If investors can be convinced that trust evils come from share votes and proxies giving the holder arbitrary power, often dangerous to the welfare of the public which finally pays all bills, then, real prosperity will arrive, with the abolition of share votes and proxies.—Oscar Tromlitz.

Behold the Printer. He is hunting for a Pickup of half a Line. He has Been Hunting for Two Hours. He could have Set the half a Line in Twenty Seconds, but it is a Matter of Principle with him Never to set what he Can pick up. The printer has a Hard time. AMERINGER WRITES OF THE CLASS CONFLICT.

The present campaign is part of the age-long struggle between oppressed and oppressor. In bygone days it was a struggle between master and slaves, lords and serfs. Today it is a struggle between capital and labor.

Under the capitalist system of production goods are not produced for for use but for profit. We do not manufacture shoes and clothing to wear; but to make profit. Hence we find shoddy in clothes and paper soles in shoes. We do not make food to eat but to make profit, which explains the presence of poisoned dye in peas; embalming fluid in canned beef, marble dust in flour and chalk in salt.

Profits are the difference between the cost of production and the selling price of the goods. The greater this difference the larger the profit that flows into the pockets of the capitalist class. Consequently this class is not only interested in a low cost of production but also in high prices.

To produce cheap, wages are lowered, hours lengthened, and the speed of the machine is increased. And since the wages of the workers are not determined by the value of their products but by which it costs to keep them in working condition, it follows that the worker who lives the cheapest can work the cheapest and gets the job.

Women live cheaper than men. Children live cheaper than women, and machines live cheaper than either of them. Therefore women supplant men. Children take the jobs of women, and machines take the place of all.

Low wages, long hours, speeding woman and child labor and unemployment caused by the introduction of labor saving devices are the fruits of the low cost of production under capitalism.

THE OCCIDENT CO.

(Department Store)

1254 West Broad Street

Is now ready to show you Fall and Winter Goods.

The when the workers take their meager wages to the stores they find that they have to pay four, five or 10 times the amount they received for making the goods.

Gentleman agreements, corporations, trusts and monopolies are the means by which the capitalists obtain monopoly prices, that is, all that the traffic will bear.

The fruits of such a system are idle millionaires and billionaires on the one side and working millions who suffer hunger, want, diseases and ignorance on the other hand.

Uncontrolled by law and unopposed by the labor unions, capitalism would reduce the workers to brutes and destroy civilization.

But pressure begets counter-pressure. While the capitalist system must press downward the condition of the workers, the desire to live causes the latter to resist with all the powers at their command.

The antagonism between the two classes is so profound, so need-reaching and elemental as to make the elimination of the class struggle absolutely unthinkable.

There is no unity of interests between capital and labor. People who preach this doctrine either fool themselves, or what is worse, try to fool others.

Whenever the two classes come in contact there must be war. What is good for one class is bad for the other.

To make profit the capitalist must lower wages, increase hours, introduce speeding.

To live the worker must have higher wages, more leisure and no killing pace.

The capitalist wants high prices.

The worker is after a low cost of living.

The capitalist wants the women in the shop.

The worker desires her presence in the home.

The capitalist wants the child in the factory.

The worker loves to keep his offspring in school.

There can be no peace between the two.

At the same time the workers recognize the fact that the individual capitalist is no more responsible for the role he plays in this war than the wave is responsible for the storm. The antagonism between the two classes does not arise from the inherent wickedness of human nature but is the result of economic forces over which the individual has no control.

It is not hatred for the capitalist but love for our own self that causes us to fight him. It is the universal struggle for existence carried on in the social organism.

The capitalist class, too, had a great mission to fulfill. But the mission is nearing its end. The institution by which the capitalists have made such great progress, the private ownership of the means of production, is becoming a hindrance to further progress. The machine which freed the capitalist from the overlordship of king and priest is enslaving the worker of today. What has been a blessing is becoming a curse.

Nothing, nothing, will make further progress possible except the extension of democracy to industry—the common ownership and democratic management of the principal means of production.

It is for this goal that this campaign is fought. This is the issue.

THE WAGES OF VIRTUE.

Miss Carr lived in a furnished room with two other women, each paying a dollar a week rent. She cared nothing for her fellow lodgers; her only reason for spending her time with them in such close quarters was her need of living cheaply. She cooked her breakfast and supper in the crowded room at an expense of $1.95 a week. She said that her "hearty" meal was a noon dinner, for which she paid in a restaurant 15 cents a day.

After her experience in the summer (a seven week's illness) she realized that she should assure herself of income in case of illness. She joined a benefit society, to which she paid 50 cents a month. This promised a weekly benefit of $4 for thirteen weeks, and $200 at death. She paid also 10 cents a week for insurance in another company.

The room was within walking distance of the store, so that she spent nothing for car fare. The services and social life of a church were her chief happiness. Besides her contributions to its support, she had spent only $1 a year on "good times." She did her own washing.

Her outlay in health in those years had been extreme. She was very worn, thin and wrinkled with hard work, severe economies and anxiety, although she was still in what should have been the prime of life.

Her weekly budget was: Lodging, $1; board, $1.95; luncheons, $1.05; insurance 21 cents; clothing, contributions to church, occasional car fare and other expenses, $1.79; total, $6.

Miss Carr said that her firm was generous in many of its policies, but she felt it profoundly discouraging not to advance to a wage that would permit decent living.

How do working women live on their wages? They do not live; they die. These are death chronicles—scientific observations of various brave ways of starving—chronicles beside which the old stories of mediaeval butchery seem like pleasant fireside fancies.—Angeline L. Graves, in The Public.

POWER, AND "THE BALANCE OF POWER."

Twenty Republicans, twenty Democrats and one Socialist have been elected to the Kansas Legislature, and, in maying the announcement, the capitalist press declares that the one Socialist "rules" the body, because he holds, what is called in political jargon, "the balance of power."

It may be bad manners perhaps to look a gift horse in the mouth, but when "victories" of this kind are conceded to us by the opposition they will always bear examination, even if such a practice is not in accordance with conventional etiquette.

If there was any real difference between Republicans and Democrats in essential matters, this "balance of power" might be worth having. But as there isn't, its value is at least considerably depreciated.

It isn't much for a Socialist to have the deciding vote on some matter which Republicans and Democrats may happen to disagree upon. He might toss up as to which side he would throw his vote, and he could not make any great mistake.

In all probability, that Socialist only got there because Republicans and Democrats foolishly neglected to combine against his election, and he therefore slipped through.

But they can remedy the oversight if such was the case—by combining against him in the Legislature—and they will.

Let him bring in some bill intended to help the working class in its struggle against capitalism, and he will instantly see that combination in working order arrayed against his measure. There will be in such case no twenty Republicans on one side and twenty Democrats on the other to give him a chance to carry the measure through with his deciding vote. There will be no "balance of power" on a matter of that kind.

Yet unsubstantial and empty as that "balance of power" is, they don't even want to see him in nominal possession of it, and next time there is an election they will combine to deprive him of it, as they have done in numerous instances in the election just over.

The "balance of power" between two groups of representatives of the exploiting class means little or nothing to a Socialist. Socialism gains nothing by securing it, and loses nothing by losing it.

What Socialists are after is power, not the "balance of power." When they secure the power, they will willingly leave the "balance" to the other fellows, knowing that it will do them about as much good as it does the Socialist now.

STUDY SOCIALISM.

If you are not quite sure whether you want to be classed as a Socialist or not, you need to study Socialism and find out. You must take sides either for or against it mighty soon.

And if you have decided that you are a Socialist, it is absolutely necessary that you study, in order to talk and write about it in an intelligent way that will help the movement; too many alleged Socialists talk without knowing what they are talking about.

THE SOCIALISTS, Who They Are and What They Stand For, by John Spargo, is a clear, simple statement of the things on which practically all Socialists agree. It is one of the best books to start with if you have read nothing on the subject.

THE QUESTION BOX, by Frank M. Eastwood, answers a lot of the questions that people always raise whenever they hear Socialism spoken of, and answers them in a forceful way that gets somewhere.

SHOP TALKS ON ECONOMICS, by Mary E. Marcy, puts Marx's famous theory of "Surplus Value" into words of one syllable and shows the wage-worker just what the capitalist system is doing to him. It's the best possible introduction to Marx.

VALUE, PRICE AND PROFIT, by Karl Marx, is one of the books that every Socialist ought to study for himself before he does much talking.

THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO, by Marx and Engels, is another indispensable book. You can read it through in two hours, but you can read it forty times and get new ideas out of it each time. That is because it is one of the world's great books.

These books all sell for ten cents each and they are big value for the money. You can see them at the office of this paper, or we will mail them on receipt of price. Read them and get others to read them, and you will be doing the most effective possible work for Socialism.

SOCIALIST FORUM

THE CHARTER COMMISSION.

The government of Columbus, which is granted home rule under the constitutional amendment, ought to interest every person within its confines. How it can serve the greatest number of its citizens ought to be the aim and object of all. Whether this be true or not depends upon the citizenship. If we are careless in asserting our rights we may expect the interests that never sleep to wrest from us our birthright. We now have an opportunity to frame our own charter and place the city under the care of those who inhabit it.

A charter should be presented to the people for their consideration that would meet the approval of all who have no selfish interests to serve. How best to procure such a charter is the paramount question with us at present. Permit me to present one, which I think ought to meet the approval of the electorate at large. We believe the council ought to adopt this or some better plan for the selection of the charter commission. Let each of the four parties, Democrat, Republican, Progressive and Socialist, nominate six candidates for a charter commission, and then let the people elect fifteen from among these twenty-four, who would be the commission. In this manner we will have no party dictation, as the commission would represent not less than three leading parties, and maybe four, each willing with the other to get clauses in the charter that would be approved by the voters. It has been suggested that we elect a nonpartisan commission. As we have been governed by parties for time immemorial, and as we have been studying politics only from the standpoint of parties, we cannot expect those who are nonpartisan, or who have never studied political questions to be able to present a suitable charter for an approval. The people have tried it in the Con.-Con. and found they had not elected nonpartisans, but two Republicans and one Democrat, whose early political training cropped out at every opportunity. We have tried it in our judicial system, and instead of purifying the election, the candidates for judges have spent money either to corrupt the voters or employ others to do the same. The same political scheming and trickery is employed by them as by their respective parties. So, as it is not possible to elect a competent nonpartisan commission, let us elect a tripartisan or quadripartisan commission and get the best to be offered by each party. If anybody else has a better method of electing the commission it is their duty as citizens to present it to the public for their consideration.

MARSH C. GREEN.

COLLARLESS, OR COLORLESS, WHICH?

Editor Socialist: It is evident that the author of the article which appeared in The Socialist entitled "Why! Why! Why!" has not learned or at least assimilated the A, B, C of Socialism.

While there may be defects, as in every organization, yet taken in its entirety our organization is the most perfect in the world, and the rules of the party which governs its membership are galling to none but the egotist who holds his individual opinions to be more infallible than the collective intelligence of the entire organization. Our colorless Socialist should understand that the Socialist party is an organization controlled by the collective intelligence of its membership. Any other control would be antagonistic to Socialism. There is no room for leaders in the Socialist movement. There is no room for the capitalistic individualism expressed in the article in question. Individualism which seeks to control the destiny of any movement, or fasten its ideas on any organization against the united judgment of that organization, is a relic of barbarism and will not fit in a twentieth century civilization. There is nothing irreconcilable with the principles of Socialism in the idea that the united voice of the party membership should be heard above the individual bray of some jackass who imagines he is gifted with special talents superior to those of his fellows, and who has failed to eradicate from his nature the capitalistic tendencies inherited from past generations, not in the least irreconcilable for the collective idea is one of the fundamentals of Socialism.

There is no organization which offers its membership the opportunity for individual initiative to the extent that the Socialist party does. Every member is a factor in its construction and its control; so it cannot be truthfully said that Socialism is inimicable to individual initiative, but it is opposed to individual control.

The slaves were not freed by individual initiative, but by the united opposition to the principle of slavery by the people of the North and would have been emancipated without a Lincoln or without a Civil War.

Wrong again, Mr. Colorless Socialist, the party membership is not made up of half and quarter-baked Socialists. There need be no fear of them. The fellow who will bear watching is he who claims to have been a Socialist before you were born and who also claims superior wisdom by virtue of years of research and study of economic and industrial problems.

There is but little danger of a division in the Socialist party, as the political-actionist and the direct-actionist both seek the same ultimate end, each is a complement of the other, and the two should blend their ideas. Every direct-actionist should be a political-actionist, and every political-actionist should be a direct-actionist. When this condition is generally established industrial freedom will be within our grasp. It is only a lurking spirit of individualism and adherence to individual opinion which prevents the complete unity of the two at present. This will soon pass.

In conclusion, I will say that no man should be entirely trusted in anything, much less in affairs which concern the well being of the entire world. The blind trust which the voters place in the leaders of the old parties is one of the great obstacles which we must overcome and a party constructed along the lines suggested by the Colorless Socialist would be the direct opposite of the Socialist party.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

The National Executive Committee is voting on motions made by Irvine that the National Secretary rent the two floors now occupied by the national office for a term of two years from and after May 1, 1913; and that the manifesto issued by the International Socialist Bureau in regard to the Balkan war be republished as the expression of the Socialist party.

The proposed National Committee motion by Germer of Illinois, relating to meetings of the Educational Committee, has been seconded by Berger of Connecticut.

W. J. Ghent of Washington, D. C., has called the attention of the National Office to the fact that the Socialist candidates for Congress in various parts of the country are remiss in filing their expense accounts. Such expense accounts are required to be filed with the Clerk of the House of Representatives. The filing of these accounts is not optional. It is obligatory. Candidates should take note and send in their reports at once. Send them to the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. Any candidate who has not already secured the necessary blanks on which to make out the report can get them by writing to the same address.

State Secretary Raymond of Mississippi reports six locals with a total of forty-nine members organized in that state during the month of October.

State Secretary Thomas of Wisconsin reports nine locals and branches organized in that state during the month of October.

For the benefit of those who send in rush orders, by telegraph or otherwise, the National Office desires it announced that its office force goes off duty at 1 o'clock on Saturdays.

State Secretary Ward of Missouri reports that six locals were organized in that state during the month of October.

State Secretary Williams of California reports fifteen locals organized in that state during the month of October.

Jacob B. Salutsky, Translator-Secretary of the Jewish Federation, has taken up his duties in the National Office. Communications intended for the Federation should hereafter be addressed to him at 111 North Market Street, Chicago.

State Secretary Kriger of Montana reports five locals with a total of thirty-eight members organized in that state during the month of October.

The new National Constitution of the Socialist Party provides that a member who desires to transfer his membership from the party in one state to the party in another state may do so upon the presentation of his card showing him to be in good standing at the time of asking for such transfer and also a transfer card duly signed by the secretary of the local from which he transfers.

The National Office has accordingly provided transfer cards for use in such cases. They are of the same size as the applications for membership, but of a different color, so as to be readily distinguished. The price is 20c per 100—same price in any quantity, less or more. LAWRENCE STRIKE LEADERS ARE SET FREE IN COURT

Jury Acquits Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso from the Charge of Murder.

Salem, Mass, Nov. 26.—Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World, and Joseph Caruso, the trio tried for the death of Anna Lopizzi, a woolen mill operative, during the Lawrence, Mass., strike last January, were acquitted today.

The verdict of "not guilty" was reached last evening, but Judge Joseph Quinn told the jurors that he would not receive a verdict until today.

The case was given to the jury at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after one of the most important and spectacular trials in which labor has ever been involved.

Instructions to Jury.

According to the instructions to the jury, neither Ettor nor Giovannitti could have been found guilty of murder in the first degree. They were accused by the state of arousing a murderous frenzy by their speeches, which resulted in the mill woman's death.

So intricate were the chief threads of the case, that labor leaders who had been following it declared a verdict of guilty would have established a precedent which would make effective labor strikes in the future an impossibility.

SOCIALIST DANCE A SUCCESS.

Last Thursday night, the first dance of a series to be given every Thursday night during the winter at Varian Hall, No. 7 East Town Street, proved to be a big success.

Everybody had such a splendid time that not only is their regular attendance promised, but that in the future they will also bring their friends who dance.

Large attendance, excellent music, select crowd, fine floor, splendid management.

Everybody went away well pleased.

Miss Seaman, daughter of Comrades Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Seaman, rendered two vocal selections and made the hit of the evening.

Those who did not dance, enjoyed themselves at euchre, in which capital and booby prizes were awarded to ladies and gentlemen.

Everything indicates nothing but success in succeeding dances.

The whole membership who dances should get behind this proposition and boost.

Let each member who has tickets dispose of them and settle as soon as possible and in this way secure some money with which to purchase literature for distribution in the near future.

DUNKLEMANN HAS BAD MENTAL SPASM

Columbus, O., Nov. 20, 1912.

Mr. Editor:

I see by the last weeks paper a big long article sined by a kollerless socialist. The feller seams to be a Marksian skoller, any way he sure has got a lot of them there skolastick sayins in his kririkium that all the professional fellers use. He should not impose in the pore ignarent workin klass that way. Reedin them there laten tearms might turn there head just the same as I seen a feller in the lunetick asilum once. I was goin thru a krazy house one time an I see a pore feller settin on a bench out in the park tryin to put the ends of too needles together. I washed him for about a hour an finnelie I asked the keaper what ailed him. The keaper said that the feller hed a teecher when he went to skool what told him to prietise keapin his mind on a given line of thet for a given space of time an thet he had got thet one subjeck on his mind an he kodent git it off. I hant sayin thet this hear artikle makes me think of thet krazy feller but I sure did feal sorrie for him.

I sertenlie agree with the kolleress socialast thet all grate minds should be absolutlie free. Free to go ahead in the formashon of ther little grup of intillectuals who will eventuallie, thru ther grate love for the poleatarrier, bring about the butiful dream of socialism.

Another thing I am glad to find out is thet the sucksess of the socialist movement is not pendent on the average intilligence of the workin klass but must be taaned thru a highlie intilligent minoritie. Keep her up old kolleress, it does my sole good to realize thet there are some of those who know thet ther standin in societie is in danger an thet if they dont wach out they will find themselves right in with the poleatarrier. You got a good idea an I sure am with you. What we want is the intilligent minoritie and individualism insted of the averege intilligence and the co-operashun of the intire workin klass.

Yours trulie,

J. J. DUNKLEMANN.

TWO ARTICLES WORTH READING.

In the December American and December Metropolitan, Helen Keller has articles that are worth reading. "The Hand of the World," in the December American, is one of the notable articles of this year's Christmas magazines. Readers of The Socialist must have noticed, with a thrill, the announcement that Miss Keller had sent to the children of Little Falls $87 she had earned writing Christmas mottoes. If that does not stir the laggard to action nothing can.

In the Metropolitan Magazine, Morris Hillquit continues his series and Algernon Lee begins the editorship of the department of political, labor and social notes. These two features do much toward making the Metropolitan a thoroughly readable magazine.

"OUR" WEALTH.

The classification of the mineral wealth of the public domain, the Geological Survey announces, is being steadily carried forward by the survey. Three years ago the land classification board was created. During May the survey classified nearly 2,500,000 acres of lands which had been withdrawn from public entry as coal fields. Of these, 125,751 acres were appraised as coal fields, with a valuation of $3,045,019, and 15,742 acres were classified as coal lands, but the prices not fixed. There were also classified as non-coal land 2,221,749 acres. New coal land withdrawals of 23,003 acres were also made in Colorado and restorations of lands that had been withdrawn pending classification were made to the extent of 107,319 acres in Utah, Washington and Wyoming. The withdrawal of 597,591 acres of land in Wyoming, supposed to be underlain with phosphate rock, was also made, on the basis of geologic investigations. Power site reserves were also created in Oregon and Washington to the extent of 2,562 acres, and public water reserves were created in Utah, covering 440 acres.

The total area of coal land which has been classified and valued in individual 40-acre tracts by the land board of the survey since its organization has been 16,174,360 acres, valued at $731,854,656. The price at which this land would be subject to sale today had not this classification and valuation been done—the minimum valuation under the coal land law—would be $275,673,200, the difference in favor of the government under the present policy being therefore $446,172,356.

The land board has also classified as non-coal land more than 52,000,000 acres, and has made new coal land withdrawals, based on geologic evidence, of 68,962,497 acres. Oil lands have been withdrawn to the extent of 4,774,162 acres, phosphate lands of 2,000,000 acres, and power sites nearly 2,000,000 acres.

SOCIALISTS AND WAR

Basel, Switzerland, Nov. 25.—Declaring that if the Balkan war should spread to other countries it would be a frightful blow to civilization and one of the greatest scandals in history, the extraordinary International Socialist Congress, which is in session here with almost 500 delegates from twenty of the great European nations in attendance, today issued a manifesto in which the Socialist parties of Europe, and of America, in so far as it is possible, are called upon to do all in their power to resist the further embroilment in carnage of the Old World over the question of the division of the spoils of the Balkans.

The manifesto was drawn by Jean Jaures, one of the leaders of the French Socialists in the Chamber of Deputies. The extraordinary Congress was convoked by the International Socialist Bureau at Brussels in October. It opened here yesterday preceded by a parade of about 15,000 persons.

"The time has passed," recites the manifesto, "when the working classes of the world should shoot down one another for the profit of capitalists, the pride of dynasties or the exigencies of secret treaties. If the governments suppress the possibility of evolution and force the proletariat to desperate measures, the responsibility for what happens will rest on the shoulders of the governments."

If the Balkan war should spread, declares the manifesto, it would be one of the greatest scandals in history, because of the disproportion between the immensity of the catastrophe and the unimportance of the interests on which it would be based. Therefore, the Socialists in the Balkans should hasten the end of the war, those in Austria-Hungary should oppose any contemplated attack upon Servia, those in Italy should prevent the sacrifice of Albania to Italian ambitions, and those in England, France and Germany should force their governments to refuse any help to Austria-Hungary and Russia, and should guard absolute neutrality.

The gravest danger to the peace of Europe, the document points out, is the artificially-supported hostility between England and Germany. Socialists in both these countries should destroy this feeling by practical and energetic propaganda.

The Congress passed a resolution to hold anti-war meetings in the big cities of Europe on December 16.

Come one and all, come great and small, to the S. P. Dance at Varian Hall, south-east corner High and Town Streets, every Thursday evening.

Mayor Karb Obeys Catholic Federation of Franklin County

Vetoes Council's Action Giving City Advertising to Low Bidders and Throws Away $10,000.00 of People's Money—Discredited Chief Executive of Columbus Sinks Farther Down in the Mire.

THE BUNCH THAT DEFIED PUBLIC DEMAND FOR ECONOMY: Mayor Karb, Solicitor Bolin, Councilmen Alcott, Baldridge, Barry, Biederman, Connolley, Griffin, McGuire, Lucks, Wegman.

Mayor George Karb did it with his little veto. Did what? Killed the resolution to award the city printing to the lowest bidders, one of whom was The Columbus Socialist and the other The Times, a weekly Democratic paper.

"The Times," he claims, shows no indication of being affiliated with the Democratic party because it has "consistently repudiated the expressed desire of practically all of the Democrats of the city by venomously attacking the public officials of Columbus, which this expression of the Democratic electorate has placed in office." The mayor also says he has reason to believe the circulation of "The Times" is not such as would make it eligible for the public printing.

As to "The Socialist," he says he has listened to "numerous and strenuous protests made against the action of council by individual citizens, by committees and by many local organizations representing some of our most numerous and respected bodies, organizations and associations."

The mayor questions the right of the Socialist ticket to appear on the official ballot. He says the Socialist party is not an American institution but comes to America from foreign shores and "has attacked the religious duties and affiliations of many of our citizens." For these reasons he does not believe the Socialist publication is eligible for the public printing.

The fact that the mayor's veto message was published in the Ohio State Journal and The Dispatch last Sunday morning but did not reach the city clerk's office until late Monday afternoon gives rise to the suspicion that the message was written by the owners of the Journal and Dispatch.

The reading of the mayor's "encyclical" was received with deep silence. Mr. McGuire's resolution to continue the present contract with Bob Wolfe and C. C. Philbrick at the regular price, thereby throwing away, in six months, over $6,000 of the people's money, was read the second time but was laid on the table until December 30 by Mr. Reinhard's motion.

Laborers in the city departments of waterworks, street cleaning and sprinkling will receive $2.25 a day as a minimum wage next year.

Those who voted for this ordinance are Councilmen Barry, Biederman, Lucks, Reinhard and Wegman, Democrats; Bohnert, Warren, Wilson and Zimpfer, Socialists, and Alcott, Republican. Councilmen Baldridge Connolly, Hayden, McGuire, Sherman, Nailor and Stribling, all Republicans, voted against it. The ordinance was taken out of the hands of the finance committee a week ago and placed upon the floor of council because it was asserted the finance committee was holding it up too long.

Socialist Councilman Warren last evening introduced a resolution ordering an investigation into the law department to determine whether the members are devoting time to private practice which should be given to city business. It was defeated.

There seemed to be a great desire to shield the members of Karb's law joint, presided over by one Bolin, as only six members, including the four Socialists, voted to turn the light on to the department.

Socialist Councilman Zimpfer secured the adoption of a resolution to compel the C. & E. Shoe Co. to remove obstructions from East Fulton Street. It developed that one of the owners of the C. & E. factory is a Wolfe. Some members of council seem to have a great respect for wolves.

Socialist Member Warren finally forced President Logan to accord him the floor on a question of personal privilege, after the presiding boss had sidetracked temporarily several routine resolutions sent to the clerk's desk by Mr. Warren. Warren, in slow but emphatic tones, spoke as follows in reply to Mayor Karb's slanders against Socialists:

I desire to briefly comment on the mayor's veto of the ordinance to give the city advertising to The Times and The Socialist and on other recent attacks on The Socialist

About two years ago, I joined the Socialist Party, but did not learn that the Catholic Church opposed Socialism until some time prior to the last municipal election, when Father Leyden preached several sermons denouncing it. Then, just before election, the Rev. Father Clark uttered a tirade against the red flag, branding the Socialists as anarchists, etc. Again, in last January, the Catholic Federation brought a Jew-Catholic here to lecture. Until this time the Socialists of Columbus had made no reply. But we now consider in justice to ourselves we should defend our principles.

No one appreciates more than we what the women of the Catholic Church have done for humanity, and yet in some of their institutions there may be faults. Our paper has exposed some of these, invariably based on affidavits of inmates. We claim that no institution should be a prison for our public offenders. If the city or state cannot provide prisons, they should go free. These exposures were made months ago, yet we hear no defense until now when the question of finance comes to the front in the case of the printing contract, or perhaps it is to even up on another score.

Last year we elected four assessors. One of these assessed Father D. A. Clark in the sum of $4,000, and, after being assured by the Rev. Father that there was nothing to assess in the Convent of the Good Shepherd, in West Broad Street, entered that institution and found a regular manufacturing establishment in operation. Working children in the production of goods for Hershey-Rice Manufacturing Company. The institution was placed on the tax duplicate at $1,000, and the board of review raised Hershey-Rice Co.'s valuation $45,000. If this is un-American, we plead guilty.

Our party organization in 1909 was 71 per cent. native born. Yet Mayor Karb says we are an importation from foreign shores. Can he show a greater per cent. in the Democrat or Republican parties? In vetoing this ordinance, it is my opinion that he sold the public welfare to a most un-American organization. An organization that is and always has been against a constitutional form of government as contrary to its own form of despotism, while the Socialist form is constitutional and a degree more democratic than a republic. We are not against religion, our field is in economics.

Now, gentlemen, we leave it to you. If you wish to vote on this question from a political or religious view or from an economic point. It is up to you.

When Warren had finished his remarks a motion to adjourn was made but defeated in order to give "Bishop" Barry, the "holy roller" of a week previous, a chance to reply. Barry was quiet and tame; It comes to us that The Socialist, in its last week's issue, actually forced the thick porcine hide of the Twelfth Ward heelgr.

NEW METHOD OF REFORMING GIRLS

Information comes to The Socialist that thirty-eight girls, former inmates of the State Girls' Industrial School located in Delaware County, are now in Columbus as "servants" in as many homes of would-be aristocrats. These girls work for their board and the State supplies their clothing while they are on "probation" in these high-toned "homes."

A man (rather a male biped) was heard telling a friend on a North High Street car the other morning how the plan works. This codfish aristocrat, employed in a Columbus bank, said: "We have one of those girls from the State Home, you know, and it costs us nothing but her board. Do you know what that girl did the other day? She cooked two eggs for her breakfast, and eggs cost something these days. She wanted to go down town in the evening but we stopped that by taking her shoes and stockings away from her after supper. That put an end to her scheme to go down town."

The Socialist has reliable information that over thirty of these girls are slaves in Catholic homes in Columbus. We also have definite information as to the noble philanthropist who has been employing the girl who has no stockings after supper.

Verily, this is a great system!

HOMESTEAD PLANT STARTS; USE SCABS

Steel Trust Induces 200 Laborers to Work During Strike—Trainmen Remain Firm and Sanguine.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 2.—Signs of activity in the Homestead and Braddock plants of the Carnegie Steel Company, where the trainmen are on strike, were evident today. The strikers discussed the situation in executive session in Realty Hall, Homestead.

For more than two hours the strikers discussed the situation behind closed doors. When the meeting adjourned it was stated that a committee had been appointed and given full power to act in the matter of bringing about a settlement of the strike. The committee was instructed to meet with the company officials this evening and will report to the strikers at another mass meeting to be held in Braddock at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

On the surface, the company seemed to have the advantage today. The Homestead plant was started last night with 200 scabs.

Engineers, firemen, brakemen and conductors have been lured from towns in the lower Monongahela Valley. Six furnaces were in blast and a converting mill and two rail mills were in operation at the Edgar Johnson Works in Braddock.

Steel men claimed today that the backbone of the strike had been broken. Up to this time the men declared that they would stick to their determination to force the company to reinstate the three men discharged for circulating petitions, in spite of the proposed wage increase.

At the meeting today the strikers voted on a proposition made by the company that the men return to work pending the reconsideration of the cases of Yardmaster Harry Allshouse of the Homestead mill, and Thomas McMunn and Michael McKern of the Edgar Thompson works.

Recruiting officers who were in Columbus last Sunday to secure strike-breakers for Homestead, had a thrilling time. These scab tools established themselves at 41½ West Broad Street, which is a rooming house. They had advertised in the daily papers for railroad men and mechanics. A number of men called upon the "agents" Sunday, but found them on the verge of nervous prostration. In spite of flashy jewelry and loud clothes, the scabs from Pittsburg had a hard time of it in Columbus. One reason for this was that a boy was calmly walking west and east on Broad Street past the rooms of the scab recruiters with a banner bearing this inscription, "Strike! Railroad Men at Pittsburg. Stay Away!" The "agents" took the hint and scooted Sunday night.

COMPARISON OF CAMPAIGN EXPENSES IN FRANKLIN COUNTY

The Democrats spent the most money in the recent election in Franklin County, according to statements of expense checked up at the board of elections. The Republican committee was the last to report. They spent a total of $10,431.20. Democrats spent $12,306.15, and the Bull Moosers, $10,371.23. Socialists spent $1,584.07.

Three committees reported the Republican expenses. Willis G. Bowland, as treasurer of the county executive committee, reported receipts amounting to $8,780.75, and expenditures of $8,393.10, leaving a balance of $377.65 to be used in paying bills not yet presented. Harry Arnold reported receipts amounting to $1,729.10 and expenditures in the same amount. Harley E. Burns, chairman of the speakers' bureau, reported he had spent $309, which was largely contributed by Willis G. Bowland and himself.

Walter J. Sears, treasurer of the Progressive Party, reported that the Bull Moosers received $8,556.40 and spent all of it, and $1,814.83 besides, which they still owe. Walter F. Brown, state chairman of the Progressive Party, furnished $1,303 to the local Bull Moose committee. Dr. Washington Gladden, Karl T. Webber, Harry M. Blair, John T. Gale, Dr. J. F. Baldwin, Julius F. Stone and Frank E. Hayden are contributors of small amounts. Among those who were active in the campaign reported as contributors were: Malcolm A. Karshner, $50; King G. Thompson, $450; Thomas H. Clark, $650; J. M. Beckett, $300; E. L. Ward and David Buel $300 each.

Socialists Spent $1,584.

In a statement for the Franklin County central committee of the Socialist Party, filed with the board of elections Friday by Dr. D. M. Kuhns, secretary, is shown the recent campaign in Franklin County cost the Socialists $1,584.07. This fund was raised by collections at meetings, sale of literature and donations in small amounts. The largest amount was derived from seat sale for the Debs meeting at Memorial Hall.

Thomas J. Abernethy, defeated candidate for common pleas judge, reported expenses amounting to $965.75. He reported $500 paid to George F. Mooney, treasurer of the Democratic county campaign committee.

James A. White, treasurer of the legislative committee of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, reported $100 spent in the interests of J. T. Carroll and C. H. Sutphen, Democratic candidates for the legislature

TEXTILE WORKERS "SETTLE" STRIKKE

Desert Little Falls I. W. W. Men and Will Return to Work

Little Falls, N. Y., Nov. 30—Charles Miles, organizer of the United Textile Workers, who held several conferences with the mill owners whose employes have been out on strike since October 10, announced today that the members of the Textile Workers' Union would return to work Monday morning. His announcement followed the meeting of members of his union last night which was attended by about 60 men and women.

Miles informed those present at the meeting that he had conferred with John E. McLoughlin of the Phoenix Mills and J. J. Gilbert of the Gilbert Mills and read the recommendation of the employers, which was adopted at the meeting.

Representatives of the I. W. W. announced tonight that while the members of the Textile Workers, who are about 60 strong, may return to work on Monday, the I. W. W. strikers will hold out for their original demands. Fred Moore, who was attorney for the I. W. W. at Salem, in the Ettor case, arrived here last night, and he immediately took charge of the fight.

Four scabs were arrested last night for carrying revolvers, which, it is charged, were furnished them by the mill owners. The city is evidently on the verge of bankruptcy, because the police chief has been compelled to let several cops, who were sworn in since the strike started, go.

In order to distinguish the scabs from the strikers, the bosses today ordered red crosses sewed on the caps and coats of the scabs. The police can thus identify the scabs and take them to and from their homes.

OUR RESPECTS TO THE WOLVES

That old "she wolf"—the "Ohio State Journal"—in about two columns (mostly on the front page) one week ago last Tuesday loudly proclaimed the fact to the world that Socialists were atheists and that this paper was an anti-religious publication. Before going further we want to thank the "old lady" for the advertising space thus goven us freely. Had we been charged the regular "city printing" rate which the O. S. J. charges the city (namely $1.00 per square for the first insertion and 50 cents for the second) this office force would have been compelled to live on a diet of "rice and beans" for some time to come.

It makes no difference, that they were apparently reporting a speech made by a capitalist politician in the City Council, the old "she wolf" eagerly seized upon the opportunity to attempt to give the Socialist party and its organ a black eye.

Why did no other daily paper give such prominence to this affair? Simply because they made no bids for the city printing, as they were not eligible under the meaning of the law. The O. S. J. saw this nice big plum about to slip away and it got desperate.

But affairs have reached a point where the few readers of this subsidized sheet, believe exactly the opposite of what they read, and in that way come someways near the truth.

Last week the writer was in a small town up in the northern part of the State. While there he met one of the oldest subscribers of the O. S. J. and this party asked him what Columbus daily paper they could subscribe for. They stated the "Journal was such a liar that they wanted to cancel their subscription."

The writer was in a predicament as there isn't a capitalist sheet in the city that ever comes within a mile of the truth except by mistake.

Isn't it strange that the capitalist press gives such prominence to articles in which Socialists are accused of being atheists and etc., just at a time when money matters are concerned, and the Socialist organ is about to save the taxpayers $10,000? Yea! Verily! They have "their foot on a nickle," and thrice damned be he who attempts to interfere with their little game of graft.

Not a man on any daily paper in Columbus or any other city but knows that Socialists are the most law-abiding and best citizens of any community. But the capitalist papers are supported by the present capitalist system, and they know that Socialists are in business for the purpose of overthrowing the said capitalist system, therefore they heed the voice of their capitalist masters and join gleefully in the dirty work of character assassination.

But the working class are fast learning their lesson and learning it well. They are beginning to withdraw their support of the capitalist sheets and in increasing thousands are building up their own untrammeled press, that does not depend upon the masters for support and hence can tell the truth about conditions every day in the week.

SOME OBSERVATIONS ON THE UNIVERSE.

BY GEORGE ALLAN ENGLAND.

ONE MILLION VOTES!

What the Grand Army of the Revolution Really Means.

One Million Votes! Can you conceive it? Can you form any adequate idea of what this really represents? Does the Grand Army of Emancipation convey its magnitude to you? If not, listen.

One Million Votes mean that one out of every 16 voters (probably one out of every 10 men, or even less) in this whole country is a Socialist.

One Million Voters, if massed in procession, would form the vastest army ever mustered under the flag—and all would march under the Crimson Banner of the Revolution! The fabled horde of Xerxes that crossed the Hellespont to meet its doom in Greece was not more monstrous. By comparison, the demonstrations of the anti-Socialists become pitiable.

This Army, Our Army, if marching in ranks of five abreast, at six feet intervals—just these men, you understand, without their million women and their millions of children—would form one continuous moving mass of humanity—how long? Ten miles? Fifty? A hundred? Guess again, brother One hundred and fifty miles of Socialists, then? Guess higher Two hundred miles? Still more! Listen—TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN MILES

Yes, incredible though it may seem, Our Army would extend 227 miles in solid and unbroken phalanxes. No gaps, no intermissions; just one vast, continuous line, five men deep, stretching as far as from New York up past Tarrytown, Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Troy—past Lake George, up to the very heart of the Adirondacks, up to Crown Point, on Lake Champlain—all Socialists!

In another direction it would extend beyond Utica and Syracuse, to within a few miles of Rochester. Or it would reach clear across New Jersey, past Trenton and Philadelphia, past Baltimore, right to Washington! Think, Comrades, of a solid Red Army, five abreast, clear from the office of The Call to the Capitol at Washington! Can you begin to form some concept of the magnitude of our invincible forces?

Marching at the rate of four miles an hour, without pausing to rest, eat, drink or sleep, this mighty host would require 57 hours to pass a given point. All one day and one whole night, all another day and through the darkness of a second night, then for nine hours of the third day. Our Army would be marching past! Can you realize it? Can you grasp the stupendous size and power of that host?

The tread of a million men! The earth shakes with it, the air is red with banners As far as the eye can reach, they come and come and come! Over the dim horizon, on both hands, you see the dust of that interminable column. You weary with the watching; you sleep, you wake again, and still the army passes. Our Army! Two days and two nights, and then nine hours. Comrades—the Invincible Army of American Socialism

Yea, the enemy hears tha. tread, as well as we! They see t . Crimson Banner; they feil the shaking of the earth, and know the portend of this host! In their offices and counting rooms, their banks, their exchanges and their clubs, they hear, and see, and feel—and through the chink of gold, the sparkle of champagne, the laughter of their women, rises the sound of a Million Marching Men!

Behind the dim, luxurious silken curtains of their clubs, through the blue smoke of the Havanas, making an undertone to the click of billiard balls and the slap of pasteboards on green tables, rises the tread, the ceaseless tremor of Our Multitude. The dust thereof floats up against the windows of plutocracy. Not to be banished, nor shut out, nor yet forgotten, is that sound; and wine there is none so sparkling or so heady as shall ever still the menace of the Million! Our Million!

A Million Socialists! No reformers, no mere sentimentalists, this time—all Socialists!

A Million, all ours! The vanguard of yet other Millions, still to come!

And hark, upon the fetid air of capitalism, rises a song—"The International"—and the meaning of it is: VICTORY! LIGHT UPON THE HILLS. AT LAST! VICTORY WE SHALL BE FREE!

APHORISM FROM THE UNIVERSITY.

BY SAMUEL W. BALL.

That Socialism is more than the protest of inefficient and incompetent members of society against success merited by superior brains or energy is evidenced by the attention it is receiving from men of learning. Whether they accept the theories underlying the philosophy of Socialism in whole or in part, at least they cannot ignore the importance to society of a frank and thorough discussion of the questions raised by the rapid growth of Socialism.

It requires some courage for a workingman who is dependent upon the favor of a master to openly advocate a social change that would destroy this relationship between himself and his employer. But it requires perhaps still greater courage for a man in the employ of an educational institution which gives him not only economic support but endows him with dignity, prestige and influence in matters of public welfare, to challenge the wisdom of the acknowledged schools of thought.

The attitude of Professor Albion W. Small, of the Department of Sociology in the University of Chicago, towards Socialism is, therefore, of peculiar interest. In an article recently contributed by him to The American Journal of Sociology, under the title of "Socialism in the Light of Social Science," Professor Small discloses a very friendly attitude toward the scientific phases of the Socialist position.

Immediately after the article was published, the capitalistic press seized upon a few statements which, when disconnected, might be interpreted to be severely critical of the Socialistic movement, and gave them wide publicity without mentioning the favorable comments which made up the body of the article.

Professor Small is perhaps the only recognized profound thinker on social questions that has given Karl Marx due credit for accuracy in the analysis of society.

Several prominent sociologists have practically advanced the Marxian theories without acknowledging Marx as their discoverer, or in any way recognizing the value of his contributions to social science.

In his aphoristic style, which is so characteristic of Professor Small, he says of Marx:

"Marx was one of the few really great thinkers in the history of social science."

"Men in dignified academic positions still refrain in public from giving Marx his due."

"Accordingly he (Marx) was a constructive agent in the same sense in which the engineers were who bored into the floor of Hell Gate to prepare the way for the dynamite and dredges."

"Marx's program was to deepen and widen and straighten the channel."

"In other words, nobody since Martin Luther has done as much as Karl Marx to make the conventional-minded fear that our theories of life may need a thorough overhauling. The longer that overhauling is postponed the greater will be the repute of Marx after the crisis is passed and the more fatuous will the interests appear that are meanwhile repressing the inevitable."

"The books and essays that have been written to prove that Marx did not say precisely, and that so far as he did say he was not correct, amount to a considerable library."

"Marx said in substance that there is not a private business on earth that could exhibit inconsistencies as glaring as the industrial system of every modern nation presents, without being due for reorganization or the receiver. The only remarkable thing about this proposition is that there are still intelligent human beings of adult age who have not discovered that it is a commonplace."

"He (Marx) fought gallantly for neglected phases of truth."

"We do ourselves no credit in blaming him (Marx) for not seeing the whole truth. We shall do well if we see as far into the truth as he did, and if while avoiding some of his errors we add even a little to his wisdom."

"I confidently predict that in the ultimate judgment of history, Marx will have a place in social science analogous with that of Galileo in physical science."

"He (Marx) is still a voice in the wilderness, but for one I have no more doubt that he was essentially right, and that conventionality was essentially wrong, than I have that Galileo will hold his place to the end of time as one of the world's great discoverers."

Continuing, Professor Small says about the Class Struggle, one o fthe principal Marxian theories:

"More crocodile tears have been shed over Marx's recourse to class conflict than over any other mooted conception in the whole field of social science. It is a grieved and indignant denial that such a thing as class conflict exists in the world. We need not stop to parley with this inanity.

"Marx was right, as a social tactician, in believing that the class consciousness of wage-earners must be mobilized for life-and-death against the impersonal force of capital.

"THERE IS an irrepressible conflict in modern society between the presuppositions of capital and the paramount value of humanity.

"The only people who are generally understood or respected today are those who think they have rights and accordingly fight for them.

"The classes that have fought their way into the security of our property system show themselves either hypocritical or stupid when they blame the backward classes for declaring war for the same kind of conquest.

"Both ingenuous and disingenuous men have decried Marx as a fomenter of class struggle, and they have tried to distract attention from irrepressible issues between present classes by exposing the wickedness of stirring up industrial strife.

"Our most influential classes are making a mistake today precisely parallel with the mistake of the corresponding classes during the decade previous to the Civil War.

"The fact of class struggle is as axiomatic today as the fact of gravitation."

In regard to Socialism and Socialists, Professor Small has the following to say:

"Roughly speaking, the ability of the majority to voice its feelings has steadily increased throughout historic times. There have always been men who called themselves by some equivalent of the term democrat. They have had in common some variation of the presupposition that the world belongs to the many, not to the few.

"In human affairs that party is always right which demands further investigation of debatable questions.

"It is part of the indicated process of life to keep our inherited institutions under viligant scrutiny and to use all the knowledge and skill at our command in adapting our institutions to existing conditions. The people who call themselves Socialists are simply in their own way responding to this obligation and exerting this right.

"SOCIALISM has demonstrated its claims to standing in court. It starts with the principle that men are more important than capital, and that all political and legal and economic practices must be held accountable to that principle.

"Whatever be our cast of thought on specific questions, we are hopelessly on the losing side if we refuse to acquiesce in the fact that human life is a going concern. It would improve the mental stock, and it would promote social progress, if there could be more cross-breeding between presumed scientific discretion and actual democratic zeal for humanity. It is a symptom of our social punk-mindedness that all our best equipped thinkers are not as seriously intent as the Socialists are upon the unsolved problems of society."

LABOR TEMPLE DEDICATED.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 20.—The trade unions of this city have just dedicated the new labor temple and the attendant ceremonies were made the occasion of a large gathering of trade unionists from various parts of the state. The new labor temple is a three-story building, equipped with all modern conveniences, and is a magnificent monument to the energy, industry and enterprise of the San Jose unionists. P. H. McCarty, president of the California State Building Trades Council and ex-mayor of San Francisco, was the principal speaker at the dedicatory exercises, while the city officials and prominent unionists of the city were on the program for short addresses. The exercises extended over a period of two days, Friday and Saturday, November 8 and 9, concluding with a banquet.

THE SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Adopted by National Convention at Indianapolis, May 17, 1912

The Socialist Party of the United States declares hat the capitalist system has outgrown its historical function and has become utterly incapable of meeting the problems confronting society. We denounce this outgrown system as incompetent and corrupt and the source of unspeakable misery and suffering to the whole working class.

Under this system the industrial equipment of the nation has passed into the absolute control of a plutocracy which exacts an annual tribute of millions of dollars from the producers. Unafraid of any organized resistance, it stretches out its greedy hands over the still undeveloped resources of the nation—the land, the mines, the forests and the water powers of every state in the Union.

In spite of the multiplication of labor-saving machines and improved methods in industry, which cheapen the cost of production, the share of the producers grows ever less, and the prices of all the necessities of life steadily increase. The boasted prosperity of this nation is for the owning class alone. To the rest it means only greater hardship and misery. The high cost of living is felt in every home. Millions of wage-workers have seen the purchasing power of their wages decrease until life has become a desperate battle for mere existence.

Multitudes of unemployed walk the streets of our cities or trudge from state to state awaiting the will of the masters to move the wheels of industry.

The farmers in every state are plundered by the increasing prices exacted for tools and machinery and by extortionate rent, freight rates and storage charges.

Capitalist concentration is mercilessly crushing the class of small business men and driving its members into the ranks of propertyless wage workers. The overwhelming majority of the people of America are being forced under a yoke of bondage by this soulless industrial despotism.

It is this capitalist system that is responsible for the increasing burden of armaments, the poverty, slums, child labor, most of the insanity, crime and prostitution, and much of the disease that afflicts mankind.

Under this system the working class is exposed to poisonous conditions, to frightful and needless perils of life and limb, is walled around with court decisions, injunctions and unjust laws, and is preyed upon incessantly for the benefit of the controlling oligarchy of wealth. Under it also the children of the working class are doomed to ignorance, drudging toil and darkened lives.

In the face of these evils, so manifest that all thoughtful observers are appalled at them, the legislative representatives of the Republican, Democratic and all reform parties remain the faithful servants of the oppressors. Measures designed to secure to the wage earners of this nation as humane and just treatment as is already enjoyed by the wage earners of all other civilized nations have been smothered in committee without debate, and laws ostensibly designed to bring relief to the farmers and general consumers are juggled and transformed into instruments for the exaction of further tribute. The growing unrest under oppression has driven these two old parties to the enactment of a variety of regulative measures, none of which has limited in any appreciable degree the power of the plutocracy, and some of which have been perverted into means for increasing that power. Anti-trust laws, railroad restrictions and regulations, with the prosecutions, indictments and investigations based upon such legislation, have proved to be utterly futile and ridiculous.

Nor has this plutocracy been seriously restrained or even threatened by any Republican or Democratic executive. It has continued to grow in power and insolence alike under the administrations of Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

In addition to this legislative juggling and this executive connivance, the courts of America have sanctioned and strengthened the hold of this plutocracy as the Dred Scott and other decisions strengthned the slave power before the civil war.

We declare, therefore, that the longer sufferance of these conditions is impossible, and we purpose to end them all. We declare them to be the product of the present system in which industry is carried on for private greed, instead of for the welfare of society. We declare, furthermore, that for these evils there will be and can be no remedy and no substantial relief except through Socialism, under which industry will be carried on for the common good and every worker receive the full social value of the werith he creates.

Society is divided into warring groups and classes, based upon material interests. Fundamentally, this struggle is a conflict between the two main classes, one of which, the capitalist class, own the means of production, and the other, the working class, must use these means of production on terms dictated by the owners.

The capitalist class, though few in number, absolutely controls the government—legislative, executive and judicial. This class owns the machinery of gathering and disseminating news through its organized press. It subsidizes seats of learning—the colleges and schools—and even religious and moral agencies. It has also the added prestige which established customs give to any order of society, right or wrong.

The working class, which includes all those who are forced to work for a living, whether by hand or brain, in shop, mine or on the soil, vastly outnumbers the capitalist class. Lacking effective organization and class solidarity, this class is unable to enforce its will. Given such class solidarity and effective organization, the workers will have the power to make all laws and control of industry in their own interest.

All political parties are the expression of economic and class interests. All other parties than the Socialist party represent one or another group of the ruling capitalist class. Their political conflicts reflect merely superficial rivalries between competing capitalist groups. However they result, these conflicts have no issue of real value to the workers. Whether the Democrats or Republicans win politically, it is the capitalist class that is victorious economically.

The Socialist party is the politcial expression of the economic interests of the workers. Its defeats have been their defeats and its victories their victories. It is a party founded on the science and laws of social development. It proposes that, since all social necessities today are socially produced, the means of their production and distribution shall be socially owned and democratically controlled.

In the face of the economic and political aggressions of the capitalist class, the only reliance left the workers is that of their economic organizations and their political power. By the intelligent and class conscious use of these they may resist successfully the capitalist class, break the fetters of wage slavery, and fit themselves for the future society, which is to displace the capitalist system. The Socialist party appreciates the full significance of class organization and urges the wage earners, the working farmers and all other useful workers everywhere to organize for economic and political action, and we pledge ourselves to support the toilers of the fields as well as those in the shops, factories and mines of the nation in their struggles for economic justice.

In the defeat or victory of the working class party in this new struggle for freedom lies the defeat or triumph of the common people of all economic groups, as well as the failure or the triumph of popular government. Thus the Socialist party is the party of the present-day revolution, which marks the transition from economic individualism to Socialism, from wage slavery to free co-operation, from capitalist oligarchy to industrial democracy.

As measures calculated to strengthen the working class in its fight for the realization of its ultimate aim, the co-operative commonwealth, and, to increase its power of resistance against capitalist oppression, we advocate and pledge ourselves and our elected officers to the following program:

1. The collective ownership and democratic management of railroads, wire and wireless telegraphs and telephones, express services, steamboat lines and all other social means of transportation and communication and of all large-scale industries.
2. The immediate acquirement by the municipalities, the states or the federal government of all grain elevators, stock yards, storage warehouses and other distributing agencies, in order to reduce the present extortionate cost of living.
3. The extension of the public domain to include mines, quarries, oil wells, forests and water power.
4. The further conservation and development of natural resources for the use and benefit of all the people:
   (a) By scientific forestation and timber protection.
   (b) By the reclamation of arid and swamp tracts.
   (c) By the storage of flood waters and the utilization of water power.
   (d) By the stoppage of the present extravagant waste of the soil and of the products of mines and oil wells.
   (e) By the development of highway and waterway systems.
5. The collective ownership of land wherever practicable, and, in cases where such ownership is impracticable, the appropriation by taxation of the annual rental value of all land held for speculation.
6. The collective ownership and democratic management of the banking and currency system.

The immediate government relief of the unemployed by the extension of all useful public works. All persons employed on such works to be engaged directly by the government under a work-day of not more than eight hours and at not less than the prevailing union wages. The government also to establish employment bureaus; to lend money to states and municipalities without interest for the purpose of carrying on public works, and to take such other measures within its power as will lessen the widespread misery of the workers caused by the misrule of the capitalist class.

The conservation of human resources, particularly of the lives and well-being of the workers and their families:

1. By shortening the workday in keeping with the increased productiveness of machinery.
2. By securing to every worker a rest period of not less than a day and a half in each week.
3. By securing a more effective inspection of workshops, factories and mines.
4. By forbidding the employment of children under 16 years of age.
5. By the co-operative organization of industries in federal penitentaries and workshops for the benefit of convicts and their dependents.
6. By forbidding the interstate transportation of the products of child labor, of convict labor and of all uninspected factories and mines.
7. By abolishing the profit system in government work and substituting either the direct hire of labor or the awarding of contracts to co-operative groups of workers.
8. By establishing minimum wage scales.
9. By abolishing official charity and substituting a non-contributory sytem of old-age pensions, a general system of insurance by the state of all its members against unemployment and invalidism and a system of compulsory insurance by employers of their workers, without cost to the latter, against industrial diseases, accidents and death.

Political Demands.

1. The absolute freedom of press, speech and assemblage.
2. The adoption of a graduated income tax, the increase of the rates of the present corporation tax and the extension of inheritance taxes, graduated in proportion to the value of the estate and to nearness of kin—the proceeds of these taxes to be employed in the socialization of industry.
3. The abolition of the monopoly ownership of patents and the substitution of collective ownership, with direct rewards to inventors by premiums or royalties.
4. Unrestricted and equal suffrage for men and women.
5. The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall and of proportional representation, nationally as well as locally.
6. The abolition of the senate and of the veto power of the president.
7. The election of the president and the vice president by direct vote of the people.
8. The abolition of the power usurped by the Supreme Court of the United States to pass upon the constitutionality of the legislation enacted by Congress. National laws to be repealed only by act of Congress or by a referendum vote of the whole people.
9. The abolition of the present restrictions upon the amendment of the constitution, so that that instrument may be made amendable by a majority of the voters in a majority of the states.
10. The granting of the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia, with representation in Congress and a democratic form of municipal government for purely local affair.
11. The extension of democratic government to all United States territory.
12. The enactment of further measures for general education and particularly for vocational education in useful pursuits. The bureau of education to be made a department.
13. The enactment of further measures for the conservation of health. The creation of an independent bureau of health with such restrictions as will secure full liberty for all schools of practice.
14. The separation of the present bureau of labor from the department of commerce and labor and its elevation to the rank of a department.
15. Abolition of all federal district courts and the United States circuit courts of appeals. State courts to have jurisdiction in all cases arising between citizens of the several states and foreign corporations. The election of all judges for short terms.
16. The immediate curbing of the power of the courts to issue injunctions.
17. The free administration of justice.
18. The calling of a convention for the revision of the constitution of the United States.

Such measures of relief as we may be able to force from capitalism are but a preparation of the workers to seize the whole powers of government in order that they may thereby lay hold of the whole system of socialized industry and thus come to their rightful inheritance.

Following is the report of the committee on labor organizations, which was unanimously adopted by the National Socialist convention at Indianapolis:

The undersigned members, constituting a majority of the committee, recommended the adoption of the following declaration:

Political organization and economic organization are alike necessary in the struggle for working class emancipation, working class movement—the Socialist party and the labor unions.

The labor movement of the United States has of recent years made marvelous progress in all directions. It has steadily increased in numbers and has reached trades and industries which were before unorganized. It has in many instancesas concentrated its power and increased its efficiency by the amalgamation of related trades into federations and industrial unions. Many unions have opened their meetings and journals to the discussion of vital social and political problems of the working class, and have repudiated the demoralizing policies represented by the National Civic Federation. The organized workers are rapidly developing an enlightened and militant class-consciouaness.

The reality of this progress is attested by the increasing virulence with which the organized capitalists wage their war against the union. The improved economic organization is not a matter of abstract theory, but grows out of the experience of the wage workers in the daily class struggle. Only those actually engaged in the struggle in the various trades and industries can solve the problems of form of organization.

The Socialist party, therefore, reffirms the position it has always taken with regard to the movement of organized labor:

1. That the party has neither the right nor the desire to interfere in any controversies which may exist within the labor union movement over questions of form of organization or technical methods of action in the industrial struggle, but trusts to the labor organizations themselves to solve these questions.
2. THAT THE SOCIALISTS CALL THE ATTENTION OF THEIR BROTHERS IN THE LABOR UNIONS TO THE VITAL IMPORTANCE OF THE TASK OF ORGANIZING THE UNORGANIZED, ESPECIALLY THE IMMIGRANTS AND THE UNSKILLED LABORERS, WHO STAND IN GREATEST NEED OF ORGANIZED PROTECTION AND WHO WILL CONSTITUTE A GREAT MENACE TO THE PROGRESS AND WELFARE OF ORGANIZED LABOR IF THEY REMAIN NEGLECTED. THE SOCIALIST PARTY WILL EVER BE READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH THE LABOR UNIONS IN THE TASK OF ORGANIZING THE UNORGANIZED WORKERS, AND URGES ALL LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, WHO HAVE NOT ALREADY DONE SO, TO THROW THEIR DOORS WIDE OPEN TO THE WORKERS OF THEIR RESPECTIVE TRADES AND INDUSTRIES, ABOLISHING ALL ONEROUS CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP AND ARTIFICIAL RESTRICTIONS. IN THE FACE OF TH ETREMENDOUS POWERS OF THE AMERICAN CAPITALISTS AND THEIR CLOSE INDUSTRIAL AND POLITICAL UNION, THE WORKERS OF THIS COUNTRY CAN WIN THEIR BATTLES ONLY BY A STRONG CLASS-CONSCIOUSNESS AND CLOSELY UNITED ORGANIZATION ON THE ECONOMIC FIELD, A POWERFUL AND MILITANT PARTY ON THE POLITICAL FIELD AND BY JOINT ATTACK OF BOTH ON THE COMMON ENEMY.
3. That it is the duty of the party to give moral and material support to the labor organizations in all their defensive or aggressive struggles against the capitalist oppression and exploitation, for the protection and extension of the rights of the wage workers and the betterment of their material and social condition.

DEFEAT CO-OPERATIVE SCHEME.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 30.—At a meeting in this city of the National Grange a plan for a $10,000,000 corporation for direct co-operative marketing of farm products was voted down after a short fight. In lieu of the plan defeated, the grange indorsed a plan for state and national bureaus of information as the first step toward co-operative marketing of farm products. By this plan each grange will establish a bureau which subordinate granges will keep informed as to marketing conditions. This information will be furnished to all the subordinate granges and to the National Bureau of Information, to be operated in connection with the office of the national secrfietary, who, in turn, will inform other state bureaus.

Lincoln said, "Capital is stored labor." Whose labor?

We trust that for the sake of the public health there will be no unnecessary delay about burying the remains of the Republican party.

The truth is it has been dead so long it isn't fit for soap grease and already the folks up our way are burning smudges.

The daily papers convey the information that the female population of Canton's "jungle" district have, as the result of Mayor Schilling's crusade, left the Stark County town and are flocking to Lima Mayor Shook, of Lima, like Mayor Schilling, of Canton, has been expelled from the Socialist party. Neither one of these men seems to be able to solve the problem of the "social evil," except to drive the fallen women to some other city or town. The "jungle," the "red light" district and the "tenderloin" region are simply the inevitable results of the present capitalistic system and driving the inmates from one city to another does not cure the disease. The profit system causes prostitution and the result will exist as long as the cause remains in operation.

WHY THEY ARE LAYING MEN IN GRAVES IN WAUKEGAN.

They have dug graves in Waukegan, Wis., and under the sod placed the bodies of workingmen, such remnants and shreds of the bodies as remain after the Corn Products explosion.

A scientist, an expert, has spoken. He asserts that explosions precisely like that of Waukegan "may be prevented by keeping the material in chambers where it is not exposed to the air while being reduced to powder." The name of the scientist is Professor Charles E. Monroe, expert on explosives for the Federal Government Bureau of Mines.

Nearly the same number of men were murdered in the Standard Oil Company's $80,000,000 starch plant in Waukegan as were killed in the Los Angeles Times explosion.

The power of the government has been exerted to capture, try and imprison two men for the deaths in connection with the Los Angeles Times tragedy. Will the government exert itself and capture, try and imprison the men responsible for the conditions that killed the Waukegan workmen for whom they were digging graves last week?

The answer is: THE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT.

The owners of the Corn Products plant and their friends ARE the government.

The Waukegan workmen will be laid away in the graves dug for their bodies, the women and children will weep, there will be an investigation, and a little noise and motions, and then silence, the old silence that followed the slaughters in the Triangle shirtwaist factory fire, the Cherry Mine explosion, the Austin flood and other wholesale slaughterings, all convincingly shown to have been preventable.

On all the tombstones of the victims could properly be written, "They died for the sake of corporation profits and capitalistic dividends."

Back of each of the slaughterings was individual responsibility. The individuals responsible REFUSE to let THEIR government track down the individuals responsible—this is the vicious circle in which The System works. And this is the only fundamental explanation of why they were digging so many graves in Waukegan last week.

Last week the capricious gods of chance ruled that the slaughter should be in Waukegan. Next week it will be somewhere else.

The System needs the money—the money that would buy safty, buy prevention.

And meanwhile down at Indianapolis the trial drags on and the prosecuting attorney and the judge and the Steel Trust newspapers keep up their prattle about "the sacredness of human life."

HUNTER ON GENERAL STRIKE.

Beginning with our next issue this paper will print every week an article by Robert Hunter, the well-known writer and author, on the subject of "The General Strike." There will be fourteen articles in this series.

Robert Hunter has recently returned from Europe where he made a careful study of the "brand new" tactics of the labor unions of the Latin countries and in these articles he will point out the fallacies and dangers of the general strike, sabotage, etc.

These articles have been written for The National Socialist, of Washington, D. C., but by a special arrangement this paper will publish this series simultaneously with that publication.

The following headings of the articles give an idea as to the character and scope of the Hunter series:

I. The Fascination of the Idea.
II. Definitions.
III. In America and France.
IV. In England.
V. Is It a Disease of Infancy?
VI. The Meaning of Sabotage.
VII. Direct Action and Anarchism.
VIII. Direct Action Versus Political Action.
IX. A Menace to Organization.
X. The Situation In the United States.
XI. The Partial Versus the General Strike.
XII. The International Position.
XIII. The Views of Trade Union and Socialist Leaders.
XIV. Conclusions.

Besides being a thorough student, Hunter is one of the most popular writers on Socialist and labor topics in the country. His articles are always in great demand. He has a style that is interesting as well as instructive.

OSCAR AMERINGER, ONE OF SOCIALISM'S FOREMOST ORATORS, COMING.

Several hundred tickets have been distributed for sale among the ward branches for a lecture on "Socialism" to be delivered at Federation Hall, No. 121½ East Town Street, 8:00 o'clock p. m., Monday, December 23d, by Oscar Ameringer, one of the foremost Socialist lecturers.

Push the sale of these tickets among your friends and see that they come to hear this able exponent of the cause of Socialism.

Keep the date, the hour and the place in mind and make it ring in the ears of your friends and neighbors until it becomes the byword of all, then come to the hall with them.

This meeting will be the opening gun of our municipal campaign. So let's make it a big one. One that will be a horrible strain on the nervous system of the present city administration, which is going to do all it can to eliminate our party as a political factor in this community.

PAMPHLETS THAT ARE NEEDED.

There is constant inquiry from every Socialist paper as to whether or not there are available any Socialist pamphlets dealing with traction problems, the railroads, the lumber industry, the problem of water transportation, public markets and so on. Above all, the demand is brisk and vigorous for pamphlets having to do with the great questions that come up in municipalities, housing, road building, sanitation, free medical attention, etc. It is unfortunate that for the most part our writers have not dealt with these matters. We have many who possess adequate training and full information. But many prefer rather to deal with questions of theory than take up for dissection these things that are so close to us. While we have been neglecting this field and more and and more Socialists are going into municipal office, non-Socialists have taken them up and are specializing. It seems that the time is come when Socialists should deal directly with these matters so that when we gain additional towns the new officials will have the benefit of the experience gained in other places.

SOCIALIST PAPERS.

The local Socialist paper can be made one of the greatest elements for good in the fight, for people like to read about the things that are happening in their own territory. The great idea in building and shaping the Socialist movement is to strengthen the local, and a paper goes far toward doing it. As we grow stronger we must have more and more papers. As it is now, even in our present stage of development, the growth of the Socialist press has been of the most encouraging nature. Those who remember the papers of a few years ago cannot but rejoice in this present evidence of advance.

REAL DEMOCRACY.

There is only one democratic organization left and that is the Socialist party, and democracy begins in the locals. We are not bound to any inflexible program or any silence about anything that occurs. If there is anything that does not seem to be right, or that you think is not right, you can bring it up in your local. From that you can get an expression of opinion. If it goes in your favor, democracy has ruled; if it goes against you, democracy has ruled. But whether it goes for you or against you, you must still be a Socialist, willing to abide by the decision of the majority. There is no other organization in which this is the case. No other organization is ruled from the ranks. No other organization has such protection for free utterance, free criticism, free expression of opinion. They are our great safeguard and they are what is going to win for us.

16x20 Beautifully Framed Water Color Portrait of Any Person You May Desire

This paper has thousands of warm supporters. Hundreds of comrades are sacrificing time and money to put new subscribers on the list. The reward these workers get is the satisfaction derived from the fact that they are WORKERS FOR SOCIALISM.

However, to show our appreciation for all this self-sacrifice, we intend, beginning December 1, 1912, until further notice, to GIVE ABSOLUTELY FREE each month a full 16 x 20 WATER-COLOR PORTRAIT, BEAUTIFULLY FRAMED (of any person desired) to the one who puts on the most subscribers each month. IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHETHER YOU LIVE IN COLUMBUS OR NOT. Regardless of where you are, if you win the portrait is yours.

Every comrade (man or woman) has a picture of some loved one which they would like to have done in water-color. This gives you an opportunity to beautify your home and at the same time work for the cause nearest your heart. The artists' work on these portraits will be furnished by Columbus' most foremost artists.

START NOW AND WIN a beautiful New Year's present for some loved one.

THE SOCIALIST.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

We are nearing our second anniversary. For two years we have been struggling to keep our heads above the rising tide. We have lived to see the Socialist movement grow from a small child with a few thousand votes to a young giant with a vote of 1,000,000; and now, just as we are on the verge of doing big things, it seems that we must throw up our hands and give up the fight.

That's the plain fact. We have nothing to gain by attempting to smooth things over. Pressure is being brought to bear against us from every quarter and in the midst of it all the most disheartening thing is the fact that the membership is doing very little to back us up.

The Socialist Party must realize that it must stand by itself and support its own press. Don't expect any favors from the lickspittles of capitalism. To hell with favors from that bunch of legislative cutthroats!

Candidly, if the membership and supporters do not come to the rescue NOW, AT ONCE, then this paper will pass out of existence and wait until the time is ripe for the working class of Ohio to support its own press.

Our sub. list is larger than ever before, but with the increased cost of paper and the lack of support, we can see no way out of the difficulty unless the friends of The Socialist rally to its support, and do it quickly.

If you are really determined that you want this paper kept alive to do its share in the emancipation of the working class, then sit down now, write us a few words of cheer and enclose $1 for sub. cards. You can sell the cards and be out nothing, and then use the dollar again in the same manner.

Are you interested enough in your press to put your shoulder to the wheel NOW? We are awaiting your answer. Who will be the first to respond? Every secretary of Ohio locals is requested to bring this matter before his local and if possible purchase sub. cards; get behind the paper and help out. Do what you can, and The Columbus Socialist will live to see the capitalist system buried beneath such an avalanche of votes, by an outraged people, that it will be wiped forever from the face of the earth.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MAYOR GEO. KARB

George Karb, Mayor:

Dear Sir: I see by the papers that in vetoing the resolution giving the printing to The Socialist, you took occasion to say that Socialism was un-American, and should be kept off the official ballot. You also said they attacked the religious duties and affiliations of some of our citizens. Now, Mr. Mayor, I could no more accuse you of making these remarks ignorantly than I could accuse you of ignorantly making the false proclamation which has held up the electric light bond issue. I am going to call your attention to a few things, which if you do not already know, you should learn about. I have seen every copy of The Socialist since the first number, and must say I have never seen one word that could be construed to mean an attack on any man's religion. It is true they did show some of the violations of law that were being consummated under the name of religion, and believing that the way to keep the country pure is to expose wrong-doing whether it is in the name of religion or of politics, the paper did contain affidavits of girls and women who had been inmates of the convents of the order you are so anxious to protect. If these affidavits were false, why did not these parties have the affiants arrested for perjury? Why did they wait until now to make their kick? And if they are not in league with the liquor interest, why did they select a representative of the liquor interest to represent them in council? If the paper has ever said a word against any member of the church you refer to, it has been against the act of said member, as an individual, and not against his religion. I think all good citizens will agree with me when I say that an injustice done by a religious organization is as much a wrong as if done by the Socialists as a public official, and they should be amenable to the same criticism. Now, Mr. Mayor, I am going to make a few plain statements for your consideration. Here are some of the so-called attacks these people claim were made against their church and religion.

I was appointed assessor for the Tenth Ward last spring and in the performance of my duty visited Father D. A. Clark of West Broad Street. He told me he had never been assessed, but when I told him I would have to assess him, he asked for a blank schedule and time to look over it, which I gave him. When I returned, a few days later, he said he had it ready, but before giving it to me, asked whether or not he would have to swear to it. When I replied that he would, he asked for another blank, which he filled out in my presence, and swore to same. His schedule showed $4,000 worth of personal property subject to taxation. If escaping previous assessments was a part of his religion, I plead "guilty" to attacking it. But I know, as well as you, that this is no part of the Catholic religion, and therefore any accusations made against him or the former assessor, who is a member of the same church, could no more be construed all an attack on the church than the expose of some of your escapades would mean an attack on the city. We made another so-called attack on another religious institution. Together with the other assessors of this ward, I visited the Convent of the Good Shepherd, at Broad and Sandusky Streets, and, after much delay and parley, were admitted, and found here 42 power sewing machines, together with generators, motors, etc., which were operated by the inmates and owned by the Hershey-Rice Company of this city, which had never been put on the tax roll. Here we found little girls, under the age of 12 years, operating said machines. We were told by one of the sisters that the girls were given tasks which required about 10 hours each day to complete. We were told by another sister that the convent was governed from France and that an inspector came from there every two years to inspect it. Has the city, county or state ever inspected this sweat shop? Is this institution un-American? If this escapement of taxes and these injustices done these little children are a part of their religion, then you were right when you said we attacked their religion. Now, Mr. Mayor, don't you think your criticism of the Socialists ought to have about as much weight with respectable citizens as your attempt to have the bartenders at the Kaiserhof or the Virginia Hotel sell you drinks in violation of law, or your request of the porter at the Union Depot for a "nice colored girl." Now, Mr. Mayor, we believe that if this church and the parties which have been in power will not do their duty by cleaning up their own filth, they should not object to the people placing men on the ballot whom they know would clean them up. If it is right for a priest to escape taxation of his personal property, why do we assess other ministers? If it is right to work little girls under the age of 12 in this institution, why enforce the child labor laws in other factories? If this church and its institutions are purely American, then you might have some excuse for your uncalled for remarks, but if you can prove this I will tell you some more. MARSH C. GREEN.

THE CHURCH OF ROME IN AMERICAN POLITICS

The Raven Press, 614 Second Street, Findlay, Ohio, has issued a booklet entitled, "The Church of Rome in American Politics." The price is 5 cents per copy or three for 10 cents. The subject is one of special interest in Columbus and all—in fact—over Ohio; and this booklet has the right dope.

A workingman who will not kick is a dead one or else his brains are in that spot half-way between the knob on top of his shoulders and his feet. He deserves to be kicked until he will eventually wake up and think. Is that your case?

MEN TURNED OUT TO STARVE; CITY HORSES GO TO THE STABLE.

Karb Gang "Fires" More Employes to Save Money for Printing Graft.

Only about 18 men are kept on the pay roll of the city street cleaning department now, since 35 men were laid off last Tuesday until the first of the new year, when additional funds will be provided. Few men will be employed on the streets during the next month. Those who have been kept will be employed in the stables to care for the horses. It seems that horses have a better chance under Karb gang rule than human beings. The pitiful thing about the matter is that most of these discharged employes have been voting for Karb and the Democratic ticket for years. They are needed by the gang about election time, and are usually cast off to starve and freeze during the winter. Then they are ready to work for most any wages the next spring and summer. Some day the working class will wake up—perhaps. Karb will see that his Man Friday, Philbrick, gets the printing contract, even if it costs the city $10,000 extra.

A TRAITOR TO HIS CLASS.

Schilling Deserts Principles for Office, Says Canton Socialist.

Schilling comes in on a peculiar wave of popularity. The public—at least the noisy element—is glad to see the old corrupt administration go and a new one enter.

Schilling comes in without strings," affiliated with no party and claiming to be a Socialist.

A Socialist without strings is like a violin without strings, useless. The strings that attach to a real Socialist are his pledges to change the present system, to stand by his class, to organize and educate the worker to preach solidarity and to work in harmony with the Socialist organization.

Schilling is without strings, he is not a Socialist.

With Socialists, city administrations are incidental; they are not even stepping stones toward Socialism; and yet Socialists, on their march, will capture city after city and must operate municipal governments whether they want to or not. Realizing this and knowing that the desire for office would become greater with some members than their desire to emancipate the working class, the Socialists long ago laid down rules that if strictly adhered to will prevent the Socialist party from becoming a mere political party or office-seeking crowd. These laws are the very backbone of the Socialist party.

Graft and grafting exist in municipal, state and national governments only because the opportunity for graft exists. We know the only way to abolish graft is to abolish the capitalist system, yet we know, that under the present system it is essential that every Socialist administration be free from graft and more important, be an administration for the working class.

The Socialist locals believe in making government a science. They would elect committees to study the different departments of governments, they would discuss all proposed legislation at their meeting and instruct elected officials.

A Socialist municipal government would mean government by the Socialists and not by a few Socialists.

The object of this is to advance Socialism and alleviate the miseries of the working class. Schilling, during his membership, did not seem to learn the meaning of Socialism or understand the object of the organization. With us, Socialism is a righteous cause, we see about us slavery, starvation and sickness, vice, crime and corruption. We see little boys and girls, the fire of their youth cruelly stamped out, sweating in mills and factories; we see girls driven into prostitution. We see sickly babies and tired mothers and we know these conditions are all unnecessary. The Socialist Party is organized to change these conditions and he who puts his desire for office above his pledge to help stamp out these vices and change the economic system is a traitor to the holiest cause that man has ever fought for. His ex-comrades can have nothing but contempt for a Benedict Arnold in the fight of right against wrong.—Stark County Socialist, Canton, O.

The Beck & Dollison Piano Company, located at 31 North High St., is one of the few piano stores in Columbus where it is absolutely safe for a working man to buy a piano. This firm is noted for the extreme courtesy shown to customers who buy pianos on the payment plan, during sickness or misfortune, as they are always ready to lend the helping hand. Readers of this paper who anticipate making a purchase in this line will do well to call at Beck & Dollison's before going elsewhere. Their advertisement appears in another column.

THE SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS.

The subject, "The Purposes of Life," was discussed by several of the comrades who attended the meeting of the school of economics, last Saturday evening. A variety of ideas were presented, and while none of them agreed in all the details, it was generally understood that while the purposes of life, taken collectively, was just a trifle vague, the general desire of the human family is to experience pleasure and avoid pain. Man may voluntarily experience pain, but he does it generally to avoid a greater pain. Man may forego a pleasure, but the general reason for it is that he may experience a greater pleasure.

The subject for discussion next Saturday evening is "The Necessities of Life," namely: food, fuel, clothing and shelter. The natural resources and labor necessary to produce them. The natural resources are sun, air, land, forests, mines, quarries, etc. Labor to be divided into mental and physical. Mental to be considered along the lines of inventions and organization. Physical to be considered along the line of skilled and unskilled, and organized and unorganized.

The comrades throughout the city will understand that this school is managed democratically and for the greatest good to the greatest number. If the place of meeting is not to your liking, come over and have a voice in selecting the meeting place. If the manner of conducting the school does not suit you, come over and have a voice in the conducting of the school. The school is for the purpose of bringing up the average intelligence of the Socialist propaganda organization and should be attended by everyone so that we could work together and thus teach each other the manner in which we should conduct ourselves, individually and collectively, so as to attain for ourselves our choice of emotions. The question is interesting to everything that breathes. It includes all others. It is the great social problem. You are interested the same as any one else. The school needs your help. Your presence will be appreciated. We shall look for you. Saturday evening, 8 P. M.

Comrade Wm. R. Draper has opened a Dry Goods and Notion Store at 2354 West Broad Street, and invites the public to the opening of the establishment today (Saturday). He wants everybody on the Hill Top and the West Side to come to see the stock and get acquainted with the store.

The masters say you workers are too ignorant to govern. It is the greatest insult they can give a working man who has never had time to study. But you fellows must like it for you voted to continue in ignorance.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS.

The National Office has received orders for 1,000 copies each of "Should Socialism Be Crushed?" from Milton Fenner, Camden, N. J., and Jim Mulholland, Springfield, Ill.

State Secretary Connolly of Alabama reports 16 locals and branches organized in that state during the months of September and October.

Locals were organized by National Organizers from October 1 until election, as follows:

May Beals: South Pittsburg, Tenn., 5 members.

John P. Burke: Pittsfield, N. H., 7 members; members-at-large, 5.

W. M. Doyle: Moselle, Miss., 9 members; Quitman, 11.

Wm. L. Garver: Jonesburg, Mo., 10 members.

H. F. Kendall: Charlottesville, Va., 5 members; Mt. Airy, N. C., 8; Fayetteville, 5; Marshville, 5.

D. C. Rawls: Lauderdale Station, Miss.; Vaiden, Sarepta, Big Creek.

W. C. Seigler: Jasper, Fla., 9 members; Live Oak, 5; Marianna, 13; Chipley, 18; Miller's Ferry, 5; South Port, 18; Bonifay, 11; DeFuniak Springs, 15; Milligan, 10; Bakers, 5; Milton, 16; Bagdad, 17; Millville, 18; Panama City, 7; Greenhead, 10.

J. E. Snyder: Big Springs, Tenn., 15 members.

The following amendment by Spargo has been made to the National Executive Committee motion by Irvine: That we renew our lease, for one floor only, at the present rental, for one year.

Proposed National Committee Motions:

By Maurer of Pennsylvania:

"That the National Secretary be instructed to discontinue lease of present headquarters at a rental of $4,800 per year, beyond the time when present lease expires, April 30, 1913.

"That a representative of the National Committee be elected to investigate the possibilities of Springfield, Ills., and Indianapolis, Ind., as location for National Headquarters."

By Krafft of New Jersey:

"That the National Executive Secretary be instructed to issue posters of several different kinds, on stout paper suitable for nailing to trees and billboards, with large bold type that can be read at least 50 feet away, some containing short forcible statements of Socialist theory, and some urging sympathizers to join the party."

The National Committee motions by Maurer of Pennsylvania that the lease of present National Headquarters be discontinued and that a representative be elected to investigate the possibilities of Springfield, Ills., and Indianapolis, Ind., as location for national headquarters, has been seconded by Hogan of Arkansas, Bessemer, Clifford and Eby of Ohio; Fuller of Pennsylvania and Noble of Texas. It has been submitted to the committee. The vote closes December 20.

By a recent referendum in Michigan, James Hoogerhyde was re-elected state secretary, Frank Altonen of Negaunee was re-elected national committeeman and James Hoogerhyde elected national committeeman in the place of H. S. McMaster.

SOCIALIST PARTY ESTABLISHES A RESEARCH AND INFORMATION BUREAU.

The Socialist Party has opened an information department at its national headquarters, at 111 North Market Street. Mr. Carl D. Thompson, recently of Wisconsin, is in charge.

The department is the result of long and careful consideration on the part of the membership and officials of the party.

The need of some independent and reliable source of information on all special subjects involved in the present social crisis has long been felt by all active workers in the Socialist movement. The election of a thousand or more Socialists to official positions, which put them in places where definite concrete information on special practical matters was an absolute necessity, served to emphasize this need. Prominent members of the party everywhere have for a long time been urging the establishment of a bureau of research and information, something on the order of the legislative reference libraries established by many states and municipalities.

Finally, at the last national convention of the party held at Indianapolis in May, 1912, recommendations of the establishment of the bureau came from several different sources. The National Secretary recommended it in his report, the Committee on Municipal and State Program unanimously recommended it in their report to the convention and the matter was finally referred to the National Executive Committee for definite action.

At its meeting in August this committee took the matter up, arranged for the establishment of the bureau and made nominations for the manager of the department. Mr. Thompson was finally selected, came to Chicago and began his duties November 15th.

The purpose of the department, as stated in the various resolutions and motions made concerning it, is to gather data and information from this and other countries concerning economic, political and social conditions and problems and to give such assistance and information as may be required by the locals of the party or elected or appointed officials of the party in connection with their official duties.

Mr. Thompson says that he will undertake to establish a co-operation with all reliable sources of information in this country and especially with the International Bureau of the Socialist Party at Brussels, as well as the various national organizations in Europe. He is determined to make the bureau here the best and most valuable source of information for matters within its scope of any in America.

State Secretary Oneal of Indiana reports five locals and branches with a total of one hundred and forty members chartered during the month of October. One of these was a Hungarian branch at South Bend, with one hundred members.

Mrs. Al. Schwartz, 150 Edgewood Avenue, Atlanta, Ga., has been elected Woman's State Correspondent for the State of Georgia.

Hope H. Berry, 1507 Furnace St., Joplin, Mo., has been appointed by the State Executive Committee as Woman's State Correspondent for the State of Missouri.

The worker's vote is worth at least $1,000 a year to the Skinners' Association that profits from the continuation of the present system. My but you workers are a generous bunch of nuts.

When the social revolution changes the basis of production and exchange, the laws, customs, morals, ethics and ideas of the Ancient and Illustrious Order of Skinners will be swept aside. That day is not far distant, either.

That "living wage" that the capitalist henchmen are ever talking of would not provide enough food for a pet dog of the rich loafers. Of course, your wife and children are not supposed to be fed as good grub as the pet dogs of your masters.

Wake up, you comrades! This is no time to sleep on the job. If you and your loved ones are ever freed from this slavery you'll have to do something more than just dream. Get busy and help educate those who are still in ignorance of the class struggle.

The fellow that is successful in accumulating dollars does so at a price that no good man can afford to pay. He succeeds at the cost of the failure of his brother man.

CLOSE STEEL MILLS.

Pittsburg, Nov. 30.—Nearly 700 trainmen employed at the Edgar Thompson plants and the Carrie furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company recently walked out for the purpose of enforcing their demands for a higher wage scale. For the first time in three years the work at the Edgar Thompson plant is practically at a standstill and only about 400 of the 3,000 night workmen are on duty. At the Homestead plant practically all of the men are rendered idle by the strike of the trainmen, owing to the lack of material with which to work. The trainmen employed at the Duquesne plant of the Carnegie Steel Company, who are also expected to strike, are still at work.

URGE USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Announcement has been made that immediately after Congress convenes efforts will be made by the city commissioners to obtain legislation authorizing the use of public school buildings for meetings of citizens' associations and other civic organizations. It is stated that the commissioners will recommend that a bill introduced by Congressman Johnson of Kentucky to regulate the use of public school buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia, be amended so as to make the buildings available for public meetings. Under the existing law the buildings are open only approximately six hours a day during the school period of 36 weeks, or a total of 1,080 hours each year. The plan under consideration, if adopted, would make the buildings available not only for public meetings, but as social and recreation centers during the entire year. It is understood that the commissioners deem it advisable that the sphere of usefulness of the public school buildings and grounds, representing an investment of $10,000,000, be enlarged by permitting their use for public meetings, lectures, games, reading, gymnastics and athletic sports. The civic associations of this city have indorsed the plan to make use of the school buildings in the manner indicated.

PLUMBERS AND STEAM FITTERS.

Rochester, Nov. 30.—The committee on adjustment, reporting its findings to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, on November 30, among other things reported as follows: "Your committee has heard at great length and given serious consideration to the arguments of all those appearing before it in conjunction with this matter. It is the judgment of your committee that the interest of all steam fitters' demands that there shall be but one organization in the pipe fitting industry, the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers of the United States and Canada, and in order that the exclusive jurisdiction of this organization over all men employed in the pipe fitting industry may be steadily and permanently established, your committee recommends that in harmony with the action of the American Federation of Labor and subsequent action of the executive council in connection therewith, the charter of affiliation of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America be revoked in accordance with the provisions of the constitution of the American Federation of Labor." After a discussion covering a considerable period of time, a roll call was ordered. The vote resulted in 15,766 votes in favor of the recommendation of the committee to revoke the charter, to 1,323 votes against it. As more than two-thirds of the votes were cast for the adoption of the committee's report, the charter of the steam fitters was, in accordance therewith, revoked.

THE SOCIALIST.

BY ALFRED POMEROY.

'Tis he who, looking back across the field of time,
Observes the toiler, slave and others of their kind
Bound, like stupid oxen, to their master's mind;
Who sees the wealth of generations past,
The land and homes held firm and fast
By those who neither toil nor spin,
And never helped this wealth to win;
Who knows that title deeds to land were written by the sword.
Dipped in human blood by those who went abroad
To loot and plunder foreign lands and rule "by right Divine,"
And gave no thought to GOLDEN RULE of Mine and Thine.

'Tis he who sees the rust and blight,
Wrought o'er the world by brutal might
Of those whose hearts care nothing for the right;
Whose eyes see naught but lust of gain,
And nothing care for right, if gain they can attain;
'Tis he who claims the world belongs to all
Of those who dig and delve and toil;
Who sees no need of right to crowns and thrones and those who claim in trust
The world to own; whose king is all mankind with sceptors of the just;
The right to live and love and worship whom we please.

To land and home and opportunity, and die at least in ease.(?)

SOMETHING NEW.

With the reorganization of The Masses, Socialist journalism in America enters upon an entirely new phase of its rapid development. It has been felt for some time and in many quarters that, while Socialist publications as a class were well-edited and interesting, there was a tendency to overlook the lighter of the social revolution, a tendency to neglect the salient opportunities to portray by art and literature the amusing pretensions of the ruling classes and their frantic and futile efforts to sweep back the rising tide of Socialism. It was felt that some earnest effort to fill this demand should be made.

The opportunity seemed to offer itself when The Masses proved to be a failure under its old management and its old policy. Accordingly, a group of Socialist writers and artists secured control of the defunct publication and have re-established it on an entirely new basis. Its policy, while still retaining the serious undertone which every successful paper must have, will be devoted to the lighter sides of the class struggle. That it will be more rather than less effective for that reason, need hardly be explained to those who are familiar with the excellent work done by the humorous and satirical papers in many countries of the old world.

The list of contributors to the new Masses is too long to republish in this short article, but it already comprises most of the best-known Socialist writers and artists in the United States, and others will undoubtedly join the ranks as soon as they become acquainted with what the paper is trying to do.

The Masses for the present will be published monthly, at 150 Nassau Street, New York, and the subscription price is $1.00 per year. The first issue under the new management has already appeared and is nothing less than a wonder, not only because of what has already been accomplished, but because of what is promised for the future. Sample copies will be mailed free as long as they last, and those who are interested in encouraging this important venture should send in their subscriptions at once.

GOMPERS.

From an editorial paragraph in the New York Press we learn that Mr. Gompers is rejoicing over the defeat of the Socialist congressman—Berger—and has expressed his opinion that the event will help the "cause of union labor." The Press disagrees with him, and declares that Berger made a good congressman, that he has made a good many people realize that Socialism isn't anarchism, and that it doesn't see why anybody should rejoice over the loss of a single congressman by a party that polls nearly 1,000,000 votes.

It is, therefore, clearly up to us to enlighten the Press on the appropriateness of the Gompers rejoicing.

In the first place, when Mr. Gompers speaks of union labor he means himself; "union labor" is his other name. But a large number of Socialists, among them Berger, insolently dispute this title, and hurt the old man in the most sensitive portion of his mental anatomy—his pride and egotism. They even persisted, after he—"union labor" had assured them publicly that they were economically unsound, morally wrong and industrially impossible.

The defeat of Berger is his handiwork, of course, and what more natural than that he should behold it and pronounce it very good! The American public at large have no suspicion as yet that the political landslide to Wilson was in reality the work of Mr. Gompers. Did he not, after a calm and judicial survey of the entire political situation, publicly denounce the Republican party as antagonistic to union labor, and on the principle of rewarding his friends and punishing his enemies "deliver the labor vote" to Wilson?

Berger is one of his enemies. He is punished. And he who inflicted the punishment rejoices.

Mr. Gompers may perhaps not admit this in his American Federationist, for, though stern and inflexible to inflict justice upon the evildoer, he is at the same time as modest as he is sensitive.

As for the million Socialist votes, he reeks not of them. Is not he—"union labor"—a host in himself, two millions strong?

We say these things because The Press seemingly has no idea of the overwhelmingly important of this great social and political figure standing modestly and silently in the background and directing the destinies of the nation. It has been dazzled, bewildered and deceived by the superficial greatness of Roosevelt, who also went down to defeat, when the fist of Gompers went forth. Berger is but one of his minor victims.

The election of Wilson is the direct outcome of the powerful influence of Gompers. It matters not that Wilson detests "union labor," and has said so innumerable times, when Gompers brings his influence to bear upon him, he will experience a change of heart. It may be that he will for a time dissemble his love and kick Mr. Gompers down the back stairs at Washington, as his predecessors have done, but in the end he will have to submit. If not, Mr. Gompers will fight it out on this line for the entire four years, and then displace him and reward another friend who will continue the kicking.

The Press should get posted and comprehend that this great man embodies in himself the irresistible power of "union labor." He is the "labor" that conquers all—the "labor" that will do the "omnia vincit"—stunt—if only confidence in it is continued and time enough allowed.—New York Call.

REGULATION.

By J. L. Engdahl.

One week after the recent election the telephone and telegraph trust announced a scheme for starting a $10,000,000 pension fund for the benefit of its employes.

Of course the capitalist newspapers everywhere spread themselves in lauding this magnanimous proposition.

These pension schemes have become rather numerous of late. This is especially true of the public service corporations and that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company should line up all at once is not in the least surprising.

These are the days of regulation—the regulation of trusts and the regulation of competition. Any fake remedy for the present national indisposition that will have a tendency to offset Socialism is acceptable. This step by the wire and phone trust is just another confession that big business fears Socialism all the year around.

These are the corporations which, although they may be temporarily controlled through regulation by the government, must be very soon owned and operated by the government.

By government regulation of these monopolies their life under private control is merely extended.

It is understood that these public service trusts are making all their contracts with the people and securing all of their franchises with the promise of 7 per cent. dividends because that is what they are going to be allowed on the face of things by regulation. Then, of course, if they are going to have a $10,000,000 pension fund the regulators must also fall for that, and the people must foot this bill, too.

THE RISE OF THE WORKERS.

BY JOSEPH E. COHEN.

The splendid progress made by the Socialist party, as recorded in the vote cast at the election, would mean nothing if it did not carry with it two assurances.

First, that a larger number of working men were becoming politically self-reliant. Secondly, that the whole mass of the working class is seething with more thorough-going class-consciousness.

Before we go any further, let us hasten to emphasize the point that this does not mean that "intellectuals" and "middle class" people are not as welcome in the party as they used to be. They are every bit as welcome, and needed, as they ever were. The Socialist party is less apt to be divided in the future than it has been in the past, over the question of the personal qualities of its members.

The only test it requires of its members is that of service to the cause. A middle-class member who is loyal to the movement is always to be preferred to a workingman who is lax in his devotion. And so forth.

Yet it must be admitted frankly that as the working class grows in consciousness, as it comes to make the world over in its own(newer) image, just to that extent will it shunt middle class, no less than capitalist class ideals off the main track.

It will begin by plucking the mask from those middle class members and intellectuals who have covered their own tactics by the preface, "We, the working class." It will also give the cold shoulder to those whose absence of ability is concealed behind the assurance that they were once working men—about the same time Rockefeller was a clerk.

The middle class ideals in particular that the workers will disabuse their movement of are those of syndicalism and anarchism.

Both syndicalism and anarchism sneer at democracy. Both are aristocratic systems (or lack of systems), in which a minority or the individual has prior claims over the rest. (As a matter of fact, this is what the workers are suffering under in capitalism, to say nothing of the anarchy of production which neither syndicalism nor anarchism would remove.)

Socialism, the movement of the workers, means the scientific arrangement of the machinery of production, growing out of the mammoth methods brought into use by capitalism. It implies an international understanding of all the factors of industrial activity, and an agreement of the nations based upon the completest economic interdependence and social solidarity.

Syndicalism and anarchism claim nothing near that.

More than that, Socialism parts company with syndicalism and anarchism at the start off, in the matter of tactics. Inasmuch as they repudiate democracy, they have no use for political action. Socialism, on the other hand, recognizes that political action alone can bring about the social revolution that will free the workers and make class antagonism impossible.

So Socialism starts in right now, with our present very inadequate and imperfect political machinery, to equip the workers with this power and experience to make the change in our social affairs.

It results upon proportional representation, which offers the only opportunity for government as representative of the opinion of the governed. And it insists upon democratic methods, the initiative, referendum and recall.

More than that, it demands that the government shall be as perfect a tool as possible for doing the work of the people. And this can be accomplished by electing a single chambered legislative body—and nothing more. Then let that body select its presiding officer (just as a Socialist party meeting does), and let that presiding officer have no power except to administer the laws enacted by the body. (No veto power, etc.)

Then let the legislative body select a committee on law, say, which may see to it that its legislative measures are consistent with the purpose de-

Governments are established to settle the bread problem. If they fail in this they fail in everything.

The United States government has so far failed to settle the Bread Problem and has therefore failed to be a government in the true sense.

All governments are owned by the class that owns the industries. The United States government is owned by the owners of the industries.

The servants in every government must obey the owners of the government.

The Democrats are now largely the political servants in this government. They must therefore obey the big owners of the industries—the owners of the nation's bread.

And what do the big owners demand?

They demand that all legislation and all court decisions and all official acts shall be in their favor.

The big owners demand that when there are labor disputes the servants of the government shall stand with the interests and against the workers.

Will the Democrats be true to their masters?

They have to.

Will the Democrats fight the workers and knock them down if the big owners so demand?

They have to

Who elected the Democrats to office? The workers.

Who told the workers to elect Democrats? The big interests.

Why did the workers do what the big interests told them to do? Because the workers didn't know any better.

If the workers had elected the Socialists to office from the President down what would happen?

The Socialist officials would then take steps to make the whole people the owners of the industries.

After the people become the owners they will become the rulers. When they own the industries they will own the government.

When the workers own the industries and the government they will have access to the things necessary for them to live on.

They will have access to the bread basket.

If they create bread they will be able to get bread. Today the workers create bread but cannot get it. The bread created is given over to the big owners and they cannot use it nor will they let the people use it.

You will understand that by "bread" I mean all the necessaries of a real, genuine, wholesome, broad life.

The Democrats believe that the big owners should be in possession of the bread basket.

They believe that the workers should work and take the crumbs that the big owners dole out to them.

There is now a famine in the land. This famine is not because there is no bread but because those who have made the bread cannot get it from the big owners.

When they try to get it the Democrats who belong to the big owners shoot the workers.

Thus there arises a big problem, the problem of bread. That problem it not solved by shooting the hungry breadmakers. But the Democrats think it is.

You will get just as hungry during the Democrat administration as during the Republican.

Ignorance means hunger and death. Use your intelligence so that you may have abundance and live.

Unless you think you are lost. If you think, you will realise that the only hope of the world is in the people's ownership of the earth.

When the people own the earth the bread problem will be solved.

The Democrats cannot solve the bread problem. They are not hired for that purpose. They are hired to protect the few big interests who own the bread industry and who own the jobs of the workers and who steal most of their earnings.

The Socialists understand the situation and know how to solve the problem.

The Democrats don't.

STAGE HANDS WIN.

London, Ont., Nov. 30.—The manager of the Grand Opera House was undisguised in his hostility toward the stage hands and endeavored to put the organization out of business. Unfortunately for the manager, a large production was on the boards, it carrying with it a large number of stage hands belonging to the recognized international union. As a result of this hostility the traveling stage hands refused to stage the show in the Grand Opera House until the contentions of the local union were adjusted. As a result of this decision a new agreement was entered into by the management of the theater, the show staged and the local stage hands satisfied.

"LIFE" ON RAILROADS.

"Life," the satirical weekly of New York City, is as clever as ever. Recently it has indicated a commendable spirit of occasionally doing some direct educational work. The current issue is a splendid number and will well repay the reader for the time required to catch the pointed suggestions of the contributors to this magazine.

Ellis O. Jones, the talented Socialist author, has the following condensed argument on Socialism:

Owning and Working.

"Mr. B. F. Yoakum, railroad magnate, writing in 'World's Work,' claims special consideration and immunity for the railroad industry because it 'disburses' more than $1,000,000 a year to its 1,700,000 employees.

"We are glad to know that the railroads are paying their employees regularly, but that's not the point. The point is: Are the employees earning this billion? The average amount to each is $590 yearly, which seems far from exorbitant.

"On the other hand, the railroad industry 'disburses' over $500,000,000 yearly to stock and bond holders. How about that? Every time the employees get $2 the stockholders and bondholders get $1. The point is, do these stock and bondholders earn this money.

"The employees get a third and the stock and bondholders get a sixth. Sixteen and two-thirds per cent. of the gross receipts looks like pretty big pay for the not overly-arduous task of being an owner.

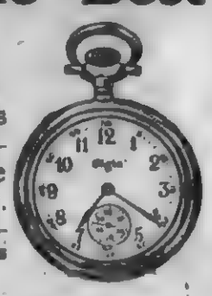
DEB'S VOTE CONTNUES NEAR 900,000 MARK



The Debs vote still hovers around 900,000. This week it takes a slight drop, owing to the failure of two or three states to reach expectations. Next week, however, may show an increase. The percentage of gain over 1908 in the states that have so far reported their official vote is 115. This percentage applied to the 434,488 votes of 1908 would give this year a total of 912,650.

Returns said to be official have been received during the week from Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. The Oklahoma total is 5,600 in excess of the estimate made by us last week, that of Minnesota 2,500 in excess and of Missouri 3,100 in excess, while that of Pennsylvania is 1,100 less and of Kansas 3,200 less.

Unofficial totals of approximations have been received from Florida, Mississippi, New Jersey, Oregon and Montana. The expected Florida vote failed to materialize, and the total is far below our estimate. One county is still missing from these returns, but it cannot add much to the figures. The Mississippi vote is 640 below our estimate, while that of New Jersey is 600 in excess. Oregon gives 2,800 more than our estimate and Montana 2,100 less.

Information has been received that places the Wisconsin vote at not more than 40,000 and that of Kentucky at not more than 8,000. Idaho, however, will hsow a very considerable gain. With three counties still missing, the vote is 10,549 and bids fair to exceed 11,500—National Socialist.

AN APPEAL TO WORKERS FOR ORGANIZED EFFORT

Good Results Wherever System of Campaign Committee Is Tried.

The results of the collection of dues in the Fifth Ward last Sunday was very fruitful and encourages the campaign committee to continue their efforts in other weak wards.

Greater results could be attained if more co-operation from the membership was given.

The object of this system of collection of dues by the campaign committee is to interest the indifferent members; drop a little information to them that will help them to combat the arguments against Socialism; get them to attend their branch meetings and pay up their back dues.

In short time this will not only give us the finance to get out literature, but will also give us an organization that will distribute the literature.

Education and organization conducted in the most vigorous way from now until next election day means that we will not only hold what we now have, but make such great inroads on the trenches of capitalism that we will be treated with respect instead of contempt, as now.

Next Sunday the collection will be made in the Fourth Ward and the committee meets at Comrade A. C. Howard's residence, 426 South Monroe Avenue, at 8:30 A. M.

Everybody who wants to see our organization grow should come out and help. Come, and share the honors that will be heaped upon this committee for the great pioneer work that they are now doing.

THE DANCE OF THE PEOPLE.

Our Thanksgiving dance, last Thursday night, far exceeded the expectations of our organization. The hall was packed with a good, sociable crowd.

If you were there, we invite you to come back again, and we know you will.

If you were not there, and want to have an evening of pleasure once a week, you should attend these dances or card parties in which capital and booby prizes are awarded to lady and gentleman winners.

These dances and card parties are given at Varian Hall, No. 1 East Town Street, every Thursday night, and their purpose is primarily to furnish a good time to the membership of this organization and to their friends, and for this reason only a nominal charge of 25 cents a couple, or 15 cents for an extra lady is made.

This is a special invitation to you to come and bring at least one friend to next Thursday's dance.

DEBS AND ASSOCIATES AWAITING WARRANT

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 30.—Eugene V. Debs, late presidential candidate of the Socialist Party; Fred Warren, editor-in-chief of The Appeal to Reason, and his attorney, J. J. Sheppard, who were indicted in the Federal Court on the charge of "obstructing the course of justice" in trying to induce witnesses out of the state, are hourly expecting a United States marshal to serve the warrant on Debs at his home.

The Appeal to Reason editors and publisher were prosecuted on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails, which consisted of an account of the degrading practices in the federal prison in Fort Leavenworth, which resulted in the dismissal of a warden.

Debs has dictated the following statement:

"I am going to tell them to go straight to hell. They can put me in jail if they want to, but before they get through I will turn their courts and jails bottom side up. It will take some time to do it, but I will live long enough to see it done."

HAYWOOD CAUSES SURPRISE.

Surprise has been expressed in Socialist circles over some of the statements that were made by William D. Haywood, member of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party and general organizer of the I. W. W., at the meeting for Joseph J. Ettor in the Harlem Casino, 127th Street and Second Avenue, under the auspices of Branch 7, Local New York of the Socialist Party, Sunday afternoon.

The surprise was occasioned by the fact, it is declared, that Haywood made recommendations which were repudiated by the last national convention of the Socialist Party convention in Indianapolis.

For the benefit of those who may have overlooked these statements, they are herewith produced:

"Ettor has come here to thank you, for it is you that have released him, and after him other men will come. For they feel as I do, that our lives would have been sacrificed. You saved my life and Ettor and Giovannitti and all of us will carry the message to all the working men, woman and children.

"I have no message for any other kind of people."

Haywood then reiterated his belief in direct action.

"Well, direct action is the shortest way home. It is the sugest way, particularly for the women and children, the black men and especially for the disfranchised American working man.

"And I believe in sabotage, that much misunderstood word." Then Haywood got over a knock on the "highbrows," who, he said, pronounced the word sabo-tage, but Tom Hickey of Texas and the working man say simply, sabotage the shortest way.

"There is no revolutionary action that can be too strong if we will only throw the capitalistic class back."

Haywood remarked that industrialism is Socialism with its working clothes on.

"The I. W. W. is a fighting, militant organization that takes up the conflict with the savage hirelings of the fiercest of the capitalistic class."

He talked of people who had been sent to jail in San Quentin, Little Falls and other places. This proved that the employers were afraid of the I. W. W. and wanted to stop direct action.

"At present we are hampered with too many jails," he said. "The jails all over the country are filled with many of the working class this very day. But they are not filled by political Socialists, but are filled by the men and women Socialists of the Industrial Workers of the World."

At this point a loud voice from the back of the hall asked: "How about Mayor Lunn in Little Falls?" Haywood answered that he was not in jail at the present time. Then he asked the names of several men and the places where they were imprisoned. These were probably members of the I. W. W., he said.—New York Call.

COMRADE BERGER WILL KEEP CAPITALISTS STIRRED

Socialist Congressman Will Stay on the Job Until the Whistle Blows at Washington.

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, Dec. —Representative Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, the only Socialist in Congress, returned to Washington for the final session, not at all cast down by his defeat by a small majority which the fusion of the two old parties in his district was able to roll up against him at the polls in November, and showing by his manner that he regards the coming two years after March 4 simply as an interval—and the last one—in which the Working Class will have no representation in Congress.

As soon as he reached his office, Berger began work on the mass of correspondence which had collected during his absence from Washington. He has a number of important bills to introduce and he will also make a few Socialist speeches on the floor of the House during the winter to shake up the old reactionaries of both of the capitalist parties.

"I expect to keep hard at work up to the last minute of my term serving the interests of the Working Class in Congress," said Berger, in an interview.

Berger will take advantage of his final days in Washington to distribute a great volume of Socialist literature throughout the country under his congressional frank.

One of Berger's first acts on reaching the capital was to give out an interview explaining his defeat, and summing up the present political situation in the country. In this statement Berger predicted the dissolution of the Republican party, a split in the Democratic party in the near future, the rise of the Progressives, and a complete realignment of the capitalist political parties. The statement follows:

Mr. Berger said: "As everybody knows, I was defeated by a combination of the Republicans and Democrats in Milwaukee County. Mr. Stafford, the gentleman who beat me, was elected on a so-called nonpartisan Democratic fusion ticket, although, while he was in the House, he was known as a 'stand-patter.' Politics makes strange bed-fellows, and I readily understand that Socialists cannot claim any district until they have an absolute majority of all the votes there. A simple plurality will not do for us, because the two old parties are sure to forget their little differences and join hands as soon as they find that the Working Class wants to give expression to its interests on the political field.

"I am sorry for the sake of the Working Class and the country. The Socialist Party has gained over 100 per cent. in votes during the last four years, but it will not be represented in the next Congress. It would undoubtedly be for the benefit of the country and all classes if the idea that has taken such a strong hold upon the masses of every civilized people would have some representatives in Congress.

"The presence of 50 Socialists in Congress would even have a wonderful effect upon the old parties. It would compel them to accomplish legislation of which they do not even dream today.

"As for the general effect of the last election—the American people undoubtedly have repudiated the Republican Party; but the people have almost just as emphatically declared their lack of confidence in the Democratic Party.

"Mr. Wilson, the Democratic candidate, had the support of the Republican stalwarts and of the standpatters in almost every state in the Union, because that element realized that Mr. Taft could not be re-elected. Mr. Wilson had the solid South, where in the main they only register the votes of adherents of the Democratic Party. And with all these advantages Mr. Wilson polled nearly 3,000,000 votes less on November 5, when he was elected president of the United States, than did Mr. Bryan on the Democratic ticket when he was defeated.

"In other words, the Republican Party was smashed, but the Democratic Party was practically repudiated.

"The Democratic Party, of course, will have all the federal offices for four years and, therefore, is jubilant. But the Democratic Party will also have all the responsibilities and troubles during the next four years that the Republican party had in the past. And the Democratic leaders have less insight into economic conditions even than have the Republican leaders.

"The Republicans were defeated because they were conservative, the Democrats will get theirs because they are reactionary. And the poor Democratic Party cannot help being reactionary. It is controlled by a coalition of the South and Tammany.

"The South is about 30 years behind the North—is behind England, Germany and France—in its economic development. The South is just entering upon that riot of capitalist domination through which the North has passed during the last 30 years.

"The South is just waking up. Its capitalist investors will naturally claim protection for their 'infant' industries. Now, how is the Democratic Party to make good on its platform pledges in regard to the tariff? I shall say nothing about Tammany as a factor in national politics. Tammany's deeds will speak loud enough.

"The Democratic Party will also have a hard position on account of the high cost of living. A dollar today buys about as much of the necessities of life as 60 cents did about 13 years ago. The Democratic Party cannot change that. But for that very reason there will be a political revolution four years hence.

"Last, but not least, the Democrats promised to solve the trust question by smashing the trusts. This cannot be done, of course. But how are the Democrats going to explain their failure. Moreover, an industrial crisis with Democratic hard times and soup kitchens—is due in a year or two. This time the panic will also strike the South, which is beginning to manufacture. The sons and daughters of the men who fought at Gettysburg will clamor for bread and justice, and the solid South will break up.

"As for the Bull Moose Party, I differ from the opinion that it will die because Roosevelt was not elected. Roosevelt is not the Progressive movement, which has a well-defined basis in our country. A realignment of the old political parties is absolutely needed, and has to come.

"There is really no difference between the Democratic and Republican parties, as the parties stand now in Congress and in the various state legislatures. The support of Taft standpatters helped elect Wilson. But there is deep cleavage within the Democratic Party as well. Last fall the pie counter formed the bridge connecting the factions of the Democrats. But the days of pie-counter politics are passing. A political party must be the expression of economic interests if it is to survive. These interests now center about classes or groups within classes.

"There are now the great class questions that must be solved—the question of capital and labor foremost of all—then the questions of security in old age and sickness, and so on. The Democratic Party hardly knows the sound of these terms, let alone being able to solve such questions. The Progressives, taking up some of these things, will gain strength—they may carry a presidential election—but they are bound to fail because no other political organization than the Socialist Party, the party of the Working Class, really can solve social problems.

"However, I will say that if it had not been for Mr. Roosevelt and his semi-Socialist platform, the Socialists would have undoubtedly polled 2,000,000 votes this time. Our great party will poll at least 3,000,000 votes next time if the factional and anarchistic spirit will be kept out.

"As for my own person, I will say that I have liked my work in the House of Representatives, and shall enjoy it to the last moment working for my class and for the new world. In fact, I even personally regret the interruption."

There is nothing quite so immoral and shocking to the pillars of society as the naked truth.

The General Strike

BY ROBERT HUNTER.

"Take care," cried Mirabeau, "do not irritate this people, that produces everything, and that, to make itself formidable, has only to become motionless."

The threat of the general strike was what this leader of the French Revolution held before the privileged classes. He was the first modern prophet of the general strike, and no one since has stated so simply or so powerfully this alluring idea. At various periods throughout all of last century the idea captivated the minds of numberless leaders of the working class.

Today the General Strike is the chief war measure advocated by the Trade Unions of the Latin countries. It has its philosophy and there is a library of books on the General Strike. It has been discussed in the congresses, national and international, of the Trade Unions and of the Socialist party.

The organized workers of all kinds have studied the question, debated it at length, and resolved for or against this method of action. It has so appealed to the imagination that short stories and novels have been written, forecasting the helplessness of the world in the hour when the working class should stand motionless.

The Anarchists have everywhere acclaimed the General Strike as the greatest example of the Propaganda of the Deed.

The older Socialist and Trade Union leaders of Europe have looked upon the General Strike agitation with alarm, and the discussion of it has aroused intense interest as well as extreme bitterness.

The greatest orator of the General Strike, Aristides Briand, used it as a ladder to rise from the ranks of unknown lawyers to the highest position in the French government, that of prime minister.

Another leader of a General Strike, John Burns, rose from the ranks of the hungry and unemployed to the Cabinet of the greatest industrial nation.

Men have advocated the use of this weapon for every conceivable purpose. William D. Haywood would have had it used to force the courts to release the McNamara brothers, Ettor and others.

Keir Hardie would have it used to prevent war.

Others would have this mighty weapon employed to protect any one injured by capitalist oppression.

Still others see in it an alternative and substitute for political action and advocate its use as the ONLY "political" weapon of the workers to force legislation and political reforms. They would have it displace all Socialist party and parliamentary activity.

The Anarchists, who are its most ardent advocates, believe that it is the greatest stimulus to class hatred, that it will make masters more ferocious and the workers more revolutionary. They would use it as often as possible. The more blood spilt in class wars the more irreconcilable will become class antagonism.

Every theorist of the General Strike claims that it is the supreme weapon of labor. It is the final stand, where the entire body of workers shall come forth from mines, fields, and factories to demonstrate their power.

It will stop the world. Lights will go out. Fires will die down. Food will disappear. Trains will stand on the siding. Mails, telephones, and telegraphs will fail to function. Newspapers will not appear; and all our marvelous and intricate industrial life, with its wondrous mechanism and tremendous power, will rest silent and useless.

This people that produces everything has only to become motionless to make itself formidable; this is the essence of the battle cry of the French Syndicalists (Trade Unionists).

Surely there is no idea in the world more arresting. The very thought of it almost makes the heart stop in its action.

Is it possible that this thought, so simple to grasp, points the way to the righting of all the wrongs of labor and to the final emancipation of the working class? Is it THE short cut, THE royal road, leading clear and direct to the end we seek? Or is it but another snare and delusion that may lead the working class astray?

Surely there is no other question that so much merits inquiry as this one.

What is the origin of the idea of the General Strike?

Is the General Strike realizable? If it is, how and when?

Is the General Strike a weapon so mighty that it shall be used but once, and that to finish the present epoch of society?

Is it a weapon to be used for small ends and big ends indiscriminately?

Is it a means of action that makes political and economic organization unnecessary?

Let us hear those for and against the General Strike.

We want all the light possible. And this I shall attempt to give in the articles to come.

"The Flying Dutchman"

Oscar Ameringer, One of Socialism's Foremost Orators, Coming.

Several hundred tickets have been distributed for sale among the ward branches for a lecture on "Socialism" to be delivered at Federation Hall, No. 121½ East Town Street, 8:00 o'clock p. m., Monday, December 23d, by Oscar Ameringer, one of the foremost Socialist lecturers.

Push the sale of these tickets among your friends and see that they come to hear this able exponent of the cause of Socialism.

Keep the date, the hour and the place in mind and make it ring in the ears of your friends and neighbors until it becomes the byword of all, then come to the hall with them.

This meeting will be the opening gun of our municipal campaign. So let's make it a big one. One that will be a horrible strain on the nervous system of the present city administration, which is going to do all it can to eliminate our party as a political factor in this community.

Oscar Ameringer, who a few years ago lived in Columbus, is now a prominent figure in the National Socialist Movement. Turn out and make Oscar know he is in the old town.

'THE SOCIALIST' VINDICATED BY LATE DEVELOPMENTS

Heads of the Boys' Industrial School Ohio Pen and the Girls' Industrial School Said to be Marked for Discharge.

The daily newspapers of Ohio Wednesday afternoon announced that the heads of three State institutions were doomed to removal, dismissal, discharge—in other words to be fired just like common everyday workingmen and women. These three institutions are the Ohio Penitentiary, the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster and the Girls' Industrial School near Delaware.

Over a year ago The Columbus Socialist turned the searchlight upon the Ohio Penitentiary until the local capitalistic dailies were obliged to take up the matter. Mike Flesher, of Ross County, the "Demon Guard," was discharged and various "reforms" instituted at the State inferno on the bank of the Scioto in this city. Now the papers say that Warden Jones, a small man on a big job, is to go.

Over three months ago the Legal Aid Department of The Columbus Socialist, in charge of Attorney W. C. Bates, heard the stories of mothers and fathers of boys held and tortured by inhuman attendants at the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School. Last week the daily press of Ohio took up, repeated and emphasized the facts we stated months ago. Every charge now featured in the daily papers was made and verified by The Columbus Socialist. We made our statements before the election. The election is over now and the subsidized press can really print a few facts.

Only last week The Columbus Socialist started out with a plain fact about the Girls' Industrial School and the system under which some of the codfish aristocrats of Columbus were obtaining "servants" without paying any wages therefor. The State authorities are slowly awakening to the fact that The Socialist is on the job.

WHEN WILL THE STATE INSPECTOR OF WORKSHOPS AND FACTORIES INVESTIGATE THE SWEATSHOP AT THE CORNER OF WEST BROAD AND SANDUSKY STREETS IN COLUMBUS?

PARAGRAPHS FROM LOCAL DAILY PRESS.

Formal Charges.

Charging that Alfred Wallace, 14, confined in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, is in bad physical condition as a result of beatings he has received from officers of the school, Attorney Frank A. O'fiBrien of Wheeling, W. Va., representing the boy's mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Wallace of Bellaire, Tuesday afternoon filed charges with Governor Harmon against officers of the institution and asked for a thorough investigation.

O'Brien's written charges allege cruel and inhuman treatment. At the governor's office he said he would leave with the governor letters from seven boy inmates of the school, telling of mistreatment.

O'Brien charges that the food is bad and the clothing inadequate. He put it up to Governor Harmon to make public the verbatim copy of his charges and the names of the officers he accuses.

Governor Harmon announced that he would see that the charges were probed to the bottom, and directed O'Brien to lodge his formal charges with the board of administration.

What Chaplain Schaibly Says:

That an employe kicked A. Blumenthal in the side until he became unconscious, Aug. 5.

That an employe beat a boy with his fists until the child's face looked like a "raw beefsteak," Oct. 13.

That an employe knocked a boy down, Aug. 1, and continued to beat him while the boy was on the ground, although the lad begged for mercy.

That an employe hit a boy five times on the face and eight times on the chest and back, Oct. 30.

That an employe kicked a boy on the shins in September, until the boy was so lame that he had to be carried to the hospital.

That an employe left a boy in a dungeon for 60 days. For three days he was made to wear handcuffs continually, eating and sleeping with the manacles around his wrists, it is charged.

That an employe beat Sylvester Fulton with a horsewhip until the child knelt and prayed for mercy.

Boys Cheer Their Chaplain.

"Hurrah for Schaibly!" cried a ward at the Boys' Industrial School, near Lancaster, at breakfast hour, Tuesday morning, as Chaplain John G. Schaibly arose from his seat. The cheer, which was started by one youth, was joined by hundreds who were at breakfast.

"The boys are with me and as long as they are I am not going to resign as chaplain of this institution," Rev. Schaibly said later. "However, if every boy in the institution turned against me, I would not resign," he concluded.

Captain Schaibly's Record.

Chaplain John G. Schaibly, responsible for some of the most sensational disclosures in the series of revelations regarding the Lancaster school, first became interested in the care of boys when a Cleveland pastor. He organized a club for boys, avowedly to keep them off the streets when not in school or at work. It was a success. He was called from a Newport, Ky., pastorate to become chaplain of the school at Lancaster last summer.

Schaibly believes in healthy play and kindness as the best cure for juvenile delinquency.

COLUMBUS FEDERATION OF LABOR IN REGULAR SESSION

The Columbus Federation of Labor, at its regular meeting last Monday evening, instructed its delegates to make personal appeals to Senators Burton and Pomerene and Ohio congressmen to vote against the Kenyon-Shepherd bill, which would abolish interstate transportation of beer, ale and porter into dry states. This action was taken upon request of the brewery workers' delegates.

The members of the committee recently elected to look after liability claims were instructed to inform themselves fully as to their duties and report at the next meeting of the Federation.

The Federation would have the state obtain a monopoly on Dr. Friederich Franz Friedmann's tuberculosis treatment which the German physician says is an absolute cure for the disease. The scheme is for the state to supply it the same as it does antitoxine serum for treating diphtheria patients. M. J. Gibbin, A. C. Brown and John Hott were appointed a committee to prepare and submit resolutions to Franklin County representatives, urging them to work for such a measure in the legislature.

FIRST WARD BANQUET WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The Socialists of the First Ward held their annual banquet Thursday evening of last week. Despite the steady downpour of rain, there was a good attendance at Zimpfer's Mall, Parsons and Jenkins. Eby's Socialist Orchestra furnished music and Trigger Kraft, the well-known comedian, did several stunts that were roundly applauded. Short addresses were made by Comrades Eby, Eubanks and Lewis. The committee in charge consisted of Fred Dubert, jr., Harvey Skinner, Emil Hartman, Wm. H. Zimpfer and W. C. Cochran. The Socialists of the First Ward never fail to make a hit and last week they certainly increased their reputation.

WHY YOU ARE NOT A SOCIALIST.

BY MAY ENDICOF.

Because, under Socialism, the individual will have no incentive for effort.

Quite true. If preying upon and devouring your fellow-man is essential to progressive activity, then Socialism proclaims that a false and vicious philosophy, and will offer the individual no incentive to continue along these lines. If deception and dishonesty, purloining and plundering are necessary means to attain success under present day conditions, then Socialism believe such conditions to be wrong and evil and should be wiped out. Change the meaning of success, and you change the form of incentive that seeks for that success. In other words, success nowadays analyzes itself as a state where one preys, more or less, upon his fellow man. The incentive behind such false and malicious success is not inherent in the human nature; it is induced by the material conditions that surround and exert tremendous influence upon the individual. It stands to reason, if we change the material conditions surrounding us, we also change our conception of success, and incentive—a constant quantity—remains, but changes its form. Simplified still further, we do bad things not because we like to, but because we have to.

Socialism, in securing increased opportunities, and assured livelihood and greater leisure, will, undoubtedly, give a wider scope and a greater freedom to individual activity. We can prophesy the advent of a true, a real Renaissance in art and science that will tower far above that of the past, and will stand as a worthy and glorious monument—the first milestone on the road to still higher achievement.

It would be ludicrous—if tragedy lurked not behind the words—when one hears a chronic hand-to-mouth living wage slave prate about incentive. In the name of everything most holy, what good is your incentive, if you are never given an opportunity to see what it can do. The vast majority of us are born to a very intimate and early acquaintance with poverty—and to an unending struggle for existence. The only incentive we have in our joyless and colorless lives is to see how soon we can get out of it. What a poignant tale is that, of the many millions, who have toiled hard and long on the high road of life, striving to reach that far away, invisible destination of riches, fame, glory, etc., and find themselves, when they perchance lift their eyes from the ground, at the back door of the hovel from which they started out.

Lack of opportunity and a square chance in life is the secret story of the suicide; is the mute wail of the child, deprived of its birthright and forced into drudgery that shrivels its body and poisons its spirit, is the answer to the hard, cruel gleam in the eyes of the prostitute; is that invisible and malignant shroud that veils the glory, the beauty, the ecstacy of life from the eyes of the masses.

Yes, Socialism will eradicate every incentive for vicious, selfish and inhuman conduct.

II.

Because Socialism will destroy the home.

Socialism pleads guilty; of course, taking exceptions to certain cases. Socialism professes a strong inclination to smash up certain "living" arrangements called homes. Socialists have taken a powerful aversion—inexplicable to capitalists—to the congested, insanitary and 2x4-roomed tenements; to those unspeakable hovels, in small industrial towns, where the wage slaves are compelled to live or lose their jobs. To break up, smash up, efface forever these vile, vice-breeding, disease-carrying holes—we stand accused and plead guilty. And admitting guilt, we are more determined than ever to break up these "homes."

We differ with capitalism in that we specify a certain class of homes which will engage our "smashing" propensities. Prodigal capitalism is not so particular; nor do they evince the least interest in the proceedings. But when it breaks up a home, it does it thoroughly. No doubt about the home being broken up. In the industrial war, when one or more members of a family are maimed or murdered, the others are left, with calloused, cold-blooded indifference, to drift along as best they can; and the hospitals and poorhouses can tell you the rest of the story.

This is the capitalistic method of breaking up a home. Undoubtedly, the Taylor efficiency plan—the human machine invention—is also applied here. What value has human life, as long as the God, Profit, calls for blood—human blood. And it is the God, Profit, that is responsible for more than one home that is no more.

III.

Because Socialism preaches class consciousness.

Socialism preaches, but capitalism breeds class consciousness.

When the truckman delivers a load of coal to a palatial mansion on Fifth avenue, when he sees the many haughty menials, the profusion of costly furnishings, hears the gossip of extravagant social affairs, it does not require much intelligence on his part to realize that a very wide chasm divides them from himself. When the underpaid counter slave of a department store, with awed expression, watches the elegantly dressed, bejeweled and idle "lady" alight from her imported automobile, driven by an imported chauffeur and carrying an imported bull dog for an airing, it is then that another class sufferer is made conscious of an existing wrong and injustice. And so you can go on enumerating the illustrations of a class consciousness being awakened in the victims of capitalism's greed and exploitation.

Socialism simply explains the origin and meaning of this alignment of classes and seeks to diffuse the knowledge that only by organized effort can the working class hope to better their lot.

IV.

Because Socialism is against religion.

As an economic and political movement, Socialism has no more to do with religion than Republicanism or Democraticism. You do not charge the Republican party with being irreligious because certain members belong to the Mormon Church; nor do you bring this charge against the Democratic party because certain members are avowed agnostics. In the ranks of the Socialist party are found members of every religious denomination. If you go to the national platform of the Socialist party—which is the official word of the party—you will find a clause embodied, which clearly and arbitrarily states their attitude of neutrality on the question of religion. Socialists believe that religion is a matter best left to the individual conscience.

That many of the established churches are allied with capitalism to keep the working class in ignorance and subjugation is becoming obvious to the least inquiring individual. The masses are arousing themselves from that state of mental lethargy induced by the ungrounded fear which the churches have inspired in them in the past. A spirit of deep unrest is prevalent throughout the world. Doubts arise; questions are asked; new convictions formed. Everything in life has to undergo a close microscopical scrutiny, and religion is, most frequently, the subject matter. And established religion is failing in the test. Their colleges, their churches, their charities are founded and supported by capitalistic wealth—which they themselves often consider questionable—and they are inextricably bound to capitalism by chains of gold.

Every individual, whose social conscience is alive, must take his stand against that religion, which seeks to maintain and tries to justify the present order of ignorance, oppression and injustice. That such is the case is constantly verified by th enumerous members of the clergy who sever connections with their churches and seek elsewhere for an answer to the all important brooding questions of the day. On whether the established churches turn their eyes to the writing on the wall or not, depends their continued influence in the affairs of mankind. It can be said with certainty that if these churches do not evolve into some form compatible with their spiritual environment, they are doomed to extinction.

V.

Because Socialism is against the ownership of private property.

If private ownership means that one or more individuals can control the lives and destinies of thousands of others, then Socialism is against that form of private property.

Socialism is against that form of private property which enables Rockefeller to receive an annual income of over $60,000,000, which is beyond the physical possibility of a single individual to earn. Socialism is against that form of private property to loaf about, here and abroad, play golf and spend fortunes on overvalued art treasures, while their wage slaves toil for twelve and fourteen hours each day in the stifling, blood-boiling heat of the steel mills.

Socialism is against that form of private property which supports numerous women in idleness and luxury, in spending large fortunes in social diversions and whose pretty hands, laden with jewels, could not earn for them the price of a single meal. And this wealth is created by the 3,000,000 emaciated, stilted child slaves; by the millions of women forced into shops and mills deprived of even their inherent right to bring forth healthy children.

These are the forms of private property—acquired by theft, by oppression and by murder—that Socialism is against.

As for your home, your plot of land, your professional or artisan's equipment, they are safe. Much more oh, much more safe under Socialism than under the iron rule of capitalism.

ROTTEN TO THE CORE.

The exposure of the conditions existing in the New York canning industry should bring a blush of shame to the face of every supporter of the capitalist system.

Children from 4 years up toiling 15 and 16 hours a day, filthy factories, workers housed in unsanitary hovels, these are the contributions of this latest investigation to record of the horrors of the profit system.

This is not the first exposure of inhuman conditions under which the workers must live and toil under the capitalist system. Within a few years there has been brought into the light of day the starvation wages paid the workers in the New England mills, the 13-hour day, seven-day week and less than existence wages of the workers in the mills of the octopus of the steel business, the blighting of the lives of children in the Southern cotton mills, the practical peonage of the timber workers of the South. And back behind these there stretches a long record of suffering and misery inflicted upon the workers by capitalism which is hardly equaled by the story of the inquisition.

While today the New York canneries are in the limelight, the conditions there are not exceptional. Every industrial state and industrial center could furnish a like story of lives blasted by the greed for profits. Tomorrow it may be Ohio or another state which will add the latest story of crimes against the workers.

Capitalism breeds oppression. The evil conditions which are at intervals exposed to the capitalist world are not due to exceptional brutal and unscrupulous capitalists. They are the outward manifestations of a system which is rotten to the core.

If Roosevelt wants to steal any more "planks" he is informed that there are some very good ones still left in the Socialist lumber yard. Come Theodore, and help yourself to the best there is.

Those high wages that one hears so much about these days, don't amount to more than a snowball in hell as long as the skinners who own the industries have the power to raise the necessaries of life accordingly.

The abolition of bribery in politics is impossible without an organized dues-paying party membership, which practices the initiative, referendum and recall within the bounds of the party electing the officials.

A meek and contented wage slave is a spectacle that makes the masters grin and angels weep, and it is enough to make an ass bray.

HELL, AND THE WAY OUT.

The workers do not need to argue about a hell. They live in one. It is not necessary to die to find it. Hell is with them when they awake every morning.

But the joy of the situation is that we know the way out of present conditions. We have studied our surroundings to some purpose. We have read the signs of the times. We know that the workers must get themselves together. And if the talk about a future hell divides us, we will lay that matter aside until we have gotten out of the suffering in which we now find ourselves.

The purpose of our getting together is to own our own collectively-used means of life. The common sources of the bread must be the common heritage, or no brotherhood is possible. And the lack of brotherhood is hell.

No, preaching about individual "badness" will save us. It is society itself that needs saving. "Man in his corporate capacity," is the subject of redemption. The call to the individual is to realize his social guilt.

The next step is to accept the full measure of one's social responsibility. This calls for a new heroism—the losing of one's life in a common cause. It means the defying of the Big Devil of public opinion. And many a man will walk up to the cannon's mouth who has not the courage to face the scoffings of his neighbors. Yet out of the social heroism of the present working class movement is being builded the ladder of human souls and bodies that will lift us out of the pit in which we now live.

BOOK PUBLISHERS SIGN.

Boston, Dec. 7.—A large school book publishing company in this city has just entered into an agreement with the allied printing trades and will hereafter be run as a union shop. A contest has been waged against this concern for a considerable period, but it came to the point where the publishers concluded it better to devote their energies to the building up of their business rather than to keep up a continuous warfare against the printing trades.

TEAMSTERS ORGANIZING.

East Liverpool, O., Dec. 7.—A local union of chauffeurs, stablemen and helpers, to be chartered by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, has just been completed in this city. A good sized charter list forms the start.

BARBERS' CAMPAIGN.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The Journeymen Barbers are engaged in an active campaign to clean up unsanitary barber shops and to organize the 7,000 journeymen barbers in this city. The International Union has eight organizers in the local field, and they are making splendid progress. About 1,000 barbers are now in the three local unions. Applications for membership are being received in numbers that are gratifying. It is stated that the barbers of Chicago now work 80 hours a week and the wages they receive are extremely low. It is intended to vigorously prosecute this campaign until the journeymen barbers are represented by large and strong organizations.

CARPENTERS SUCCESSFUL.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 7.—The local union of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, after many years of effort upon its part to bring into the confines of the union all the journeymen carpenters, has finally been successful in securing a contract with the last contracting firm employing non-union carpenters. This agreement unionizes the last carpenter contracting firm and makes the union shop universal in the carpenter trade in the entire Wheeling district.

The "Bull Moose" season closed with the closing of the polls on election day. The biggest "Bull" of the whole bunch was retired to Oyster Bay. On the fourth of March the fat man will forsake the presidential chair to make way for the "Ossified Professor of Princeton," and the workers will continue to work long hours for small pay as usual.

ONE REASON FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING.

To keep prices sky-high, to bar the people from an increased supply, 1,000 carloads of potatoes—good, wholesome potatoes—have been cast into a pit near Elgin, Ill. They are there now—1,000 carloads—and to make certain that the people, the needy poor, do not become possessed of these potatoes left there to rot, seven guards have been placed around this great pit.

These potatoes must rot. The barons of the food supply have so decreed. They say prices must remain up—these money-mad lords of life have so commmanded. They feel that if the supply threatens to become too great to hold up high prices, if the labor of the soil has produced too great an abundance, as is now the case, then the supply must be diminished, or, to be more pointed, destroyed. Unbelievable as this may seem, the grim evidence is clear and unanswerable. About a week ago a reporter and a photographer of the Chicago Daily World made a trip to Elgin, and, boarding a Grove avenue street car, rode to the end of the line. After a long trudge, leading through a cemetery and over stretches of swamp, the pair reached a railroad track, which proved to be a part of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul system. Following this railway line for about a half mile, the World's men came upon a vast gravel pit. The north end of this pit was being filled by seven workmen, who were laboring in freight cars.

Approaching the edge of the abyss, there came into the view of the men thousands of potatoes that had been cast from one of the freight cars. The photographer secretly focussed his camera upon the mass of tuber and thus obtained an interesting and convincing picture.

An investigation has disclosed that seven men are kept at the pit constantly for the purpose of seeing that no one gets any potatoes. Although there was an attempt to evade questioning, it is reported that Edmund Kauffman, head of one of the largest wholesale potato houses in Chicago, when seen at his office at 138 South Water street, confessed to his share in this monstrous waste, and has implicated many others of like calling. While he protested that no attempt is being made to keep up prices, it is plain that no other motive could actuate these dealers. There is much public indignation over the discovery, and it is hinted that an inquiry will be made to ascertain the details of the affair.

SOCIALISM IN A NUTSHELL.

I. COLLECTIVE OWNERSHIP of the Means of Producing and Distributing Wealth, such as Lands, Mines, Factories, Railroads, Mail, Express, Telegraph and Telephone Service, Light, Water and Heat Plants, etc., so that Private Monopoly, Graft and Extortion will be Impossible, and Rent, Interest and Profit will be Abolished and All May Have the Full Product of Their Labor.

II. PRIVATE OWNERSHIP of Wealth, such as a Home, Vehicles, Furniture, Books, Pictures, etc., according to the Value of One's Labor. Socialism means the Public Ownership of Capital, the Private Ownership of Wealth; the Public Ownership of Opportunity, the Private Ownership of the Products of One's Labor; the Public Ownership of the Means of Life, the Private Ownership of Life Itself.

III. Direct Legislation through the Initiative, Referendum and Imperative Recall, so that the People Themselves May Rule Promptly as They Please in Spite of Councils, Legislatures, Congresses or Courts.

IV. A New System of Money Issued by the Government Alone and Limited so that it will be a True Medium of Exchange Only, Not a Medium of Exploitation as now.—Ex.

..AN OPEN LETTER TO THE COMRADES OF OHIO.

The motion to suspend Local Dayton failed to carry by a vote of nearly two to one. And after a brief and very simple statement in the very beginning of the referendum, Local Dayton has been entirely silent in the matter. On the contrary, the enemies of Local Dayton have sent out a large amount of material.

Evidently there has been a great change in sentiment among the Locals of the State as regards Local Dayton. And if I am able to comprehend the main reason for the change of sentiment, it is that the comrades of Ohio are beginning to know that, while Local Dayton is not composed entirely of full-fledged saints, they are a bunch of workers who are fighting capitalism.

Old rumors to the contrary, notwithstanding, the vote of Local Day itself in this matter shows plainly that Local Dayton is even more unified than the average Local in the State. Only two members of Local Dayton voted to suspend its charter.

The best word now is: "Back to the mines!" There is much good work to do. Rivalry is not a bad thing in the Socialist movement if the contest is to see which comrade or Local can accomplish the most in overthrowing capitalism and establishing Socialism. There is still some difference among the Locals of Ohio with reference to tactics. Let the test of the pudding be in the digesting thereof. No tactics are worth while unless put to work.

Comrade Prevey's suggestion that we get our Socialist office-holders (civic) together is a most timely suggestion. Why not very soon? The municipal battles of 1913 are not far away? And what position (collectively) are we going to take regarding home rule, new city charters, the commission form of government, etc.?

Away with personalities, and, "Back to the mines!"

For Your Three Best Friends

HERE IS AN IDEA

Send us the names and addresses of three of your friends whom you think will be interested in Socialism, and we will send them sample copies direct from this office. You might, if you wish, to prepare them for the coming of the paper, write to them as well, and say that sample copies of the Socialist are being sent to them at your request.

This is just a suggestion. If it is too much trouble, don't do it, but we will appreciate it if you do, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have let your friends in on a good thing.

THE SOCIALIST

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

The past week we have received many letters and verbal assurances of suport. Some Comrades have bought sub. cards; others assure us that they intend to work for subscribers day and night.

We realise that the Working Class has very little money left after paying grocery bill, rent, etc. However, we must all realize that this movement is made up of sacrifices, and if we intend to emancipate the coming generations, then we must bear the entire load ourselves.

Education is the watchword, and there is no easier means and no other that requires less self-sacrifice than working for subs.

As a sample of the kind of work this paper is doing, several weeks ago a subscription came in from Wayne County. Last week this subscriber wrote us asking for information as to how he could organize a local.

Subs. are easy to get if they are gone after.

Go after that man working next to you. He may be voting the Socialist ticket, but he must be taught that this struggle means much more than voting the ticket. Show him that he must support his own press, and if you present the matter in the right light you will get his subscription.

LET EVERY READER AND MEMBER OF THE PARTY PUT ON AT LEAST ONE NEW ONE NEXT WEEK.

Comrade Marquette of the Tenth Ward never lets a week pass over without putting on a bunch of new subs. He is a sample of the Jimmie Higgins who are bringing Socialism.

"Please find enclosed my subscription to your paper, and I am glad to say the paper is doing good work for the cause. I see that the old press is up in the air about Lancaster school. Never fear, we will have them all up in the air in a few short years. I am a member of Local Portsmouth, O. Send me the December 7th issue.

"Yours for grand success and for the cause. F. B. HAMILTON."

MONEY SPEAKS.

Some of the newspapers are praising without stint the man of Homestead for his generosity in wishing to provide for the support of ex-presidents. And why should they not praise him? In our commercial civilization, which makes money the supreme standard by which all other values—of character as well as commodities—are measured, Andrew Carnegie stands in the front row on the top shelf. There are probably a million societies, organizations and institutions, great and small, and a vastly greater number of individuals who would be pleased to taste of his benevolence. The tainted money, wet and warm with the tears and blood of his thousands of victims, has no terrors for them.

Yes; Carnegie is a great man; among the greatest men of the greatest countries of a great world. He has won success—amazing success—in piling up his hordes. He is one of the international conservators of society. Kings and princes do him honor; the churches revere him; universities and colleges exhaust classic literature in their comparisons and laudations; he is a model for the youth of the land; the great crowd who have no hope of benefit from his benefactions stare and gap dumbounded when he passes; politicians are delighted at his words of comfort for the business interest—as are also the peanut capitalists.

And yet Mr. Carnegie is not happy. There is a vision which rises before his imagination, which will not down at his bidding. It is not the "red" specter of death, the passing away into the eternal silences and the separation forever from the enjoyment of the nimbus of financial glory which now encircles him. Death is the purest and highest type of democracy. It is not to be turned aside from its appointed course by any consideration of profit and gain. It marks strict time and approaches with equal step the palace of Carnegie and the ramshackle hovels of his wretched wage-slaves.

We are not cruel enough to suggest that Mr. Carnegie lives in silent and secret terror at the apparition of this specter. Knowing that he is powerless to escape its embrace, he will do the next best thing. He will hand down his name to posterity and live in memory when his organic life has returned, in the course of nature, to its original molecules. Libraries, foundations, pensions, funds provided for scores of institutions and purposes, shall perpetuate the race, and thus he shall win immortality.

The old Egyptian kings, the tyrants of Babylon, and the princes of India built colossal piles of bricks and stone to keep alive the recollection that they once had lived. Mr. Carnegie cannot raise another pyramid of Cheops, and his memory will keep green as long as our nation shall continue to produce ex-presidents.

COUNCIL PASSES MINIMUM WAGE LAW

"Dear" Friends of the Workers are Forced by Socialists to do Something

The city council last Monday evening adopted a uniform minimum wage scale of $2.25 per day for all laborers in the employ of the city and increased the salary of the dog catcher from $50 to $60 per month. The council had, one week before, raised the pay of laborers in the street cleaning and water works departments to a minimum of $2.25. This was Mr. Lucks' ordinance, which was passed after Socialist Councilman Wilson's $3 per day ordinance was defeated. The Socialist members last Monday night simply smiled when Republicans, Bull Moosers and Democrats rushed to the front with speeches for the "poor workingman." It was amusing to hear the dear old fossils tell how much they thought of the laborer. The Socialists have always stood for $3 per day, but are glad to see an increase of 25 cents, if $1.00 cannot be secured.

Those who voted favorably on the ordinance were: Councilmen Alcott, Baldridge, Connolley, Griffin, Hayden, McGuire and Stribling, Republicans; Barry, Biederman, Lucks, Reinhard and Wegman, Democrats; Warren, Zimpfer, Wilson and Bohnert, Socialists.

Nailor and Sherman voted against the increase for the reason, as they alleged, the city did not have the money to pay the increase.

Council received a letter from the Young Men's Business Club which contained the request that council provide attorneys for the municipal light plant in the suit which City Solicitor Bolin has brought to determine the cost of current. Mr. Bolin is criticised for attempting to annul contracts which exist at present.

"Business men are accustomed to keep their contracts, even when badly made," the letter reads. "From the standpoint of business men, there is something radically wrong in our public service which makes it necessary to go into court to determine so simple a business proposition as the cost of manufacture of one of the city's public utilities."

The club also expressed the belief that it would be a difficult problem for the solicitor to maintain a friendly attitude toward the plant he which he has brought suit, in spite of his assertions that he would conduct his part in a fair-minded manner.

President Logan will, under a resolution presented by Mr. Alcott, have the naming of the members of council to act with committees from other cities of Ohio in securing municipal legislation from the next general assembly.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE'S WORK.

Another collection of dues was made Sunday in the Fourth Ward with good results. Next Sunday the work will be done in the Second Ward, and we want the members of that ward and as many as possible from other wards to meet at the Socialist headquarters, 108½ North High Street.

Last Sunday Comrades A. C. Howard, J. M. Suddick, Gus Tegenkamp, Don McNeil and M. C. Galentne participated. Let us see how many more names can be added to this list on tomorrow's collection. Comrades, this is doing something for Socialism and all that have helped say it is great work. Come out and help.

Yours for organization,
W. E. BUES,
Organizer.

DON'T FORGET THE DANCES.

If you have not been attending our dances and card parties held at Varian Hall, No. 7 East Town Street, every Thursday night, you don't know what you're missing.

Come out Thursday night and bring your friends.

COMRADES TAYLOR LOSE EVERYTHING BY FIRE

Socialists Are Rallying to Their Assistance in Right Way.

Fire which started in an adjoining building last Monday, destroyed the house occupied by Comrades L. B. Taylor and wife, at 516 East Second Avenue. They lost practically all of their household goods, even the clothing not upon their persons. They also only narrowly escaped with their lives after trying to save some of their possessions. Comrades Taylor have always been untiring in their efforts for Socialism and their friends in the party have initiated a movement to have the membership in the city aid Comrades Taylor in a substantial way. Contributions of any kind may be sent to The Socialist office, 108½ South High Street. This is a fine chance to show appreciation of two faithful comrades now in distress.

THE SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS

The subject for discussion at the School of Economics, 755 West Broad Street tonight (Saturday, Dec 14.) is, "Wealth." First, what is it? Second, how obtained: Labor on natural resources. Third, Exploitation? Profit System, Interest, Rent.

The comrades who are participating in these discussions derive great benefit therefrom. Every Socialist in Columbus who desires to be fully prepared for propaganda work should attend.

COUNCILMAN WARREN WILL SPEAK ON COMMISSION PLAN

All Interested in Municipal Affairs Should Hear Him.

Comrade C. E. Warren, member of city council from the Thirteenth Ward, will give an address on the commission form of government at 174 East Fifth Avenue, next Tuesday evening, Dec. 17. All are invited to attend.

ALUMNI I. S. S. CHAPTER ORGANIZED.

A Columbus Alumni Chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society was formed last Friday, December 6, during the visit of Harry W. Laidler, organizer of the society, at Page Hall, Ohio State University. Mr. Laidler spoke both in the afternoon and evening in the hall before interested groups of students, instructors and town people. Among the members of the alumni chapter are Mr. and Mrs. Southard, Mrs. Bachman, Mr. Mounts, Mr. Schlessinger and Mr. MacNeal.

In his afternoon talk before the members and friends of the I. S. S. Chapter of the University, Mr. Laidler spoke on "Socialism and the Collegian."

INDUSTRIAL ACTION.

The Socialist, Columbus:

Our troubles over political action and direct action is not anything to be alarmed at, and I doubt if there is a true believer in either method but what at heart is a true Socialist and is yearning for the day of peace on earth.

We are both right and we are both wrong. What we both want is industrial action.

Let us suppose, for instance, that the state of Ohio were under a state of Socialism and that for the next four years the only result of this would be the doubling of our incomes; or say the 1,000,000 of wage-earners of Ohio received $1.50 per day more than they do now, which means $1,500,000 every 24 hours. Supposing that we should work 300 days in the year, we would have collectively $450,000,000, and in four years we would have $1,800,000,000 with which to begin business.

As all Socialists know, there are five questions that must be settled together; that is, land, labor, transportation, manufacturing and money. Land being the first question to settle, suppose we buy the state outright for say $100 per acre, or for $2,600,000,000. We pay half down and give our note for the balance to be paid in four equal annual payments. The land question being settled, we begin to look about to see where best to apply our labor. The first thing needed on our land is transportation and communication facilities, so we begin to draw on our remaining $500,000,000 to build and equip railroads, telegraph and telephone lines. An up-to-date railroad consists of separate track ways, one coming and one going for passenger traffic, and one coming and one going for freight transportation, such a road as outlined by Albert K. Owen of Baldwinsville, New York, only Owen's plan consists of four railroad tracks, four automobile ways, 30 feet in width each, two macadamized, and two steel-plated for fast travel, one road of each kind coming in and one of each kind going out. There are 11 roads in all which provide for bicycles, motorcycles, carriages, etc.; there are zones on each side sufficient to carry pipe lines of all description and to carry light and power wires. Mr. Owen is one of the world's greatest engineers and his estimates are reasonable. He estimates the cost of his system of roads at $300,000 per mile, or say for a road of this kind across the state of Ohio from east to west along the fortieth parallel and another across the state from north to south along the eighty-third meridian, the combined length of which would be 415 miles, $138,000,000; which would still leave us a neat little nest egg out of our first four years' earnings of $365,000,000, with which to build up the manufacturing industries and our agriculture. At the end of the next four years we could finish paying for our land and have money to build brick, tile, terra cotta and pottery plants, cotton and woolen mills, automobile and agricultural machine factories, ice plants, abatoirs, cold storage, breweries and distilleries, hotels, schools, parks and landscapes, homes, cities, churches, banks and, in fact, everything necessary or desired for the use and pleasure of the human race. We could have a fleet of steamers on the Ohio River to ply up and down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to trade our wares to the South for cotton for our cotton mills, sugar for our sugar refineries, for rice, oranges and other Southern products. We could have a fleet of steamers on Lake Erie to trade our wares to the north for copper, iron and paper pulp. We could develop our own coal and iron mines our own gas and oil wells, reforest our barren hills, drain our swamps, develop our water power, lay out farms, cattle ranges and orchards. In fact, there would be plenty to do for direct action and political action.

They say that Mars is watching for a sign of intelligence on the earth. If she were to wake up some fine morning and see the state of Ohio with this great system of roads checkerboarding every county, stretching to the north, south, east and west like ten rays from a gem with the new Columbus at their center, she would exclaim, "They have found it!" "Found what?" asks Jupiter. "Their incentive."

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE IT YOURSELF?

BY JOHN M. WORK.

How would you like it yourself to have a bunch of patronizing people, intent upon performing an act of charity, condescend to bring you a basket of things for Christmas?

Just consider it a moment.

Honest, now, how would you like it?

You would feel degraded and insulted, wouldn't you?

Of course.

That's the way every self-respecting person feels under such circumstances.

But, you say, there are people who are in need, and they must be helped.

Unfortunately, yes.

But it is entirely unnecessary for society to permit anyone to be in that terrible condition.

Socialism proposes to guarantee every man and woman an opportunity to earn a living, and to receive their full earnings. Then degrading charity will cease.

Investigate Socialism.

Meantime, charity is a necessary evil.

Go ahead and take the Christmas basket to the destitute.

But, do not plume yourself and imagine that you are doing a meritorious Christian act when you do so.

On the contrary, you will be insulting the memory of Jesus Christ unless you do it with the knowledge that the recipients are victims of social crime, and with the intention of doing all in your power to abolish the present criminal social system which wreaks such hideous injustice upon its victims.

Unless you do it with this knowledge and with this intention, you will have totalfilly failed to catch the spirit of Jesus.

Yes, take the basket.

But take it with a rebellious heart—rebellious against the industrial system which produces such human wreckage—and determined to replace it with a higher and better one.

And do not impose your embarrassing presence upon the recipients.

Do not impose your staring eyes upon them.

Do not impose your condescending manners upon them.

Do not mortify them and gloat over their pitiful pleasure by staying to see them enjoy the contents.

If you have a self-satisfied feeling that you are doing a noble act and a hankering to give them an opportunity to pour out their gratitude to you—be ashamed of yourself.

They are entitled to receive justice instead of charity.

You are only giving them a tiny charity crumb, whereas they are entitled to have full-loafed justice.

No! No!

Take the basket gently.

Take it softly.

Leave it without being seen, if possible.

For it is degrading.

ORGANIZER WANTED AT HAMILTON

Several hundred tickets have been distributed for sale among the ward branches for a lecture on "Social-Hall, No. 121½ East Town Street, 8:00 o'clock p. m., Monday, December 23d, by Oscar Ameringer, one of the foremost Socialist lecturers.

Push the sale of these tickets among your friends and see that they come to hear this able exponent of the cause of Socialism.

Keep the date, the hour and the place in mind and make it ring in the ears of your friends and neighbors until it becomes the byword of all, then come to the hall with them.

This meeting will be the opening gun of our municipal campaign. So let's make it a big one. One that will be a horrible strain on the nervous system of the present city administration, which is going to do all it can to eliminate our party as a political factor in this community.

Oscar Ameringer, who a few years ago lived in Columbus, is now a prominent figure in the National Socialist movement. Turn out and make Oscar know he is in the old town.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

GENERAL SOCIALIST NEWS.

The following are the very latest figures obtainable of the vote cast for Debs for president. The figures for about one-half o fthe states are official and for the balance are estimated, with the following states missing: Idaho, Michigan, New York, Oregon, Utah. The total vote here reported is 750,284. The missing states will probably return an additional 100,000 votes, thus bringing the total up to about 850,000: Alabama, 3,019; Arizona, 2,964; Arkansas, 10,200; California, 78,000; Colorado, 15,943; Connecticut, 9,878; Delaware, 350; Florida, 4,836; Georgia, 1,014; Illinois, 85,000; Indiana, 36,931; Kansas, 26,507; Kentucky, 11,647; Louisiana, 5,055; Maine, 2,674; Maryland, 3,996; Massachusetts, 12,650; Minnesota, 27,505; Mississippi, 2,061; Missouri, 38,148; Montana, 10,828; Nebraska, 10,219; Nevada, 4,500; New Hampshire, 1,960; New Jersey, 15,991; New Mexico, 2,034; North Carolina, 3,100; North Dakota, 6,740; Ohio, 96,441; Oklahoma, 31,674; Pennsylvania, 88,915; Rhode Island, 1,250; South Carolina, 164; South Dakota, 4,192; Tennessee, 3,397; Texas, 25,742; Vermont, 928; Virginia, 767; Washington, 39,555; West Virginia, 20,000; Wisconsin, 34,180; Wyoming, 1,400.

In the new Congress that takes hold of the legislative machinery on March 4 next, there will be 16 members in the house and one in the senate who carry union cards. This number may be increased by one or two when all the returns are at hand.

To show their confidence in Arturo Giovannitti, the Socialist Union of Italy has nominated him for parliament for the district of Capri, in the province of Modena. The seat for that district is vacant and a special election will be held to fill it in a few days.

S. P. organization work has been going ahead very rapidly notwithstanding the internal wrangling. In October six new locals were formed in Mississippi, 9 in Wisconsin, 6 in Missouri, 15 in California, 5 in Montana, 6 in Louisiana, 5 in Indiana, 13 in Washington, and many more in other states not reporting.

Congressman Victor L. Berger, member of the Executive Committee of the Socialist Party, has completed plans for a national movement for the extension of social democratic doctrines to be handled through a bureau of research with headquarters in Chicago. The bureau marks the evolution of Socialism from a movement backed chiefly by the working classes to one to appeal to progressive thinkers and political economists and the effort to carry out practically what the Socialists believe are economic reforms. The bureau will be at the service of Socialist workers in municipal, state and national campaigns, and the plan is to make a decisive fight for the presidency in 1916. The bureau's efforts will be devoted to Socialist statistics in general and to the economic defense of Socialistic theories of municipal ownership of local utilities, government ownership of railroads and interstate utilities, such as the telegraph and telephone companies. The bureau will be in charge of Carl D. Thompson, who was candidate of the Socialists for governor of the state of Wisconsin in the recent election.

It must have been a pretty bitter pill for some of Harry Schilling's enemies to swallow when he took the mayor's chair in Canton last week after nearly a year of litigation in the courts. Schilling was clearly elected on the face of returns in November, 1911, but the board of elections threw out a number of votes and reported a tie. Then in choosing by lot Mayor Turnbull won. Schilling probably would have abided by the result, but information came to him and his friends that Turnbull's backers had deliberately stolen a score or more votes in a precinct in which Italian-Americans largely predominate, and Schilling decided to fight the corrupt gang to a finish. For some unaccountable reason, the Socialist local refused to back up Schilling, some of the members charging that he was not a "good sport" in refusing to abide by the result of the drawing, and when he announced his intention of going the limit to protect his rights Schilling was expelled for treason or something like that. In taking office last week Schilling kicked out Chief-of-Police Smith, claiming that he was a grafter, and a whole lot of other petty politicians have been forced to walk the gang plank. The new mayor says he is going to clean the town thoroughly by enforcing the laws against the red light resorts, gambling dens, etc., and give the vicious elements a chance to earn an honest living by furnishing them with jobs. Schilling also plans to introduce healthful and uplifting Sunday amusements and to push along progressive municipal works as far as his powers permit. He appointed Republicans and Democrats in sympathy with his plans to assist him as well as Socialists. Schilling is a member of Typographical Union No. 219 and very popular among the union men of Canton. It's a cinch that he will not permit the police that he controls to cave in the heads of strikers and pickets in order to please local plutocrats during labor difficulties, as is the custom in cities and towns where old party politicians run things.—Cleveland Citizen.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The amount received at the National Office for dues during the month of November was $5,016.35. The average membership for the first 11 months of 1912, as evidenced by the dues received, was 118,901.

A. S. Edwards, 21 Hanover Street, Manchester, New Hampshire, has been elected State Secretary of that state, to succeed John P. Burke, who goes to the Rand School.

The National Executive Committee is voting on the following motion, made by Berger: That the National Executive Committee appoint a Washington correspondent for the Socialist press for the short session of this Congress, at a salary of $15 a week and expenses—these expenses for postage, paper and stencils are not to exceed $7 per week.

Also on the following motion made by Harriman:

"I am of the opinion that an N. E. C. meeting should be called and, therefore, move you that a meeting be called for Sunday, December 22. The question of rent of $5,000, of establishing a printing plant and raising funds to pay the campaign deficit, and other matters of sufficient importance require the meeting of this committee."

The Young People's Socialist of Chicago desires information regarding the number of such leagues in the United States and their strength. The number of requests for information regarding the organization leads it to believe that there is sufficient demand for the establishment of a national young people's Socialist organization, and it is with this object in view that the information is desired. The league has delegated J. A. Rogers, Jr., 111 North Market Street, Chicago, to secure such information. Those interested are requested to write to him.

Bulletin—Information Dept.
Subject: "Socialists Elected to State Legislatures, 1912."

The Socialist Party of America now has at least 19 representatives in the state legislatures in at least seven different states. One or two others have been reported elected, but we have been unable up to the present time to verify the reports.

The following is the list so far as we have been able to verify it:

Socialist Legislators.

State Senators—Kansas, Fred W. Stanton, Mulberry; Nevada, M. J. Scanlan; Wisconsin, Gabriel Zophy, Milwaukee (Hold-over—Elected in 1910).

State Representatives—California, C. W. Kingsley, Los Angeles. Illinois, H. W. Harris, Joseph M. Mason, C. M. Madsen, Seymour Stedman, all of Chicago. Kansas, Everitt Miller, Scammon, Twenty-Second District; Benjamin F. Wilson, Girard, care Coming Nation. Massachusetts, Chas. H. Morrill, Haverhill. Minnesota, Nels S. Hillman, Two Harbors. Nevada, I. F. Davis, Tonopah. Wisconsin, Martin Gorecki, E. H. Kiefer, Carl Minkley, William L. Smith, J. H. Vint, E. H. Zinn, all of Milwaukee.

MAX HAS FOUND THE GOODS ON US

There Is Now No Possible Way of Escaping From the Villians.

Here is another chance for some of the heresy head-hunters to get busy. The Columbus Socialist made a bid for the city printing and, being one of the newspapers that submitted the lowest figures was awarded a contract by the Columbus city council. "It was declared by those who voted for the Socialist that they did so simply as a matter of economy and for this action they deserve credit," says our Columbus contemporary. It is bad enough for a Socialist paper to advertise the official business of a capitalistic government at 50 cents per square, but look at the high treason contained in those fateful words, that the city councilmen who voted for The Socialist "deserve credit," as though non-Socialist officials can "deserve credit" for anything! What's the matter with some of the noisy purists that they haven't started a referendum vote about this matter?—Cleveland Citizen.

DEBS HAD 90,000 VOTES IN STATE OF OHIO

Figures Completed Show President-Elect Polled 423,152 Votes in Ohio.

The official vote of Ohio on president, completed in the secretary of state's office Saturday, shows that Wilson carried the state over Taft by 146,086. Wilson polled 423,152 votes.

Taft polled 277,066 votes, leading Roosevelt, who polled 229,227, by 47,789.

Chafin, Prohibition candidate for president, received 11,459 votes. Debs, Socialist, polled 89,930 votes.

ETTOR AND HAYWOOD ATTACK SOCIALISTS

Capitalists Fear the I. W. W. Only, Says Recently Acquitted Leader.

New York, Dec. 6.—"I would rather be tried by a Democratic Judge than a Socialist."

This was the remark William D. Haywood, a member of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party and organizer of the I. W. W., made Tuesday night before an assemblage of about 300 persons at the Lenox Casino, 116th Street and Lenox Avenue. The meeting was held for the benefit of the Little Falls textile strikers. Anton Johannsen and J. J. Ettor also spoke. William Sanger presided. Johannsen is one of the forty-odd men indicted in Indianapolis for conspiracy and alleged dynamiting. He is also the organizer of the California Building Trades Council. "I believe," said Johannsen, "that labor is justified in using any method to accomplish its end—even voting." In speaking of the labor movement in New York and the hard work he had to get money in this city to carry on the fight for the indicted men, he said: "The labor movement is so rotten and so much mixed up in politics that the only aid I can get is in the form of sympathy. To h— with your sympathy; we don't want it."

"Any one who offers an explanation for the action of the McNamaras is a contemptible cur, or is too ignorant to know—this holds good with the political Socialists also."

Ettor, who, with Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso, was recently acquitted of the responsibility in the killing of Anna Lo Pizzo, a girl striker, in the successful textile strike at Lawrence, Mass., last winter.

Ettor bitterly attacked the Socialists and spoke of Morris Hillquit, a Socialist writer and member of the National Executive Committee, in the following words: "I believe that the time has come when the worker needs something more than speeches. There is one of our so-called sages who writes long books and makes long talks. Do you think the capitalists are afraid of him? How many bayonets and soldiers do the capitalists send out when Marris Hillquit makes a speech? But when an I. W. W. man goes out to speak the capitalists do all in their power to stop him, because they are afraid of the principles for which we stand."

Haywood lauded Johannsen, saying: "If all the members of the A. F. of L. were like Johannsen there would be no division in labor. He does not condemn the McNamaras or offer an excuse for them, for he knows that they fought the only way they knew how to fight.

"If you resort to peaceful methods, the capitalist will plant dynamite for you," said Haywood.

"The only purpose of Socialism should be to work on the industrial field."

In talking about preachers, Haywood said, "All preachers pray for the continuation of the present system except the Socialist preachers, who have been thrown out of their pulpits for preaching the other way."

A collection of $97.27 was taken up for the benefit of the Little Falls strikers.—New York Call.

No one Socialist asks you workers to vote for Socialism until you know what you are voting for. Have you started in to learn what Socialism really is? If you haven't it is about time that you had.

Any action to gain more for the workers is "illegal." If you don't believe this, just try it and then notice how the judges—the servants of the skinners of labor will tend to you.

NOTICE!

Comrades throughout the state are frequently forwarding subs. to this paper to the State Secretary. Comrade Schawe desires us to inform all such comrades that it will greatly facilitate business at the state office if subs. to the paper are enclosed with separate money order or check, as the case may be. Kindly make note of this and in future send separate M. O. or check for subs. to The Socialist, 108½ South High Street, Columbus, Ohio.

IMMORALITY AMONG "BETTER CLASSES."

Hints at immorality or a most disgusting nature continue to appear in the dispatches from Portland, Ore., where it has been found an organization exists for the purpose of carrying on immorality so vile that even its name is excluded from the type. Yet those guilty of this grossness are men of the "better class." They are men who appear in the "best" society and wear the sheepskin of politeness and good breeding. So far, at least, no member of the real working class has been found to belong to this "exclusive set."

But it is not in Portland alone that this organization exists. Investigation proves that it extends all along the coast from Seattle to San Diego. Those who are familiar with the orgies practiced by the vigilantes upon some of their helpless victims last spring can easily believe some members of this peculiar cult are here. None but degenerates of the worst type could think of doing the things which were done to Dr. Reitman, for instance.

THE VALUE OF MAN.

Passing down one of the city streets on Monday morning a crowd was noticed in front of the square where the foundations for a new skyscraper were being laid. One of the workmen had fallen to his death down one of the caissons and the fire department was there with its ropes and ladders to get out the body. The thing that impressed us most was the fact that not a wheel stopped, the workmen went on with their work, and not one had time to stop to heave a sigh over the death of a fellow-laborer. Men are cheap, buildings are costly, and money must be made. Another would take the dead man's place and the grind would go on.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIALIST CONVENTION

What promises to be the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of college students interested in Socialism ever assembled in the United States will be the fourth annual convention of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, to be held in New York City, December 27th and 28th.

The convention will be opened by President J. G. Phelps Stokes of the society Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., at the studio of Miss Helen Phelps Stokes, 90 Grove Street, New York City. At this session reports will be given from more than 50 undergraduate and a half dozen graduate chapters of the society in the colleges of the East and West. Fraternal delegates from unorganized colleges will also report the progress in their institutions.

Friday evening the New York chapter will give a reception to the visiting delegates and friends at the Finch School, 61 East Seventy-seventh Street, New York City. There will be addresses by various of the members of the executive committee, including President Stokes, Mrs. Florence Kelley, Mrs. Jessica G. Finch, Miss Jessie Wallace Hughan, Miss Helen Phelps Stokes, Miss Jessie Ashley, Ellis O. Jones, William English Walling, Bouck White and Harry W. Laidler, presiding. Miss Helen Keller has also been asked to speak.

All the problems which the various chapters have to face, methods of organizing, increasing membership, securing lecturers, publishing pamphlets and magazines, co-operating with the Socialist Party, studying courses on Socialism, etc., will be discussed by the delegates at the morning session Saturday morning, December 28th, at Miss Stokes' studio.

Following this will come the Question Box session Saturday afternoon, when the delegates will be given an opportunity to ask questions on Socialism, its theory and tactics of well-known exponents of the Socialist movement. Last year this session was most animated and thought compelling.

The grand finale will be the dinner Saturday night; subject, "The New Political Alignment." Prof. Thomas C. Hall of Union Theological Seminary, Dr. John C. Kennedy, the candidate for governor on the Socialist ticket in Illinois in 1912, and manager of The Chicago World; Prof. Ellen Hayes of Wellesley, and other prominent Socialists and exponents of the Progressive movement will speak.

DEATH TOLL AT CROSSINGS.

Washington, Dec. 7.—At a recent session of the National Convention of Railway Commissions in this city a report on the accidents happening at grade crossings was under discussion. It was reported that the loss of life at grade crossings in this country is now estimated at 36,000 persons killed every year. A general discussion was entered into relative to measures to be adopted in doing away with grade crossings. Various views were expressed, some delegates taking the position that the state should divide the expenses with the railroads, while others contended that the railroads should bear the entire expense of providing underground or overhead crossings. The yearly toll of death has reached such enormous figures that this question demands solution, and if the railroads do not voluntarily adopt some protective measure it is likely that both governmental and state action will be forthcoming within a short time.

THE CLOWN WHOSE HOG WAS STOLEN

Many years ago when I attended circus shows, I heard the ringmaster and the clown get off a conversation something like this:

Clown—Well, I killed and dressed a fat hog the other day for our winter's meat. I hung the carcass out to cool over night and a Republican came and stole half of that hog.

Ringmaster—Now, see here; how do you know the thief was a Republican?

Clown—Because if he had been a Democrat he would have taken the whole darned hog.

Times have changed since I first heard the story. Here's about the way it might appropriately be told now:

Clown—When I hung that hog out to cool during the night, two thieves, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, came and carried off four-fifths of that meat.

Ringmaster—How do you know that one thief was a Republican and the other a Democrat?

Clown—Because, they have been detected so many times stealing from working people in that proportion. Now, take notice that they left me only one-fifth of that hog, mainly the poor parts of the meat, and that has been the habit of these thieves so long that it is now known they are the villians. Socialists do not believe in getting something for nothing, therefore I know that the thieves were not Socialists.—R. A. Dague.

PEONAGE PRACTICED IN WEST VIRGINIA UNDER THE PROTECTION OF THE STATE MILITIA

Charlestown, W. Va.—That peonage is being practiced almost within the shadow of the capitol and that the perpetrators of this crime are protected in their hellish work by the state militia under a martial law is a disgrace to the citizenship of the state. The state and county officials stand indicted before the public as being parties to the crime. They know the conditions that exist and protect the criminal in their illegal practices from the aroused and indignant people. That these transportation men that are now being held in peonage on Paint and Cabin Creeks were picked up in the large cities and rural districts of some of the Southern states and brought into West Virginia under false pretenses is a fact too evident for them to deny. They know that the labor agents deceived these men into the state with lies and promises as false as hell, they know that these men were brought in, locked in the cars and guarded like cattle. They know that they are being held up there on those creeks under armed guards at the point of Winchesters, virtually slaves, yet they allow this burning shame to continue. Occasionally some of these men make their escape by evading the ever watchful eye of the guards and slipping into the mountains in the dead of the night. Last week several squads of those who were successful in escaping from the slave pens finally wandered into Charleston after spending days and nights in the mountains and walking from 40 to 80 miles. The experiences told by these men sound more like that of a Siberian exile or a prisoner from a convict camp. As these men relate how they were herded into a house without any accommodations, fed upon slop not fit for a hog and kept continually under guard, it is almost unbelievable that such things could happen in a civilized country. Last week two young men from Cleveland escaped from the West Virginia mines run by that good Christian philanthropist Czar Cabell. These men, after learning the true conditions refused to work and were held under guard for over a week. On the Saturday before they got away a hogshead was sent up to the house where they were guarded, the cook took the head out back of the house and laid it on a stump, took an old axe that was lying near and chopped it up into small pieces, eyes, bones, hair and all, and of this mess he made a stew thickened with meal and potatoes, and that was what the peons were given to eat. These two boys slipped out of camp at 4 a. m. Sunday and crossed the mountain over to Colcord in Raleigh County, and after walking all day Sunday and Monday they arrived in Charleston, foot sore and hungry Tuesday evening. There were two other men who were brought from New York who made their escape from Kayford Sunday night between 11 and 12 o'clock, they managed to get over the mountains to Dorothy, where they were taken in by a union miner who kept them the balance of the night and then directed them how best to reach Charleston. The men from Kayford dropped between 300 and 400 transportation men from New York and Chicago being held in peonage at that place, and of this amount not more than 35 were working and they averaged loading about four tons of coal a day. There are two especially distressing cases that the humane society should look into. It is the case of two Jewish boys, Eddie Reick from Chicago and Nathan Heims from New York, both of these boys are mere children, not yet 16 years old. Eddie Reick started to get off the train in Charleston when the other men got off two weeks ago, but was held by the guards and held on. Reick was put to work in the Shamrock mines, but Nathan Heims was too sick to go to work and is being held under guard in house No. 56 at Kayford. The men say the boy cannot eat and cries and begs continually to be sent home. These men and children were taken up Cabin Creek under military guard and turned over to the armed thugs of the coal barons by the state officials. It was to protect such damnable conditions as these that Governor Glasscock declared martial law and sent the soldiers to Cabin Creek, and he dares not deny it because the living proof is before his eyes. He knew the miners had more sense of honor and justice and more respect for the law than to allow this disgrace to hang over the citizenship of this country, so the governor declared martial law and established a military court to railroad to the penitentiary every man with courage and red blood enough in his veins to protest against such an outrage. But the governor and the Baldwin Elliott-Pratt aggregation and their masters, the coal barons, will learn to their sorrow that they cannot break the strike with transportation men and peons. The miners are going to win this strike or bankrupt every operator in the strike zone. They are on borrowed capital now and their properties are mortgaged for every dollar they are worth. It is only a matter of time until the coal baron will have to bow to the inevitable and recognize the fact that the miners have some rights as human beings that must be respected.

The man who demands more than he gives is a thief; the man who takes less than he gives is a fool; and the man who gives as much as he receives, and demands as much as he gives, is a Socialist. To which class do you belong?

A thing is true or untrue of itself, no matter who denies or affirms. A fool gets cross. A wise person puts his thinker in working order and investigates for himself. The truth is knowable to those who seek.

A FABLE

Once upon a time in a certain country and in a city named Co-lum-busted, there lived a certain man named Krabimus. Now, the man in past years had waxed exceeding prosperous and had gathered unto himself an exceeding large amount of the world's goods.

And, forsooth, the man, in order to properly secure and maintain his large properties did employ a goodly number of the brave and free citizens of that country. Now, it so happened that these free and brave citizens through voting for low wages and high prices had become exceeding empty in the region of the belt; Yea, verily, due to the lack of good feeding, there was no rotundity in the region of the belt, such as their master sported.

And it came to pass that the poor varlets gazing upon the portly and well-fed person of their master, consulted amongst themselves, saying: "Behold! Our master doth have the best of everything which is created from our labor. Our wives are overworked and our children are in want. Come, let us go to him and petition him that he may give us more wages so that we may dwell in peace and happiness."

And, Behold! they elected a committee and took the matter before the directors of their master's corporation, and the business man and some of his directors became exceeding wroth and smote the desk with their fists, shouting madly, "that the business was bankrupt, and they had not wherewithall to pay the increase." And it happened that in the business man's board of directors there were divers men who belonged to a strange and peculiar sect and they were known as Socialists, and, behold! these men were all members of the Working Class, and they proved a thorn in the side of the business man, as they were continually raising their voice in behalf of their own class.

And the business man, in order to prove his claim of short finances discharged divers of his working men just on the verge of winter; but, seeing the handwriting on the wall, he was finally compelled to grant the remaining men a slight increase. Now, it so happened that the laws of that country required that the business man do certain printing. He, therefore, called unto him the scribes of opposite politics and required of them that they submit unto him in sealed bids what they would require to do the work.

On the day the bids were opened, he called unto himself his board of directors and submitted unto them the bids of the various scribes. Now, amongst the scribes who were the lowest bidders was one who belonged to the same political faith as the divers ones on the board of directors.

Now, the business men and the balance of his directors were sore perplexed and up a stump for, they said, "We have made much ado about economy and shortness of finance and it is not seemly that we give this printing to this scribe, even though he be the lowest bidder; and, behold, they wrangled about the matter many days and they spent many sleepless nights and finally they consulted amongst themselves, saying, "Behold, we will put the business man up a tree and save our own bacon. We will vote 'yes' to give it to the low bidder and the business man can then veto our action."

And it was so, even as they had figured. But some said: "Behold, what will the people say?" and the business man answered: "The people be damned. I am running this business for the benefit of myself and my religious friends"; and lo! the people wondered at these words of wisdom.

The engagement of Mr. Edwin G. Marquardt, advertising manager of The Ohio Furniture Co. to Miss Harzer of East Schiller Street, has been announced. The wedding will take place in the near future. This paper and all of their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy life.

Prostitution will never be banished from our so-called civilization while honest labor wears cotton and dishonor is garbed in silk and satin.

It's not so much a question of "have you a union card?" as "are you a union man?" There is a considerable difference between the meaning of the two.

In buying clothing, shoes, etc., always demand that they bear the union label. If your dealer don't handle the goods, insist that he handles nothing but goods bearing the union label.

How would you like to be able to own a home that the cunning claws of capitalism could not destroy? That's Socialism.

It is a grievous thing to tell the truth. The truth is not only calculated to set men free, but it menaces the occupation of many eminently respectable citizens.

How would you like to see the hundreds of millions of dollars that are spent in pursuit of hate and war, used to make America beautiful? That's Socialism.

USE THE RED TICKET.

The Socialist has distributed thousands of red tickets to our readers and has more to be given out. When you buy anything from a dealer who advertises in this paper, hand him the red ticket. He will understand it. The time has come when the purchasing power of the working class must be used to boost its own paper. Get busy with the red tickets.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL.

Attention is called to the fact that many comrades are turning in subs without the street number of the subscriber.

It is very necessary and important that the street number should be turned in with the sub. in every instance.

The so-called reformer wants to take the chance to rob from the crowd that wants it. The Socialist Party wants to do away with the stealing proposition.

The ass that fights for the betterment of the workers is the fellow that the Ancient Order of Skinners fear the most. He is classed an undesirable citizen and shunned accordingly by the upholders of capitalism.

Ignorance—that silly thick-headed (block-headed) kind is the greatest enemy of the working class. It is about time that the wooden-headed tribe read working class literature and get that accumulation of old trash out of their garret.

UNITED DOCTORS EXTEND REMARKABLE FREE OFFER

United Doctors Were Unable to Examine All the Patients Who Called, Owing to Crowds.

SCORES WERE TURNED AWAY

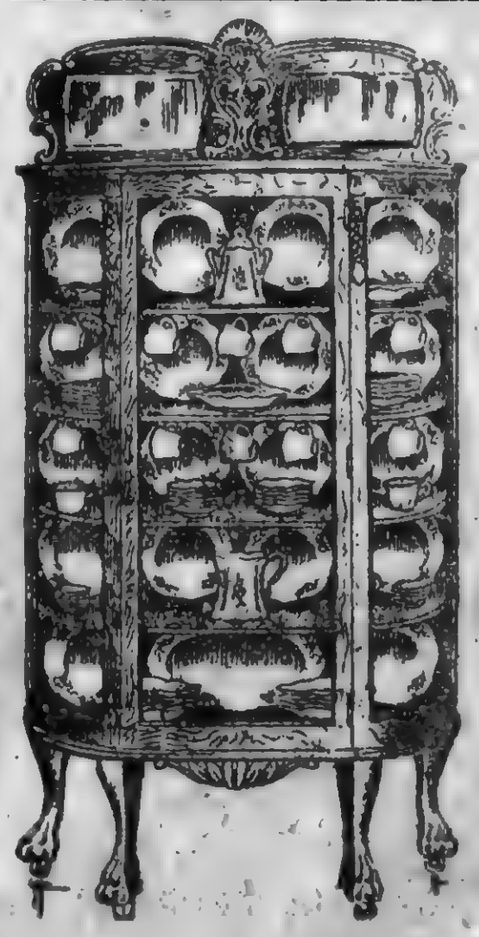
In Order to Treat All Alike, the Time Is Extended Until Dec. 20th—Full Fees After That.

On account of the unprecedented number of people who have called at the United Doctors' Institute, at 37 North Third Street, next to the Bell Telephone Building, to take advantage of the free treatment offer, the offices have been crowded to such a degree from early morning until late after the evening office hours, that the specialist was unable to treat all comers, even though working steadily all the time. As a consequence of this enormous rush of patients, many who called to take advantage of this free offer were turned away, disappointed at not being able to be examined or even speak to the specialists.

Late last night the doctors decided that in order to treat all alike and give every sick person a chance to be cured, the offer of free examination, free consultation and free treatment, (except for the bare cost of the medicines) in all curable cases would be extended until December 20th. This will positively be the last extension of this grand free offer to anyone. After December 20th full regular fees will be charged to all new patients.

The following testimonial, written by Mr. A. E. White of 737 North Metcalf Street, Lima, Ohio, tells an interesting story of one patient's experience in the United Doctors' Springfield, Ohio, institute:

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 20th, '13.
To the Public:



I had been ailing terribly for years with stomach and kidney trouble and received very little relief until I consulted the United Doctors at Springfield, Ohio. This was Sept. 23rd, and in 48 days I gained 38 pounds. I had treated formerly with other doctors, and one of these told me I had diabetes in the most malignant form. Well, if I did have it, I certainly do not have it now. I had been dieting on eggs and milk until I was in a miserably weakened condition. This was taking the advice of other doctors. After beginning the United Doctors' treatment I immediately began to notice a change and an improvement. I am treating at the Springfield institute of the United Doctors and have come today from Lima to Columbus to wish the new United Doctors' Columbus Institute well, and I feel that I cannot praise these master specialists too much. I have traveled one hundred and ten miles to wish the United Doctors well, but that is not too much nor near enough for me to do to let other sick persons know of the marvelous results I have obtained under their treatment. I only hope this testimonial will be the means of bringing sufferers like I was to where they can obtain a cure—to the United Doctors' Institute. Many doctors predicted my very early death, but my sister told me recently that I now look better than I have in thirty years—since taking the new "United Doctors'" treatment.

(Signed) O. E. WHITE

MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS FOR THE IDLE RICH

The Small Depositors in Defunct Banks will Depend on Charity [?] for Christmas Cheer.

It is estimated that dividend and interest disburseemnts to be made in Columbus January 1 will amount to about $2,000,000, of which sum outside corporations will pay a large part. Industrial and traction companies, whose shares and bonds are listed on the Columbus stock exchange, will pay out considerably more than a million to Columbus investors. It is said that Columbus banks will pay close to $100,000 to their stockholders.

The foregoing is a brief resume of a report published in a Columbus daily last Sunday morning. The same paper, the same day, in another column published an appeal to the public for funds with which to supply thousands of destitute families in Columbus with something for Christmas. These two statements seem strange in view of the loud proclamations of Prosperity issued just before the election. Local daily papers insisted that the demand for men was greater than the supply. The Socialist proved this to be untrue, but the dirty trick worked by the Chamber of Commerce served to draw thousands of people to the city who are now in want.

Another reason for this destitution at Christmas time may be found in the report that the 9000 depositors of the defunct Columbus Savings and Trust Company will be paid approximately 80 cents on the dollar, according to the latest estimates.

Proven claims amounting to $1,401,000 have been filed by depositors with Daniel H. Sowers, who was appointed by the state banking department to liquidate the affairs of the concern.

While there are no definite prospects for the payment of a dividend, there are deals pending which may result in each depositor getting a part of his claim within a comparatively short time. Nothing is likely to happen before the first of the year, however.

If settlement is made on a basis of 80 cents on the dollar, the loss to the depositors will be about $280,000, while the stockholders will lose all they put in, or $620,000.

This 80 per cent has not been paid yet and thousands of poor people are suffering because certain bankers saw fit to loan money on such securities as Columbus, New Albany & Johnstown traction line bonds.

The people who will get that $2,000,000 in dividends on bonds and stocks never produced a dollar of it, but they are happy and will probably contribute a little to buy candy for the poor children on Christmas.

THE WEEK BEFORE CHRISTMAS

'Twas the week before Christmas, and all through the town
The shopgirls and packers were fast breaking down,
While women of leisure lay soft in their beds,
And visions of purchases danced in their heads.
"I never go into those stores with bad air,
But the time of their closing is not my affair,"
Said a lady who shopped in a limousine car
More roomy and lighter than tenements are.
And then as she dozed, there arose such a clatter,
She rang for a maid to see what was the matter.
She saw to her horror a flying machine
Come down through the chimney. Within it was seen
An angry old Santa Claus, dressed like his picture,
Whose face was her Bishop's and doctor's in mixture.
He threw from his tonneau a muff which could purr;
'Twas labeled "The voice of the sweated in fur."
Kid mules which went tapping about the parquet—
It's 11 o'clock, we're delivering yet!
Each purchase wears all his parcels each night—
And tomorrow they drive us before the day's light.
A phonograph sang with an opera voice,
(In Italian) "'Tis Christmas, let all men rejoice!"
But always the weary must pay when they break,
And we can't keep a girl if she makes a mistake.
One hand on her Bible, and one on a check,
The poor lady listened—a terrified wreck—
While the gifts of her nightmare piled up on the floor,
And that horrid Saint Nicholas handed her more!
When she clutched at her Bible, he pulled off his cap
Saying, "That's what I need for the people you trap
Into working for wages on which they can't live.
It's they who need Scriptures on how to forgive.
But your mean little checks—$5 here and $10 there—
For the sweated you doom to a hospital's care
Are the devil's own credit, it's he alone knows
The lives that are ruined by shops that won't close.
If after long hours, girls reel from a store
More dead than alive, to a friend at the door—
Who offers to treat them, and one more goes under—
'Tis you are to blame, with your bargains and blunder.
You patronize shops which are open at night,
Then you open a Rescue and think it's all right.
I tell you conditions don't change for committees—
It will take every woman in each of your cities;
Good hours! good wages! a small dividend
To the octopus owners—then world without end.

Just then came the voice of children at prayers—
"Dear Santy Claus, please send my mother car fares,
She cannot work late and be walking home, too,"
When away to his children the Santa Claus flew.

MARGARET CHANDLER ALDRICH.

'THE COLUMBUS SOCIALIST' IS TWO YEARS OLD

In Spite of Hades and High Water the Paper Has Never Missed an Issue—We Are With You

The first issue of The Columbus Socialist was submitted to the public on December 24, 1910, almost two years ago. The Socialist Publishing Co. was incorporated by J. L. Bachman, J. P. Bohnert, C. E. Belcher, D. M. Kuhns and T. C. Southard, who were the principal stockholders. In June, 1911, the list of stockholders was largely increased and Local Columbus of the Socialist Party undertook the control and support of the paper. Since the first issue of The Socialist there has been but little change in the personnel of its management. It has never failed to be published each week and has neevr defaulted on its printing bills even if the office force did not get the full amount of their salaries. It should be stated that we do not own a printing plant of our own, but have our work done by contract for which payment must be made every two weeks. We have no banks ready to loan us money when we cannot collect what is due us. We depend upon the working class and what we can get for advertising from friendly business men.

We might recount many things which The Columbus Socialist has started and stirred up during the past two years, but we prefer to simply give a list of our enemies.

The Columbus Socialist is hated by—

The scab Chamber of Commerce,

The Rail Light,

The backers of the bogus Park Commission, Civic Center and Boulevard schemes,

The members of the Karb-Bolin-Philbrick municipal gang who are trying to wreck the city's public utilities,

The Catholic priests who are serving the crooked politicians in the name of Christ,

Michael J. Barry (formerly in the U. S. army), councilman from the Twelfth Ward of Columbus,

The Ohio Penitentiary contractors and brutal guards,

The unspeakable fiends who torture boys at the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School.

These are a few of our enemies and we are prouder of their enmity than we could be of their friendship.

"Behold; ye bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but ye yourselves will not move them with one of your fingers."

Thus, 2,000 years ago, the Man of Sorrow, a working man, son of a carpenter, spoke in a fiery denunciation of the Ruling Class of that time. If history speaks aright, His voice and hand were ever raised in behalf of the down-trodden and oppressed members of his own class.

And this is the time of year when the Master Class fosters charities of all kinds and descriptions. Gazing abroad upon the devastation and ruin and wrecked human lives for which they are responsible, in the name of that Christ who utterly despised and denounced their class, they throw a sop called charity to the unfortunate ones whose lives they have wrecked.

At this Christmas time, we members of the Working Class, in the name of that Christ whose memory we honor, serve notice upon you, you serpents, you generation of vipers, that we do not want your charity. Use the few paltry dollars that you fling at us to prolong a lingering death, to support another mistress. Better save it, your wife may want to give another monkey dinner soon. Better hang on to it, your daughter may want to buy another diseased duke in the near future. Damn your charity; we have had enough of it. We are beginning to stand erect. We are awake. Labor has arisen from the grave. Labor has torn the winding sheet and the bandage from its eyes, and it stands forth alone, resplendent in its new birth.

Aye, ye Masters; we are girding up our loins for the final fray. OUR wives have worked long enough to clothe YOUR wives in silks and satins. Long enough have OUR children had their little lives ground up into paltry dollars so that YOUR children may have the earth and the fullness thereof.

Aye, and long enough have we, the Working Class, been brutally maimed, murdered and driven to suicide graves in order to keep you worthless parasites in untold luxury. No longer do we intend to work with YOUR machines, these machines which are used to produce the food, clothing and shelter that our families need.

Listen, Masters! Listen and tremble! WE INTEND TO TAKE THOSE MACHINES AWAY FROM YOU AND OWN THEM OURSELVES! We have awakened to the fact that those who own the machines own the produced wealth, and we have decided that WE, the workers, will own the machines. Do you get our point of view? WE WILL DO IT! Resistance on your part is useless, for we outnumber you nearly 100 to 1. WE ARE UNCONQUERABLE. THEN, BEWARE! Do not indulge us as we go peaceably and quietly on our way, educating our fellow-workers. For every one of us thrown into your vile prisons there arises ten thousand valiant men and women who follow in our footsteps.

Obey our mandate. Do nothing to retard the coming of the co-operative commonwealth, and it will be better for you.

AND IN THAT DAY WHEN THE SUN BREAKS FORTH UPON THE NEW SOCIALIST REPUBLIC WILL BE EXEMPLIFIED THE TRUE MEANING OF THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST.

BOYS ESCAPE WHEN OFFICERS RESIGN

Lancaster Boys Industrial School Has Wholesale Get - Away — Chaplain Schaibly, Friend of Lads, Quits Job.

When it became known among the inmates of the Boys' Industrial home at Lancaster, Sunday night, that eight officials, including Chaplain John C. Schaibly, had resigned, eleven of the inmates ran away. The officials who resigned were mostly those who had befriended the boys at the institution and who had testified during the investigation by the board of administration concerning the brutality that existed there.

Two of the boys who escaped are from Columbus. They are Charles Eater and Carl Nelson.

All of the escapes are thought to be due to the panic among the inmates caused by the knowledge of the fact that their friends among the officials were about to leave. Many of the boys had declared that they feared to remain when their friends were gone.

The officials who resigned were, in addition to Chaplain Schaibly, Mr. and Mrs. Raper, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Stoll, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Schott, Jacob Wollenberg, chef, Dr. V. T. Dupuy, physician.

Among the officials who resigned was Mrs. H. K. Raper. She was the star witness against the present management of the institution and the witness who told of revolting brutality against the inmates. She is beloved of all the boys. Her husband, who was also a witness, has resigned, too. Others to resign are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Stoll of the Nash cottage, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Schott. All of these testified in favor of the inmates and helped to reveal the practices of cruelty.

Chaplain Schaibly has located in Columbus and will take up work upon the lecture platform. He is one of the men who towers above the small fry such as Garlach and the other torturers of boys at Lancaster, like a mountain rises above an ant hill. The Socialist opened up its fight upon the fiendish practices at the Boys' Industrial School after an address made by Rev. Schaibly before some preachers in this city. We, unwittingly, reflected in some degree upon Rev. Schaibly, and we now take pleasure in, for once, saying that we were mistaken. John G. Schaibly is a man with a mission, as he thinks, and that is to help boys. He is not a Socialist. He will be one some day and will be able to do more for humanity.

NEW YEAR'S EVE. DANCE.

To comply with the wishes of those atending our dances the committee has decided to change the dance of Thursday, January 3d, to New Year's Eve., December 31st, to dance the old year out and the new year in. With this exception the dances will be regularly held on Thursday nights.

STRICKLAND MEETINGS.

A sub-committee elected by the C. L. C. of Local Columbus, Socialist party, is arranging for a series of lectures by Comrade Frederick Guy Strickland, beginning the first Monday in January, 1913. Particulars next week.

BOOST THE AMERINGER MEETING.

Comrade Henry Spires, of the Twelfth ward, was the first to settle in full for tickets to the Ameringer meetings.

They went quick and he could have sold more, but we rather that the many sell a few than a few sell all and for this reason there was distributed among the members about eight tickets each.

If you have not already disposed of yours do so at once and make your settlements with organizer at 108½ South High Street as early as possible or not later than the night of the meeting, at the hall.

Let each one help boost this meeting and—also avoid the humiliation of being last to settle.

DOWN AND OUTER GOES TO WORKHOUSE.

"I'm out of work, can't stand the cold and want to be sent to the workhouse," appealed E. J. Pugh to Policeman Adkins on South Front Street late at night. Judge Osborn next day accommodated him with 30 days and a fine of $0 and costs on a vagrancy charge.

A Cincinnati woman declares she has discovered a man without a fault. But that's nothing, the cemeteries are full of this brand of men.

FRENZIED FINANCE SHOWN BY COLUMBUS CAPITALISTS

Banker Borrows Money Deposited by Working Class —Sorrow for Christmas

W. S. Courtright, 198 East Broad Street, President of the defunct Union National Bank, filed a bankruptcy petition in the United States Court Monday, placing his liabilities at $337,385.62 and his assets at $105,270. His assets are chiefly made up, he avers, of real estate worth $97,790 and stocks and bonds worth $5,280.

He places his liability on the stock of the Union National Bank, which failed some time ago, at $75,000, and on the trustee certificates of the American Cash Register Company at $75,000. For borrowing money from the bank of which he was President, W. S. Courtright should be indicted by a Federal Grand Jury. He has been one of the men intimately associated with E. K. Stewart, of the Rail-Light in various financial schemes carried on with money deposited by workingmen, women and children. W. S. Courtright has been a merciless money lending shark and his downfall would not be lamented if it did not mean poverty and destitution for hundreds of people in Columbus who put their money in the Union National and the Columbus Savings and Trust. Men like Courtright and E. K. Stewart speculated with the savings of wage-earners and lost. The wage-earners have lost the most because they lost all they had. Courtright and Stewart lost what did not belong to either one. THIS IS CAPITALISM. IS IT ANY WONDER THAT MEN AND WOMEN BECOME ANARCHISTS OR DIRECT ACTIONISTS?

BARBERS ARE ACTIVE FOR STATE LICENSE LAW

Business Agent Apple Attends Meeting of Ohio Branch at Springfield.

C. C. Apple, business agent of the local Journeyman Barbers' International Union, attended the meeting of the executive board of the state branch of the union at Springfield last Sunday, December 15. The subject under consideration was the Model License Law proposed by the barbers of Ohio. The proposed law includes improved sanitary conditions indorsed by the State Board of Health.

RAIL-LIGHT MONOPOLY OWNS KARB GANG

City Compelled to Employ Attorney to Defend Itself Against Its Own Hired Solicitor.

Recent reports from the electric light plant demonstrate clearly that the present Democratic city administration is engaged in the noble work of serving the Columbus Rail-Light. This has long been suspected, but when the city is compelled to employ a lawyer to defend itself against its own hired solicitor, the fact cannot be questioned.

Superintendent Eichhorn of the municipal light plant in his report for November, given at the meeting of the heads of city departments with the mayor Friday night, said the operating cost of the plant for the month had been $7,564.15, while the receipts from the day load were $4,163.75. This, he admitted, made the net cost of operating the plant for the month but $3,400.39. This included the lighting of the streets at night and the furnishing of the day load in the day time.

The present injunction suit of City Solicitor Bolin against the light plant, which is now in court, claims the sale of this day load is being made at a "loss" to the city. The matter of reconciling this contention with the report of the superintendent of the light plant was not discussed Friday night.

The statement that the sale of the "day load" of the municipal light plant is good business and produces a good profit for the city was made officially Saturday by City Auditor Cain, who handles the city finances, and is, by virtue of his position, familiar with the facts.

This report followed the action of city council Friday night, which authorized Cain to employ an attorney to represent the plant and the people in the injunction which City Solicitor Bolin has brought, charging the city with selling the "day load" at a loss and asking that this sale be stopped. Cain announces that he will employ as his attorney former City Solicitor Edgar L. Weinland, who is already familiar with the data regarding the plant.

Political parties are ever true to the interests of those who pay their campaign expenses. Just note in whose interests laws will be passed by the Democratic Senate and Congress.

NEW BIDS SUBMITTED FOR CITY PRINTING.

The Week Forced By Socialist to Reduce Its Former Bid.

Bids for the city legal advertising were opened last Monday evening and were as follows: The Week, 50 cents per square for the first inserton and 40 cents for the second insertion; Columbus Socialist, 30 and 15 cents; Times, 20 and 20 cents; State Journal, $1 and 50 cents; Express-Westbote, 55 and 45 cents. The Week some two months ago bid 75 and 65. Neither the Times or the Week filed any statement of circulation as required by Council. The Journal claimed a circulation in excess of 50,000, which caused a ripple of smiles to pass over the faces of Councilmen.

Councilman McGuire introduced an ordinance in which the salaries of patrolmen and other members of the police department are raised 10 per cent.

President Logan, under a motion made by Socialist Councilman Warren, will have the naming of two additional of an official "lobby" to promote municipal legislation before the coming General Assembly. It was pased as an amendment to the motion of Councilman Baldridge that City Solicitor Bolin, Auditor Cain and M. A. Gemunder, Secretary of the Sinking Fund Trustees, be added. The committee as appointed by President Logan consists of Councilmen Alcott, Stribbling and Barry. A Socialist Councilman and either Mr. Hayden or Mr. McGuire, as Progressives, may be named as additional members if President Logan sees fit so to do.

You workingmen who dropped a capitalist ballot into the slot need not be surprised if an injunction or a cossack's club comes out at the other end. That's what you voted for.

A MILLION VOTES FOR SOCIALISM

Socialism mounts like a tide. It is a far cry from the 21,000 votes polled for Simon Wing, the first Socialist candidate for the presidency in 1892, to the round million of Socialist votes cast on November 5. In view of this vast total, Socialists have good reason to refuse to be discouraged by recent reverses. Milwaukee may have passed out of their control. Their sole representative in Congress may have been defeated by a coalition of his enemies. But a million votes for Debs constitutes a real triumph.

The New York Globe has lately expressed its surprise that the Socialists should have selected Eugene Debs as their presidential candidate for the fourth time. The Globe, it is clear, does not know either Debs or the Socialists. This man, whom Lincoln Steffens has described as "the kindest, foolishest, most courageous lover of man in the world," is literally adored by the radical public. And well he may be. It is not what he says so much as what he is that impresses everyone who comes into contact with him. An agitator with the heart of a poet, magnetic to the finger tips, sincerity incarnate, keen, incisive, eloquent, warm-hearted—this is Eugene Debs.

There is real pathos in the fact that in the hour of Debs' triumph his associate, J. A. Wayland, proprietor of The Appeal to Reason, has committed suicide. Such is the grim irony of life. "The struggle under the competitive system isn't worth the effort," wrote Wayland just before he died, "let it pass." Debs' attitude is exactly the opposite of Wayland's. "The greater the difficulties," he said to me not long ago in conversation, "the more I am inspired to grapple with them and to conquer them!" This is the secret of Debs' success.

It is interesting to note that the Socialist vote is strongest in the states in which Roosevelt polled his largest vote. California, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania are the banner states for the Socialists, as well as for the Progressives. This seems to indicate that a great wave of discontent and idealism swept high in all these states, finding insurgent expression in the Progressive Party and radical expression in the Socialist Party. Roosevelt helped the Socialists, instead of drawing votes away from them. One of the surprises of the Socialist vote is its weakness in Massachusetts, an industrial state that is still fermenting with labor troubles and that was expected to give a large Socialist vote, instead of a few thousands.

Take it all in all, this solid million of votes for Socialism is as interesting a political portent as we have witnessed in this country in many a year. It shows that the Socialist Party has come to stay. America will have to grow accustomed to it. Sooner than most people realize, the place in Congress left vacant by Victor Berger will be filled by many Socialist representatives. The political record of almost all the European countries tells the same story.

As for Debs, he has said that he would not accept a nomination for president if there were any possibility of his being elected. His part has been that of the visionary, the forerunner. He has fought a long fight and has fought it like a hero. Who could have prophesied that the labor leader who was imprisoned in 1894 for violating an injunction issued by Judge Grosscup would live to see that same judge compelled to resign from the bench under fire, and himself crowned by a million hosannas?

LEONARD D. ABBOTT.

HOT STUFF FROM CLEVELAND CITIZENS

Big Bill Haywood is in trouble again. Local Utica, N. Y., has forwarded a resolution to the National Committee S. P. and requested that investigation of the speeches delivered recently by Haywood in Utica and New York City be made, and that he be expelled if they are found to be anarchistic and in conflict with the S. P. platform and constitution. The New York Volkszeitung, the Daily Call, Forward and other papers have been bitterly denouncing Haywood during the past week for his ill-concealed attacks on the "political Socialists" at meetings that were held in the metropolis to celebrate the release of the Lawrence prisoners. Ettor, now that he is free again, thanks to the good Socialist money, also made a few sneering observations about political action and lauded direct action as a wonderful cure-all. So did Anton Johanssen, who spoke from the same platform with Haywood and Ettor. It is strange how these direct actionists, who delight to ridicule political action, nevertheless persist in clinging to the S. P. with a struggle hold, instead of honestly admitting that they are anarchists and getting out. A late report from the East says that New Jersey State Committee has voted to initiate a referendum to recall Haywood.

The charges filed against Max S. Hayes by C. E. Ruthenberg, reciting that the former was guilty of endorsing candidates of the old parties, served as a basis for a trial before Ward Branch 24, last Sunday. Hayes being acquitted of the charge on a secret ballot by a vote of 14 to 4.

Vincent St. John, national secretary of the Industrial Workers o fthe World, has issued a call to all members who can do so to rush down to Little Falls, N. Y., and assist the striking textile workers and be prepared to fill the jail if necessary, same as was done at Spokane, Seattle, San Diego and other places. Some of the sympathizers in New York who have been raising funds for the strikers are cussing St. John in three or four different languages, for they have visions of being called upon to furnish free feeds for a small army "of fellow-workers" who will pour into Little Falls to commit direct action on the grub. They are asking why St. John didn't call for money and provisions instead of a crowd of huskies with good appetites to eat and the strikers out of house and home. It is also great tactics to urge the "fellow-workers" to break into jail, and, when they are in, to clamor and spend money to get out. Incidentally the Socialist organizations and trade unions and other sympathizers are implored to furnish funds and then denounced for their pains.

GROWING WICKEDER.

Washington, D. C.—White slave convictions, criminal and civil prosecutions under the Sherman act, frauds in the revenue, violations of the national banking laws, postal laws and miscellaneous crimes during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, have paid in penalties imposed, more than enough to support the entire judiciary of the United States, according to the annual report of Attorney General Wickersham, submitted to congress today.

Although the operations of the department of justice, the courts and the government's legal machine, in general cost $9,532,560,33, an increase of $232,680.33 over that of the year ending June 30, 1911, there was actually collected and paid into the treasury of the United States an aggregate sum of $2,749,070.15. This reveals the somewhat startling fact that, despite the desperate efforts of the government, crime, vice and illegal business have thrived.

Among the most important of the recommendations submitted in the report today is that of placing federal attorneys, assistant attorneys, and other federal officials under the civil service rules.

"The expense of the year," says Wickersham's report, "in endeavoring to force criminal liability under the Sherman law has not been encouraging."

The attorney general presented a long tabulated list of prosecutions to bear out this assertion.

Considerable attention is given in the report to the government's efforts to safeguard water rights in the promotion of reclamation work. He urged special congressional measures for the protection of pioneers from possible water famines and the encroachment of land grabbing companies.

An egotist is a fellow who everlastingly talks about himself and selfishly doesn't give the other fellow a chance to talk about himself. Does this strike you?

Yes, we may as well be frank about it; the workers want the earth and the fullness thereof. And until they get what they want their wants will not be satisfied.

HUMANE SOCIETY IN NO HASTE

Declines to Investigate Complaint of Abuse of Mrs. Eliza Essmaker at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Dayton

Out at St. Elizabeth Hospital lies a poor Catholic woman of the Working Class. Her husband is a molder at Richmond, Ind. Her name is Mrs. Eliza Essmaker, and she is 68 years of age.

Mrs. Essmaker, a year ago last August, suffered from a combined sunstroke and paralytic stroke, which brought on spells resembling epilepsy, accompanied by aberrations of mind.

Last July relatives placed Mrs. Essmaker in St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Dayton for treatment, scraping together some $50 for the purpose.

There is no question but that Mrs. Essmaker is a bother. She is helpless, bedridden and heavy.

At first, Mrs. Essmaker was kept in the big ward. Some six weeks ago her sister, Mrs. Zimmerman, also a poor Catholic woman of the Working Class, visited her there and the patient in the next cot told Mrs. Zimmerman, with every appearance of fear and trepidation, that the sisters had just the day before given Mrs. Essmaker "an awful beating."

Mrs. Essmaker at that time refused to confirm the statement. What her motive was, whether pride, fear, or because her mind retained no recollection of it, is impossible to say.

But on Sunday, November 25, Mrs. Zimmerman visited the hospital again, in company with Mrs. McDonald, also a Catholic woman of the Working Class. They found Mrs. Essmaker removed to a small, separate room on the top floor. The patient's mouth was black with bruises, and there were black and blue marks upon her neck.

"How did you get those?" exclaimed Mrs. Zimmerman.

"I got a blow in the mouth," said Mrs. Essmaker, whose mind that morning was much clearer than on the former visit.

"Who did it to you?"

"The Sisters done it."

"What for?"

"I don't know. I get awful rough usage, and I want to get out of here before they kill me."—Dayton Socialist.

GATHERERS GET INCREASE.

Toledo, O., Dec. 14.—The gatherers in the electric bulb department of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union have secured an advance in wages of 7 per cent. At the time of the demand for the increase for the gatherers indications were that a strike involving 20 per cent. of the membership of the entire association would ensue, but a compromise was effected and a 7 per cent. increase granted, which eliminated a contest

An exchange says: Father is a pretty good fellow when it comes to paying the bills, but sometimes he doesn't get any credit, even in his own home. In such a case we think father needs a new stiff backbone and a kick on paying the bills until he is recognized as something more than just a financial asset by the female cashier.

A MILLION VOTES FOR SOCIALISM

Socialism mounts like a tide. It is a far cry from the 91,000 votes polled for Simon Wing, the first Socialist candidate for the presidency in 1892, to the round million of Socialist votes cast on November 5. In view of this vast total, Socialists have good reason to refuse to be discouraged by recent reverses. Milwaukee may have passed out of their control. Their sole representative in Congress may have been defeated by a coalition of his enemies. But a million votes for Debs constitutes a real triumph.

The New York Globe has lately expressed its surprise that the Socialists should have selected Eugene Debs as their presidential candidate for the fourth time. The Globe, it is clear, does not know either Debs or the Socialists. This man, whom Lincoln Steffens has described as "the kindest, foolishest, most courageous lover of man in the world," is literally adored by the radical public. And well he may be. It is not what he says so much as what he is that impresses everyone who comes into contact with him. An agitator with the heart of a poet, magnetic to the finger tips, sincerity incarnate, keen, incisive, eloquent, warm-hearted—this is Eugene Debs.

There is real pathos in the fact that in the hour of Debs' triumph his associate, J. A. Wayland, proprietor of The Appeal to Reason, has committed suicide. Such is the grim irony of life. "The struggle under the competitive system isn't worth the effort," wrote Wayland just before he died, "let it pass," Debs' attitude is exactly the opposite of Wayland's. "The greater the difficulties," he said to me not long ago in conversation, "the more I am inspired to grapple with them and to conquer them!" This is the secret of Debs' success.

It is interesting to note that the Socialist vote is strongest in the states in which Roosevelt polled his largest vote. California, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania are the banner states for the Socialists, as well as for the Progressives. This seems to indicate that a great wave of discontent and idealism swept high in all these states, finding insurgent expression in the Progressive Party and radical expression in the Socialist Party. Roosevelt helped the Socialists, instead of drawing votes away from them. One of the surprises of the Socialist vote is its weakness in Massachusetts, an industrial state that is still fermenting with labor troubles and that was expected to give a large Socialist vote, instead of a few thousands.

Take it all in all, this solid million of votes for Socialism is as interesting a political portent as we have witnessed in this country in many a year. It shows that the Socialist Party has come to stay. America will have to grow accustomed to it. Sooner than most people realize, the place in Congress left vacant by Victor Berger will be filled by many Socialist representatives. The political record of almost all the European countries tells the same story.

As for Debs, he has said that he would not accept a nomination for president if there were any possibility of his being elected. His part has been that of the visionary, the forerunner. He has fought a long fight and has fought it like a hero. Who could have prophesied that the labor leader who was imprisoned in 1894 for violating an injunction issued by Judge Grosscup would live to see that same judge compelled to resign from the bench under fire, and himself crowned by a million ho pannas?

LEONARD D. ABBOTT.

HOT STUFF FROM CLEVELAND CITIZENS

Big Bill Haywood is in trouble again. Local Utica, N. Y., has forwarded a resolution to the National Committee S. P. and requested that investigation of the speeches delivered recently by Haywood in Utica and New York City be made, and that he be expelled if they are found to be anarchistic and in conflict with the S. P. platform and constitution. The New York Volkszeitung, the Daily Call, Forward and other papers have been bitterly denouncing Haywood during the past week for his ill-concealed attacks on the "political Socialists" at meetings that were held in the metropolis to celebrate the release of the Lawrence prisoners. Ettor, now that he is free again, thanks to the good Socialist money, also made a few sneering observations about political action and lauded direct action as a wonderful cure-all. So did Anton Johanssen, who spoke from the same platform with Haywood and Ettor. It is strange how these direct actionists, who delight to ridicule political action, nevertheless persist in clinging to the S. P. with a strangle hold, instead of honestly admitting that they are anarchists and getting out. A late report from the East says that New Jersey State Committee has voted to initiate a referendum to recall Haywood.

The charges filed against Max S. Hayes by C. E. Ruthenberg, reciting that the former was guilty of endorsing candidates of the old parties, served as a basis for a trial before Ward Branch 24, last Sunday, Hayes being acquitted of the charge on a secret ballot by a vote of 14 to 4.

Vincent St. John, national secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, has issued a call to all members who can do so to rush down to Little Falls, N. Y., and assist the striking textile workers and be prepared to fill the jail if necessary, same as was done at Spokane, Seattle, San Diego and other places. Some of the sympathizers in New York who have been raising funds for the strikers are cussing St. John in three or four different languages, for they have visions of being called upon to furnish free feeds for a small army "of fellow-workers" who will pour into Little Falls to commit direct action on the grub. They are asking why St. John didn't call for money and provisions instead of a crowd of huskies with good appetites to eat and the strikers out of house and home. It is also great tactics to urge the "fellow-workers" to break into jail, and, when they are in, to clamor and spend money to get out. Incidentally the Socialist organizations and trade unions and other sympathizers are implored to furnish funds and then denounced for their pains.

GROWING WICKEDER.

Washington, D. C.—White slave convictions, criminal and civil prosecutions under the Sherman act, frauds in the revenue, violations of the national banking laws, postal laws and miscellaneous crimes during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, have paid in penalties imposed, more than enough to support the entire judiciary of the United States, according to the annual report of Attorney General Wickersham, submitted to congress today.

Although the operations of the department of justice, the courts and the government's legal machine, in general cost $2,532,560.23, an increase of $233,680.23 over that of the year ending June 30, 1911, there was actually collected and paid into the treasury of the United States an aggregate sum of $2,749,070.15. This reveals the somewhat startling fact that, despite the desperate efforts of the government, crime, vice and illegal business have thrived.

Among the most important of the recommendations submitted in the report today is that of placing federal attorneys, assistant attorneys, and other federal officials under the civil service rules.

"The expense of the year," says Wickersham's report, "in endeavoring to force criminal liability under the Sherman law has not been encouraging."

The attorney general presented a long tabulated list of prosecutions to bear out this assertion.

Considerable attention is given in the report to the government's efforts to safeguard water rights in the promotion of reclamation work. He urged special congressional measures for the protection of pioneers from possible water famines and the encroachment of land grabbing companies.

An egotist is a fellow who everlastingly talks about himself and selfishly doesn't give the other fellow a chance to talk about himself. Does this strike you?

Yes, we may as well be frank about it; the workers want the earth and the fulness thereof. And until they get what they want their wants will not be satisfied.

HUMANE SOCIETY IN NO HASTE

Declines to Investigate Complaint of Abuse of Mrs. Eliza Essmaker at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Dayton

Out at St. Elizabeth Hospital lies a poor Catholic woman of the Working Class. Her husband is a molder at Richmond, Ind. Her name is Mrs. Eliza Essmaker, and she is 68 years of age.

Mrs. Essmaker, a year ago last August, suffered from a combined sunstroke and paralytic stroke, which brought on spells resembling epilepsy, accompanied by aberrations of mind.

Last July relatives placed Mrs. Essmaker in St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Dayton for treatment, scraping together some $50 for the purpose.

There is no question but that Mrs. Essmaker is a bother. She is helpless, bedridden and heavy.

At first, Mrs. Essmaker was kept in the big ward. Some six weeks ago her sister, Mrs. Zimmerman, also a poor Catholic woman of the Working Class, visited her there and the patient in the next cot told Mrs. Zimmerman, with every appearance of fear and trepidation, that the sisters had just the day before given Mrs. Essmaker "an awful beating."

Mrs. Essmaker at that time refused to confirm the statement. What her motive was, whether pride, fear, or because her mind retained no recollection of it, is impossible to say.

But on Sunday, November 25, Mrs. Zimmerman visited the hospital again, in company with Mrs. McDonald, also a Catholic woman of the Working Class. They found Mrs. Essmaker removed to a small, separate room on the top floor. The patient's mouth was black with bruises, and there were black and blue marks upon her neck.

"How did you get those?" exclaimed Mrs. Zimmerman.

"I got a blow in the mouth," said Mrs. Essmaker, whose mind that morning was much clearer than on the former visit.

"Who did it to you?"

"The Sisters done it."

"What for?"

"I don't know. I get awful rough usage, and I want to get out of here before they kill me."—Dayton Socialist.

The General Strike

II. Definitions

BY ROBERT HUNTER.

The General Strike, in its largest application and most literal sense, may be defined as the stoppage of all work, in all branches of the economic life, whether industrial, agricultural, or commercial. The stoppage of all work may confine itself to a single country or extend to all countries.

The term is also applied in a more restricted sense, as for instance, to a strike of all workmen in a single state or province of a country. It is also used to cover an international strike in one industry or in many industries. We speak of a general strike of the miners, railroad employes, bakers, and brewers.

The present advocates, however, of the General Strike do not use the term in this sense. There have been many such strikes, a few entirely successful.

What is really meant by the present-day advocates of the General Strike is that the most important trades—those that dominate the entire industrial system—shall cease work at the same moment.

"If, for instance," says Jaures, the French leader, "the railroad employes, the miners, dockers, and longshoremen, the employes in the weaving and spinning industries, and the building trade employes in the great cities, were to quit work simultaneously, we might say that there was a general strike. Because to bring about a general strike it is not necessary that the whole number of trades should be in line; it is not necessary that the whole number of trades should be in line; it is not even necessary that in the trades that are on strike every single workman should go out. It is sufficient if those trades where the power of capital is most concentrated and the power of labor best organized, and that are, therefore, the keystone of the economic system, decide on a suspension of work; and it is enough if they are backed up by such a large number of workmen that the work of those trades is stopped." (Studies in Socialism, Jaures, p. 107; Putnam, N. Y., 1906.)

The aim of such a strike is, of course, to paralyze the industrial and commercial life of the nation and any General Strike to be successful must at least include enough of the workers to render production, transportation and exchange impossible.

These definitions make it obvious that the General Strike, in its largest sense, is not a weapon to be used as a remedy for sectional, craft, or individual wrongs. The miners' strike for an eight-hour day; the railroad employes strike for higher wages; the bakers for more sanitary workshops; the machinists strike to defend a member of their craft. Such strikes may, and do, become general so far as these trades are concerned, but need not involve other trades.

So, too, the workmen of a town or country may stop work for the purpose of forcing electoral or legislative reforms. Such a strike may become a political mass strike, as the Germans say, and have for its purpose to show the unanimous desire of the workers for certain reforms. It is a rough and ready form of the initiative and referendum. The workers' demands are made in mass meeting. Their common determination is measured by the extent and success of the General Strike demonstration. Such strikes are always brief, declared for a definite purpose, and when the solidarity of the workers has been definitely shown, the strikers return to work.

Such strikes have in recent years become increasingly common, especially where the suffrage is limited. Some have been successful. But while they may be termed general strikes, they are not the General Strike that is contemplated by the revolutionists who are today pushing the propaganda of this new method of war.

The General Strike as now advocated does not concern itself with small affairs. It rests on a profoundly revolutionary theory, and holds out promises to the working class that embrace the idea of its emancipation. It is inconceivable (to this its advocates agree) that any vast number of workers should be willing to resort to an action so perilous and impoverishing exeept for some reward that would adequately repay all for the immense privations they would need to suffer.

The French propagandists fully realize this fact. They frankly say, "the General Strike is the revolution." The workers of France do not fear the word "revolution" as do the workers of many other countries. The term means something to them. And the advocates of the General Strike are understood in France when they say: "What more simple than to kill the old society by the inertia of the Working Class, and, upon the scrap heap of capitalism shall rise the Communist Society, in which well-being and liberty shall be assured to every human being."

Briand, late prime minister of France and formerly one of the great orators of the General Strike, declared: "I believe firmly that the General Strike will be the revolution." And he added that if it should become a duty, he would take a place in the ranks of the workers who would go to battle armed with spikes, swords, revolvers and rifles. He considered the General Strike as more seductive and efficacious than the old methods of the revolutionists.

"Already," writes Pierrot in "Syndicalism and Revolution," "The revolutionary propaganda, in educating the individual workers, renders strikes more and more numerous and more and more violent. The strikers struggle no more only for increase of salary, they attack at the same time the authority of the boss. The demands of the workers become more and more audacious. In the midst of a moral crisis, as, for instance, before some ferocious repression, they can create a unanimous strike.

"If there exists at the same time a general economic crisis, the spontaneous demonstration may, under the impulse of a fearless minority, change itself into a revolutionary conflagration, breaking forth everywhere at the same time, not by reason of orders from above, but as a result of the common impulse and the contagion of example."

Girault, the French anarchist, in his pamphlet, "The General Strike," sees that it must terminate in violence, and declares that in order that the General Strike should succeed, it would be necessary that the miners should set fire to the mines; that the workers of the railroad, or, for want of them, other energetic strikers should blow up, by means of a few sticks of dynamite, the rails, the tunnels, the bridges, the viaducts; that the mechanics or the stokers should throw soap in the water which serves to feed the machines; that the strikers should take the provisions where they are accumulated; that they should prevent the officers from repairing to the troops by arresting and disarming them on first getting up; that all the powder magazines should be blown up, that the arsenals should be robbed, and that the proletarians should seize the cannon, guns, bayonets and cartridges.

Griffuelhes, the former secretary of the French Federation of Labor, says: "The cessation of work, which would place the country in the rigor of death, would necessarily be of short duration; its terrible and incalculable consequences would force the government to capitulate at once. If it refused, the proletariat, in revolt from one end of France to the other, would be able to compel it, for the military forces, scattered and isolated over the whole territory, would be unable to act in concert and could not oppose the slightest resistance to the will of the workers, at last masters of the situation." L'Action Syndicaliste, p. 88.

It is very clear that these definitions of the General Strike consider it to be the final and supreme stand of labor against its exploiters. It is certainly not considered or advocated as a tool to remedy every little immediate grievance of the Working Class. As it would be folly to create cannon in order to kill gnats, so would it be folly to organise a General Strike to remedy some individual or minor grievance. Not only because it might fail if so used, but also because it would be a procedure far too costly to the Working Class.

The French are, therefore, perfectly right in considering this weapon as perhaps the most formidable possessed by the Working Class. It is the revolution, and the class that determines to have that matter out once and for all must be fully prepared to carry it through to the very end. It is the final show-down between the power of the capitalists and the power of the workers. It cannot be, as the French admit, merely a peaceful abstention from work. It must be a resort to force by a nearly unanimous Working Class.

THE MERRY BILLIONAIRES.

Every once in a while a handy man writes vim-vigor-and-victory verses for victims of millionaires; tells something in tall type to us people who rent small houses on crowded streets.

He tells us we should save our money.

Be economical, George.

Pennies make dimes and dimes make dollars.

Save your money and be independent.

Tell your wife to read everything in the newspapers and magazines on "How to Earn Money at Home."

All great men rose from poverty.

It is good to endure hardships and go hungry. This inculcates fortitude.

You may feel your heart grind to see the wife and kiddies eat cheap food and wear shoddy clothes. Yet that's the way all the great men did.

It pays to economize.

A Wall Street authority is now quoted as figuring the combined fortunes of ten men in this country at a little over $3,000,000,000, an average of more than $300,000,000 to the individual.

Counting each 80 years of age and saving for thirty years, each one has saved $10,000,000 a year.

O, you merry billionaires!

You are sure the gang that knows how to save.

Ten dimes make one dollar—hey!

"PRINTERS INK," THE RECOGNIZED AUTHORITY ON ADVERTISING, SAYS: "AFTER THOROUGH INVESTIGATION OF THE SUBJECT, A LABOR PAPER IS A FAR BETTER ADVERTISING MEDIUM THAN AN ORDINARY NEWSPAPER IN COMPARISON OF CIRCULATION; A LABOR PAPER FOR INSTANCE, WITH A CIRCULATION OF 2,000 IS OF MORE VALUE TO THE MERCHANT WHO ADVERTISES THAN AN ORDINARY NEWSPAPER WITH 12,000 CIRCULATION."

Oscar Ameringer, One of Socialism's Foremost Orators, Coming.

Several hundred tickets have been distributed for sale among the ward branches for a lecture on "Socialism" to be delivered at Federation Hall, No. 121½ East Town Street, 8:00 o'clock p. m., Monday, December 23d, by Oscar Ameringer, one of the foremost Socialist lecturers.

Push the sale of these tickets among your friends and see that they come to hear this able exponent of the cause of Socialism.

Keep the date, the hour and the place in mind and make it ring in the ears of your friends and neighbors until it becomes the byword of all, then come to the hall with them.

This meeting will be the opening gun of our municipal campaign. So let's make it a big one. One that will be a horrible strain on the nervous system of the preesnt city administration, which is going to do all it can to eliminate our party as a political factor in this community.

Oscar Ameringer, who a few years ago lived in Columbus, is now a prominent figure in the National Socialist Movement. Turn out and make Oscar know he is in the old town.

For Your Three Best Friends

HERE IS AN IDEA

Send us the names and addresses of three of your friends whom you think will be interested in Socialism, and we will send them sample copies direct from this office. You might, if you wish, to prepare them for the coming of the paper, write to them as well, and say that sample copies of the Socialist are being sent to them at your request.

This is just a suggestion. If it is too much trouble, don't do it, but we will appreciate it if you do, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have let your friends in on a good thing.

Boosters' Department

By F. E. JOHNSTON

We have accomplished much in the past. We intend to accomplish more in the future. This paper has stood alone in its fight for better conditions for the wards of the state. We have hammered away like a "voice crying in the wilderness," until we have forced the capitalist press to take up the fight. But there is much still to do. There is work ahead for everyone. Capitalism still sits enthroned. Hhis citadel must be battered down. There is no better time to begin to pour in our heavy artillery than now. We want this paper to reach thousands of others who are still in the dark. They can only be reached through consistent and painstaking work on the part of you comrades on the firing line. Get their subs., comrades. Let us educate the heathen. Let us resolve NOW to carry the war into the enemy's country. Every new subscriber means another vote for Socialism next fall. Isn't this worth while working for? And listen! The Socialist expects a Xmas present from every reader. We don't want any charity. There is just one thing that will make us all smile, and that is a bunch of subs. Now, Comrade Reader, don't wait for someone else to send us that Xmas present. If it's only one measly sub., send it in. Load our mail man down Xmas morning and we know that you will then enjoy your Xmas immensely. Start the ball rolling and get a good start for New Year. We wish you all as merry a Xmas as is possible under the capitalist system. AND DON'T FORGET OUR XMAS PRESENT.

Comrades, fire in the subs. this week. Every one get at least one and start things moving in good shape.

In making your Xmas purchases, patronize those merchants who are advertising in your own paper. This is only fair. Do this and that will materially aid us at this office.

Socialism simply proposes that all that now goes to support the idle rich through interest, profit and rent shall be taken from them and be added to the income of those who work. But a majority of the workers are still opposed to accepting it for fear it might bust up their homes.

Some of our contemporaries are publishing the excerpt from Blackstone which shows that there is no foundation in nature for the right of private property. It may be interesting to know that this entire section has been "cut out" in the edition of Blackstone now largely—perhaps the most largely—used by law students.

COMRADES AND READERS.

Show your appreciation by purchasing all your Xmas presents and other goods from merchants whose advertising appears in these columns. This will aid us, as merchants will advertise in papers that produce results. Look through the paper NOW, as we are sure you can secure any article you need from some advertiser in "The Socialist."

GRAND JURY CONFIRMS SOCIALIST EXPOSE OF JAIL

Conditions in County Bastile Are Conducive to Crime.

Several months ago The Socialist called attention to the conditions existing in the Franklin County jail under Sheriff Sartain, under which George Raglan, a prisoner, was killed by Edwin Sanford, another prisoner.

That the rules prescribed by the common pleas judges governing the conduct of the county jail have been flagrantly violated and the officials of the jail are lax in enforcing discipline among prisoners is charged by the grand jury in a report to Judge Evans of the criminal court last Saturday.

The report charges, among other things, that card playing and tobacco using are permitted in the jail; that prisoners are not separated properly in regard to sex and crime; that proper medical attention in cases of injury and sickness has not in all cases been provided; that cells are not provided with Bibles; that order is not preserved among inmates; that interviews are permitted promiscuously; that all prisoners are not properly searched and that "trustees" have been allowed to leave the building unattended.

The report charges, too, that, as a result of lax discipline among inmates, dangerous conditions have been brought about.

"In our opinion, the murder of George Raglan was the direct result of lax discipline existing at the jail," the report says.

Raglan was killed by a fellow-prisoner following a quarrel. He was hit over the head with a table leg by Edward Sanford. Both were colored persons awaiting the action of the grand jury. Sanford was acquitted of the crime of manslaughter. He pleaded self-protection.

INDICT THIRTEEN IN STEUBENVILLE ELECTION QUIZZ

Prominent Men at Steubenville Indicted.

Richard Gilson, postmaster of Steubenville; giving $10 in support of the candidacy of Robert McCleary for county treasurer.

John A. Mansfield, former common pleas judge; using in excess of $350 in his campaign for the office of state representative.

William C. Brown, prosecuting attorney elect; exceeding the amount allowed by law in his campaign for prosecuting attorney.

John G. Belknap, probate judge-elect (two indictments); making false and incomplete statement of expenses incurred in the campaign.

James Gilson, spending $2 for a keg of beer given to a worker in support of the candidacy of his brother, John Gilson.

Henry F. Lawler, justice of the peace, and A. F. Bienier, an election officer; jointly indicted for promising to pay $300 to a worker for voting for Collin H. Smith, candidate for common pleas judge.

Alfred Crippen, soliciting money from E. DeWitt Erskine to work for certain candidates.

NOT A DEAD LEVEL.

Frederick Guy Strickland.

It is the present order that reduces every one to a "dead level." Socialism believes in the individual and would set him free. We want an environment which would give every person his or her opportunity for self-development and self-expression.

How may anyone be at his best when he is forced to live either in want or the fear of want? The finest things in life will have no chance as long as the most of our waking hours must be given to obtaining our daily bread.

Those who want to solve the question of the living do not wish to grow larger stomachs, but larger heads. They want to solve the little problem of eating, so that they may forget their stomachs and cultivate the higher joys.

In a world of equality of opportunity all that is sweet and wholesome in life will be brought to fullest expression. The normal differences between individuals will be maintained on a basis of justice. Each will receive according to his work.

Economic freedom means the freedom of the human head and heart. There will be no intellectual liberty until no man is able to take another man's living away from him. Even the "higher education" is controlled by private endowments.

But the finest emotions of humanity are now enslaved by economic necessity. Religion has been put under obligation to the existing social order. This leads to a dull uniformity in our so-called spiritual culture. The individual human spirit will be bound in fetters until we have established democracy in industry and settled the question of a livelihood for all mankind.

Sweeping charges of a conspiracy to fix arbitrarily the price of butter in the interest of big manufacturers and cold storage concerns and to the detriment of the farmer, other small producers and the consuming public, are made by Attorney General Wickersham against the so-called trust, which he would destroy as a violation of the Sherman law.

The busting of the Standard Oil Trust by this same exalted agency has so far been worth nearly $400,000,000 to Mr. Rockefeller and his associates. The busting of the American Tobacco Trust has so far netted to the trust a trifle of $165,000,000.

SOCIALISTS IN ACTION

News from the World-Wide Movement of the Workers

NEWS FROM NATIONAL SOCIALIST HEADQUARTERS

The vote on the National Executive Committee motion that the National Secretary rent the two floors now used for National Headquarters for two years resulted as follows: Voting yes, Berger and Irvine; voting no, Harriman and O'Harra. The others not voting. No action taken.

The vote on the amendment to rent one floor for one year resulted as follows: Voting yes, Harriman, O'Hare and Spargo. The others not voting. No action taken.

The vote on the motion that the National Secretary republish as the expression of the Socialist Party of America the manifesto issued by the International Socialist Bureau resulted as follows: Voting yes, Harriman and Irvine. The others not voting. No action taken.

Official information has just been received from the International Socialist Bureau that the Vienna International Socialist Congress has been postponed until 1914.

S. Liberty, 1439 Crotona Park, E., New York City, is arranging for a stereopticon slide showing all the Socialist publications in the United States. For this purpose he requests all such publications to send him copies.

State Secretary Dietz of Louisiana reports six locals with a total of 74 members organized in that state during the month of November.

INFORMATION DEPARTMENT.
By Carl D. Thompson.

Subject—General.

The work of the Information Department is determined very largely for the present at least by the demands made upon it by the officials and members of the party. It undertakes to answer the questions that are asked and to gather information on matters submitted. We follow that method, assuming that in this way we shall be most likely to assemble the material most needed by the comrades.

The following subjects will give some idea of the nature of the work so far:

WISCONSIN STATE INSURANCE LAW—In reply to inquiries from comrades, we have secured copies of the Wisconsin State Insurance Law that has just gone into operation. Wisconsin, we believe, is the first state to embark in state life insurance. The Wisconsin Socialists began agitating for this idea many years ago and introduced bills providing for state insurance in every succeeding session of the legislature since 1907. Wisconsin is now engaged in the state insuarnce business and information may be secured from this bureau.

NATURALIZATION—There are many intricate and difficult questions arising in the process of naturalization. A special committee of comrades co-operating with the foreign speaking secretaries is helping to work out information upon these matters. Many inquiries are being received and answered. We have some literature on hand and are prepared to give whatever assistance comrades require along these lines. Meanwhile, fairly complete information may be found in the last National Campaign Book, pp. 346 to 352.

STEREOPTICON SLIDES—Requests for information relative to stereopticon slides are being constantly received. In answer to this we will say that the National Executive Committee has a sub-committee at work collecting information, photographs and slides and will shortly be prepared to submit a report to the committee. This sub-committee will undoubtedly recommend that an exchange should be established here in the National Office, where comrades can secure slides, photographs and stereopticon outfits. It is proposed to handle this material so that it can be either sold or rented to the comrades. For the present we have only those slides which bear upon municipal questions.

MOTHERS' PENSION LAW—Illinois is the first state in America to enact a mothers' pension law. We are collecting information upon this subject and will secure copies of the law and other information upon the matter for those who desire it.

POLL TAX LAW IN THE SOUTH—Comrades in the Southern states complain of the injustice of the poll tax law there which results in disfranchising many of our voters. Some information has already been gathered, but more is needed. Will comrades in the Southern states kindly forward their complaints and whatever information they may have relative to the operation of this law.

MUNICIPAL WATER WORKS—The Socialists of Davenport, Iowa, are making a strong effort to persuade that city to undertake the municipal ownership of its water works. Full and detailed information upon the successful operation of municipal water plants is being furnished them. Reports of the Milwaukee municipal water works and similarly successful plants are being supplied. In addition to this the comrades have requested the manager of the bureau to come to Davenport to speak upon this subject at a mass meeting to be held on Sunday, January 5th.

CO-OPERATION — The department is gathering information upon the practical and successful methods of co-operative stores and enterprises. Nearly everyone has an abundance of information on the theory and history of co-operation. What is most needed, however, is practical and definite information as to the actual operation of co-operative stores. A very large majority of all co-operative enterprises fail because of lack of this information.

We believe that we are getting hold of some of this necessary information and will, of course, gladly supply it to any of the comrades who need it. But we need still more and urge those who have had long years of successful experience in this country in co-operative enterprises to give us the benefit of their judgment and information.

TEACHERS' BUREAU — Some time ago an effort was made to establish a bureau at the National Office to help the Socialists who were members of school boards to find teachers who were Socialists. The work was quite successful and many school boards were enabled to find the kind of teachers they desired and a number of Socialist school teachers were assisted to find employment with school boards seeking such persons.

It is now suggested that this bureau be turned over to the Information Department. With our present force we would not, of course, be able to do very much in this direction. However, we will be very glad to receive the applications of Socialist members of school boards who desire to employ Socialist teachers. We will also be glad to receive the names of Socialist teachers who desire employment with boards made up of their comrades. The names and addresses of both may be sent to this office and we will render what assistance we can with our limited resources.

POLICE AND FIRE ALARM SYSTEMS—We have been asked for information as to the best fire and police alarm systems and the best method of dealing with this problem. The Socialists in the administration at Milwaukee gathered considerable information upon this subject and we shall be glad to give the comrades such information as we have. The question of the consolidation of the police and fire alarm systems and the best type of equipment is one that requires considerable careful investigation.

A MOLDERS' VICTORY.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 14.—Last July the molders in several of the foundries in this city inaugurated a strike for the purpose of establishing a uniform and living wage in the foundries. Since that time a number of concerns have entered into an agreement with the molders and the men have returned to work under a better wage scale and shorter hours. Within the last week another victory has been secured by the execution of an agreement with a company of considerable importance in this city. While there are other firms still contesting the demands of the molders, the success already achieved by the strike is an indication that an early adjustment in all the foundries now out may be looked for.

The Bible says the wages of sin is death. That appears about right. As capitalism is a sin and the wages that the workers get means a sure early death.

The fellow who throws out his chest and says, "I have no enemies," is usually a fellow that has been brought up in the "dull boob school."

HOLLY GROVE.

Editor of Labor Argus. Dear Editor: I will try and tell you a few of the things that happen here in the strike field. December 3rd, there was a transportation of five men went to Kingston on Paint Creek. When they found there was a strike on they started to leave, but were arrested and taken back. The superintendent said to them: "You fellows must think I was born yesterday, but I will show you, so get some tools and get in the bank and pay for your transportation before you leave here." They worked one day and that night slipped off and walked to Holly Grove, 21 miles, without any breakfast. I want to tell you they were men of the right stripe. They told us they did not want the U. M. W. of A. to pay their way home. They said, "boys, give us something to eat and we will get home all right.

They were farmers from Wayne County, W. Va. The man that brought them here, told them he did not want them to go to Paint Creek or Cabin Creek, and that there was no trouble where they wanted them to go. When they got to Cabin Creek the guards came to them and said; "don't get scared, there is some soldiers here, but we don't get off here." When they got to Paint Creek Junction the guards told them to get off there and hurry to catch the other train and not have anything to say to anyone.

December 5—There was a transportation of 13 men went up Paint Creek. They were well guarded by Holly Grove by 22 soldiers and one officer. When they got above Holly Grove the soldiers got off the train and walked back to Paint Creek Junction where they are stationed. Holly Grove must be an awful bad place. There was one negro woman on the train crying like her heart would break. We felt sorry for the woman and children for when they saw the soldiers and the people living in tents of course they knew there was something wrong, but we could not speak to them and tell them we were striking for a living wage; for if we had, that would have meant five years in the penitentiary for the one that said it; but they all came back out of the creek the next day except two negroes and their wives. The military doctor inspected the tents and found them all in good shape. He pronounced everything sanitary.

Friday night a man going up the Creek to work fell under the train and got both feet cut off. He was taken to Paint Creek hospital, where he died. They think he is the man that has been bringing in transportation men.

Hoping our troubles will soon be over, I am, as ever,

JAMES SCOTT.

DESTITUTE MINERS ASK CITY FOR AID

Wheeling W. Va.—Claiming that they were virtually held as slaves in the mining camp of south-west Virginia, 35 men from Olean, N. Y., have applied to local authorities for aid.

The men arrived here penniless and half starved and since their arrival have been fed by local people. They tell a tale of horrors that reminds one of the mines of Siberia.

The men claim that they were employed by a New York employment agency to accept good positions in West Virginia. That after their arrival in the coal fields they were housed in tents that had no stoves, were given unfit food to eat, and were prevented from leaving the camps by armed men. Finally the men, numbering 80 or more, threatened to fight their way out and were allowed to go.

They say that peonage in its worst form exists in the mines of West Virginia and that none of them received a cent of wages for the time they did work.

Federal officials have been appealed to, and it is likely that there will be an investigation by government authorities. The men are not all laborers, many of them claiming to have left excellent jobs at home in order to come to what was represented to them as a new Eldorado. Union railroad men allowed them to ride on the trains without pay.

THE AGE OF PEACE.
Frederick Guy Strickland.

The Socialists stand with all the poets and prophets in demanding peace. But what they dream about we are going to accomplish in fact. The Communist Manifesto says: "In proportion to the antagonism between classes within the nation vanishes, the hostility of one nation to another will come to an end."

Since class struggles are the fundamental cause of all the wars, those whose task and mission it is to abolish the class struggles will just as certainly abolish war.

Like all true prophets and poets, we place the golden age of humanity not behind us, but before us. Nor do we remove it to some other life, but make it an accomplishment for ourselves or our children.

It is not merely the word of the dreamers alone that our golden age is in the future of the race. This is also the work of science, both in the field of biology and of sociology. We are evolving to the higher type.

To arrive at the city of our dreams it will be necessary to gather the workers of the world together in the broadest sort of fraternity. The old distinctions must be laid aside. The workers of the world MUST UNITE! That will be the beginning of the "Christian Age" that is promised. Even religion feels the urge of the times and longs to bring down its paradise out of the skies, even as the Revelator saw the beautiful and perfect city "coming down out of heaven."

LEGAL NOTICE.

Harry Bazor, whose residence is Portsmouth, New Hampshire, U. S. A. Southery, will take notice that on November 22, 1912, Maud Bazor filed her petition in the Common Pleas Court, Franklin County, Ohio, No. 64276, praying for a divorce from him on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. Said cause will be for hearing on and after January 10, 1913.

GRAFTING AT DAYTON FIRST EXPOSED BY SOCIALIST PAPER

Grand Jury Gets Busy After Election and Indicts Two Men.

In a partial report submitted to the Montgomery County grand jury, which was convened in special session to investigate alleged municipal graft and gambling, two true bills of indictment were returned last Saturday afternoon.

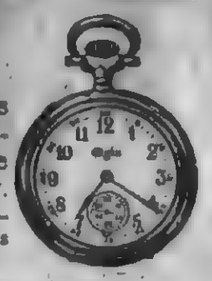
One of the indictments charges uerJury against Horace Neibert, bartender and night clerk at the Ware Hotel, on Fifth Street, at which Detective O'Neil stopped when in Dayton as one of the six sleuths operating here to uncover shady transactions. The Ware Hotel is owned and managed by Robert J. Paul, street, superintendent, and it is alleged that it was the rendezvous for officials, who, it is said, were "caught" by sounding machines. The second indictment was secret.

Then comes our esteemed contemporary, The Miami Valley Socialist, saying that it really exposed the graft and grafters in the street department, giving names, places, dates, amounts—all backed up by affidavits and the records in the city auditor's books. Our Miami Valley comrades have been doing noble work, but it is a thankless job, for when we have compelled attention to existing evils the capitalist papers—after election—jump to the job and get the credit. That's all right, let it go.

METHODIST PREACHER GIVES LECTURE ABOUT SOCIALISM

Rev. C. E. Chandler of Indianola M. E. Church Is Heard on West Side.

Rev. C. E. Chandler of the Indianola M. E. Church gave a lecture at the West Park M. E. Church Monday evening on the subject of "Christianity and Socialism."



In the course of his lecture, admitting an admiration for Roosevelt and citing him as a great force for social reform, he said: "Roosevelt is like a jackass who refuses to go into a barn face forward and who has to be turned about and backed in."

He characterized the postoffice, public schools and waterworks systems as industries that had been socialized and said he could see no reason why the street car systems, the telephone systems, gas service and other things that are natural monopolies should not be socialized, by which he meant public ownership. Socialism, he said, does not propose to take property without due compensation. He read a clipping from a local newspaper, in which a correspondent said that a Socialist had no loyalty to his country to bind him and that all Socialists, everywhere, were on the same plane, bound together to destroy government when it stood in their way. "That man," he said, "is no Socialist, he is an anarchist."

Rev. Mr. Chandlr said he found no reason why a man could not be loyal to his home, his country, his church and his friends and still be a true Socialist. The doctrine of economic determinism, which he said he had approached with the feeling that it might be atheist, he had found truly scientific, and he admitted that the laws of natural economy did tend toward brotherhood, as well as the teachings of the New Testament.

"Selfishness and Socialistic ideals cannot exist together; if Socialism comes its leaders will not come from the party leaders of today. They must be men who have training and unusual natural ability. I am against bringing Socialism by force, but I believe that for self-protection we must socialize some of our industries. I believe Socialism blunders in cutting itself off from spiritual sanctions, in ignoring certain laws of human nature and in the false reading it gives to equality. Nevertheless, we must recognize that its ideals of a regenerated society are Christian ideals and that the movement represents a mistakeen, but passionate, desire for the kingdom of God."

STEREOTYPERS ELECT OFFICERS.

The local Stercotypers' Union No. 14 has elected the following officers: T. K. Hatfield, President; A. Murphy, Vice President; B. Loudenslager, Secretary-Treasurer; Tom Johnson, Harry Hymrod, Wm. Jackson and Frank Jackson, Executive Board.

COMRADE WARREN SPEAKS ABOUT COMMISSION PLAN.

Comrade C. E. Warren, member of Council, gave an interesting talk at the Thirteenth Ward branch meeting, last Tuesday evening, on the commission form of municipal government. This is a subject that must be considered by Socialists and Comrade Warren gave some good ideas on the topic.

DO YOU DANCE?

If you do and want to have an evening full of pleasure, attend those dances at Varian Hall, No. 7 East Town Street every Thursday night.

Big crowds is the proof that you will have a good time.

Last Thursday the hall was packed to the doors. Follow the crowds.

COLLECTION OF DUES.

The collection of dues is progressing in spite of the lack of co-operation from the membership. Every ward in the city will be canvassed.

By this method we are re-enlisting those who permitted themselves to get more than a year in arrears in their dues and bolstering up the others. By keeping them in the fold they are in an environment that creates Socialists. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." You see the point; you see the good. So turn out next Sunday and help and to be sure that you will not be one of only a few bring another member with you.

The work next Sunday will be in the Third Ward and you will report at No. 108½ South High Street not later than 9:30 a. m.

SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS.

The School of Economics was well attended last Saturday evening and is doing real constructive work along educational lines. The subject of "Wealth" was ably discussed by Comrades Bues and Woody.

The subject for this Saturday evening is "Values." The sub-heads are, "Real Value," "Use Value," "Exchange Value," "Surplus Value," "Fictitious Value," "Supply and Demand," and "Money." Under "Fictitious Value" you have "Watered Stock" and "Monopoly." Money to be construed as a measure of value and a medium of exchange.

It is very encouraging to see so many of the comrades attending this school. It speaks well for the personnel of the Socialist movement in Columbus. The vast crowds in attendance every meeting are but an exemplification of the spirit of charity and self-sacrifice that possess them. And in thinking of those who have not attended, the writer sometimes wonders what it is that caused them to join the organization. What particular whim, or what self-exaggerated injustice did they expect to satisfy?

W.

A MONUMENT TO HIMSELF.

Andrew Carnegie is trying to erect another monument to himself by providing money to furnish a pension of $25,000 per year to ex-presidents of the United States or their widows.

When a man has had a salary of $75,000 per year, $35,000 per year beside for incidental expenses and a mansion to live in free of rent, for a period of four years or more, he ought not to be a pauper. And if he must receive a pension, let the United States government give it, not a private millionaire whose money has already done too much to corrupt and control government.

And if Mr. Carnegie desires to give money for pensions, let him pension the broken down old men, widows and orphans whom his mills have impoverished and crushed. The money rightfully belongs to them, not to him.

Carnegie has gravely misread the Bible. Jesus did not say sell all that thou hast and give it to the RICH. He said, "and give it to the poor."

Twenty-five hundred dollars per year would save the poor, and he could thus help ten times as many families who need it a hundred times more and to whom he is a thousand times more under obligation.

Carnegie should be held up to world-wide ridicule and condemnation for his selfish, ambitious, stage-play "charities."

If he really wants to escape the hell of Dives, there are many ways in which he can spend his money for the poor. And if he does not find these ways, let him meet his just fate and "weep and howl for the miseries that shall come upon him" on account of his ill-gotten and ill-used wealth.

A Hint Not Intended.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is doing one public service of which he is unconscious. Yes, absolutely unconscious. He is reducing to the absurd the theory that any single man should be permitted to exercise unlimited dominion over hundreds of millions of dollars. If immense wealth is a trust, society owes it to itself to devise a better way than it now takes in the selection of trustee.—Chicago Tribune

TERRIBLE BLIND SPELL CAUSED BY HEADACHES

Wheeling Woman's Intense Headaches Would Cause Her to Go Blind During Their Periods.

CURED BY UNITED DOCTORS

Complication of Ailments That Caused Serious Results Vanish in One Month.

A statement was made recently by a local physician that the United Doctors, who have their Columbus institute at 27 North Third St., next to the Bell Telephone Bldg., between Broad and Gay Sts., must hypnotize their patients to obtain testimonials from people he knew were absolutely incurable. This amusing information was given to the United Doctors by a friend who had heard the remark.

Regarding the above statement it would likely seem impossible to the average physician for the United Doctors to obtain testimonials from sick people who are incurable under any single system of medicine that the average doctor practices—but the United Doctors do not practice any one particular system of medicine, for they have their own "United" system, or rather have united the three recognized systems of medicine, viz.: The Allopathic, Homeopathic and Eclectic systems into one "United" system of medicine, whereas the average doctor practices but one of the three systems and can, therefore, give the patient the benefit of but one-third of the medical knowledge known to cure him.

To illustrate this better, we will take for example any case. A patient may actually be incurable under the Allopathic's method of treatment, but may be readily cured under the Eclectic or Homeopathic methods. Very often the only cure an Allopath might know for a certain ailment is an operation. Yet this same patient might be cured by a simple remedy of one of the other schools of medicine. Combining the three methods gives a "United Doctors" naturally a tremendous advantage over any single system. With this the United Doctors have scores of their own private formulas with proven value through years of use and in thousands of cases in their different institutes. Newly gleaned medical experiences from one institute is transmitted to another. Consultation on extraordinary cases is obtained from other institutes and in this way the patient obtains the maximum service, the best remedies at the minimum cost.

In these columns have appeared many scores of testimonials voluntarily given to the United Doctors from all sections of the country showing that the United Doctors are accomplishing in their other institutes as great cures of chronic ailments as they are accomplishing in Wheeling. The following testimonial is a slight sample of what is being done in Wheeling:

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 19th, 1913.

Dear Dostors—"I wish to write and let you know how I am getting along since I began your treatment one month ago.

"You remember I had continual pain under my shoulder blades, and every five or six days would get such intense headaches that I would go blind during this period. I had a bad cough, was very short of breath and my kidneys were bad, also.

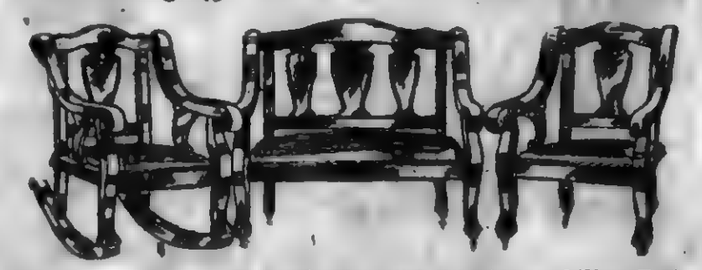
"I am writing to let you know that I am now entirely free from pain. I have only had one headache since starting treatment, and my cough is better now than it has been in fully twenty-five years. My kidneys are wonderfully improved, and I can now lie in any position, which formerly I found to be impossible. I did not expect such fine results.

"Publish this, and I trust others will be benefited as much as I have been.

"Wishing you success always, I remain. Yours Gratefully,

"MRS. JOHN HERCULES.

"R. F. D. No. 1, Wheeling, W. Va."



The United Doctors treat all forms of chronic ailments, including diseases of the nerves, blood, heart, liver, bladder, kidneys, also rheumatism, epilepsy, gall stones, goitre, rupture, varicocele, eczema, constipation, weak lungs, catarrh, deafness, dropsy, scrofula, asthma, dyspepsia, and diseases of women and diseases of men. Vol. IV Whole No. 159 COLUMBUS, OHIO, JANUARY 3, 1914 Price, 2 Cents per Copy

SUPPRESSED INFORMATION

The following curious document was drawn up and passed by about 25 citizens of Columbus at a meeting in the office of Attorney M. E. Thrailkill some time ago.

We say "curious" document because it showed the real feeling in this city toward the Kurb-Kinnear, Ross-Joyce gang, and shows how any thing detrimental to the interests of the administration can be hushed up. The following is a true carbon copy of the original and had one signature.

The original or first copy had over one hundred signatures. No daily paper has as yet said a word about this matter. An excuse that they know nothing about it don't go, because it is their business to get the news, which they always do, and then suppress anything detrimental to the interest of the masters they serve. The resolution is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, citizens and taxpayers, interested in the welfare of Columbus, and in the welfare of the flooded district on the West Side of our city, hereby declare:

1. We demand that the city of Columbus take some immediate, but sensible and feasible steps toward providing protection from inundations on the West Side of our city.

2. Already eight months have passed and our officials have no adopted plan, no fixed idea, not even blue prints, for our much needed public improvement. We greatly deplore this unnecessary delay.

3. We most strenuously object to the expenditure of $5,000 by our city officials in employing real estate agents to take options on certain lands in the vicinity of May Avenue for the purpose of said channel improvement. We regard the expenditure of said $5000, at this time, when we have no settled plans, and no fixed ideas where the channel is to be located, as a wanton waste of public funds. Options can be obtained as cheaply, and as reasonably, after plans have been adopted, as they can at this time.

4. We do not believe that the West Side citizens owning lands on May Avenue and vicinity will try to hold up the city on options, after the channel has been located in that route if it is ever located there.

5. We cannot understand the feverish desire of certain officials to carry forward Alvord's Plan No. 7, since it has been repudiated by the people at the polls. We view this concerted action and undue haste with considerable suspicion. In this connection, we do not forget that the east bank of this proposed new channel connects directly with, and will become a part of the proposed boulevard system up the Olentangy River, that will double the value of some hundreds of parcels of real estate now owned by certain forward-looking politicians who also now hold many options. We denounce any man, or set of men, who would take advantage of a great disaster to our city, to enrich themselves.

6. It strikes us as suspicious, at least, that certain favored politicians should have obtained options as now disclosed on real estate which is directly in line with this proposed public improvement, and are now taking steps to push forward the adoption of Alvord Plan No. 7 by getting options on real estate along May Avenue and vicinity.

7. We demand that our public officials take immediate steps to compel all persons encroaching upon the river bank to remove their obstructions and encroachments. We demand that these steps be taken immediately in order to avoid a recurrence of our recent disaster, while we are formulating our proposed public improvement.

8. We demand that any temporary improvement or protection now made shall be in the line of a general policy and to become a part of the permanent improvement when it is made.

9. We believe if all embankments and approaches to public bridges, or railroad bridges, were removed and additional spans of bridging put in, on the public roads or streets or by the railroad companies, so as to widen the channel, it would greatly lessen the danger from flood. We believe that all encroachments should be removed from the river channel, or banks; and that steps should be taken immediately to accomplish that purpose. Why delay this important public matter, since it may require months to complete necessary condemnation proceedings.

10. We demand, whatever plans are finally determined upon, and whatever contracts are to be let, and whatever money is to be expended, such contracts shall be let and money expended, by a Nonpartisan Commission of high minded, and thoroughly honest citizens enjoying public confidence.

11. It is our firm belief that spending anything like $8,000,000 or $4,000,000 even, or any other excessive sum would invite enormous grafting and official extravagance.

12. We do not favor creating a new channel in the vicinity of May Avenue, because it will destroy all of our overhead bridge crossings, or render them practically valueless; as the traveller with a vehicle would be compelled to go under the railroad and immediately enter upon a steep ascent to pass over the bridges spanning this new channel. Resulting damages on account of changes of grades will be enormous.

13. We believe if the channel of the river be widened from the west highlands and all obstructions removed, and a high, broad and firm embankment be thrown up on the banks of the rivers, and that the river channels from their junction be widened at least 300 feet farther west and be bordered with a high, broad and firm embankment around Mound Street, and a collateral channel about 300 feet wide be opened up down the old canal bed, from Main Street to Greenlawn Avenue, that such improvement would provide protection for the West Side against flood for all times to come, at a very low and reasonable public expense, or a plan similar to the John A. Conard proposal, will afford ample protection.

14. We own real estate on the West Side, or we have relatives or friends on the West Side, and we demand that our public officials stop log rolling and take some decisive steps to afford protection, at least temporary to the flooded district.

15. We never favored the employment of experts from a foreign state as we have competent engineers at home. That act on the part of our public officials discredited the entire movement, as it placed the said experts beyond the pale of local public opinion. It looked like a pre-conceived plan to foist upon our people, a pre-conceived scheme for a public improvement to help a few individuals and which the people would not, and do not favor."

They Murdered Them

In our issue of December 20th we published an article entitled "Christ our Comrade" in which we called attention to the fact that the master class would on December 25th celebrate the so-called birthday of the Christ they murdered. We called on them not to murder too many of our comrades in Colorado and Michigan on Christmas day, as these miners were all members of the same class—the working class—as that of Jesus.

We knew that the master class was diabolical as hell itself. We knew that they would stoop to anything—murder, rapine, falsehood, or any other damnable method to hold the workers in slavery. We knew all these things, but we admit we did not think these fiends of hell would have the diabolical and ghastly nerve to pull off such a stunt as was pulled off on the striking miners and their little children and women at Calumet, Michigan, Christmas eve.

The story of how some fiend in the employ of the masters cried "fire" during a Christmas celebration by the striking miners and their wives and children, and how in the ensuing stampede 76, mostly children, lost their lives you have already read. You read it and some of you have already forgotten it.

You must not forget. Remember it was members of your class who had their lives and those of their loved ones snuffed out in the twinkling of an eye. How long do you intend to stand idly by and allow such outrages as this to stain the pages of history? Have we not suffered long enough? How much further, how much more arrogant do you intend to allow the masters to become?

If this kind of business is allowed to continue, we can next expect to see the masters blow entire cities where the workers become particularly rebellious.

Remember that they will do anything. They will stop at nothing. They have no fear of God because they do not believe in him. They have no fear of man because they own the thing that man must use in order to live.

That thing they own is the industries on which the people depend for food, clothing and shelter. Shall they continue longer to own these things or shall we end their rule by taking the industries away from them and making them public property? That is the solution and that is Socialism.

Frank Morrison, Secretary of the A. F. of L. made the following charge in commenting on this latest outrage of Republican and Democratic misrule: "It was a dastardly plot, a well thought out, deliberate attempt to break the miners' strike, cost what it may—that is the only conclusion that I can reach."

Now yap some more about Socialists being Anarchists, you good people who lick the boots of the masters.

Let the battle cry of the workers be "Remember Calumet!"

CAPITALISTS ATTEMPT ANOTHER MURDER

And now it is Chas. H. Moyer who must be sacrificed for the cause of labor.

Sitting in his hotel in the Calumet strike district where he was directing the miners strike, he was attacked by hired thugs in the employ of the mine owners, shot three times, then put on board a train and hustled out of town. He is now in Chicago in a hospital under treatment for his wounds.

It is unnecessary to make further comments, because a capitalist class that will murder 76 human beings, mostly children, meeting on Christmas eve to sing songs to the one who said "Suffer little children to come unto me," is beyond any human pen to picture in proper and black enough terms.

So far, we have failed to hear any preacher or priest say a single word in denunciation of these monsters whose boots they lick. Unless they can denounce these hellions in the terms they deserve there will be nothing left for the working class to believe, but that their craven souls are just as black as their masters who pay their salaries.

But it is nothing—the flesh of Chas. Moyer is only the flesh of a working man. What matters a few bullets more or less in such flesh? Go ahead! Let your lawlessness and anarchy reign supreme. It is true you have a defense. The workers vote for such conditions when they vote Republican and Democratic tickets. But such actions as these are awakening them to the fact that they have their own party, and they are coming next fall 2,000,000 strong.

To be sure the Socialists would make times hard. They would ball the whole mess up. If a more conglomerated mess than now exists under the beneficent reign of the lantern-jawed Wilson could be brought about we would actually like to see it. It would be a wonder.

The workers have not a single representative in the Ohio Legislature.

The idle Panhandle employees may think they are capitalists, and not working men, and continue to vote capitalist tickets, but the masters know different.

All aboard for the New Year.

How many subs are you going to take for The Socialist in 1914? Four a week? Fine!

The capitalists celebrate Christmas near the end of the year, which is representative of their system. It's about all in.

We Socialists can celebrate the New Year because it represents our system. It's about here.

Mayor Karb addressed a small bunch at the Christmas tree in front of the state house the evening of December 24th. These were supposed to be Christian people, and yet without a doubt they knew of the disgraceful episode pulled off by Karb near Long and High one midnight about three weeks ago. In place of arresting him and taking him down to the city prison like any other man creating a disturbance, they loaded him into a cab and sent him home. At the same time the citizens who gathered and began to hoot and jeer him were made to move on by the police. What kind of a bunch of Christian people is this that would allow an individual of this kind to address little children who were commemorating the birthday of Jesus? But, of course, Socialists are "anarchists" and "destroyers of religion."

Nine of the 145 working girls who were burned to death in the Triangle Waist Co. fire in 1911 were worth $75.00 apiece. Their families received this magnificent amount.

Of course, John Bonehead, if you come home on Saturday night with $50.00 in your clothes in place of $10.00 it would "break up your home." Jackass!

And then again, if you had plenty of good, wholesome food and clothing it would "destroy your incentive." Your only incentive now is to work for a bare subsidence. Don't you think that culture, books, vacations and all the other good things which Socialism would hold out to you would be incentive, or is it possible you have no desire for the higher and better things of life?

Socialists love the red flag because it spells brotherhood. Did you dubs who are afraid of the red flag know that the battle of Bunker Hill you are so proud to talk about was fought under the red flag? No you didn't. That's because you haven't got brains enough to read up on the history of this country. The red flag has always in all times stood for liberty. The black flag is the flag of anarchy.

Socialism is the most patriotic movement in the world today. It means the world for the workers.

It is conceded to the United States by the rest of the world that in the art and science of making a given number of men in a given number of minutes produce an unforgivable number of tons of anything we are supreme.

Socialism is founded on brotherly love; capitalism upon lust of brotherm.

Socialism is beautiful to understand. Capitalism cannot understand beauty.

Socialism recognizes equality of opportunity for all. Capitalism recognises equality of opportunity for a few.

When Billy Sunday was snorting up and down his scab-constructed pulpit in Columbus recently he was called upon by a committee to donate to the strike fund to help the strikers at Little Falls, N. Y. Billy replied: "I am not interested in those strikes." He was also called upon to help a blind newspaper man and a crippled newsboy. He gave the blind man .25 and the cripple .20. The Socialist has furnished these two unfortunates with papers free for years. Billy is a Christian, and he and his tribe say Socialists are opposed to religion. Let the people judge.

"Ring around a rosey." Did you ever see a dog run around after his tail? Well, that is just like a Democrat and Republican working man. First he votes one ticket and gets stung, then he votes the other and gets burnt. Then he starts in and does the entire process over again. Some canines get tired of running around after their tails after a while, and then their masters catch the end of the tail in their finger, and start twisting the dog around. After they give him a few whirls the fool dog keeps on whirling.

The workers are in the same boat. The masters are now pinching their tails and next year they will start the same old circle. Fools! point your nose straight ahead and the end of your tail straight in the masters' faces.

We wonder how soon the board of health intends to make some of these tumble-down factories, that employ human beings, clean up? Or do the factories own the board of health.

We intend to show up every rascal who opens up his jawbones and knocks Socialism. That is, his private moral or public record, and that regardless of whether he is priest, preacher or politician. We have several nice sweet juicy affidavits lying in our office, just itching for a chance to be published. Let the crooks who they refer to just yap once more about Socialism, and we will publish them if the United States mail will carry them. Capitalism is so rotten that their own mail service will hardly allow one to tell the truth about them.

We note that "Blackie" Karb has ordered Sam Kinnear to report any bond issue he may want passed to his honor? the mayor. Well, by the time they both get done with it, it will be boosted clean out of sight. It takes lots of money to buy beer and whiskey.

"Scabs" Scarce

If the human scab herders, who are turning hell upside down, trying to get scabs enough to run their plant down at the Federal Glass Co., think in this manner to keep the plant going until they can starve the boys into line, they are sadly mistaken, and up a stump.

The boys have been out since last June and out of 145 only 3 have returned to work. The Union pays the boys strike benefits each week and furthermore the National Treasury of the Union has $15,000 more on hand now than when the strike started.

The company has begun to weaken, as they [illegible] among the men, promising them union wages if they [illegible] Secretary [illegible] individually, without demanding recognition of the Union. It is needless to state that the boys listen to this merry chin music and then politely consign the said emissaries to a warmer climate.

Organizers Jospeh O'Malley and Joseph Gillooly who have charge of the situation for the strikers, are well liked by the men for their clean personality and executive ability, demonstrated on all occasions.

An amusing feature of the situation is the manner in which the company is attempting to make it appear to the public that the strike is practically over. Last week one of their journals reported "that only part of the men had gone out and that they will be running full force soon." The fact is that in all this time that the strike has been on, they are only able at this time to keep about 16 "shops" going, a shop requiring 2 men. Out of the 32 scabs only 4 are really competent, the balance being pick-ups and are the lowest bums and professional strike breakers in the country. They are paying them $4.50 per day.

In order to keep these men from meeting the Union pickets the company has constructed a "barracks" in which about 30 cots are kept and the scabs are fed and then put to bed at the company's expense.

Secession from the ranks of the strike breakers is a not unusual thing, as nearly every week some of them desert and come over to the Union.

Little violence has occurred, as the strikers have conducted themselves in an orderly and peaceful manner.

Occasionally a scab wanders away from the barracks and some of the strike sympathizers give him some rough handling. This, however, is the exception.

On the whole the boys are prepared to fight it out to a successful conclusion if it takes ten years. They have the finance, they have the fighting spirit of their revolutionary fathers. They stand together like a stone wall, showing a splendid example of working class solidarity.

A CAPITALIST LIE.

The Capitalist Press Christmas day in large bold headlines made the following remarkable announcement: "Snow and Charity helping to make Merry Christmas." "Every person who needed anything in Columbus Thursday got it."

Is that so? We can assure the daily capitalist liars that not one person in five hundred got what they needed. Today and for the past three weeks there has been between eight and ten thousand men out of work in this city. They were out of work the day the capitalist press printed this lie. These men needed a job. Did they get it? Their wives and babies needed the things that could have been bought if Pa had had a job. Did they get them? If everyone got what was needed why did everyone on the street look so glum and down hearted? Why was the spirit of good cheer lacking in the Christmas festivities this year? It was because there was no good cheer. Your damnable "charity" the working class accepted only because of their dire necessity.

If the truth was known about your capitalist charity it would be found that twice as much was grafted as went to those for whom it was intended.

Charity forsooth! You make us sick! You give us a pain! You uphold a system that makes nine-tenths of the people homeless in a land of plenty. Only one person in ten actually owns a home. You uphold a system that robs the producer of seven-eighths of the wealth his hands and brains create. You uphold a system that puts the people constantly at the mercy of a few bloated, mercenary, depraved, lacivious and licentious money bags.

And then you talk to us of charity. While the workers may accept it, they spurn the hand that passes it out. Why is it the workers who must always accept "charity?" Why don't you start out East Broad street with a basket of cheap slop or some old cast off clothing. Stop at some of those mansions the workers built and pass in some grub. Go on, they need charity? Bah! The fact is that the working class keep them year in and year out. We don't stop with a basketfull of grub. We're not quite so cheap. We believe in doing the thing up right. We hand out mansions to them while we live in rented hovels. We hand them out nice juicy vacations while we work long hours that they may enjoy themselves. We present them with broadcloth while we wear shoddy and overhalls.

But we're tired of it and in the future we are going to take the reins into our own hands and end both kinds of charity, because we have been coming out at the little end of the horn.

In the days that are to be if you masters want anything you will go to work and earn it or starve. Your charity has got on our nerves and we intend to stop it by chopping down the tree of capitalism at the root and installing a new system.—Socialism.

WHY RAILROAD MEN SHOULD ALL BE SOCIALISTS

By Eugene V. Debbs.

There are nearly wo million men employed on the railroads of this country. These men are engaged in public service which is inherently dangerous and which calls for the exercise of mental and physical qualities of a high order. Year by year the duties and responsibilities of these men have been increased with no corresponding increase in their compensation. While the railroads have been compelled by the force of law, enacted through the demands of an aroused public sentiment, to equip their cars and locomotives with safety appliances, the use of which has somewhat mitigated the worst horrors of railway slaughter, the intensity of labor has so increased that the dangers of railway employment as a whole have not decreased and the total of accidents to employes increases year by year. Within the past few years there has been a wonderful expansion of railroad business, which has resulted in the crowding of tracks and terminals and the use of heavier equipment and longer trains, thus introducing new elements of risk; and this enormous absolute increase in railroad traffic has been accompanied by a relative decrease in the number of men directly employed to handle it.

In 1893, for instance, the average number of tons in a train was 184; in 1911 this had increased to 383 tons, or more than double what it was in the earlier year. The number of tons carried for each trainman employed in 1893 was 5,085; in 1911 the number was 8,046, an increase of 2,961 tons per man. The number of tons carried one mile for each trainman employed in 1893 was 638,635; in 1911 the number was 1,146,133, an increase of 507,498 ton miles per man. The number of cars in train for each trainman employed was eight in 1893 and ten in 1911, an increase of two cars per man. In connection with this increase it should be noted that the high capacity car of 1893 was 40,000 pounds, while at present the ordinary car is of 100,000 pounds capacity.

Coincident with these increased demands upon the men has come a revolution in their legal status. A generation ago railroad employment was considered almost wholly in its private aspect, the same as other industrial employments, and disputes over wages and conditions of employment were regarded as matters only between the men and the railroad managers. Take the great railroad strike of 1877. The public looked upon that struggle as a thing apart. It was regarded as a private quarrel between the railroads and their employes, and the public did not feel called upon to interfere until after mob violence and the destruction of life and property had taken place, and even then the public interest did not go beyond the superficial illegalities which the authorities were called upon to suppress. The merits of the controversy, or first cause of the unlawful proceedings that were so loudly condemned, evoked no discussion of consequence and made no apparent impress on the public mind. Society was content to act its traditional individualistic role of policeman for the simple and only purpose of preserving order between the combatants.

What is there in the present situation that should incline railroad employes to vote for Socialism? In the first place, they are already public servants; government employes in all but name, but without any of those guarantees of security of employment which government employes ordinarily possess. They have been very neatly deprived of their right to make private settlement of their disputes with their employes, as the moment they attempt to force concessions by means of the recognized instruments of private war, namely the strike and the boycott, the government calls a halt to prevent inconvenience to the public.

In the second place, they are compelled to submit to arbitration of their grievances on a basis which is very much to their disadvantage, and which must continue to grow more and more to their disadvantage as time passes. It is noticeable that these wage controversies always turn upon the question of railroad profits. Whether the wage increases demanded are just, and such as the men are entitled to receive, is not so much of an issue as is the ability of the railroads to pay the increased rates and maintain existing payments to bond and stockholders. In short, the labor interest is always made secondary to the property interest. Whenever it can be shown that the railroads are unable to pay the increases demanded, and at the same time maintain the property in good working condition and continue payments of interest and dividends at the current rates, the employes lose their case. It is not so much a question of what the men ought to have as what the railroads can afford to pay. The margin between income and operating expenses, out of which interest and dividends must be paid, is very materially affected by the size of the wage fund, and it is generally by manipulation of that fund, by reducing either the number or compensation of employes, that railroad managers maintain sufficient margin to continue payments to bond and stockholders in times of financial stress.

Within quite recent years we have seen a movement for co-operation between the railroads and their employes to force an increase of rates, on the plea that such an increase was necessary to provide income for the payment of increased wages. This plea was the basis of the application of the railroads for permission to make a general increase on rates, which was denied by the interstate commerce commission last year. The employes supported the application of the railroads by numerous petitions, and by personal appearance of their officials, who argued in favor of the proposed increase before the commission.

The lesson in the situation is that employes are between the devil and the deep sea. With the inevitable expansion of railroad capital interest and dividend payments must progressively increase. A capitalistic government will by no means interfere with these payments, as to do so would violate the law of its being. Neither will a capitalistic government permit an increase in rates except as a dernier resort, as the public, which insists upon the railroads paying unearned incomes to some of its members, also insists upon the maintenance of low railroad rates for the transportation of commodities.

Under the existing system the motive is always to reduce the wage fund to the lowest possible point so as to meet the demands of capital for the payment of unearned income, and it is absolutely futile to expect an increase of wages at the expense of interest and dividends. Capitalization, the investment and reinvestment of surplus income, must continue to absorb the greater part of the fund from which alone railroad wages can be paid, leaving the employes' demand unsatisfied. Under the profit system the labor which actually adds to the wealth of the world is the only thing that cannot be capitalized and made a source of income without personal exertion. This constantly increasing drain of capital upon wealth is the cause of the high cost of living, and the reason why the cost of living cannot possibly decrease so long as capitalism continues to endure. It is also the reason why it is futile for the railroad workers, in common with their brother wage workers in other employments, to hope for any further increase of wages of a substantial nature. Such increase is simply a mathematical impossibility under the methods of capitalism.

Socialism is the only hope of the railroad workers, and they are especially blind, in view of developments during the past decade, if they pursue the will o' the wisp of capitalism in the future.

HOW TO STUMP AN ATHEIST.

If you happen to be an atheist, or in doubt about the existence of God, and some fellow came around and asked you to tell him "how comes it that a red cow which eats green grass can give white milk?" say, wouldn't it jar you?

Perhaps not, if it was asked by a common person. But how would it be if the query was put by a Commoner person—to wit, the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State? Wouldn't that jar you some more?

But that's what W. J. B. says he'll steer the first unfortunate atheist who tackles him up against.

And if the atheist can't answer it—and he probably can't—that proves the existence of God.

And if Bryan can't answer it—and he probably can't either—that also proves the existence of God.

Probably, if the question was put to him, he would answer, as Taft did at Cooper Union, on the question of what was to be done with the unemployed, that God knows. That also proves the existence of God.

Bryan can prove the existence of God by his own ignorance as well as yours, Mr. Atheist. He can prove you an atheist because you don't know, and himself a theist because he doesn't know. It's quite easy. For if you don't know and nobody else knows, it naturally follows that God knows, and therefore the existence of God is proved.

Bryan's God is everything that nobody knows anything about, even himself. His definition agrees with that of the eighteenth century French atheist who defined God as everything we didn't know. It isn't likly that Bryan knows anything of this atheist, or ever heard of him. If he did, of course, he would be bound to disagree with him and invent some other question to stump the atheist with.

If God really knows everything that Bryan doesn't know, we might as well admit that for all practical purposes he is omniscient. All that Bryan knows, subtracted from infinity, wouldn't reduce it perceptibly.

Some day, perhaps, chemical science may be able to tell us how white milk is produced from a combination of red cows and green grasses. When that time comes, W. J. B. will have to formulate his query in another way. He might, for example, ask, "How comes it that a gray jackass, eating long green provinder from a public crib, can emit pink pearls of wisdom?"

That, we take it, would stump any atheist that ever lived.

If it requires ignorance to prove the existence of God, then W. J. B. is in possession of more evidence on that question than any man, living or dead.

All he has to do is to ask Mister Atheist, "How do you account for ME?" and watch the skeptic drop dead in his tracks.

WE ARE SAVED--SAVED

"It is a new proclamation of emancipation—the American wage-earners' emancipation from the slavery of FEAR—that President Wilson signed when he wrote his name on the new currency bill!"

Well, well! How glad we poor suffering mortals are. We are "emancipated from fear," at least that is what Banker Payne says. Yes we wage earners are now saved, saved. Let us get down on our shin bones and offer up a grateful prayer to our lantern jawed father who sets in Washington, thanking him for the latest joke he has pulled off on us—his pet Carreey Hill.

Unlike his new tariff bill which he and Bryan assured us would begin to get in its work about two months after it passed, and which is now a grim joke, this latest fake legislation, (as far as the workers are concerned) is guaranteed to get on the job right away.

Yes, yes! The sweet angel of employment will now unlock the doors of the mills and factories, throw wide the gates, and suffering humanity can all come in and proceed to keep on suffering. Continuing Banker Payne says:

"The passing of the bill means that the bitter blow which used periodically to hit the poor man square in the face—the blow of being thrown out of work indefinitely—will fall no more! It is the fear of that catastrophe—ever present in the wage-earner's mind in former years—from which the new currency bill emancipates him."

"The bitter blow that used to hit the poor man square in the face will fall no more." In the name of all the saints both dead and alive, they actually admit that you have been hit square on the nose in the past.

This will never do. According to all capitalist orators we have always been told in the past that we were the "best off" people on earth. That we had no kick coming, in fact we were simply "dangerous agitators" if we even remonstrated and argued that we were getting punched in the nose by big biz, of which Mr. Payne, banker, is a member. But get this:

"So with the employers, in times of panic like that of 1907. They couldn't find the currency with which to pay their men—and all the time the country was really RICH in all those manufactured goods which currency REPRESENTS.

"The wage-earner was laid off. And, not only did his wage cease, but the banks suspended payment, and he couldn't get at his small savings!"

It seems that the employers couldn't get the money with which to pay their men. Too bad! Too bad! So the idea is to throw open the U. S. Treasury in order that Banker Payne and the balance of his bunch of thieves and highwaymen can at any time call a panic and finish looting the treasury.

And then during the panic of 1907 "the country was really rich in all those manufactured articles which currency represents."

Of course Banker Payne is a member of the ruling class and is not supposed to have any brains, we don't suppose he ever read a book on political economy or tried to reason, if he had he would know that currency represents nothing. Currency is simply a medium of exchange—a short method of bookkeeping. Those manufactured articles of which he speaks represented not currency—but labor. Get that! Labor. Unpaid labor. That was goods that labor had produced on a basis of giving the owner of the tools with which labor worked $10.00 for every $2.00 it got back in the form of wages. Currency never made a single dollar's worth of wealth. In fact before you could even get the currency, labor must first be applied to the raw material in order to manufacture it. As for getting laid off, you will get laid off whenever the market becomes clogged with the goods your hands create and which you are unable to buy back because you are constantly producing $10.00 and getting back $2.00.

All the currency bills Wilson and his bankers pass to fool you will do no good. If it were a good thing for the working class, the bankers would be against it—not for it.

This is a class government run in the interest of the capitalist class and in which the working class have no voice. Any law they may pass will do you no good. The only thing that would help you would be the complete ownership of the industries by the people. Any legislation other than this is a waste of time and money, and labor pays the bill. When do you intend to wake up?

WATCH THE MASTERS EAT

Under "Observations" in the capitalist press of December 23rd there appeared these expressions of capitalistic slush. "I was in New York last Christmas time and down at Madison Square found such a delightful crowd of people—well-to-do, and the poor standing side by side enjoying the light of the Christmas effect."

That crowd must have been dee-light-ed—the rich delighted at the destitution and humiliation of the poor—and the poor delighted at the affluence and arrogance of the rich.

"Even the hungry stood there and joined in the glorious hymns that were sung."

Hell-fire and damnation upon the head of any brute who would essay to perpetrate such a perversion of natural feelings of the poor and especially the hungry, when being elbowed and jostled by the arogant "well-to-do" in ascendancy at such functions. I fthe writer of that article will give us his name and address we will send him, she or it, this paper free for a year.

Glorious hymns indeed when hungry men, women and children sing "Peace on Earth, good will toward men" when there is no peace and there is no good will toward men, unless that peace and good will last longer than one Christmas day, where only the eyes can feast on the "light from the Christmas effects." If such slush as that be Christianity then it is time to blow out the candles and go to bed.

HAMILTON ON THE JOB

Capitalistic sheets are badly worried because the Socialists now have control of the City of Hamilton, Ohio. The Morning Ohio Liar states that the first bad break made by the administration was "to allow the Local of 104 members to dictate the appointments."

This is indeed sad, very sad. In Columbus we have more sense. We allow Jim Ross and John Joyce to do the dictating. We don't believe in Democracy in this neck of the woods. We allow big biz to appoint the administration officers, and furthermore the rank and file can go to hell as fast as having any control over the crooks they elect on Republican or Democratic tickets is concerned.

We Socialists are working under the rotten system of capitalism and go just as far as we can towards getting the government back to the people; consequently we allow those who do the work and carry on the organization to also dictate the policy of elected officials. We consider our elected officials our servants—not our masters.

Furthermore the doors of the Socialist Party are always open. Twenty five cents pays for admission. The rank and file of the Demo-Repo's can't get into their party at all, because they are only considered "Voting Cattle" to be used once a year. Keep your eye on Hamilton. It will be the cleanest, most honest free from graft, administration ever had in that city.

THE FLYING SQUADRON

Belcher still holds the belt for largest number of subs turned in at one time, same being 36. Who will be the first to make it 37? Naturally Belcher is crowing and all puffed up, and we would like to see some one clip his wings. We predict that before long either the West Side or South End will set a new record.

This week we strike our pace once more. Last week was a little dull on account of Christmas, but this week is up to the standard again. Subs! Subs! Subs! They come in on every mail. The boys bring them up in bunches of from 4 to 15. It is glorious! It shows that Socialism is far from dead in this city. It was only asleep for a brief instant. We set the mark at 10,000 in Columbus by next October. We are convinced that with a circulation like this in the city we can send a worker to Congress.

Do your share. Keep up the work. Urge others to bring in the Subs. Let's get our machine in proper working order and carry this county. We can do it. Who will beat Belcher next week?

You Comrades out in the state, now is the time to get your neighbor to read. Send in a club of 4 or more, and start something in your locality. On with the good work!

* * *

Comrade Harnish, Dayton sends in a club of 4 and says, "I am glad to learn and see your efforts to publish the paper. That is the way to increase the vote."

* * *

Comrade Solomon, Sunbury, Ohio, hands us M. O. for $1.25 with instructions to place the enclosed 5 names on for 40 weeks. Did we? "We should worry!"

* * *

Comrade Peyton, Carpenter, Ohio, R. F. D., encloses check for $1.00 for 4 40 weeks' subs, whose names were enclosed. Those boys out in the state are sure on the job.

* * *

Comrade Sweet brings in a list of 15 and says he "got them all in half an hour." We wonder what would happen to Capitalism if Comrade Sweet would devote a whole day to taking subs?

* * *

Comrade Swank, Westerville, O., forwards his check for $1.00 for four and hands us the following cheering message: "May your shadow never grow smaller. May the leaven of Socialism leaven the whole lump of lunkheads in time save." He is getting on the job to help put a Congressman across from this district.

* * *

Comrade Cochrun never misses a chance to land a bunch. He is always on the job.

* * *

Comrade Richards has put on 21 new ones in the past three weeks.

* * *

Comrade Meadows puts on four including his own, and says that since he is getting along in years his ambition is that when he passes on to have his red card lying near his heart.

AMERICA.

Rewritten to Fit Present Conditions by J. M. Hughes.

My country, 'tis of thee,
Dark land of misery,
Of thee I sing.
Land where the rich may ride,
Land where the poor must hide;
From every mountain side,
Their wailings ring.

My native country, thee
A land that ought to be
A land of love.
But graft and greed is rife,
Turmoil and bitter strife,
And few to value life
Save God above.

Let justice swell the breeze
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song.
Let all who sleep awake!
Let all who WORK partake,
Let thieves and grafters quake
And rue their wrong.

Our Father's God! to Thee,
We pray for liberty;
To Thee we bring
Our wrongs in all these years,
Our hopes, our doubts and fears,
Our sorrows and our tears,
Great God, our King.

BILL SUNDAY IS THERE.

The dismal, smoky city of Pittsburg is one of the most susceptible places for the incubation of "Religious bookworms" of any place known to us. Every condition favorable for the incubation of that dread disease is there present. Superstition, ignorance, prejudice, bigotry arrogance all combined to produce a mental fog equal to the fog produced by climatic conditions. Only one light points the way out of the dismal gloom, and that is the beacon light of Socialism.

The boss owns the tools. He never fires himself. If you workers owned your own tools it is quite likely that you would have a pretty steady job.

A vote for Socialism is a vote for home, country and fireside.

We will bet that if the Angel Gabriel would come down on earth and give us a chance at him, we would make a soap boxer out of him in short order.

Why do you not own the products of your hands after you have made them? It is because someone else owns the tools you work with, and the owner of the tools owns the product. Vote for Socialism and the ownership of the tools.

Under chattel slavery the worker was owned. Under capitalism he is rented. Under the first the master had to protect his property; under the second he is free from all care when the workers' hours are over.

Nothing is ever finished. Government will advance beyond what it is. It will also probably advance beyond what it will be next. There is no stopping place on the road to perfection, because for every good there is always a better.

A Frenchman has been found who has no brain, and he is advertised as a curiosity. Nothing strange about that.—Columbus Dispatch.

For once a capitalist paper told the truth. The existence of capitalist papers which employ editors of said sheets is plenty of evidence that there is "nothing strange" about this French "curiosity." This brand of brainless galoots who sell their souls and bodies on the altar of capitalist greed, that a working class may be held in serfdom are about the vilest of the vile. We have yet to find a capitalist editor with either any brains or manhood.

When the working class awakens to the bunk that is being palmed off on them by the fake legislation of the Jackass party, they will let out a roar that will be heard around the world.

You can not afford to miss hearing Comrade Creel. Come out, sure, Monday night. The admission is only ten cents—one dime—the tenth part of a dollar. Meeting at 121½ East Town Street.

The Ohio capitalist legislature is next on the program. Nail down everything in sight and put a gatling gun in the front yard.

RALSTON'S SLAUGHTER HOUSE.

The terrible working conditions existing at the Ralston Steel Car Co. should cause an immediate investigation by the proper authorities. Not a day passes that some of the workers are not injured. The injured are simply taken to the paint house, where a paint mixer doses the injury with a little iodine, throws on a bandage, and turns them out.

Many go back to work in unfit condition, because if they lay off any length of time they lose their jobs. This slave pen should be made to clean up or close up. Will the state authorities take this matter up? We think not, because that would be striking at profits.

$1.00 FREE! FREE $1.00

For several weeks we have been running an advertisement offering to send this paper free to any wage slave who has nerve enough to admit he voted for "Blackie" Karb. Evidently the slaves are either ashamed to admit it or our offer was not large enough. Consequently, we have decided to make the following attractive offer:

To the first wage slave who will apply at this office and admit he voted for Karb, we will hand him the sum of $1.00 in United States currency, for which we will take his receipt. This ought to be a special inducement, as most of the said slaves now have an exceeding emptiness in the region of the belt, and no doubt the dollar will come in handy. Our reasons for making this substantial offer is that we are extremely anxious to look into the face of any such slave as it must be a most entrancing countenance.

Why Don't You Go Slumming Out on East Broad Street and Study Up on the Vagrants Out There?

London, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Francis H. Sayre, daughter of President Wilson will devote herself seriously to social betterment work upon her return to the United States. She is studying methods now in force in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre have made several excursions into the slums of the east end and have inspected charitable institutions. Her plans for today include a visit to White Chapel.

There is a striking diversity in the environment of the Sayres. They are being entertained by rich and influential families one day and probably the next is spent among the vagrants of the east end in studying charitable systems.

FREE SAMPLE COPIES!

Beginning Jan. 1st, 1914, we will mail sample copies in bundles of 5 or 10 to those who will secure subscribers, and single copies to all names and addresses sent in from Franklin county. Help to boost the county campaign.

COURTS IN CONTEMPT.

For years the people of this country have been held in contempt by the courts upon the least provocation and got away with it until the Socialist press grew to such proportions as to defy these indignities of the courts.

As evidence of the right of the people to hold the courts in abject contempt we here cite an instance where the Police Court in New York fined Gustave Kotch $3.00 for telling his own child the truth about Santa Claus. The chief witness, it was stated in the capitalist press, was the sister-in-law. We would like to know what right a sister-in-law has over a parent in the teachings of the child, especially when the sister-in-law wants to lie, to deceive and defraud the child by telling it a lot of damnable rot about a fabricated myth?

BREAKING UP THE HOME.

Before election each year the apologists for the capitalist system yell loud and lustily that "Socialism would break up the home." This is eagerly seized on by capitalist papers and the cry is repeated in all its variations.

The fact is, that if capitalism continues much longer there won't be any homes to "break up" when Socialism gets here.

In the closing days of the Common Pleas Court of this county just before Christmas, twenty-four divorces were granted. Twenty-four homes broken up by capitalism. The same day less than half the marriage licenses were granted that were issued the corresponding day the year before.

Dolts! Blockheads! Keep right on like a parrot echoing the cry of your masters and their ready tools that "Socialism will break up the home." If you would investigate you would find that these individuals have a purpose in lying about Socialism and that reason is that Socialism would set YOU free and PROVIDE YOU WITH A HOME. At the same time it would make these liars and deceivers go to work and earn an honest living in the sweat of their own brow. Kick them off your back. No leach ever willingly got down off the back of anything as long as there was any blood left in the body to which it was attached. Throw them off your back!

UNCLE SAM NOW NOTICES HIS SOCIALIST CHILDREN.

We are always glad to get a letter from Uncle Sam. Uncle didn't use to notice his Socialist children at all, but they have been raising so much heaven (?) lately that he wants to humor them. Or is it possible that a party which polled one vote in every 14 in this United States and 1 vote in every 10½ in Ohio is now demanding recognition? Uncle Sam is a sly old dog and we are inclined to believe that he wants to be on good terms with us when we move on to Washington. The following communication from the government is however of interest, and we urge those comrades in towns covered by this civil service act to get in and get the post office. It is a strategic point.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Editor The Socialist.

Sir:—The Commission incloses herewith a copy of the schedule of examinations for fourth-class postmaster to be held in your state in compliance with the order of the President of May 7, 1913, requiring examinations for postmaster at all fourth-class post offices where the annual compensation is as much as $180 and where the present incumbent was not appointed in accordance with the civil service regulations.

The Commission has no appropriation out of which to pay for advertising, but it is believed that this matter will be of sufficient interest to your readers to justify you in publishing it as an item of news.

By direction of the Commission.

Very respectfully,
JOHN A. McILHENNY,
President.

SOCIALISM.

Socialism is friendship, fellowship, comradeship. It is a joint ownership in rights, duties, privileges, immunities and obligations of the entire human family—children, women and men. It is practice of the doctrine, "United we stand, divided we fall." It is the meaning of America's motto, "From many, one."

Socialism is the proclamation of emancipation to all who labor and are heavy laden.

Socialism is equity, the even-handed justice that deals impartially by all.

Socialism is the antidote of human suffering.

Socialism is freedom in its final analysis.

Socialism is fate and manifest destiny.

Socialism is certainty and salvation.

Socialism is the inheritance by all the children of men of the kingdom of happiness here and now.

Socialism is the religion of humanism.

Socialism is the trinity of love, justice and truth.

Socialism is the gospel of the atonement of humanity for "man's inhumanity to man."

Socialism is the second coming of "the elder broth."—Captain W. E. P. French, U. S. A.

A TRAVESTY UPON HUMANITY.

It is a "sad, sad travesty upon humanity" when one is required to read in the capitalist papers such statements as these: "Over the bodies of the little ones the leaders of the peace movement (citizen's committee) hope to sop up on the labor troubles which have torn the Calumet copper district for several months."

Reading between the lines we can see the hand of some designer in this awful holocaust, this sacrifice to human greed, beyond the conception of any brute beast to perpetrate. On that day when Christ would have us "Suffer the children to come unto Him," these little lives are made the sacrifice to Mammon by bringing about such a sorrowful condition that the parents of the slain and their friends will no longer resist the fates which have so cruelly stricken them and over the dead bodies Capitalism will erect a monument of victory to their God of Greed. Can these unfortunate and bereaved parents and friends believe devoutly in a Christian God whom such as these capitalists worship, pray to and hold up in awe to them that they may be content with the starvation conditions here on earth so they may inherit a home in heaven over yonder without even pointing the way to "yonder," or telling where it is because they do not know but they do know that heaven is and hell is right here on earth all the time. Heaven for the capitalist and hell for the wage slaves. Under Socialism there will be heaven for all, all the time, right here on earth where we live and while we live. While you are singing your "Sweet bye and bye" from empty stomachs and troubled brains we propose to sell our "Borrowful here and now" on a full stomach and a brain conscious of our duty well done.

ON THE JOB.

In mining lignite coal for the Williston, N. D., reclamation project, the government has successfully demonstrated its ability to handle mining operations by producing coal at a cost below that of private operators and also paying better wages to miners. Expert coal miners, and practically all the men employed by the government are skilled, and receive from $4 to $5 per day, working on a tonnage basis. This is in marked contrast with the average wage of $2 a day for coal miners. In addition to better wages, the government maintained far superior conditions for its miners. They have shower baths, private lockers, bunk rooms for single men and a restaurant where the miners can obtain meals at 25 cents each. The miners are well satisfied and jobs at the government mines are much sought after. As against an average cost in private mines of about $1.50 a ton the United States is mining its coal at about $1.30 and the engineer in charge of the project anticipates that ultimately the cost of the mining will be reduced to $1. Delivered at the project station the coal mined by private owners would cost the government about $2.50 a ton.—Miners' Magazine.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

Local.

Those who missed the entertainment given by the children last Sunday evening will have something to regret for many a long day. We do not intend to mention any particular participant, as all did equally well from the little shavers to the oldest. The climax of the evening was reached when a two-act drama was staged, the object of which was to show the awful depravity of capitalism, with its child labor, and the beauty of Socialism, which will soon displace it. Time after time the welkin rang with applause and cheers. At other times strong men and women sat and wept silent tears. When the curtain went down on the last act, there was scarcely a dry eye in the house. The committee deserves great praise for the very successful conclusion of their efforts.

Beginning Monday evening, January 5, at headquarters, 121½ East Town Street, Comrade H. G. Creel, of St. Louis, who needs no introduction to Columbus people, begins a series of lectures. The subject of the first one will be "Tricks of the Translators." To show how capitalist papers lie and fool you, he will use the regular editions of the Ohio State Journal, Columbus Dispatch and Columbus Citizen of Monday, January 5. Don't miss these lectures. Admission 10c. Sunday evening, January 11, admission 25c.

The Tenth ward will meet at Comrade Wilson's house, 856 West Rich Street, Tuesday evening, January 6th. Important business.

No meeting of Local Columbus next Wednesday evening on account of Comrade Creel's lecture.

State.

Comrade Van Schoyck, State Secretary, attended the inaugural ball given by the Hamilton comrades, January 1st.

The Conneaut Comrades are starting a daily Socialist paper. As soon as they are ready to run the first issue we will notify you as you will want to subscribe. Price will be $2.00 per year.

National.

We have on our desk "The Globe Trotter," the new Socialist magazine edited by Comrade H. G. Creel of St. Louis. It is one of the finest Socialist journals in circulation, because of its uniqueness in handling the Socialist situation from all viewpoints. It is in a class by itself. The subscription price is 50c per year.

Big Vote in New York.

The official count of the New York state vote at the recent elections has just been completed. It shows that the Socialist candidate for chief justice of the Court of Appeals, Henry L. Slobodin, received 61,586 votes, or about 1,800 less than that cast for Debs last fall. This is considered an enormous vote for an "off" year. In 1908 Debs received 38,451 votes, and in 1910 Russell, for governor, received 48,984 votes.

Non-Partisan Economy.

The Milwaukee "non-partisans" who went into office on the cry of economy, have cost that city just $2,419,969 more than the Socialists for the two years they have been in office. They have not only spent that much more money, but have nothing to show for it. Socialist Tax Commissioner Arnold showed the manner in which the old parties let the corporations get by with their taxes by increasing the total assessed valuation $26,000,000 when none of the non-partisans expected to see an increase of over $15,000,000 at the most.

Church Must Teach Socialism.

"The church must be more sincere, more democratic, and must preach a little more of Socialism before the laborer will come back to it."

This was the statement made by Rev. Charles Stelzle while speaking in Detroit.

"Men who have stood high in churches have tricked the laboring man on the outside," said Stelzle, "and the fact has been spread abroad. These men have been so buffeted; they have been so ill-treated and so often tricked that they are suspicious of every man who claims to be doing something for them."

Stelzle is a well-known labor writer, and has been a fraternal delegate from his church to many of the conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

GET THEM TO ADVERTISE.

At this season of the year our advertising naturally falls off. We ask you, comrades and readers, to make every possible purchase of those merchants who use our columns and tell them that you appreciate their support. Those who refuse to advertise with us are enemies of labor and do not deserve your hard-earned money.

Another good way to boom things is to get your grocer, butcher or any other person with whom you come in contact to place his ad. with us. He can do it at small expense. Anyone you wish us to call upon in reference to advertising let us know and we will attend to it.

Now is the time; close up the ranks and every one help over the dull months in advertising and we will enter into the campaign next fall prepared to snow this city and county deep with this paper.

$20,000,000 FILCHED FROM FARMERS.

The death of William Deering and his will leaving $12,000,000 estate, brings to light only a part of the amount of which the farmers of the country have contributed of their "brain and brawn" to pile up more than Deering could possibly use or enjoy while they had less than they needed for common comfort.

Besides what he left, Deering gave millions of money (he did not earn nor produce its equivalent) to "charitable bequests" during his lifetime. This money did not belong to Deering. It belonged to those who produced the harvesting machines, and to the farmers who paid more than they should for them. Just so long as the factory and farm fools vote for Vim, Voorheese and Victory, just so long will they make more millionaires.

Breaking Up An American Home

Capitalism, hideous monster, with appetite insatiate and greed uncontrolled, with graft reeking from every pore, stoops not only to exploit the poor and ravish womanhood for profit, but in its madness summons and commands the powers within itself to rob, imprison, coerce, ensnare, defraud and heap contumely and humiliation upon the heads of the unfortunate adults and innocent, helpless infants.

CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT.

No servient influence is allowed to escape its commands. The cause of religion is subordinated to the behests of capitalistic greed.

Ensconsed behind, within and above the citadel of capitalism is the cunning, grasping-for-power, treacherous "witch of the dark ages," the Roman Catholic Church, mother of harlots, incubator of incest, ignorance, superstition and beastility, all for self, profits and power.

Sitting (for no longer active) at a safe distance, looking on with sorrowful mein is the fast failing (and deservedly so) prematurely decrepid image of Christianity, the blood-thirsty, war-bedraggled Protestant church. In its senility it does not realize the direful influence upon its own life or future existence of the system of capitalism that it upholds.

In 1913 the capitalistic maw opened and swallowed 1000 churches in the United States, and they stand a mute monument to commercialized religion organized for greed.

THE HEADS OF THE CHURCH.

Are constantly in a scramble for prominence and prestige, and in the scramble have overlooked the basic foundation of the church—its lay membership. CHRIST HAS BEEN FORGOTTEN. HIS LAMBS UNFED, AND THE SHEEP LEFT TO THE RAVAGES OF THE WOLVES OF CAPITALISM.

In the church religious bigotry runs riot, and the church is ever attempting to control the political administrations in city, state or nation, with the result that religious hatred runs rampant in the breasts of those not in the ascendancy.

The bigotry of the one and the hatred of the others, have caused so many depredations to be perpetrated upon humanity, that human intelligence revolts at such things, and many are upon the verge of renouncing any and all religious creeds, in behalf of and for the sake of humanity.

CATHOLIC CHURCH IS STRONGEST POLITICALLY.

Woodrow Wilson could not have been elected president of the United States had he not received the support and indorsement of the Roman Catholic Church. He could not get that support without his promise to turn the administration over to them. He made the promise, got the support and, true to his promise, is proving himself a traitor to the rest of the people.

The record of James Cox, governor of Ohio, will also bear close watching, as his latest public school proposition seems to smatter much of the earmarks of Rome, WHO HATES OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

George Karb could not have been re-elected mayor had he not promised to appoint practically all Catholics as heads of the city departments. Note his appointments and recall his attempts to oust Carter and put a Catholic in as Chief of Police.

Are these things done for religion, in the interest of Christianity? No! These deeds are consummated by capitalism working through the church which will give capitalism the best graft, the strongest grip upon the lives of the workers.

The Roman Catholic Church has just as good a right to prostitute herself for plunder, profits and power as the Protestant Church.

Our contention is, that NO church as a church HAS ANY RIGHT TO MEDDLE WITH TEMPORAL AFFAIRS.

DEMOCRAT, REPUBLICAN OR PROGRESSIVE.

Capitalism claims no particular party. Greed recognizes no high principle. Individuals are used or flung aside as they stand for or against the profit system. Morality or humanity have no place in the dealing of capitalism.

The Progressive Party, whose publicly expressed principle is for the public weal, is just now being looked upon with much favor by the capitalist class, as the party that can be used to deceive the people once more.

The "good man" is frequently elected to office, only to be prostituted, ruined and wrecked politically and morally. Desire for office and the fear of failing to land, have induced many a candidate to so obligate himself before election as to preclude him from saying "no" to his pre-election supporters, no matter how damnable the request.

SOCIALISM.

Until the principles of Socialism had attracted attention and had mustered adherents in great numbers and crystallized those adherents and those principles in an organization on the political field, where those high principles of humanity could and were given expression at the ballot box, and by elected officials, capitalism rode rough-shod over the rights of individuals and society.

But today Socialism, young stalwart champion of human rights, with its artillery of public press, public opinion, public office, publicity everywhere, defiantly challenges capitalism to meet the issue, in debate, in morality, on the field of industry or on the political field.

SOCIALISM FLAUNTS CHALLENGE IN FACE OF CAPITALISM.

With this challenge flaunting in the face of our enemy, capitalism, we make bold to the following charges and rechiminations.

FLOOD SUFFERERS PLUNDERED FOR PROFIT.

With all the whoop and hurrah about the West Side flood disaster and flood protection from the political side there remains a more important and disastrous phase resulting from and growing out of that catastrophe. Since the early days of the flood almost daily we have listened to "tales of woe" involving two-penny capitalists, officials of Franklin County and so-called religious institutions preying upon unfortunate victims for self and profit.

We no longer intend to turn a deaf ear and next week we will publish sworn statements involving CATHOLIC INSTITUTIONS AND PROTESTANT ORGANIZATIONS which have loaned the seclusion of high walls and the privacy of religious rites to thwart detection by the relatives and friends of the unfortunate, oppressed and helpless.

Those in charge of these so-called religious homes, hospitals and asylums have not hesitated to do the bidding of certain individuals in attempting to break up a working class home. Were their deeds done in the open the public would rise in rebellion, demolish the institutions, and drive out into the open all those operating under this sham cloak of Christianity whether PRIEST, PREACHER OR PRELATE parading our streets in fine linen with high hats, long coats and souls so small a million of them would rattle like mustard seed in a peanut shell, all the while holding their heads so high they do not see the under world going to destruction, while the church rots and decays at heart with great cankers of capitalism smothering out its very life.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

Have been caught in the net, and politicians of the old parties will next week be brought before the bar of public opinion for inspection by the "dear people" who sent them there.

We intend to see to it that those poor victims who have been caught in the maw of capitalist greed are given their constitutional rights to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness even at the risk of having every preacher, priest, prelate, public official and politician yell that we are "attempting to destroy religion."

We will show in next week's issue how the home of this West Side family was broken up by capitalist, political and religious authorities. We will show how a woman who was the mother of several children and about to become the mother of another was openly insulted by a representative of a furniture concern in this city, AND WE WILL GIVE THE NAME OF THE FURNITURE COMPANY. We will show how this woman in order to make her swear falsely against her husband was sent to the insane asylum and unlawfully detained.

Men prominent in business and political circles are involved. In fact, this will be one of the biggest exposures of the rotten system of capitalism you have read in many a long day.

DAILY PAPERS EXPOSE CONDITIONS ELSEWHERE, BUT NEVER CONDITIONS HERE AT HOME.

If after reading next week's issue your conscience troubles you and you wish to help defray the expense of litigation contemplated by the outraged comrades, your contributions can be sent to The Socialist, which will see that they get all the justice possible under this damnable system.

WE ASK THAT YOU PUSH THE CIRCULATION AS WE WANT THIS STORY OF CAPITALISTIC GREED, INSULT AND RELIGIOUS BIGOTRY TO REACH EVERY HOME IN COLUMBUS AND THE STATE.

Strikers Stronger Than Ever—Sixteen "Scabs" Taken Away From Company

The scab herders down at the Federal Glass Company are up against it. Last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Union took sixteen scabs away from them and sent them out of town. "Hell hath no fury like a scab concern scorned." Even the scabs who are the lowest bums and pick-ups in the country, can't stand the treatment accorded them by this scab concern.

The company is running advertisements for help in papers all over the country. In only one paper (The Pittsburg Leader) do these advertisements show that a strike is on.

We ask all labor and Socialist papers to warn labor all over the country to stay away from Columbus, as A STRIKE IS ON!

To show how the company has treated the men in the past under non-union conditions, if a man was sick, or would stay away from work for any reason, the company would lay him off for the balance of the week.

When the company succeeds in getting a bunch of "scabs" to come in, they meet them at the depot in an automobile. The majority of them do not know they are to be used for strike breakers, and the company uses this method to keep them from meeting the union pickets.

One of the scabs taken away by the Union last Sunday went back to the company barracks after his suit case and had to raise a disturbance before they would hand over his property. After a long argument he got it.

The company has been telling the strike-breakers that when they intended to charge them for board they would notify them in advance. They board them free as long as they scab, but when the men quit, the company takes their board out of their scab-earned pay.

Two weeks ago, an agent was sent in here from New York to intercede with the 52 Belgium members of the Union to get them to return to work.

After hearing the said "lickspittle of his masters" talk, the Belgiums told him of the true working conditions, and further told him that they intended to stick by their other comrades, regardless of nationality, and that they would not return to work until the company recognized the Union.

This agent promised the Belgiums union wages, union hours, and further stated that the company would deposit a forfeit of $25,000 to insure that none of them would be fired. The only condition imposed was that the Union should not be recognized. This shows how capitalists love Union labor.

President Rowe of the American Flint Glass Workers addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of the strikers last night at Federation Hall. He is highly gratified with the solidarity and spirit of the men, in losing only three out of 245 who went on strike last June. (Through error last week we stated only 145 went on strike.)

The National treasury has $180,000 on hand, and the Union of 10,000 members are standing back of their comrades and are willing to stand an assessment of 10 per cent of their wages in order to win this strike.

Organizers Gillooly and O'Malley have the situation well in hand and are very optimistic as regards its outcome.

To show their appreciation of the splendid work, and their confidence in these two organizers, the men last week presented O'Malley with a beautiful ring with the insignia of his order and Gillooly with a beautiful fob and charm with the insignia of his order.

Everything is orderly, the organization committee is on the job night and day, and everything points to an early settlement of the strike with a complete surrender of the scabbing company.

FARM OUT STATE WARDS FOR PROFIT

The State of Ohio spends thousands of dollars each year to take care of its unfortunates whose minds become unbalanced due to the terrific strain of capitalism. At the present time this great state has lent itself to profit mongers and is farming out some of these poor unfortunates who are being worked like beasts of burden for nothing but a few clothes and enough food to keep life in their miserable bodies.

One case in particular that should arouse a storm of protest is the following.

James Turner, a farmer, who lives about three and one-half miles north of Derby, O., in Madison County, has one of these state wards he took from the state farm at Orient, O. This boy is worked like a beast, gets nothing but some clothes, and is not allowed to eat with the members of the family. They put him in a side room and treat him like a slave.

At times Turner farms the boy out to neighbors and collects the money for the work, from which the boy gets no benefit. Neighbors have been wary of reporting this matter as they do not want to "fall out" with Turner.

Geo. Londerback and Mr. Snyder, neighbors of said Turner, can verify this matter and give fuller details of the slavish condition of this boy. We ask all readers of this paper to write a letter to Governor Cox demanding that this boy be taken away from this man Turner and placed back under the care of the state. Write now.

The first arrest made in Columbus the new year was a "plain drunk." What else could be expected under a Democratic administration?

A good New Year's resolution for Socialists: Resolve to pay up your back dues, or join the party.

The new currency bill is now a law, and all the discharged wage-slaves are feeling quite well, thank you.

A man who willingly votes chains upon himself and family is a boob.

Where do you Democrat and Republican wage-slaves expect to spend your vacations next summer? In the Adirondacks or at the seashore?

Of course if you would get enough money to take a vacation with your family next summer it would "break up your home."—Mule.

Don't fail to hear Creel tomorrow (Sunday) night at Federation Hall, 121½ East Town Street. Subject, "Tricks of the Translators." It may jar you a little, but that's what you need.

Many a wage-slave walks up and down the business streets and wonders why in creation it is that the shelves of the merchants are piled high with good things to eat and wear, and he can't buy them. You jackass, you made them, and if you had any brains you would vote for Socialism and own them.

The wage-slaves will now join in singing that sweet old anthem, "The landlord set me out, 'cause I couldn't pay my rent."

DON'T FAIL to settle for all Creel tickets by (tomorrow) Sunday afternoon at the very latest. This is absolutely necessary in order to settle with Comrade Creel.

BULL MOOSE FAKIRS

The state conference of the Bull Moosers of Ohio in this city last Saturday was, without doubt, one of the greatest aggregations of political tricksters, disappointed office seekers and hypocritical capitalists that ever gathered under one roof in this section of modern Hades.

The sublime spectacle of Walter Brown, of Toledo, a thirty-third degree past illustrious master in corrupt political deals, calling a convention of reformers to order and announcing prayer as the first thing on the program. The menagerie joined the minister in repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Talk about making a mockery of sacred things! The Bull Moosers saying the Lord's Prayer is the limit. The confessoes passed some resolutions which were simply a rehash of all the middle class reforms proposed in the last twenty years.

The so-called Progressive movement is nothing but an effort to save the rotten old capitalistic system from the sure destruction which it is nearing, and at the same time to give a lot of crooks a chance to get some boodle. It is already charged that Walter Brown, chairman of the Bull Moose state committee, is in the pay of the Jim Cox Democrats who want to see the Progressive fake kept up so as to make their own victory easier at the polls.

Locally, the saintly Tom H. Clark, the sniveling tool of the Rail-Light and Gas companies, bosses the Moosers for his own profit and that of his [illegible]

Not a thing was proposed last Saturday at the Progressive rally that will lighten the burden of labor by a finger's weight. The toilers ought to be next to this gang by this time.

HEL-P—HEL-P

Leslie's Weekly is on the job. Note the following from a recent issue of that magazine:

"Workers in every shop: Do you want the steel and iron mills to keep running? Of course you do. Then urge the Interstate Commerce Commission to give the railroads fair play. They stand ready to spend $2,000,000 a day for the next five years, for work and material urgently required. They cannot do it unless you help. The cost of material and wages is advancing and the income from traffic diminishing. Increase the income! Help!"

"Workers, do you want the iron and steel mills running?" As this seems to be addressed to us, our reply is that we're not so darned particular whether they run or not. Especially when the price of their running must be paid for by our manhood and very lives. As for us getting down on our knees to a capitalist Interstate Commerce Commission and begging them to give the railroads an advance in rates. Not on your tintype!

If the railroads have so much coin that they will spend $2,000,000 per day, when we have been humbled to a proper degree—What with so much coin as this in sight do they want with a freight increase?

Besides, who are these railroads anyhow? Who are they that they should demand a square deal from the public? When did the "dear public" ever get a square deal from a railroad? When did the railroads ever give their employes a square deal? Through watering their stocks and floating bonds at the expense of equipment in order to enrich a few stockholders the roads have gotten in a position where they are (outside of a few main lines), a pile of junk.

Help! Yes, we intend to help! We intend to help ourselves to the entire railroad system. We are going to take them. "Leslies," get that? TAKE THEM. Our hearts bleed for the poor railroad owners, like Mr. Gould, who said, "the public be damned; I am running this road for my own benefit." So we are going to relieve these gentlemen of their heavy responsibility and run the roads ourselves through government ownership and democratic management.

Get the balance of the article:

"Merchants! Do you want your stores filled, your counters crowded, and your bookkeepers busy? Then keep the factories busy and the pay envelopes filled. This will keep your cash registers singing all day long. Help!

"Railroad employes! Do you want higher wages and lighter hours? Then make common cause with your employer who is fighting for a chance to live. Demand that the Interstate Commerce Commission give him that chance or let the Commission be abolished. It is your fight as much as anybody's. Help!

"Farmers! Do you want the best prices for your products? You get them only when wages are high, workmen busy, railroads prosperous and factories running night and day. Help!

"Workmen, merchants, railroad men, bankers and farmers! Do you all want prosperity? You can have it. Make your choice between the statesmen who build up and the demagogues who tear down. Help!

"And remember that a demagogue never filled a pay envelope."

Workmen, merchants, railroad men, bankers and farmers, your life, your very life depends upon the railroads getting an increase in freight rates! We wonder how much Leslie's got from the railroads for printing this guff? It should pay well. The railroads have plenty of coin to pay for the moulding of public sentiment, but not a damn cent for equipment. The "demagogues" spoken of we presume are the crazy Socialists, who have just about "got the goat" of the railroads, as government ownership is in the very air.

With government ownership will come lower freight rates, better wages and more prosperity than has existed under capitalism for many years. It will be a long stride towards the ultimate goal—Socialism.

WHAT IF MORGAN HAD DIED?

The capitalist press and particularly The Columbus Citizen are going into ecstacies because J. P. Morgan has withdrawn from the directorates of several large corporations. This is heralded as a sure sign that big biz intends to get down off the people's backs.

Timidly The Socialist rises to inquire what would happen had Morgan died? This would have removed him not only from all directorates but would effectively have silenced all his business activity. Would there have been any lessening of the people's burdens? Would big biz have gotten off the people's back? No, because the system of private ownership still stands, and Mr. Morgan can resign some more if he wants to in order to carry out the agreement between big biz and the Jackass administration, "that something must be done to fool the dear people."

When it comes to making 18-carat fools of the American people, Bryan and Wilson, working through Morgan and Tammany and putting across fake legislation, such as free trade, and currency bills, are sure the limit.

How soon do you expect to get your eyes open and quit using a nursing bottle?

ROCKEFELLER INTERESTS KILL 37 MINERS

Denver, Colo., Jan. 9.—(Special)—Probably the most pernicious lie ever circulated by the capitalist class, that sent out by the coal operators to the effect that the disaster at the Vulcan mine, New Castle, Colorado, was the result of a labor plot, was nailed by the coroner's jury which found that violation of the state coal mining laws by the Rockefeller coal interests of the state caused the death of thirty-seven men.

The horrible catastrophe had no sooner happened than officials of the corporations started the story that the explosion was caused by sympathizers with the coal miners who have tied up the mines by a strike.

The strike of the Colorado coal miners conducted by the United Mine Workers of America under the supervision of International Vice President Frank J. Hayes, has been so successful that the Wall Street interests were able to produce but 20 per cent of their normal tonnage of coal in November. This was the highest percentage reached since the strike began September 23 and the coal barons are desperate.

No despicable act has been left undone to break the spirit of the men. Hundreds of Baldwin-Felts thugs and gun men were brought into the state to intimidate and tyrannize the miners. Although they murdered striking miners in cold blood the men stuck and the operators were forced to have the state militia sent to the field to commit greater outrages. Strikers were arrested by the wholesale without cause or right. Guards kept them awake five and six nights at a stretch in the hope that, driven almost insane, these men would sign fake confessions to crimes they knew nothing about. Baldwin-Felts gun men were enlisted in the militia and the soldiers began looting houses, insulting women and as a climax perpetrated the fiendish outrage of making Andrew Colnar, a humble Croatian, dig his own grave. But with all of this the spirit of the miners was not to be broken.

Driven to desperation, the coal operators have risked the lives of hundreds of men in their effort to get out coal. Cotton pickers, free lunch grabbers and hundreds of others who knew nothing about mining coal were sent into the mines. These men violated all of the laws of the state regarding practices within the mine. This fact and the utter disregard of the laws by the coal corporations, sent thirty-seven men to their death in an explosion at the Vulcan mine at New Castle two weeks ago.

Knowing full well that the lack of experience of their men and their own disregard of state laws caused the explosion, these moral coward corporation tools of Wall Street started a report that the explosion was the result of a plot of union sympathizers. Seldom if ever has a more iniquitous attempt to discredit labor been made by capital. But it was one attempt in which they failed. An impartial coroner's jury fixed the blame and fixed it where it belonged.

The jury summoned at Glenwood Springs by Coroner G. A. Hopkins returned a verdict charging that the blast was due to the negligence of the Coryell Leasing Company, a subsidiary of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company.

The verdict recites that the operators were negligent in that they did not sprinkle the mine properly, that they permitted the use of open lights, that smoking by the men was permitted, and that the firing of shots while the men were on duty in the mine was a common practice.

The verdict further recites that the recommendations made by Deputy State Mine Inspector Oberdine on October 24 were not complied with.

Throughout the inquest the evidence indicated that the men were in the habit of smoking cigarets and pipes and that because they were not experienced coal miners they violated many laws of the state, regarding practices within the mine.

Under the law the men should have been provided with copies of the state mining statutes. This the company, the verdict says, failed to do.

A further requirement of the law is the posting of notices printed in the various languages represented in the mine. This, the jury found, was not done.

The utter disregard of capital for human life and the belief that they can milk the working man of his very heart and soul as long as he produces wealth and then send him to his death is shown by the insulting offer of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company to contribute $75 toward the funeral expenses of the dead. Capital has gotten all it can out of these men. They become real philanthropists, in their minds, when they offer to bear part of the funeral expenses. The widows and orphans of these men who were killed by the operators' negligence can starve.

FREE LUST DEBAUCHERIES OF OLD PARTIES

IS SENATOR POMERENE A WHITE SLAVER?

Canton, O., Dec. 30, 1913.—(Special to "The Socialist")—Business Men's Association, members of the Board of Trade, the leading manufacturers and millionaires of Canton held a banquet at the Courtland Hotel Monday evening, December 29th. High kickers and cabaret singers and hoochie-koochie dancers were present to lend zest to the occasion. Harry K. Thaw was not in attendance, but missed the time of his life by his absence. Vulgar, suggestive songs were sung and performances took place that would have disgraced our jungle district.

The cabaret girls even fussed with the few remaining hairs on the sedate head of U. S. Senator Pomerene, of this city.

They tried to initiate our mayor-elect, Charles A. Stolberg, into the secret mysteries of the iniquities of a wicked world. Charles A. Dougherty, President of the Board of Trade, who is no child in the ways of the world, was embarrassed and humiliated by the extreme familiarity on short acquaintance with the girls imported from Cleveland.

Even the minister of the First M. E. Church, who had been brought to the banquet to offer the invocation to God and lend a kind of religious sanctity to the occasion, was the victim of the carcsses and greater familiarities of these Cleveland beauties.

The business men had gathered to the number of about 400, seated themselves at a great feast, drank "Business Men's Association Punch," and all went merry as a Jungle ball. The leading deacons and trustees of most all the cHurches of our city were present and engaged in the festivities.

They were holding a great meeting for the purpose of organizing a Chamber of Commerce for the upbuilding of the material and moral welfare of our city. A great assemblage had gathered to serve a great purpose, yet so far forgot itself as to indulge in actions that would have done credit to the White Chapel district of London.

Not a word has been uttered by any minister of the gospel against the actions of these men. Not a word will ever be uttered publicly against their actions and the world knows why. The men who are the large contributors to the churches of Canton were the leading actors engaged in this revelry. If the saloon keepers of Canton, or the Allied Liquor Trades of Canton or the German Alliance or any of the trades unions of Canton or the Socialist Party of Canton had held this banquet, denunciations would ring out from every pulpit in the city. This banquet has done more to lead the young men and women of Canton into the paths of vice and demoralization than anything that has occurred here for years.

Members of the Business Men's Association danced the tango, bunny hug, hoochie-koochie and jelly wabble with these girls all around the banquet hall. Chairs were upset, victuals strewn over the floor and the girls frequently tossed around, pitched over the tables and other scenes enacted that would not have been permitted in a first-class house of prostitution. Yet these are the men who claim they had assembled for the organization of a body for the moral and material uplift of our city.

The common people were not invited and were not wanted at this voluptuous feast. These are the scenes that have been enacted for ages before the downfall of nations. The people of Canton who possess sober, sound sense are today asking themselves "Whither are we drifting?" These same men will gather in the churches on next Sunday and lead in prayer and tell little children to be moral and good, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

MAURER DEMANDS U. S. ACT.

Reading, Pa.—In view of the fact that the local, State and judicial authority of Michigan has broken down, I consider it imperative that the Federal Government give protection to the strikers.

In the meantime, it might be advisable for the toilers to familiarize themselves with that part of the United States Constitution which provides that the right to bear arms shall never be abridged.

DEMOCRAT AND REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY

Press dispatches inform us that New Year's eve in the city of Chicago hundreds of unemployed men thronged the streets of Chicago carrying banners inscribed, "We Want Work, Not Charity!"

Socialists are generally supposed to be a bunch of wild eyed "Calamity howlers," and "brainless galoots," who attack the capitalist system because of jealousy and an innate desire to cause trouble and stir up discontent.

The fact is that Socialists are quite thoughtful workingmen and women who see the awful depravity and suffering caused by capitalism through the misrule of Democrat and Republican parties and, like Christ of old, they go up and down the land, "stirring up the people."

For doing this they are imprisoned, riddled with bullets, railroaded to death, and sacrificed on the altar of capitalist greed. Socialists are so human that they find it impossible to sleep well, knowing that millions of worthy people have "nowhere to lay their heads." Socialists are so near the divine that they can not enjoy a decent meal, knowing that while they eat, millions of little children are actually starving. Socialists refuse to keep quiet while such conditions as existed in Chicago New Year's eve under old party rule continue.

While we individually may for the time being be safe, yet that horrible gnawing gulf of hunger and destitution is always there and is constantly swallowing up new victims. We don't want to be one of those victims, and we don't want YOU to be one of them. But as long as the gulf is there, victims will be forthcoming. Socialists want to remove the gulf of capitalism, with its hordes of starved, half starved, hungry and homeless people. We want to institute a new system of co-operation under which the people will own and operate all the industries, upon which the people depend for a living. Shame! Shame upon the thing who calls himself a man and who votes a Democrat, Republican or Bull Moose ticket, and votes such conditions upon the human race. Such as these are really good subjects for our capitalist eugenists, as they should be taken care of, so as to no longer propagate a race of imbeciles and idiots in their own image.

It is time that this damnable farce of voting for "good men," "low tariff," "high tariff" and other "boogies" be abandoned, and the American people come out from under the spell cast upon them by priest and bishop and look themselves square in the face and see what damn fools they have been.

Your masters know you! Jim Ross, Mal Karshner, John Joyce, Geo. Karb, Geo. Marshall, Congressman Brumbaugh and all of the crooked politicians, know you for a bunch of snivelling, milk-sucking infants, without the brains of an African baboon.

They know you, and every capitalist paper knows you, and the way they scare the liver out of you before election day is the limit.

They scare you so badly that you don't dare to vote the Socialist ticket and then you holler that this country is free. You are a fool! Socialism is the ownership of the government by the people, and the use of the government to serve the needs of the people, and you haven't got nerve enough to vote for it.

FOR THE SAKE OF THE KIDDIES.
By Emanuel Julius.

The children!—it's all for their sake. Babies—born and unborn—are what we have in mind when we build, plan—fight! Socialism will bring US a little more bread; Socialism will bring our babies more life, more laughter, more happiness, more music, more sunshine—more love! And that is why our movement is so intense, firm, determined. It's all for the sake of the kiddies. We are building for tomorrow.

We used to believe that self-preservation is the first law of nature. We know better now. Race preservation is the first law of nature. This [illegible] higher and gentler forms [illegible] but to [illegible] beasts of the jungle as well. They—meaning, in [illegible] instances, the [illegible] —are ready to sacrifice life itself that the species may be continued. Of course, it isn't necessary for me to dwell on this point. It is understood. I merely wish to show that crude selfishness is not the law of life. Animal life, essentially, is moved by a constructive altruism. This altruism finds expression in the desire of life to build for the future. And we are no exception to this rule. It applies to us with full force and telling effect. And I am optimistic enough to believe that this inherent self-sacrifice is not growing weaker in the human family. I believe that it is growing stronger, mightier, more powerful!

I believe that Socialism is, at the basis, a movement of the future, a children's movement. We want our children to be educated. We want them to be healthy. We want them to have beautiful, ennobling surroundings. We want them to know the glories of art, music, poetry. In other words, we want them to live beautiful lives.

We can actualize our desires only by freeing ourselves. By freeing ourselves, we build for the future, for the children. Our mission towards posterity is to break our chains. Otherwise, our children will be slaves, will live dull, brutal lives, will know nothing but the killing effects of toil.

We must free ourselves! That is our duty!

We must take this world from the hands of a parasite class. We must become the owners of this earth. Otherwise, we will remain slaves. We cannot be free so long as the machines, the mills, the factories, the railroads, and so on, belong to a small class of parasites. We must take the means of life and place them where they belong—with the workers. That's Socialism. That's building for the future. That's planning for the children!

When the workers had a representative in Congress in the person of Berger there was something doing all the time. We intend to see to it that there is something doing from this district next fall.

School teachers used to tell us not to eat on examination day, because we could think better on an empty stomach. Evidently the wage-slaves of this country are getting ready for a civil service test.

FLYING SQUADRON.

Last week we ran out of extra copies before Saturday noon. Any who want extras must order them early in the week in order that we may figure accordingly.

Ten thousand circulation in Columbus by next fall is the slogan. You can do it. Make a systematic canvass of your shop mates. Remember your reward is Socialism. Every subscription taken for a Socialist paper is one more nail in the coffin of capitalism. Up and at 'em. Twenty-five cents for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more. Think of it, comrades. Just what you have always desired—a popular priced paper. Now you have it. We are doing our best, but with a circulation of 10,000 to 18,000 back of us we will do infinitely more.

Do your share by sending in a club of at least four next week.

Comrade Hartman puts on 16 new subs.

Comrade Wharton, has put on 19 in the past two weeks.

Comrade Frank Spicer, Urbana, Ill., drops in and takes out his subscription.

Comrade Jewell puts on 5 more new ones, which makes 17 for him in the past three weeks.

GOD OR HOG?

By M. J. Connelly.

I've studied you, O stupid hen,
And wonder if within your ken
Is aught that's not known to us men.

O hen, when first you came to earth,
What was the nature of your birth?
This question has provoked much mirth
Among us men. Tell me, I beg
Which was made first—the hen or egg?

Of course, we know how man was made—
Or think we do. God took a spade
Or two of mud, and this he laid
To make a form like to his own.
When in this form a breath he'd blown
It up arose and stood alone.

Then what do you think of all, O hen?
Then what do you think of us men
Who seize the eggs that you do lay
And put them carefully away,
To spoil, to rot—and hungry go?
Say, did you ever wiser know?

"Of animals the paragon;
In apprehension like a god."
That's what he says he is, O hen—
This foolish, shambling, bungling clod,
Who takes his ease while babies toil,
Who steals their food and lets it spoil
To make his PROFITS bigger yet.
Is he a god?
A hog!
You bet!

ANOTHER CAPITALIST LIE.

It will be remembered that when the Panhandle shops closed down a very few lines were discovered in capitalist papers notifying the public of the shut-down. January 2d, in great big type on the front pages of these same sheets it was announced that the Panhandle had put their men back to work on 45 hours' time. The fact is that only the last bunch laid off, consisting of about 400 men, got back and in place of 45 hours per week they only got 39 hours. The first gang of 650 laid off are still out of work and don't know when they will get back. They are attempting to make you believe that prosperity is here. The suffering is becoming more intense every day.

SAME OLD ISSUES.

The Ohio State Journal editorially states that the isue of the next campaign will be "good men" and "manhood."

The workers have been voting these kind of tickets for low these many years only to find out that the candidates they elect have not "manhood" and in fact turn out to be "bad men" as far as the workers are concerned. Note the silly slush handed out by the O. S. J.:

FREE SAMPLE COPIES!

Beginning Jan. 1st, 1914, we will mail sample copies in bundles of 5 or 10 to those who will secure subscribers, and single copies to all names and addresses sent in from Franklin county. Help to boost the county campaign.

"It would seem the wiser part is to get ready for the conflict by nominating the best and truest men, for therein will lie the issue of the coming campaign. A strong, true, courageous, high-minded candidate himself constitutes the real issue these transitory days. The Republicans should see to it that they nominate better men than the Democrats and thereby deserve a victory whether the state of the country is at sixes and sevens or not. The greatest political issue of the day is manhood."

The issues of the next campaign will be the people against the politicians. It will be Socialism against capitalism. It will be the collective ownership of the means of life against the private ownership of the means of life.

The O. S. J. knows this but will try to muddle the minds of the people and make them believe that the issue is "good men." How far they will succeed will be shown in a largely increased Socialist vote.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

The "Washington Star," unlike the Ohio State Journal (which editorially thinks that "good men" will be the issue next campaign), is afraid that government ownership will be the issue in next campaign. Taking Postmaster General Burleson's attitude towards the telephone and telegraph service as an example, the "Star" says:

"HOW FAR SHALL WE GO?

"Postmaster General Burleson has given Congress and the country something of the first importance to consider. His declaration in favor of government ownership and operation of the telegraph and telephone lines carries far-reaching suggestions, and when the House takes it up we should have a debate worthy the theme and the arena.

"Mr. Burleson's proposition does not include railroads, or go beyond the two things described, but part of its importance rests upon the suggestion of how far and how rapidly we shall advance if we start to public ownership and operation of public utilities. We may see it divide both of the old parties, and become an issue in next year's congressional campaigns."

We can assure the "Star" that it is not Burleson attitude that will make government ownership an issue, but it is the Socialist party that has made Burleson make his bluff about government issue, and it is the Socialist party that will make collective (not government) ownership the issue in the next campaign.

As to "how far we shall go," we will go the limit, and advocate the ownership of every piece of publicly used property, such as railroads, mines, factories and all the trusts.

We trust that the "Star" can now sleep well as we assure them that we are on the job, and the issue is already up to the people.

WOW! WOW!

Bally says "faith is a higher faculty than reason," and likewise is spirit a higher force than intellect, and yet most of our controversy in politics, religion and education, takes the ground that reason and intellect are greater than spirit and faith. That is the reason civilization is moving so slowly; it is the explanation of the statement of Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace, that moral progress has not advanced a jot in 3000 years. One does not have to think a minute without seeing for a fact the consequence of preferring reason and intellect to faith and spirit. We suppose it would take more than a sledgehammer to pound it in the head of a cidevant, knee-deep in the ruts.

The above from the O. S. Journal moralist shows you "cidevants" "where you are at." You are "knee deep in the ruts."

Well, the road of capitalism is so blamed rocky, crooked and muddy no wonder us common "cidevants" get stuck in a rut. But we are climbing out all right, all right. Watch us next November, O. S. J.

RIGHT TO A RAISE IN WAGES.

The Columbus Sunday Dispatch says: "The average worker who strikes for higher wages does so because—'I have been with you six years, Mr. Jones, and you owe me a raise.'" The Dispatch says "time" you put in has nothing to do with it, and states "If your boss had any business common sense he hired your brains—your thoughts—and you should have given them to him along with your time."

We cannot quite see the point or the reason for demanding the wage-slave's brains unless if he gave the boss his brains and his thoughts he would not have sense enough to think of asking for a raise. Better keep your brains if you have any, slaves, and tell the boss go hang.

ATTENTION.

Beginning with this issue, January 10th, we will run a series of articles all based upon sworn statements, together with the affidavits, showing up the corruption, graft, deceit and wanton treachery of the capitalist system at work in the capital city of Ohio. These articles are by our staff detective and will be the sensation of the new year.

Already we have demands for several bundles of each issue and we wish to announce that the forms will be held until Tuesday of following week for bundle orders at the rate of $1.00 per hundred, postage prepaid. Send in your orders early. 108½ South High Street, Columbus, Ohio.

Karb cuts out the most important of the city departments on account of lack of finance. In other words, the city is about bankrupt. Sam Kinnear, who went into bankruptcy and skinned creditors out of over $200,000, has got the city in the same position he was. Thousands of dollars of city finance have been thrown away to fix up sections of real estate where Kinnear is interested. Karb knows all about it and yet he keeps Kinnear.

A mayor who would get drunk and raise a disturbance with a bunch of soldiers like Karb did near Long and High several weeks ago (and which we have affidavit to prove) will stoop to anything.

Chief Carter was there when Karb pulled off his disgraceful stunt and refused to take him down to jail, because Karb was mayor. This shows how the gang all work together. And Carter is a Republican.

OUR DANCE.

Every Saturday night at 121½ East Town Street our committee holds a dance. Everything is strictly orderly and you can be assured of a good time. Come out tonight and have a good time. Good music.

The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8, has saved many hundred dollars in court costs, loss of time and attorney fees the past year for working men by having them schedule all their debts and paying the amount required by law on their debts through The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8.

See this company—List your debts. (Adv.)

This paper intends to attempt to save the city some money this year, as we intend to make a bid for the city printing. Last year council granted it to us, and Karb, who now yells that the city is bankrupt, vetoed the ordinance because he said the Socialists were not a political party, but were opposed to religion. We kindly ask his honor(?) to point to any Socialist mayor who so far disgraced himself and office as to get drunk and make such a disgraceful scene that a U. S. soldier was going to spit in his face. Karb, you are a fine example of a follower of the Lowly Nazarene.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

On to Washington. The people of this district have had no representative in Congress in the past two years. Nothing but a figurehead. Let's send a live one down there next fall.

Are you not tired of the same old grind year in and year out? Then why not vote for a change by voting for Socialism?

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

Local Columbus meets next Wednesday evening, 7:45. Don't miss this meeting. Important business.

Comrade John Spargo will be here Jan. 28 at Chamber of Commerce.

Tomorrow night (Sunday evening) Comrade Creel winds up his week's successful series of lectures at headquarters, 121½ E. Town St., with his famous lecture, "Tricks of the Translators." Admission 25 cents Don't miss this.

The First Ward, with renewed energies and old-fashioned enthusiasm, held a propaganda meeting the first day of the New Year, with Comrade E. B. Wharton as speaker. The meeting was well attended and enthusiasm ran high. Delinquent members paid up their dues, and publicly declared that they would be found in the front ranks fighting the battle of emancipation in the future. The First Ward has two and three men to every precinct and are setting an example for the rest of the city.

The Propaganda Committee met Dec. 29th and cleaned up a bunch of accumulated business.

State.

Comrade Chas. Edward Russell speaks in Cleveland under the auspices of Local Cleveland, Feb. 26th.

Here are several more for the Ohio list, even though the freight bringing the news was stalled on a sidetrack: In Wayne township, Tuscarawas county, the Socialists elected the Justice of the Peace and the Clerk.

James O'Neal, the well-known speaker and author of Indiana, who attended the meeting at Hamilton in which the local selected some 30 officials for appointive positions, writes: "The capitalist papers, before and after the appointments, denounced the local for selecting appointees that properly should be made by the Mayor. 'Only 104 members of a local at the corner of Third and High streets, out of a voting population of thousands, dictate appointments,' wrote the journalistic police. In the past, appointments had always been made by capitalist Mayors by consulting the banker and a few big property interests which made up the capitalist 'local.' The editorial barkers were never known to protest against this dictation and it is what takes place when capitalist parties control. The politicians long played the game of keeping the working class divided on religious grounds, claiming that the Socialist Party was opposed to the Roman Catholic Church. This diminishes the attendance at the church rather than at the Socialist meetings. When the Socialists won, among the elected officials and now also among the appointed, are a number of Catholic workingmen. This would seem a sufficient answer to the religious accusation. But now the anti-Socialist tools have discovered a new line of attack: they have discovered that most of the Catholic Socialists are Germans and not Irish. So they are trying to divide Fritz and Mike on lines of nationality."—Cleveland Citizen.

National.

Big victories have been gained by the Socialists in the Northwest. Bremerton and Pasco, Wash., were swept by large majorities, and large increases made in the vote in school districts where such elections were held.

It was from Bremerton that the sailors came who last summer wrecked the Socialist headquarters in Seattle after Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department made his stereotyped speech attacking Socialism at a banquet of the plutes and The Seattle Times printed a lot of lying stories about the Socialists. D. L. Cady, the mayor-elect of Bremerton, is a carpenter, and he was opposed by the so-called "Citizens' party" candidate, backed by the combined old party bosses. The same scheme was played at Pasco when the old parties fused under the name of "Progressive Party." Perhaps if the Socialists could bribe Secretary Daniels to go about the country rapping Socialism and the red flag we would soon sweep the country.

HOW THEY DO THINGS IN KANSAS.

Eastern Socialists and especially those of the cities have little conception of how campaigns are carried on in the West, where towns are small and numerous, and where propaganda is done among the farmers. The writer of this article was raised on a farm in the West and is well acquainted with farm life and farm psychology. He sees no reason why farmers cannot be as easily converted to Socialism as other people who toil.

For nearly two months last fall, I was in the thick of the big congressional campaign in the Third District of Kansas and addressed during that time many meetings composed almost entirely of farmers. When election returns came in quite a number of rural townships were carried by the Socialist Party. We did not elect our candidate for Congress but we did poll over 12,000 votes, and after a few weeks of rest that district organization began the campaign of 1914.

Something like a dozen preachers helped to "stump" the district last fall and one of these is now devoting his entire time to field work for the party. He is a Baptist preacher who left a lucrative position to become a Socialist agitator. He was formerly an evangelist. This man—Reverend Madison—goes into the rural communities and conducts Socialist "revival meetings." He stays from one to two weeks, visits around in the daytime, just as a typical preacher does and conducts his meetings in the evening. He is having remarkable success. Crowds gather to hear him in increasing numbers and the meetings proceed with all the fervor of an old-time revival. He has already covered two counties thoroughly and is now in the third. I have been following his work closely for a couple of months and I am gathering information for a later report. Madison it seems is solving the problem of how to build a permanent movement in the rural districts.

Many of you suckers have decided that next year you will vote the Socialist ticket. But you won't. On Sunday before election the masters will get their best tools, the Catholic priests or Protestant preachers, to scare hell out of you by telling you the same old dope about Socialism being "against religion," and etc. If they don't happen to get you, the blood suckers who do the dirty work for the masters will get you as you go to the polls. In any event the masters will see to it that you vote safe and sane for their ticket again.

Breaking Up an American Home—Affidavit Showing Capitalism at Work

Capitalism—thou hideous monster—greedy, grasping, insatiate cannibal of the workers, there is nothing daunts you save the glaring light of truth—Socialism.

With your myriads of clutches in the form of petty business men you seek out the innocent and helpless and by your poisonous methods sting to death, morally and physically, your defenseless victims.

No working man's home is too sacred, no wife or child too innocent or helpless to appeal to your compassion.

Every home in the land which has suffered the tortures of being broken up, is chargeable to your damnable system of robbery and exploitation called PROFITS. Eighty-five per cent of the people are tenants and not thirty days removed from ejectment of their rented shacks; to-day in the city of Columbus there are 5,000 homes resting on the toe of the landlords who are ready to kick them out into the street, with nowhere on which he can go or stand.

Your relentless and remorseless system intimidates, coerces and compels the preacher, official and would-be capitalist—business man—do your building in oppressing the weak and unprotected.

Socialism never BROKE UP a home and never will. It never ruined your religion but has given life, love and beauty to Christianity here on this earth.

Our skirts are absolutely clean but read the AWFUL INDICTMENT OF CAPITALISM at work and working its allies in the following affidavit, and remember it may be your home, your wife and your children NEXT.

AFFIDAVIT.

STATE OF OHIO, FRANKLIN COUNTY, ss:

MYRTLE PATTERSON, being first duly sworn, says she was born of Catholic parents, Lafayette and Mary Jane Douglas, at Chillicothe, O., living with her parents at McArthur, O., and Wellston, O., where she married David D. Patterson in 1900, since which time they have lived in Nelsonville, O., Cincinnati, O., Napoleon, O., moving from the last mentioned place to Columbus, Ohio, on the 18th day of March, 1913, taking rooms at No. 40 S. Bell St. until their goods arrived on car from Napoleon.

THE WEST-SIDE FLOOD.

Affiant further says that while they were awaiting arrival of their goods the dreadful flood of March 25th to 30th came on and they lost everything they had, including household goods they brought with them, and cash amounting to $45.00 and jewelry of the value of $50.00; coal [illegible] Cut Rocks first driven by the water to the second floor, then [illegible] Bone Shore. From there to the roof of the Savage the [illegible] was seating of delegates.

[illegible] his report of the progress of [illegible] called attention to the fact that "The [illegible] the most progressive workmen's [illegible] decorate it with [illegible]. In reference to strikes he [illegible] at its shrine. History, as taught in [illegible] said, "The blank. Destroy it and the poets great theme is gone. Erase [illegible] memory, and the teaching of most patriots, orators and statesmen are set at naught: Who-what-where is it?—this thing that is not today, but which may be tomorrow; this modern Juggernaut that ruthlessly crushes devotee and foe alike, and levels to the dust the palaces of kings, the hovels of the poor, and the marble halls of learning; this perpetual sword of Damocles; this universal shirt of Nessus; this brimstone-hell of Theology; this eternal Nemesis of mankind? The answer is—WAR!

On with your war photoplays, your military dramas, your paintings of slaughter on the world's great battle fields, your history of bloody conflict between the peoples of the earth, your poems of dying soldiers in strange lands, and your statues to the official butchers—our military heroes. They all help to lessen the possibilities of wars in the future, because they help us to realize the horrors of wars in the past. And as the Socialist movement becomes more powerful, as the feeling or the realization of the brotherhood of man becomes more universal, we can hope that in the near future no man can be induced to shoulder a musket, for the purpose of shooting his brother full of holes.

WHAT WILL YOU DO?

We have now passed from the old year into the new year. Most of us resolve to do good things, to help others do good things, in fact we enter in the march of life to lift humanity to a higher standard—to make a better world to live in. Therefore we must not forget the lessons taught us during the past. It is a common saying by some "good" men and women that to do good we should forget the past and only consider the future.

Let us remember one lesson we have learned in the past at least. When Miss Rose Livingston, the "Angel of Chinatown," New York, lectured to men only at the Young Men's Christian Association here, setting forth the hellish conditions surrounding the children of the under-world; when she told of the human wrecks being wallowed in the gutters of sin and shame; when she told us proud American citizens of the ever recruiting thousands into this most damnable life of degradation, of that awful after-effect caused by desease to the on coming generation of society, and last but not least, that your daughter, your sister or your widowed wife may be in the ranks of the new recruits to bring shame and sorrow home to your door, and when this little frail woman shamed you—you were ashamed—and the house was like the silence of death until you realized your position, and then your voices echoed shame, shame, shame.

Will you forget this one lesson of the past taught by one who knows? Or will you resolve to find the cause and use your strength to wipe out forever and ever the system which produces it? Or will you remain in silence and allow this crime to humanity go on?

What are you going to do about it? Socialism is the remedy, but you good people are opposed to it just like the "good" people were opposed to Christ, whom you and your masters crucified upon the cross.

KARB AND FREEMAN FALL OUT

Luther Freeman, pastor First M. E. Church, this city, is mad at Karb. Karb is also mad at Freeman. It is war to the knife. It all started when Karb admitted that he had bankrupted the city and would have to cut out many city departments this year.

Freeman publicly scored his honor(?) and then his honor(?) handed out an interview challenging Freeman to give one month's salary to the city to help maintain those city departments.

Evidently Karb got under Freeman's hide when he hit him through the pocketbook, because preachers do love their coin, and last Saturday Freeman handed Karb out the following:

"Conditions did not seem so deplorable when you came into office two years ago. There are many citizens, too, who feel that the dignity of the city would be greatly enhanced if drunkenness, vulgarity and notoriously furniture at The Exchange Furniture & Stove Co. the salesman, whose name is unknown to affiant, insisted and persisted in trying to flirt with affiant, although she was heavy with child at the time, and when she was in the basement looking at furniture he insulted her by his indignities so that she afterwards reported the same to her husband and to the said Company and, that ON THE DAY OF THE TRIAL OF SAID HUSBAND SAID SALESMAN HAD LEFT TOWN; that while said furniture was at their home the son of said James [illegible] Ward called at their house and shook his fist in her face and demanded that she pay him $15.00 ($5.00 more than agreement called for) and keep and pay for the goods.

HARLEY S. HAGY IMPLICATED.

Affiant says that after their trouble in April with The Exchange Furniture & Stove Co. they purchased a bill of furniture of Harley S. Hagy, No. 90 West Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio, on installments, and had paid out on said furniture as she thought before any trouble occurred as hereinafter related.

POLICE OFFICERS CALL.

Affiant says that on Sunday, the 26th day of October, 1913, two officers from the Police Court called at her home, which was then at No. 200 South Mitchell Street, Columbus, Ohio, and placed affiant under arrest, saying Virginia Murray wants you at Juvenile Court, and that she was taken with the children, one aged eighteen months and the other eleven years, to the Juvenile Court and from there to the County Jail, the children being detained at the Juvenile Detention Home on Mound Street.

IMPRISONED IN COUNTY JAIL.

Affiant says she was imprisoned in the County Jail from said 26th day of October till Tuesday morning, October 28th, 1913, during which time she had the following conversation with Virginia Murray:

JUVENILE COURT SHOWS ITS POWER.

Affiant says that on Monday, October 27th, about three o'clock, Virginia Murray called at the County Jail and told her SHE MUST GET RID OF HER HUSBAND, and if she did not, she (Virginia Murray) WOULD PUT AFFIANT IN AN INSTITUTION WHERE SHE COULD NOT GET OUT, to which affiant replied that she would not do so; that Virginia Murray then told affiant IF SHE WOULD PERMIT HER TO PUNISH HER HUSBAND, SHE WOULD LET AFFIANT OUT OF JAIL, to which she replied, her husband was not guilty of any crime that she knew of, AND REFUSED TO SWEAR TO A LIE TO GAIN HER LIBERTY; that on Tuesday morning affiant was taken to Juvenile Court and Miss Murray brought Judge Black to her in the waiting room and stated to the Judge, "THAT AFFIANT WAS WILLING TO GO TO THE ST. ANTHONY'S HOSPITAL AND SHE WOULD SEND THE LARGEST GIRL WITH HER AND THE SMALLEST TO ST. ANN[illegible] [illegible] MAN[illegible] TIM[illegible]

THE SHERIFF OF FRANKLIN COUNTY DROVE UP IN AN AUTOMOBILE, CAME IN AND PLACED HER UNDER ARREST AND TOOK HER TO THE COUNTY JAIL, WHERE SHE WAS IMPRISONED UNTIL THURSDAY MORNING ABOUT 8 O'CLOCK.

WIFE OF SHERIFF INTIMIDATES PRISONER.

Affiant says that when she was landed in said jail the wife of the Sheriff asked her where her husband was, and she replied that he was in Nelsonville, O., then the Sheriff's wife told affiant that VIRGINIA MURRAY WOULD NOT LET HER OUT THIS TIME UNTIL AFFIANT WOULD SWEAR OUT A WARRANT FOR HER HUSBAND'S ARREST, to which affiant replied SHE WOULD NOT SWEAR TO A LIE IF SHE KEPT HER IN THERE FOREVER; that Virginia Murray afterwards sent affiant word by the Sheriff's wife that she would put affiant in an institution where she could not get out and to tell her "I WILL TAKE ALL HER CHILDREN AWAY FROM HER UNLESS SHE SWEARS TO AFFIDAVIT FOR HER HUSBAND'S ARREST."

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN IMPLICATED.

Affiant says that on Wednesday, November 5, 1913, two doctors came and pretended to make a medical examination and one of the doctors, a light haired man, said, "YOU CAN'T SEND HER TO THE ASYLUM," when [illegible]'s wife whispered to him, "SEND HER OVER ON AN AFFECTED [illegible]" which the doctor replied, "WE CAN HARDLY DO THAT."

[illegible] TO HOSPITAL HUNGRY.

[illegible] to the State Hospital on Thursday, November 9th, after [illegible] without having any breakfast, and was compelled to stay there under the [illegible]ers of Judge Black until Thursday before Christmas, but that the hospital doctor was kind to her, and told her THERE WAS NOTHING WRONG WITH HER BUT JUDGE BLACK HAD INSTRUCTED HIM TO KEEP HER THERE A WHILE, and that on another occasion the doctor said there was nothing the matter with her, AND HER PLACE WAS AT HOME WITH HER FAMILY AND THAT SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE WITH THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR SENDING HER OUT THERE.

WOE, WORRY AND WORMS ON BILL OF FARE.

Affiant says that while she was confined in said County Jail, SHE WAS SERVED WITH BOILED BEANS AND MEAT, IN WHICH THERE WAS NOT LESS THAN TWENTY WORMS FULLY AN INCH LONG IN ONE PAN IN WHICH SHE WAS SERVED, AND THAT WITH THE WOE, WORRY AND WORMS DISHED UP TO HER SHE WAS MOST MISERABLE ALL THE TIME WHILE THERE, BUT THAT AT THE STATE HOSPITAL SHE WAS GIVEN KIND TREATMENT BY ALL AND MADE TO FEEL THAT SHE WAS STILL A HUMAN BEING.

THIRD DAY, JANUARY [illegible]

[illegible] derful spirit and determination displayed by the pioneers of the organization and the success that had crowned their efforts. Convention adjourned until Friday, the 16th.

[illegible] peace on earth good will to men [illegible] rolled away? Or will he find us still unprepared—find us still enveloped in the immense ball of profit that has deprived us of life and light, has kept us engulfed and enshrouded in ignorance, darkness and sin?"

WATERING THE MULE

The following from the columns of last "Sunday's Dispatch" is very gratifying:

MORE WATER FOR EMPLOYES.

"One large manufacturing firm in the East does not think that it is sufficient to provide a supply of pure drinking water and sanitary fountains from which it may be procured without danger of infection. This firm's staff medical adviser believes that few persons drink enough water and that their efficiency is lowered because of this lack. Accordingly in addition to the usual water supply, waiters are sent through the factory at regular intervals throughout the day bearing trays full of individual water glasses filled with pure water. Every workman is offered a drink. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred he accepts, so, according to the theory of the company doctor his efficiency is increased. Incidentally much time is saved through the fact that the workmen who would otherwise have to leave their work for a trip to the drinking fountain can now stay at their tasks."

Now if this concern will also bring around a tray and feed the animals, no doubt the slaves can be made still more efficient.

To be sure, this would cost more than the water, but we believe that it could be made profitable. Besides the spectacle of free-born Americans, eating out of their master's hands, and drinking out of their master's watering trough, ought to be pay enough for the exploiters, in thus crushing the spirit out of human beings and rendering them more servile and docile, in order that more profits may be squeezed out of their hides.

HE COULD AF-FORD IT

Many inquiries have reached this office in reference to our attitude toward Henry Ford of the Ford Automobile Works of Detroit, Mich., who recently granted an increase of wages to his employes, with a minimum wage of $5.00 per day.

We wish to say that as far as Mr. Ford personally is concerned, we will give him the benefit of the doubt and presume that he is a man with a heart. Under the system of capitalism he is absolutely helpless. It is impossible for him to get down completely off the workers' backs, BECAUSE THE WORKERS DECREE OTHERWISE AT THE BALLOT BOX. It seems he has done the next best thing, and given them a large slice, probably with the hope that they will wake up and want more.

The real lesson, however, to be learned from this incident is that it shows THE ENORMOUS PROFITS CAPITALISTS ARE ENABLED TO COLLECT FROM LABOR, DUE TO THE PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF THE TOOLS OF INDUSTRY. The workers employed in this plant, undoubtedly had no idea they were producing so much value each day.

The workers in other industries will now also open their eyes to the enormous toll collected from them each day by the capitalist who owns the tools with which labor works.

Another lesson to be learned is that if Ford has the power to raise wages, he also has the power to lower wages, through his ownership of this industry, and that the only way for labor to be free and independent is to vote for Socialism and the ownership of the tools.

Socialism is the collective ownership of the things collectively used, and the private ownership of the things privately used. Now try and think of something collectively used, that you think should be collectively owned.

Our offer of $1.00 to be given to the first wage slave who applies and admits he voted for Karb still stands. Come on, Demmies, where's your nerve?

Capitalism is plain hell.

Jesus said, "He who does not provide for his own is worse than an infidel." The word "provide" means to look ahead. When you vote a Socialist ticket it means that you are providing for your own. When you vote a Democrat, Republican, or Bull Moose ticket it means you are providing for someone else's own. Some so-called Christian people say that "all infidels are going to hell." According to the words of Jesus, the infidels will have plenty of good company.

People had better starve than send their tender children into the Hell holes called factories.

Reduction of father's wages forces child into shop. Its low wages in turn again reduces father's wages.

BRYAN, GREAT COME-ONER

Secretary Bryan has always gone on the idea that he seen his duty, and done it. If anybody has done better, that is their business, not his, and he refuses to bother about it.

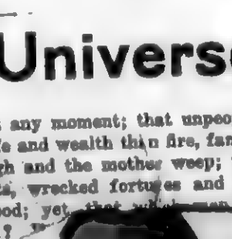
After his address to the conference called to organize a popular government league, Miss Helen Todd, of California, arose and said: "How about justice for women? You've talked about justice, but you haven't mentioned women at all. How about it, Mr. Bryan?"

Then, in his most popular cross of gold manner, the Secretary said: "Madam, in all you have done, I have no doubt that you have followed your judgment and your conscience as I have done myself."

It should have satisfied her. But what in the dickens did it mean?

It meant that Secretary Bryan is perfectly satisfied. Like the garrulous lady in Boucicault's play, he "talks a lot, but doesn't seem to manage to say anything."

Bryan has gone back and forth throughout the length and breadth of the land, prating about democracy, orating about democracy, preaching morality and justice. In the face of a direct, plain, honest question about democracy, he resorts to a platitude and strikes a pose. His intentions may have been good and he may have known what he intended. But what he meant and why he said it is not apparent to fuller intellects.



Here is half the population of this country, and only in a few States have they any say in the government. In none of the great industrial States, excepting two, are they able to vote. In the East, where women workers fill the mills and factories, they are voteless. But could Bryan be expected to understand this and think of it in terms of justice?

Not while he is the great come-oner. His mission is not to enlighten, but to befog, and he knows through his peerless oratory how to do it.—N. Y. Call.

Riddle of the Universe

What is it that all men hate, yet fear at any moment; that unpeoples nations and peoples hell; that destroys more life and wealth than fire, famine and pestilence; that makes the sweetheart sigh and the mother weep; that leaves in its trail pyramids of broken hearts, wrecked fortunes and lost souls, mountains of bones, and rivers of blood; yet [illegible] are willing any day to create, foster and maintain?

PRIVATE RED-CROSS RE[illegible]

Affiant says they made arrangements as the waters subsided and called upon [illegible] after necessity stared them in the face, but [illegible] ignored their requests until the Socialists commenced [illegible] them to disgorge $47,000.00, out of which they [illegible] the sum of $25.00 only, while others not so desperately [illegible] two and three checks for larger amounts, together with much clothing, furniture and bed furnishings.

THE EXCHANGE FURNITURE & STOVE CO.

Affiant says that she and husband went to the Exchange Furniture & Stove Company, located at 691-5 North High Street, and there looked at and purchased furniture to the amount of $56.00, to be delivered and paid for at the rate of $10.00 per month, but when said furniture was delivered it was not what they had purchased, nor all they had purchased, and the bill was padded to $156.00; that both she and her husband complained and refused to receive the furniture and ordered it taken away, but that said Exchange Furniture & Stove Co. sent their collectors and men to her house and threatened, bulldozed and intimidated her until her husband became enraged and threatened to throw all the old junk into the street, if they did not take it away, after which said Company came and took the said plunder and then instituted criminal proceedings against her said husband for obtaining goods under false pretenses.

THE POLICE COURT TAKES A HAND.

In the Police Court, after some delays the case was called and her husband, David D. Patterson, was released, affiant says, because there was no case, and Police Prosecutor, Hugo N. Schlesinger, gave James A. Ward, Manager of said Exchange Furniture & Stove Co. a severe reprimand for slandering said David D. Patterson and his family in the newspapers, and for his DETERMINED ATTEMPT TO PALM OFF A LOT OF SECOND-HAND JUNK AT MANY TIMES ITS VALUE ON UNFORTUNATE FLOOD-SUFFERERS.

Affiant further states that when she and husband were looking at said disorderly conduct on our public streets should be strictly dealt with, however high in political standing the offender may be."

Wow! Freeman, we guess, must read the Columbus Socialist. We don't find him on the sub list, but if some one will be kind enough to hand up a quarter we will put him on for 40 weeks.

This paper, however, wishes to congratulate Mr. Freeman for the stand he has taken for public decency, and assure him, that the system of capitalism for which he and Mr. Karb both stand, is inherently immoral, and rotten, and if he is sincere in wishing to see a genuine housecleaning in political and moral life, then he is essentially a Socialist, and must declare himself.

As matters now stand he and Karb both stand on the same platform—both stand for the same system of government, which allows a few capitalists to own the industries, and employ child labor, and rob labor of its products, which is in direct conflict with the word of the prophet in Eccl. who says: "It is good for a man to enjoy the good of ALL his labor. IT IS THE GIFT OF GOD."

Forbidden Fruit

W. W. Green.

In our bible we are told that in the garden of Eden, there was one tree the fruit of which it was forbidden to partake thereof. Theologians differ in opinion as to the kind of fruit referred to.

But, since we are told the partaking of this fruit has caused all the evils that befall mankind, and as the "love of money is the root of all the evils that befall mankind, it is a logical deduction that the fruit of another man's toil is the "forbidden fruit."

A person to save a million dollars would have to lay by five dollars each day of the year for 540 years. A coal miner to become a millionaire would have to "fan bugdust" to beat the band.

It is plain to be seen that when one person becomes immensely rich that he does so at the expense of others. Consequently the environments that have surrounded us for countless ages—greed on one side, poverty on the other—keeps us ignorant, deprives us of knowledge of good and evil, and sin runs rampant throughout the world.

Even the "Usurer" who is spoken of in the bible as the most undesirable citizen, has no idea how his methods are sapping the very "tree of life" itself or he would never again hold up his head and brazenly declare himself a follower of the lowly Nazarene who scourged the money changers out of the temple.

Let us suppose that one dollar has been put out at the birth of Christ bearing six per cent interest compounding every six months. The sum total of the interest and principal on that one dollar up to date would amount to more than one trillion decillions of dollars; a sum so large that were it represented by gold at its present value, would make a ball so large that, supposing the center of the sun were the center of the ball of gold, every star that can be seen with our best telescopes would be buried beneath its surface. If all the dollars of the world were as large as moons and were placed in a row, and inserted into the ball of gold they would reach no deeper in proportion than would a pin into a prize pumpkin at the State fair. This is only counting from [illegible] when [illegible] Bethlehem hung

For nearly two months last fall, I was in the thick of the big congressional campaign in the Third District of Kansas and addressed during that [illegible] other men [illegible] but because she was not sick was released the same day with her child, and on the next day, Virginia Murray hearing she was out sent two Juvenile Court officers after them to take them back; affiant refused to go BUT THEY TOOK THE CHILD, ESTHER PATTERSON, CONFINED HER IN THE TUBERCULOSIS WARD AT SAID ST. ANTHONY'S HOSPITAL, where she has been since, EXPOSED TO THAT DREAD DISEASE, ALTHOUGH NEITHER SHE NOR HUSBAND NOR ANY OF THEIR PEOPLE have any tubercular affection unless she contracted same within the prison walls of Franklin County Jail, and that she and husband are denied the privilege of visiting said child.

VIRGINIA MURRAY TEARS UP LETTER.

Affiant says that neither she nor her husband are permitted to see their said child since the child told them that VIRGINIA MURRAY TORE UP LETTERS WHICH SAID CHILD WROTE, SEALED, STAMPED AND ADDRESSED TO HER FATHER AND GRANDFATHER BECAUSE SHE STATED IN THE LETTERS SHE DID NOT LIKE THE PLACE AND WANTED TO COME HOME.

ST. ANN'S INFANT ASYLUM PLAYS PART.

Affiant says the other child, Marbine Patterson, was taken to St. Ann's Infant Asylum at Bryden Road and Rose Avenue, where it has been detained ever since, although said child was perfectly healthy then and still is free from disease unless contracted in said institution, WHERE AFFIANT IS NOT PERMITTED TO GO TO SEE HER SAID CHILD.

TRICKED BY THE SHERIFF OF FRANKLIN COUNTY.

Affiant says that on Friday, the 7th day of November, 1913, she called by phone to inquire about the child Esther at St. Anthony's Hospital, when she was told she could have the child and to come and get her that day; that affiant went after the said child, arriving at said hospital about 11 o'clock A. M., and was told by the sister she would have to wait about twenty minutes until they could get the child ready; that she waited some two hours, being told from time to time to wait just a little longer, WHEN BLACK, WHERE SAID JUDGE, DISREGARDING THE RULE OF LAW THAT "NO ONE SHALL BE REQUIRED TO INCRIMINATE HIMSELF," said Judge made most desperate efforts to compel her said husband to TESTIFY AGAINST HIMSELF, and to ADMIT THAT HE WAS GUILTY OF SOME CRIME NOT EVEN MENTIONED TO HIM, and of which he was not guilty, NOR HAD ANY CHARGE OF CRIME BEEN PLACED AGAINST HIM, but that Virginia Murray told the Judge that he had been out to the hospital raising a disturbance, but that her SAID HUSBAND SAID HE TOLD MISS MURRAY TO HER FACE THAT SHE WAS TELLING A FALSEHOOD, AND THAT HE DID NOTHING OF THE KIND, and was then sent back to jail for investigation and held for several days.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO FORCE ADMISSION OF GUILT.

Affiant says her husband stated to her that on December 9th, 1913, he was again taken before said Judge Black, when said Judge again tried to force him to admit his guilt of some crime of which he knew not the nature and was not guilty, but which he refused to do, and then said Judge tried to force her said husband to always ask his permission to leave the city or see his said children, which he also refused to do; THAT NO CHARGE WAS EVER PLACED AGAINST HER SAID HUSBAND so far as she was ever able to find out and he was released from jail on December 9th, 1913.

CATHOLICISM VERSUS SOCIALISM.

Affiant says said Virginia Murray and many of the others implicated in the above statements are Catholics, BUT THAT THERE ARE PLENTY OF PROTESTANTS ALSO WHO ARE NO BETTER, and it is the firm belief of affiant that BECAUSE SHE WAS RAISED A CATHOLIC, AND HER HUSBAND IS A SOCIALIST, MISS MURRAY IS ONLY CARRYING OUT THE DICTATES OF SOMEONE HIGHER UP IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH TO SEPARATE HER FROM HER HUSBAND OR TAKE HER CHILDREN AWAY FROM HER.

BREAKING UP THE AMERICAN HOME.

Affiant says she had heard of many other cases equally as disgraceful in which Catholics and Protestants have joined hands in using all the powers of political and business life to accomplish their purpose, and that it is all done in the name of religion for nothing else but profit.

WHOLE FAMILY TAKES A FIRM STAND FOR SOCIALISM.

Affiant further says that she and her brother and her father have now all taken a firm stand for Socialism, and shall do all in their power for that cause and are anxious to study its principles and learn of its beauties as fast as possible; that so far as they have observed, THE PRINCIPLES OF SOCIALISM ARE MORE HUMANE, MORAL, INTELLIGENT AND CHRISTIAN THAN ANY THING SHE HAS EVER BEEN ABLE TO SEE IN EITHER THE CATHOLIC OR PROTESTANT CHURCHES.

TAKING GREAT RISK FOR CONSCIENCE'S SAKE.

AFFIANT SAYS SHE IS FULLY AWARE OF THE DESPERATE CHARACTER OF THE PEOPLE SHE MUST FACE IN THIS MATTER, AND THAT IT MAY MEAN IMPRISONMENT FOR HER AND HER HUSBAND AND SEPARATION OF THEIR CHILDREN FROM THEM, BUT THAT THEY HAVE BEEN PERSECUTED AS LONG AS THEY CAN STAND IT FOR THE SAKE OF A FORLORN HOPE OF GETTING THEIR CHILDREN, WHOM THEY LOVE AS MUCH AS ANY FATHER AND MOTHER LOVE THEIR CHILDREN, BUT ALL EFFORTS HAVE FAILED AND THEY NOW RENOUNCE ALL OBEDIENCE TO THEIR PERSECUTORS AND EXPECT THE WORST TO COME, WHICH CAN BE NO [illegible] THE DESPAIR OF HAVING THEIR HOME BR[illegible] OF VILLAINS.

[illegible] way morning on October 27, 1913, one Harry S. Hagy, furniture [illegible] 90 West Broad Street, Columbus, O., came to their home with [illegible] and broke open the house, removed all their furniture, much of which was not purchased of him (and all of which was paid for except 25 cents on one screen door), and that the value of the furniture so taken, stolen and carried away was worth $100.00 and could not be replaced for that sum.

ALSO LIED.

Affiant says that said Hagy lied to her father by telling him that he, Hagy, had been to the County Jail and obtained the consent of affiant to remove the furniture, which was absolutely false, and that said Hagy had been at her home on Sunday before and told diher sister to leave the premises as she had been stealing some of the furniture.

PROTESTANT CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL NO BETTER THAN CATHOLIC.

Affiant says that while she was in the State Hospital her husband came home from Nelsonville and, finding how things were, he immediately began a search for the remnants of the family, and the first one he found was the baby at the Children's Hospital, located at the corner of Miller Avenue and Franklin Park South; that said husband called by phone and got permission to come or go to see the child, and that after he had been there some time nursing the child he started to leave after trying to find out where the other children were AND WAS MET AT THE DOOR BY A DEPUTY SHERIFF.

OFFICIALS LAYING IN WAIT FOR FATHER.

Affiant says that her husband told her that as he was leaving said Protestant Children's Hospital, he was arrested by a Deputy Sheriff and hurried to the County Jail and imprisoned on December 1st, 1913, and kept in said jail until December 9th, 1913, and that he had to sleep on the hard stone floor with only a very THIN MATTRESS UNDER HIM, WHICH WAS ALWAYS DAMP, AND FROM WHICH HE BECAME INFESTED WITH BODY LICE AND OTHER VERMIN, AND THAT ON TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2nd, HE WAS TAKEN BEFORE JUDGE SAMUEL L.

Another Victory for the Union! Force "Scab" Pen to Reduce Hrs. to 52 a Week

The Glass Workers' Union has won its first big victory. It has forced the Federal Glass Co. to reduce the hours of the "scabs" from 59 hours to 52 per week as the strike breakers are deserting right and left.

That the union will be stronger than ever is demonstrated by the fact that the national organization is now voting on a proposition to raise the strike benefits from $6.00 per week to $9.00 or $10.00 per week.

Last Sunday a notorious "scab" named Charles Mackiefish got soaked up with bad booze inside the company barracks, and went on a rampage. Before he got through, he bit another "scab" on the leg, barked like a dog, and finally ran his head into a post. He was so badly injured that the company sent him to the hospital. Whoever heard of a decent, honest worker being treated with such consideration. This shows the desperate situation the concern is in.

LAST SUNDAY THE UNION TOOK FOURTEEN MORE STRIKE BREAKERS AWAY AND SHIPPED THEM OUT OF TOWN.

When a scab leaves the barracks for any reason he has an escort in the person of a big company guard.

President Beatty of the Federal Glass Works has at last found his true level. He is such a scab lover that Xmas day he sat down to a spread furnished by himself with all the scabs in his employ. He was never known to deign to notice an honest worker, because they are too high above his pigmy soul. In the society of scabs, however, he feels quite at home, thank you. It is a case of "Scabs of a feather flocking together."

A buzzard is a bird that lives on the carrion and offals that nothing else will touch. A HUMAN BUZZARD IS INFINITELY LOWER THAN ITS PROTOTYPE.

They have two human buzzards down at the Glass Works, in the persons of scabs Col. Young and Milton Fosburg. These two degraded beings who for a few "joy rides" and little pay, who are attempting to keep up the supply of scabs, are more despised even by the strike breakers than was Judas of old. January 2 these two peanut heads left for Corning, N. Y., in an attempt to get men. They represented to the workers of Corning that the strike was settled, but they came back empty handed.

This is not the first time these two skunks have scabbed. Young has scabbed at Charleroix, Pa., and Rochester, Pa.

Fosburg has scabbed so many times that the mind of man runneth not to the contrary. About eighteen months ago he was fired from the Federal Glass Works, and Beatty, the president, declared he would not take him back under any circumstances. The only job he can get and hold, is one that no one else wants. When he was working, before being fired, he was always preaching Union Labor. While in Rochester, Pa., he begged the union organizer, now on the job here, to "go over and organize the Glass Workers in Columbus, if you never do another good act in your life." He volunteered his services in the campaign of organization, and is now pulling Beattie's leg for "joy rides." The Judas was dressed better in the one year he was in a union shop than all the other time he has been scabbing.

The conditions existing in this scab pen are intolerable under non-union conditions. For instance, the union hours per week are 49. This shop has been making the men work 59 hours per week. The vicious system of fining also exists, and men were laid off a week if for any reason they failed to show up on Sunday night.

If a boy accidentally broke a window he was fined 50c for a 10c glass. If a man walked over in the girls' department he was fined 50c. Now the "scabs" wander all over the shop. We warn the fathers of these girls that they had better keep their daughters at home until the strike is over, AS THE SAME ROOF SHOULD NOT SHELTER YOUR DAUGHTER AND A SCAB.

The men in the Ohio Penitentiary would not change places with these low, vile bums, who are licking the boots of their masters, in attempting to break the strike and take the bread and butter out of the mouths of the wives and children of as true-hearted and manly a bunch of men as ever struck for a little more of the good things of life, that their own hands create.

Of course the Federal can't afford to pay the union scale although the Ford Auto Works are paying a minimum scale of $5.00 per day.

The boys are more and more determined to win out, and are showing a spirit of working class solidarity seldom equaled.

FLYING SQUADRON.

If the sub list keeps rising at its present rate, we will go into this campaign with between 12 and 18 thousand subscribers.

With that many subs in this district, we will give the old parties something to talk about besides "Free trade," "Currency bills" and such balderdash.

We will make them combine to beat us, because they know only too well, that our normal strength in this county is about 11,000. With the complete breakdown of the Democratic administration, together with the lesson the workers are learning this winter we have an excellent opportunity to put across a congressman next fall. Remember that the American people around are not slow in redressing their wrongs.

Everything depends upon organization, and literature. Make next week the biggest week yet for subs. With every club of six or more you are entitled to any one of Comrade Creel's books FREE, as per adv. in another column.

This is not a bribe, but is done in order to push along the educational work, and applies any place in Ohio or the nation. An order for six 40-weeks' sub cards enclosing $1.50 to pay for same will bring whatever book you may select, and the sub cards by return mail, or send or bring in the six subs and get your book. On with the good work.

Comrade Miller makes it a bunch of fifteen all at one time. He had 40 but 25 of the boys got laid off and couldn't afford to spend the quarter. This is where an agitation fund would come in handy, as we would like to have these men on the sub list. If any of you comrades want to help out in this manner forward what you wish. For every dollar we will put four on the list for 40 weeks.

Comrade Ebright slips in while the door is open, throws a list of nine at our editorial cranium and silently steals away.

Comrade Koehler thinks we are putting out "some paper" and boosts the game with a list of six.

Local Norwalk orders a bundle of 100 for distribution.

Comrade Stein, Lancaster, O., sent in a list of four for 40 weeks. The state is up and at 'em, and we are moving forward all along the line.

CREEL MEETING A GRAND SUCCESS.

Last Sunday night at Federation Hall, Comrade H. G. Creel closed what was undoubtedly the most successful week of propaganda ever held by Local Columbus.

In addition to placing several hundred new subscribers on the sub list of this paper and "The Globe Trotter," the new Literary Digest of the Socialist Press, edited by Comrade Creel, many new applications for membership were received, and new enthusiasm instilled into the old members.

At the Sunday meetings it was decided that Comrade Creel must give Local Columbus a return date, and consequently the crowds pledged themselves to sell 500 twenty-five-cent sub cards to "The Globe Trotter," which will insure that Comrade Creel will be with us the last week in March.

His keen logic and masterful delivery won the hearts of all his hearers, and we can truthfully state, that Comrade Creel has left the Socialist party of Columbus firmer, stronger, and better, than he found it, and all impatiently await his return.

We understand that Mayor Karb is learning a new song entitled, "I've been drunk for the last six months, have Carter show me the way to go home."

Why not be a man and vote for your own class—the Working Class? Isn't it more than likely that your own class would legislate in the interest of their own class?

Und[illegible] his report of the progress of th[illegible] called attention to the fact that "The [illegible]or the most progressive workmen's [illegible]ears [illegible]." In reference to strikes he [illegible]as they [illegible]—Continuing he said, "The [illegible]down [illegible] May and has cost a large su[illegible] mem[illegible] injunctions and every oth[illegible] laid down [illegible]ike a failure but, thank[illegible] of which you can[illegible] been able to ke[illegible] Can you become a m[illegible] Demo-Repo party? No you [illegible] "votin' cattle." The bosses of old parties dictate the appointments.

If the wage slaves go "early to bed" and are "early to rise," this arrangement makes the boss "healthy, wealthy and wise."

While you are trudging to work early these winter mornings just remember that the boss is enjoying a nice morning nap, cuddled up among real nice woolen blankets. But, then, Socialism would "destroy your incentive," because it would shorten your hours of labor. YOU CIDEVAUT! (With apologies to the O. S. J.)

The new currency bill is now a law. Have you wage slaves any elastic currency yet? "You should worry and get a pimple."

And then if you voted for Socialism, which would be a vote for wife and kiddies, you "would lose your vote." Every time you vote a capitalist ticket you lose your vote, because you are voting for something you do not want. Be a man. Vote for what you want whether you get it immediately or not. Vote for your own class.

Soon the workers on the industrial field will be organized into one organization, and then with one Political Party on the political field we will sweep the world for the workers.

Purchase of our advertisers, and remember that those who refuse to advertise in this paper are labor haters.

Socialism is a system of government that will fill the world with gladness and laughter. It is Christ's kingdom of heaven on earth.

You have been taught to believe that hell is a place where you will burn for ever and ever. That's what Bill Sunday says. We wonder what kind of fuel they use? We are beginning to believe that it must be oil—Standard Oil, and John D. is in league with the devil to furnish it. Many a wage slave would be more comfortable down there, up against a nice hot furnace, than up here freezing.

To reduce the high cost of living the department of agriculture recommends popcorn for breakfast. The expense could still be lowered by eating shavings for dinner and wind pudding for supper. The whole mess should be washed down with a good supply of rain water containing mully-grubs.

A French physician proposes to cure insomnia by an antitoxin. Fine! The only thing we want now is something to wake those working asses who appear to be asleep all the time. The policeman's club on the noodle of an emptybellyite has proven to be a very good remedy if given in large doses.

An old lady whose husband had been dead some years went to a medium, who produced the spirit of her dead husband.

"My dear John," said the widow to the spirit, "are you happy now?"

"I am very happy," John replied.

"Happier than you were on earth with me?" she asked.

"Yes," was the answer; "I am far happier now than I was on earth with you."

"Tell me, John, what is it like in heaven?"

"Heaven?" said John. "I am not in heaven!"

POLITICS AT HOME.

Little Millie's father and grandfather were Republicans; and, as election drew near, they spoke of their opponents with increasing warmth, never heeding Millie's attentive ears and wondering eyes. One night, however, as the little maid was preparing for bed, she whispered in a frightened voice: Oh, mamma, I don't like to go upstairs. I'm afraid [illegible]

[illegible] was introduced MAKING GOOD IN HARD TIMES w[illegible] derful spirit and determination displayed by the pioneers of the organization and the success that had crowned their efforts. Convention adjourned until Friday, the 16th.

THIRD DAY, JANUARY [illegible]

Did you know [illegible] in this city 249 MORE arrests were made in Columbus during 1913 than in 1912. If you did not it is your duty to look the matter up and investigate.

Is it because the people are becoming worse at heart? Why should they? Haven't they been preached to day in and day out, and been told that "property is sacred." If after preaching all these years the people are getting worse then why keep up the high pay of the many preachers? But it is not true that the people are getting worse at heart. THEY ARE ONLY GETTING ROBBED WORSE.

Labor-saving machinery is constantly throwing men out of work and putting them on the scrap heap, and as self preservation is the first law of nature, these victims steal rather than starve and so will YOU when YOU ARE REDUCED TO THAT LEVEL.

Were the machines of industry owned by all the people through their government and democratically managed in the interest of all of us, giving each and every one the full equivalent of his or her product, crime would disappear, like dew before the rising sun.

BUT THAT WOULD BE SOCIALISM AND IT WOULD "BREAK UP YOUR HOME," WOULDN'T IT?

You prefer to have a master class own the tools of industry and collect tribute from your labor, which they can levy due to their private ownership of something that all the people need, and use collectively. But you will investigate this matter further some day and then you will understand.

ARE GOOD SOCIALISTS SCARCE?

The people of this nation are stricken with the Industrial Depression that extends from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. And the good of it is, it has set them to thinking. Those who were formerly half-baked or sympathetic socialists are now convinced that the Socialist Party is the only party that has a remedy for crises of this kind through the collective ownership and democratic management of the collectively used machinery of production and distribution and they are ready to be enlisted under the banner of Industrial Freedom.

Next fall they will send representatives to Washington to legislate in the interest of the working class but to accompush good results, a sufficient number must be sent and one must be sent from our district. To do this, we must organize these people; and for this purpose we are going to put workers in every precinct (or if possible, in every block) to distribute literature, call on prospecive converts and do other work of agitation, education and organization.

The first ward is already organized and at it; and I want every socialist who is really imbued with the socialist spirit and willing to sacrifice just a little of his or her time to send me their name and address to Room 68, Wesley Block, Columbus, or hand it in at the next meeting of local Columbus. A number have already been enlisted and whether you volunteer or not the work will proceed with whatever force we can muster. But as this is your fight you should be found on the firing lines with the rest. The work of organization and education is the most important we have to face. Decide right now to enlist and send in your name at once. By this step, the true worth of those who profess to be socialists, will be manifested.

W. E. BUES,
Organizer.

The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8, has saved many hundred dollars in court costs, loss of time and attorney fees the past year for working men by having them schedule all their debts and paying the amount required by law on their debts through The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8.

See this company—List your debts. (Adv.)

Employe—Sir, I would respectfully ask you for an increase of salary; I have got married lately.

Manager of Works—Very sorry, Hörneyhand, I can be of no assistance to you. The company is not responsible for any accidents that happen to its employes when off duty.

Socialist readers must form a closed corporation. They must be biased in favor of their own interests. They must say to the advertisers, "YOU can't GET OUR COIN unless you PATRONIZE OUR PAPER."

The advertisers will soon find out that the thousands of local Socialists and unionists must be reckoned with—that their trade is worth having, and that it is better to advertise in The Socialist and reach a definite number of customers than to advertise by the hit-or-miss method in the other papers.

Socialists are better paid and have more money than any other group of workers. This the advertiser must be made to understand.

Thus The Socialist can be placed on a firm basis when other papers feel things getting shaky.

The Socialist can be made better off at a time when things are not particularly bright by Socialists insisting that their trade can only be had by buying space in their paper, especially where there is less trade than usual.

IT'S EASY.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

A special call is made to all members of Local Columbus to be present next Wednesday evening. Business of the utmost importance to be taken up. A national and state committeeman to be nominated and elected; also a nomination for a delegate to the International Congress.
Don't fail to be present.

Last Wednesday evening quite a pleasant surprise was sprung on the members of Local Columbus, as Comrade Louis Davis, Mayor of Byesville, who is here as a delegate of the Mine Workers' convention appeared and gave an interesting talk. Louie is a coal heaver, according to his own statement, and he is the kind of a worker who will make good in the mayor's chair. Other visiting comrades from Coshocton, Bellaire and McLuney also spoke.

YOUNG SOCIALISTS AT WORK.

The Young People's Socialist League was organized for permanent work Friday night, January 2, 1914. Comrade Gerlach was elected as chairman of the evening. The permanent officers are Miss Welsh, recording secretary; Miss McDaniels, financial secretary, and an executive committee consisting of five members. The object of this league is to reach the youth of the city. Their minds being free from prejudice and tradition, make the best soil in which to sow Socialist seed. We ask the co-operation of all Socialists in this work. Next meeting Friday night, January 23, at 121½ East Town street.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

Comrade John Spargo will be here January 28th. Boost for a big meeting.

Comrade Creel has left behind him many warm friends due to his excellent propaganda lectures last week[illegible]

We ask the ward branches to turn in the news of interest in their branches as we would like to use it in this column.

STATE.

The Central Committee of Local Cleveland recommends to the State Executive Committee that all Cleveland speakers on the available list be retained, provided they furnished evidence of their being in good standing. The committee also authorized the organizer to issue a call for nomination for candidates for Congress and county candidates, who are to be selected by referendum. Details and blanks on which to certify nominations will be furnished to the branches later.

Representatives from a dozen Finnish Socialist locals held a state conference in Ashtabula Harbor January 4th. Good progress is shown in organization work. A national conference of Finnish Socialist locals will be held next month in Fitchburg, Mass.

Local Norwalk has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Recording and financial secretary, P. W. Haynes; financial secretary, W. H. Aggus; treasurer, Lillian Zimmerman; literature agent and librarian, W. H. Aggus; organizer, Anna L. Haynes. Meetings held second and last Sunday each month at 75 Benedict avenue.

NATIONAL.

LEAVES $11,000 FOR SOCIALISM.

Leon F. Chanute, the well-known Socialist agitator and Appeal hustler of Shreveport, La., who died recently, left $11,000 for the propaganda of Socialism. The will was made out to the national Socialist party after Fred D. Warren of the Appeal had declined to become the beneficiary of the money. A few months ago, Comrade [illegible] whose health is failing for some time, visited Girard and offered to leave his money to the Appeal in case of death. As it is unalterable policy of the Appeal not to accept cash donations, Warren advised him to leave it to the Socialist party. Chanute's will provides that his estate shall be spent in the purchase and circulation of Socialist literature. He named the Socialist publications he wished distributed and provided that they be sent to each registered voter in Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama and Kentucky and to other states, if there is any money left.

He Who Cannot Reason is a fool; He Who will not Reason is a Bigot; He Who Dare not Reason is a Slave.

A unique plan of industrial education has been worked out in Chicago by the carpenters' union. The plan is to have the apprentices in the carpenters' trade take three months, a year or more in the public technical schools at the expense of the contractor hiring the boys, and under the supervision of a joint board which is composed of representatives of the carpenters' union and the employers. This matter is covered in the apprentice rules adopted by the joint arbitration board of the carpenters' union and the master builders' association. This reads as follows: "The contractor taking an apprentice shall engage to keep him at work in the trade for nine consecutive months in each year and see that during the remaining three months of the year the apprentice attends school during January, February and March and a certificate of attendance from the principal of the school attended must be furnished the joint arbitration board as a compliance with this requirement before he is allowed to wo[illegible] during the coming year."—Industr[illegible] Education in Chicago, written in 19[illegible]

Amsterdam converts street waste into fuel briquettes. These are produced at $1.15 a ton and sold at $1.40, making a profit of over $20,000 a year. Heretofore this waste has been disposed of at an annual loss of $18,000.

After childbirth Swiss cities require a six weeks' cessation from work by women wage earners. Cologne has official visitors of the poor, one of whom calls on every wage earning woman who has given birth to a child. If the mother needs to go out to work, the fact is reported and a grant of money is made on condition that she stay at home and nurse her infant.—New York World, September 30, 1912.

SOCIALIST MAYOR PERFORMS A MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

At the mayor's office Tuesday afternoon, there was a marriage ceremony. George Himmelins and Miss Cornelia Ohlinger were united in wedlock. WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

Do you want to see "The Socialist" made the most powerful influence for the cause in the middle West? As you know, or should know, the greatest handicap is always finance.

We have been figuring on some way by which "The Socialist" might be placed on a firm financial basis.

Accordingly we have been in correspondence, with a large National Advertising Agency in reference to taking over our advertising.

They have practically agreed that if we double our circulation they will handle our advertising. Do you know what this means? It means that we can enlarge the paper to seven columns, while holding the sub price at the same figure as now, namely 25c for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more.

In order that we may put "The Socialist" on this firm financial basis and increase its size to seven columns, it is absolutely necessary that we double our circulation at once.

We are therefore sending a call to "The Flying Squadron" of "The Socialist" to double the circulation next week. The squadron is invincible, and includes every man, woman and child who reads this paper. We want a bigger and better paper, free from financial worry which is always a mill stone around the neck of a working class paper.

Will you be one who will take at least one subscriber for this paper next week? Particularly do we ask you Comrades out in the state to get in on this call. Think what it will mean to you to have a paper that can handle any particular aggravating labor incident in your locality.

With the financial worry off our shoulders we will then be in a position to send a representative on short notice to dig up the facts connected with any labor trouble in the State and tell the truth about conditions.

To make it possible for those who do not feel they can make up a club of four or more, for next week, and next week only, starting Monday, January 26th and ending Monday, February 2nd, you can turn in one sub and get the forty weeks' rate.

This does not apply to renewals—only new subs, and remember it lasts but one week.

We do this in order that every Comrade and friend now a subscriber, may be able to turn in at least one sub, and in this manner double the circulation in one week.

Many of you can make up a large club of four or more, and who can tell when the smoke clears away, we may have trebled the circulation.

Will you do your share to make "The Socialist" seven columns, four pages and help to put it on a firmer financial footing?

You will not have done your share unless you make it at least one new subscriber. With a much larger circulation it means a fighting chance for a Congressman next fall. Is this not worth the effort? On with the fight! Start now! And let us at least double the circulation in one week.—Next Week!

Revolutionary Miners Demand "Full Social Product of Their Toil"

Last week District No. 6 United Mine Workers' of America, the most revolutionary and progressive organization of workers on the industrial field today, met in their annual convention in this city.

When some pluto business men's organization sees fit to hold a convention in this city we find the city administration slobbering all over them, decorating the streets, meeting them with bands and bidding them welcome in a thousand different ways.

The scab Democratic administration now on the job here, completely ignored the miners, the daily capitalistic papers deliberately garbled the proceedings and many of the delegates are opposed to again holding the convention here.

Due to lack of space, it is impossible for this paper to give a full and complete report of the proceedings of the convention, but we give a resume of each day's proceedings.

FIRST DAY, JANUARY 13.

Convention called to order at 9:30 by President John Moore. President Moore then made a brief address of welcome, Secretary Savage then read the call of the convention. Next in order was seating of delegates. Under report of officers, President Moore made his report of the progress of the organization for the past year. He called attention to the fact that "The Workmen's Compensation Act is by far the most progressive workmen's compensation act in any state in our country." In reference to strikes he reported that there were very few at this time. Continuing he said, "The one at Elm Grove has been on since last May and has cost a large sum of money. The company has resorted to injunctions and every other weapon known to the employer, to make this strike a failure but, thanks to the sub-district officers and men on strike, we have been able to keep this mine idle and we hope for a settlement soon."

In touching on the West Virginia situation he reported that the strikes on at the time of holding the last convention were settled, in some cases organization established, while in other cases the miners were permitted to belong to the Union if they so desired.

On the Calumet horror of Xmas eve President Moore called the attention of the delegates to this great calamity and the fact that all of those killed were members of strikers' families.

He submitted the following as a few of the many needed reforms to be considered in the next scale.

1. That all coal be weighed before being screened and paid for on the mine-run basis.
2. The proper readjustment of the machine differential.
3. A uniform day wage scale and eight-hour work day for engineers, firemen, and all other classes of outside labor.
4. That all dead work shall be paid for.
5. A universal half holiday on Saturday of each week.

The other officers then made their reports and when the convention was called to order at 1:30 P. M. International President John P. White was presented to the convention and addressed the delegates. He spoke at length of the battle that had been waged in West Virginia during the past year and of the success that had attended the efforts of the organization to improve the conditions of the men in that field. He reviewed briefly the struggle now being carried on in Colorado and expressed the belief that the miners would ultimately be successful in both the West Virginia and Colorado strikes the President spoke of the many hardships endured by the miners in order to establish their right to belong to an organization. Mention was also made of the strike being conducted by the Western Federation of Miners in the Calumet region in Michigan.

SECOND DAY, JANUARY 14.

The most of this session was taken up in the discussion and adoption of resolutions. Resolution No. 3 provides for the establishment of "a press to take care of all printing in every branch of the U. M. W. of A." Resolution No. 15 provides that

"Be it Resolved, That our demands, heretofore made to Congress, that laws be enacted limiting the powers of courts in contempt and injunction cases so that the alleged offenders may be protected by the constitution and laws of our land, be renewed."

International Secretary-Treasurer Wm. Green was presented to the convention and gave an extended talk. Later Vice President Hayes also spoke and discussed at some length the strike that had been carried on in West Virginia and the great benefits that had accrued to the miners as a result of that struggle.

T. L. Lewis was introduced and also spoke. He spoke of the wonderful spirit and determination displayed by the pioneers of the organization and the success that had crowned their efforts. Convention adjourned until Friday, the 16th.

THIRD DAY, JANUARY 16.

The session opened with a report by the organization committee. We give the report in part and suggest that this be read carefully and particular notice be given the closing lines.

"While we realize that we have made wonderful progress in the years gone by on the industrial field, by increasing our wages, shortening our hours of labor, educating our children and relieving the distress of our brothers in so far as possible, yet we find that the miners in general, have been indifferent in our duties on the political field. During the past year there have been some very good laws passed by our General Assembly, especially the amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, but it is well known that by a united effort on the political field we could have enacted into the Statutes of our State laws that would be a great benefit to the laboring people, as well as the public in general. We therefore urge those of our members who know these things to be true to do all in their power to educate each other and the time will be short until we are all bound together in the golden bonds of friendship and our organization will be transformed from one in which we always have to be on the alert, to fight day in and day out to get a portion of that to which we are justly entitled to, into one where we can command and receive the full social value of our toil."

The convention took another progressive stand when they adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, Recognizing that industrial and economic conditions render it impossible for workmen to lay aside funds to care for them in their closing days, and

"Whereas, Society becomes indebted to them for their contribution to society and civilization; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this convention go on record favoring an old age pension law in this state, the funds to be collected and distributed in the same manner as the funds under the Workmen's Compensation Law."

At this time President Moore advised the delegates that F. E. Johnston, Editor of this paper, was in the hall and requested that he be given the floor to address the convention. The convention responded by extending us the courtesy of thirty minutes.

Upon taking the floor we informed the delegates that we would not consume so much time, and in a brief address urged upon the delegates the necessity of supporting working class papers.

We demonstrated how Columbus capitalist papers were garbling the news of the convention and nailed a lie that the "Columbus Citizen" representative was circulating, to the effect that said paper was a "Socialist" publication.

Resolution No. 45, introduced by Percy Tetlow, provided that

"Whereas, In the year 1913 more Ohio miners lost their lives than at any time in the State's history, that be it

"Resolved, That this convention go on record asking Congress to extend further aid to the Federal Bureau of Mines, that these great mineral resources may be conserved for future generations and that the great loss of life may be reduced; and that the government may place the great mining industry upon the plane required by our advanced civilization."

FOURTH DAY, JANUARY 17.

The convention this day wound up all its business and adjourned, many of the delegates going to Indianapolis to attend the national convention. An incident of this session was the nailing of a garbled lie printed by the Columbus Dispatch in an attempt to put the convention in bad and also knock ther competitor, "The Citizen." The Dispatch had published an article in their report of Friday's session in which they attributed the remarks of the editor of this paper to one of the delegates, and put words into his mouth which he did not use.

Our remarks bore on the capitalist press in general, which includes the Columbus Dispatch, and they certainly proved to the satisfaction of the delegates that our assertion that capitalist papers garble labor news was not ove.drawn. We only singled out the Columbus Citizen in one instance and informed the delegates that if they had subscribed for it under the impression that it was a Socialist paper they had been defrauded.

We trust that the convention will be taken care of next year by the Socialist Party of Columbus, as the convention could have used our hall and been saved some expense, besides feeling at home in headquarters kept up by the nickels and dimes of their own class.

As members of the working class of central Ohio, who see the dawn of a happier day, and as we stop in our daily grind to drop a tear on the graves of our brave and noble comrades who have gone down into the bowels of the earth to provide the earth with warmth and who have been murdered, beaten and crucified by the master class for profits, we bid the survivors be of good cheer.

The day of deliverance draws near. Not always will our class be denied the right to live on this common earth. Not always will we be excluded from the halls of learning, poetry and art. We are standing alone, erect, and are marching onward to complete and triumphant victory at the ballot box, backed up by our industrial organization.

Woe unto a master class that stands across our path.

All honor to the United Mine Worker of America.

JUDGE BLACK A DISGRACE TO OHIO BENCH

The following is a true copy of a letter Judge Samuel L. Black sent to the party addressed. It is couched in such beautiful and dignified language, especially for a capitalistic judge, that we can not do otherwise than print it verbatum. It was sent in reply to a circular Mr. Reichwold sent his honor in reference to keeping the Bible out of the public schools. (The capital letters are ours.—Editor.)

PROBATE COURT
FRANKLIN COUNTY
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
Samuel L. Black, Judge.

January the thirteenth
1914

Mr. E. C. Reichwald
Corresponding Secretary,
79 W. So. Water St
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th, and in reply beg leave to say that it is only necessary to glance at your letter and circular to learn, that you are a lot of DAMN FOOLS.

Personally I have no objections to reading the bible in the public schools or in any other place, if any body wants to read the bible. I have no choice or any power to prevent it or otherwise. The only excuse I have for answering SUCH ROT as you and your coadjutors are circulating is the last paragraph of your circular letter. Did it not contain that paragraph I should have consigned it to the waste-basket without further consideration, but I am writing you and your coadjutors to begin your propaganda as threatened and then go PLUM TO HELL, and take your propaganda with you.

Signed—Samuel L. Black.

Watch for announcement of our RED WEEK SPECIAL.

Plea we hear daily: "Can you tell me where I can find a job?" Lovely system.

We suggest to all unemployed workers that they assemble in front of the City Hall wherever they happen to live, and DEMAND work. Then watch the policeman's club fall on their craniums, at the behest of the Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose crooks they voted for.

The United Mine Workers are the most revolutionary organized bunch of workers on the industrial field. They mean business, and the preamble to their constitution declares for the "full social product of their toil." This is a red signal to the plutes to get off the track.

The workers on the industrial field are beginning to see the necessity of supporting their own press. The Mine Workers in convention assembled here last week invited the editor of this paper to address the convention. The invitation was accepted, and we were shown the greatest courtesy. The boys showed their appreciation of our remarks by handing up about a hundred subscriptions.

John Bonehead, you are now shaking your head and telling your cronies that you made a mistake when you voted for Wilson and "free trade," and that next year you intend to vote safe and sane again by voting for "high tariff." The masters have certainly got you where they want you. It makes no difference to them whether high or low or no tariff, they only pay you enough to exist on, and when a panic comes on, whether under Democrat or Republican rule, you are turned out to starve.—"Cidevant."

Did you know that Socialists as a rule are the best paid workers in industry? That's because they have brains and use them. They are also eternally and all the time on strike for more. The "more" they are after is the full product of their toil, which you fool Democrats and Republicans are afraid would "destroy religion." Any man who votes a Democratic or Republican ticket HAS NO RELIGION, and we will prove it before any unbiased audience if you will come out in the open and debate with us.

OUR CAUSE, "THE DAWN OF FREEDOM"

Socialism is as the sweet perfume that comes wafting to us, borne by the gentle breeze after the soft dashing showers of springtime.

It is the whispering breeze of a summer morn heralding the dawn of a brighter and happier day.

It is the essence of life. It is humanity struggling to be born again.

It is the hope of the oppressed crying out for social justice.

It is soon to take a new born race in its arms and make them blessed.

Its mouth-piece has said "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Between the oppressor and the oppressed it stands like a young giant, demanding full social justice for all mankind.

To the oppressor it says, "The time is now, that you must earn your bread in the sweat of your own face."

To the oppressed and fallen it brings the gladsome message of common brotherhood and cooperation.

To the little children it comes to bring fuller life, more play and freedom from labor.

It throws its protecting mantle over the children and demands that they be released from toil in the slave pens of a master class.

It comes determined to obliterate a master class and make all of one class,—the working class.

Its program is to raise the working class materially to heights never yet dreamed of.

Socialism means that all the people shall own all the machinery collectively that is used to produce the wealth of the world.

Socialism means a world without a slave.

Socialism means love, peace and happiness.

It has been said that man has fallen from grace. Socialism will bring him infinitely nearer his lost home.

It will make "the earth to blossom as a rose" and "every man shall sit under his own vine and fig-tree and there shall be none to make him afraid."

Is it worth voting for?

BREAKING UP AN AMERICAN HOME

Last week we published affidavits, calculated to show the Russianized methods used by the Juvenile Court Judge of Franklin County and other public officials in their attempts to break up the home of an honest working man.

That this sytem is being worked all the time in the interest of the Catholic Hierarchy there can be no question. It is a case of bringing the children up in the Catholic faith or Rome using the strong arm of her political power to break up the home, and snatch the children and exploit them in the interest of as damnable a set of petty plutocrats as ever robbed labor of its product.

The Hershey Rice concern, that exploits the labor of the little children in the convent on West Broad Street must have the supply of helpless victims continuously at their command.

Someone must be found to do the dirty work in the hospitals, such as empty spittoons and scrub.

And where do these vultures get their recruits? Isn't it always from the ranks of the working class? Always it must be the workers who must suffer indignity and suffer the torture of the damned in having their children snatched from their home and fireside at the behest of these inhuman monsters operating under the cloak of religion for nothing but Profit.

In the affidavits of Myrtle and David Patterson, published last week, we find the system of Democratic and Republican rule at work, working in the interest of those whose business it is to befog and becloud the minds of men, and keep their souls in perpetual terror.

We have not the space to publish, in this issue, other affidavits we hold along the same line. Besides, if the affidavit published last week does not arouse you to the danger and insults that are being heaped upon the heads of the working class then nothing we could possibly publish would do so.

We have looked up the court records (and have them in our possession) in which Virginia Murray, chief prob. officer, charged Myrtle Patterson with associating with immoral persons.

Assuming this to be true (which it is not) then why not arrest the said immoral persons. These persons existed only in the minds of those responsible for the breaking up of this home, and were conjured up for the purpose of making the charge stick in order that the children could be placed under the charge of the Roman Hierarchy and raised up in the superstitions of that church.

That David Patterson is an honest and respectable working man is evidenced by a letter in the court records of the case from Geo. F. Beverly of Nelsonville, O., saying that David and Myrtle Patterson were respectable people and that David always supported his family, and asking that no legal steps be taken against them. He gave as references, Orr, Brown & Price, Coumbus, O.; Steadman Co., Athens, O., and N. Sherra Co., Chicago, Ill., but in spite of this clean bill of health, from one who knows, Myrtle Patterson was forced to suffer the tortures of the damned in having her motherhood and wifehood outraged and disgraced by the tools of the Russianized courts of this county.

With this statement of facts we close this particular case. Others will follow. Hats off to these poor workers who have had the nerve to come out from under the spell of superstition and strike their oppressors and persecutors between the eyes. Let the workers arise as one man, let them throw off their cringing, cowardly, fawning attitude and not hesitate to throw off the yoke of tyranny when "you have nothing to lose but your chains, and a world to gain."

GODMAN'S SHOE FACTORY INTIMIDATES EMPLOYEES

The following notice has been tacked up in the factory of the H. C. Godman Shoe Factory on West Broad Street, this city.

It is a case of either sign away your manhood and womanhood or get "canned" and go starve.

Let organized Labor and Socialists all over this country take cognizance of this firm's attitude towards Union Labor, and in buying their shoes in the future, examine closely the name of the makers. The card as tacked up in the factory follows:

NOTICE

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY, an Ohio corporation, having its works, its principal office and doing business at Columbus, Ohio, contracts with its employes with the express understanding that each person employed by it is not a member of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union nor a member of the United Shoe Workers of America; that such person will not become a member of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union nor become a member of the United Shoe Workers of America while an employe of THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY; that THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY is run non-union and agrees with such person that it will run non-union while such person is in its employ; that if at any time while employed by THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY such person wants to become connected with the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union or any affiliated organization, or wants to become connected with the United Shoe Workers of America or any affiliated organization, such person agrees to withdraw from the employment of THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY; and that while an employe of THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY such person will not make any effort amongst its employes to bring about the unionizing of that Company's shoe manufacturing plant against that Company's wish.

THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY.

Each employe of THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY is expected to sign an employment card, in which such employe, so far as such employe is concerned, consents to and affirms the matters and things set forth in the above notice; and each employe may upon applicaton to the department foreman obtain one of said employment cards for said purpose.

THE H. C. GODMAN COMPANY.

PRESIDENT BEATTY, "SCAB" VALET

If any of the "scab headers" connected with The Federal Glass Works tries to convince you that—

"You are a nice fellow,"

"We will treat you fine,"

"You are just the kind of a workman we need,"

and such balderdash, don't argue, but just remember that previous to the strike the following conditions prevailed in this "scab pen.":

"Ten hours per day."

"Six days a week."

"Wages 10 per cent to 49 per cent less than the union list."

"Men denied the right to join the union in this so-called free country."

"Discharged for any cause."

"Workmen were not allowed to voice their opinions, because, if they said one word for shorter hours, higher wages, equitable treatment, the right of liberty and freedom as guaranteed them by the constitution of our country, they were discharged."

Last week 15 more strike breakers were taken away from the Beatty scab hotel, and sent back home.

This is all very aggravating to the scab-loving soul of President Beatty, who in one instance last week met in an auto four "scabs" sent in from Indiana, and played the role of scab valet, carrying their grips and fussing around like an old hen with a flock of chickens. When he got the men inside the "barracks" they tumbled that a strike was on, came out and joined the union and left town.

Mickelfish, the scab, who got snakes from too much bad booze and was sent to the hospital, is back on the job, playing poker in the barracks in the evening.

The difference in the treatment of the strikers, and the "scabs" is seen in this, that some time ago, before the men struck, one of the workers became sick. In place of sending him to the hospital in the ambulance, like they did scab Mackelfish, the company loaded him into an old truck and sent him home. In another instance a man had a hemorrhage. The foreman telephoned the office to get a doctor. The reply came back over the wire, "Do you think he needs a doctor"?

Fine! Fine! Aren't these beautiful conditions for men to work under in this so-called free America? Did he need a doctor? Can human beings stand everything? Had the boys not struck, they would soon have been compelled to crawl into this pen. on their hands and knees.

The company did not even call an ambulance for this man, but after the doctor got him in shape so he could stagger around he (the doctor) was compelled, out of pity, to take the man home in his own buggy.

A matter that should be looked into by the city authorities is the fact that in taking the scabs "joy rides," which is done frequently, they run at such a tremendous speed that the lives of citizens are endangered. Last Sunday nine were out having a hilarious time in an auto and nearly ran over a little girl on Parsons Avenue.

We also demand that the board of education look into the matter of child employment in this shop, as it is reported that children under school age are being worked.

The "barracks" is becoming a notorious place, as the strike breakers carry in between five and twenty quarts of liquor each day. The saloons have refused to sell them liquor but they send out colored boys for their supply.

The union is in good shape, the boys are all good fighters and are prepared to stick the limit. They have the moral support of the workers all over the city, and ere long will have established the right to organize, and will have handed down to their children a priceless heritage—the right to live under liveable conditions.

KARB—POMERENE—ROSS

On January 11 Atlee Pomerene, United States Senator from Ohio, spent the day in this city.

This is the same Pomerene who was present at the disgraceful debauchery pulled off as a "business man's association banquet" in Canton, O., December 29, 1913.

It will be remembered that at this free love affair the cabaret girls imported from Cleveland mussed up what few hairs Pomerene has left. The affair was reported in full in our issue of January 10th.

While in this city Pomerene held a political conference with Karb and Jim Ross and other grafters on the inside of the boodle wagon.

This is the outfit that says Socialists are immoral. This paper has charged Senator Pomerene with being mixed up in one of the lowest, vilest and most disgraceful scenes ever pulled off in the State of Ohio.

We have also asked the question, "Is Senator Pomerene a White-Slaver?"

This paper has also charged Mayor Geo. Karb with being drunk on the streets of Columbus. We charged him with being so drunk and raising such a disturbance that a United States soldier was going to spit in his face.

We charged them and we charge them again with being immoral and attempting to "destroy religion."

If we are not speaking the truth they have a case against us for criminal libel, but there will be no action brought against us because we happen to have the goods.

We assume that since the leaders of the pure and undefiled democracy are anything but pure and undefiled, and practice debaucheries that would shame a cannibal, that therefore the Democratic Party must stand for "free love," must be attempting to "break up the home" and "destroy religion."

It is therefore the duty of every "good" citizen to beware of the Socialist Party, because you believe that the Socialist Party stands for the very things you see the Democrats and Republicans practising before your very eyes.

We say you believe it because you don't know it and the reason is that you have never investigated Socialism or the methods of the Socialist Party.

After you have investigated then you will know.

The reason you believe, is, because fellows like Karb and Pomerene tell you Socialists are all those things which they are not, and you on an empty belly and an emptier cranium echo the cry from the house tops.

"COLUMBUS CITIZEN" BOLDLY ATTEMPTS TO DISCREDIT THIS PAPER

In order to keep up their sham of being on the side of the workers, "The Columbus Citizen" last week, during the miners' convention, made a deliberate attempt to discredit this paper.

No sooner had the convention convened than the comrades began to call at this office, and inquire if there was another Socialist paper in this city.

We informed them there was not, to which they replied that the representative of a certain paper was so representing his paper, and upon investigation we discovered it was The Columbus Citizen.

The editor of this paper rammed it down their throats on the floor of the convention while their reporter was present, and as evidence that our statements were true we herewith submit one of several affidavits along the same line.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 17th, 1914.

STATE OF OHIO, FRANKLIN COUNTY, ss.

Joseph Koler, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that on Wednesday, the fourteenth day of January, 1914, a representative of the Columbus Citizen newspaper, called at the Odd Fellows' Hall, where the miners were holding convention, and in conversation with him, represented that "The Citizen" was a Socialist paper, printed in the city of Columbus; that affiant said if his paper was a Socialist paper he would subscribe for it, if the said representative would purchase a subscription for "The Socialist" of him, that affiant believes that said representations were deliberately made by said newspaper representative for the purpose of discrediting the Socialist paper of Columbus, O.

JOSEF KOLER.

Sworn to by said Joseph Koler and by him subscribed in my presence this 17th day of January, 1914.

W. C. BATES,
Notary Public, Franklin County, Ohio.

"The Columbus Citizen" is using drastic measures to convince the people of this city and central Ohio that they are on the side of the downtrodden, but watch them, not later than October 15, 1914, get behind the biggest bunch of grafters they can pick out on old party or Bull Moose tickets and attempt to boost them into office, so that the system of systematic robbery of the working class may continue undisturbed. We say watch them, and the time will not be later than October 15, 1914.

EDITOR "OHIO STATE JOURNAL" WANTS TO BURN WITCHES

For the love of Mike, gentle reader, cast your optics over the following editorial from "The Ohio State Journal":

AWAKENING NEEDED.

"At a forefathers' dinner in Philadelphia, a Vermont orator lauded the old Puritan spirit, and said that to its weakening we may attribute much of our social troubles. He further said:

"In America we have had so much material prosperity, we have indulged ourselves in so much luxury, that we have lost the spiritual vision of our Pilgrim fathers. I say this in full recognition of the magnificent beneficence of generous philanthropists and the noble work which has been done in uplifting the sinful and the unfortunate. But as a nation we need a new spiritual awakening. I speak only that which is in the minds of many thoughtful men when I say that the greatest need of America today, and its only antidote against the poison of socialism, is a great revival of religion, which will turn the minds of men away from the consideration of these minor social evils to a contemplation of their relation with the Almighty.

"Some one will ask why, print that? People don't bother about ethical ideals any more. Selfishness and pleasure have laid violent hands on our public sentiment and gotten it twisted all out of shape—it is not going to get back by telling what's right. There is something in that. There is no way to tell the truth so it will stay except to act it, but then work without faith is dead."

We note that the name of the "Puritan" who spewed out the above is omitted. Of this we are extremely sorry as we will bet a year's sub. against a "charity" paper of the O. S. J. that he is either a moral leper or a crook.

Too much material prosperity, forsooth; with 15,000,000 people in this country right now below the bread line, and millions actually starving; and then in the next line declares he recognizes "The magnificent beneficence of generous philanthropists and the noble work which has been done in uplifting the sinful and unfortunate."

If we are so well fixed materially why any unfortunates and so-called sinners? People don't sin without reason, and that reason is that they MUST have the material things of this life, to sustain themselves and families, and being denied them by the system this "sky pilot" (we make a guess at his profession) upholds, they sin when they take what belongs to them.

And then this degenerate speaks about the "poison of socialism." Did you know that the O. S. J. would never have written this editorial had those three words not been used? That's what gave it life and worthy of editorial space. Socialism is so dead, that it keeps these "lickspittles" awake nights studying new ways to kill it.

But as for the "poison of Socialism" or the "poison of Puritanism" we candidly believe that the American people prefer the former, because they are not over anxious to go back to the "Puritan" days, when the dear pure puritan burned old women (witches) at the stake, pierced the tongues and ears of Quakers, and SHOT religion and booze into the Indians in order to steal their lands.

We guess not. And furthermore we desire to state RIGHT NOW, THAT THE BIGGEST RELIGIOUS REVIVAL ON RECORD IS UNDER WAY, WORKING TWENTY-FOUR HOURS PER DAY.

It is a religion which this sacred(?) puritan nor the O. S. J. know anything about.

In short, it is the religion of Jesus, crystalized in the world-wide Socialist movement, whose banner is red, bearing on it the immortal words spoken by our comrade 2000 years ago, "CALL YE NO MAN MASTER, FOR YE ARE ALL BRETHREN."

The above will no doubt be recognized by thousands who know Comrade E. B. Lewis.

We publish the picture for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that Comrade Lewis is available for meetings in Ohio and elsewhere. He emphasizes propaganda and organization work. Terms will be made for a series of meetings for a week or more in one county or district. Address The Socialist, 108½ South High Street, Columbus.

The new City Council is very glum. Karb and Kinnear have cleaned the city out bag and baggage and there is nothing left to steal. Nothing but a few paving blocks in front of the City Hall, and if they were worth stealing Kinnear would have them up in his Glen Echo addition.

FLYING SQUADRON.

To the Comrades of the Flying Squadron:

We wish to call your attention to article on front page, this paper, and ask that you do your share. This means if the circulation is doubled that the paper can be made 4 pages, 7 columns. Go after 'em, boys and girls. What's the use to hang back? Let's put "The Socialist" in the front ranks of Socialist papers. DOUBLE THE CIRCULATION NEXT WEEK.

Comrade Colendine puts on five more, which makes 19 in the past three weeks.

Comrade Richards puts on another bunch, which makes him 31 since the new rate has been in effect.

Comrade Heil, Westerville, helps along with a list of 4.

Geo. Motts makes it 4 more and keeps up the good work.

Comrade Hartman is a quiet, persistent worker and never lets a week go by without bringing in a club of new ones.

Comrade Koehler makes it another bunch.

Space will not permit us to mention the names of all the individual comrades turning in subscriptions. If your name is not in this list, remember that it is only because of lack of space.

Comrade Eyre sends in his renewals and says that "the first page of No. 161 surely was a hot one." Capitalism being so infernal rotten it is impossible to tell the truth without making it hot.

WE ARE ALWAYS ON THE SIDE OF THE WORKERS

The following letter shows that organized labor appreciates our position on the Federal glass strike. We want to assure the boys that we are with them to the last nickel and that this paper is printed for no other reason than to serve the interests of the workers. The letter follows:

Toledo, O., Jan. 20, 1914.
Socialist Publishing Co.,
Columbus, Ohio.
Gentlemen:

I have your issue of January 10, and in behalf of our union I thank you for the interest you are manifesting in our conflict with the Federal Glass Co. I am sure a continuance of such action will have a beneficial effect.

Under separate cover I mail you a copy of our January American Flint. We are placing you on the mailing list, and we wish you would exchange with us.

Very truly yours,
T. W. ROWE.

THEY RAISED IT.

Comrades Joe Kolar, Neffs, O., and Duncan Furgeson, West Wheeling, O., both delegates to the Mine Workers' convention last week, are samples of the kind of comrades who are making the Socialist and industrial movement the power it is.

The day the convention recessed these two comrades came in the office and said they wanted some subscription cards, as they were "going to raise some hell."

We gave them twenty and before an hour had passed they brought back the money and took out twenty-five more cards, which they also disposed of. This shows what can be done when the workers decide to raise a little dust on their own account.

We predict that these two comrades will continue to boost "The Socialist," in order that the day of deliverance may be brought nearer. More power to them.

NEAR OVATION.

The management of this paper has had a continual flow of commendation for the manner in which they have handled the "Breaking Up An American Home" series the last few weeks.

Since publishing the affidavit of Myrtle Patterson many prominent attorneys have offered their legal services free at any time in defense of the truthful exposure of miscarried justice, no matter whom it hits.

A score or more attorneys have expressed disgust at the shameful manner in which business is conducted by certain public and quasi-public officials, and are glad that there is one newspaper in this city without a muzzle.

THEY HAVE A FIGHT ON THEIR HANDS

The individuals in this city who are attempting to force the reading of the Bible into our public schools have discovered that they have a fight on their hands.

The thinking citizens of central Ohio have taken the matter up with the Secular Union and Free Thought Federation of Chicago, and each of the persons prominent in attempting to reunite Church and State have been mailed a letter, part of which is as follows:

"The above society has been informed that you intend to permit the Bible to be read to the scholars in the public schools of your city.

"The only possible motive for such a procedure is the teaching of religion at the expense of the State—which is strictly prohibited by the Constitution of your State."

The letter then states that in case this agitation is continued the society will organize a vigorous campaign of publicity in this city, and distribute to the parents and children literature exposing the real reasons back of the move.

We think that the Rev. Jackson will now be just a trifle slower in his attempt to inculcate into the minds of the children subserviency to earthly masters in order that they may get a home over yonder.

CURS!

Many an ex-Panhandle wage-slave, as he looks at the worried face of his wife and the pinched faces of his hungry children, thinks that "free trade" is causing his trouble.

You mule, if you would use your cocoanut you could see that the postoffice employes are not laid off, because they are working for Uncle Sam. Their pay goes on right along, while YOU WHO SLAVE FOR A PRIVATE MASTER GET KICKED OUT WHENEVER YOUR MASTER FEELS LIKE IT.

Many P. O. employes are Socialists because they want still better conditions. But you are so dumb that you cheerfully let wife and kiddies starve because Socialism, you are told, "will destroy your religion" and "break up your home." You detestable curs!

Capitalism teaches mankind to deceive, oppress and destroy their fellows. Socialism teaches us to enlighten, unshackel and save our fellow beings.

Law without justice is like religion without Christianity. Both are fit instruments for the devil.

Capitalism renders industry and usefulness contemptible, while it places a crown upon indolence and immorality.

CITY BRIEFLETS.

Thanks, Plutes, for shutting down your factories, and laying off the Demo.-Repo. "loonies" who have been paying you for a chance to live. You have also increased the circulation of "The Socialist" by about 2,000, and the way it looks now we will send a worker to Congress next fall. Thank you, Plutes, once again, thank you.

Latest Song out—"Draw up your belt another notch."

A bore? We'll say it is. WHAT? The new Councilman of First Ward, W. M. Borror. It burrows in the dust at Jim Ross' feet, and also licks his boots.

The Democratic Glee Club is rehearsing their latest song, entitled "Everbody's in slumberland but JIMMY, GEORGE and JOHN."

The kind-hearted old newsboys who collected $5,000 a few days ago are begging the hard-hearted working people to donate a stove to a poor family they have found on the West Side. Say, you feeble-minded "charity fakers," if you will give the names of those people to some of the little boys you scabbed on, we will bet a plugged penny they will have a stove and coal in less than two hours.

Don't worry, Ellis, about the work Jimmy wants you to do. What they want in the Eighth Ward is of more importance. They want Town Street opened up between Third and Fourth Street. On account of second-hand furniture stores and commission houses occupying the sidewalks market people are compelled to walk single file to get through. Get busy, Mr. Ellis, or there will be a delegation in Council some of these nights that may embarrass you very much.

The workers want more dollars to spend and less advice on how to spend them.

SOCIALISM should get the worker's vote, BECAUSE it get's the bosses' GOAT.

The red flag is the emblem of comradeship and brotherhood. Under its crimson banner the workers have united for their final dash to liberty.

The stars and stripes are the emblem of our common country. The red flag the emblem of our common cause.

The common dubs who produce all the wealth of the world have no country. They live in a rented shack that belongs to some one else, and work in some one else's factory, and get the few common necessities they are able to buy in some other person's store. These same jackasses are afraid "Socialism would make them divide up."

The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8, has saved many hundred dollars in court costs, loss of time and attorney fees the past year for working men by having them schedule all their debts and paying the amount required by law on their debts through The Wage-Earners' Indemnity Company, 108½ S. High St., Rooms 7 and 8.
See this company—List your debts. (Adv.)

How long do you intend to stand idly by and see your class freeze and starve, and be beaten and shot down by thugs in the employ of the masters? The plutes are doing exactly that in Michigan and Colorado, and not a single word from organized labor in Columbus. Let the Socialist party and organized labor get together and pull off something that these murderers will hear even behind the seclusion of the thick walls of the mansions the workers built for them.

To the emptybellites who voted for Karb, we suggest that they lay in a goodly supply of snow balls, and eat them fried in the empty promises of the jackass administration.

Watch for our red week special. Push the subscriptions, as we want every worker in this State to receive a copy of this issue.

Capitalist papers are published to serve their advertising patrons and send a bunch of crooks to public office to serve the interest of the said advertisers.

"Good" people believe that being "good" on Sunday will blot out the other six days' villainies.

Jackass working men with no minds of their own go to their masters' preachers and politicians to learn what to think and believe.

That man who possesses strength of reason in unison with the impulse of his temper, and the energies of his body, is most happily constituted.

There are two dangerous classes of hypocrites in this country. One gang aims to conceal their crookedness under the cloak of piety or religious zeal. The other under the name of Democrat, Republican or Bull Moose. And all the former vote one or the other of the latter tickets.

OUR DANCE.

Every Saturday night at 121½ East Town Street our committee holds a dance. Everything is strictly orderly and you can be assured of a good time. Come out tonight and have a good time. Good music.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

The dance at headquarters last Saturday evening was a grand success. These dances are a regular feature, are held every Saturday night. Admission 25c per couple.

The Young People's League is progressing nicely and by next fall will be able to take some of the work off of the shoulders of the old timers.

This is the year we must organize in this State. Already locals, like Hamilton, Conneaut, Martins Ferry, Coshocton and other communities that had a big Socialist vote at the last election, are planning to send representatives to the State Legislature and to Congress; and they, too, solicit your support. If their representatives are elected, like Victor Berger of Wisconsin, who championed your cause in Congress, you will be represented in their respective bodies, even though you are not successful in electing your candidates.

Give us your hand, comrades, and enlist with us. Every manifestation of support of our plans will but spur us on that much harder.

To obtain justice for the workers, we must secure political control. The 87,000 Socialist votes cast at the last election must be increased and the membership and other Socialist voters so educated that they will be fully imbued with the Socialist spirit and have a thorough understanding of the class struggle.

This can be accomplished only by a bigger and more perfect organization which, when fully realized the world over, will dethrone capitalism and establish the INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY.—From Ohio State Bulletin.

Local Warren publishes weekly a small 4-page paper, "The Trumble County Worker." The typesetting and printing is all done by volunteer workers for the sake of the cause, and without remuneration. When men and women such as these get behind a cause it is a sure cinch that something is going to happen. Whoever heard of Democrat or Republican working men volunteering their services gladly to publish a paper to educate humanity? They volunteer to go to war and get shot in the interest of their Wall Street masters.

Socialist papers in the northern part of the State have made a discovery. They have discovered that the I. W. W. leaders are mostly paid operators in the employ of the master class. Affidavits from some of the leaders in the Akron strike, particularly J. W. Reid, involves V. G. Williams, Secretary Local Akron S. P., and others.

The affidavit is lengthy and can be secured by reading the current issue "Common Sense," published in Kenton, O.

"The Socialist" has no further comment, inasmuch as Local Columbus and this paper discovered and exposed this branch of Judases two years ago, for which we were severely criticized.

Our position has been gloriously vindicated, and we have no desire to crow. Rather do we feel the utmost sorrow as we contemplate how much nearer the goal we might have been, had it not been for this bunch of disruptionists who for pay attempted to throttle the grandest and noblest cause ever conceived in the minds of man.

And here's John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s, check coming, too, to help the poor Dayton Y. M. C. A. Verily, the kingdom of heaven is at hand! The Rockefeller brand of Christian capitalists appreciate the value of Y. M. C. A.'s in combatting the Godless Socialism which would free the workers from the burden of supporting Rockefellers. The political activity of the Y. M. C. A. against the Socialists and labor unions in the recent municipal campaigns may not have been given its due mention. But the organized workers will not soon forget.—Miami Valley Socialist.

The next Mayor of Phillipsburg, N. J., will probably be a Socialist. He is Oscar E. Bates, a veteran in the Socialist movement of over a quarter of a century's standing.

The local election for five Commissioners was held yesterday, the primaries having been held some weeks ago. The result of the vote, the counting of which has just been completed, shows the following result: Kneedler, Republican, 1,334; Bates, Socialist, 1,306; Howell, 1,183; Britton, 999, and Perdue 932. These five are accordingly elected Commissioners.

According to law, the Commissioner receiving the highest number of votes has the right to the Mayorality office. In the event of no one desiring the position, the commission may appoint a Mayor. Kneedler, who is present City Clerk and who beat the Socialist by only 48 votes, has announced that he will decline the Mayorality chair, in which event it will be the right of Bates to assume office. This, of course, he will do. The office is for a term of four years.

In the primaries, Bates and Kneedler were tied for first place, both receiving 940 votes. Bates was the only Socialist who received enough votes to enable him to be put as candidate for the election.

The entire proceedings were on a non-partisan basis, but the political affiliations of the various candidates were well known and the vote for Bates practically a strict party vote.

Bates, who is equally known for his work on the trade union field as well as the political, is the first Socialist to be elected to office in entire Warren County.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

"SCAB" CONCERN WEAKENING! UNION CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Last week an individual with a soul like a buzzard applied to The Federal Glass Co. for work. It is reported that the company told him there was nothing doing, AS THEY WERE CONSIDERING MAKING A SETTLEMENT WITH THE UNION.

When the boys go back to work they will be treated like humans, as this concern is now installing shower baths and a library. "The Socialist" is satisfied that these innovations are being installed for the benefit of the union boys, for use when they go back to work as union men, for what would a "scab" want with a bath room or a library?

Most of these "strike breakers" are so filthy and emit such a stench that they actually smell like a buzzard fresh from a feast of rotten carrion. One of the union men in taking one of these scabs to the depot last week to put him on the train, accidently got a whiff of his breath, and has been under the weather ever since.

The most of them are "coke fiends" and "Panhandlers," and with a working class administration in this city would not be allowed in the city limits ten minutes.

These vile reprobates are continuously "inciting to riot." To the honor of the unon pickets they refuse to be, "incited," even when these "scabs" apply insulting epithets to them as they pass the pickets in the morning and evening. The union boys are all well drilled in class solidarity, and know that the peaceful way is the proper way to win a strike.

Last Saturday night a bunch of these "scabs" were out on Parsons Avenue drunk, and in their rampage insulted a respectable woman. They have fallen so low that nothing is sacred to them, not even womanhood, and all of them, somewhere, have a mother who, if she knew that HER son she so fondly dandled on her knee, was attempting to take the bread and butter out of the mouths of little children, would curse them with her last breath.

However, the union continues to take the men who have a spark of manhood away and ship them out of town. All those left are mostly "snow birds" and will bid President Beatty and his "scab barracks" a fond farewell at the first sign of spring.

In the press department the company is hiring men and paying them $2.00 per day, regardless of the amount of work they turn out. If they turn out over 2,000 they generously hand them 10c per hundred extra. THIS IS WORK THAT UNDER UNION CONDITIONS PAYS FROM $5.00 TO $7.00 PER DAY, and is being paid by all the union shops in the country.

A few of the scabs are from Rochester, Pa. If the chief of police of that city knew it, he would probably send Beatty a telegram of congratulation on having the greatest aggregation of "bums" and "panhandlers" under one roof that could possibly be gotten together. One of these "beauties" offered to quit work last week if the union boys would buy him a pint of booze. HE DID NOT GET IT.

Cal Young, the notorious scab spoken of in these columns in previous issues, is in bad in the community in which he lives. His neighbors despise him, and every one who knows him cross the street to keep from meeting and speaking to him. Thus do chickens come home to roost.

This concern is losing money every day. They will soon be in the same boat as the Cumberland, Md., concern which had a strike on its hands several years ago, and because they did not settle with the union were forced into bankrupcty.

All of the union men are in fine shape. The treasury of the union is getting stronger each week, and they are prepared to fight it out to the limit. In this fight there is just one issue. That issue is the age long issue, "the class struggle." It is the struggle of the workers who produce all the wealth, demanding more of the product of their hands from the men who privately own the tools with which labor works.

They are being drilled in class solidarity on the industrial field, and soon each and every one will also learn to use their class solidarity at the ballot box, and in that time which is to be "scab lovers" like President Beatty will take his place alongside the workers and earn his own living.

Stand together, boys. The workers of Columbus are with you to the last man.

Wilson Fawns at Feet of "Big Biz"

The $75,000 "pride beauty" with a face that resembles his prototype, the emblem of the Democratic Party, has just emitted some more pink pearls of wisdom.

Oh, Prof., we speak of thee in tones of deepest reverence. We speak this holy name in tones that shows our meek demeanor. Yea; humbly we bow at the feet of the greatest joke the country has ever seen. We mean the honorable "grape-juice" Wilson, by virtue of the long suffering American people President of these United States.

This high and mighty chief on January 20th made an anti-trust speech. This is something new. YOU, of course, have never heard an anti-trust speech. It is to laugh.

The jackass party, it will be remembered, some three months ago passed a low tariff bill. Woodrow and his million dollar Secretary of State informed us that this would bring down the high cost of living. IT HAS, ABOUT FIVE MILLION MEN OUT OF WORK AND NOTHING WITH WHICH TO BUY NECESSITIES OF LIFE, and consequently, THEY are living much cheaper. Ditto the small grocery keeper and other small business men.

The first of the year the male administration put another one over. This time it was an "elastic currency bill." This they assured us was just what we had long been looking for. The bankers promptly endorsed it because they said it threw the doors of the United States treasury completely open to them.

The workers have really found that it is an elastic currency. In fact, every plunk they are able to cop is so elastic that it flies into some petty grafter's hands.

The only person benefited by either of these measures is the capitalist class, as the trusts are now able to import meats and other necessities without paying duty, while at the same time holding the prices to the consumer just the same as formerly and reducing the price paid to the stock raisers and other producers.

The currency bill was gotten up by the bankers and passed in the interest of the bankers. The working class were not considered in either measure.

But now we are to have "anti-trust" legislation. Wilson says "the masters of business on great scale have begun to yield their preference and purpose, perhaps their judgment also, in honorable surrender."

For a bunch of "tommy-rot" the above takes the cake. He attempts to tell you that the masters are getting down off your backs. YOU KNOW THAT IS A LIE. Were it the truth your load would be lessened, BUT IT IS HEAVIER THAN EVER.

The following for cringing, fawning servitude at the feet of mammon is about the most sickening spectacle "The Socialist" has seen lately. Don't miss it. "WE DO NOT PROPOSE TO HAMPER OR INTERFERE WITH BUSINESS AS ENLIGHTENED BUSINESS MEN PREFER TO DO IT, OR IN ANY SENSE TO PUT IT UNDER THE BAN."

Certainly, Woodrow, certainly. You were put in your present position by Big Biz and the Plupnderbund. You are getting your orders from Tammany Hall and Wall Street. We only marvel at your dull intellect in thus putting the matter in print.

"Prohibiting interlocking directorates will bring new men, new energy, a new spirit of initiative and new blood into the management of our great business enterprises," he sputters forth.

In other words, dear workers, since the blood suckers now at the head of the plunderbund have gorged themselves with your blood and the blood of your wives and children, until they can stand no more, he wants to turn loose an entire set of NEW, YOUNG PARASITES, HUNGRY FOR THE FEAST, AND LEAVE THEM GORGE THEMSELVES AT THE EXPENSE OF THOSE WHO TOIL AND SWEAT. Had Woodrow Wilson said no more, this statement had been enough to have damned him in the eyes of the American working class for all time to come. The master class has become so arrogant that their tools and lickspittles can insult you with impunity, never bat an eye, and make you swallow it. New blood, indeed! What he meant was MORE BLUE BLOODS to extract THE RED BLOOD from the veins of the workers.

Here is another peacherino: "The prosperity of the railroads and the prosperity of the country are inseperably connected."

This is intended to work up public sentiment in favor of giving the railroads an increase of 5 per cent. in freight rates which they are demanding.

Last but not least this donkey brays as follows: "The business men of the country desire something more than that the law be made intelligible; they desire advice, definite guidance and information which can be supplied by an administrative body."

And this from the great(?) Wilson who prior to the election went all over this country handing out high-sounding platitudes about "democracy" and the "rights of the common people."

The business men DESIRE certain things. HOW ABOUT THE WORKING CLASS, MR. PRESIDENT? In your entire speech you have said nothing about the desires of the working class. Here are some of our desires:

We desire that the hired thugs and assassins in the pay of the business men, over whom you slobber, be denied the further right to murder our class in Colorado, Michigan and the nation.

WE DESIRE GOOD HOMES.

WE DESIRE PLENTY OF GOOD FOOD.

WE DESIRE PLENTY OF GOOD CLOTHING.

WE DESIRE TO HAVE OUR CHILDREN ENTER INTO THE HALLS OF LEARNING, ART AND POETRY, and further, we do not desire—BUT WE DEMAND—THE FULL SOCIAL PRODUCT OR OUR TOIL.

All of the above desires enumerated are ours by right of our common heritage of this common earth. For years we have been asking and pleading for these things but the class you represent, that lives off our toil, have denied them.

We have QUIT asking and pleading, and through our own political party we are going to capture this government for our class, and use it to TAKE THEM, AND YOU AND YOUR CLASS in place of living off the sweat of our faces, will take your place side by side with us and earn your bread in the sweat of your own faces.

THEY SHOULD BE IMPEACHED

That the Juvenile Court of Franklin County, Ohio, is not the only place where parents are jacked up on flimsy pretense and robbed of their children, is evident from the facts leaking out concerning the tragedy at Mayaville, N. Y., where Edward Beardsley, who seems to have been a respectable citizen until the "Poormaster" (official corresponding to our juvenile officers), threatened to take his children from him, and place them in some convent or other place of torture, contrary to the wish of the father, who claimed he was not only the rightful guardian of the children, but was properly caring for them.

You parents who read this, do you love your flesh and blood? Do you cherish the prattle of your offspring? Do you enjoy the frolic and childish pranks of the very essence of your life? Then can you not bring yourself to realize what it would mean to you, to have your son or your daughter snatched from your bosom to do the dirty work for some shaven headed so-called "sister," OR USED TO SATISFY THE LUST OF SOME REPROBATE CALLED "FATHER?"

We have affidavits in our possession bearing upon these matters which cannot be printed in the columns of this paper and carried through the mails, BUT WHICH CAN, AND WILL, BE PRINTED AND DISTRIBUTED AS CIRCULARS UNLESS THIS THING IS STOPPED IN FRANKLIN COUNTY.

If the capitalist system has nothing better for children whose parents have been robbed by the system than a life of shame, imprisonment and scab labor in some Protestant or Catholic institution, where they are fed on victuals saturated insaltpeter to deaden the flower of passion, then we as Socialists say IT CAN BE STOPPED and by the eternal IT SHALL BE STOPPED if we have to impeach every capitalist office holder in this County.

The good die young—they starve.

Who but slaves have to petition? Why do Americans have to petition for laws instead of demanding them?

There isn't a right or privilege that the people now enjoy that plutocratic greed will now take away if it can.

The rich man's horses are better housed and cared for than the working people from whose labor the rich man is fed, clothed and entertained.

The wishbone can never take the place of the backbone.

Until the workers own the earth and arrange for a division of the hours of labor there will always be the unemployed problem with all its hideous agonies. When the workers make up their minds to grab the political machines, so that they may secure the machinery of production, they themselves will be the owners and, therefore, participants in its marvelous productivity.

The land belongs to the people but they don't know it yet.

Bullets—the reward for misapplied ballots of labor.

A lot of men who talk of dying for their rights have not sense enough to vote for them.

Woman is entitled to the ballot for the same reason that man is. It doesn't matter whether she is going to know how to vote when she first gets the ballot or not. It is to be hoped that she will, but that has nothing to do with the principle involved. She certainly couldn't make any bigger fool of herself in that respect than the men have, anyhow.

Higher wages, shorter hours, better shop conditions, superior culture, cheaper commodities, lower rents—these are some of the things that Socialists all over the world are fighting for.

The Socialist 25c for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more. Make up a club and send it in.

The Workers produce all the Wealth, and then stand aside and watch a master class enjoy it, while they and their families live on the husks.

Some union men fight Socialism. Grab the next union man you find knocking Socialism and examine his clothes, shoes and hat. It is almost a safe bet that they will not bear the Union Label. These so-called union men holler loud and long about "Scabs," and then they walk to the ballot box and "Scab" on the entire working class, by voting a scab ticket. The industrial scab is low and vile, but the political scab is infinitely lower. There is only one political workng class ticket, and that bears the label of the Socialist Party, and the working man who does not vote it SCABS ON HIS OWN CLASS.

YOU AND I.

(By L. J. Lesh.)

You are the master,
I am the slave.
You have the things
For which I but crave.
You own the means
Whereby I must live,
And force me to take
What you choose to give.
Your automobile
Is the work of my hands,
I toil while you travel
In far distant lands.
Though you produce nothing
You eat and you drink.
Will this last forever?
It will—I don't think.

THEIR LICENTIOUS MINDS

The Rev. Wm. C. Bitting of St. Louis has the following to say in reference to women's dress:

"Some dresses seem designed to enable men to study woman's anatomy," said Rev. Mr. Bitting. "You women little know how largely you are responsible for the unchaste thoughts of men, and what is worse, the dress seems to indicate that women wear the clothes they do for the very purpose of exciting this kind of attention from men. You certainly don't wear such clothes in a snowstorm for the cake of comfort."

It is a peculiar fact that the ministers are continually harping about "woman's anatomy," woman's lingerie," "woman's shoes," and women's clothes in general. In truth it has reached a point where the American people, especially those of us whose minds have something weightier on them than "women's anatomy," are extremely sick of this brand of sky pilot.

We are led to believe that none but those whose minds are naturally debased, and sunken in debauchery, would continually harp about what the women wear.

If this holy (?) man, and others of his ilk do not wish to be tempted, let them look the other way.

As for us common mortals, our minds are not as licentious but that we can pass a woman on the street without "the unchaste thoughts" this sky pilot who says he has, even if she does happen to wear a split skirt."

OUR RED WEEK SPECIAL

We will on February 28th issue A SPECIAL EDITION.

In this issue we shall bring to the light of day the official acts of the COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF FRANKLIN COUNTY.

This issue will be of direct benefit to all Socialist papers in every county of the State, as it will contain information that has been either deliberately suppressed, or through ignorance allowed to go unnoticed. In either event THE LAW HAS BEEN VIOLATED.

Every local and industrial Socialist in the State should order a bundle for distribution. The entire issue will BE PRINTED IN RED.

Only enough will be printed to fill orders at time of going to press, which will be THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26th.

Bundle orders will cost $8.00 per thousand, $1.00 per hundred. Order now.

Clip out coupon in another column and get your order in early.

AND HE'S A FOLLOWER OF THE PEACEFUL CHRIST.

The following is taken from a sermon preached in Pittsburg, Pa., by Rev. "Billie" Sunday:

"I am a politician, but not a partisan. I want to see a political party organized that will have the grit to have God behind it, like we had in the days of 1776, of 1812, or 1865, when Grant made Lee hand over his sword; in the Spanish-American war of 1898; THAT WILL HAVE THE GRIT TO GO DOWN INTO MEXICO AND LICK THOSE DIRTY GREASERS."

DEMOCRAT AND REPUBICAN ANARCHISTS

Colorado is no longer a part of the United States. Governor Ammons and Adjutant General Chase, in command of the State militia, have admitted that they care nothing for the rights guaranteed by the federal constitution. They say they are running the State as they please, which consists of denying every coal miner his constitutional rights and allowing the coal operators to mock law and order.

Not the least nefarious act of the anarchists who rule Colorado is the denwial of the right of free speech.

There are judges and courts at Trinidad charged with prosecuting those who break the laws, but these officials have been supplanted by a military tribunal which exercises despotic powers and robs those seized by the soldiers of every safeguard of the law.

The treatment of men arrested is cruel in the extreme. They are held in solitary confinement in the jails, fed on the poorest food, denied the right to see friends or lawyers or even to talk among themselves.

The horrors of these military jails will not be known until some power of justice releases the men who are now subjected to its tortures. Only when fear forces these czars in uniform to release a victim does any part of the truth become known.

The murders of strikers by the murderous guards have been untouched by this tribunal. The paid murderers of the coal operators in many instances now wear the uniform of the national guard of Colorado. The military tribunal is a "court" for the purpose of oppression and tyranny. Czar Chase and his lickspittles take men who have charge of the camps in order to hamper the peaceful conduct of the strike. They seek to terrorize by arresting and jailing those who are needed by the strikers to advise and counsel.

The suspension of the constitution in Colorado, the outrages of the military authorities, the open advocacy by Governor Ammons of anarchy in Routt County, Colorado, has shown the urgency of an immediate and full congressional investigation of the strike situation.

A BOOST FOR THE TANGO

It is not often that the "lusts of the flesh and the pride of life" receive clerical approbation, therefore the news that Father Phelan, of St. Louis, the redoubtable editor of the Western Watchman, approves of the tango and other dances usually denounced by those of the cloth, is worth recording. Apparently the Reverend Father voices his approval of this form of physical culture in consideration of the perpetuation of the race. The tango, in his mind, is one of the auxiliaries for carrying out the divine injunction of "increase and multiply and replenish the earth."

"Don't mind us crusty old priests, girls," he is quoted as declaring from his Watchman's conning tower. "People do not understand the innocent female mind. These tango dancing girls are engaged in God's work. The bewitching little miss who disports her charms in the ballroom is doing God's work as emphatically as the Bishop in his orisons."

All of which might in the vernacular be said to be "going some" for a priest. But Father Phelan, though differing from most of his confreres in this matter, is none the less a sturdy champion of the Church. On one occasion, often quoted, he sent the United States Government, Constitution and all, to hell, if it dared to oppose the Catholic Church. Like most of his brethren, also, he has launched many quaint and picturesque maledictions against Socialism.

Far be it from us to take issue with the reverend gentleman on this tango business, as he is reputed by some as a sort of authority in matters of propagation generally, as well as propagation of the faith. It may be that some of his superiors may consider that he has overstepped the limit in approving the tango, especially the bishops whose orisons he puts on the same plane in the sight of od, as the tango dances. Father Phelan is an eccentric personage and liable to say most anything, but if his eccentricities can be kept within bounds there is no present cause for alarm. So long as he doesn't publicly proclaim that Socialist agitators as well as tango dancers are doing God's will no great harm will be done in overlooking the matter.

A captious critic who calls our attention to the item, sneeringly inquires as to Rev. Phelan's attitude on "free love" and what brand of joy water he has been patronizing. We have no reply to these insinuating scurrilities, and we scorn the allegation and defy the alligator. These things are not our business, and we refer our inquisitive correspondent to Rev. Phelan's superiors for the satisfaction of his unholy curiosity.

WHY NOT? AGAIN WE ASK, WHY NOT?

Recently the United States went into the business of carrying Parcels. Many opposed it at the time because they said that "it was a move in the direction of Socialism"—which was quite true.

It is now announced that the express companies have made a reduction in rates averaging about 10 per cent. In some instances the haul for long distances is somewhat less than Parcel Post rates.

This is very good, but the great lesson to be learned is this fact—That the express companies have had the people by the throats for years, and the people could get no relief until they went into competition with the express companies and started an express business of their own through the use of the government.

It will be remembered by all the old time Socialists that The Socialist Party was the first advocate of a Parcel Post. This same statement will also be denied by the demmies and reps who never read a National Socialist Platform in their lives, and are afraid to read one now for fear of being converted.

We are at the present time and have been for years, strongly advising that the people as a whole also go into the clothing business, oil business, steel business, housing business and other wealth producing businesses in competition with the gentlemen robbers who are now cleaning us out bag and baggage year after year.

We say, we strongly advise this, although it is at the present time extremely unwise, and foolish (from a capitalist viewpoint) to say the least, as the gentlemen who now rob us systematically, loudly declare that this procedure would "break up the home," "destroy religion," "take away our incentive," "reduce us all to the same level," etc., etc.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!

However, the American people have had their lesson. They see a concrete example of the value of government ownership, inbringing the trusts to their knees. They are also beginning to understand that it is through the agitation of The Socialist Party that this small measure of relief has been granted, and in ever increasing millions they are going to the polls and vote for the collective ownership and democratic management of every piece of collectively used property.

Why not?

Again we ask, Why not?

THE COURT AND THE CHURCH

Under the strict letter of the law Judge Osborn would have been wholly justified in enforcing the sentence against the two girls who were so unfortunate as to have to make a living under the present capitalistic system. But he did not see it that way after the facts had been made known to him by counsel for the girls. For this clemency on the part of the Court it gives us much greater pleasure than to be called upon to criticise as we would feel it our duty to do did the facts warrant us in so doing.

If the services of these girls are worth anything in a store as clerks they are worth $10.00 per week under capitalism, and if so and they were receiving only $4.00 per week then they are not the ones who were stealing off their employer but he was stealing off them. If we should file an affidavit against that employer would Judge Osborn allow it to issue and have the employer brought before his Honor? We will consent to a suspended sentence because the employer is a victim of the system just as much as those girls were except he is on the other side of the starvation line. Now as to the Church. What is the church doing? What can the church do? Nothing in the way she is willing to do. The church is not willing to do away with the system of inequalities because each one of the Sainted cusses hopes some day to be just a little higher up in the scale of official christendom than his brother minister to whom they will have to look up.

Why should the church do anything to assist in the getting of this world's goods? It should not if what they have been preaching is correct, for they have only to do with the spiritual things they say and the material things are beyond their province. With this we will agree and kindly ask that they keep their fingers off the material things, attend to the spiritual and let us Socialists fight our battles with the capitalists. If, however, they do not feel called upon to keep out of the fight for material existence while we are trying to absorb some of the spiritual teachings they hand out then they will have to take some of the hot stuff we hand out to them in return for the "Hell-fire and Damnation" they spue out to us. A sermon from the heart and a vote from the hand will do more for these girls and all similarly situated than all the "Big-Sister" movements in christendom. The "Big-Sister" movement can only care for the oppressed and fallen while Socialism will keep all from falling.

COLUMBUS BUSINESS MEN VICTIMS OF THEIR OWN SYSTEM.

Many of the business men of Columbus are kicking themselves all over town now because some man or set of men have played the same stunt upon them that they or a combination of them have been working on the rest of humanity for years past. Everybody knows that there has been a scramble for years on the part of the business men of Columbus to get a combination of men organized so that they could fix the terms upon which the rest of us could eke out an existence. If we made objections we were called anarchists and undesirables, and they continued to graft off of us in the name of law and order under the protection of the FLAG. These business men not only held up the pay envelopes of the laboring men of this city but refused to place their account for collection in the hands of reputable Collecting Agencies who have permanent locations here in the City and who treat with consideration those who owe these traffickers in the necessities of life, but placed their accounts in the hands of entire strangers who swore by the eternal that they would have neither limb or life if the debtor did not come across and pay the bills they had against them.

They guaranteed protection against bad accounts, a thing that no man or set of men with one spark of honesty would think of doing. They got $6.00 for a yearly membership or $10.00 for a two years' membership (it would have been the same if for life membership) and the guarantee was writen on highly embossed and artistically designed certificates just like these same men have used time and time again in an effort to dupe others the same way these gentlemen of the "Protective Guarantee Association" have done and yet they will not recognize their own system so close were they to it.

As no man can make a legitimate profit off his fellow man therefore all profits are illegal and on a par, and these schemers are as honorable as the fellows who manipulate a railroad or corner" the necessities of life, such as eggs, milk, etc.

If these so-called business men are in favor of placing all their collections in the hands of one firm why do they object to all the people placing all their business in the hands of one firm and that the Co-operative Commonwealth? Oh! that would be Socialism. But no one could run away with the business unless we all went with it as we would all be shareholders.

IF SHE DON'T LIKE IT LET HER QUIT, NOBODY CARES A DAMN.

Madrid, Dec. 27.—Queen Ena of Spain, who is only twenty-six, is ageing rapidly under the cares of royalty. Her latest photograph, especially secured for The Dispatch, shows that she has grown handsomer than ever, but looks at least fifteen years more than her actual age.

Not alone has Queen Ena been burdened with grievous family troubles owing to the delicate health of the king and the sad deficiencies of two of her children, but she is naturally of an autocratic and fretful temperament, like her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg.

Like Princess Arthur of Connaught she affords a striking example of the beautifying results of fashionable clothes. Always extremely pretty, with wonderful blond coloring, lovely hair and handsome eyes, Queen Ena's figure had the serious defect of being high-shouldered and short-necked. This appearance has now been got rid of and the grace and beauty of her neck and shoulders are undeniable.

The prospect of facing a regency in Spain for some years, at any rate while her eldest son is under age, must have a wearing effect on Queen Ena, especially as it is so freely predicted that she could never sustain the position successfully in the face of the letting loose of not merely republican but revolutionary forces expected to follow the death of the present king.

However, Queen Ena will not fail for want of brains, for it is said she is well endowed with them, and if she does fail it will be owing to bad advisers or her own defective temper.—Columbus Dispatch.

The sickening sight of capitalist papers fawning at the feet of royalty is enough to make one commit the "Dutch act." And these are the ones that tell you this is a free country where royalty is unknown. Through stocks and bonds you help support the entire diseased royal bunch of Europe.

To hear some evplain why they are not Socialists would make a knot hole in an old fence post smile.

It's a darn poor manager that robs the bees he has until they have not enough to keep them through the winter months. But the agents of Divine Providence, who manage this damnable capitalist system, so rob the workers that they never have a month's supply ahead.

About the only thing that the children of the workers inherit is poverty and slavery. How much longer are you workers going to continue this thing?

The Vampire

By Bert Leach. With Apologies to Kipling.

A fool there was and he cast his vote
(Even as you and I)
For ragged pants and a tattered coat,
And some grub on which he didn't dote
He voted for G. O. P., you'll note,
(Even as you and I)

Oh, the work we do for the favored few,
And the miserable wage we get.
We crack the nuts and they take the meat,
They hand us chaff and they take the wheat,
And to make our bondage more complete,
We vote for this system yet.

A fool there was and he goods had none,
(Even as you and I)
He worked like 'ell from sun to sun,
He got no cash so he worked for fun,
And he voted just as his dad had done,
(Even as you and I)

Oh, he worked like fun from sun to sun,
And he plotted and schemed and planned,
But he just could not make both ends meet,
If his head kept warm then he froze his feet,
And his kids hadn't half enough to eat,
But he couldn't understand.

The fool was stripped to his foolish hide,
(Even as you and I)
They couldn't use that tho' they may have tried,
And the poor old fool was kicked aside;
And his legs lived on though his head had died,
(Even as you and I)

It isn't the shame and it isn't the blame
That stings like a white hot brand,
It's the cussed foolishness of a jay
Who'll work ten hours for two hours' pay,
And vote for the thing on election day,
And will not understand.

—From the New York Call.

FLYING SQUADRON.

The boys and girls are responding nobly to our call of last week.

In this article we asked the Squadron to double the circulation this week. Remember, you have until Monday, February 2, at the special rate of one new sub at the 25c for 40 weeks rate. MAKE A DETERMINED EFFORT.

Let's put "The Socialist" where it belongs—in the front ranks of Socialist papers. The greatest boon the workers can have conferred upon them is the privilege of working for their own press and their own movement. KEEP UP THE SUB. LIST RISING.

What's the use to stand back. Forget the capitalist press. Build up your own paper, and let's end this system of capitalism, now.

Comrade Nichols takes a punch at capitalism with a club of four.

Comrade Okert, Hilliards, in his renewal says he takes "The Socialist" and "The Columbus Citizen." He says he must take "The Socialist" in order to keep a line on "The Citizen."

Comrade Inscho makes it six, and takes as his reward one of Comrade Creel's books.

Comade Eubanks holds up the dignity of the North End with a club of four.

Comrade Miller is irrepressible. Five more old party voters will get a 40 week education due to his tireless energy.

Comrade Thornton lands a club of four. This rate gives the boys and girls a chance they have long wanted.

Comrade Rice renews and puts on three others at the same time.

25c for 40 weeks, in clubs of four or more. A club of six brings you any one of Comrade Creel's books FREE.

If you get this paper and have not subscribed, no bill will be sent you. It means that some kind angel who is interested in your salvation has put you on the sub. list.

Comrade Mercer, a blind comrade gets 12 new ones. What a movement is this, that even the blind can see the beauties of the co-operative commonwealth?

Comrade Fries makes it a club of 15. The slogan is 15,000 in Columbus by next fall.

The sufferng of the workers in this city is becoming more intense every day. They are bearing their troubles in silence, that any time may break out into a roaring volcano.

The argument that Socialism will break up the home, seems to have gotten a knock out in Detroit. The effect of Henry Ford's minimum wage of $5.00 per day caused a run on the marriage license department of that county. Socialists have always claimed that if the workers got their entire social product, of about $10.00 per day, that this would permit them to marry and own a home. Capitalism denies them the rights to follow nature's laws, and consequently we find houses of prostitution on every hand. The moment that a small number get a raise to $5.00 per day, they rushed off and got married. This same bunch has been persistently voting AGAINST Socialism, which has promised them $10.00 per day, for fear it would "break up their home." But when some master degrades them by handing them out charity, they fall all over themselves to obey the impulse of nature and mate. Now let some galoot yap again that "Socialism would break up the home."

At this minute, while you read this, millions of people are hungry and freezing. Yet Socialists are "opposed to religion," because they want to feed and house humanity.—Bale.

PROMISES ARE NOT PROVISIONS.

With all the blind and ignorant prejudice on the subject of Socialism held by the sky pilots who soar in the upper regions mentally and spiritually while their mortal physiognomy remains on terra firma, it is comforting and hopeful when occasionally a voice as from the depths of despair is heard crying out in behalf of the oppressed and downtrodden.

At this time we refer to statements made recently by Rabbi Louis J. Kopaid of Buffalo, N. Y., as follows: "There are five causes for the failure of the churches to attract communicants, three of which are entirely beyond the control of the churches. They are materialism, Socialism education, humanitarism and religious creeds.

"Working men have been urged from the pulpit to work, wait and win. They have worked, they have waited, but have not won. They have come to learn that promises get them no bread."

Rabbi Kopald admits the churches have no control over materialism by which we assume he means "the materialistic conception of history," by which we infer that history is a thing of the past and cannot be changed, and the only thing to do is to study it with a view of learning the cause, the trend of those causes during that time and their effects upon future causes and effects.

Karl Marx and others so studied history, as to fortell the things which have and are now happening almost to a certainty and there is nothing to hinder the rabbi, bishop or priest from doing the same thing and giving out expression of their conceptions of materialistic happenings upon the political, religious and business future.

Rabbi Kobald is now an historian and has recorded the fact that "working men have come to believe that the promises of the rabbi, priest and bishop are not provisions, and if these promises be false, will they longer believe there is a heaven to win over yonder when not a rabbi, priest or bishop can, to save his own soul, pray a single working man into a job.

Who said that the working people never have any leisure? Why there are just about four million of them right now that are enjoying lots of leisure, but they'd rather work if they had the cahnce.

THE LITERARY TEST.

The (un)able article on the above subject, in regard to immigration into our country is enough to cause a man to heave up his boot heels. Of course, you Jay, there is no danger in our allowing ignorant Roman Catholics in as long as they vote for Tamany and against our public schools.

They do not believe in schools, they only believe in their church and they are coming thick and fast from all Catholic countries, and there is a well defined and directed method in their coming.

Their object is to vote down all twentieth century advance and enlightenment. It may not be a matter of only indifference to you in regard to them, but to us it is a most serious matter.

Did you workers ever stop to think that while you are working six days a week and trying to rest on the seventh that the masters are resting and having one long scream of pleasure every day? If you fellows used your thinkers more for your own interests you'd learn to vote for the interests of your class, and reverse these conditions some.

Capitalistic parasites, aside from being necessary or desirable adjuncts, compare favorably with the fleas on the dog's back, they give him something to work for. Poor dog! He would have nothing to do were it not for the blessed fleas. He would die without them!

WILL THEY ACT?

The Allied Printing Trades Council has sent a letter to each member of the Ohio Legislature, demanding the following bill to amend Section 7713 of the General Code:

"That no text-book now in use shall be changed or substitution made therefor, prior to 1919, and that in June, 1919, and every five years thereafter, text-books shall be adopted for five-year periods and no change made in such adoption during the five-year periods they are in force."

Commenting on the reasons for this proposed amendment F. W. Steffen, Secretary, says:

"The present law provides that school text-books shall be adopted and contracts let for periods of five years; but any school board by a five-sixths vote of its members may cancel the contract and change the text-books at any regular meeting.

"Under this provision of the law the big school book companies have had rich picking. It has operated as an incentive to these companies to mix in school politics, for, by electing friendly school boards they could at any time secure changes in text-books which meant the sale by them of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of text-books annually in addition to and above the normal requirements of the schools."

It is reported that Mayor Karb was the victim of the Black Hook Worm recently when he was hauled home in a taxi from near the corner of High and Long Streets. The police thought it was contagious and kept the curious at a distance, but it was Big George all right.

Our mayor must have had the "poison needle" run all the way up his anatomy from the effects it had on his locomotion, if reports that come to us are true, and we have it in writing in legal form if any one doubts the statements.

SOCIALISM.

Socialism stands for the collective ownership of all social tools and instruments of wealth production, to be operated for the benefit of the whole people. A great many workingmen have said: "It won't come in our time," "it won't work when it does come," it will "break up the home" and "destroy the church," and further we would all have to "divide up" our earnings with each other, etc., etc.

Now our Democratic president and postmaster genefal are going to have you own the telephone and telegraph systems—maybe.

The government (people) already owns the parcel post; next will come the railroads, and rest is sure to come if you just vote and keep on voting the Socialist ticket straight.

EXCHANGE FURNITURE AND STOVE CO. MAKES STATEMENT.

The policy of this paper is to publish the truth. Any one who feels that he or she has been unjustly criticised will find our columns open to them.

In connection with the affidavit of Myrtle Patterson the Exchange Furniture and Stove Co. wishes to make a statement substantially as follows:

They admit the circumstances as related in our issue, January 17, are true but that there are some mitigating circumstances as follows:

That Patterson came to them and repfesented himself as an engineer on T. & O. C. That on this statement they allowed him $156.00 worth of furniture without any down payment. After six weeks they started an investigation and found that this statement was not true. Afer efforts to get them to come and see them they prosecuted them in order to get their furniture back. They further make the statement they did not palm off second hand goods, only delivering the goods picked out by Patterson. They also claim that their business is conducted on an honest plan for people who are compelled to buy on credit, making payments, and class of goods equal to that of any concern in the business.

The above statement is mahe by John E. Walton, credit man for the above concern.

We call attention to the Capital Clothing Co. adv. in this issue. Read it over carefully. You can save some money.

More than one-half of all labor and exertion of mankind is wasted by the present method of production and distribution under capitalism. Socialism would eliminate waste.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local-Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

Local Branch 225, Workmen's Sick and Death Benefit Fund, at their regular quarterly meeting Sunday, Jan. 25th, adopted by an overwhelming majority a rule raising the dues 25c per month, same to be applied on membership in the Socialist Party. The new rule in effect makes it obligatory for all members of this organization to become dues paying members of the Socialist Party. The local Branch W. S. & D. B. F. contains about 100 members, and is affiliated with the national organization, with thousands of members. It pays $9.00 per week sick benefits, and $250 death benefits. The social revolution moves merrily along.

Comrade F. G. Strickland speaks at Headquarters Feb. 16th. Details next week.

Look at that little red book. Is it stamped to date?

The First Ward Thursday eve, Jan. 15, held a business and propaganda meeting at which ye editor held forth with his silver tongued oratory. At this meeting the precinct captains were all present and a list of all members back in their dues was handed them, by the organizer, and all will be visited and either gotten back into the fold or their back dues collected. The smooth bore (Borror) from that ward will be an old rusty flint lock the next time the boys get a crack at things in that Ward.

STATE.

During the months of September, October and November the Socialist party in Ohio gained 475 new dues-paying members. The total number now enrolled is 5,076, of which 2,644 were in good standing.

Carl Browne, well known to many workers of Ohio, having assisted Jacob Coxey to organize the Commonwealth Army that marched from Massillon to Washington 20 years ago, died in Washington last week from acute indigestion. Browne went to the Capital several months ago and delivered a speech on unemployment which he attempted to make when the "army" reached Washington, but was arrested.

NATIONAL.

During 1913, under the administration of Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, the City Attorney's office of Milwaukee, by the single decision compelling the railway company to pave between the rails, and one foot outside of each rail, has saved $2,000,000 for the 22 years during which the present franchise will run. This is sufficient to pay all the salaries of the City Attorney's office for 80 years.

Once again the Socialists and Clericals joined hands in the Parliament of Germany and voted down a pet project of Kaiser Wilhelm to contribute $50,000 toward holding the next Olympian games in Berlin in 1916. The Socialists voted against the bill because the government does not treat Socialist athletes fairly. The Clericals said it wasn't the government's business to help such projects.

The libel suit won against the Milwaukee Leader, which charged a city official with the kind of graft that a court condemned, will have to be tried over again. The Leader won its first appeal, the Circuit Court held that the damages awarded ($17,000) are excessive by $7,500 even if the defendant is liable. It will be remembered that the jury consisted of 10 Catholics, out of 12. Four of these Catholics perjured themselves in order to serve, and from the present outlook they may get to serve a nice little term behind prison walls, as the Leader is after them.

THOUSANDS QUIT PRUSSIAN CHURCH

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The movement started by the Socialists several months ago to induce people to withdraw from the Prussian state church assumed great activity last month owing to the fact that exemption from the church tax dates from the calendar year following the withdrawal.

At one of the Berlin courts 12 judges and 38 actuaries were kept busy during the final days of the month with the legal formalities of dissolving the relations between seceders and the church, and at another court 1300 withdrawals were effected on one day.

It is believed that the withdrawals in greater Berlin alone during December exceed 40,000.

OUR METHOD OF SELLING IS DIFFERENT from the "Retail Merchant." The large retail merchant of today in Columbus is forced to pay $12,000.00 a year rent. The Capitol pays no rent. We own our own plant absolutely free from debt.

The Way We Make Our Money

We do our own buying. We don't pay $3,000 a year for a buyer and all he can make on the side, No, Sir! We do our own buying, and we know our business. Neither do we pay $3,600 a year for an Ad. Writer, No, Sir! We write our own store news, the language may not be so smooth and slick, but it brings the people to "The Capitol." We always have what we advertise and that's why we are doing business while the "Retail Merchants" sleep.

Yours truly,
J. A. METCALF
PRESIDENT

Capitalism Devours Its Own Children

Capitalism divides the world into two classes, the rich and the poor—those that have—and those that have not.

Capitalism, through a complex of cunningly devised laws, of centuries' growth, causes the labor-produced wealth of the world to accumulate in the hands of men who excell in enterprise and daring, coupled with cunning and a reckless disregard of human rights.

The buccaneers of all ages have been men of force, and having seized upon the treasures of nature, or the products of the industry of less warlike peoples, have had the cunning to entrench themselves behind codes of laws—secular and ecclesiatical. They have established governments and reluctantly written constitutions, granting, under compulsion, the few rights that the common people enjoy.

Capitalism is a subtle form of exploitation, far more subtle than chattel slavery of feudalism. This chattel slave and the serf knew that they were slaves, but many a wage worker does not know that he is a slave and has no greater chance to escape from wage slavery into the region of the masters than a negro had a chance to reach Canada in ante-bellum days.

Still the reign of capitalism is drawing to a close, because the conditions which it continuously prepares are getting unendurable.

Working men and women daily see the enormous amount of wealth they produce, and the little they get, and they ask each other what becomes of the surplus. An hour's labor produces a pair of shoes, but when the laborer buys the shoes he must pay what costs him fifteen hours of labor.

Again, when the shops and factories shut down and the mines close, while people, anxious to work in order that they may buy clothes, food and fuel, are unable to find employment they ask pertinent questions which no capitalist can answer.

Why hunger in the midst of unmeasured piles of food? Why nakedness with warehouses full of clothing and mills ready to make more? Why cold with the earth full of coal and ready hands with picks to take it out? Why tenement rooms and basement sties with labor ready to build homes for all? Why want and poverty when nature has filled the world with treasures ready to be transformed into human use by the magic touch of labor?

Today capitalism is devouring her own children. The poor and wretched of every city and country are the direct result, are the children of a cruel, selfish, unsocial system, which puts propetry above human life and condemns the majority of the people to a life of penury.

Tomorrow the people will arise in their strength and wisdom and will reorganise society upon simple lines of justice, equity and love. Labor will be crowned with the laurel wreath of merit and the race will enter upon n age in which all, even the mo stweak, will be assured of material comfort. The House of the Haves and the House of the Have Nots will intermarry and their children will be True Socialists.

"Scab" Shop on Its Last Legs Asks U. S. Courts for Injunction

The Federal Glass Company, on Innis avenue, this city, is on its last legs. This is the "scab concern" where the glass workers have been on strike since last June.

President Beatty, who loves "scabs" like a duck loves water, has been advertising all over the country that everything was lovely at his "scab pen."

He has been attempting to hold off making a settlement with the Union, hiring detectives to spy upon the Union men, installed a "Barracks" in which to put his scabs to sleep and has done everything in his power to induce the Union men to come back to work until it is reported that the concern is on the verge of bankruptcy.

Every move that he has made has been matched by a far more brilliant move on the part of the Union Oganizers.

Seeing ruin staring them in the face, with one last dying gasp this concern did on last Saturday apply to the United States Federal Court for an injunction seeking to restrain Joseph Gillooley, National Organizer, and other members of the Union from inferfering with the operation of that plant.

No better evidence is wanted than this action to show that the Union has got them whipped to a standstill.

If, as Beatty says, everything is lovely, then why an injunction suit? It is laughable.

The papers as filed in court cover seventy-five type-written pages and is sure a curiosity for a bunch of "wind jamming."

It is presumed that the pettifoger who wrote it up is on the same payroll as the "scabs" inside the barracks or is probably working by the piece.

Capitalist daily papers in their reports of this suit colored the matter in favor of the concern as much as possible. The Columbus Citizen, in the short article reporting this matter, attempted to instill into the minds of the people the impression that the Union men were "Anarchists."

Out of the seventy-five pages covering the company's petition "The Citizen" used the following extract which is a bold lie. The petition states:

The Union men have been molestng the non-union men by using "abuse" "vilification," "intimidation" and "violence" to the point of brutality.

Was there any truth in such a statement capitalist papers would be full of reports of Union men beating up scabs.

Never was a more peaceful strike conducted. That is what makes this concern furious. Besides it is not necessary for the pickets to use abuse, violence or vilification. They no longer even have to ask the men to come out, as the Organizers are busy answering telephones from strike breakers on the inside asking to be given transportation out of town.

In their petition the Company claims that the men were called out on strike by the Union. This is another lie as the men walked out of their own accord on July 17th, 1913.

In their petition, they claim that the other defendants outside of Gillooley and others mentioned in the petition, are aliens and subject to the King of Belgium. Most of these Belgians were brought here years ago direct from Belgium by this concern, many of them even having their passage money sent them by said concern. Many of them have taken out their naturalization papers. All are good substantial citizens and a credit to any country. They were fine citizens as long as they toiled and sweat making millions for Beatty and his family, but as soon as they asked for a few crumbs for themselves, they become "undesirable citizens."

As a sample of how this firm is running things, Henry Reeb, who runs a restaurant at Innis and Parsons, ordered Cal Young, the notorious scab, out of his place, stating that "he would not feed a scab." Accordingly, Beatty has ordered all the employees of the plant not to eat there. Free, Free country, isn't it, where a scab concern can order its slaves where to and where not to eat?

The strikers are determined to carry this matter up to the highest court in the land if necessary in order to establish the right for the workers to organize. Gillooley, the Organizer, is not worrying. He is absolutely fearless. He has been through fights before and does not know what defeat means.

The Union has employed the best legal talent in the city in the person of Frank S. Monnett and others.

This concern is making its last stand. There is nothing left for them now but unconditional surrender as the Union intends to fight it out if it takes ten years.

TORCH OF LIBERTY GOES OUT

Under the heading "May deport all who teach destruction" the capitalist press of January 30th, reports that the house immigration committee has adopted an amendment to the Burnett, Dillingham Immigration Bill which provides "for the deportation of any persons, aliens, or American citizens, who assist in the immigration of persons teaching the destruction of property, including militant suffragettes."

By the time you read this, this vicious law, which is aimed at the American Socialist Movement and at all other revolutionists who are fighting for better conditions, will probably have become a law.

The reactionary and servile Wilson, tool of the plunderbund and servant of his capitalistic masters, will at the behest of his masters and the catholic hierarchy, sign the bill.

This law means that men like Wendell Phillips and Abraham Lincoln who preached destruction of private ownership of property in the form of human beings, will be deported from this country.

Socialists do not preach "destruction of property" but we do preach that the property, in the form of mines, mills, factories, etc., now owned by the capitalist class of this country and the royal pimps of Europe, shall be transferred from THEIR ownership to that of the people

Regardless of this fact men like Gene Debs, Fred Warren, Victor Berger and, in fact, every man who revolts against this damnable system now being represented by the reactionary Democratic party, will be in danger of deportation.

Americans have always boasted that political refugees from foreign lands could always find an asylum upon our shores, safe in the knowledge that they were beyond the clutches of the bloody Czar or other foreign potentate.

It now remains for the Democratic party to shatter what is left of our dream of free America.

"The black night of the dark ages rolls around us, and there is but one ray penetrating the stygian gloom, and that is the clear, pure, white ray of Socialism.

Pass your deportation law. Our work will go on just the same. Send us where you please. The wide, wide world is waiting for Socialism and we will preach our gospel there.

The early Christians, revolting against the Roman Empire and its system of slavery, were thrown to the lions. Instead of retarding the growth of their cause it strengthened and grew. Thus will it be with the "deportation bill," if the reactionary, servile and cowardly Democratic party, backed by the debased, licentious and heretic-hunting Catholic heirarchy, has the nerve to enforce it after they pass it.

In the meantime, if it has not been passed when you read this, write a letter to your Congressman and Senator demanding that he vote against this vicious measure.

TEACHING THEM TO MURDER

The following is a sample of the way the kindergartens of this city are moulding the minds of the children, and inculcating in them the spirit of murder.

The following lines were repeated by a little seven-year-old girl, who says the teacher taught it to her class.

Capitalism not only murders the children in its "hell hole" sweat shops, but instills into their little young minds the idea of wholesale murder of their fellow creatures as being something heroic. The lines follow:

The soldier is a splendid man when marching in parade,
And when he meets the enemy he never is afraid,
And when he fires his musket off he loads it up again,
And when he charges on the foe, resistance is in vain.

A soldier is a fearless man when he to war does go.
He faces guns and never runs unless it's after foe
And when he marches home again he's called a hero bold,
And many wondrous tales are by the soldiers told.

This is the kind of tommyrot this school board allows to be taught your children Teoch them wholesale murder, and you stand for it.

Draw up your belt ANOTHER notch and get ready to carry this county for the working class.

He who will not provide for his own is not only worse than an infidel but he is a boob.

Send in a bunch of subs next week.

You can provide for your own by voting the Socialist ticket.

The boss has a nice, cosy, comfortable office and comes when he pleases and goes when he pleases. You wage-slaves come and go just as the boss dictates. The black slave used to do the same thing. You, of course, are not slaves.

Say, you Democrat and Republican working men, when did the party whose ticket you vote ever officially protest against intolerable working conditions? Don't all hold up your hands at once

The Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose parties are owned body, soul and pants by your masters who lay you off, fire you, and insult you whenever they damn please. The Socialist party is owned body, soul and pants by the working class. The workers outnumber the masters ten to one. Now put your think tank to work if it's not too rusty and try and figure out who's who.

Will some wage slave who voted an old party ticket kindly write us, giving his reasons for so doing. We will gladly pay for such manuscript what it is worth as a curiosity We want to frame it and hang it over our editorial desk.

When you hear a jackass say that Socialists will be just as crooked as old-partyites when they get in power, put it down in your little red book that he is a crook at heart and can't understand that men and women will gladly die for the sake of a noble cause.

In the city of Milwaukee during the Socialist administration an Indianapolis capitalist paper sent a representative there to investigate how Socialists were doing things. The first line of his report read: "I CANNOT FIND A NICKEL'S WORTH OF GRAFT IN MILWAUKEE." Wonder what he would say about Columbus and Sam Kinnear?

Capitalism, Capitalism, on the wall,
Capitalism's going to get a fall;
All of Wilson's donkeys, and all of his men
Won't be able to put Capitalism together again.

WAIL OF CAPITALISM.

Every time I come to town,
The Socialists start kickin' my dog aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They got to quit kickin' my dog aroun'.

For the benefit of the ex-Panhandle wage-slaves who are standing around on the street corners with their hands in their pockets wondering what struck them, we can truthfully state that it is the echo of the scab Democrat and Republican ticket they voted last fall

Following is a copy of letter this paper has forwarded the county commissioners:

We desire to give a short sketch of their private lives to show that as private citizens, they are just as good as any other citizen, but as capitalist office holders they are subservient to the interests that prey on the weak and oppressed.

Columbus, Ohio, February 2, 1914.

To the County Commissioners of Franklin County, Court House, Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—

This paper will on February 28th, 1914, run a special edition, to be known as "The Red Special." THIS EDITION WILL BE PRINTED IN RED. In this issue it is our intention to show that under the laws of Ohio you, as County Commissioners, are in duty bound to support financially the Socialist Press.

We will also show how you, as officials elected by the people, have grossly failed to do your duty, by failing, neglecting and refusing to up hold certain laws on the Statute books of this State.

The working class who support this paper, are interested in seeing that absolute justice is done. Although we, as a class, are denied the privilege of equal opportunity, which our forefathers died and bled for on a thousand battle fields in the war of the Revolution, although we are compelled to labor long hours for a bare subsistence, and support the world on our shoulders, yet with our eyes on the future, seeing the dawn of a better and happier day, we wish to state that we hold malice towards none.

In order that no injustice may be done you as private citizens or otherwise, we are asking you to kindly forward us a short sketch of your life, (a sketch of the life of each of you) together with a newspaper cut of yourselves.

In our issue of February 21st, we will publish such sketches, and cuts with no comment from us, with the exception of a few short introductory remarks. This is one week prior to the issue of our "Red Special." Trusting that you will favor us by granting the above requests, we remain,

Very truly yours,
THE SOCIALIST,
Per F. E. Johnson, Editor.

ABOLISH THE OHIO LEGISLATURE

If the working class of Ohio had an opportunity to cease toil long enough to pay a visit to the Capitalist Legislature of Ohio now in session in this Capital City, they would get a vision that would probably open their eyes.

Talk about anarchy. There isn't a legislator that isn't a past grand thirty-third degree past master of the cult.

Most of the time during a session there is such an uproar that one can scarcely understand what is being done. At times some rube who thinks he has something that will save the country, starts in to make a speech. He makes it to the empty air, and the galleries, because his fellows in sin pay not the slightest attention to his great flow of oratory.

They talk and joke and walk in and out, and show not the least courtesy to the speaker. The speeches, however, are only to make their constituents at home believe they are some pumpkins.

When the people of this state finally awaken to the fact that legislatures are only relics of King Rule, and are used to keep the people in serfdom, and slavery they will abolish this relic of barbarism, and through the initiative and referendum pass their own laws, and abolish the capitalist courts along with the legislature.

WOOZY SAM

According to press dispatches, Duncan McDonald at the miners' convention at Indianapolis, accused Sam Gompers, president of the A. F. of L., of being a common drunkard.

The rank and file of the A. F. of L., are getting extremely tired of the reactionary tactics of Gompers, and it is certain that this peep into the life of the kind of man they have allowed to dominate the organization, and build up a political machine for his own personal benefit, will eventuate in his being kicked out at the next convention. In his indictment of Gompers, McDonald said:

"Gompers had a snootful at Atlanta," He has told you what a great friend he is of John Walker, our former president in Illinois. I saw Gompers in Atlanta after he had been celebrating and he tottered up to Delegate Groce Lawrence and threw his arms around his neck, saying: 'Johnny Walker, I love you like a brother.'

"Then again in the bar of a Chicago hotel, Gompers got lit up, called me all kinds of names and told his followers how he fixed me at Atlanta. Jim Lord, a delegate to the convention from Illinois, told me about that occasion."

In speaking further of the Seattle occasion, McDonald said:

"Above the obscene language and maudlin song, I recognized the voice of Gompers, who seemed to be trying to sing a solo and keep time by pounding on the table with a beer bottle. Let me tell you they didn't have any glasses there, they had a tub, filled with bottled beer and cracked ice and on the table were half-gallon decanters of whisky."

Is it any wonder that organized labor as represented by the A. F. of L. has been practically at a standstill? Is it any wonder that many of the rank and file feel that "something is wrong"?

With such a man as president, the master class have a ready tool, and the sooner organized labor quits paying for drunken debaucheries and puts a man at the helm who is inspired and fired with the zeal of the social revolution, and relegate Gompers to the junk pile, that much sooner will organized labor get somewhere, in place of running around in a circle.

IT IS TIME TO CALL A HALT

The following news item is significant:

Anna Jones, 17, of 715 Summit street, and Miss Grace Boddiebaugh, 19, who said she lived on South Front street, were up before Police Judge Osborn Monday charged with vagrancy. Policeman Van Gieson found them in the barn of the Tracy-Wells wholesale house near Spring and Water streets Sunday morning. Judge Osborn gave each a sentence of 30 days in the workhouse and a fine of $5 and costs, suspended on condition that they go to Good Shepherd convent.

It is time the citizens of this county looked behind the walls of this child exploiting "hell hole" called a convent on West Broad Street, this city.

Children under school age are exploited there making shirts and overalls for the Hershey Rice Concern, and it is time that either those walls were torn down and the poor innocent children released from this sweat shop, or notice served on the courts responsible for sending children there that it will no longer be tolerated.

We have no quarrel with "religion," but when any institution deliberately traps children and through subservient courts, opens its ravenous jaws and swallows the flowerhood of the land, and exploits them for profit, in order that a bunch of lazy scoundrels may continue to roll in luxury and do it in the name or religion—that's where we come in.

You are afraid that Socialism will "destroy religion." It will destroy that kind—the kind that traps and enslaves children for profit.

Take off your coats and let's give this county a political house-cleaning. You know that Rome has this county by the throat. The only rock of refuge still above the rising tide is this paper. Every daily paper is subsidized by them. Let us put the "Socialist" in every home in this city and county, and next fall the working class will elect their own ticket and will see to it that working class children get protection from such vultures.

HIS BRAIN WON'T WORK

The contemptible lickspittle in Washington—the misfit—who holds the job of President of the United States, and who gets a pension of $75,0000 per year from the working class, has just heaped another insult upon the heads of the workers of this country.

We say he gets a pension because that's what it is. It is not salary. To earn a salary one usually does something that is of some benefit at least to society. Woodrow Wilson is a positive detriment to the country.

This tool of Plutocracy did on February 2nd, in effect notify the working class girls and mothers, that they were in the same class as imbeciles, and criminals. He in effect told them that while it was true that they paid him his salary, yet only he and his man brutes had brains enough to vote.

The above happened at Washington, D. C., on the above date when a large delegation of working women appeared before him and asked him to use his influence to get them the ballot.

This insulting tool of the master class with a brain that stopped development back in the stone age informed them "that your delegation has made a profound impression on me."

Impression indeed! You couldn't make an impression on that brain with a sledge hammer.

He told these workers that the Democrat party (by that he of course, meant Wall Street and Tammany) had taken no position for woman suffrage and so he could not do so either. One of these workers, Mrs. Evans, accused him of "gunning" for votes" at a speech at Sea Girt before his election, but Woodrow dodged with the very cute answer "that he was seeking votes."

We wish this paper had 10 pages. We would like to take this donkey's hide and hang it up in our wood house. As it is, our space is limited and too valuable to waste.

We, however, suggest to the working women, that in place of petitioning for votes, that they get into the Socialist Party, and work for Socialism and they will in that manner, not only get the vote, but they will have a voice and vote while getting it.

You would not listen to the Socialist speakers last fall. Most of you have plenty of time on your hands right now and it may profit you to do a little thinking, although it may hurt you at first.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!

CHARITY--SWEET SWEET--CHARITY

Gentle reader, bow thy head, not in reverence—but in shame—as you read the following lines:

Sweet Charity, to thee we bow!
A heavenly visitant art thou!
Thy touch is like the zephyr's own
Thy deeds like those about the Throne.

At every rustling of thy gown
From open gates a light streams down.
O earth behold in Charity
A promise of what Heaven shall be.

The above appears on the back cover of a phamplet issued by the "associated charities" of this city. It is not intended for distribution, except to those whose business it is to keep up the fake and sham of "charity," but one of their victims who has been bled in the past, has turned them down and it is in this manner we secured our copy.

"O earth behold in charity, a promise of what heaven shall be."

In other words, heaven is a place where we will have a parasite class, and a working class. In order for the parasites to be perfectly happy and contented, there must be some one to wear their old cast-off robes, the brass crowns, play the old worn out harps, and live on the side streets paved with cobble stones, like some of the streets of this city, with Sam Kinnear as director of public service.

It will be a fine arrangement ,and the working class will no doubt feel the highest respect for their earthly masters, who have kindly consented to continue their lordship over there.

In looking over the financial statement in this phamplet, we find a very illuminating state of affairs. We find that actually only one dollar out of six went to the service of the poor.

The total receipts were $23,915.98; total disbursements $24,073.34; balance $1,842.74.

We have not space to give the list of expenditures, as listed in the report, but out of the total disbursements of $24,073.34 only $4,008.68 went to "Service to the poor." Only one dollar in six was applied where it was intended by those who supported this concern. The balance went for salaries, supervision and oversight, office supplies, rent, car fare, etc., etc.

Think of it! Out of a total disbursement of $24,073.34 only $4,008.68 went to service to the poor.

However, there was about one-fourth as much paid for rent as went to the "service to the poor."

More than one-third as much went to clerks and stenographers as went to the "service to the poor."

Practically the same amount went to supervision and oversight.

Now dear people dig down some more, for these "charity fakirs." Give the Salvation Army some more old clothes and spare cash. Let joy be unconfined, because according to the "doggeral" verses at the top of this article, every time you hand them some coin, to spend on themselves, it brings you nearer heaven.

By O. G. VanSchoyck, State Secretary.

A Special Appeal to Socialist Speakers, Members of the Socialist Party and Sympathizers in the Cause of Labor.

The class-struggle is alway son, sometimes hidden, sometimes open. Yesterday we saw the conflict openly waging between the Textile workers and the American Woolen Mills Co. at Lawrence, Mass.; today we see it right at home between the steel workers and the A. N. Byers Co. at Girard, Ohio.

The men, who are known as the "Sons of Vulcan," and who are engaged in the puddling trade, have been on strike since last July.

Their original demands were for $7.00 flat rate per ton.

Some of the concerns involved in the controversy granted the demands of the union but the A. M. Byers was one to refuse.

Numerous conferences have been held between the company and the strikers in which no agreement could be reached.

About a week ago the strikers held a meeting at which they agreed to modify their demands asking for $6.00 per ton and recognition of their union. The company made a counter proposition, granting the $6.00 per ton but not recognizing the union. This, the men refused to accept or consider.

The fight now is for the privilege of organizing or rather maintaining the union, which has been their sole means of securing what little they have in the past and they are determined to carry it to the last ditch.

The men, numbering about five hundred, have been putting up a splendid fight but against great odds. They are nearly all married men and have families; and, at present, have but little food and fuel.

Through the influence of the company, the union was ordered to vacate their headquarters which they rented from a banking firm. This move was pulled at a critical time, when the company was attempting to operate their plant with non-union-men. However, the local socialists came to their rescue by donating them the use of their hall as a meeting place.

The local socialist comrades have done nobly in furnishing food, fuel and clothing and also in financially assisting them; but they have exhausted all their means of support and now call upon the other comrades to help provide bread for these strikers, their wives and their children.

The call for socialist speakers, who are willing to contribute their services is also made; several speakers, having already done so with good results.

The situation is serious but if help is immediately given the strikers can still be victorious.

So, with the consent of the State Executive Committee of the Socialist Party of Ohio, we urge all socialists and sympathizers, in a cause of this kind, to do all they can to assist the strikers in their fight which they are determined to win.

All contributions, financial or otherwise, should be sent to Fred Wilson, Box 271, Girard, Ohio.

Comrade Wilson is the secretary of the local and county organizations of the Socialist Party and all speakers who donate their services should communicate with him.

"Prove the solidarity of the working-class in this critical hour by generous contributions."

OUR RED WEEK SPECIAL.

You can not afford to miss ordering and distributing a bundle of our Reed week specials. The date of this issue is February 28th. In this issue we will publish information that will be of direct benefit to the Socialist Press in this State. It will contain information on the duties of The County Commissioners which they are neglecting. The entire issue will be printed in Red. Clip out coupon, and order a budnle now. $8.00 per 1000; $1.00 per hundred

Why don't the workers save their money? Because they don't get it. Henry Ford has saved it for the John Boneheads and Ford has decided to give Bonehead part of the saving. Others may do the same and later Bonehead MAY take what belongs to him by this admission of title.

BELCHER GETS KNOCK OUT.

As we predicted, it has happened. Comrade C. E. Belcher has heretofore held the belt for largest single club of subs turned in at one time, same being 36, but this week Comrade Wm. Holt of the 10th ward, lands a solar plexus, and puts Belcher out with a club of Forty. Comrade Holt started to canvass on January 27th, and finished February 3, with forty. The letter attached to the list we prize very highly, as it shows that the workers are aware of the fact that only by supporting their own press can they free themselves. The letter is as follows:

To the Editor of the Columbus Socialist:

We as working men, herewith hand you our protest against the unjust system under which we are compelled to work, with wages which is nothing above starvation, and not a decent living when permitted to work all time, but as times are now we are only permitted to work part time. We therefore make a sacrifice by placing our names on your subscription list and handing you 25c. for 40 weeks of the "TRUTH."

MASTER CLASS FORCE WIVES OF MINERS INTO PROSTITUTION

"The copper strikers are going to win," declared Carlo Treaca, the well known strike leader, yesterday.

The strikers will win, he said, because of the support given the miners by their wives, and because of the inability of the copper barons to get rommers.

"The women are the most wonderful I have ever seen," said Tresca. "They realize that they are fighting for their families and their homes. The women work side by side with the men on the picket lines, and are ever in the front of the battle, urging the men to keep up spirit.

"Whenever scabs are encountered by the women, or the parades are held, it has a tremendous moral effect upon the strikebreakers. Every Monday sixty to seventy-five scabs refuse to work and join the strikers.

"Miners' wives journey eight miles to participate in the picketing, the parades or to attend a meeting. The reason for the women displaying the courage they do," he said, "is because of the horrible lack of morality that prevailed in the copper country for many years, which they wish to end.

"IT WAS A CUSTOM WITH THE MINERS WHEN RETURNING HOME, TO WHISTLE, TO FIND OUT IF THE CAPTAIN IS WITH THE WIFE. IF THE WIFE ANSWERS, THE MINER KNOWS IT IS ALL RIGHT AND ENTERS HIS HOME. IF THE WIFE DOES NOT ANSWER, HE KNOWS THAT THE CAPTAIN OR SOME OTHER BOSS IS THERE FOR HIS OWN PURPOSE.

"It was an accepted custom in Calumet," said Tresca, "for the captains, superintendents and mine bosses to choose the wives of the miners.

"The miners' wives knew that if they refused their husbands would lose their jobs. Somctimes the bosses take the miners' daughters when they reach the age of 14 into their homes as servants.

"I know of a case where an Italian miner, who was working on the night shift in the mines, returned home sick one night. When he arrived at his hut he did not give the usual whistle, but walked right into his home.

"He came to the bedroom and was not surprised to see his wife with one of the mine captains. The miner excused himself, and went out of the house, and thought nothing of the episode.

"IT IS AGAINST THIS VERY SYSTEM THAT THE MINERS' WIVES ARE FIGHTING. THEY ARE FIGHTING FOR THEIR DAUGHTERS AND THEIR HOMES," declared Treaca.

"Anna Clemenc, the strikers' 'Joan of Arc,' is a daring woman. When I was there she led a parade one day, when one of the militiamen approached and told her that if she did not stop he would kill her. He pointed his bayonet at her breast, but she was undaunted, and throwing open her waist dared the brute to kill her."

"The Calumet mine is the deepest in the country, and in order to work the miners are forced to strip off their clothing because of the heat, wear nothing but a pair of shoes to save the feet and a cap to carry the lamp." The mine is 8000 feet deep and is literally a hell.

"A system of employment which is disgusting is in vogue there. When a miner wants a job he goes to a woman to whom he pays a fee ranging from $50 to $100. The woman gives him a ribbon hwich he wears in his buttonhole, and the foreman, knowing the ribbon, gives hi ma job.

"The reason the Citizens' Alliance was formed was because the establishment of the Western Federation of Miners' stores cut into the profits of the little business men. The priests are on the job, too. Every evening, when the soldiers' bands play, the priests read a sermon urging subordination to the masters. This is the text every night for the soldiers."

HELL IN COLORADO

"No better attest of the success of the coal strike could be had than the operators' own figures furnished the state coal mine inspector for December which show that the production of coal in the strike zone was only 30 per cent of the tonnage taken from these same mines in December, 1912," said John R. Lawson, National Board Member of District 15.

"Pobably the most surprising thing about the operators' figures is the fact that they absolutely prove that former newspaper statements made by them were absolutely false.,

"Every scheme possible was used by the operators during the latter part of November to get scabs into the state. Hundreds of men were brought from the east on the promise that they were to work in a mine near Denver where there were no labor troubles.

"Another large bunch of men were brought from Joplin, Missouri, on the pretence that they were buying 20 acres of land in the San Luis valley near Alamosa and then taken under military protection into the Delagua mine several hundred miles away.

"With the aid of militia and hundreds of murderous mine guards these men were forced to work in the mines against their potests. At Tercio the guards took the men's shoes form them every night to prevent their escape.

"The operators made repeated announcements through their press that they had all the men they needed and that production would be normal for the month of December. Throughout the month they repeated these statements and said that so far as they were concerned the strike was broken.

"When, in the middle of December they were unable to produce enough coal to supply the penal institutions of the state and were forced to lease a mine to the state to produce its own coal, they made no effort to explain the shortage."

FLYING SQUADRON.

While we did not double the circulation last week as we anticipated, yet, we put on several hundred new ones and they are still coming. We must not only double, but we must triple the circulation. Aside from the National advertising we will be able to get, with such a circulation, the main object is to get the paper a large enough circulation that we will not only be able to put a working class representative in congess from this district but that we may be able to deal sledge-hammer blows in the State Campaign, which will soon warm up.

Many comrades have written and others have expressed themselves as being willing to be one of two hundred that would put on four forty weeks subs per month. Will you be one of them? This will mean 800 new subs per month, which together with our normal increase will mean at least 2000 new subs per month. If you will enlist in this new move we will forward you the four cards, on the first of each month and you can settle for them as you sell them. WHAT SAY YOU? Enlist under the banner and let's go about this thing in a systematic manner. Hand up your name.

A comrade out in the State in sending for $1.00 worth of cards has the following to say:: "I AM ONLY 74 but handicapped by an injury which keeps me from being about much, yet wanted to help double the circulation. WHEN I AM OF MATURE AGE, I WILL DO MORE AND PUT TO SHAME THE HARDY BUCKS, FULL GROWN, for their lack of desire to do and dare for a cause that so vitally concerns them and all the wage slaves." Think of this, you younger comrades. Here is a man more than three score years and ten, out on the firing line working for the cause. Read his message again and then match his club of four with a club of eight. And this is not the first club this comrade has sent it.

Comrade Walter, Byesville, Ohio, gets in with a club of four. Those miners know a woking class paper when they see one.

When names are not mentioned in these columns it is because the comrades do not desire their names used.

A comrade from Toledo sends in a club and says that the paper is fine, and that he sends in his mite to help double the circulation.

Comrade Aggus, Norwalk, Ohio, don't let a week slip by without putting on some new ones. His hobby is "The Socialist" and "Appeal," a combination hard to beat.

Comrade Belcher makes it a list of 12. Everybody's doin' it now.

Comrade Slack turns in fou as his share, and signifies his intention of staying on the job.

Comrade Georgie Crooks, to hold up the women's end of the sub campaign, puts four on.

The Socialist, 25c for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more. Send in a club of 16 and get one of Comrade Creel's books FREE.

While attending a conference at Parkersburg, a preacher named Chalfiant was arrested for selling bogus gas leases in Mason county. No Socialism for this gentleman. He knows that it stands for bad business morals.

OUR DANCE.

Every Saturday night at 121½ East Town Street our committee holds a dance. Everything is strictly orderly and you can be assured of a good time. Come out tonight and have a good time. Good music.

The wife of Comrade F. M. Rutan is at Grant Hospital awaiting an operation. The Socialist extends its sympathy to both comrads and trusts that Mrs. Rutan will speedily recover.

THE EXPENSE OF POVERTY.

All poor people are invited to read this paragraph. It concerns each one of you vitally. Aside from the inconvenience of being poor, can you afford it? This we invite your earnest consideration.

If you are poor you can get no credit. Without credit you are forced to pay cash. You cannot borrow money, neither can you save the interest on the necessities you order. Besides this you pay more for them than if you had money enough to buy them in quantities on credit. You pay almost double for coal and much higher for groceries.

These facts ought to be brought home to all people who live in poverty. We do not wish to be too hard on you. You have been so busy with other things that you haven't had time to learn what your poverty really means. We feel sure when you think it over you will stop voting yourself so much poverty and start in and vote for plenty and happiness.

You can't afford to remain poor any longer. It is too expensive.—Toilers Defense.

"HOSS" SENSE.

A traveler in Indiana noticed that a farmer was having trouble with his horse. It would start, go slowly for a short distance, and then stop again. Thereupon, the farmer would have great difficulty in getting it started. Finally, the traveler approached and asked solicitously:

"Is your horse sick?"

"Not that I know of."

"Is he balky?"

"No; but he is so danged 'fraid I'll say 'woah' and he won't hear me that he stops every once in a while to listen."

SOCIALISM BREAKS UP ANOTHER HOME.

Prominent Socialists of Newport, R. I., came into capitalistic newspaper limelight some time ago by filing a petition for divorce charging "extreme cruelty" on the part of a wealthy husband.

The wife who files the petition was formerly Exie Whelen of Philadelphia, and had the honor of a bridesmaid in the person of Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, at her wedding.

The husband, Robert Goelet, as well as Nicholas Longworth, are said to be millionaires and it has been hinted that both might be Socialists, and the fact that the husband is charged with "extreme cruelty" and the further fact that the court immediately withdrew the papers from the files and placed them under seal, depriving the public of the facts, is proof conclusive that Mr. Goelet, though a millionaire, is a bloomin' Socialist trying to practice his Socialistic principles of "Breaking up an American Home."

Every apologist for capitalist in the United States will tell you that is just the way Socialists do and of course then Goelet is a Socialist. We really wonder what the radical Socialist allegations that petition contained anyway. It is our opinion the red flag was waved above the flag of their union, and the constitution of their country was trod upon, christianity prostituted and the home broken up

Right here we would like first rate to say damn if we dared to do so and get away with it but dare not lest we offend an extremely sensitive reading public.

P. S. Another proof that the Goelets are Socialists is the fact Mrs. Goelet does just like all other Socialists wives do, namely, "She, with a retinue of servants, boarded a fast train and went speeding away to Florida." That is just exactly like a Revolutionary Socialist wife does and is all the proof we need on that point.

SOCIALISM.

Socialism is the religion of humanity. It was begotten in hope, conceived in charity, and born in honor. It was nourished in the milk of truth, swaddled in the robes of justice, rocked in the cradle of equity, and warmed by the eternal fire of the torch of liberty.—French.

WHO ARE THE ANARCHISTS?

Comrade W. W. Green, of Nelsonville, calls attention to the fact that the real anarchists in this country as proven by the Mulhall investigations seems to be The National Association of Manufacturers. He says further that many are seeking a remedy for the conditions that exist but they are still a bit afraid to try the real thing. Continuing, he says: "There is a community in New Jersey, Wilson's own state, that trade their wives for whisky and tobacco. Possibly that is the kind of free trade Wilson believes in. Anyhow it has been already proven that free trade is not the remedy; neither is high tariff. The remedy lies in the ownership of the industries by the people which is Socialism. The Brotherhood of all mankind."

BERLIN VOTING SYSTEM.

The rottenness of the German municipal electoral system is well illustrated by the municipal elections in Berlin which have just taken place.

The voters are divided into three classes. There are 70 individuals who pay taxes upwards of $1,850 per year. They elect one-third of the municipal council or 49 members. There are 32,286 voters who pay taxes upwards of $46 a year and they also elect one-third of the council or 48 members. Then, there are 355,214 voters, who comprise the third class and pay less than $46 a year in taxes. They also elect one-third of the council.

The voters in the third class are more than ten times as numerous as the other two classes put together and yet they elect only half as many members of the council.

Practically all the voters in the third class are Socialists and if there was a one-man-one-vote system the Socialists would probably elect 130 of the 144 councilmen.

As it is they now have 45 of the 48 members which the third class voters elect.

Bull Moosers had a convention. They opened the meeting with prayer. Imagine the Lord looking down with favor on a capitalist political convention.

Yet preachers can be found who for a stipend will pray for anything. Size up that bunch of political grafters who can get nothing from the "down and out" Republican party, who now are attempting to look pious and all the time keep a weather eye on the political pie. Organized for graft, most of the leaders are such discredited grafters that even the Republican party won't touch them. They have a Bull Moose governor in West Virginia. The workers remember the story of Baldwin thugs, armoured trains and pitched battles in which the women of the miners were ravished and insulted, the miners killed by hundreds and the horrible living conditions of those poor workers. Well, just keep on remembering that these outrages were all pulled off under a Bull Moose administration.

AS WASHINGTON SEES US.

Remarkable Views Expressed About Socialists at National Press Club.

Special Correspondence Appeal to Reason.

Washington, D. C.—In the luxurious quarters of the National Press Club, the foremost organization of capitalist newspapermen and members of Washington political life, an important discussion took place the other day. To me, a Socialist who is compelled to sell his brains to a capitalist sheet, that discussion was most significant. I heard senators of both parties, two lawyers, a few both parties, congressmen of the three capitalist parties, two lawyers, a few chiefs of federal bureaus and departments and a dozen or so Washington correspondents of the large metropolitan dailies praising the Wilson administration on one point, and that is—YILSON IS CHECKING THE GROWTH OF SOCIALISM.

"Say what you please," said the correspondent of a Boston newspaper "Wilson has succeeded where Roosevelt and Taft have failed. Both Taft and Roosevelt have encouraged the growth of Socialism by persecuting its leaders and by a narrow and reactionary policy of antagonism to all labor and reform legislation. As a result this country has been threatened with an uprising of the masses which had it been permitted to go its full course would have swept everything away, and the Socialists would be here viewing the ruins of the [illegible] at the capitol. Now, I am a republican. I did not vote for Wilson, but I must say that I like his diplomatic handling of the working people. He 'GIVES IN ON ALL THE LITTLE THINGS AND THEREBY IS ABLE TO PROTECT THE BIG THINGS.'"

A half dozen were eager to break in at this point with statements of approval, but a democratic representative of Oklahoma "got the floor," to use a parliamentary expression. "I agree with you thoroughly," he told the Boston newspaperman. "In my state the Socialists have been growing by leaps and bounds because of the tactless methods of the Taft administration. Wilson is a far greater politician than you republicans have given him credit for. He and Bryan know that this country faces a grave problem. Differences between the old parties and even the progressive party count for naught against this danger. The working people are being told that they are entitled to all the wealth they create. They are being plied with Socialist literature and Socialist papers. The Appeal to Reason has a tremendous circulation in my state and I understand it has hundreds of thousands of subscribers in the country. The Socialists are like fanatics and it requires the wisest of statesmanship here in Washington to keep these fanatics from sweeping the country."

The above article which was syndicated to us by the Appeal, speaks for itself. As it is quite lengthy we are unable to publish it in full. Evidently they think they have us on the run, but with the breakdown of the Wilson administration which is already here, and the long string of Socialist victories all over the United States, they have cold chills up and down their spinal columns. The thing to do is to suport our press and push our propaganda and the victory will be ours.

Any worker who has heard of anything Brumbaugh has done for them since in Congress kindly hold up your hands. He has done absolutely nothing. What did you send him down there for? You have paid him $15,000, besides several thousand for extra help, and his name hasn't been mentioned scarcely a dozen times since he has been there, and then never in connection with any legislation.

Van's Place, 473 N. High St. A full line of Cigars and Stogies and everything in the tobacco line. Laundry Agency.

It will soon make no difference whether the board of health makes the dumps called factories clean up or not as they have about all closed down.

Take a day off and visit the State Legislature and watch "your servants" kickin' your dog around.

Capitalism would put bayonets through the stomachs of the workers. Socialism would put bread through the same place, at right angles.

If as said by capitalists the automobile is the cause of the high cost of living, why don't some of you wage-slaves sell yours and stop the high cost of living?

Say, you ex-Panhandle wage-slaves, how's your stomachs coming? You can feel in your stomachs what you would not try to grasp with your noodle last November. Your heads were just as empty then as your bellies are now.

Say, wage-slave, tomorrow take a walk out in the open and raise your head up and take a look at the blue sky. See how beautiful and pure it it. That's because you have never been able to get there and pollute it. Now cast your eye about you and look at the dreary pile of tumble-down factories, tenements and other shacks you are responsible for. And to think you have it within your power to make this earth pure as the blue sky, and you prefer to wallow in capitalistic filth.

The "charity workers" and "uplifters" are the ambulance corps of the capitalist system.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

At the meeting January 28th which taxed the capacity of our hall, Comrade Spargo delivered one of the finest and most beautiful talks ever given in this city. His subject, "The True Meaning of Socialism," was handled in a way that taught even the old time Socialists something. His beautiful flow of language held the audience spellbound. In spite of the fact that Spargo is an international character and a great author, not a daily paper in Columbus said a word about the meeting the next day. The moral to this is, push your own press.

Local Columbus is collecting more dues now than for any time in the past two years. Old members are coming back, and a great many of them are paying up a year's back dues. Remember, you can pay dues at this office if you can't get time to go to your branch.

The Young Peoples' Socialist League meets at headquarters Sunday, February 6, at 2:30 p. m., to make arrangements for an entertainment in March. All comrades interested are urged to attend.

Our band is sure a hummer. Comrade Jones as leader has sure made good. The music handed out at the Spargo meeting has been the subject of much favorable comment.

STATE.

Comrade Bues, Assistant State Secretary and Organizer, has been out in the State organizing. We sure have a couple of live ones in the State office now.

The State Secretary has asked for and received the "Appeal" and "The Socialist" sub list for Ohio and has found towns with 50 "Appeals" and "The Socialist" readers and no locals. He is sending out circulars on organization to all these readers, and is getting excellent results. When Van Schoyck took office he found 187 locals that had been allowed to die.

Local Akron, by substantially unanimous vote, ousted V. G. Williams, G. A. Miller, Ed Dickerson and John W. Reid from membership. They were known as the "Big Four" of the I. W. W. in Akron, and, according to a sworn confession of Reid (referred to in this paper), were in the employ of the Corporations Auxiliary as spies. They also spied upon and reported the doings of the Socialist party. Local Akron was very bitter against Local Columbus for its expulsion of members whose entire attitude and every action pointed to them as being disruptionists. Local Akron is fortunate in discovering this bunch of paid laborfakirs before they completely destroyed the Local.

NATIONAL.

Chicago Socialists are pretty confident of breaking into the City Council at the April election from the Fifteenth ward, which cast a strong vote and helped elect a Socialist member of the Legislature.

Union men and Socialists are preparing to start a co-operative department store in Indianapolis soon; $5,000 was raised in two weeks and much enthusiasm is manifested over the enterprise. The bitter attacks that local merchants have been making on organized labor recently is bound to recoil on their own heads.

Helen Gould (now Sheppard) is a red card member of the Socialist party, being a member of the same local in New York of which Morris Hilquit, who is conducting the Socialist end of the debate in Everybody's Magazine, is secretary. Helen Gould has always possessed in a marked degree the humanitarian spirit, and the justness of Socialism appealed to her.

It's a dull week when Socialism does not receive some attention in Washington. Last week, during the discussion of the bill to spend $40,000,000 to build a government railway in Alaska, Senator McCumber decided that it was up to him to begin a wail in the wilderness. Mac was sure that the proposed Alaska railway is the first step in the direction of a "Socialistic movement," and that it would end in "building up a great political machine made up of railway employes whose salaries would be higher than are paid under present conditions." Then, by a large majority, the brother sentors voted for the government railway, declining to be frightened by the waving of the red flag.

MEASURING HUNGER.

The very, very latest invention is a machine "to measure hunger." "The Socialist" presumes it is the invention of some empty bellyite who votes an old party ticket.

In the future if you get hungry it will only be necessary to call at the City Hall and take the test, and it may be just possible that the machine will prove to your satisfaction that you are not hungry at all.

We suggest that the government take charge of these machines, and not let them fall into the hands of private corporations, because with our past experience we are just a mite leary that the said corporations might tamper with the machine, and make the hungry boys believe that they are filled up with turkey, cranberry sauce, plum pudding and other substantial grub.

Of course this sounds punky, but it is just as reasonable as making a man believe he can get prosperity by voting a Republican ticket after he has just been stung by voting a Democratic ticket, and vice versa. "DRAW UP YOUR BELT ANOTHER NOTCH."

VIRGINIA M. MURRAY DENOUNCES THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Virginia Murray, chief deputy of Juvenile Court of Franklin County, Ohio, is alleged to have confessed to prominent attorney that she is no longer a Catholic and resents all intimations of her being a member of that church.

It is stated that the connection she has had with the Juvenile Court and Judge Black, and the vairous things she has been called upon to do in the name of religion, HAS DISGUSTED HER WITH ALL RELIGION AND ESPECIALLY THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Miss Murray has on several occasions been charged with being a Catholic and playing into their hands in sending many children to Catholic institutions.

Her many friends no doubt will be gratified to know of the position she has taken and will note the change in the future disposition of dependent children.

But this paper wishes to call your attention to the fact that there will be no change in the disposition of the children unil the people of this city and county arise and kick these tools of the heirarchy out into political oblivion.

OLD ORIGINAL WISDOM.

In two months under the new tariff we imported 18,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, and the price of beef in this country was not lower by a fraction of a cent, but was higher at the end of the two months than it had been at the beginning.

It is thus that we find "the true remedy for the increased cost of living" as Professor Wilson said we should in his campaign speeches, faithfully echoed by a devoted press.

Meantime, business has been made "good" for the Beef Trust, also. As it owns the greater part of the importable supplies it has merely brought in cheap meat free of duty and then sold it at the American price.

Wisdom? Why, Old Original Wisdom is our middle name. I guess if there are any problems around anywhere we know how to solve them. Are there any monopolies around or complaints about the high cost of living? We know what to do. Put Circassian walnuts on the free list and watch all your problems disappear like mist before the sun. You bet.—Chas. Edward Russell in The Globe Trotter.

DON'T LET THE CHANCE SLIP

We are informed that the S. E. C has voted to allow Comrade H. G Creel editor The Globe Trotter, to tour this State. "The Socialist" wishes to inform the locals that they will make no mistake in sending Comrade Creel for one lecture, one dozen, or one hundred. When Creel gets that double action, back action and side action horse pistol working, which he uses in his lecture "Hands up," the Dems and Repos get scared so badly they are afraid to leave and by the time Creel gets through he has them "whooping her up" for Socialism. We like him so well in Columbus that he makes his second return engagement with Local Columbus for one week, beginning March 30th, and closing April 5th, after which he begins his tour of the State on a basis of 900 twenty-five cent sub cards to "The Globe Trotter."

JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK

The Man who Jailed Comrade W. C. Bates

Jailed the Man! Principles Go Marching On! Let Your Protest Be Heard by Doubling the Circulation of "The Columbus Socialist"

COMRADE W. C. BATES

Jailed by Judge Sam Black

In the issue of this paper, January 24th, 1914, we published the following letter:

PROBATE COURT
FRANKLIN COUNTY
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
Samuel L. Black, Judge.

January the Thirteenth 1914

Mr. E. C. Reichwald
Corresponding Secretary,
79 W. So. Wated St.
Chicago, Ill,

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th, and in reply beg leave to say that it is only necessary to glance at your letter and circular to learn that you are a lot of DAMN FOOLS.

Personally I have no objection to reading the bible in the public schools or in any other place, if any body wants to read the bible. I have no choice or any power to prevent it or otherwise. The only excuse I have for answering SUCH ROT as you and your coadjutors are circulating is the last paragraph of your circular letter. Did it not contain that paragraph I should have consigned it to the waste-basket without further consideration, but I am writing you and your coadjutors to begin your propaganda as threatened and then go PLUM TO HELL, and take your propaganda with you.

Signed—Samuel L. Black.

The above epistle was forwarded by Judge Black to Mr. Reichwald in answer to letter he had sent the judge. We republish this letter in order that the hundreds of new subscribers to The Socialist may learn at the outset, something of the caliber of the man, who, to vent a private spleen, would deliberately abuse the dignity of a high office, to trap a working-class attorney, appearing before him as an officer of the court, and sentence him for "contempt".

The Capitalist Press have in every possible way attempted to color the character of Comrade Bates, and make it appear as black as the souls of those who edit these papers, and uphold a judicial official, who uses his judicial power to deprive the innocent of liberty.

That the fame of this judge has travelled beyond the limits of Franklin County, is evidenced by the following, from one of the best magazines in this country. The magazine has an array of the most talanted writers in this country and Europe. Its name is "The Truth Seeker" and it is published in New York City. In commenting on Judge Samuel L. Black's letter in the current issue, this magazine says:

> "That which makes most discouraging the prospect of geting justice from the courts in any matter involving a principle is the cluttering up of the bench with such material as Judge Black's letter shows him to be. When the occupant is ignorant and underbred as well as bigoted, there is nothing in him except possibly his pocket or his thirst, to which appeal can be made; and to such appeal the cause of Secularism cannot descend. That methiod belongs to the politics that produced Judge Black and that is responsible for the corrupt alliance of state and church wherever found."—The Truth Seeker.

On Friday, Feoruary 6th, Comrade W. C. Bates, who is an attorney, and also associate editor The Socialist, had in connection with another attorney a case in the Probate Court of Samuel L. Black. In connection with the case and its outcome, Comrade Bates makes the following signed statement.

STATEMENT OF COMRADE BATES.

The case before the court, was an action under the statutes of Ohio, for an order of the Probate Court to sell real estate for the maintenance support and education of minor children. The widow, or mother of the children, y her attorney, hal filed an answer in the nature of a cross petition, setting up the rights claimed by the widow, to an interest in the property because of money she claimed to have saved, and with which she had improved the property, after the death of her husband. The title to the property was in the husband's name at his death.

At the hearing, February 6th, my associate, attorney John C. L. Pugh took charge of the case. I was sitting at another table and had said nothing. After statement of the case by Mr. Pugh and opposing counsel, Judge Black extending his hand toward me said;

"IS THIS ANOTHER AMERICAN HOME YOU ARE TRYING TO BREAK UP? I want to know what YOU got to say about this case?" (Judge Black did not at this time, or at any time ask me whom I represented).

I then arose and said "NO YOUR HONOR, WE ARE NOT HERE TO BREAK UP AN AMERICAN HOME" and proceeded to state a brief history of the facts upon which the application to sell the property was made, concluding with the statement that the statutes of Ohio and the decisions of the courts give the Probate Court jurisdiction and authority, to issue such order of sale, and determine the equities arising on distribution of the proceeds of sale.

WHITE WITH RAGE, JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK, SITTING UPON THE "SACRED BENCH OF JUSTICE", shook his fist at me and made the following statement.

"THERE IS NO SUCH STATUTE IN OHIO."

"THERE IS NO SUCH LAW AND YOU KNOW IT".

I replied, "I can cite the law if the court will give me the opportunity." To which Judge Black replied.

"YOU GET THAT LAW RIGHT NOW, I WANT TO SEE IT, YOU CAN'T FIND IT.".

I then asked one of the deputies to bring me the general Code of Ohio. The deputy failing or refusing to bring me the book I asked for, I stepped around to the bench of Judge Black and picked up the book myself.

Mr. Pugh had asked deputy Edward Morris to bring him the 49th O. S. Deputy Morris, whether intentional or otherwise, brought him the wrong book. While looking for the section of the statutes which Judge Black had demanded, he, Judge Samuel L. Black, STILL sitting upon the "sacred bench of justice" in tones trembling with rage, said,

"IF YOU HAVE COME IN HERE TO MAKE TROUBLE, YOU CAN HAVE ALL YOU WANT OF IT."

To which I replied, "NO YOUR HONOR, I AM NOT HERE TO MAKE TROUBLE. I WAS SITTING AT THE TABLE SAYING NOTHING, UNTIL YOU DEMANDED A STATEMENT FROM ME."

I then walked around to where I had been sitting and continued to look for the statutes which Judge Black had demanded of me.

While so engaged, Judge Samuel L. Black, still sitting upon the "sacred bench of justice," made an infamous attact upon me, in the following manner and words.

Pointing his finger scornfully at me said; "IF THERE IS AN UNMITIGATED LIAR AND SCOUNDREL IN THIS COUNTY, YOUR ARE THAT SCOUNDREL." such an outrageous attact coming from a "sacred bench of justice" was so unexpected that it was dumbfounded and speechless, AND MADE NO REPLY.

To continue my search for the law, Judge Black had demanded, under these conditions was trying in the extreme. JUDGE BLACK CONTINUING, REPEATED HIS VILIFICATION IN THE SAME LANGUAGE TWICE OVER.

I then made this statement, "IF THERE IS ANOTHER IN THIS COUNTY, YOU ARE IT."

Judge Black then ordered his deputy to bring the sheriff and lock me up in the county jail, without placing any charge against me. The court deputy soon returned with a deputy sheriff. Judge Black then said to the deputy sheriff, "TAKE W. C. BATES, SITTING THERE AND LOCK HIM UP IN THE COUNTY JAIL."

I was taken by said deputy and turned over to the jailor, and soon thereafter was locked up in the county jail, and kept there until the next morning when I was released on bond.

WESLEY C. BATES.

When this is written, Comrade Bates is out on bond, pending the hearing of the Habeas Corpus proceedings, brought by attorney Comrade C. E. Belcher, which has been taken to the Court of Appeals on error. We cannot anticipate what the decision of the Court of Appeals will be. That however makes no difference. Sam Black can jail Comrade Bates BUT HE CAN NOT JAIL THE PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH HE STANDS.

THE COUNTY JAIL OF FRANKLIN COUNTY IS NOT LARGE ENOUGH TO HOLD US ALL.

Let him and his Coleorts keep on with their Russianized methods of dealing with men who have the nerve to come out in the open and fight for the cause of the working class.

COURTS DO NOT USE SUCH METHODS. It is only those who usurp the power of the courts.

Sam Black may imagine that he is bigger than the world wide Socialist Movement, but he has another think coming.

In our issue of January 17th, this paper charged the Juvenile Court with aiding in breaking up the home of David Patterson, in the interest of Catholic and Protestant institutions. IT IS NOT OUR FAULT THAT SUCH CONDITIONS PREVAIL. We are fighting the system that produces subservient judges.

In place of the children of American fathers and mothers being snatched from their bosoms and sent to institutions where they are exploited for profit, we are fighting for a system that will nourish, and defend the children of the race from every harm.

Imagine if you can, a court with absolute power over the lives of the children, and that power all centralized in the hands of ONE JUDGE.

Now imagine, if you can, the great power for evil such a judge can weild if he becomes subservient, to the powers that prey upon the defenseless working class and their children.

Now just remember that this is the power conferred upon the Juvenile Courts of this state, by Democrats and Republican legislators. IT IS WORSE THAN RUSSIA, when exercised by a judge without mercy or discretion.

The Roman Heirarchy has seen to it that a feeding ground is prepared to supply the laundries, swet-shops and other industries she carries on behind the high walls of her convents.

ARISE AMERICANS ARISE. Can you not see your danger? Every right, every privelege you now enjoy will soon be taken from you. THINK OF IT. A working class paper had published an article, WHICH WAS SWORN TO, and which has not been denied to this date, involving a judge with the despotic power of Sam L. Black. This judge three weeks after said article had been pubilshed in The Socialist while sitting on the "sacred bench of justice," deliberately used these words to the associate editor, "If there is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel in this county, you are it". Oh! justice and judicial dignity surely in the person of Sam Black, thou art put to shame.

Even the depraved system of capitalism, that knows nothing but profits is put to shame by such tools of the Plunderbund.

Workers will you stand idly by and allow one who has the nerve to stand up for your cause in high places, to be brutally insulted, jailed and intimidated.

To secure justice for our class, it is necessary that the workers carry the news to ALL the working class.

To do this it is necessary to work for subscriptions. If you will roll in the subscriptions we will be in position to do more and more for the cause to which we have consecrated our lives.

WE CANNOT FIGHT SINGLE HANDED AND ALONE. YOU can do the fighting out on the firing line, working for subs, WHICH IS THE IMPORTANT WORK NOW.

We herewith submit ANOTHER affidavit similar to the one of David and Myrtle Patterson, which was published January 17th.

This proves conclusively that the practice of the Juvenile Court of this county is just as we have charged.

Read this affidavit carefully and then hand this paper to some non-subscriber, AND THEN TAKE HIS SUBSCRIPTION.

AFFIDAVIT.

STATE OF OHIO, FRANKLIN COUNTY, ss.

George F. Cook being first duly sworn says he resides at number 120 Cable Ave., Columbus, Ohio, and that he is the father of six children; that on the 18th day of January, 1914, his daughter, Eva Cook, sixteen years of age next May, applied to Mrs. Sleppy of the West Side Settlement House, for a position as Nurse Girl; that through her efforts said daughter secured a position as Nurse Girl in the home of Dr. Ralph B. Taylor, number 1954 Indianola Ave., Columbus, Ohio, to take care of the child of said Taylor, now nearly five years old; that on the 19th day of January, 1914, his said daughter, Eva, came home and told affiant that in addition to being a Nurse Girl for said family (for which she was to receive the sum of $2.50 per week and board) she was compelled to help do the house cleaning on Wednesdays, make three beds every morning, fix the beds every night and heat the stones and water bottles for each bed; that through the week she was compelled to clean the rooms using a carpet sweeper; that said daughter wanted to quit said place, but later decided to go back and give them notice; that she did go back and remained there until her mother went after her on the 25th day of January, 1914.

WIFE OF DOCTOR TAYLOR CALLS SAMUEL L. BLACK

Affiant says that his said wife told him that Mrs. Taylor refused to allow his daughter to leave their home and stated that she, Mrs. Taylor, would call Judge Black and see what he said about it; that his daughter told him that Mrs. Taylor at once did call Judge Black and she stated that said Judge wanted to talk to her mother over the telephone; that her mother said she then entered into telephone communication with said Judge and her mother told said daughter that Judge Black finally told her mother to come back the next day about one o'clock and they would have the matter fixed; that said daughter further told him that the next forenoon about half-past ten on the 26th day of January, 1914, an officer of the Juvenile Court, Mrs Swain, called at said residence of Mrs. Taylor and took her down to the Juvenile Detention Home on East Mound St.; that said Mrs. Swain told her that she and Virginia Murray wanted to talk to her and that she could come back to work in half or an hour's time.

LOCKED UP IN DETENTION HOME

Affiant says his daughter told him that she went to said Detention Home with said officer where she sat down in the kitchen, but later went to dinner, after which she was taken up stairs and locked up, and was kept there four days, until Friday, January 30th; 1914, when she was taken over to the Juvenile Court before Judge Samuel L. Black.

FATHER OF CHILD LOCKED UP IN COUNTY JAIL

Affiant says that on the 29th day of January, 1914, a warrant was served on him at his residence, charging him with non-support of his family, and citing him to appear before Judge Samuel L. Black on Friday, January 30th, 1914; that he was taken to the county jail and locked up all night, and on the next day was brought before said judge; that upon calling the case Judge Black asked the affiant "WHAT DO YOU WANT WITH THIS GIRL" to which affiant replied "I WANT HER AT HOME TO GO TO SCHOOL" at which said Judge Black replied, "YOU DON'T CARE ANYTHING ABOUT THIS GIRL"; that said, Judge then turned to said daughter and pointing his finger at her "YOU GO BACK TO TAYLOR'S AND STAY THERE", after which he turned to affiant's wife and ordered her to stay away from said Taylor's or would lock her up in the Work House and send affiant with her.

THREE "DAMNS", A "PANTHER" AND "TIGER"

Affiant says that his wife then reminded Judge Black that he had told her to come back on the 26th of January and get the girl, to which said Judge Samuel L. Black replied "I DIDN'T TELL YOU THAT, YOU ARE A DAMN LIAR—DAMN LIAR—damn liar (repeating three times) CUT OUT OF WHOLE CLOTH, YOU LIE WORSE THAN A PANTHER OR A TIGER"; that while he was using said language to a woman—affiant's wife—he leaned over his judicial bench and shook his finger in her face; that nothing was said at said hearing about "non-support of his family", with which he was charged in said summons and THAT AFFIANT HAS ALWAYS SUPPORTED HIS FAMILY; that his daughter was then taken by Juvenile Officers, first to the Detention Home and from there back to where said Judge had sentenced her, SAME BEING THE PRIVATE RESIDENCE OF DR. RALPH B. TAYLOR number 1954 Indianola Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

FINALLY RELEASED BY HELP OF FRIENDS

Affiant says his said daughter remained under the SENTENCE OF JUDGE BLACK AT THE PRIVATE RESIDENCE of said Taylor until Saturday, February 7th; that on February 6th, George S. Marshall, Ex-Mayor of Columbus, called affiant's wife and told her that Judge Black had consented to his daughter's release, after which affiant called his daughter and informed her that she had been released, and that when she come home to bring her clothes with her; that when his daughter arrived home the next day she told him that immediately after he had called her over the phone, that said Mrs. Taylor called Virginia Murray at the Juvenile Court, and that his daughter told him she heard Mrs. Taylor say, "I can't let her go to-day as we have a Party on"; that Mrs. Taylor then called affiant's daughter in the room by herself and told her that she could go home the next day and take her clothes if she wanted to, and that she would not have taken her back if the Court had not asked her to; that his daughter came home the next day, February 7th.

AFFIANT IS DONE WITH CAPITALISM.

Affiant further says that this is the first time in his life of 44 years, that he ever heard of a Judge USING HIS POWER TO SENTENCE A PERSON TO WORK IN A PRIVATE HOME; THAT HE BELIEVES IT IS TIME FOR THE WORKING CLASS TO AROUSE THEMSELVES, AND THROUGH THE USE OF THE BALLOT, CAPTURE THE GOVERNMENTAL POWERS AND USE THEM TO CHANGE A SYSTEM WHICH ALLOWS JUDGES TO BREAK UP AN AMERICAN HOME."

HORRIBLE CONDITIONS OF COUNTY JAIL

Statement of W. C. Bates.

I was confined in the Franklin County jail on Friday, February 6th, 1914, under order of Judge Samuel L. Black, of the Probate Court of said county, and entered the corridor of said jail, wherein was some ten or fifteen other prisoners being confined for offenses charged all the way from murderers down to misdemeanors. The prisoners all treated me kindly and I soon had a number of them about me plying me with questions as to who I was and for what offense I was confined. As soon as they heard my name and learned that I was a Socialist they were more than interested and all maner of questions about Socialism were asked and I took pleasure in telling them as best I could about its principles. They wanted to know if there was a Socialist paper in Columbus, and when I replied that I was associate editor of The Socialist they wanted to know how they could get it and I said if they would subscribe for it we would send it to them by mail, and when they said the jailor would not deliver it to them I said we would ask the postmaster to attend to that. Within an hour after being locked up I had six subscriptions to The Socialist.

SHERIFF SHOWS PARTIALITY TO PRISONERS.

I was locked in cell 22 for the night. The lights are kept burning until about 8:30 o'clock. The jailor, Mr. Slack served me with supper, personally, and it consisted of a large dish of good hot soup, a big dish of fried potatoes, four ordinary helpings of boiled beef, nicely prepared, and four large, fresh slices of good bread. The other prisoners told me next morning they had only a cup of coffee and the usual portion of bread.

When I entered the cell there was a dish with some fried potatoes and a spoon in it that the recent occupant of the cell had used. I was told it was a crazy man, who was filthy with body lice and vermin. Mr. Slack handed the spoon back and told me to keep it to eat with. I had to either wash it in the wash-basin or use it as it was, after bed-bugs and cock-roaches had been treading in it over night. As I had told him not to show me any favors, I did not complain and used the spoon after washing it off in the wash-bowl, where the same lunatic had washed perhaps. I was tired and sleepy and retired early, even before the lights were turned out. I had not been in bed long before the vermin and bugs commenced to operate on me and before the lights went out I had committed twenty-six murders, (I had killed seventeen cock-roaches and nine bed-bugs). After the lights went out I could not see to kill the vermin and had to lay and take their onslaughts and was as helpless as when Judge Black administered his tirade of abuse against me. The next morning, the sheet on which I had slept was all smeared over with blood and corruption where I had mashed the said vermin on the sheet. There was also five cock-roaches in the wash basin. During the night and while the lights were on, all down the corridor I could hear the prisoners swat cock-roaches and other vermin. I heard one man say "My God that was a whopper," another said "that is nothing, I just killed to big ones". When I was taken out of the cell about 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the Italian prisoner was in the corridor with a broom and I saw him swat several cock-roaches. I had rolled up the sheet covered over with the blood and corruption of the night's conflict and carried it with me and asked permission to take it out with me, offering to pay for it as soon as I got the money of which I had been relieved when imprisoned. The Turn-key said he would have to ask the jailer, Mr. Slack, about that and he called Mr. Slack. Mr. Slack became very indignant and snatched the sheet from me and threatened to smash my nose, stating he had showed me more favors than he had the others and he considered it an insult for me to snitch on the jail. I said I was not responsible for the conditions, but I proposed for the public to know the facts, to which he made other menacing threats. The prisoners told me next morning that if I wanted to see a sight, to turn the stand I had ate my supper and breakfast on upside down, and I did as they said, when there scampered away what seemed to be more than a hundred cock-roaches. Upon close examination I found three bed-bugs. My body was literally covered with red spots where the vermin in that bed had sucked the blood out of me.

Notwithstanding the nature of the prisoners, the crimes with which they are charged and the company I was compelled to keep in that cell, yet, I would rather be imprisoned with them for life than to have to keep company with Samuel L. Black for one single day.

Frank V. Colton being duly sworn says he has lived at the home of Wesley C. Bates at Number 386 Woodland Ave., Columbus, Ohio, for some time with his wife and child renting rooms for light house-keeping; that he has found said W. C. Bates to be an amiable and unoffensive gentleman but filled with utter contempt for evil and injustice to humanity.

Affiant further says he saw said W. C. Bates at his home in the bath room on Saturday night after release from the County Jail of Franklin County, and was in there when he undressed and showed his body to affiant, he being perfectly nude except a gown to prevent an improper exposure of his person.

Affiant says the naked body of W. C. Bates was covered all over with red spots, some small and many large, but all having the appearance of having been inflicted by bed bugs or some other body lice or vermine; that there was no less than seventy-five or a hundred such places on the body of said W. C. Bates, and further, affiant saith not.

ESCAPES FROM "SWEAT SHOP"

—TREATED LIKE A BRUTE

Editor of The Socialist:

Dear Sir:—An incident occured in our vicinity, corner Avondale and Campbell avenue, last Friday evening which I have not seen noticed by the local press, but it gave evidence of the laxity of our common law.

When I first heard the comomtion, the report was that a young woman had escaped from the Convent of the Good Shepard, at Sandusky and Broad, and looking through a window I saw a body of hoodlums and curiously inclined boys surrounding her. I thought at first that she might be guilty of some crime against society, but when two women, presumably from the institution named, came up, they dragged and jerked her from side to side, despite her protest that her ankle was sprained and that she should not be violently pulled about. They continued this treatment until the "Sister" arrived who argumented by pushing, twisting and kicking until the procession moved away.

From the moment I heard the noise the girl protested against going back to "that den".

The people of our neighborhood were exasperated and will back me up in saying that it was an outrage for a "Nun" and two rough women to assume police powers with no authority whatever. Is the Convent of the Good Shepard a State Prison? If so Judge Black has a right as a Police Judge to consign those brought before him to imprisonment in this institution. But if not a State prison under State Law, no such right is allowed him under the Constitution of Ohio or the United States.

For myself and for this vicinity, I say that Judge Black has no moral or legal right to consign our sons or daughters to that den of iniquity known as the "Sweat Shop of Broad and Sundusky Streets."

No such authority as Judge Black assumes exists between Church and State.

Why have they a right to make a walled prison of their place to prevent advent or egress? If a man or woman transgresses the law, he or she may be committed to prison of which the state has many, but there is no law which authorizes the sentence of a Judge to a Sectarian Sweat Shop like the one at Sandusky and Broad.

We feel that our legal rights have been infringed by a Church that has reduced "Italy to a hand organ, Spain to a guitar, and Ireland to exile." I do not know in fact how this girl came into this institution, but in any event she has a right to regulated freedom.

Yours,
A SUBSCRIBER.

Obed Jewell, being first duly sworn that immediately after the arrest and imprisonment of Mr. W. C. Bates, Attorney, in the Probate Court of Franklin County, on Friday, February 6th, 1914, Judge Samuel L. Black, sitting on the bench of said court demanded that affiant resign as guardian; that affiant then went to the Bench of said Judge Black and requested to know how to proceed to resign; that Judge Black flew into a passion and commenced a triade about "anarchists" and made the fololwing statement: —"I will show you how to bring anarchists into this court. When you come here why don't you get a decant lawyer, now don't say any more or I will lock you up."

Affiant says he had not said anything except to ask how to proceed to resign and there was no occasion for such an outrage of judicial integrity and decency.

Affiant further says that it was his intention to adopt the children in question when the proceeds of the sale of the property had bene exhausted, but as matters now stand they will becoms objects of charity and grow up as ignorant and undesirable citizens.

THE A-B-C OF SOCIALISM

By Allan L. Benson.

A Socialist is a human being like yourself. Socialists propose to do the same things that are now being done—plow the earth, plant, cultivate, harvest and garner of food stuffs, slaughter animals, cure and distribute meats, foods, operate factories and mines, conduct transportation systems, etc.

Socialists propose to do things as they are now being done with such added improvements as may be invented from time to time.

The difference between the present system and Socialism is solely in the ownership of the tools and machinery for the production of wealth. Socialism demands that the tools and machinery for the production of wealth shall be owned collectively by the whole people instead of being owned by individuals and corporations.

It is because of the individual and corporate ownership of the tools of production and the machinery of distribution, that a few individuals have the power to rob the many.

Socialism does not propose to divide a single dollar's worth of wealth, or anything else, between all the people or any part of the people; it proposes to destroy the present system under which a few individuals compel the whole working class to divide up with them to the extent of more than three-fourths of all the wealth their labor produces.

Socialism proposes to do this through the public or collective ownership of the machinery of production and distribution of the wealth that the working class creates.

Without the individual ownership of the machinery of production of wealth the capitalist class have no power to rob the working class.

Socialists propose to acquire this machinery now legally owned by the capitalist class, by whatever means the majority may decide upon. The people cannot tatke over the factories, mines, shops, railroads, and other utilities necessary to their economic liberty and welfare, which the law now recognizes as belonging to the capitalist class, until a majority of the voters decide in favor of such a course, and when a majority have so decided, that majority alone can decided upon the method of doing it, and it matters not what method may be decided upon, the majority will rule. The method is a miner detail.

Briefly, Socialism is a scientific system to prevent any one man from robbing any other man of the fruits of his labor.

Ere long we will publish some more "breaking up an American home" articles. Get busy on the subs, boys and girls.

Sam Black has done the Socialist movement more good jailing Comrade W. C. Bates than our putting out a ton of literature.

THE HEATHEN BETTER LOOK OUT

We are informed by the daily press that subscriptions were taken at the Central Presbyterian Church one week ago last Thursday to rais funds to convert the Mohammedans.

$1375 was raised. In other words, the Jungles of Columbus, the overcrowded tenements, tumbledown shacks, with their miserable occupants, can go to the dogs, while we "Christians" raise money to send some one on a joy ride over the ocean to convert a race of people, who in their morals and philosophy compare favorably with that of hte people who are so anxious to save them.

It is true that the Moslems believe in a plurality of wives, but they come out in the open with it. They don't do as some of our best(?) highly respected citizens do—acknowledge one wife, and support houses of prostitution besides.

Let us use some common sense. The gospel of Jesus is a beautiful philosophy, especially where he says "Call ye no man master, for ye are all brethern."

Let us in place of sending money over the sea, just look out of our back windows, and gaze upon the wreckage capitalism has wrought in the tenement districts, and then remember that the souls that occupy these dreary, dismal places are ready to be saved, but before we can talk to them we must do as Jesus done—feed them.

The Socialist has no word of condemnation for those who gave to this fund. They undoubtedly thought they were doing "God's Work." They are yet blinded and cannot see clearly the road that Jesus pointed out when he said, "Fede My Lambs." The poor little, hungry, forsaken children of our slums are those lambs. Let us arise to-morrow and institute a system of government that will feed, clothe, and shelter the lambs.

COLUMBUS FEDERATION DENOUNCES SCAB PEN

At the regular meeting of the Columbus Federation of Labor last Monday evening the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, The Federal Glass Co. of this city, who are advertising in different newspapers throughout the country to get men to take the places of the union men who are trying to better their conditions, and as Local No. 122 American Flint Glass Workers Union has explained the demoralising conditions that the men had to work under, we, the Columbus Federation of Labor, resolve:

That no self-respecting person can accept work for this company and aid said company in any manner, to defeat honest toilers in their commendable efforts toward securing better conditions, and be it further resolved.

That it would be a crime against humanity for any man to accept work with said company until that company enters in a just agreement and reinstates each one of their old men to their respective positions at union wages and fair conditions.

National Secretary Wm. P. Clark of Toledo was here last Friday night and addressed the men on strike. He is very jubilant over the way the boys are holding out, and the orderly manner in which the strike is being conducted.

Most of the strikers are young men who never before knew what unionism meant and they are showing the spirit of veterans.

Secretary Clark in his address told the boys that they would receive a raise in benefits in a couple of weeks, if the strike is not settled by that time.

Since President Beatty ordered the slaves in this shop not to eat at Henry Reeb's they have obeyed orders. Many of them eat inside the plant, where Beatty charges them 20c per meal.

Owing to lack of space this week it is impossible to handle the situation in detail but next week full and inside information will be published. Organizer Gillooly is on the job, and has the situation well in hand.

THERE IS NO VIOLENCE, and everything points to an early settlement by this "scab herding" company.

SHOW YOUR FAITH BY WORKS

The working class of Ohio, due to the fact, that this is a great industrial state, are ground down under the wheels of mammon, as in no other state in the Union.

As the Socialist vote of nearly 100,000 in this state at the last state election shows, the workers are also the most intelligent of that of any state, al lthings considered.

Doubling this vote twice will put a Socialist Governor in the State House.

The Socialist wants to be one of the biggest powers for the workers, in bringing that happy dey about.

The workers of the nation are fast beginning to see that they have hope for them except in Socialism and the Socialist Party. They pin their hope and their faith on this great movement.

Did every Socialist, who votes the Socialist ticket determine to go to work and build up a great Socialist Press in this state, soon we would be able to wash the dirt and graft out of the Stars and Stripes, make the old flag so clean that we could fling it to the breeze over the State House and, for the first time in the history of this nation, the American Flag would wave for Industrial Liberty, in a great state.

Think of it, you the workers have nothing to lose, but a master. Freedom beckons. It is within your grasp. Build up your paper, which can carry the news of freedom and emancipation to all the workers. The Sub. Price of The Socialist is within the reach of all. Show your faith in the movement that means so much to all of us by sending in a club of at least four. On to the State House.

The courts are so dignified and infallible that a working class attorney can be openly insulted by one of these infallible (?) judges and then sent to jail in the bargain.

Don't fail to come out and hear Comrade Strickland at headquarters. 121½ East Town Street, Monday evening, February 16th (next Monday evening).

CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

The American Association for Labor Legislation is making every effort to focus national attention upon unemployment "our greatest industrial evil." Their special committee has been working for two years, but, as a rule, has met with public indifference. They believe that the present striking emergecy, and the futility of emergency relief, which is now being tried in most cities, will fix the pubfic attantion and that hundreds of thoughtful citizens will soon be ready to come together and help work out constructive proposals for the prevention of unemployment. For this purpose the association is calling a national conference on unemployment to meet in New York City, February 27 and 28.

THE PIOUS SAINTS

"We pledge ourselves never to bring disgrace to our city."

You have read these lines before. You read them in the Capitalist Press, and now they glare at you from every bill board in the city. These are the first lines of a "pledge," or sort of "sacred oath" the "labor robbers," of this city who call themselves "the Chamber of Commerce" have taken.

It will be note dthat they are very frank in their admissions as they pledge themselves not to "bring disgrace to OUR city." In other words this small outfit of "scab-lovers," "labor exploiters," and "child labor employers" admit that they own the city.

"IT IS OURS," they say.

We might ask how they got it, but we will not do so, for fear of rousing the ire of the editor of the O. S. J., who claims we are "demagogues" and "calamity howlers." He would be sure to write an editorial on morals, and tell us to be content with things as they are because God in his infinite wisdom, appointed these exploiters to rule over us, and also gave them the city.

"The Socialist" is firmly of the opinion that these "robber gents" will not disgrace the city. That is impossible. Under the rule of the Democrats and Republicans this city has sunken so low in both moral and political life that nothing that would be done could possibly disgrace it.

This same outfit that took this sacred (?) pledge, supports both Democrats and Republicans around election time.

Here are a few of the good things this Chamber of Commerce has helped to give us.

1. They have helped to give us a mayor who gets drunk, comes out on the street, disgracing both himself and office.

2. They have never raised a protesting voice against Sam Kinnear, Director of Public Service, although it has been proven that he is using the office for his own personal gain.

3. They have at all times as an organization, been opposed to Union Labor.

4. They raise no protesting voice against the system of peonage carried on by the hospitals and convents in this city, which use the juvenile court, and a servile judge to carry on their nefarious work.

5. They know that thousands of women in this city are working in "hell holes" not fit for the habitation of a dog, but no protest comes from them, because they profit from the work of these girls and women.

6. The entire city is reeking with graft and corruption, and then these holy saints have the sacrilegious nerve to vow not to bing disgrace on the city.

This pious outfit are mostly members of our most exclusive churches, they go to church each Sunday and talk of "brotherly love" and the next morning go down to "the office" and lay down a new rule fining the employees if they happen to be late a few minutes.

They live on the labor of children who should be in school. They insult labor at every opportunity. They support every crooked Democrat and Republican politician who will pdomise to delive rthe most swag.

Disgrace indeed. The city is both disgraced and damned by having a set of parasites such as these to support.

In place of taking a vow, these saintly saints better offer up a prayer because the working class is camping on their trail, and we're going to end their rule of ruin and disgrace.

MUST A BRICK HOUSE FALL ON YOU?

Recently the city of Canton, Ohio, in order to secure cheaper current, threatened to go into the electric business on their own account. This scared the Canton Electric Company so badly that they made an immediate cut in rates.

If the people were not so blinded by their old party superstition they would see in this incident, and in like manner the cutting of express rates by the Express Company, the only rational way to lower the cost of living.

To be sure this is only a small item, but it points the way to bigger things.

Stop and think for a moment. What possible right has any individual or corporation to own the electric lighting system of a community? What possible defense can you have for the private ownership of a street car system? Let us go further. Explain if you can, by what moral right, an aggregation of buccaneers has to own railroads, our mines, and our factories, and grow fat on the accumulated wealth produced by the working class?

Even a child can see, that the lives of the people depend upon the useful workers produce by hand and brain, and inasmuch as the workers comprise 85 per cent of the population, that it is to the advantage and welfare of the workers, that the people through their government own such industries, and democratically manage them in the interests of all of us.

There would then be no private owner to step in between the workers and their product.

For instance, let us suppose that the United States government should next week take over the railroad system of this country. Would not the condition of every worker in that industry be materially benefited? Would not his job be more secure? Would not this action benefit the entire public, through lower rates, and increased efficiency in service? You know that Uncle Sam does things right. Then why not put him to work serving the needs of the people?

With Socialists in power in Canton, Ohio, no bluff would be made about the city starting a municipal light plant. They would do it. With Socialists in power in this country no bluff would be made about regulating the trusts. We would take them over in the name of the people, and let the people run them for the benefit of humanity, not for the benefit of a lazy bunch of parasites, who stain the landscape with their presence.

SOCIALISM AND THE BIBLE.

You are told that Socialism is "opposed to religion." Did you know that Socialism was prophesied thousands of years ago, by teh old Biblical prophets? Did you know that they believed and preached that every man should have the full social product of his toil? The definition of Modern Socialism is this: "The collective ownership and democratic management of things collectively used and the private ownership of things privately used."

Socialists agree that under such a system every worker will receive his entire product. In other words he will enjoy "the good of all his labor." Read the following:

"And also that every man should eat and drink and enjoy the good of all his labor, it is the gift of God."—Eccl. 3-13.

Again:

"Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better, than that a man should rejoice in his own works for that is his portion! for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him.—Eccl. 3-22.

Once more:

Behold that which I have seen under the sun; it is good and comely for one to eat and drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labor that he taketh under the sun, all the days of his life which God giveth him, for it is his portion.—Eccl. 5-18.

We suggest that you read the entire book of Eccl. as it has many more instances of the old prophet crying out against the injustice of the master class. We also suggest that you ask your preacher to preach a sermon on one or the other of the above verses, or have him choose Eccl. 4-1.

We told you that when we attacked the beasts of capitalism, in their lairs, that the monster would show its fangs. Its press also has begun to lie more and more about Socialism since we have been telling the truth about conditions. If you love Liberty and Justice, you will not stop until the working class have a daily paper in this city.

Capitalist judges can jail men, but they can't jail principles.

Think of the Russianized methods of a judge that can call a man a "liar" and a "scoundrel" three times and then because the man resents it jail him for "contempt."

Just such a move as was made by Sam Black is what was needed to stir up the smouldering fire of outraged justice in this County and State and start the working class on the road to emancipation.

THE FLYING SQUADRON.

Now is the time to show your mettle. Thousands of workers do not know that they have a fearless champion of their class in this paper.

A comrade who put on a large number of subs recently tells u that the workers who subscribed and got their first paper were delighted. They did not know before that such a paper existed. One of them who is of a religious turn ow mind told him that after reading his first issue, that in place of the churches knocking Socialism, that from what he could read they better get behind it and boost.

Watch every opportunity and get subs. After you read this edition pass it on to some non-subscriber and then persuade him to subscribe.

Space will not permit this week individual mention of sub getters. Suffice to say that the bunch is on the job.

A comrade has put all the city engine houses on the sub list. You boys out there will get no bill, as your sub is paid for forty weeks.

Sam Black used a right in jailing Comrade Bates that no king would dare to exercise.

Take a punch at capitalism by turning in a bunch of subs next week.

A CLOSE CORPORATION.

The Salvation Army is a one million dollar corporation organized under the laws of the state of New York. It is rated in Dun and Bradstreet the same as Standard Oil. In its rescue home for girls who are expectant mothers it does a valuable work. But aside from this branch, every energy is devoted to making the corporations business "pay."

In 1908 General Wm. Booth secured an injunction against his son, restraining him from using the name, "Salvation Army." The trial took place before Justice O'Gorman in the Supreme Court at Boston. During the trial it was brought out that "lassies" and others who visited saloons, gambling houses, offices, and work through crowds receive 50 per cent of their collections. As a result of these disclosures the city of Boston passed an ordinance prohibiting the Salvation Army from begging on the streets. This is a matter of court.

As a result of other fake-charitable schemes an injunction was gotten out in Ashland, Ky., prohibiting a regular contribution of city funds to the work of the Army.

Arthur Scales of the National Monthly, made an investigation of Army methods following the Boston expose. In this issue for December, 1908, he said:

"The Army also runs clothing and merchandise establishments, the goods for which are begged from the well-to-do and sold to those who have money to pay for them and no others."—Miami Valley Socialist.

THEY HAVE CAPITALISM ON THE RUN.

That there will be an upheaval in old Butler county this coming fall seems to be evident if we are to count the remarks heard on all sides as evidence. During the last four weeks from farmers from Collinsville, Billville, Port Union, Darrtown, Reily, Okeana, and in fact, all parts of the county have called at the city building expressing genuine interest in the efforts of the Socialists to give this city a decent and up-to-date administration. It seems that there is a great awakening and a desire on the part of the people to come once more into possession of their own. Men who have never known where the city building is located are beginning to find out for the first time that such a public institution exists in the city of Hamilton. They seem to have once more the old-time feeling that these things belong to themselves.

German Farmers Stop In.

Monday afternoon of this week a German farmer from near Middletown stopped in at the mayor's office. He seemed to be completely stirred up and anxious for the big campaign of the Socialist party to open. When in Germany he told how he had known Bebel and Liebknecht and the other great comrades across the sea. He stated that he had always been a Democrat since he had come to the United States, but from now on he was for the Socialist party. He seemed to think that if we made a determined campaign, which we certainly will, nothing will stop us from sweeping the entire county, electing a representative to the State Legisalture and sending a Congressman to Washington. "I hope you make good in Hamilton," said he, "for upon your success here depends your success in the fall election."

Big Clean-up Coming.

That the Crawford's Run sewer is a stench in the nostrils of the farmers and the people of Middletown is a well known fact, but was never brought to bear so plainly as when two young farmers from near Collinsville gave vent of their disgust at squandering public money and getting such an unsatisfactory piece of work in return. If the present rate of interest keeps up Butler County instead of being the home of political democracy will go further and become the home of industrial democracy. Everybody on the firing line. The county convention is not far away. Prepare yourselves for a rouser.—Hamilton Socialist.

Since the outrageous attack made on Comrade Bates, by Sam Black, hundreds of comrades and sympathizers have written and called, asking what they could do to help. To all we have given the same answer. Read this week's issue AND THEN PROTEST WITH A CLUB OF NEW SUBSCRIBERS. "The Socialist," on whom this vicious attack was made, is is not in position to handle all the expense of these trials alone. At the same time we will accept no donations. One comrade last Monday, after hearing the true state of affairs, laid down five dollars, for which we put on 20 names in this district. That was his protest. LET US HAVE YOURS NEXT WEEK, IN THE FORM OF A CLUB OF 4 OR MORE.

Justice is blind. So are a majority of the working class but when the workers recover their sight, so will justice.

Comrade Strickland at Headquarters, 121½ E. Town Street, Monday evening, February 16th. Don't fail to come.

Local Columbus has instructed the County Campaign Committee to call a county convention Sunday, March 1st to nominate a full county ticket.

The Tenth Ward will meet at Comrade F. M. Wilson's house, 856 W. Rich Street, next Tuesday evening, to elect new officers and take care of other important business. Members take notice and be sure and be present.

STATE.

Local Cleveland is circulating a petition for signatures to amend the new city charater; 10,000 signatures are needed.

The State office is extremely busy getting out notices to nominees on the State ticket, asking if they accept or decline.

NATIONAL.

The Seattle Star has made a forecast of the foothcoming municipal election and makes the prediction that the Socialist party will be one of the leaders in the primaries, and thus be entitled to battle for control in the final contest. The old party bosses are sparring each other for advantage, but it's a cinch that in the windup they will all be in one camp and sounding the slogan, "Anything to beat the Socialists!" The tide is now running strongly toward socialism in Seattle, even though the organization is divided.

Minnesota Socialists have come into possession of their rightful name, Socialist party, which has been denied them for a dozen years because the few deleonites in the State played the dog-in-the-manger part. They couldn't poll any votes themselves and were bound that the antideonites shouldn't either under the name of Socialist, and so the latter had to call themselves the Public Ownership party, which appellation furnished the professor many pleasant moments of ridiculing. Now the deleonites are ruled out as an official party, having too few votes to give them legal standing.

Bishop Cortland Whitehead, of the Episcopal Church at Pittsburg, is getting into a peck of trouble. Recently he ousted Rev. E. M. Golden as rector of St. Margaret's Church, and it was charged that it was done because the latter preached Christian Socialism in its applied sense. Bishop Whitehead denied the assertion and claimed that he is something of a believer in Socialism himself. Later Rev. Golden went to St. Paul's Church, and besides having unusual success in increasing the membership and interest, he also preached applied Christianity, or Socialism. Now he is again chased out of the pulpit by Bishop Whitehead and forbidden to return or preach "elsewhere."

The Socialist party may not amount to so very much and may be a weak and puny thing to be kicked around like a houn' dawg for the amusement of the big plutes by certain valiant time-servers who are anxious to curry favor among the Fat Men, but the far-seeing political leaders at Washington are taking no chances to create propaganda for the Reds and see their million votes doubled this year. Two weeks ago the press associations carried dispatches saying that the majority of the Rules Committee of the House had voted against permitting resolutions to be reported out in favor of Congresional investigations into the strike conditions in Michigan and Colorado, and many special correspondents verified these statements. Hardly a week elapsed before there was a complete somersault performed by the Congressional bosses. Why? Easily answered. The machinery at Socialist headquarters in Chicago started in motion when Moyer was shot in the back and 15,000 letters were sent to party locals and trade unions urging that they hold mass meetings immediately and fire letters and telegrams into Washington demanding that action be taken to secure a square deal for the miners. Senator Ashurst stated on the floor of Congress that he alone had received 4,000 telegrams demanding an investigation and letters and resolutions by the bushel poured into the Capital. So Wilson, Bryan, Clark, Underwood & Co. changed their minds. They saw that the country was pretty thoroughly stirred up, and that unless something was done quickly the busy little Socialists would make political capital out of the situation and nobody could guess where the trouble would end. The Socialist party, because of lack of numbers, is not able to do much in the matter of pushing through its legislative program, but the membership of the party is composed of pretty live wires, and they are not slow in seizing every opportunity to not only help their class in distress, but to utilize every act of capitalistic tyrmanny to make propaganda for and to bring strength to their movement. That is good politics.—Cleveland Citizen.

The dues paid during the month of January show a membership of 107,898. Adding the number of exempt members the total membership for the month is 110,448. This has been exceeded by only one month since October, 1912.

The steady gain of Socialist victories goes steadily on. In the election in Cameron, W. Va., the Socialists elected Thomas Smith Mayor, and increased the vote for balance of ticket 100 per cent. The working class are marching steadily on.

In the election at Star City, W. Va., Socialists elected complete ticket, Mayor, Recorder and five Councilmen. Hurrah!

We will do your paper hagging right. 8c per roll for single trim till March 1st. Quality Paper Co. 1148 Mt. Vernon Ave. E. 4475.

"Where's the president of the railroad?" asked the man who called at the general offices.

"He's down in Washington, attendin' the session o' some kind uv an investigatin' committee," replied the office boy.

"Where is the general manager?"

"He's appearin' before the' Interstate Commerce commission."

"Well, where's the general superintendent?"

'He's at th' meetin' of the legislature fightin' some bum new law."

"Where is the head of the legal department?"

"He's in court, tryin' a suit."

"Then where is the general passenger agent?"

"He's explainin' t' th' commercial travelers why we can't reduce th' fare."

"Where is the general freight agent?"

"He's gone out in th' country t' attend to a meeting o' th' grange an' tell the farmers why we ain't got no freight cars."

"Who's running the blame railroad, anyway?"

"The newspapers and th' legislature,"—Pittsburgh Press.

GREAT VICTORY IN BULGARIA.

One of the greatest victories gained by the Socialists in any country in the world has been secured by our Bulgarian comrades.

Thirty-seven Socialist members have been returned to the national parliament, compared with one Socialist at the last election. In addition to that they have elected approximately 1,500 municipal officers.

The Socialists of Bulgaria are divided into two sections, the Constructivists and the Radicals, each putting up their own candidates. The former elected 21 members and the latter 16.

In addition to the Socialists, there has also been elected 47 Agrarians, representatives of a newly-formed peasants' league. They are exceedingly radical, many of the leaders openly espousing Socialism, and it is expected they will vote solidly with the Socialists.

The parties which were responsible for the late Turkish war have been practically wiped out of existence. They are the Conservatives, who elected only five members, and the Progressives, who elected one member. The Liberals, who support the government, returned 95 members. In addition to these, the Democrats secured fourteen seats and the Radicals five. The present government has only 101 supporters against 109 opposition votes unless they are able to win over the Democrats and the Radicals and some of the peasants.

Much of the success of the elections is due to the financial aid given the parties by the Socialists of other nations. The war had so devastated the country that had it not been for this the Socialists would not have been able to hold their forces together to wage a campaign.

THE SERVILE AND COWARDLY CAPITALIST PAPERS.

If the working class of this city and county, aye, and the State, would arouse themselves to the damnable methods and lies used by capitalist papers, in their cringing, cowardly, insinuating and incriminating methods of stabbing the working class in the back, they would support their own press, and let the said, traducers of honest men and women go by the wayside.

Let the workers of Ohio establish a daily paper in this capital city. Then when they spring their dirty lies, we can nail them before two hours have passed.

Sitting here in this office writing, I have before me a Columbus capitalist paper of February 6th. In this issue is a report of the arrest of Comrades Bates for "contempt."

In this report the statement is made that Comrade Bates called Black a "liar." Nothing is said of the fact that this "lackspittle," first went out of his way to call Comrade Bates both a "liar" and "scoundrel," and did it WHILE SITTING ON THE BENCH, AS A JUDGE.

Fine. Fine. Let this be a lesson to the workers that those who are fighting THEIR battles, are in constant danger.

Take a slap at these contemptable capitalist sheets by withdrawing your support from such sheets, and building up our own press, to the end that the workers of this state may soon own their own daily.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

What say you?"

"I'm not guilty, jedge," protested the prisoner. "All I done was to steal a buggy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

STILL SUFFERING.

A democrat sat at the White House door, and he sat and he sat till his sitter was sore; his whiskers grew long and his hair turned gray as he sat there patiently day by day; his wife, she left him, but he didn't care; he lost his religion and learned to swear; his clothes were tattered and covered with dust, as he waited for Wilson to bust the Trust. Alas! for the victim, and Wilson, too; alas! for the whiskers the wind blew through; alas! for the clothing all tattered and torn, alas! for the cuss words the man had sworn; not a darn bit of good, it is sad to relate, for the Trust humps along at the same old gait. When the people get wise, as at last they must, they will end such torture by OWNING the Trust.

"SCAB" SHOP GETS HIT HARD BLOW

From information, The Socialist has been enabled to gather, Judge Sater of the United States Court has refused to grant a temporary injunction to the Federal Glass Co., restraining the strikers from picketing the plant. It is reported that Judge Sater, in looking over the affidavits as filed by this concern, finds that said affidavits are conflicting. No action therefore will be taken until the matter comes up in court and both sides are given a chance to present their testimony. This must be a hard blow to President Beatty, who appears to be up against it for fair.

President Rowe of the Union has been in town conferring with the attorneys for the strikers, and is more than pleased with the situation, and in particular with the loyalty of the men on strike.

Sometime ago, Andrew Downer and Clay Buell were arrested, charged with assault and battery on a "scab." Facts in the case were that some one had beat the scab up and then run. Downer ann Buell picked him up, took him in and dressed his wounds. The company realized that they had no case, did not appear at the trial, and the boys were dismissed.

As we have stated before in these columns, we reaffirm that the strikers are all quiet, law-abiding citizens, and a credit to any community.

We have repeatedly asked why the Board of Health do not investigate the conditions in the "Barracks" inside the plant where these scabs are herded. It is reported that there are at least thirty bunks in one room and a colored man goes around shooting disinfectant under the cots while the scabs sleep.

As further exidence of the filthiness of these Barracks, we quote from a letter written to one of the organizers by a former strike-breaker, employed at this plant.

"Talk of skunks being housed up in a barracks—but it is not a barracks. I cannot mention the name of it. Do not the health officials know of the conditions of this place? I was with this bunch of skunks for which I am very sorry."

The Socialist calls upon the Boad of Health to make an immediate investigation. Failing to do so, we shall begin an investigation of the Board of Health, and we shall lay our case before the court of last resort—the working class of this city and county. We demand that this investigation be full and complete or The Socialist search-light will be turned upon these officials responsible for this laxity of duty.

In the name of the working class, The Socialist also wants to know if the inspector of workshops and factories goes down and sees the number of small boys employed there?

A marked copy of this paper is being sent to the Inspector, also to the Board of Health, so that they will have no excuse to offer.

If Beatty wishes to retain any skilled workers, he better sign up with the union quick, as a large glass concern in Fairmont, W. Va., within ten days will start to operate and will give employment to quite a number of the strikers. This is a union concern and after the men go there they will refuse to come back after Beatty has signed up.

A number of the strikers were doing common labor at a factory in the south end, but when this concern learned that these men carried union cards, they fierd them. Free country, isn't it?

The Columbus Citizen, who report strike conditions thousands of miles away from this city because it will not hurt their advertising, are continuing their usual tactics of stabbing the working class in the back. As a recent meeting of the Columbus Federation of Labor, a resolution was unanimously passed denouncing this "scab-pen." The Citizen reported all the other business, but would not print this resolution, reason—Federal Glass Co. sometimes advertises

Secretary Clark, National Secretary of the A. F. W. U., when last here reported that the 1 per cent extra voluntary assessment had been voted on favorably by the trade and the money will be available this week or next. The strikers will then receive between ten and twelve dollars per week. Thus, they will be well supplied financially and be able to hold out forever, if necessary. Seldom has the labor movement seen a more ably conducted and peaceful strike than this one at the Federal Plant, and the boys will win because they deserve to win, and they are manifesting a spirit of solidarity rrely equaled.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK UP ANOTHER HOME

From the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer of Feb. 15, we glean the news that Virginia Murray, Chief Probation Officer of the Juvenile Court of this county, made an attempt to "BREAK UP ANOTHER HOME."

This time it happens to be a couple of young folks, who followed the impulse of nature, and got married, which to the eyes of Miss Murray appears to be a crime.

The case as reported in the Enquirer is as follows: On Feb. 9th, Irene Brown and Martin Patterson were married in Cincinnati. Both were, according to Miss Murray, 17 years of age, although they gave their ages as 19 and 21 respectively. They were both from Columbus.

Miss Murray, who from her actions, must have a heart like adamant, instead of congratulating the young couple, and wishing them the usual amount of happiness, wrote to Probate Judge Wm. H. Lueders of Cincinnati, in an attempt to get the judge to prosecute the youngsters for perjury, which would break up this home.

The Socialist is happy to announce, that from appearances, Probate Judge Lueders of Cincinnati, is somewhat of a man, as his reply to Miss Murray indicates, and is as follows:

"While I agree with you that these young people should not have misrepresented their age and residence, and while I also agree with you that pittimes perjury plays a part in obtaining marriage licenses, yet, if there is a chance of the young couple getting along together and living happily, I don't believe that a court or any one else should resort to such drastic measures as punishment for perjury in a case like you write about.

"Under no circumstances would this office issue a marriage license to any other man or woman had we the knowledge that they were not of legal age. This office would not have issued the license to Irene Elizabeth Brown and Martin Patterson had we been advised of their real ages, but now to take legal steps aginst them—indictment, trial and possible conviction and penitentiary—YOU WILL HAVE TO GET SOME OTHER PROBATE JUDGE IN THE STATE OF OHIO TO DO THIS.

"IF THE YOUNG PEOPLE LOVE EACH OTHER AND ARE SUPREMELY HAPPY, I, FOR ONE, WOULD NOT TAKE THE INITIAL STEP TO DESTROY THEIR UNION AND POSSIBLY WRECK THEIR ENTIRE FUTURE LIVES."

To what depths has the Juvenile Court of Franklnn county fallen? Not content with breaking up the homes of the working class fathers and mothers who have children, who can be exploited for profits, they must needs attempt to "break up the home" of a young couple, just starting out in life.

When the people of this country finally awaken, and see the dastardly work that is being carried on by the Juvenile Court of this county, there will be something doing.

WE INTEND THEY SHALL KNOW, as we are on the trail of somethings that beats anything published in the past, and it will be published in due time.

In the meantime just keep in mind the above instance as an illustration of what people in other communities think of YOUR Juvenile Court.

ARE YOU NOT ASHAMED?

Are you not ashamed to uphold an industrial system that lures children into the factories instead of according them a liberal education in the high schools and colleges?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which is seeking of thousands of girls to supplement their meager wages by the earnings of prostitution?

Are you not ashamed to uphold an industrial system that crowds thrifty working people into slums, that enriches the few at the expense of the many, that puts a premium on trickery and fraud, that causes over-work at one time and under-employment at another, that breeds war, crime, disease, squalor and other ugly things,

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which is seeking earnestly to remove these evils by removing their causes?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would increase the comforts of the common people by effecting a general rise in wages?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would give the workers a little more time in which to enjoy life by reducing the hours of labor?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would make industrial establishments safer, healthier, more congenial places to work in?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would provide employment to the unemployed upon magnificent public works of a useful character?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would deal generously with the aged and the infirm?

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would abolish armies and navies, render strikes and lockouts unnecessary, and establish "peace on earth, good will among men?"

Are you not ashamed to stand outside a movement which would universalize culture, beautify our cities, perfect our institutions, ennoble our lives and attain the goal of human brotherhood?

If you are ashamed to uphold an industrial system based upon piracy and war, if you are ashamed to stand outside a movement that is striving to achieve great ideals, then you will consider joining the Socialist party.

If you are intelligent, you will investigate the subject for yourself. If you are broad-minded, you will base your conclusions upon knowledge, not upon early formed prejudices.

Socialism has been sadly maligned and misrepresented. It is at the present time greatly misunderstood. We advise you to read its literature in order to arrive at correct understanding of its principles, its aims, its spirit and its achievements.

Let the poor refuse to longer carry the rich on their backs and there will no longer be any poor.

The worker submits to robbery and as a result is compelled to listen to a lot of rot about the "superior ability" of those who robbed him.

He who studies Socaliam is lost—to the old parties.

Child slavery is conducted for profit only.

The political pot is boiling, says "The Columbus Citizen." And "The Citizen" will hang around watching the pot boil until about October 15th and will then support the biggest bunch of crooks they can find on old party tickets.

Don't be misled. The issue in this campaign is Socialism vs. Capitalism. It is the Masters vs. the Workers.

The masters will evidently have three tickets in the field. The workers one. The workers' ticket bears the label of the Socialist Party. See that you stand by your own class, and refuse to scab at the ballot box.

The working class produce all the world's wealth. Why then don't you own it after you have made it? Are you loony, or have you got the simples, that you vote for a system that robs you of seven-eights of your product?

Four or five millions of men out of work in this great land of liberty at this time. There are plenty of tools to work with, and ten million willing, willing hands pleading for a chance to use those tools to produce wealth. They are denied that right, because a private master class owns the tools, and will not open the doors unless they can make a profit for themselves.

You only get $2.00 in wages out of every $10.00 you produce for the master who owns the tools you work with. A fine business man you are, Boneheads.

No wonder the master is wealthy. Every day you work you sell him a $10.00 article for $3.00. You should be bored for the simples, Bonehead.

You can soon be out whooping her up for your master's ticket, Bonehead. In the meantime he is fixing up a real nice beautiful bunco game to work on you again. Are you going to fall for it?

A working man who votes an old party ticket not only scabs on the working class but he is an unmitigated ass in the bargain.

We say that all property that is collectively used should be collectively owned, and that all property that is individually used should be individually owned. This last clause should help out the gentleman who is afraid that Socialism would rob him of the ownership of his undershirt. The first clause will help him to own an undershirt.

It beats all how much alike we all are and how we all want pretty much the same things. We only differ in the way to get them.

Even a capitalist would hardly advocate private ownership of the air, yet he stands for the private ownership of the land upon which one must stand in order to use the air.

A wise son maketh a glad father, but a peanut-headed boy with the vacant space in his head filled with baseball and a lot of other foolishness, and a coffin nail between his yellow tainted lips causes the old man to swear.

The landless man, the jobless man and the man with useless brains are all the product of capitalism. The two former are becoming more numerous and the latter, thanks to the working class literature, are growing less, daily.

A system of society that can give one man more only by giving some other man less, is about ready for the undertaker. Socialists are preparing to conduct the funeral, and the chief mourners will be the big capitalist thieves.

Our present day prosperity, which one reads so much about in the prostitute press of the country, is mostly like grand-mothers jam—on the top shelf out of reach of the little fellows, with no high chair or step ladder around.

The law of self-interest has given us capitalism and the law of self-preservation will give us Socialism. It is the only logical remedy.

As long as the other fellow owns the means with which you must work, you are not a free American citizen.

The difference 'tween the capitalist
And working man is droll;
The capitalist gets the doughnut,
The workingman the hole.

If hell contains any torture worse than the American proposition of raising a family on our average wage of $453 a year, then his Satanic Majesty must indeed be a past master in the art of fiendish torture.

A farmer's wife who had no very romantic ideas about the opposite sex, and who was asked if she wanted to vote, replied:

"No, I certainly don't!" she said. "I say if there's one little thing that the men folks can do alone, for goodness' sake, let 'em do it."

You build all the private yachts and you go out in a row boat for fifty cents an hour.

You build all the grand palaces and you live in a hole in the wall and call it a home.

You build all the jails and then you fill them.

If one-eighth of the whole own seven-eighths of the wealth, and seven-eighths only own one-eighth, wouldn't you rather be one-eighth than the whole thing?

If a man had a loaf of bread and another, being hungry, would ask him for half of it, would the latter have the right to use forcible means to take part of it? If you were the man who had the loaf, you would say, "Why, of course, not?" If you were the hungry man you would say, "Why, yes, of course." We are all alike.

CAPITAL VS. LABOR.

First Drummer—"How much do you earn a week, old man?"

Second Drummer—"Oh, about $500—for the firm; but I only get $95 and expenses out of it."

The "Associated Charities" took exceptions to our remarks on their annual report in our issue of February 8th. We informed them our columns were open to them, but at this writing nothing has developed.

John Bonehead, how are you feeling these days? The bosses are fixing up some nice tickets for you to vote next fall. They are labeled Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose.

THE AWAKENING

Since The Socialist has been exposing the conditions existing in the juvenile court of this county, even capitalist papers and officials over the country have been taking a rap at the present methods of dealing with the children.

Nearly two years ago, The Socialist exposed the horrible conditions existing in the boys industrial school in Lancaster, Ohio. In that exposure we showed how the boys were beaten, brutalized, and taught filthy habits.

Commenting on the conditions existing there, Judge E. B. Dillon, of the Common Pleas Court of this county, in a statement to the Public Press at that time said: "I believe that the power of the Juvenile Court in the entire United States should be curtailed, and that the enormous good accomplishd by this court as an institution has been overbalanced by its evils." * * * * "Juvenile Courts which send boys and girls, victims of circumstances, to institutions, are evils of the worst sort."

At that time Judge Dillon stated that agreeing with him was a large body of social workers over the state, among whom was Rev. H. W Kellogg of this city, and who would attempt at the next legislature get the power of the Juvenile Courts curtailed:

So far The Socialist has seen no practical result of these very good intentions, and we can tell the Rev. now, that he evidently bucked up against the old beast in the person of the Roman Hierarchy, who wants the children to use in her convents and sweat-shops, and the puny hammering of the Rev. would be laughable if he ever tried to do any thing to better these conditions, which we doubt.

Besides, at last report, the Rev. was still voting the straight for a system that makes dependent children and criminals, and it's hardly likely that he can kick on his own handiwork.

On January 11th, Julia C. Lathrop, Chief of the Government Children's Bureau, assailed the present method of dealing with juvenile offenders.

She points out that into the Juvenile Court are brought many children who are unable to protect themselves, and that the State should see to it that these children are sent to proper state institutions, and given the very best attention.

The present system of handling juveniles in this county is a stench in the nostrils of a decent people. Children are sentenced to the "hell hole" at the corner of West Broad and Sandusky Sts., same being a Catholic convent, where they are worked long hours, making overalls and shirts, for the Herschey-Rice Co., thereby not only having their little bodies ground into profits, but are competing with free labor on the outside. Others are sent to Catholic and Protestant hospitals and made to do the dirty work of these institutions. Others are sent to private homes, and thus the system of breaking up and undermining the American home in the interest of the profit mongers goes merrily on.

It is high time for the working class, whose children it is that are being used as "scullions" and started on the road to crime through these practices, to wake up.

All too long have we lain dormant. While we sleep the relentless system of capitalism goes on, studying new ways to enslave us and our children.

There is no hope outside our own class. Let us next fall vote as a unit for our class ticket, put our own class in office in this county, and see if a little humanity can not be injected into the politics of this district.

THE PROFANE JUDGE

AFFIDAVIT.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.:

ADA GILES, being first duly sworn, says that she resides at 551 Brighton Avenue, Columbus, Ohio, and is the mother of Mathew Ayres by a former husband; that during the fall of 1912, the exact date affiant does not now remember, affiant called on Judge Samuel L. Black in his office in the Court House and stated that her said son had cared for Jane Porter, mother-in-law of said Mathew Ayres, for five years and that her husband, David Porter, was living and making good wages and he, said Porter, should support said Jane Porter as he was a strong able-bodied man; that said Judge Samuel L. Black threatened to send Jane Porter to the infirmary and when affiant asked that he not do so said Black flew into a rage and said (pointing his finger at affiant and then shaking his fist at her in a menacing manner) "If your son turns her out by G—, I will send for him and lock him up." "That there is no law to make the husband care for his wife if the son-in-law has no children under sixteen years of age." "If Jane Porter wants to be cared for by her husband let her apply for a divorce and alimony and be taken care of that way," and further affiant says that the office of said Judge Black was full of people and such statements coming from the "Sacred Bench of Justice" made affiant blush with shame for the female figure blindfolded holding the scales of justice weighing the rights of the people without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Affiant says that one Mrs. Mary Jane Jakeway of East Columbus, Ohio, had a similar but mroe shameful experience with said Judge Samuel L. Black, and further affiant saith not.

ADA GILES.

Sworn to by said Ada Giles and by her subscribed in my presence this 11th day of February, 1914.

MASTERS KNOW YOU ARE SLAVES

Socialists have repeatedly told you that if you were a workingman, you were in worse position than the colored slave before the Civil War.

But if you, in your blinded prejudices, refused to take a square look at yourself in the looking glass, so we submit for your careful inspection, the views of one of the Black Slave Masters, trusting that you will give it careful consideration.

The following speech was made by U. S. Senator Hammond, of S. C., on the floor of the U. S. Senate, March 4, 1858. Read it carefully and then look yourself square in the face.

"In all social systems there must be a class to do the mean duties—to perform the drudgery of life; that is, a class requiring but a low order of intellect and but little skill.

"Its requisites are vigor, docility, fidelity.

"It constitutes the very mudsills of society and political government, you might as well attempt to build a house in the air as to build either one or the other except on the mudsills.

"Fortunately for the South, she found a race adopted to that purpose to her hand. We use them for the purpose and call them slaves.

"The man who lives at daily labor and scarcely live at that, and has put out his labor in the market and takes the best he can get for it—in short, your while class of manual laborers and operatives, as you call them—are slaves.

"The difference between us is that our slaves are hired for life and well compensated; there is no starvation, no begging, no want of employment among our people, and not too much employment, either.

"Yours are hired by the day. Your slaves are white, of your own race, you are brothers ofone blood.

"Our slaves do not vote. We give them no political power. Yours do vote, and being the majority, they are the depositories of all your political power. If they knew the tremendous secret that the ballot box is stronger than an army with bayonets, where would you be? Your society would be reconstructed, not by meetings in parks with arms in their hands, but by the peaceful process of the ballot box."

We told you above to look yourself in the face. Now see if you have the nerve to look your wife and children in the face, you old party voters. A great example you are setting to the children. You in fact are nothing but a "slave breeder." You are afraid Socialism would "destroy religion" and "break up the home," because it wou ldmake you free and independent.

Facts are, that you workingmen who vote old party tickets and in so doing make sleves out of yourselves and your class, are so contemptible that we cannot find proper words to express ourselves.

In this speech, Senator Hammond called you "mudsills," "white slaves." Said you were not as well off as the black slaves, and that if you had brains enough to use the ballot you could reconstruct society—just what Socialists have been telling you—but then Socialists want you to use a little "hoss sense." But you won't do that, you got too much "hog sense."

TURN ON THE LIGHT

Modern politics finds itself in a very peculiar position, as is witnessed by the pretended reformations now being heralded all over this land of ours by "the bosses."

The public is being continually "bam foozled" by this pretended righteousness of our so-called leaders.

Pray! how long are we going to be misled? Where is the stalwart youth of this dear country of ours? It seems that they have been suddenly seized with a bad case of Hook Worm. Wake up fellow citizens.

Assert your God given rights and let's rid this fair land of ours of the damnable influence of the kingdom of darkness as typified by present political leadership.

The law is a hollow joke. The process of evading it, as evidenced by the example of our illustrious fellow citizen of Cleveland, in regard to payment of his honest tax is certainly ludicrous indeed. Let every man bear his just burden in order that justice and right may prevail.

Shame upon the working man who, with the rest of his class, produces all the wealth of the world, sitting down like a "boob," shaking his head, and saying that "things always were this way and they always will be." You coward! You moral pervert! You murderer of your own children! You damnable hypocrite! You know that things are not as they once were.

Seventy-five years ago steam engines were unknown. The fools of that time said it was impossible.

Ten years ago, the writer can remember of people saying the flying machine was impossible, and now you working men who have your own political party, tht you can use to put your class in power, and use it to get you what you want, so that you can walk out in God's sunshine like a man, rather than like a slave, still holler "it can't be did."

If there is a day of judgement, and you wage slaves, who are responsible by your votes for this inhuman system, tell the truth about yourselves, and the way you have polluted this earth, and the Great Judge gives you what is coming to you, hell won't be half hot enough for your miserable souls. Turn the light on yourself, Mr. Worker, and go to work and change the system.

FREEZING CHILDREN RELIEVED

The following letters were received by the National Office of the Socialist Party under date of February 4th:

Woman's Department, Socialist Party,
111 North Market Street, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Comrade:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of nine cases of boys' shoes, two cases of clothing consisting of 131 boys' suits, 73 pairs knee pants and five cases of girls' shoes forwarded by you to be distributed for the benefit of the striking miners' freezing children. Kindly extend my sincere thanks in behalf of the striking miners' children to the National Socialist Party and assure them that we highly appreciate your good work of lightening the burden of the suffering little children. With best wishes to you, I am,

Fraternally yours,
C. E. HIETALA,
Secretary-Treasurer Copper District Union No. 16, Western Federation of Miners.

Dear Comrade:

Yours of late date enclosing bill of lading for nine cases shoes, two cases clothing, and 8 cases shoes at hand. The goods have arrived and are being sent to the strike zone. Am awaiting the arrival of the balance of the purchase mentioned by you.

With a comrade's greeting and tendering thanks for the Socialists' splendid work for our children, I am,

Yours fraternally,
C. W. SELLERS,
Secretary Miners' Union.

The items mentioned in these letters were forwarded to the strike districts, as a result of the very liberal contributions of Socialist Locals, Union Organizations and individuals to the Strike Children's Relief Fund. In addition to these items we have this week forwarded 96 dozen pair hose, 90 dozen suits underwear, 360 girls' cloaks and 550 girls' hoods.

The contributions have already reached $4,730.08. We will continue to send clothing into these districts as long as the fund lasts and the strike continues.

The Socialist has as yet seen no notice of the National Committees of the Democrat, Republican or Bull Moose parties sending even a red cent up to Michigan o rout to Colorado to feed and clothe the children.

They are too busy fixing up slates for you suckers to vote next fall. They are in fact, right now, with the country in the midst of the worst panic since 1892-96 in a big scrap over the political pie, of which you will never get a smell.

Cox is calling one gang "liars," and they are calling him a "liar," and all factions join in calling the others "grafters" and "crooks" and "liars." The working class agree that they are telling the truth about each other. Just let them alone workers, especially their scab ticket on eleetion day, and the skunks will stink themselves out finally.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!

MILLIONS FOR HOGS

HUMANS CAN ROT IN PIG-STYS.

The great United States at the request of the dissolute Senator Pomerene of Canton, Ohio, debauchery fame, will, according to press dispatches, spend $500,000 to help stamp out hog cholera.

No doubt the working class now feel highly elated as they will now have government aid in stamping out hog cholera.

While this $500,000 is being spent to cure hogs, millions of working class children are actually suffering for want of proper food and clothing.

Were this not a tragedy it would indeed be laughable.

Hogs placed above humanity by Democratic, Republican and Bull Moose legislators.

In every city in this land thousands of children and adult human beings die every year because of lack of medical attention. Hundreds of thousands of human beings die every year from preventable diseases.

Practically all of these victims are members of the working class, yet no spokesman arises in congress and demands that an appropriation be made to eradicate this human disease.

And there is a reason. Hogs are private property. Most of our representatives and senators are large land owners on which are raised hogs for market.

The working class who are discriminated against in favor of the hog, while he is no less owned by the same master, has a different marketable value. The master owns the hog outright and sells his body for profit.

In the case of the human being, the master owns the job and hires the said human only when he can make a profit.

The disease that this system breeds amongst the workers is the disease of "poverty."

From this disease springs practically all of the bodily diseases of the working class. It can readily be seen that since the master class, with their Senators and Representatives, are responsible for the disease of poverty, and benefit thereby, that they will never appropriate any sum to eradicate the disease of poverty.

If the workers would be free from this disease they must take the proper remedy. The best remedy we can recommend is called Socialist Tonic. It comes in the form of Socialist newspapers, magazines, leaflets and books and can be purchased at most any corner book store.

When the workers learn that only through the collective ownership of the mines, milk factories, etc., run in much the same manner as our postoffice system, adding thereto the management of these industries by the workers themselves, can they ever be free, they will then work and vote for their own class, send them to all of the legislative halls and then the disgraceful episodes of putting hogs above the workers and their children will be ended for evermore.

OUR ARISTOCRATIC RULERS

The American House of Lords and the Supreme Court of the United States don't feel as cocksure of their everlasting rule as they did twenty-five years ago. Before long the Senators and Supreme Court Judges will be elected by the direct vote of the people, and before another twenty-five years pass away the world will no longer know the Senate and Supreme Court. The working people of this country are getting there.

Just now the old party statesmen and their old fogy backers in the business world are cocksure that the American Socialist movement is a transient thing and that they can handle it. They will try all the pettyfogging programs of European enemies of progress, although they are quite sure that Americans ought not to import any European "isms." So we may look for a grand assault on the Socialist party and on Organized Labor in the next few years. But in about ten years this paroxysm of fogyism will spend itself, and then old party politicians and their employers will have learned the lesson and will understand that Socialists cannot be handled by any champion of the existing order, and that Socialism is getting there all over the globe.

HE HAS SNAKES

The editor of the O. S. J. has snakes. Not the really, really kind, but the "government ownership" kind. In other words he sees government ownership—but he don't. It's quite easy—and at the same time quite unpleasant for one with a mind back in the stone age.

Some time ago, under the heading "Government Ownership," the O. S. J. had the following to say:

"The postoffice department is in favor of government ownership of the telegraphs and telephones, but it is observed that President Wilson has not made up his mind to indorse this great change, which is the very next step to the ownership of railroads. Unless the country is ready to trust itself to socialism, it should begin to take a decided stand, lest the inroads upon personal enterprise and responsibility get too far and wide."

Now a gentle hint to the working class seems to come in about right, and that is—that you have these plutocratic child labor exploiters, and the plunderbund i ngeneral scared out of their wits.

When the Master's papers begin to knock a thing that your papers uphold you just remember that you are on the right track, and continue to vote and work for your class ticket.

Now the above capitalist editor says, "Unless the country is ready to trust itself to socialism," etc., etc. In the name of the working class we can inform this gentleman that the country is ready for socialism, only some of the inhabitants don't know it yet, and as for "taking adecide d stand"—we'll say we've taken a decided stand."

We have nothing to lose by trusting to socialism. Be gosh, we have trusted in the Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers until we haven't even any credit left. They have cleaned us out bag and baggage, so that trusting in Socialism won't lose us anything.

The balance of this "gem of purest ray serene" is as follows:

"This change promises to introduce a new social status. Possibly there is some good reason for a change, but it is an experiment that has its perils, especially at present, when politics is so selfish and party is organized for the spoils of office. Rev. Mr. Stelzle, the labor union preacher, a man far advanced in social reform, said he was for socialism after awhile, but we were not ready for it just now. It takes a wholesome, everyday life to sustain the highest aspirations."

You bet the change will introduce "a new social status." That's what the American people have been wanting, but it made no difference whether Democrat, Republican or Bull Moose, they woke up day after election and found they had the same old system, so that quite a few of us, (in round numbers 1,000,000), started to vote for a "change" in the system. Each yearo neo of us induces another to vote with us, and from present indications, it won't be long until we will get that change.

The most palpable truth we have ever seen in the O. S. J. is contained in the statement above in that "party is organized for the spoils of office."

In speaking thus the O. S. J. editor had reference to the old parties, and no one is better qualified to speak on that question than editors of capitalist papers. He knows absolutely nothing about the workings and aspirations of the Socialist Party.

But in making this admission he admits that all this "tommy rot" about "Socialism against the home," "Religion," etc., etc., is only used by the old parties for effect.

He admits that since all the old parties want is "spoils of office," and that since he and his masters who control the old parties fight Socialism, that therefore the Socialist Party is fighting "spoils of office."

Were we after "spoils of office" we could get them mighty quick, but these degraded grafting politicians give us a wide berth. They tried it in this town once, and got "set on" right, they got a good swift kick by the working class, and the spot is still sore. We want the world for the workers—no more—no less.

Since the esteemed editor has now let the "cat out of the bag" and told you plainly what you knew before, but were too pig-headed to vote against, we suppose you will next fall, vote to give them some more "spoils of office."

DEPART INTO EVERLASTING DARKNESS

Whether you are a man in overalls, or a man with a salaried position, the Socialist philosophy should appeal to you. Socialism has its traducers—those who lie about, and vilify it, and its adherents, yet the grand and beautiful principle goes marching on.

There are some men, who, from their ignorance, fight Socialism because they really believe that it is wrong. Many an honest man has been converted to its principles through studying up on it in order to be in a position to combat it.

We make this statement without fear of contradiction, that no honest man can study Socialism, without consecrating this life to carrying forward its principles.

About the most damnable lie the capitalist politicians spring is that "Socialism would break up the home." Yet it is the Socialist Party, and no other political party that is continuously trying in every possible way to better the conditions of the working class to the end that they may enjoy life more fully, and really have a home.

On every hand we see the devastation and ruin that capitalism, as represented by the democrat, republican and bull moose parties, have wrought.

The tumble-down tenements representing whole sections of our cities where the unfortunate are jammed and herded in disease-breeding shacks are a menace to any society.

In these holes children are born—little innocent children. No sooner are their lungs expanded with the diseased reeking air, than they must begin the fight for an existence.

If they are not stricken down by disease, they may possibly get a few years' schooling, and there—life practically ends.

The balance of their miserable existence is spent in some hole, call a factory, in which this child, and others of its class, have their labor power ground up into dollars, to buy puppies and diseased royalties for the idle owners, and their families.

You so-called Christians who profess to believe in God, and who vote the Devil's ticket every chance you get, instead of praying for these unfortunates you make yourself by voting for the system that produces them, you better offer up a prayer for yourself, because if the God you pray to exists, he will say unto every last one of you who vote an old party ticket: "Depart from me into everlasting darkness prepared for the devil and his angels."

"BUSINESS IS BUSINESS."

By Edward J. Dutton in N. Y. Call.

Republicans of more or less prominence are circulating the report that there will be a war with Mexico not later than May 1, 1914, in order to stimulate business and extricate the Democratic administration from the predictment in which it finds itself.

Business in bullets, powder and rifles,
Business in cannon, sharpnell and shell.
Business in Mausers, and such other trifles,
Business must boom, though war may be hell.

Business in onds for the stay-at-home schemers,
Business in beef, embalmed or just plain.
Business in bouquets to throw at the dreamers,
As patriots (so-called) they march to entrain.

Business for priests on each side of the contest,
Praying for victory, the repose of the soul,
Each supplicating that his side may fare best,
Thus putting the GREAT REFEREE in a hole.

Business for grave diggers, doctors and nurses,
Business in lumber to make wooden legs,
Business in stretchers, coffins and hearses,
As victims come mournfully home on their pegs.

"Business IS Business," in war or in peace.
A stench in the nostrils of all thinking men.
Like all of their schemes, a game of pure fleece.
Let the workers get wise, there'll be no war then.

The Reverend Father Kluser, of Morgantown, believes that murder can be made less than murder by saying prayers over it

"Capitalists take risks," says a defender of the system. He neglects to say that they also take almost everything else.

FLYING SQUADRON.

ave you enlisted in the "two hun- brigade" yet? This is the two dred that are pledging them- es to send in at least four forty ks subs per month. One a week. ny have already pledged them- es to do this. Will you be one them? We will advance the cards. can settle as you sell them. te or call for them.

have been through the ups and ns of the Socialist movement for eral years, and I tell you that, estly, I have never before seen interest and work that is being e now. Men and women who e never before shown the slight- interest in the Socialist move- nt are working for subs, buying distributing literature, and eading the gospel.

t is glorious to thus see the tide hich for the moment seemed to e against us to be turning against ur enemies, in an avalanche that will solidify at the ballot box next November.

Work for subs as you never rked before. Think of the miser- of our class, and the little chil- dren freezing and starving. Only Socialism will save them. We will spread the good news if you will get the subs.

Comrade Slack, with a determined look, slams down a bunch of seven, which makes 21 for him in the past two weeks.

Comrade Martin Bower, of Chillicothe, Ohio, lands with a club of 4. He wants to see us skin capitalism.

Comrade Marshall, College Station, Texas, gets in with a club of four. They are hearing the rumble down in the "Lone Star State."

Local Flushing, Ohio, forwards M. O. for 10 sub cards. The boys and girls down there are a live bunch.

Comrade McLeod brings in a club of six to help swell the rising tide. Nice work.

ASKING ABOUT SOCIALISM

Question—What is the program of the Socialist movement?

Answer—The ultimate program of the movement is for the members of the working class to organize themselves into a political party, and by majority vote capture the political power which has hitherto been the exclusive possession of the master class; then to establish a system of industry in which all who wish to work may do so without dividing the proceeds of their industry, and giving part of it to an owner of the land or machines. Private ownership of the means of production must be abolished, and collective ownership established so that the workers may own their jobs and not be under the necessity of working for an employer, on the employer's terms. The immediate program of the movement is to secure every advantage for the workers and force every concession from the capitalists that can be done without compromising the ultimate program.

COMRADES AND FRIENDS.

Why pay more? Absolutely fine California port, sherry, blackberry and other wines, $1.25 to $2.50 per gallon. Mail orders given prompt attention.
H. L. FREIDENBERG'S
Cut Rate Liquor Store.
204 East Main St. Cit. Phone 7846.

Question—By what means and methods do you expect to get hold of the land and machinery of production?

Answer—By much the same means as the Republicans got hold of the negroes, when they wished to change them from slaves to citizens. It may be that the worker will prefer to pay something for such property, just as there was a sentiment favorable to the purchase of the chattel slaves before the war; but whether this is done, must depend upon circumstances and the attitude of the two classes when the majority declare in favor of the change. When a majority decide that wage slavery shall be no more, the way they go about its abolition must depend upon the manner in which their demands are met by the opposition. If the capitalists refuse to abide by the expressed will of the majority, it will become necessary to discipline them and teach them how to respect majority rule.

ORDER A BUNDLE.

Next week comes our "red week special." Entire paper will be printed in red. It will be chuck full of good propaganda, besides showing how the county commissioners of this county are lax in their duties. This edition will be of direct benefit to Socialists all over the state. It is not exactly in the nature of an exposure, it is more of a write up, showing the important things the county commissioners are compelled by law to do, which they are not doing. Order a bundle for distribution. Price $8.00 per 1000, $1.00 per 100. Clip out coupon in another column.

COMRADES AND FRIENDS.

Regular $15, $18 and $20 Suits and Overcoats—all pure woolens—sizes for everbyody $8.75.

ANOTHER SHYSTER WHO OUGHT TO GET RIGHT WITH GOD

By a Subscriber.

The man who evades the payment of his honest taxes is worse than the ordinary criminal.

Our distinguished fellow citizen in the vicinity of Cleveland, Ohio, having departed from the jurisdiction of the grand old Buckeye State, taking with him all the personal property he could carry, comes within the above characterization, and should "get right with God" just as he has been preaching to the workers, through his subsidized preachers.

Where justice prevails there is little need for charity.

BORROW MONEY

FROM THE BUCKEYE STATE BUILDING AND LOAN COMPANY, RANKIN BUILDING, 22 WEST GAY STREET, COLUMBUS, OHIO.

1. $300.000 ready to loan.
2. On first mortgage on homes and farms
3. Lowest interest rates.
4. Will loan up to one-half actual value.
5. Insurance policies required.
6. Loans made promptly.
7. Borrowers can repay in whole or in part at any time.

BLACKLETS.

A flippant correspondent suggests that we reverse the name of "Sam Black" to "Black Sam," which captiousness we treat with "contempt."

Whenever Sam Black quits sending working class children to convents and hospitals to be exploited for profits, that soon will this paper turn its searchlight elsewhere.

Sam Black is a product of capitalism. Change the system by voting for Socialism.

Why are not the children out on East Broad street jerked up before Judge Black, and sentenced to these hell holes called convents and hospitals? Because they are children of the master class, whom the working class support. The workers really don't deserve much better than they get. They can change the system any year they vote for a change.

A GOOD LAW.

An anti-saloon lobbyist in the Ohio Legislature says that a very noted juvenile court judge was in the State House last winter urging the passage of the bill to keep minors out of saloons. That bill is a good law, but it is no more important to keep boys out of saloons, where they would think the men tippling at the bar were poor specimens of manhood, than it is to keep out of saloons probate and juvenile court judges whom the minors look up to as models but who are really immoral, frequent saloons, tipple there and re-appear upon the streets in a semi-intoxicated condition often witnessed by children. If you wish to see what that sort of a juvenile judge looks like, look at the picture on page 3 of this issue of Trades Record.—Trades Record.

(On page 3 appeared the photograph of Judge Sam Black.—Editor.)

Saturday only at The Liberty, we will sell regular $3.00 trousers for $1.15, all sizes, including Blue Serges.

PRESS COMMENT.

Our Socialist friend, W. C. Bates, ought to know better than express his opinion of Hon. Samuel L. Black when he has a case in that "Judge's" court. Probably half of the lawyers who practice there would be sent to jail for contempt if they expressed their real sentiments.—Trades Record.

Apparently Judge Black's purpose was to insult and irritate Bates into some retort; for he immediately called the sheriff and had Bates locked up for contempt, fining him $10 and punishing him by two day's imprisonment—which is about the limit he could give under the circumstances. The arrogance and tyranny displayed by Judge Black in this petty vengeance on the attorney, who had uncovered some of the dirty work of his court, according to the report sent us by the Columbus Socialist, was as flagrant a misuse of judicial power as has been witnessed in many a day. We cannot imagine anyone but a crook who feels sure of his favor with the powers that be, attempting such an open travesty on justice.—Miami Valley Socialist.

CAPITALISTS WORKING THE WORKERS

True to their nature—grinding, grasping skinflints that they are—the capitalist law-makers have played another trick upon the common people by drafting a "sleeper" into the income law by the provisions of which those who draft the laws, those who interpret the laws and those who enforce or administer the laws are not amenable to its provisions.

In other words, if "Bill" Bryan draws $12,500 a year income for his great (?) service in advising the people that $1,000,000 is none too much to lay up against old age, he is not liable to pay one per cent, seven per cent of any other sum as income tax.

You see an official salary is not income. It just comes and it must be income or it can't be taxed. To do that to a public official would be confiscation and only Socialists stand for confiscation.

A PROTEST THAT WAS A PROTEST

Choosing for his subject "Some enemies we have made," Comrade F. G. Strickland held a rousing big meeting at headquarters, 12½ East Town Street, last Monday evening.

After congratulating Local Columbus on the evidence of their growth, and splendid spirit, shown by our elegant headquarters, he proceeded to wade into his subject in characteristic Strickland style. "Judge Black in jailing Comrade Bates," he said, "has only advertised Socialism." "He has increased the circulation of 'The Socialist' and thousands who did not know of the brutality of his court will now get their eyes open." Continuing he said, that after Black run out of material in Columbus for his jail, he could get him.

Touching upon the reason why there was such a turmoil in the churches, Comrade Strickland explained to the church people (of which many were present) that it was because the class struggle was present in the church as well as elsewhere. "There is a fight going on in your back yard," he said. "A big boy has a little boy down, the little boy's face, eyes and ears are full of mud, it is an unequal struggle. You, by refusing to come to the aid of the little fellow, are taking the side of the big fellow. The little fellow is the working class, the big fellow is the capitalist class. It is your duty to pick the little fellow up, clean the mud out of his eyes and ears and set him on his feet."

At every thrust given Sam Black the cheers and applause fairly shook the building. This is evidence that the fair minded citizens of Columbus, regardless of party, are with "The Socialist" in its exposure of rotten conditions existing in this county.

The hall was full, a good substantial collection taken up, much literature sold, and we were fairly swamped with subs to "The Socialist."

Comrade Strickland was at his best and we are only sorry we have not the space to report his lecture in full.

It was announced at the meeting that Comrade Rev. Hollingsworth will be with us two days, March 2 and 3. On Monday evening, March 2, he speaks in the church at corner King Avenue and Hunter, and on Tuesday evening, March 3, at headquarters.

CREEL CONSOLES US.

Dear Comrades:

One time a fellow called me a liar in the presence of a number of people who knew I had been telling the truth. My friends and I laughed at the man and none of us took offense. But on another occasion a fellow called me a liar when he had me dead to rights. This, too, was in the presence of a number of people and every blessed one of them knew the man was right and that I was a liar. Lord, how it angered me! Not the mere accusation but the fact that in my own black heart I knew I was a liar and I despised myself for it. Therefore I sailed into that fellow and my recollection is that he licked me.

"Nothing hurts but the truth and that doesn't hurt unless it HITS."

Congratulations upon striking pay dirt the first whack!

Fraternally,
H. G. CREEL.

OBITUARY.

"The Socialist" and neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carry Myers of South Parsons Avenue desire to extend their heartfelt sympathy in this hour of grief and sorrow over the death of their loved daughter, little Thelma, who met an untimely death by fire last Friday evening.

Their daughter has been called to the great beyond, and the suffering and disappointments of this life are o'er. While we bow our heads in this sorrow let us remember the words of our Comrade the Carpenter, who said "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

A TRY OUT.

E. J. Salt, the advertising man, has taken charge of the advertising for "The Climax," whose adv. appears in this issue. If this concern gets results they will be regular patrons of our advertising columns. See to it that when you make your purchases you tell them you saw their adv. in "The Socialist."

Editor Ohio State Journal says "The worst of China is what it has learned of the other civilized nations." Sure, Mike. Capitalism is on the job civilizing China. The Steel Trust is erecting her steel mills over there, and intends to make steel, employing Coolie labor, at 6 cents per day. With no tariff on steel these products will be shipped in and the jobs of you free born American working asses, which are already gone, will stay gone. This is no argument for a tariff because your job is no more secure under a single tariff, and you know it. The only solution is the ownership of the steel business by the people.

OUR DANCE.

Every Saturday night at 121½ East Town Street our committee holds a dance. Everything is strictly orderly and you can be assured of a good time. Come out tonight and have a good time. Good music.

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1229 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

Promptly at nine o'clock the business session of Local Columbus closes on Wednesday evening and some interesting subject announced by the chairman the week before is discussed. Time is limited to five minutes for each speaker. Come out next Wednesday evening sure.

Look at your red book and see if it is stamped to date. Always keep paid up, as this is the sure way to finance the organization.

Sunday afternoon, March 1st, county convention will be held to nominate a county ticket.

Tuesday evening, March 3rd, Jas. H. Hollingsworth of Terre Haute, Ind., speaks at headquarters. Comrade Hollingsworth is not only a neighbor of Debs, but for years the lives of these two comrades have been rooted together. Comrade Hollingsworth, while a minister who has left the pulpit to preach the greater Gospel of Socialism, is still a minister in good standing in the M. E. church. Admission will be free.

STATE.

All over the State the activity of the Socialist party is manifest. From present indications we will give the old parties a run for their money this fall. The Socialist Co-operative Press of Kenton is preparing to launch Co-operative Papers, literature is being distributed by the ton, the State office is on the job, and everything is lovely. It would not be surprising to see the old parties get together to beat us before election.

NATIONAL.

It is not improbable that the Socialists and union people of Michigan will get after Milo D. Campbell, U. S. marshal in the eastern district of that State. This officious guy has been denouncing the copper strike at every opportunity, and in a speech at the banquet of the Michigan State Association he also gave out the information "that Socialism is slime and ought to be suppressed, as you would any other disorder or treason." Fine public official!

The notorious U. S. Judge Dayton, of West Virginia, is in the limelight again. He had 10 mine workers on strike at Collier and Wellsburg, W. Va., brought before him for contempt and sentenced two to 60 days in prison for "conspiracy" in joining a union and eight others will be required to appear on March 17 to receive further examination. In passing sentence, Judge Dayton said: "These men belong to an organization that is unlawful and has no right to exist, as previously determined by this court, as they interfere with property rights." Petitions bearing the names of 10,000 citizens have been sent to President Wilson demanding that this tool of the mine owners be removed from the bench.

At Superior, Wis., the people will vote next April on the question of municipalizing the street railway system, a demand that has been pushed vigorously by the Socialists for several years. The principle has already been indorsed at a general vote taken at a previous election, but there the matter ended. Now the Socialists and other progressive citizens are determined to go through with the plan. It is generally admitted by the most conservative people in Superior that the street railway corporation has brought the public ownership issue upon itself. The company is controlled by the Duluth monopoly and the accommodations the people receive are said to be wretched.

Judge Horace E. Deemer, of the Iowa supreme court, recently delivered an address in Omaha that shows that he has been a close student of economic and political progress. "Socialism has been misconceived, misconstructed, misrepresented, mocked and derided for years, but it still continues to grow," said Judge Deemer. "Socialists cast over 10,000,000 votes in the civilized world, and in Germany have members holding the balance of power in the Reichstag. In France and Switzerland they have likewise wielded power, and have control of many cities in the United States. Figures based on votes cast do not represent the full strength of the movement, for hundreds of thousands of Socialists do not vote the Socialist ticket at elections. The army of the unemployed is constantly recruited while the products of the country continue to increase. People go barefoot while there is an overproduction of shoes, and others go houseless while there is an overproduction of building material. Attacked by this overproduction, or, rather, this underconsumption, the capitalists seek other markets in foreign countries. Thus the national interests clash, and the conflict of commercial interests is the modern cause of war and costly armaments. Ultimately, in some way, either our whole civilization must be wrecked or else it must develop a new form of industrial organization that will supplant the capitalistic system.

SUFFRAGETS LINING UP FOR SOCIALISM.

By Lucien Saint.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18, 1914.

That the national woman suffrage movement is an active ally of the Socialist cause, and that the Congressional Union, encamped today in Washington to fight for the federal amendment is "sympathetically associated with the Socialist cause have become increasingly evident during the last few weeks.

The Congressional Union, whose leaders, Alice Paul and Lucy Burns, have been in the militant British suffrage movement, employs workers who are ardent Socialists and who, when the business of winning the vote is won, will turn their energies into the Socialist political movement. This fact has been shown again and again. It was first apparent last March when the Union invited a delegation of Socialists to parade up Pennsylvania Avenue in their great pageant. A leaflet which is being widely circulated by Mrs. Dodge, the president of the Anti-Suffragists, contains a photograph of the Socialist section of the parade, of which Charles Edward Russell was marshal, and comments significantly as follows:

"Suddenly the scene changed. The yellow was gone, and in its place was red—red sashes, red banners, red hat-bands, red dresses. The light, gay music had died away, and there burst on the night air the solemn stirring strains of the "Marseillaise," the famous revolutionary anthem. Men and women were marching past now, hundreds of them in close ranks, with firm, steady tread, determination written on their grim, set faces. All was red, red, red, and as the writer gazed, stunned by the sudden, weird transformation, he saw displayed on their red banner the inscription—Every Socialist is A Suffragist—Socialists are behind Woman Suffrage, and if they should succeed in getting it, as the red suddenly flashed out in place of the yellow before the writer's eyes in the parade that November night, so will the Socialist Republic and the Co-operative Commonwealth burst forth in the wake of Woman Suffrage."

It was under the auspices of the Congressional Union that George Lansbury, the Socialist member of Parliament, spoke when in Washington. It was also under the auspices of the Congressional Union that the big delegation of working girls was brought to Washington to interview President Wilson in order to smoke him out on woman suffrage. One of the leading girls to address Wilson was Rose Winslow, who is a Socialist. Charles Edward Russell spoke to the delegation at a reception.

One of the organizers for the Congressional Union stated to the writer that she and many of her coworkers were Socialists but that they were not members of the party because they felt that they must officially join no other organization than the suffrage organization till they win the vote. The Anti's know this, and so do members of congress. Hence their emphatic turn-down by the reactionary caucus of the Democratic House.

The Congressional Union will undertake a strenuous campaign this summer against the Democratic party as a party. It has abandoned the time-serving policy of the more conservative suffragists who, like the A. F. of L., give their support to individuals who are friendly and endeavor to defeat individuals who are unfriendly.

"We will hold the Democrats responsible," declared one of the Union's leaders, recently, "and we will try to utilize the strength of the voting women of the country to put the Democratic party out of business at the next election because of its attitude on woman suffrage."

The Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage is one of the most live and effective allies of the Socialist party now actively working in the nation. Support it.

BOTH COWARDS.

According to the report of the Juvenile Court for the past year, as published in the Capitalist Press, out of 61 girls sentenced to institutions, 45 of them went to Catholic Convents, the other 16 were sent to the girl's industrial home at Delaware.

Virginia Murray, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, being called over the phone, was asked how many of these girls sent to Catholic convents were Catholics. Her answer was that she could not tell exactly, but she thought about one-fourth. In other words the children of Protestant parents are sent to Rome's "hell holes," to make profits for the old "he woman" and his bunch of blood sucking parasites.

All we got to say is that you Protestants are a bunch of cowards, and you Catholic laymen are just as bad, or you would demand that the exploitation of children for profits, behind these high walls in the name of religion be stopped. You ar eboth cowards.

DANGER AHEAD.

We are determined to hold the sub. price of The Socialist at 25 cents for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more. In order to do this it is necessary to carry not less than 10 columns of advertising each week. Remember that those who refuse to advertise in this paper are not in accord with the working class struggle.

You are paying out your good money each week, to the grocer, butcher, dry goods man, clothing companies, and other firms. Insist now on them placing their advertisement in this paper. Have a talk with your dealer now, today. Bring his adv. in if it is only a small one. Right at this time is the dullest time in advertising, and you should see to it that you make every possible purchase from those who advertise in your paper. The sub. price must be kept at 25 cents for 40 weeks, in clubs of four or more, in order that we may secure the greatest possible circulation. Bring in the advertisement of your merchant.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

A TRIBUTE TO J. A. WAYLAND.

A comrade at Girard, Kansas, has published a little tribute to our departed comrade J. A. Wayland, in booklet form, written by George D. Brewer.

Few there are who ever got close enough to J. A. Wayland to hear his heart beat. Brewer was one of the few, and in this little sketch he has faithfully portrayed the heart throbs of this great man, whose greatness will grow with the passing years. The booklet is elegantly printed and contains a good picture of J. A.

Those wishing a copy can secure one by sending twenty-five cents in stamps to cover printing, wrapping and mailing, to "Friday" Harmon, Girard, Kansas.

Where one man climbs to the golden pinnacle of fortune and fame, thousands are trampled into the mire of slime and shame.

The man who prays for righteousness and votes for the old parties must be fond of strange mixtures.

LIBERTY UNDER CAPITALISM

Courtesy God's Whip, Chicago, Ills.

BAH! It is a hollow joke, a myth, a delusion and a snare. It does not exist. it never did exist, and furthermore liberty under this damnable system of capitalism never will exist.

As long as men and women are compelled to crawl on hands and knees, and beg a master class for the chance to earn a living, that long will liberty be dead.

As long as parents are compelled to send their children into the pig stys of capitalism and have their little souls and bodies ground up into profits, that the Plunderbund may continue to roll in wealth, that long will liberty be a myth.

As long as the beast of capitalism, gorged with the blood of women and children is allowed to sit upon its golden throne, surrounded by its armies, cannons, priests, preachers, politicians, navies, policemen, judges, and subservient tools, that long will liberty be but a delusion and a snare.

As long as 50,000 working class women in this country are yearly forced by the relentless system of capitalism, represented by Democratic, Republican and Bull Moose parties, into prostitution in order to keep life in their miserable bodies, that long will liberty be a hollow joke.

As long as one class owns the tools with which another class works, there can be no liberty.

As long as dissolute judges can sit upon the bench of justice and sentence working class children to private homes, convents, and "hell holes" in general to be exploited for profits, no liberty exists.

Oh! Liberty, what crimes are committed in your name.

The workers are told that they have the liberty of the ballot. This is true but it was through their own efforts they got it. But what benefit is it to them if they only use it to further enslave themselves.

The masters own the tools of industry. To back up and make their ownership legal, they own three Political Parties, namely, Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose. You can take your choice, its all the same to them. But when you begin to swarm away from their parties, and begin to vote your own class ticket, then the masters put all their parties into one and label it "Non-Partisan."

Liberty! You masters talk to us of liberty. How can there be liberty working for a privately owned railroad, street car system, shop, factory or mine?

Imagine liberty in a nation where four million men walk the streets asking for work, while twenty millions are on the verge of famine, with rich fools and richer rogues lording it over these untaught and half fed dupes and drudges.

Imagine libeaty under a system that makes the land "a garden of weeds," and a hot bed of lies." Where dogs and horses and monkeys are pampered and groomed and children are left to rot, to hunger, and to sink into crime, or shame, or the grave.

Liberty! For shame. The word is a stench. It is obnoxious as at present exemplified under capitalim.

Liberty! The people are being robbed, cheated and lied to. They are being despised, neglected and ruined, body and soul.

With liberty in this country, there need be no such thing as poverty. The earth is bounteous. The ingenuity of man is great. He who defends the claims of the individual, or a class, against the rights of the human race is a criminal.

A hungry man, an idle man, an ignorant man, a destitute or degraded woman, a beggar or pauper child is a reproach to society and a witness against existing conditions under capitalism.

As Robert Blatchford has well said:

There should be and need be no such thing as poverty.
There should be and need be no such thing as ignorance.
There should be and need be no such thing as crime.
There should be and need be no such thing as idleness.
There should be and need be no such thing as war.
There should be and need be no such thing as slavery.

County Commissioners Ignore the Laws

If you happen to be editing a Socialist paper or there is one published in your county within the state of Ohio, you will probably be surprised to learn that there is a law on the statute book of this state that requires the Commissioners of each county to support your paper.

While the direct financial benefit may not be so great, yet the provisions of the law if carried out by our public servants would be of inestimable benefit in that the Socialist press would be made a public document on file in the court house of each county for inspection of the citizens of such county.

It is estimated that once in seven years every resident of a county comes in contact with the court house of his county. It can readily be seen that with the Socialist press on file as a public record, it would be a great weapon for the propaganda of our movement.

"The Socialist" Interviews Commissioners.

That the County Commissioners of Franklin County should be done no injustice and that they might have an opportunity to uphold the laws of the state of Ohio, which, by their oath of office, they are in duty bound to do, a representative of "The Socialist" did, on December 26th, 1913, call upon Mr. Scott, Secretary to the County Commissioners of Franklin County, and request that he have the said Commissioners subscribe for "The Socialist," in order that they might have copies on file. Nothing resulted. Consequently, on January 23rd, 1914, our representative again called on Mr. Scott and laid the matter before him. Mr. Scott suggested that he call on the County Commissioners personally. Accordingly, he immediately called on Mr. Davis, one of the Commissioners, and laid the matter before him, requesting that the Commissioners subscribe for "The Socialist." He agreed to take the matter up in a few days and asked for a copy of "The Socialist," which was furnished him.

We were especially careful in laying this matter before the Commissioners in order that they might have a full opportunity to comply with this following mandatory requirement of the law:

> General Code of Ohio, Sec. 2459: The Commissioners shall subscribe for one copy of the leading newspapers of each political party printed and published in their county, and cause them to be bound and filed in the Auditor's Office, as public archives, for the gratuitous inspection of the citizens of such county.—(R. S. Sec. 895) 48 V. 65.

At this time said Commissioners have not complied with this law, in so far as "The Socialist" is concerned, and consequently are violating the laws they solemnly swore to uphold, thus placing themselves on a level with all other violaters of the law, and laying themselves liable to the following statute for the punishment of such violaters:

> General Code of Ohio, Section 12920: Whoever being a County Commissioner is guilty of misconduct in office, shall be fined not more than four hundred dollars and forfeit his office.—(R. S. Sec. 6915.) 51 V. 422, Sec. 19.

Commissioners Neglect Duty.

The damnable system of peonage carried on by the hospitals, convents and so-called correctional institutions with the Juvenile Court of this county as their feeder, with a servile and profane judge as their ready tool, could not carry on their nefarious work did the County Commissioners do their duty and carry out the plain and positive provisions of the law as hereinafter given.

Readers of this paper will remember the indictment brought against the Juvenile Court of Franklin County, Sheriff Resch and others by David and Myrtle Patterson through the columns of "The Socialist" some weeks ago. Notwithstanding that the capitalist press of Columbus is closed to "The Socialist" and Socialists, it is ever open to Judge Samuel L. Black and Sheriff Charles H. Resch, and although some six weeks have elapsed since that terrible arraignment of these public officials yet not one word of denial has appeared in said "kept press."

The citizens of Ohio are not aware that the law requires each and every County Commissioner to visit unannounced, at least once in every six months, each private or public hospital, reformatory, home, house of detention, private asylum or any institution exercising or pretending to exercise a reformation or correctional influence over individuals situated in his county; note its sanitary conditions and the treatment of the inmates.

In substantiation of this statement, we herewith quote the laws now on the statute books of Ohio relating thereto.

AN ACT

To provide for the inspection of all private and public hospitals, reformatory homes, homes of detention, private asylums, and all correctional or reformatory institutions in the state of Ohio.

General Code of Ohio, Section 2497: Each public or private hospital, reformatory home, house of detention, private asylum, reformatory and correctional institution shall be open at any and all times to the inspection of the Commissioners of the county or the Board of Health of the township or other municipality in which such institution is situated.—(92 V. 212, Sec. 1.) R. S. 633-11. 92 V. 212.

General Code of Ohio, Section 2498: Each and every County Commissioner shall visit, unannounced, at least once in every six months, each private, or public, hospital, reformatory home, house of detention, private asylum, or any institution exercising or pretending to exercise a reformatory or correctional influence over individuals, situated in his county, and note its sanitary conditions and the condition and treatment of the inmates thereof.—(92 V. 212.) Sec. 2. R. V. Sec. 633-12. 92 V. 212. Sec. 2.

Legislature Evidently Knew From Experience.

The lawmakers evidently knew from their own experience the vast amount of pressure which would be brought to bear on the County Commissioners, especially by those in charge of the Catholic convents and hospitals which exploit children for profit, consequently they provided the following safeguard in order that the people might keep tab on their public servants. Read this law carefully:

> General Code of Ohio, Section 2499: Such County Commissioners shall file with the Prosecuting Attorney of the county a full and complete report of the investigations of such institutions, which report shall be open to the examination of the public. —(92 V. 212. Sec. 3.)

Turner Says "Nothing Doing."

In order to see if the provisions of the above law were being complied with by said Commissioners, our representative did on January 23rd, 1914, call at the office of Prosecuting Attorney, Edward C. Turner, and asked to see the files of the reports of said Commissioners on their inspection of private and public hospitals, convents, etc.

Our representative was told by Turner that no such files were in his office and that no report of such a nature was ever filed by any Commissioner since he had been Prosecuting Attorney.

That we have a Prosecuting Attorney in Franklin County who does not know his own law book any better than the fool working men who voted for him is evidenced by the following statement he made to our representative in connection with the filing of said reports:

"There is no provision for filing such reports with me or this office—at any rate none has ever been filed," said Turner.

"This office is not an office of public record, and all our files are of a secret nature and not open for public inspection."

"I would be glad to accommodate you if I had any such record, but I have no such record, and there is no provision for them," he said.

This Mr. Turner is the same man who recently announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket for Attorney General of Ohio. If ignorance of the law is a necessary qualification to fill the office of Attorney General, Mr. Turner is eminently qualified to fill that position.

It will be remembered that this same Mr. Turner did, just prior to the announcement of his candidacy for Attorney General, make a speech in Cleveland, Ohio, in which he denounced in bitter terms the political grafters of Ohio.

Which Is the Worst?

We candidly submit to the voters of Ohio, which is the most damnable Political Grafters, who ply their nefarious trade, grafting off the business men, who support the exploiting system of capitalism, or a Prosecuting Attorney who by his own ignorance, negligence, or both, fails or refuses to punish those at the head of convents, hospitals and asylums, who exploit innocent children of working class parents for profit, and then declare "there is no law" requiring him to do so.

Esther Patterson in Great Danger.

When this is being written, Esther Patterson, 14 years old, daughter of David and Myrtle Patterson, is still confined in the tubercular ward of St. Anthony's Hospital of this city. In this same ward there are three adult white tubercular victims and one adult colored victim. Esther sleeps between the four, so that the breezes from either half size window must pass over two victims before reaching her. Esther must clean the "White Plague" infected cuspidors, empty the slop jars reeking in filth and disease, scrub the floors from which tubercular bacilli romp and rolick in fiendish glee. There are no fire escapes to this ward, which is right up under the slate shingle on the fourth floor of this institution.

Whether Esther Patterson was afflicted with the "White Plague" when sentenced by Judge Samuel L. Black to this institution of peonage, or whether she was as her parents and aunt claim, in perfect health, sure it is, that she should not be exposed to this awful disease, and sure it is she should not do the filthy work under peonage which no other human being will do for pay.

Shame upon the great state of Ohio when we remember that it is spending millions of dollars to segregate the healthy pigs (hog children) from the diseases of "hog tuberculosis," but it has no money and no officials to segregate human pigs (children) from the Human Hogs in charge of their institutions for profit.

Laws of Ohio Are Specific.

The laws of Ohio specifically provide that no person suffering from tuberculosis shall be confined in any county infirmary and there is no reason why this provision does not apply to all other institutions which come under the inspection of the County Commissioners, yet it is a well known fact that not only said St. Anthony's Hospital on Taylor and Clifton Avenues, the Convent of the Good Shepherd at corner W. Broad and Sandusky Streets, the St. Ann's Infant Asylum, corner Bryden Road and Rose Avenue; the Children's Home, near Shepards, and the Juvenile

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

Promptly at nine o'clock the business session of Local Columbus closes on Wednesday evening and some interesting subject announced by the chairman the week before is discussed. Time is limited to five minutes for each speaker. Come out next Wednesday evening sure.

Look at your red book and see if it is stamped to date. Always keep paid up, as this is the sure way to finance the organization.

Sunday afternoon, March 1st, county convention will be held to nominate a county ticket.

Tuesday evening, March 3rd, Jas. H. Hollingsworth of Terre Haute, Ind., speaks at headquarters. Comrade Hollingsworth is not only a neighbor of Debs, but for years the lives of these two comrades have been rooted together. Comrade Hollingsworth, while a minister who has left the pulpit to preach the greater Gospel of Socialism, is still a minister in good standing in the M. E. church. Admission will be free.

STATE.

All over the State the activity of the Socialist party is manifest. From present indications we will give the old parties a run for their money this fall. The Socialist Co-operative Press of Kenton is preparing to launch Co-operative Papers, literature is being distributed by the ton, the State office is on the job, and everything is lovely. It would not be surprising to see the old parties get together to beat us before election.

NATIONAL.

It is not improbable that the Socialists and union people of Michigan will get after Milo D. Campbell, U. S. marshal in the eastern district of that State. This officious guy has been denouncing the copper strike at every opportunity, and in a speech at the banquet of the Michigan State Association he also gave out the information "that Socialism is slime and ought to be suppressed, as you would any other disorder or treason." Fine public official!

The notorious U. S. Judge Dayton, of West Virginia, is in the limelight again. He had 10 mine workers on strike at Collier and Wellsburg, W. Va., brought before him for contempt and sentenced two to 60 days in prison for "conspiracy" in joining a union and eight others will be required to appear on March 17 to receive further examination. In passing sentence, Judge Dayton said: "These men belong to an organization that is unlawful and has no right to exist, as previously determined by this court, as they interfere with property rights." Petitions bearing the names of 10,000 citizens have been sent to President Wilson demanding that this tool of the mine owners be removed from the bench.

At Superior, Wis., the people will vote next April on the question of municipalizing the street railway system, a demand that has been pushed vigorously by the Socialists for several years. The principle has already been indorsed at a general vote taken at a previous election, but there the matter ended. Now the Socialists and other progressive citizens are determined to go through with the plan. It is generally admitted by the most conservative people in Superior that the street railway corporation has brought the public ownership issue upon itself. The company is controlled by the Duluth monopoly and the accommodations the people receive are said to be wretched.

Judge Horace E. Deemer, of the Iowa supreme court, recently delivered an address in Omaha that shows that he has been a close student of economic and political progress. "Socialism has been misconceived, misconstructed, misrepresented, mocked and derided for years, but it still continues to grow," said Judge Deemer. "Socialists cast over 10,000,000 votes in the civilized world, and in Germany have members holding the balance of power in the Reichstag. In France and Switzerland they have likewise wielded power, and have control of many cities in the United States. Figures based on votes cast do not represent the full strength of the movement, for hundreds of thousands of Socialists do not vote the Socialist ticket at elections. The army of the unemployed is constantly recruited while the products of the country continue to increase. People go barefoot while there is an overproduction of shoes, and others go houseless while there is an overproduction of building material. Attached by this overproduction, or, rather, this underconsumption, the capitalists seek other markets in foreign countries. Thus the national interests clash and the conflict of commercial interests is the modern cause of war and costly armaments. Ultimately, in some way, either our whole civilization must be wrecked or else it must develop a new form of industrial organization that will supplant the capitalistic system.

SUFFRAGETS LINING UP FOR SOCIALISM.

By Lucien Saint.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18, 1914.

That the national woman suffrage movement is an active ally of the Socialist cause, and that the Congressional Union, encamped today in Washington to fight for the federal amendment is sympathetically associated with the Socialist cause have become increasingly evident during the last few weeks.

The Congressional Union, whose leaders, Alice Paul and Lucy Burns, have been in the militant British suffrage movement, employs workers who are ardent Socialists and who, when the business of winning the vote is won, will turn their energies into the Socialist political movement. This fact has been shown again and again. It was first apparent last March when the Union invited a delegation of Socialists to parade up Pennsylvania Avenue in their great pageant. A leaflet which is being widely circulated by Mrs. Dodge, the president of the Anti-Suffragists, contains a photograph of the Socialist section of the parade, of which Charles Edward Russell was marshal, and comments signaficantly as follows:

"Suddenly the scene changed. The yellow was gone, and in its place was red—red sashes, red banners, red hat-bands, red dresses. The light, gay music had died away, and there burst on the night air the solemn stirring strains of the "Marseillaise," the famous revolutionary anthem. Men and women were marching past now, hundreds of them in close ranks, with firm, steady tread, determination written on their grim, set faces. All was red, red, red, and as the writer gazed, stunned by the sudden, weird transformation, he saw displayed on their red banner the inscription—Every Socialist is A Suffragist—Socialists are behind Woman Suffrage, and if they should succeed in getting it, as the red suddenly flashed out in place of the yellow before the writer's eyes in the parade that November night, so will the Socialist Republic and the Co-operative Commonwealth burst forth in the wake of Woman Suffrage."

It was under the auspices of the Congressional Union that George Lansbury, the Socialist member of Parliament, spoke when in Washington. It was also under the auspices of the Congressional Union that the big delegation of working girls was brought to Washington to interview President Wilson in order to smoke him out on woman suffrage. One of the leading girls to address Wilson was Rose Winslow, who is a Socialist. Charles Edward Russell spoke to the delegation at a reception.

One of the organizers for the Congressional Union stated to the writer that she and many of her coworkers were Socialists but that they were not members of the party because they felt that they must officially join no other organization than the suffrage organization till they win the vote. The Anti's know this, and so do members of congress. Hence their emphatic turn-down by the reactionary caucus of the Democratic House.

The Congressional Union will undertake a strenuous campaign this summer against the Democratic party as a party. It has abandoned the time-serving policy of the more conservative suffragists who, like the A. F. of L., give their support to individuals who are friendly and endeavor to defeat individuals who are unfriendly.

"We will hold the Democrats responsible," declared one of the Union's leaders, recently, "and we will try to utilize the strength of the voting women of the country to put the Democratic party out of business at the next election because of its attitude on woman suffrage."

The Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage is one of the most live and effective allies of the Socialist party now actively working in the nation. Support it.

BOTH COWARDS.

According to the report of the Juvenile Court for the past year, as published in the Capitalist Press, out of 61 girls sentenced to institutions, 45 of them went to Catholic Convents, the other 16 were sent to the girl's industrial home at Delaware.

Virginia Murray, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, being called over the phone, was asked how many of these girls sent to Catholic convents were Catholics. Her answer was that she could not tell exactly, but she thought about one-fourth. In other words the children of Protestant parents are sent to Rome's "hell holes," to make profits for the old "he woman" and his bunch of blood sucking parasites.

All we got to say is that you Protestants are a bunch of cowards, and you Catholic laymen are just as bad, or you would demand that the exploitation of children for profits, behind these high walls in the name of religion be stopped. You ar eboth cowards.

DANGER AHEAD.

We are determined to hold the sub. price of The Socialist at 25 cents for 40 weeks in clubs of four or more. In order to do this it is necessary to carry not less than 10 columns of advertising each week. Remember that those who refuse to advertise in this paper are not in accord with the working class struggle.

You are paying out your good money each week, to the grocer, butcher, dry goods man, clothing companies, and other firms. Insist now on them placing their advertisement in this paper. Have a talk with your dealer now, today. Bring his adv. to if it is only a small one. Right at this time is the dullest time in advertising, and you should see to it that you make every possible purchase from those who advertise in your paper. The sub. price must be kept at 25 cents for 40 weeks, in clubs of four or more, in order that we may secure the greatest possible circulation. Bring in the advertisement of your merchant.

A TRIBUTE TO J. A. WAYLAND.

A comrade at Girard, Kansas, has published a little tribute to our departed comrade J. A. Wayland, in booklet form, written by George D. Brewer.

Few there are who ever got close enough to J. A. Wayland to hear his heart beat. Brewer was one of the few, and in this little sketch he has faithfully portrayed the heart throbs of this great man, whose greatness will grow with the passing years. The booklet is elegantly printed and contains a good picture of J. A.

Those wishing a copy can secure one by sending twenty-five cents in stamps to cover printing, wrapping and mailing, to "Friday" Harmon, Girard, Kansas.

Where one man climbs to the golden pinnacle of fortune and fame thousands are trampled into the mire of slime and shame.

The man who prays for righteousness and votes for the old parties must be fond of strange mixtures.

LIBERTY UNDER CAPITALISM

—Courtesy God's Whip, Chicago, Ills.

BAH! It is a hollow joke, a myth, a delusion and a snare. It does not exist, it never did exist, and furthermore liberty under this damnable system of capitalism never will exist.

As long as men and women are compelled to crawl on hands and knees, and beg a master class for the chance to earn a living, that long will liberty be dead.

As long as parents are compelled to send their children into the pig stys of capitalism and have their little souls and bodies ground up into profits; that the Plunderbund may continue to roll in wealth, that long will liberty be a myth.

As long as the beast of capitalism, gorged with the blood of women and children is allowed to sit upon its golden throne, surrounded by its armies, cannons, priests, preachers, politicians, navies, policemen, judges, and subservient tools, that long will liberty be but a delusion and a snare.

As long as 50,000 working class women in this country are yearly forced by the relentless system of capitalism, represented by Democratic, Republican and Bull Moose parties, into prostitution in order to keep life in their miserable bodies, that long will liberty be a hollow joke.

As long as one class owns the tools with which another class works, there can be no liberty.

As long as dissolute judges can sit upon the bench of justice and sentence working class children to private homes, convents, and "hell holes" in general to be exploited for profits, no liberty exists.

Oh! Liberty, what crimes are committed in your name.

The workers are told that they have the liberty of the ballot. This is true but it was through their own efforts they got it. But what benefit is it to them if they only use it to further enslave themselves.

The masters own the tools of industry. To back up and make their ownership legal, they own three Political Parties, namely, Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose. You can take your choice, its all the same to them. But when you begin to swarm away from their parties, and begin to vote your own class ticket, then the masters put all their parties into one and label it "Non-Partisan."

Liberty! You masters talk to us of liberty. How can there be liberty working for a privately owned railroad, street car system, shop, factory or mine

Imagine liberty in a nation where four million men walk the streets asking for work, while twenty millions are on the verge of famine, with rich fools and richer rogues lording it over these untaught and half fed dupes and drudges.

Imagine liberty under a system that makes the land "a garden of weeds," " and a hot bed of lies." Where dogs and horses and monkeys are pampered and groomed and children are left to rot, to hunger, and to sink into crime, or shame, or the grave.

Liberty! For shame. The word is a stench. It is obnoxious as at present exemplified under capitalim.

Liberty! The people are being robbed, cheated and lied to. They are being despised, neglected and ruined, body and soul.

With liberty in this country, there need be no such thing as poverty. The earth is bounteous. The ingenuity of man is great. He who defends the claims of the individual, or a class, against the rights of the human race is a criminal.

A hungry man, an idle man, an ignorant man, a destitute or degraded woman, a beggar or pauper child is a reproach to society and a witness against existing conditions under capitalism.

As Robert Blatchford has well said:

There should be and need be no such thing as poverty.
There should be and need be no such thing as ignorance.
There should be and need be no such thing as crime.
There should be and need be no such thing as idleness.
There should be and need be no such thing as war.
There should be and need be no such thing as slavery.

County Commissioners Ignore the Laws

If you happen to be editing a Socialist paper or there is one published in your county within the state of Ohio, you will probably be surprised to learn that there is a law on the statute book of this state that requires the Commissioners of each county to support your paper.

While the direct financial benefit may not be so great, yet the provisions of the law if carried out by our public servants would be of inestimable benefit in that the Socialist press would be made a public document on file in the court house of each county for inspection of the citizens of such county.

It is estimated that once in seven years every resident of a county comes in contact with the court house of his county. It can readily be seen that with the Socialist press on file as a public record, it would be a great weapon for the propaganda of our movement.

"The Socialist" Interviews Commissioners.

That the County Commissioners of Franklin County should be done no injustice and that they might have an opportunity to uphold the laws of the state of Ohio, which, by their oath of office, they are in duty bound to do, a representative of "The Socialist" did, on December 26th, 1913, call upon Mr. Scott, Secretary to the County Commissioners of Franklin County, and request that he have the said Commissioners subscribe for "The Socialist," in order that they might have copies on file. Nothing resulted. Consequently, on January 23rd, 1914, our representative again called on Mr. Scott and laid the matter before him. Mr. Scott suggested that he call on the County Commissioners personally. Accordingly, he immediately called on Mr. Davis, one of the Commissioners, and laid the matter before him, requesting that the Commissioners subscribe for "The Socialist." He agreed to take the matter up in a few days and asked for a copy of "The Socialist," which was furnished him.

We were especially careful in laying this matter before the Commissioners in order that they might have a full opportunity to comply with this following mandatory requirement of the law:

> General Code of Ohio, Sec. 2459: The Commissioners shall subscribe for one copy of the leading newspapers of each political party printed and published in their county, and cause them to be bound and filed in the Auditor's Office, as public archives, for the gratuitous inspection of the citizens of such county.—(R. S. Sec. 895) 48 V. 65.

At this time said Commissioners have not complied with this law, in so far as "The Socialist" is concerned, and consequently are violating the laws they solemnly swore to uphold, thus placing themselves on a level with all other violaters of the law, and laying themselves liable to the following statute for the punishment of such violaters:

> General Code of Ohio, Section 12920: Whoever being a County Commissioner is guilty of misconduct in office, shall be fined not more than four hundred dollars and forfeit his office.—(R. S. Sec. 6915.) 51 V. 423, Sec. 19.

Commissioners Neglect Duty.

The damnable system of peonage carried on by the hospitals, convents and so-called correctional institutions with the Juvenile Court of this county as their feeder, with a servile and profane judge as their ready tool, could not carry on their nefarious work did the County Commissioners do their duty and carry out the plain and positive provisions of the law as hereinafter given.

Readers of this paper will remember the indictment brought against the Juvenile Court of Franklin County, Sheriff Resch and others by David and Myrtle Patterson through the columns of "The Socialist" some weeks ago. Notwithstanding that the capitalist press of Columbus is closed to "The Socialist" and Socialists, it is ever open to Judge Samuel L. Black and Sheriff Charles H. Resch, and although some six weeks have elapsed since that terrible arraignment of these public officials yet not one word of denial has appeared in said "kept press."

The citizens of Ohio are not aware that the law requires each and every County Commissioner to visit unannounced, at least once in every six months, each private or public hospital, reformatory, home, house of detention, private asylum or any institution exercising or pretending to exercise a reformation or correctional influence over individuals situated in his county; note its sanitary conditions and the treatment of the inmates.

In substantiation of this statement, we herewith quote the laws now on the statute books of Ohio relating thereto.

AN ACT

To provide for the inspection of all private and public hospitals, reformatory homes, homes of detention, private asylums, and all correctional or reformatory institutions in the state of Ohio.

General Code of Ohio, Section 2497: Each public or private hospital, reformatory home, house of detention, private asylum, reformatory and correctional institution shall be open at any and all times to the inspection of the Commissioners of the county or the Board of Health of the township or other municipality in which such institution is situated.—(92 V. 212, Sec. 1.) R. S. 633-11. 92 V. 212.

General Code of Ohio, Section 2498: Each and every County Commissioner shall visit, unannounced, at least once in every six months, each private, or public, hospital, reformatory home, house of detention, private asylum, or any institution exercising or pretending to exercise a reformatory or correctional influence over individuals, situated in his county, and note its sanitary conditions and the condition and treatment of the inmates thereof.—(92 V. 212.) Sec. 2. R. V. Sec. 633-12. 92 V. 212. Sec. 2.

Legislature Evidently Knew From Experience.

The law-makers evidently knew from their own experience the vast amount of pressure which would be brought to bear on the County Commissioners, especially by those in charge of the Catholic convents and hospitals which exploit children for profit, consequently they provided the following safeguard in order that the people might keep tab on their public servants. Read this law carefully:

> General Code of Ohio, Section 2493: Such County Commissioners shall file with the Prosecuting Attorney of the county a full and complete report of the investigations of such institutions, which report shall be open to the examination of the public. —(92 V. 212. Sec. 3.)

Turner Says "Nothing Doing."

In order to see if the provisions of the above law were being complied with by said Commissioners, our representative did on January 23rd, 1914, call at the office of Prosecuting Attorney, Edward C. Turner, and asked to see the files of the reports of said Commissioners on their inspection of private and public hospitals, convents, etc.

Our representative was told by Turner that no such files were in his office and that no report of such a nature was ever filed by any Commissioner since he had been Prosecuting Attorney.

That we have a Prosecuting Attorney in Franklin County who does not know his own law book any better than the fool working men who voted for him is evidenced by the following statement he made to our representative in connection with the filing of said reports:

"There is no provision for filing such reports with me or this office—at any rate none has ever been filed," said Turner.

"This office is not an office of public record, and all our files are of a secret nature and not open for public inspection."

"I would be glad to accommodate you if I had any such record, but I have no such record, and there is no provision for them," he said.

This Mr. Turner is the same man who recently announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket for Attorney General of Ohio. If ignorance of the law is a necessary qualification to fill the office of Attorney General, Mr. Turner is eminently qualified to fill that position.

It will be remembered that this same Mr. Turner did, just prior to the announcement of his candidacy for Attorney General, make a speech in Cleveland, Ohio, in which he denounced in bitter terms the political grafters of Ohio.

Which Is the Worst?

We candidly submit to the voters of Ohio, which is the most damnable Political Grafters, who ply their nefarious trade, grafting off the business men, who support the exploiting system of capitalism, or a Prosecuting Attorney who by his own ignorance, negligence, or both, fails or refuses to punish those at the head of convents, hospitals and asylums, who exploit innocent children of working class parents for profit, and then declare "there is no law" requiring him to do so.

Esther Patterson in Great Danger.

When this is being written, Esther Patterson, 14 years old, daughter of David and Myrtle Patterson, is still confined in the tubercular ward of St. Anthony's Hospital of this city. In this same ward there are three adult white tubercular victims and one adult colored victim. Esther sleeps between the four, so that the breezes from either half size window must pass over two victims before reaching her. Esther must clean the "White Plague" infected cuspidors, empty the slop jars reeking in filth and disease, scrub the floors from which tubercular bacilli romp and relick in fiendish glee. There are no fire escapes to this ward, which is right up under the slate shingle on the fourth floor of this institution.

Whether Esther Patterson was afflicted with the "White Plague" when sentenced by Judge Samuel L. Black to this institution of peonage, or whether she was as her parents and aunt claim, in perfect health, sure it is, that she should not be exposed to this awful disease, and sure it is she should not do the filthy work under peonage which no other human being will do for pay.

Shame upon the great state of Ohio when we remember that it is spending millions of dollars to segregate the healthy pigs (hog children) from the diseases of "hog tuberculosis," but it has no money and no officials to segregate human pigs (children) from the Human Hogs in charge of their institutions for profit.

Laws of Ohio Are Specific.

The laws of Ohio specifically provide that no person suffering from tuberculosis shall be confined in any county infirmary and there is no reason why this provision does not apply to all other institutions which come under the inspection of the County Commissioners, yet it is a well known fact that not only said St. Anthony's Hospital on Taylor and Clifton Avenues, the Convent of the Good Shepherd at corner W. Broad and Sandusky Streets, the St. Ann's Infant Asylum, corner Bryden Road and Rose Avenue; the Children's Home, near Shepards, and the Juvenile

THE BEAUTIFUL SYSTEM

Dear Sir.—I am badly in need of money for my husband, a railroad man who lost his job because of being in a wreck, and who is unable to find employment. If I do not get money soon my baby and I will be put out in the streets and starve. I would like to know if I can sell my body to the medical college for $300.

Please let me know as soon as possible.

The above appeared in the daily press last week. It was a letter written by Mrs. Edward Hartz of St. Louis to the president of the medical college of that city.

Read it again, and again, and again, you apologists for the capitalist system, and then tell us, do you think that a system which deals with members of the working class in this manner while a master class who lives upon the labor of the workers "live riotously and spend $500.00 a plate at banquets" tells us, do you think such a system should be allowed to endure?

A woman—a mother—a working class mother—ready to sell her dead body for $300.00 in order to keep life in herself, her child, and HER HUSBAND, WHO IS UNABLE TO FIND WORK.

The system, fact is, that the Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moose have given us? You working men who could change the system next November are certainly fit subjects for the lunatic asylum.

Can't you see that it is YOUR CLASS who are having these indignities heaped upon their heads?

The next day after this article appeared in the capitalist press, these open sheets carried very profuse articles, showing what beautiful and glorious times the wealthy millionaires and their families were having at Palm Beach, Florida. HOW MANY PALM BEACHES HAVE YOU BEEN TO THIS WINTER? IT IS TO LAUGH!

YOU VOTE ALL THE GOOD THINGS TO YOUR MASTERS WHILE YOUR CLASS STARVES, AND FREEZES, WITH THE STORES PILED FULL OF THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE.

Why did Columbus capitalist papers and particularly "The Columbus Citizen," make such a fuss over this matter? Because St. Louis is nearly 1,000 miles away, and it won't hurt their local advertising patronage.

Just a few days prior to the above incident, the following appeared in the "Cynthia Grey" column of "The Columbus Citizen":

Dear Miss Gray: I am a woman with a child and cannot get any work to do. I have been out of work two weeks and have to pay rent. I wish you could find me some work. I need it very badly. Please help me. Nora.

Here is a case just as bad as the one in St. Louis, but "The Columbus Citizen" gave it no larger display notice. Why? Because it would tend to let the people of this city know of the terrible conditions existing here.

Thousands of men are out of work in Columbus. IN ONE-HALF BLOCK IN THE FIRST WARD, 14 MEN ARE OUT OF WORK, and can get nothing to do. STOP AND ASK YOURSELF WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?

If this woman can not get work honestly, she will probably get it dishonestly through the sale of her body while alive, and then you so-called "Christian" people will all pull your skirts aside as she passes you.

What is the remedy? Socialism is the only hope—the only salvation, and it is coming.

Already the bright sun of emancipation is above the horizon. Slowly though grandly and persistently it climbs higher and the tiny hammerings of capitalist lackeys can no more stop the rising of the sun of our solar system.

BATES VS. BLACK

It is not possible to answer the many inquiries as what is being done in the case of Comrade Bates against Sam Black individually and that you may all know we make this brief statement of the doings in the case up to going to press.

Samuel L. Black, "Sitting on the Sacred Bench of Justice," and unprovoked, used the word to Comrade Bates: "If there is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel in the county you are that scoundrel," three times. Before Comrade Bates replied Then Comrade Bates said "If there is another in the county, you are it." The words "liar and scoundrel" never escaped the lips of Comrade Bates. He only jammed these slanderous words back into the mouth of the villifier and we now propose to make Sam Black swallow them. Sam Black in making up the record sending Comrade Bates to jail testified to an absolute falsehood and thereby is guilty of falsifying the records.

Comrade Bates filed a petition in habeas corpus in the Court of Common Pleas, T. M. Bigger, Judge, and sought to introduce witnesses to prove what really was said and done in the Probate Court. Judge Bigger held he could not go back of the record of the case made up by Judge Black and that record would have to stand whether true or false, to which decision Comrade Bates, by his attorney, Charles E. Belcher, excepted. The statement of Comrade Bates was then copied into the record to complete the transcript and several other witnesses offered to testify, from which a bill of exceptions was prepared and filed with his petition on error in the Court of Appeals, which will be heard as soon as that court can assign it. As that court is now in session in this county it is likely that the case will be heard soon.

Comrade Bates has rejected all overtures to compromise and will, if he loses in Court of Appeals, take the case to the Supreme Court, as there has never been a similar case in Ohio, as no Judge has so far forgot himself as to slander counsel from the "Sacred Bench of Justice." If a Judge can unofficially provoke or entrap persons into his court, ruthlessly falsify the records and commit them to jail then indeed are we no longer living in the "Land of the Free and the home of the Brave."

CHRIST AND THE FACTORY OWNERS

By Augustus Wingood.

One of the sweetest incidents recorded in all the Bible is that of the Saviour and the children when He said, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Painters, poets, preachers ant philosophers have described this scene in a thousand ways and a thousand forms. They have put it in glowing colors on canvas, they have chiseled it into marble, they have immortalized it in song they have woven the spell of eloquence around it, and yet they have never sounded the depths of the power and beauty of this wonderful scene. It is a scene which lives in the hearts and souls of men and women the world over, because of its humanness, its love, its sincere and unaffected affection.

There is no record in the Scriptures that Christ ever smiled. On the [illegible] we are told that He was a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." But if ever the Saviour did smile it must have been when He held the children in His arms and looked down into their happy faces. If there is anything in this world which will bring a smile to the lips of a care-worn man it is a happy, laughing little child, for it brings back to him memories of his own childhood and his long forgotten youth.

It may therefore well be true that as the Saviour blessed the little children the shadows may have lifted from off His face; the saddened look may have departed for a moment and the lips of the Man of Sorrows may have been wreathed in a smile.

But there is another side to the picture. Christ was not the only one who said for the little children to come to him and not to be forbidden, for the modern factory owner says, paraphrasing the words of the Saviour, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of hell."

What a difference in the two invitations. The first is the embodiment of all love and tenderness and compassion; the second is the embodiment of [illegible] and cruelty and greed. The one blesses childhood the other curses it.

The pity of this whole picture of contrasts is this: that in a land of churches and in a land called by some a Christian land, where the teachings of Christ are proclaimed in every section of the country, little children are forced to labor their [illegible] of toil, little children are forced to labor their [illegible] in the so-called Christian land, [illegible] thousands, three and four years [illegible] the age when they [illegible] the cradle hand to [illegible] children employed [illegible] of [illegible] are brought to the factory owner [illegible] the factory owner to go on [illegible] more gold [illegible] the factory owner cannot silence labor and Socialist press; it cannot muzzle the labor and Socialist speakers [illegible] the labor and Socialist legislators; nor can all the [illegible] may.

No man or woman whose heart beats in sympathy with suffering humanity will keep silent or inactive when confronted by the stern fact that thousands of children are being ruined in body and ruined in mind and [illegible] a few men and women may live on the fat of the land.

Some day, because child slavery is fundamentally and eternally wrong, it will be utterly destroyed; cast into the fire of the wrath of an aroused and outraged people and so will perish from off the earth.

SAM GOT HIS FINGERS BURNT

It will be remembered that we published a letter Judge Sam Black of the Probate Court of this county sent to Mr. E. C. Reichwald of Chicago. Our reasons for printing the letter was to show the public what an eloquent public official they have in the Probate Court. Evidently Sam got his fingers burnt when he tackled Reichwald, as Mr. Reichwald has forwarded Sam the following letter.

Chicago, January 15, 1914

Samuel L. Black, Judge of the Probate Court,
Columbus, Ohio

Honorable Judge:

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the thirteenth inst.

You are kind enough to say that we are "a lot of damn fools." Have you forgotten that Jesus said, "He that calleth his brother a fool is in danger of hell fire?" You are so generous as to request us to "go plum to hell." But if the Bible you defend is true, do you not see that you are sending yourself there, too?

From your letter it appears to me that you have missed your vocation. You ought to have been a parson, not a judge. It is within the power of a judge to say, "You be hanged"; but when he says, "You be damned," he is encroaching upon the duties of a preacher.

Do you think that you are justified in using the stationery of the Probate Court for the purpose of flinging such elegant phrases as "rot," "Damn fools," "go plum to Hell," at certain citizens of this republic simply because they have dared to commit the atrocious crime of differing from you on a religious question? Does such language add dignity to the high public position which you hold? Is it calculated to gain respect for you as an administrator of the law? Ought not a judge to endeavor to be fair and impartial?

Your judicial wisdom inspires you to write that "if anybody wants to read the Bible" you "have no choice or any power to prevent it." That is perfectly obvious. What we desire, however, to make obvious to you is this: No citizen has a right to demand that a book shall be taught in the public schools at the public expense upon which the public differ. Suppose an organization were to demand that Atheistic books should be read in the public schools at the public expense, would you reply as in your brilliantly composed epistle: "Personally, I have no objections to reading Atheistic books in public schools or in any other place. If anybody wants to read Atheistic books, I have no power to prevent it or otherwise?"

You request us to take our propaganda to Hell. Judging from the Christian spirited tone of your beautiful letter, our propaganda is more needed in your county. We propose, therefore, to begin there. Later, when you yourself swell the distinguished citizenship of the warmer climate, it may be necessary to act upon your suggestion of doing missionary work in the realms of His Satanic Majesty.

Yours truly,
(Signed) E. C. REICHWALD

TOMORROW (SUNDAY, MARCH 1st)—TOMORROW

CALL FOR COUNTY CONVENTION TO NOMINATE COUNTY TICKET

Notice is hereby given that on Sunday (tomorrow) March 1st, at 2:00 p. m., at 121½ East Town Street, Columbus, Ohio, a convention is called to name candidates to be voted for on the Socialist ballot at the primary in August, 1914, for the following officers:

1 Clerk, 1 Auditor, 1 Sheriff, 1 Treasurer, 1 Surveyor, 3 Commissioners, 1 Prosecuting Attorney, 4 Common Pleas Judges, 1 Central Committeeman from each ward, 5 members State Legislature, 3 members State Senate.

Also a district convention to nominate 1 Congressman from Twelfth Ohio Congressional District.

PRIEST WAS OBSCENE.

Catholic Clergyman, Admitting Guilt, Fined for Swearing at Parishioner.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Feb. 6.—The Rev. J. B. Piette, French Catholic priest, has been convicted in court here of using vile and obscene language and fined $17.

Purl Margoe, a parishioner, was the complainant and the priest was haled into court several days ago and released on bond. Father Piette admitted having used slanderous, obscene and vile language toward Margoe.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS IGNORE THE LAWS

Court Detention Home are all housing victims of the dread pulmonary disease commonly known as the "White Plague."

The poison needle of this combination of abominations cannot be overestimated when we remember that the "kept press" of capitalism, and the "kept pulpit" of capitalism, publicly hold these institutions and these officials up as true models of Christianity after which the youth of our land are to pattern, every one of which violate the laws and constitution of our land daily.

The law is plain, and we here quote it:

Tuberculosis Hospitals. Gen. Code, Sec. 2139: On and after Jan. 1st, 1914, no person suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, commonly known as consumption, shall be kept in any County Infirmary.

General Code of Ohio, Sec. 3143: Provided that the County Commissioners of any county may contract for the care and treatment of the inmates of the County Infirmary or the residents of the county suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis with an association or corporation incorporated under the laws of Ohio for the exclusive purpose of caring for and treating persons suffering from pulmonary tubercul[illegible]

No Warrant in Law.

It will be readily seen that there is no warrant for sentencing tubercular patients to St. Anthony's Hospital, as it is not incorporated for the exclusive purpose of caring for and treating tubercular victims. It is a general hospital and men, women and children are being sent there from all over the state who do not know they are in a pest house of the "White Plague" and in their sick and wearied condition they are unable to resist the infection to which they are exposed and we feel it our Christian-Socialist out, to [illegible] the public of the facts.

In closing this indictment of the Capitalist System, we again call attention to the fact that it is always members of the Working Class who must suffer every indignity.

Who ever heard of the children of an E. K. Stewart or any other big capitalist being sent to such institutions and forced to do the dirty work?

Not until the workers as a class go to the ballot box and elect their own class to office will the children of the workers get protection.

The statute books of this state are full of good laws, but they are dead letters as long as the workers vote the masters' tickets and place in power men who construe the law from the viewpoint of the ruling class.

Let us buckle on our armor and get down to work and next fall teach these inhuman fiends, who are feasting on the flesh of our offsprings a lesson that they will not soon forget. A Socialist vote in November will do more to remedy conditions than all the punky "reformers" with their scab tickets could do in a thousand years.

FLYING SQUADRON.

What's the matter boys and girls? Last week was not up to the standard. There are 40,000 prospective subscribers to "The Socialist" in Columbus alone. These people take poison every day in the nature of capitalist papers, and it is only reasonable to suppose that they will take its antidote, 40 weeks of the "truth," if they are properly approached. In the state of Ohio are 1,000,000 prospective subscribers. You ought to keep two or three workers busy all the time putting new names on the list. Is "The Socialist" giving satisfaction? We constantly receive letters commending us for the bold, brave manner in which we uphold the cause of our class.

But the printer must be paid each week! We can hold our sub price at 25c for 40 weeks as long as our list rises, and we are able to command some advertising about 10 columns.

Will you be one who will send in $1.00 for sub cards this week? You can sell them and keep the dollar working. In the meantime let me tell you that the money is absolutely needed. You can help mightily by rolling in the subs, and purchasing $1.00 worth of cards now. On to Congress and the State House!

The following from Comrade E. J. Soules of Kalamazoo, Mich., will show how "The Socialist" is appreciated in other states.

"Have been reading with a great deal of interest your articles on the 'courts,' and 'charity.' You have the right spirit. Wish you could come over to Macedonia and help us. We are worse off here than there, if anything. However, keep at the good work. I am writing this to let you know that your paper is appreciated here in Michigan, also. While the other Socialist papers are good, you have them beaten a long way on these questions."

Comrade Geo Ogden, Rush Run, Ohio, who subscribed at the miners' convention, writes that he has reorganized that local, and that "The Socialist" is O. K., and further that a club of subs will come in shortly.

Comrade DeGood, of Magnetic Springs, Ohio, got negligent and allowed his sub to expire, and in sending his renewal says, "Send me issue of 14th, as I don't want to miss an issue."

Comrade Joe Koiot, Nelfs, O., who put on about 30 subs while at the miners' convention here, sends in $1 for 1 more. You can't keep the miners down, as they are class conscious and are marching on to industrial liberty.

Comrade Cornwell of the Sixth Ward puts on 7 more, which makes about 45 for him since the new rate went into effect.

Comrade Holt, who recently put on 40 all at one time, is feeling rather "chesty." He asks us if anyone has beaten him yet. Will some stalwart member of the Working Class kindly arrange things so that the next time Comrade Holt asks us this question, we can point to a club of 41?

Buy 4 cards for $1.00 this week and sell them to your neighbors

---

Comrade Price sends for 4 cards and says, "I don't know of any propaganda paper that is being published that is using any better persuasive arguments to show the rottenness of the capital class, and at the same time deal more with the Socialist philosophy, in the next breath, than The Columbus Socialist. Let the good work go right on."

Comrade Kaiser pledges himself to sell 100 sub cards before election as a protest against Sam Black.

Comrade Eck, Lancaster, O., forwards a club of six. This is nice work.

Comrade Doan, Wilmington, O., is one of the best workers for "The Socialist." He lands this week with another club of five.

BEATTY UP A STUMP.

President Beatty of the Federal Glass Company is sorely disgruntled and "up a stump." Last week Federal Judge Sater of the United States Court turned him down in his plea for an injunction to restrain the strikers from picketing the plant. Sater, in his opinion handed down, says in effect, that before Beatty can secure an injunction he must first prove that the strikers are using violence and that the charges must be tried in open court so both sides will have an opportunity to present their case.

As the strikers are peaceful and law-abiding, Beatty has evidently reached the end of his string.

The "Columbus Citizen," continuing its usual tactics of giving the working class a dirty deal, in their report of Judge Sater's action came out in the following bold headlines:

"Labor Union Men Must Not Annoy Glass Company Men."

Then in small letters it uses the words, "Decree Enjoining."

It can readily be seen at a glance that the intent of "The Citizen" was to make it appear to its readers that Judge Sater had handed the Union boys "a lemon," while in fact, it was the Federal Glass Company that got the nice, juicy "lemon."

From information "The Socialist" is able to gather, the strikers and their friends are busy handing "The Citizen" a lemon which "The Socialist" trusts is duly appreciated.

J. F. Lame, 15 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa., is Beatty's scab herder in that locality. Through him a man from New Jersey received transportation at the company's expense and came here to go to work. When he found a strike on, he refused to work at all.

It seems impossible to get the filthy barracks at this concern cleaned up. Last week we called upon the City Board of Health to investigate this plant, sending them a marked copy of "The Socialist." We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Kahn stating that this plant is beyond their jurisdiction, being outside the city limits.

"The Socialist" will, however, locate the proper official and he will either "get on" the job or "get off."

Last Sunday evening quite a number of the striking boys made merry at the home of John W. Lehew, one of the strikers, who celebrated his twenty-first birthday with a big spread. Organizer Glooley presented him with a solid gold watch in behalf of his parents.

Everything has been very quiet the past week with the exception of some drunken strike-breakers out on the street last Saturday night. Not a striker has deserted the ranks and every man is holding firm in their demand for a recognition of the Union.

We feed the world and yet we starve.

We clothe the world, yet we freeze.

We know the world, yet we go unbelieved.

We know that there is plenty of room for all to live right, and to die right, and to be free from the unnecessary miseries of today.—Helen Keller.

Talking about blasphemy, the preacher who in the face of all the misery, injustice and degradation of capitalism, calmly and blandly declares from the pulpit that "it is God's way; his will be done," is the greatest blasphemer of them all.

Property that the owner thinks is not worth while for him to fight for personally is scarcely worth while for the poor man who owns no property to fight for. Brothers, workingmen, can you get this idea into your heads? If so, then there would be no more wars.

"The Only Solution—Get A Better Job." That's the headline of an advertisement of a certain correspondence school. The irony of it! With the average workingman it is no longer a question of getting a better job, but of getting any job at all and keeping it after he gets it. The only way to get a better job is to own it and that is possible only under Socialism.

Socialism is a menace—to grafters and thieves and crooks.

A man who votes for the Democratic, Republican or Bull Moose parties votes for anarchism. See Webster's dictionary.

If you are not satisfied with your wages or the way the boss treats you, you have a right to quit work. Yes, and starve to death, too.

Mr. Farmer, which makes the most money, you or the man who farms you? Don't you make it all, and doesn't he take nearly all of it?

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

Don't fail to be at headquarters tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon to assist in the nomination of a county and congressional ticket. Convention will be called to order at 2 p. m. Get your dues paid up in order to participate. If they are not paid up, come anyhow, and let's have a rousing big meeting, as the nominations will not take long and we will then probably have some speaking, and a general good time. You are welcome, whether a party member or not. Come out and see real working-class democracy at work.

Last Friday evening the Young People's Socialist League gave a Valentine party at headquarters. A lunch was served, after which Comrade Bates gave a short talk. A good crowd was in attendance, and the spirit being shown by the youngsters is certainly gratifying. The Y. P. S. L. will, on the evening of March 15, give an entertainment at Socialist Hall, 121 1-2 East Town street. Bear this in mind and don't fail to be there. Future meetings of the Y. P. S. L. will be on Friday evening, in place of Sunday afternoon.

Monday evening, March 2, Comrade Hollingsworth, neighbor and friend of Debs, speaks at church, corner King avenue and Hunter. Tuesday evening, March 3, he speaks at Socialist Hall, 121 1-2 East Town street. Don't fail to make these meetings a big success.

On Saturday evening, March 7, our dance committee will give a grand masque ball at headquarters, 121 1-2 East Town street. If you dance, be sure and come. If you don't dance, come anyhow, and see the fun. Prizes for the neatest dressed lady and gent, and for the most comical dressed lady and gent. Don't forget the date—next Saturday evening.

Last Wednesday evening the question, "What do you consider the best propaganda in the promotion of the Socialist Philosophy?" was discussed, and aroused a great deal of interest. These discussions are on the regular program every Wednesday evening.

STATE.

The Socialist administration of Hamilton, O., has reduced the police force. The Socialists discovered that the police department was only being used as a political tool to keep the old party grafters in power.

The Socialists of Conneaut, O., who elected their mayor and one-half the city council last fall, have forced the electric light and power company to reduce their rates 10 per cent. The old partyites in council opposed it, but did not have nerve to vote against it in council because they are afraid of the people. The Socialists are going after a further reduction.

NATIONAL.

Arkansas Socialists will hold their state convention in Little Rock, beginning next Monday. It will be a large affair, as the party has been making strong headway during the past year.

Hundreds of party members are being added to the German locals of New York through the work of Emil Seidel, who is now working there for the German Socialist Federation. Seidel is working among the unions, in one of which he secured 132 members in two weeks. Oscar Ameringer and Ernest Untermann are to follow him.

Los Angeles daily papers nearly scared the local plutes into fits a few days ago by printing the startling headlines, "Socialist Rules Council." It was all on account of the innovation of Fred Wheeler, the carpenter, presiding for 13 minutes during a session of the city council. It won't be very long until Wheeler or some other Red holds down that position permanently. Old Otis and his gang might as well prepare to get used to it.

Socialists at Monaca, Pa., captured the school board of the township in which that place is located. Immediately that they got into office they decided that schools were established for the purpose of educating big and little people, and so Socialist lecturers are imported to make addresses when the schools are not used to teach the young. Socialist teachers will also be hired to educate the children along right lines. Of course, the plutes don't like it, but the Reds don't care whether they do or not.

Washington (D. C.) Socialists are planning a social session to welcome James Lord to their midst. Lord, who is a member of Local Farmington, Ill., was recently elected president of the Mining Department, A. F. of L., and will establish headquarters in Washington and make a working organization of the mining division. Lord is the second Socialist to go to the head of a department, A. O. Wharton, of the machinists, having recently been elected president of the Railroad Repartment, A. F. of L.

Formal complaint has been made against Bouck White, the Socialist writer, of criminal libel because certain characters who lived in Middleburg, a small town in the Catskills, were referred to in his new book as reactionaries, fossils, grafters, etc. The burgers are not mentioned by name, but they charge that White portrayed some of them so lifelife that everybody knew they were meant. White defies them to sue for damages as well as criminally, he being fox enough to know that such advertising would be something fine for his book.

The second victory for the new Socialist party of New Zealand has just been won in the election of J. McCombs to parliament from the Littleton district. He won by a majority of 226, the final vote being McCombs, Socialist, 2,628; Miller, Reformist, 2,402. Over 1,000 Socialists were disfranchised, it is claimed by the election officials closing the registration books before time. The Socialist party was only organized last July, and it has won the two by-elections which have occurred since that date. Walter Thomas Mills, well known in this country, is directing the organization work.

Workers in Australia will shortly be able to get their news without it being distorted by a depraved and hostile press. Arrangements are practically completed for the issue of a labor daily at Sydney, $465,000 having already been subscribed, leaving only $35,000 to be raised. There should be no difficulty about raising the balance of the money—especially when one union alone offered to raise the whole of the money. The paper will support the Labor party and teach the principles of Socialism.

WILL YOU SACRIFICE?

If you knew that "The Socialist" was being edited without any salaries being paid, would it inspire you to sacrifice something? Such is the case. The two comrades who edit this paper get no salaries. If we did, we could give you a better paper, as more time could be devoted to editorial work. That is one reason why we want you to increase the circulation to a point where the paper is self-sustaining. We can get 10,000 additional papers published as cheaply as the first 1,000. We don't care for the salaries (though unfortunately we have a stomach, and are compelled to mingle with people on the street occasionally, and society demands that we wear clothes), but we do care for this working-class movement, and want to push it the best we can.

If each and every comrade would spare $1.00 now for subcards, it would put us in a position to carry on the work more effectively. Will you sacrifice that much for the movement?

PRESS COMMENT.

W. C. Bates, Columbus attorney and associate editor of The Socialist, was jailed last week for alleged contempt of court by Judge Samuel Black. In a signed statement Bates declares that he was in probate court with Attorney C. L. Pugh in behalf of a client and without having uttered a word Black began a tirade of personal abuse upon him. "Is this another American home you are trying to break up?" was the Judge's salutation, followed by the cheerful announcement to Bates that "if there is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel in the country, you are that scoundrel." Goaded to the limit, Bates finally replied, "If there is another in this country, you are it." That was sufficient. Black then protected the "Sacred Bench of Justice" by ordering Bates thrown behind the bars, where he was confined until next day, when habeas corpus proceedings were instituted and the case will be called to the attention of the court of appeals. Judge Black is evidently an individual who has a very low conception of the dignity of his position and permits his personal prejudices and thirst for revenge to sway his judgment. On January 24 the Columbus Socialist printed a letter bearing the signature of Judge Black addressed to C. E. Reichwald, 79 South Water Street, Chicago, in which the latter and his kind are referred to as "damn fools" an affidavit sworn to by George F. an affidavit sworn to by George F. Cook and Luella M. Cook, on February 9, in which they declare that on January 30, in probate court, Judge Black said of Mrs. Cook, "You are a damn liar, damn liar, damn liar, cut out of whole cloth; you lie worse than a panther or a tiger." The jailing of Bates and the charges against Judge Black have created a profound sensation in Columbus and the occurrence is bound to play a large part in the local campaign this year.—Cleveland (Ohio) Citizen.

A DEBATE.

A debate has been arranged between Comrade Allen Cook, of Canton, O., and S. P. Axline, dean of the Law School of Ohio Northern University. The question under discussion will be: "Resolved, That Socialism is the only adequate solution of the economic and moral problems of the age," and will be held in Brown auditorium, Ada, O., March 20. "The Socialist" feels sorry for Prof. Axline, as he will know ere he gets done with Comrade Cook what it feels like to go up against a "buzz-saw."

Some time when you are aboard a streetcar with two or three hundred others, cut a chunk of the foul air out and take it to the city bacteriologist.

If the Creator had intended that one class of men should do all the eating, and another class to do all the working, he would have made one class all stomach and no arms, and the other class all arms and no stomach.—Lincoln.

The Class Struggle is an indisputable fact due to the difference of interest between the worker and the shirker.

ZIMPFER FOR CONGRESS WORKERS NOMINATE TICKET

Last Sunday, March 1st, the working class of Franklin County, through their own political party, met in convention and proceeded to nominate their own ticket to be voted for in November.

It will, of course, be necessary to get out petitions, as we will have to go through the formality of going to the primaries in August in order to comply with the state law, which requires all political parties, which poll ten per cent or more of the total vote to so nominate their candidates.

The ticket as nominated, is a strictly working class ticket, and one of which the working class of this district can well be proud.

Comrade F. P. Zimpfer, our nominee for Congress, has been for eleven years a member of Local Union, No. 103, A. F. of L. Musicians, and six years a member of the Socialist Party. For the last two years, he has been a member of the City Council, having been elected to that position by the First Ward. He was defeated last fall, by only forty-two votes. His record in Council was so excellent that not a Capitalist paper dared to say a word against him. In fact, the Columbus Citizen in its usual wishy-washy way, endorsed him for re-election.

There is not a man on the ticket but what is eminently qualified to fill the position for which nominated, if elected.

Let every member of the working class, regardless of race, color, nationality or religion, now stand together like a stone wall behind your class ticket and put your own class in office next fall.

And just remember this, you Catholic working men, and you Protestant working men, that the master class IS NOW and will be up until election ENDEAVORING TO DIVIDE YOU ON THE RELIGIOUS FIELD. They are attempting to work up your religious prejudice in order to make you forget your economic interests.

SOME EXPLOITERS OF LABOR ARE CATHOLICS AND SOME ARE PROTESTANTS AND OUR EXPERIENCE HAS BEEN THAT BOTH DEMAND THEIR POUND OF FLESH FROM THE WORKING CLASS.

OUR FIGHT IS AGAINST NO MAN'S RELIGION. Ours is a fight for humanity. OUR FIGHT IS AGAINST CAPITALISM, that horrible monster that brutalizes and enslaves our class. Every vote cast for Socialism means a vote for industrial liberty.

In order that we may wage our campaign more effectively, it is necessary that we vastly increase the circulation of this paper. We want to keep the sub price at 25 cents for forty weeks in clubs of four or more. Work as you never worked before. On to Liberty. The ticket as nominated follows:

Congressman—F. P. Zimpfer.
State Senators—F. M. Wilson, C. J. Welsh.
County Clerk—F. E. Johnston.
County Auditor—E. A. Remaley.
County Sheriff—Marsh C. Green.
County Treasurer—Walter Davis.
County Surveyor—R. M. Woody.
County Commissioners—E. B. Wharton, G. W. Calvert, Emil Hartman.
Prosecuting Attorney—W. C. Bates.
Coroner—Dr. O. R. Young.
Common Pleas Judges—C. E. Belcher, Adolph Haack, E. B. Eubank, J. M. Suddick.
State Legislature—Edgar Wood, T. J. Johnston, J. P. Baker, W. C. Cochran, W. H. Cornwell.

Ward Branches will now nominate their candidates for County Central Committee, which will complete the ticket.

WHY AN INJUNCTION?

Just why the Federal Glass Co. would want an injunction to restrain the strikers is hard to comprehend, in view of the beautiful letter herewith published.

It will be remembered that Beatty in his application for the injunction (which Judge Sater denied) attempted to show that the strikers were using violence and intimidation. In his own letter he admits that the strikers ARE NOT molesting him or his scabs. The letter follows.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 20, 1914.

Mr. Chas. Hoot, E. Davis St., Tiffin, Ohio.

Dear Sir:—As you no doubt know there are five Tiffin boys working here in our factory, in the blown tumbler factory at present, and one of them gave us your name as being likely to want to come to work here in Columbus.

If such is the case we can give you a job gathering, or if you bring a good gatherer with you and prefer to blow, we will give you a job blowing. John Young said to tell you that he was here and that everything was alright and satisfactory. We have about fifty blown shops at work now in the factory, and we have a boarding house on the ground, if you prefer to live inside. The majority of our people, however, are living at home on the outside, AND ARE NOT MOLESTED IN ANY WAY BY THE MEN WHO FORMERLY WORKED FOR US.

Let us hear from you promptly and we will meet you at the train if you will let us know what day you will arrive.

Very Truly Yours,
G. BEATTY,
The Federal Glass Co.

The strikers have been much incensed lately by the action of police officer Banks, who is on duty on that beat. This man takes his midnight lunch in the Barracks, inside the plant, which probably accounts for his beating one of the strikers in the face with his fists last Saturday night, and then after applying some vile epithets to him, chasing him home without allowing him to recover his hat, which had fallen off.

This same Banks attempted to tell organizer Gillooly where to "get off," shortly after Gillooly got on the job here. While the organizer was attending strictly to business, and was taking three "scabs" away, Banks butted in and told him it would "be a pleasure to run him in."

Gillooly is a gentleman, and is conducting the strike in an orderly and peaceful manner, and has always done so in every place he has conducted a strike. The Union intends to get fair play, regardless of whether Banks wants to give it to them or not. If he continues in the future, as in the past, the boys will take the matter into court.

Should a man who by his actions takes the part of the company be allowed to remain on this beat?

And why does he take the Company's part? Is it because he takes his midnight lunch at the Company's expense?

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last Tuesday evening, which was presided over by President S. L. Donahue, of this Local Number 122. The Executive Board of the Chimney Department was in session at the Chittenden Hotel, with the Union Manufacturers. President Rowe and National Secretary Clark, being present at this session, took advantage of their presence and addressed the boys. The following members of the Executive Board also gave short interesting talks. Armstrong, of local Number 3, Alexander, Indiana; Shay, Socialist Mayor of Star City, West Virginia; Raik, of Local Number 8, Alexandria, Indiana; Dillon, Local Number 8, Steubenville, Ohio; Elberta, Local Number 3.

The meeting was closed by organizer Gillooly, who pointed out the necessity of standing firm. He thanked the speakers for their assistance, and assured them that Local Number 122 intends to stay on the job, until the fight is won.

BILL BRYAN—PEANUT HEAD

From the columns of Old Lady "Journal" we glean the news that "Peanut Head" Bryan, Secretary of State, has fired the United States Consul at Amsterdam.

The reason Bryan fired him was, using the exact language of the O. S. J., "IS THAT HE PAID HIS CHARWOMAN TWO DOLLARS A WEEK WHEN THE REGULAR PRICE WAS FIFTY CENTS."

In looking up the word Charwoman in the dictionary, we find it means a "Chore-Woman" or woman who does all kinds of little petty jobs.

Two dollars a week, what an excellent salary. Almost as much as Rockefeller gets in a minute and he don't do any work either, except—work the workers.

What seems to have made Bryan sore, however, was the consul paying this magnificent salary for getting his chores done, when the regular price was only fifty cents a week, thereby throwing away a dollar and a half of good coin which might have been spent for grape-juice or put in bank to boost along that million dollars, the jack-ass says every man should have to protect him in his old age.

The Consul, after getting fired, went snooping around to see Bryan and explained, but Grape-juice Bill was "not in."

We ask the working class of this country what they think, and also what they expect of a plutocratic politician like Bill Bryan who thinks that two dollars a week is too much pay for a poor old woman and that fifty cents a week is sufficient.

Capitalistic politicians insult you, jail you and intimidate you, then just before election they spread a little salve and you fools fall for it and vote them back into office again.

In the eyes of Bill Bryan, your mother, your daughter, and your sister is worth fifty cents a week. How do you like it?

War is murder by wholesale.

A master is impossible without a slave.

Economic slavery is worse today than in chattel slavery.

A duck has webs in its feet to swim with and it is not afraid to use them. Men are supposed to have brains to use, but a big lot don't know it.

Scientists declare that, though the bee is a hard worker, it works only four hours a day and lays off all winter besides. That is what can be accomplished under organized, co-operative effort. As for man—

And darkness covered the earth, and God said, let there be light. And Jawn D. answered and said, "Yes, Lord, just as soon as I put one more cent on the gallon."

We are at last beginning to understand what President Wilson means by his "new freedom." Tens of thousands of unemployed workingmen who are now free to hunt new masters also understand.

A man of honor never purchases happiness at the expense of another's sorrow.

"A thinking slave is a contradiction which cannot endure." Therefore, Comrades, do all in your power to get Socialist literature into the hands of your fellow-workers.

STOP ROBBING YOUR OWN CHILD

The facts are so commonly known that it seems useless to repeat them, that the productive capacity of the world today is fully sufficient to provide great abundance for every man, woman and child on earth. Why then, do some go illy clad and hungry? Why do we live in hovels or on the street while plenty waits our call?

Fellow working man, you must reply. You must know your power and your rights. Haven't you the right to the good things of life when you are willing to do some useful work?

Aren't our firemen well taken care of? Aren't our postal workers well provided for? Do not the workers fare pretty well in the building of the Panama canal?

Why not make the government provide work for everyone who wants it? It is great enough and, fellow workers, we have the power, we have the votes sufficient to require Uncle Sam to serve us and bring to us the opportunity to work and a just compensation therefor. Wake up, brother, your little boy and girl deserve the best there is; you and your wife deserve as good a home as any one if you are willing to work; and the Socialist party is an organization for you to use in capturing this nation in the name of human life, in the name of common sense, in the name of justice and order, requiring of it to serve as well as rule; to provide our needs as well as to require tribute. You, fellow working man, I am talking to you. We have 90 per cent of the votes; you can have the best there is for yourself and your wife and child whenever you get ready; and if you refuse to make the most of your opportunity in knowing these things, you are indeed, a cowardly robber, taking the bread out of your child's mouth. Wake up and live.

JOHN BONEHEAD DO SOMETHING.

Socialism is the religion of humanism.

Materialistic Conception of History means the material minus the trimmings as recorded in history.

Stop saying "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," when you don't own a foot of it.

It's doggone mean to offer people salvation when they need soup.

Socialism is the highest aspiration of the ages, born in the hearts of a million oppressed polstariats.

The workers build all the mansions, yet live in shacks.

Workers seem to be about the only game that is not protected by law.

Higher wages don't amount to snowball in hell as long as a few men own the industries and can raise the cost of living accordingly.

NEXT WEEK
"BLACK SPECIAL"
Some more of the dastardly work of the Juvenile Court will be published under affidavit.
Some More Homes Broken Up by Capitalism.
Send in the Subs. and order a bundle for distribution.

We have arrived at the dog-days of capitalism. The system has grown so rotten that all classes of society are becoming inoculated with its poison.

A railroad fails into bankruptcy and goes ahead without a break. This proves that capitalism is unnecessary. When the workers quit, trains stop running.

Socialism will so change the economic status of women that her love relations with man will be completely changed, and she will marry whomsoever she loves instead of marrying the guy with the most legal provender.

The poor can get along very well without the rich, but the rich have an awful time getting along without the poor. The poor don't know it, however, and that is why they are so darn poor.

Bayonet—a nice stinger made by the working class, sharpened by the working class, nicely polished by the working class, to be patriotically thrust into the bodies of the working class—for the employing class—the ruling class. How do you fellows like it? Well, when the next strike takes place you'll probably have a chance to see how it works and feels.

To every action there is equal and opposite reaction. A boy once tickled the foot of a mule and in an instant landed against the back end of the barn. A workingman tickled a capitalist into power and landed in the street under a policeman's billy. Poor boy, poor workingman. Two peas in the same pod.

Briefly, Marxian Economics is an understanding of Value determined by the amount of social labor power necessary to produce commodities, Price paid to the worker in the form of wages, and Profit the difference between the value and wages.

Socialism means that children of the future shall have opportunity to develop the best that is in them, mentally, morally and physically, without being under the necessity of selling their honor or their virtue.

"I AM DISCOURAGED"

The following we take from the columns of The Columbus Citizen of February 25th.

Editor of Citizen:

As I have been much interested in reading these letters, would like to say just one word about dancing and girls' wages: I do not dance the tango, but I am a great lover of the two-step and waltz. I have not been to a dance this winter, for I have not the price. I hardly get $5 a week and pay $4 board. What have I left? I have struggled nearly 10 years to live purely and now I am discouraged. I feel as though I will have to make money some other way. If I was in the place of some employers, I would feel guilty in handing a girl $4 or $5.

A WORKING GIRL.

Here is the voice of a girl crying to her class for deliverance—and her class who are being equally brutalized, turn a deaf ear.

Here is a girl who is giving her life to produce wealth for society, denied the privilege of even attending a cheap dance because she can't afford it.

In the name of the Creator WHERE ARE YOU PREACHERS AND SO-CALLED CHRISTIANS? ARE YOU AFFECTED WITH THE HOOKWORM?

This is not the only girl in these columns. The city, state and nation has millions of them.

Some of them fall, and then you raise your slimy voices and pray to God, and thank him that you are not as they.

YOU HYPOCRITES, YOU VIPERS, WELL DID CHRIST CALL YOU "RAVENOUS WOLVES."

You stand by and uphold a system that produces conditions that make girls sell their bodies for bread, and then you damn them, for the very thing YOU are responsible for.

You raise millions to send to Africa to convert the heathen, while you send daughters of the working class to brothels.

You wonder why the workers are leaving your churches by the millions. It is because you refuse to preach Christ's gospel; you refuse to preach as Christ did when asked to rebuke the fallen woman "Neither do I condemn thee."

Listen to what this girl said "I HAVE STRUGGLED NEARLY 10 YEARS TO LIVE PURELY AND NOW I AM DISCOURAGED."

What does this mean? It means that human nature, with its craving for companionship, and fellowship, has almost given way under the strain of denials of these perfectly natural desires.

IT MEANS THAT SOON THIS GIRL'S LIFE WILL NO LONGER BE PURE.

It means another soul gone to serve the purpose of the white slave traffic.

It means another working class daughter has gone to serve the lust of a master class in order that she may continue to live.

It means another indictment brought against the system of Capitalism, upheld by priest, preacher and old party politicians.

In this hour of blackest night, little girl, this paper can speak for the Socialists, not only of Columbus, but of the entire world, and in their name, we can and do declare that although you may fall, WE WILL HOLD YOU BLAMELESS.

IT IS NOT YOUR FAULT.

It is the fault of the Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers, who believe in, and vote for the system that allows a master class to own the tools of industry.

By owning the tools, the masters can make you work for whatever they wish to pay—and in your case it was $5.00 per week. MILLIONS GET LESS. Their brutal masters tell them to get a gentleman friend to help out. It is either that or starve.

The Socialist Party is not yet strong enough to save YOU—little girl. You are near the brink. Save yourself if possible. The dawn of the new day is upon us, and in that day, the tools of industry, namely, the mines, mills, factories, and etc. will be owned by the people, and managed by the people in the interest of the people, and then such conditions as yours will be no more.

To the working class, this is a lesson you should not forget. Think how your class produces everything that makes civilization possible. Here is a young girl denied even the companionship of one night of pleasure, costing only 25 cents, while out on East Broad street, in this city, and at Palm Beach, Fla., the wives and daughters of the master class are rolling in lazy luxuriance and idleness, on the wealth this girl and other workers produced. Are you, again this fall going to vote for the same conditions, or do you intend to vote to change the damnable system, and start on the road to FREEDOM FOR THE WORKERS!

P. S. After this was written we note a bunch of letters in The Citizen, giving this girl advice. One damned Molly Coddle advises her to "hold out" and things will come out O. K. Another who calls herself "Bis Sister" also rushes into print with a bunch of slobber, and wants to talk to the girl; wants to tell her "it's God's way," evidently. Others advise her to go to work in some one's kitchen. That's all these dirty debauchers of the human race can find for working class girls—doing the dirty work for the lazy parasites who steal the wealth of the workers.

COMMISSIONERS IN A NEW LIGHT

Marsh C. Green.

An January 24th, seeing a pile driver in the river, north of the Broad street bridge, and learning it was there for the purpose of driving piling to protect said bridge, I called the County Commissioner's office by phone, for an explanation and was told to consult the Surveyor. I went to the Surveyor's office and was told they intended to drive three piles north of each row of piles under the bridge, and tie them together with plank.

When I protested that it would endanger the West Side in case of high waters he referred me back to the Commissioners. I met Messrs. Humphrey and Davis in their office and after considerable discussion, the following conversation took place between Mr. Humphreys and myself. He asked "Would you like to see the bridge go out?" I replied "If it is a question of the bridge going out or the levesbreakingand flooding the West Side, I certainly would rather see it go out." He then said "Do you know what the bridge cost | " I replied "If it cost ten thousand dollars, it cost more than it ought to cost." He then said "It cost more than that." I then said "You have stated that damand was made that you protect the bridge, now who made that demand?" He replied "THE COLUMBUS RAILWAY AND LIGHT CO." I asked "What interest have they in it?" His reply was: "They put three thousand dollars in it."

I then consulted Mr. Ellis, secretary, and Dr. Edmiston, president of the Columbus Flood Protection Association, and while they agreed that it greatly endangered the people of the West Side, neither was willing to do anything that would look like finding fault with the Commissioners.

One week later, Mr. Christopher Ross, a large property owner, seeing that the Floo. Protection Association showed a great deal more interest in getting bonds voted, than in procecting the homes of the West Siders, filed an injunction against the Commissioners having any more piling driven, and asking to have those already driven, taken out. I hereby charge that the Columbus Rail and Light Co. has shown to have more power and influence with not only the Commissioners, but the officers of the Flood Protecting Association as well, than the entire three thousand families residing and owning property on the West Side.

THE SMALL BUSINESS MAN

The so-called independant small business man is a joke. He is not only a joke, but he will soon be a thing of the past. While it is true that a great many of them have aligned themselves with the Socialist Party, yet, some of them are pig headed enough to still believe that some how, some time, the Capitalist system will unscramble itself and then they will be enabled to amass a fortune.

Comrade Mallard says "A small business man is a working man who collects his wages on the installmen plan."

The average small grocery keeper for instance, is usually a working man, who by denying himself and family all the pleasures of life, has saved up four or five hundred dollars. Now this big business financier is ready to "go into business." He accordingly answers a catchy advertisement in a Capitalist paper of some Business agency shark, and proceeds to invest the said 500 hundred plunks in a few shelves of old canned goods, rotten lemons and rotten trade.

After possession is passed over to him, his chest swells out in pride—for is he not a business man, and does he not now actually own some of the necessities of life, that the people must have in order to live?

It never strikes him that this food he calls his own, really belongs to the people who produced it, but his brain at this stage is all set on "business."

In about twenty-four hours he begins to find out that he has bought a "pig in a poke," as it were, and that the business does not materialize. Soon his little surplus capital is gone and the store is on the market ready for the next sucker.

But suppose he is able to stick it out a while, what has he got at the end of his week's work? Nothing but a bare living and usually a bunch of bad debts. He has made three cents on each can of corn sold, one cent on each five cents worth of stogies, and so on down the line, and at the end of the week or month he is a great deal worse off than the ordinary mechanic.

It never strikes his pigmy brain how small he is, and he is particularly sure to knock Socialism, the only thing that will give him relief. He pinned all his trusting faith in Wilson, and that aristocrat has sure put the finish on the little fellow.

The day of the little fellow in business is over. In Ohio, Kroger owns 187 groceries, and is selling groceries at retail at about what the little fellow pays wholesale. One firm in the U. S. has a chain of 260 5 and 10 cent stores, and another combination has 176. The Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts now own a chain of 690 restaurants. Another firm has 187 retail clothing stores.

As a result of these consolidations, 13431 merchants failed in 1911, and in manufacturing and trading, there were 12,652 more failures, bringing the total up to about 26,000 failures, with total liabilities of $400,000,000.

All this happened in a period of so-called "prosperity." What do you small business man think will be the total for this year, under the great (?) Wilson you voted for?

The small business man today has two courses left upon before him. He can continue to vote old party tickets, and allow the system of concentration of wealth to continue until he is forced down into the ranks of the working class, and forced to compete with the man in overalls, which he will find is hard to do, because the worker is trained for his job already, or Mr. Small Business Man can start voting the Socialist ticket, and change the system from one of anarchy and murder to one of co-operation for the benefit of all.

Under this system no master class will own the mines, mills and factories. No combinations can gather the food, clothing and shelter supply into its hands for the enrichment of the few, at the expense of the people.

The people will own all the industries through their government, and manage them in their own interest.

Under Capitalism, the small business man is in the position of the Dutch farmer, who worked hard and raised his farm products and took them to market. What he did not sell on market, he took home and fed to the hogs, and what the hogs did not eat, the Dutchman's family finished.

SPEND YOUR MONEY WHILE SAVING IT

We workingmen have been preached to by Capitalists and their attendants and hangers-on, that if they wanted to become wealthy and respectable citizens of this great commonwealth that all that was necessary was to save their money.

The very latest advice on the proper amount to save per year, recently came from Bill Bryan, who handed it to us straight that $30,000 per year was about the right figure. He intimates that this is the amount that he is able to gouge out of the American people, and inasmuch as there is, according to tradition, "A sucker born every minute," Bill is getting the goods.

A working man with the average American wage of $437.00 per year, figuring sixty years to a life-time, wouldn't receive thirty thousand dollars during the whole period of his life, let alone laying aside thirty thousand dollars per year for old age.

Socialists have repeatedly pointed out that if the wheels of industry were to continue revolving, the working class must spend their money. In other words, if twenty million workers were to put out of circulation, one dollar per week each, it wouldn't be but a few weeks until the wheels of industry would cease turning.

It is very gratifying, however, to know that there are other Capitalists right here in our own midst who take the opposite view from Bryan, and advise us NOT to save our money.

The Jeffrey Mfg. Co. are putting a little folder in each pay envelope, that for a will-of-the-wisp proposition takes the cake. Some of the paragraphs read as follows:

"By all means do not save too much of your money."

"You can be just as foolish in saving too much of your money as you can in saving too little."

"The idea is to get a hold of the proper sense of proportion."

The Socialist in behalf of its readers and a waiting world, wants to know what amount is the proper sense of proportion?

For instance, the average wage in this country, according to statistics is $437.00 per year. The same U. S. Government statistics tell us that for a man to support himself, wife and two children, requires at the lowest estimate $700.00 per year. Out of the $437.00 we get, should we save the $400.00 or the $37.00?

Or put it this way. We should get $700.00 to live half-way decently. Shall we reduce our living standard to $437.00 with a $700.00 appetite, thereby saving the difference, $263.00?

This bulletin drops some more pink pearls of wisdom as follows:

"Money not in circulation is of no value."

"Therefore, be a good spender."

"But at the same time, be a good saver."

"Get what you need—more than mere necessity."

"Live well."

"But live within your means."

"And that means saving something."

"Don't be a tightwad."

"And don't be a foolish spendthrift."

No, dear readers, we are not playing a joke on you, this is taken from the Jeffrey's Bulletin of February 8th, 1914. This concern must indeed, have a very low estimate of the amount of intelligence, possessed by the men who work there. Think of an outfit, advising men to save their money in one paragraph, and then spend it in the next.

You don't see Uncle Sam making such eternal jack-asses out of his post-office employes.

Whenever the working class, as a class, march to the ballot box and vote for the collective ownership of the industries, adding thereto, the management of these industries by the workers themselves, that much sooner will parasites quit making fools out of the working class.

COME ON YOU HOUNDS.

On Wednesday, May 13th, the Knights of Columbus will bring to this city, one Peter Collins, ho will proceed to demolish Socialism.

Just why a religion, claiming to be the mouthpiece of the lowly Christ, should maintain a military, armed and drilled organization, and why the same Church through the said military organization should butt in on a political party is curious, to say the least.

This Collins is the same individual, who, when he makes a speech, claims to have challenged Socialists to meet him and says the Socialists refuse.

At various times, Socialists have taken him at his word and arranged to debate with him, but when the night for the debate came along, Collins stayed on the train and went straight on through. Although he was seen and recognized by persons at the depot, he was so yellow he didn't have nerve enough to meet a Socialist.

That he and his coterie can not have an opportunity to pull off any such stunt here, we desire to state that we are authorised to make the following challenge.

Fred D. Warren, Editor Appeal to Reason, and W. F. Reis, noted author and lecturer, will either one deposit $500.00 as evidence of good faith, that they will be here on night of May 13th, to debate with said Collins. Collins and his backers shall put up a like amount. If both appear, each takes down his own money.

Is this fair and plain enough. If those haters of American Liberty don't accept, then the Columbus public will know who's who. K. of C's. or Collins, if you are not too yellow to accept this challenge, write this office at once, and the money will be up quicker than you can say scat. COME ON YOU HOUNDS.

THE SOCIALIST PRESS

By Eugene V. Debs.

In the present advanced state of the Socialist movement it is hard to understand why the press, which has been such an important factor in the party's progress, should be so indifferently treated and so scantily supported by Socialists themselves. The importance of the press in the class struggle, in political campaigning and in the educational propaganda is conceded by all, and yet practically every Socialist paper in the United States is having a desperate struggle to maintain its existence.

Whether Socialist papers are privately owned or party owned, whether they are narrow and dogmatic or liberal and opportunist, they encounter the same difficulties and with scarcely an exception they are compelled to waste their means and energies in keeping going from day to day.

A Socialist paper, no matter by whom started or how honestly and ably conducted, is in for trouble from the very beginning.

Socialist publishers and editors have uniformly had the same experience and struggle along in the hope that relief may come and that the paper whose critical career has so endeared it to them may at last be placed upon a secure foundation.

The average Socialist editor works harder, longer and more conscientiously than any other person in the movement, and he does it under circumstances that would break the spirit and drive out in despair and disgust any one not literally harnessed to the movement by chains of steel.

Yet in spite of all these handicaps and hardships, the Socialist papers have done and are doing a vital work in the upbuilding of the party and the development of the movement, the value and importance of which could by no extravagance of words be overstated.

With all their weaknesses they are the strength of the party, the bulwark of the movement and without them disintegration and disaster would speedily follow.

The capitalist class recognizes the value of their press and feed it fat and plenty to keep it strong and active. Socialists might well profit by their example. The snarling wolf is ever at the door, and under such circumstances no paper and no set of men can do the best there is in them. They cannot fight the battles of Socialism and the battle for their own existence at the same time.

OSTRICH TACTICS AND THE UNEMPLOYED.

"Why there ain't no such creature!" exclaimed the backwoods farmer when bewildered by the sight of a giraffe in a traveling show.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, the lady that acts as the mouthpiece of the Federal Industrial Commission, acquits herself in the same manner. Among other things, that commission was to look into the problem of the unemployed. The air is filled with the wails of its victims. The authorities try in vain to grapple with it. Our streets and public places show it in evidence everywhere. Every housewife meets it in the piteous appeal of the hungry for a scrap of food. The mute misery of the starving, shivering, shelterless derelicts cries to heaven.

Says the good lady:

"Any one who fails to realize that conditions are about the same in the labor market now as they are at this season each year is either ignorant of conditions or insincere."

That settles every calamity howler. The good lady offers you your choice. You are either a jackass or a crook. "There ain't no such creature."

We might fittingly call that Ostrich Tactics, with apologies to that maligned bird. The fable that the ostrich buries his head in the sand so as not to see when he is cornered survives only in a rhetorical phrase.

The state of mind it characterizes survives in certain human beings. Politicians show it at times when in a desperate corner.

Mrs. Harriman, the mouthpiece of Woodrow Wilson and of up-to-date capitalism, resorts to ostrich tactics when confronted with the problem of the unemployed. "There ain't no such thing!"

How easy that is! You turn your back upon the problem, and, presto, it vanishes.

It is the usual way of our capitalistic politicians. They claim credit for everything good, for good trade, good crops, good times, perchance even for good weather. The late McKinley, for instance, was lauded to the skies as "advance agent of prosperity."

The moment things turn to the bad, these same people disclaim any responsibility, or else brazenly deny the facts. "There ain't no such thing!"

The plain fact is that they find themselves in an impasse. They are utterly incapable of dealing with the unemployed problem.

Here we are in a land of plenty, starvation everywhere. Enough work to be done, enough willing hands to do it. The opportunities for work tied up, the willing hands paralyzed. Not by Mother Nature, but by man's own fault, by the fault of a system of economic chaos.

The best thing the system can do is to deny an ACUTE state of the unemployed problem, to pronounce it CHRONIC. That is still far, of course, from a NORMAL state of things. Tacitly, it is admitted that a normal state means steady work for all willing hands, with the fruit of the work going to the workers. No such condition is possible under capitalism, because capitalism means the other thing: the best and biggest fruit for the idlers in control of things.

Hence, capitalism, finding itself incapable of meeting a troublesome problem, turns around and denies the existence of it.

It might do a trifle better if it wasn't so hidebound, so short-sighted. It might at least grapple with the problem intelligently.

We deal with the unemployment as if it was a local issue, or, rather, a series of local issues. We force the victims to fit into our local relief and charity systems. We stretch them upon Procrustes beds.

That does not work, of course. Our economic system is national. So are its weaknesses and its problems. Unemployment is a national calamity, calling for action along national lines. Such action is made impossible by an abundance of political red tape.

Aside from that red tape, relief measures on a grand scale seem simple enough. There is plenty of work to be done for the benefit of the nation along national lines: building of highways and bridges, opening of our national timber and mining tracts, reclamation of waste lands, irrigation of deserts, reforestination of our denuded hill and mountain sides, regulation of our waterways. All of which would be useful, productive work. It could be undertaken, if the Gulliver Labor were able to break the red tape bonds woven by his enemies while he was asleep.

It would not be the kind of work organized by the wily French politicians in 1848 when they directed the unemployed to perform senseless and useless labor in order to discredit the National Workshops.

Nor would it have to be the kind of work our politicians provide in the appropriations for the proverbial Pork Barrel, work for their own benefit and that of friendly contractors.

To get such national work for the unemployed would presuppose a strong, capable and honest representation of labor in Congress, the result of the political awakening of our working class.

That plainly is the experiance lesson we are now getting.—N. Y. Call.

FLYING SQUADRON.

How did you like our "Red Special." With the proper amount of circulation, and financial backing we would pull off a stunt once in a while that would wake up the natives in this old state.

Next week we will run a "Black Special," in which we intend to show how Sam Black, as Juvenile Court Judge has been breaking up American Homes. It was for publication of these articles that Comrade Bates was sent to jail. Capitalists and their politicians claim that "Socialists want to break up homes," but WE HAVE CAUGHT THEM with the goods on IN THE ACT OF DOING IT, and they don't like publicity. Send in the subs. 25 cents for 40 weeks in clubs of 4 or more.

You should join the 200 brigade. A number of comrades have pledged themselves to sell 4 40 weeks cards per month. One each week. We are endeavoring to make it 200. About 75 have already pledged themselves. We will advance the cards. Write or call for them.

A word to you new subscribers. Many of you are not Socialists. What's the use to hang back. The fact that you have subscribed is evidence that you want better conditions. There is no hope outside the Socialist Party. Don't hang back any longer. Get in and help. Go out to-day and get up a club of subscribers to The Socialist and feel the thrill that comes to those working for this glorious cause.

Show your faith in the movement by turning in a club of four next week.

We ought to carry the County next fall, because Pete Collins will be here to demolish us may 17th.

It will be noted that the old Roman Beast knocks no other political party except the Socialist. Why?

Of course if you voted for Socialism, Bonehead, you would have to "divide up." You are not doing that now. Oh no! You are only dividing up ⅞ with the boss and keeping ⅛ for yourself and family. Fool!

Make up a club of four subs next week and send them in, how good it makes you feel to be really working and identified with this great cause.

The Roman Heirarchy knocks the Socialist Party because it refuses to stand idly by and see the children of working class parents be sent to convents to be used to satisfy the lust of human fiends and have their bodies ground up into profits.

Socialism is the collective ownership and democratic management of things collectively used, and the private ownership of things privately used. Try and figure that out, Bonehead.

Pa—You don't understand, my son; it is the duty of the government to protect the property of its citizens.

Willie—Yes, but say, Pa, isn't it also the duty of the government to protect the lives of its citizens? The men they would send to war are citizens, aren't they?

Pa—Of course.

Willie—Have they all got property in Mexico to protect?

Pa—No, of course not.

In regard to conditions the "Wall Street Journal" for February has the following to say:

"Failures during 1913 attest the unprofitableness of business generally. Total liabilities were $272,672,000 against $203,177,000 in 1912, and were largest since 1903.

"Railroad business is much depressed. Idle car surplus very heavy at 188,800; in spite of the fact that roads have bought but few cars, heavy decreases are general. This is one of the darkest spots of the situation.

"Number of unemployed in New York state for year ending September 30 last was largest since 1893, with the exception of 1908.

"New financing during 1913 in America was $607,000,000 below 1912.

"The iron and steel business seems to be in a period of suspended animation. It seems to have struck a bottom along which it is bumping week after week, awaiting some new impulse to start it upward; operating conditions are being readjusted to present business. That means that if there is another two months of low output some more men will be out, but not many more than are already unemployed (very few are left, unless it is the office force.")

AN UNGENTLE HINT.

A young man who had repeatedly proposed to the young lady of his choice and had as often been repulsed and was finally told to "go ask pa," gave his impressions of the young lady's suggestion in the following remarks:

She knew that I knew that her father was dead,
She knew that I knew what a life he had led,
She knew that I knew what she meant when she said,
"Go ask pa."

DIVIDED SAM.

Uncle Sam is both strangely strong and woefully weak.

He can mould cannon, but not plows.

He can carry letters at cost, but not people and freight.

He can build battleships, but not homes and factories.

He can care for hogs, but not for babies.

He can build roads for the army, but not roads for the farmer.

He can use the army in building a canal for private interests to use, but he can't use the same army in draining swamps so the whole people may use the land so redeemed.

He can do any kind of business at Panama, but insists he can't go into business in continental United States.

He can build and operate railroads in Alaska, but not in West Virginia.

He will protect capitalists in Mexico, but not workers in Calumet Mich.

He can give away the land of the whole people, entrusted to his care, but he cannot use that land for the good of all the people.

Uncle Sam, when acting as Socialist, is a sensible and helpful fellow, but when working with and for the capitalists is as brutal and criminal as they are.

He cannot long serve two masters. He must be either wholly capitalistic, with everything done for the people repudiated, or wholly Socialistic, scorning the special privilege that capitalism ever and always demands. —Appeal to Reason.

SELL THEM.

Many of you comrades have sub cards on hand that are not working. Sell them, and reinvest in some more. Let's make next week a big week. Everybody boost.

WHAT CAPITALISM MEANS—MEDITATION OF A DOCTOR.

What a cursed season! Nobody sick! Not even a dog has a cold!

A DRUGGIST.

Everybody's in good health in this "beastly town!"

A GRAVEDIGGER.

If we could only have a little cholera I could give my daughter a dowry.

A MILITARY MAN.

Twenty years of peace! It's the ruin of my career!

A JUDGE.

If it weren't for the criminals, what should we do?

A MERCHANT.

If I succeed in driving my neighbor into bankruptcy, I'll get all his trade.

A FARMER.

Such a calamity! The country has produced so much that the market is glutted. Blessed be the years of small crops!

A LAWYER.

Oh, such a stupid town. Nobody wants to prosecute anybody else.

A POLICEMAN.

If it weren't for the robbers I should have to steal for a living.

THIS IS A JOKE THAT HURTS.

You buy a cottage on the installment plan,
Then marry your sweetheart as soon as you can.
Love in a cottage! It overflows your cup,
Till you run short of pottage, and you can't pay up.
Your job is gone, so the real estate man
Grabs back your cottage as soon as he can.
You are wiser by far than when you both started,
And have learned that a fool and his money have parted.

THE FORD PLAN.

Recently an item appeared in the capitalist press to the effect that the Socialist Labor Party did not approve of Henry Ford's plans. Some people became confused and thought this was the Socialist Party. In fairness both to the S. L. P. and ourselves we desire to state that the Socialist Party of Columbus has taken no official stand on this proposition. In a general way, at the meeting of Local Columbus February 11th, the matter was discussed and it was the concensus of opinion that this move would result in good to the Socialist Party, as the workers could now see the vast amount of wealth they, create, and it would inspire in them a desire for more and more of the product of their own hands. Nothing can as it is the result of evolution and harm Eocialism, as it is the result of evolution and will be here on schedule time.

WHEN WILL THE FRANKLIN COUNTY BOSSES GET THEIRS?

Recently Joseph Cassidy, Democratic Boss of Queens County, N. Y., was sent to Sing Sing for six months and fined $1,000. He was sentenced for accepting a bribe for a supreme court nomination. Thus are the people continuously betrayed. The offices in each county in this land are usually for sale to the highest bidder. Then the people are allowed to take their choice, of either Democrat, Republican or Bull Moose. The bosses control them all in the interest of the master class. Get out from under boss rule by being your own boss and voting the Socalist ticket. You can join the Socialist Party and help select your own candidates.

Y. P. S. L. will give an entertainment Sunday eve, March 15th. Don't forget the date.

It has been many a long day since a large and enthusiastic audience, such as packed the Socialist hall, 121½ East Town Street, last Tuesday evening, have had the opportunity to ehar such an orator and philosopher as Comrade Jas. Hollingsworth.

As his story of the Life of Jesus was unfolded in the light of modern thought and research, and the application made to the modern Socialist movement, the hall rang with cheers and applause. Don't miss an opportunity to hear Comrade Hollingsworth at his next meeting here.

STATE.

More home busting! The Akron People, weekly organ of the C. L. U., reports as follows: The Third Ward (capitalistic) had 152 births and the Fifth Ward (Socialist) had 555 births last year. Both wards have about the same population. And then capitalists say Socialism will "break up the home." Looks like capitalism's only idea of "home" is a swell house, but Socialism wouldn't even break that up; it would, however, make them a little more common.—Cleveland Citizen.

From all over the State comes the cheering news that the comrades are up and doing. When the smoke clears away this fall, there will be some Socialists in the Legislature, and in Congress.

NATIONAL.

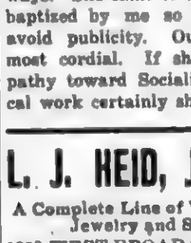
Another candidate has been added to the "parlor" or "millionaire" Socialist ranks, one of the varieties that create no little discussion among newspaper paragraphers, great statesmen and other well-known authorities on bunk. Hetty Green's nephew, the Rev. Dr. Augustine Elmendorf, announces that he is a Socialist. He is secretary of the social service commission of the Episcopal diocese of Newark, N. J. "Mrs. Green and I never discussed my work," said Dr. Elmendorf. "Our conversations have been personal always. She came to Jersey City to be baptized by me so that she might avoid publicity. Our relations are most cordial. If she has any antipathy toward Socialism or sociological work certainly she has not shown it in my presence. On the other hand, she has demonstrated no interest."

Up to the middle of the month the Socialist party organization had sent about $25,000 into the copper mining district of Michigan to assist the strikers. It is this aid that caused Governor Ferris and other old-party politicians to charge that the miners' struggle is "a Socialist strike." It will be noticed that these political papsuckers not only did not contribute a penny toward keeping those workers and their wives and children from starving to death, but the brutal blackguards have done everything in their power to smash the strike and drive the miners still deeper into slavery. They have a nerve to talk about "a Socialist strike!" At that the Socialists have no apologies to offer to plutocrats and their tools for their activity in this or any other strike.

In England the Socialists are circulating this paragraph from a speech of Joseph Chamberlain with telling effect: "We want a government of the people, for the people, and by the people, in which all shall co-operate to secure for every man his natural rights, his right to existence and a fair enjoyment of it. I have learned not to be afraid of words that are flung in my face instead of argument. Of course it is Socialism, the poor law is Socialism, and the greater part of municipal work is Socialism, and every kindly act of legislation by which the community has sought to discharge its obligations and its responsibilities to the poor is Socialism. But it is none the worse for that."

It is reported from Rome that the Italian government's imperialistic plans for the further occupation of Lybia are going to have rough traveling in the Chamber of Deputies. The Socialist party has determined to hold mass meetings at which the project will be denounced and exposed as a curse to the working class. Thirty Socialist Deputies have registered in the Chamber as desiring to speak against the scheme. The sentiment against militarism is now running so strong that many of the government's supporters are becoming luke-warm in the matter of continuing the policy. They fear that their constituents will become converts to the doctrines expounded by the Socialists and drive them from office.

Heretofore Australian workers, like those in England, have paid little attention to municipal elections, limited powers of municipalities, etc. But this policy is changing. The recent municipal elections in Adelaide have been a great triumph for labor. Seats were gained in all sorts of unexpected places, and even in the wards which were supposed to be ultra-Conservative the outcome of the contests disclosed a distinct increase in the number who gave their support to the Labor party. In all 14 seats were won in the Council and the members are determined to carry out a progressive program. The Adelaide example is to be copied in other Australian cities and the Labor party will go in to capture everything in sight.



The question arises, has Standard Oil actively and officially joined the Socialist-smashing brigade? During the past few months ex-Senator Joseph B. Foraker, friend of "My Dear Archbold," father of the 50-year franchise steal and all around high class political crook, has been raving about Socialism and its destruction of American institutions and telling what a great patriot he is and hoping that somebody will hint that he ought to be nominated for Governor or Senator. Now comes ex-Senator Joe Bailey, the Standard's Southern leader, who was also well acquainted with "My Dear Archbold," and makes a speech before the Michigan Society of Chicago in which he handles Socialism without gloves and implies that he has a dread of monopoly—public monopoly, of course, not the private Standard brand. "Socialist," Bailey declared, "is monopoly run mad, and spells quicker death than monopoly. Radicalism is only a milder form of Socialism, a different stage of the same disease. The radical must either go on and become a Socialist or come back and become a conservative." There you have the whole philosophy of all the ages concentrated in a nutshell. For the people to democratise industry means quick death, says Hon. Bailey. So it does for political betrayers, corruptionists and numbskulls. That is why they are opposing Socialism so fiercely.—Cleveland (O.) Citizen.

PRESS COMMENT.

From Columbus, Ohio, comes the report that on February 8, 1914, W. C. Bates, a Socialist attorney, was fined and sentenced to jail for contempt of court by Judge Samuel L. Black. Why? First and foremost because Bates is associate editor of the Columbus SOCIALIST, a seven-barbed thorn in the flesh of Columbus plutocracy and its servile tools. On January 13, 1914, Judge Black, this dignified member of the judiciary, wrote a letter to E. C. Reichwald, Chicago. Here are some choice excerpts from his communication: "It is only necessary to glance at your letter and circular to learn that you are a lot of damn fools. . . . I am writing you and your coadjutors to begin your propaganda as threatened and then go plum to hell and take your propaganda with you." Bates published the letter—without Judge Black's permission. On February 6 the lawyer appeared in court to conduct a case upon which he had been regularly employed. Looking down from his perch on the bench Black snarled, "Is this another American home you are trying to break up?" To which Bates replied, "No,. Your Honor," and then proceeded with his case. Black broke in with, "If there is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel in this county, you are that scoundrel." He repeated this twice and Bates answered, "If there is another in this county, you are it." Whereupon the Socialist attorney was promptly locked up in the county jail charged with contempt of court.

When the news first reached me I was inclined to sympathize with Bates. But the longer I think it over the more I'm convinced that he got what he richly deserved for addressing Black as "Your Honor."

The Black-Bates case is based upon the individual spite of a judge.—Globe Trotter, St. Louis, Mo.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SOCIALISM.

1. Love your school fellows, who will be your fellow workmen in life.
2. Love learning, which is the food of the mind; be as grateful to your teacher as to your parents.
3. Make every day holy by good and useful deeds and kindly actions.
4. Honor good men, be courteous to all men, bow down to none.
5. Do not hate or speak evil of any one; do not be revengeful, but stand up for your rights, and resist oppression.
6. Do not be cowardly; be a friend to the weak, and love justice.
7. Remember that all the good things of the earth are produced by labor; whoever enjoys them without working for them is stealing the bread of the workers.
8. Observe and think in order to discover te truth; do not believe what is contrary to reason, and never deceive yourself or others.
9. Do not think that he who loves his own country must hate or despise other nations, or wish for war, which is a remnant of barbarism.
10. Look forward to the day when all men will be free citizens of one fatherland, and live together as brothers, in peace and righteousness.

WHY DON'T THEY LOOK IN THE RIGHT LPACE?

The capitalist press is making strenuous efforts to locate little Catherine Winters, who was reported kidnaped.

The spectacle of capitalist papers going into fits over this case is the limit.

They uphold a system of murder, rapine and anarchy, and then when the result of their system is seen, in the kidnaping of this little child, they throw a pious fit.

Who is responsible for the kidnaping of this child?

Answer — Capitalist newspapers, that uphold a system of robbery.

Although these papers profess to be terribly concerned in attempting to find this child, the whole thing is being pulled off by them simply for effect to boost the sales of their slimy sheets.

IF THEY WERE IN EARNEST THEY WOULD DEMAND THAT EVERY CONVENT BE TURNED INSIDE OUT, AS THIS CHILD IS PROBABLY BEHIND THESE WALLS HAVING HER LITTLE BODY GROUND UP INTO PROFIT, AND GOD ONLY KNOWS WHAT ELSE.

If capitalism has got you down so low that you can't afford to pay for a working class paper, you are certainly to be pitied. But you still can find money to pay for a non-union daily, owned and controlled by the corporations. This shows that you lack union principles. Better study unionism.

The big stall-fed preacher gets up and sings through his nose, "Salvation is free." Yet he must have five thousand dollars a year for telling the poor sinners to jog along to Jesus, most of whom are so poor they would have to start in their shirt tail or borrow a suit of second-hand clothes.

All the bright, intellectual young men I have talked with on the subject of war, say that they would rather fight it out at the ballot box than with bullets. Life, as poor as it is under existing conditions, is better than having their bodies put up as targets for other poor workingmen, who have no complaint against any one but the masters who are robbing them. The men who always do the fighting are becoming wise. If there are any great interests to protect let those who own the interests go to war and protect them. How does that appeal to you, brother?

SHALL SAM BLACK BE PERMITTED TO CONTINUE TO BREAK UP WORKING CLASS HOMES?

After Samuel L. Black, Probate Court, and Juvenile Court Judge of Franklin County, sentenced Comrade W. C. Bates, associate editor of this paper, to pay a fine of ten dollars and sent him to jail for alleged contempt of court, Local Columbus, Socialist Party, elected a committee of three to investigate the said Judge.

It will be remembered that, as explained before in these columns, Black, sitting on the bench as Judge of the Probate Court, went out of his way to deliberately insult and intimidate Bates, who was appearing before him in behalf of a client.

After Black had used the words "If there is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel in this county, you are it!" three times, Bates replied, "If there is another in this county, you are it!" for which he was locked up, and the case is now up to the Court of Appeals.

For the information of the public we desire to state that the Juvenile Court Judge IS APPOINTED BY THE COMMON PLEAS JUDGES, namely, Rathmell, Rodgers, Bigger, Kinkead, Evans and Dillon. They are responsible for his being in this position, and four of them will probably be up for re-election this fall.

It is to these Judges that the following petition has been handed, and, in their failing to act, petitions to recall Black as Probate Judge, which will also recall him as Juvenile Judge, will be gotten out immediately, and one of these petitions, as given below, will be put in the hands of every voter in this county.

The report of the committee, a copy of which has been handed the Common Pleas Judges, follows:

To the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio, and to All to Whom These Presents Come—Greeting:

WHEREAS, The laws of Ohio provide that the Judges of the Common Pleas Court are charged with the responsibility of appointing the Judge of the Juvenile Court of said County, and

WHEREAS, The Judges of said Common Pleas Court have seen fit to appoint one Samuel L. Black as such Judge of said Juvenile Court, and

WHEREAS, Said Samuel L. Black is not a fit person to fill said position and has brought said Court into disgrace and, to protect the good name and dignity of the Honorable Court of Common Pleas of our County, we feel called upon to make known to your Honorable body the facts upon which we request immediate action; therefore,

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, hold these truths to be self-evident, that whenever any Public Official of any Branch of Government becomes destructive to Life, obstructive to Freedom or a hindrance to the Pursuit of Happiness, it is the solemn duty of the people to RECALL such official, elect or appoint another, upon whom they can depend for humanity as well as to insure PEACE, SAFETY, FREEDOM and HAPPINESS.

EXPERIENCE, Observation and the Facts have shown that litigants and accused persons with their counsel have been long suffering, patient and prone to accept abuse rather than seek to Recall an elected or demand the Removal of an appointed official, even when that election was questionable. BUT, when a series of intended and flagrant insults to Counsel with abuse and tyranny towards litigants and accused persons and especially when profanity and vulgarity are continually heaped upon unoffending women and helpless children at every turn, evincing a determination to become Despotic and to reduce all to penury and shame for a well known and profit-sharing Institution upon whose head has fallen the curse of Nations, it is no longer MANLY, no longer GALLANT and no longer PATRIOTIC for citizens to stand idly by and, in servile cowardice, allow our wives to be blasphemed and humiliated and our children snatched from us only to be ground into DOLLARS in the Sweatshops and Factories of the Land.

THE HISTORY of the Juvenile Court of Franklin County, Ohio, under the Bigoted Tyrant, Samuel L. Black, is a book dripping with the tears of mothers, soiled with the innocent hands of babes and filthy with the lust for maiden-hood. To prove these things let facts be submitted to a patient but outraged people:

SPECIFICATIONS.

1. HE has been guilty of Gross Neglect of Duty, Gross Immorality and Drunkenness and thereby of MISCONDUCT IN OFFICE.

2. HE has been guilty of Misfeasance, Malfeasance and Non-feasance in Office and thereby guilty of MISCONDUCT IN OFFICE.

3. HE has importuned and cajoled the Legislature of the State into enacting the most atrocious juvenile laws ever spread upon a Statute Book.

4. HE has refused to exercise beneficent discretion in the enforcement of these laws.

5. HE has refused to recognize or permit Counsel to appear in behalf of their clients.

6. HE has refused the appointment of worthy and suitable citizens as Guardians, Executors and Administrators because of Political affiliation.

7. HE has thrust objectionable persons upon heirs, legatees and beneficiaries against their wish and detrimental to their financial interests because of political or religious favoritism.

8. HE has delayed appointments, refused settlements and harrassed the helpless for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his wishes.

MAKING HIS NAME BLACK

9. HE has insulted Counsel repeatedly for opposing, with manly frankness, his invasion of the rights of their clients.

10. HE has compelled resignations and removed Guardians, Administrators and Executors for no cause or trumped-up causes, and for a long time refused to appoint others in their stead, thus allowing estates to be consumed by added costs and litigation.

11. HE has obstructed the Administration of Justice by refusing to hear those in distress.

12. HE has made Guardians, Executors and Administrators dependent upon his will alone for their acceptance and the acceptance of their bonds.

13. HE has provided a horde of Juvenile Officers and sends swarms of such to spy out and spy upon our citizens that their costs may add to his coffers thereby increasing the public and confiscating their earnings.

14. HE has kept among us, in times of distress, over which we had no control, decoy sleuths to entrap unsophisticated and unsuspecting girls, searching for work, and summarily convicted and sentenced them to peonage in convent Sweatshop laundries.

15. HE has sent Catholic and Protestant girls alike, against their wish and the wishes of parents and guardians, to Convents.

16. HE has refused the custody of Children to respectable and suitable persons because of political or religious preferment.

17. HE has affected, tyrannously, to render the Court independent of and superior to the State and National Constitutions.

18. HE has compelled accused persons to incriminate themselves, contrary to the Constitutions of our State and Nation.

19. HE has deprived citizens of their Liberty and Property without due process of law and contrary to the Constitution of our State.

20. HE has denied accused persons the right to issue process for witnesses and refused to hear witnesses present in Court in their behalf.

21. HE has sought, and well nigh succeeded, in abridging free speech and a free press within his jurisdiction.

22. HE has subsidized certain publications within his jurisdiction in violation of decency and citizenship.

23. HE has sought to establish a profit-sharing alliance with the churches of all denominations and all charitable institutions.

24. HE has turned our Public Schools into recruiting grounds for profit-sharing Institutions and constantly makes arrests of children in attendance at school, to the grief and humiliation of the child and parent.

25. HE has sentenced girls to Convents and boys to the Boys' Industrial School and accepted pay for their release.

26. HE has sentenced accused persons to the Work House and demanded and received pay for their release.

27. HE has denied many persons equal protection of the law, contrary to our State and National Constitutions.

28. HE has deprived many accused persons of the right of trial by jury, contrary to our State and National Constitutions.

29. HE has imprisoned our citizens in unventilated Jails, reeking with filth and vermine contrary to law in such case made and provided.

30. HE has falsified the Court Records to make up commitment papers which would show on their face a crime had been committed when he was the real criminal.

31. HE has attempted to conspire with our Courts to prevent the Sacred Writ of Habeas Corpus from issuing in behalf of our Citizens.

32. HE is at this time conspiring to defeat the ends of JUSTICE that he may heap cruelty and perfidy upon the heads of innocent citizens.

33. HE has constrained our fellow citizens to become merciless persecutors of his victims, that he may make them easy prey at his hands.

34. HE has excited domestic trouble in respectable families for the sole purpose of BREAKING UP THE HOME so that he might "GET" the children.

35. HE has sentenced sane and intelligent persons to the State Hospital for the Insane for the sole purpose of intimidating them and coercing them into confessions of guilty or testifying to the guilt of others.

36. HE has sentenced sane and intelligent persons to the State Hospital for the Feeble-Minded for the sole purpose of intimidating and coercing them into submission to his will and to prevent them from exposing him and his cohorts of dastardly deeds.

37. HE has charged fees of Juvenile Court cases and duplicated the same cases and fees on the Probate Court records, thereby collecting double fees, contrary to law.

38. HE has collected money into his Court and failed to account for same to widows and starving children to whom it was due.

39. HE has sent his private servants to private houses and broken in and taken private property and given same to his cohorts.

40. HE has used the Court over which he presides to intimidate other Public Officials into obeying his dictates in the letting of Public Contracts in which he was interested.

41. HE has sentenced girls to the Convent of the Good Shepherd in this City, in which the Hershey-Rice Manufacturing Company have 63 Power Sewing Machines, in which Company HE is said to own stock.

42. HE has sentenced married women, wives of soldiers, to the Girls' Industrial School and released them only upon demand of the Governor of Ohio.

43. HE is reputed to own and receive rents and profits from Houses of Prostitution and has many times been hauled home late at night from said Houses in a Maudlin and Drunken condition.

44. HE has designedly joined Secret Societies for the sole purpose, and afterwards did, betray the secrets and workings of said Secret Society to its enemies and to persons not entitled to know the same, and then denied ever being a member.

To Local Columbus, Socialist Party, of Ohio:

WE, your Committee, duly elected and instructed to inquire into the Charges of Misconduct in Office of one Samuel L. Black, Judge, beg leave to submit the above, consisting of our Preamble and Forty-four Specifications, as our Report, and hereby certify that each of said Specifications can, in our opinion, be substantiated by an overwhelming array of witnesses.

Your Committee beg leave to recommend that the Propaganda Committee prepare such Petition as is authorized by law and present the same to the Judges of the Common Pleas Court of Franklin County, Ohio, respectfully but firmly demanding the Removal of Samuel L. Black as Judge of the Juvenile Court, and, upon refusal, to prepare and circulate such Petition as is authorized by law for the Recall of said Samuel L. Black as Judge of the Probate Court of Franklin County, Ohio.

E. B. EUBANKS,
M. C. GREEN,
J. M. SUDDICK,
Committee of Three.

Motion by J. M. Suddick, seconded by R. M. Woody, that the report and recommendation of the Committee be accepted and the Propaganda Committee be empowered and directed to proceed in the manner authorized by law to Remove Samuel L. Black as Judge of the Juvenile Court and Recall him as Judge of the Probate Court of said County.

G. W. CALVERT,
Chairman.
WALTER L. DAVIS,
Recording Secretary.

In substantiation of some of the above we herewith submit some affidavits out of many in our possession. At an early date others will be forthcoming unless the Common Pleas Judges act and remove this tyrant.

ONE OF THESE AFFIDAVITS QUOTES LANGUAGE USED BY SAM BLACK TO A WORKING-CLASS MOTHER WHICH IS SO FILTHY THAT WE INTEND TO SUBMIT IT TO THE POSTAL AUTHORITIES BEFORE MAILING, AND SEE IF IT CAN GO THROUGH THE MAILS.

We ask that you read this issue carefully and then hand it on to your neighbor. Spread the news. "The Socialist" is the only paper in this county that dares to print the truth, regardless of who it hits.

WE DARE TO DO BECAUSE WE KNOW WE HAVE THE GREAT WORKING CLASS BEHIND US.

AFFIDAVIT.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.:

J. W. CUNNINGHAM, being duly sworn, says he lives at No. 138 South Fourth street, Columbus, Ohio, a respectable neighborhood; that on November 6, 1913, while his daughter, Clara Cunningham, aged 17 years on March 20, 1914, was at work at Snyder, Chaffee Co., No. 29 West Gay street, one Miss Swain, a Juvenile Court Officer, called there and stated to his daughter that she wanted her to go to affiant's home with her; that instead of taking said daughter to affiant's home, said Swain deceived her and took her to the Detention Home and locked her up; that affiant nor any member of his family knew his daughter was arrested and he searched from 4:30 p. m. until about 8 o'clock before he knew what had become of her; that affiant, his wife and P. S. Truesdale then went to said Detention Home and tried to secure the release of said daughter but they were treated discourteously and had to leave, not even being given a chance to speak to or console said daughter; that said daughter was held in said prison until Saturday, November 8, 1913, when she was released to Mrs. C. C. Walcutt of Dublin avenue, where she still is; affiant says there was no formal charges placed against said daughter and no offense ever proven but that said Judge Black refused and still refuses to allow said child to return home; affiant says said daughter told him that during the time she was in said Detention Home she was accused of being a common character, being indecent with the boys and of being tampered with and all such filthy conversation by Miss Swain and Miss Murray in an effort to "hang something" on her so, as affiant believes, they could send his daughter to some convent.

Affiant says his daughter never had any company, was always at home of nights unless accompanied by some member of the family.

JACOB L. BACHMAN PLEADS FOR JUSTICE IN VAIN.

Affiant says at the pretended trial he was accompanied by Jacob L. Bachman as his Attorney, who tried to get a statement out of Judge Black as to what the said Clara was charged with but could not, and when said Bachman asked for her release because no offense had been charged or proven, said Black insulted affiant by saying, "You keep still, I have not asked you for advice," although affiant was saying nothing; that Charles P. Schneider, for whom affiant worked, tried to make a statement in behalf of said daughter and wanted to know why, if the girl was all right, she could not go home as the parents were hard-working, honest, respectable people, when Judge Black replied, "The law gives me the right to hold this girl and I am going to hold her."

JUVENILE COURT A CRIME-BREEDING INSTITUTION.

Affiant says to his positive knowledge and belief the JUVENILE COURT OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, under Sam Black, has, and is, making more criminals than it saves or reforms and should be abolished unless the law be changed or judiciously administered.

REPUBLICANS LOOSE SEVERAL VOTERS FOR HARBORING BLACK.

Affiant says he has usually voted the Republican ticket, but, since six Judges of the Common Pleas Court of Franklin County are responsible for the harboring of such a CREATURE as Sam Black on the Juvenile Court Bench, all the while knowing, as they must know, the facts, he cannot vote for nor support a Party who upholds such tyranny on the "Sacred Bench of Justice," and there is no other Party championing the Rights of the working class except the Socialist Party, so affiant has fully decided, with some of his friends, to cast his lot with the Socialist Party.

J. W. CUNNINGHAM.

AFFIDAVIT.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.:

ADDIE SANDS, residing at No. 1260 Michigan avenue (a highly respectable neighborhood), being first duly sworn, deposes and says she is the mother of four children—Isabel, Stanley, Howard and Bessie.

DAUGHTER HUMILIATED AND DISGRACED IN SCHOOL.

Affiant says that on March 21, 1912, while affiant was sick officers from the Juvenile Court came to the First Avenue School and took her said daughter, Bessie, away from said School and took her to the Juvenile Court, where she was detained in the Detention Home on East Mound street; that affiant was not notified of her daughter's arrest until 9 o'clock p. m. that night, and affiant was nearly crazy with grief about her said daughter, and in her sick condition looked all over the neighborhood for her said child, until finally at said 9 o'clock at which time she was notified to appear in Juvenile Court on the following day.

TOO SICK TO ATTEND COURT.

Affiant was so sick and prostrated over the disappearance of her daughter that she could not attend Juvenile Court next day and her husband, William Sands, went in her place; that to this day affiant has been unable to find out what charge was placed against her daughter although she has tried no less than four times to find out and that she only knows in a general way from the neighbors that a man named Carter, a clerk in a Grocery Store in the community of the First Avenue School, had enticed her said daughter and others into the back room of said Grocery and taken improper liberties with them when they went in there to buy candy.

VIRGINIA M. MURRAY REFUSES TO EXPLAIN.

Affiant says she has tried repeatedly to get Virginia M. Murray to come to affiant's house and explain what her daughter was charged with and to see what kind of a house she lived in and how she kept house and the kind of neighbors she had, but said Virginia M. Murray has always refused to call.

SENSIBLE CHILD CONFINED WITH IDIOTS.

Affiant says that after said trial her daughter was taken back to the Dentention Home and kept there until the Monday following Easter Sunday, 1912; that on Monday following Easter Sunday her said daughter, Bessie, was taken from the Juvenile Court to the Institution for Feeble Minded, where she now is still detained with simple, slobbering idiots, although she is and was at the time of her commitment a sensible child, doing nicely in school, and that there has never been any member of their family afflicted with feeble-mindedness.

DOCTORS SAY BESSIE IS INTELLIGENT.

Affiant says Mrs. Emerick, wife of Dr. Emerick, who is Superintendent of the Institution for Feeble Minded, told affiant that the Juvenile Court officers gave them the impression that the child, Bessie, had never been to school when in fact she was in school when arrested; that Dr. J. A. McClure, affiant's family physician, states that there is absolutely nothing the matter with her daughter, Bessie, and that she should not be confined in said Institution; that her said daughter has to get her out of said institution; that when affiant goes over to see her daughter the attendants will not allow her to talk to her own flesh and blood alone but snoops around to hear all that is said; that affiant has a good home awaiting her child and she and her husband have always provided a good home for their children, living in respectable neighborhoods and providing in abundance, but in spite of this a MONSTER sitting on the Bench as JUDGE has seen fit, for some unaccountable reason, to BREAK UP ANOTHER AMERICAN HOME and atthe same time shield and screen the man who, if the said child did go wrong, was responsible for the wrong.

SLIMY TOOL OF CAPITALISM SCOTT FREE.

Affiant says the man CARTER mentioned above in this affidavit, who was responsible for the depravity mentioned herein, was allowed by Judge SAMUEL L. BLACK to go scott free and in so doing the innocent made to suffer while the GUILTY enjoys the freedom of society, for what reason affiant is at a loss to guess unless said Judge Black had financial reasons for so doing.

ANOTHER DASTARDLY DEED.

Affiant says Judge Black has further aided in the breaking up of their home by arresting her son, Howard, aged 13 years, when arrested with two other boys 16 years of age, by Juvenile Officers about four years ago, and charged him with stealing a bicycle, which was not true, as her son had a wheel of his own, which he had worked and paid for; that he was taken before Judge Sam Black, and when the case came up for trial next day Judge Black refused to allow affiant to testify in behalf of her own son, motioning her away every time she tried to say anything; that the other boys were released but that affiant's son, Howard, was sent by said Judge Black to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Ohio; that the same morning in Court, while sitting on the "Sacred Bench of Justice," JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK told Mrs. Strauser, mother of one of the boys, to "Take a baseball bat and knock her husband in the head with it," which language, affiant thinks, is hardly appropriate for a JUDGE to use from the Bench, especially to a woman; that before her son was brought to Lancaster a Juvenile Officer brought her son, Howard, to see her, as she was sick; that Miss Wise, at that time one of the Juvenile Officers, had been detailed to bring the boy to see his mother but that Miss Wise, being a noble-hearted woman, could not stand to see an innocent young child separated from his mother and would not take him, and that she afterwards resigned her position rather than do so and be compelled to witness all the brutality carried on in said court.

AGAIN HOUNDED BY JUVENILE SLEUTHS.

Affiant says her son, Howard, served one year and three days (three days over-time, allowing nothing for good time); that after he returned home [illegible] COURT OF BOYS hounded him, dogged him and spied upon him, for about two weeks, when affiant sent said son to get himself a suit of long clothes; that while on the way to attend to that business he was arrested by one of these SPIES and sent to the Juvenile Court and kept in the Detention Home for two days; that soon again he was taken before Judge Black, charged with robbing a cigar store, from which charge he was released after being deprived of his liberty several days.

AGAIN THE GUILTY ESCAPE AND THE INNOCENT SUFFER.

Affiant says that about a month after, the said SPIES once more arrested affiant's son and charged him with being up along the river and buying liquor for a minor, although the boys with him were older than he, and as affiant now firmly believes were decoy boys put out by said Juvenile Court or its officers to entrap her son.

JUVENILE COURT OFFICIAL DELIBERATELY LIES.

Affiant says on the morning of the trial affiant went down to Juvenile Court and an officer of said Court told her that her son had been sent to Lancaster, which was a bold lie, as her son was at that time in the County Jail, locked up with hardened criminals.

SAM BLACK AND VIRGINIA MURRAY REFUSED TO TALK TO MOTHER.

Affiant says she tried to get to talk to Judge Black and Miss Murray but both refused to talk to her; that she then demanded a trial by jury for her son; that she then went over to the County Jail to see her son and the Sheriff told her that Judge Black was out to dinner and for her to come back about 1:30 o'clock; that when affiant went back she was informed that her son had been sent to Lancaster; that he had not been allowed to finish his dinner but had been hurried away in order to prevent affiant from seeing him and preventing a jury trial.

THE WICKED ESCAPED—WAS IT FOR TRIBUTE?

Affiant says she has been told and believes that other boys were put on the trail of her son, Howard, and that they induced him to go with them to get, and, as she is told, did get some whiskey from a saloon on High street, and that as soon as affiant learned of the facts she filed affidavits against said saloonkeepers in said Juvenile Court but that said JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK neglected and refused to prosecute said saloonkeepers and has to this day so refused.

JUDGE BLACK BREAKS UP OTHER AMERICAN HOMES.

Affiant says she has heard of many other cases where said Judge Sam Black has broken up the American Home and that as far as she has been able to learn it is always the homes of the WORKING CLASS which he has attacked, and that from all appearances no WORKING CLASS HOME IS SAFE from the clutches of this INHUMAN WRETCH and that it is time for the WORKING CLASS to unite under the Banner of the Socialist Party and put an end to such atrocious outrages, and further affiant saith not.

AFFIDAVIT.

State of Ohio, Franklin County, ss.:

H. A. SCHUMACHER, being first duly sworn, says he lives at No. 882 Thomas avenue, Columbus, Ohio; that he has been employed on the Hocking Valley Railroad for seventeen years past; that on May 18, 1912, David Snyder came to affiant on the N. E. corner of High and Rich streets, and said that affiant and Officer Davidson had been inquiring at to what said Snyder and Frank Meier did at their (meaning at affiant's home) home or nights; affiant replied that was right as he had inquired; that Snyder then said, "I have a character, I have." Affiant replied, "It must be a good one if you prowl about other peoples' homes at midnight"; Snyder said, "I was never around your house at midnight," and affiant said, "You was," and asked him if he remembered the night two shots were fired at him; that affiant said, "You pretend to be a friend of mine, you are a snake in the grass, keep away from me, the further you keep away from me the better"; that Snyder then said, "I'll keep away from you now but I'll fix you," and that on the following Monday, May 20, 1912, said Snyder swore out a lunacy warrant for affiant, H. A. Schumacher, before Samuel L. Black; that on Wednesday, May 22, 1912, affiant was examined by Dr. Gaver and another, whom he has forgotten, appointed by said Black, which examination consisted of the following: Said Doctors asked affiant if he knew said Snyder and affiant answered yes; they asked if Snyder annoyed affiant and he said yes, he prowls about my house at night and opens gates and turns my stock out; they asked if Snyder harmed the stock and affiant replied yes, he and others blinded a mare for me by throwing some acid or vitrol in her face, and while affiant was away at work of nights they would fire off guns to frighten affiant's wife and stock; and so ended the first examination; whereupon affiant inquired what are you going to do in this case, to which said Doctors answered, "We will leave that up to Judge Black."

Affiant says that on Thursday, May 23, 1912, A. H. Martin (brother-in-law of affiant) took three hours and a Holstein cow from the home of affiant to the home of said Martin and then called on affiant at the County Jail and asked if there was anything he could do for affiant, when affiant told him to get C. D. Saviers, Attorney, to come to see him at the jail; that said Martin returned the same day with an Attorney other than C. D. Saviers, when affiant stated the case to said Attorney he said he would see that affiant did not go to an asylum; that on the same day the wife of affiant said she called on Judge Black and asked to have their family physician, Dr. Frank McCafferty, and Dr. C. Sharp to make an examination of affiant, which request was refused, saying, "We don't have them kind of Doctors here, we have experts and specialists;" that on Friday, May 24, 1912, Dr. Geo. Stockton and W. D. Deutschle made a pretended examination by holding one hand under the knee of affiant's left leg and then struck his leg on top just below the kneecap with a toy tommy-hawk, but not hitting the sensitive cord or tendon the foot did not fly up as is usual; they then put one hand under the right leg at the knee and struck the leg on top as before and accidentally hit the sensitive tendon after some efforts and the foot flew up, and without any further examination these Doctors pronounced affiant weak-minded and insane; that this is the same Dr. W. D. Deutschle who is now Member of the Board of Education of Columbus, Ohio; that on the same day affiant was taken before Judge Black, where he met said Henry Gumble and tried to tell him the facts of his case and said Gumble became indignant and ordered affiant to sit down; that said Snyder was called to witness stand and asked by Judge Black why he got this lunacy warrant out for affiant and Snyder then related the above facts and said he thought a man who would talk so about him, Snyder, was crazy, and this was all the testimony of said Snyder; that the wife of affiant took the stand and stated that said Snyder had prowled about their home at night, injured their stock and otherwise annoyed them; that said wife told the Court affiant was not insane and was a hard-working and losing husband; that Dr. George Stockton then remarked, "That those people both tell the same story, I am sure they are not both crazy"; then is when said attorney remarked, "Society must be protected, we cannot allow him to run this way"; that said attorney charged affiant $45.00 for thus acting as his counsel and this charge is on file in the case of record; the legal ethics of which affiant cannot quite understand.

Affiant says he was then taken to the State Hospital, where he was held until Wednesday, September 4, 1912, at which time he was released on sixty days' trial at the home of said Martin, where affiant's wife had been taken; that on Sunday, May 26, 1912, said Martin, Edward Brandt and Charles Keller (the last two sons-in-law of said Martin) removed all the household goods from affiant's home into a shed, where some of it remains to this day rotting; that on Monday, May 27, 1912, said Martin and hired man personally removed buggy, sacks, harness and about a dozen chickens to his home at No. 555 Southwood avenue; that on Wednesday, May 29, 1912, said Martin was appointed Guardian of the person and property of affiant; that on Monday, November 4, 1912, affiant reported at State Hospital and Dr. C. F. Gilliam asked affiant if those parties annoyed him or [illegible] and affiant replied, I [illegible] time ago on that matter." Dr. Gilliam then said to said Martin, "You see how he stands on that matter," and said Martin asked, "What are you going to do with him, keep him here?" Dr. Gilliam answered, "No, he can go and when the time comes I will discharge him"; that on January 4, 1913, affiant was discharged from said Hospital for the reason, as affiant was told by his Attorney, that the State had held affiant as long as the law allowed without proof of insanity; that before arrested his home property was worth about $10,000.00; affiant had 12½ acres on West Mound street, west of Central avenue, with six-room house, barn and good outbuildings, and his personal property was worth about $2,000.00; that there was only $2,600.00 indebtedness on said property, but when he was discharged affiant had no personal property left and the real estate was mortgaged for over $3,000.00; that affiant has had to call upon his friends, Wm. Trappe and others, to get enough goods together to keep house, and that affiant's wife died about two weeks ago, largely of grief over these outrages; that during the last days of affiant's wife's life affiant had to accept aid from charitable people for her comfort.

Affiant says before these outrages were perpetrated by Judge Black, Henry Gumble and Wm. D. Deutschle and others he could borrow and has in his possession nineteen notes proving he could borrow any sum of money from $100.00 to $1,000.00 of the Banks of Columbus on his personal note with not a single name as surety; but that since his arrest he cannot get recognition at any Bank in Columbus.

HOW SMALL IS A "SCAB"

A good story is going the rounds which sizes up the "scabs" at the Federal Glass plant about right.

There was once an individual accep d work, taking the place of strikers at a plant where the men were out on rike for better conditions. After working there some time, he began to see himself in his true light and quit. He went out West and secured work on a ranch. One day the boss came around and told him to go to the next ranch, which was several miles away, and attend to some business. As there were no horses handy, the former scab started to walk. On his return journey, a terrible storm overtook him. The wind howled and the rain fell in torrents.

Looking about him for a place of shelter, he noticed a big tree with a hole in it just large enough for him to crawl through. Accordingly, he took refuge in this hollow tree and waited for the storm to abate. After several hours, the elements once more becoming quiet, he decided to leave his retreat, but behold, the rain had so swelled the tree that the hole which admitted him would not permit of his egress. After vain attempts to squeeze himself out into liberty, he gave himself up for lost.

After he had resigned himself to die, there flashed through his mind all of the dirty, contemptible tricks that he had done in his past life. Standing out boldly from all the others was the dirty trick he had played on the workingmen and their families by his act of "scabbing." The more he thought of it, the smaller he felt and he finally felt so small that he crawled out of the hole without any difficulty.

If the scabs at the Federal were men enough to see themselves as others see them, they would be small enough to go through the eye of a needle.

The strikers have received a raise in their strike benefits from six dollars to nine dollars per week. Still higher benefits will be paid later on.

The quarterly report of the Flint Glass Workers' Union shows nearly one hundred and ninety thousand dollars on hand.

When Local No. 122 went out on strike, nearly a year ago, the National Organization had on hand only one hundred and sixty-five thousand, which shows that the boys will be able to stick it out forever, if necessary.

The scabs are being taken away every week and shipped out of town, and if Beatty don't settle soon, he will be up against it for fair.

Never did things look brighter for the Union than at the present time.

Our forefathers whipped King George for oppressing them. We allow English lords to rob our state of its wealth, and lend them our courts and soldiers to do the job. Wise guys, we!

SOCIALIST INSURANCE.

Socialism is the greatest insurance company in the world. It costs you no premiums.

It will greatly increase your revenue.

It will insure you access to land.

It will insure you a job wherever you are.

It will insure your children an education.

It will insure your old age from want.

It will insure you opportunity to do the thing you might desire.

It will insure you a good home.

It will insure you the full social value of the product of your toil.

It will insure you against the natural calamities, such as floods and drouths, by distributing the loss among everybody.

It will insure sanitary and agreeable working conditions.

It will insure leisure as well as work for man and woman.

The policy is the ballot, properly applied.

THE NEW CHARTER.

Capitalist papers are making strenuous efforts to convince the people that they should adopt the new charter as passed by the Charter Commission.

While we have not the space in this issue to discuss the matter from the viewpoint of the working class, we will have something to say later on. In the meantime, just remember that the provision made for filling the offices will not go into effect until 1916, and they are going to hold a special election in May, at an expense on the taxpayers of $10,000, when the vote on the matter could be taken at the August primary or the regular election in November, without any added expense.

Why are they so anxious to rush things through?. It is because they are figuring on pulling off a rotten deal on the people, before they have had time to fully investigate.

CELEBRATE THE PARIS COMMUNE

The Young People's Socialist League will give an entertainment in honor of the Paris Commune next Sunday, March 15, at 8 p. m., at the Federation Hall. Short dramas, dialogues, recitations and a musical program have been arranged, assisted by the German Socialist Glee Club. Don't forget the date.

Revolutions are necessary because the chains of superstitution, ignorance, tradition and convention are pulling back on the course of evolutionary progress. A revolution is simply a hamestring broken. That's all.

ers ain'd got no dough, ven a schmart keptallist apologizer busted in und blamed der hull pitzines on der tariff, so vot's der use?—N. Y. Call.

The "social unrest" is not due to agitators, but to capitalist conditions that are agitating every man and woman who thinks.

When the worker gets the full social value of his toil, a good education will be a possibility.

Line up with the Socialists or you will be driven down by capitalism. On which side are you?

If you do not believe in dividing up, vote for the Socialist party. It is the only party that does not stand for private ownership of public industries and thus force you to divide up with the other fellow. Socialism proposes to stop this dividing up game.

THE NEW FREEDOM.

Roses are sweet under another name, and slavery is slavery under any other title. A half year of the new freedom finds us in just as bad circumstances as ever obtained under the old freedom. The truth of the matter is that there is something radically wrong which can not be altered by mere changes of administration. Panics are not wrought by presidents, whatever party they may belong to, nor are they cured by individuals.

The voter has yet to learn that to change a radical evil you must have a radical cure. High tariff, low tariff—after all these do not go to the root. So long as there is exploitation of labor for profit, so long will there be misery. Call it by what name you will, Democracy, Republicanism, Progressivism, if the party does not attack the capitalist system, no individual can be of avail in remedying the curse.

A vote for the old parties is a vote for the old condition. A vote for Socialism is a vote for the abolition of the wage system and the inauguration of the Co-operative Commonwealth, where public necessities will be run by the public, for the public, with exploitation forever eliminated.

You cannot bear chains and call yourself a free man, you cannot allow others to rule your thoughts and at the same time claim to be an independent thinker. You cannot advocate democracy and submit to the despotism of any established authority arrogating to itself the right to govern the economic, political, intellectual and moral life of the people. You cannot at the same time live up to the Golden Rule, and attempt to crush your neighbor by fierce competition. You cannot live a Christian life, and at the same time exploit your fellow-Christians or other men.

People all over the United States going hungry and without proper clothing and shelter because they have produced too much. Hey, think of it! We have heard of people starving when there was nothing to eat—but starving when there is too much to eat—think of it. And such after having pounded the pulpits for nearly two thousand years with "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." It begins to look as though there is something wrong with the church oratory. The doctrine is certainly all right.

THE RECALL.

Mike—Do yez belfeve in the recall of judges, Pat?

Pat—That I do not. The last time I was put before his honer he sez: "I recall that face. Sixty days." I am agin the recall of judges.—Life.

The prototype of Balaam's famous ass is seen in the modern human jackass who has heard the still small voice of reason and has about decided to "pitch" the flabby capitalistic Balaam and make him walk.

For a whole solid hour the captain had been lecturing his men on "The Duties of a Soldier," and he thought that now the time had come for him to test the results of his discourse.

Casting his eye around the room he fixed on Private Murphy as his first victim.

"Private Murphy," he asked, "why should a soldier be ready to die for his country?"

The Irishman scratched his head for a while; then an ingratiating and enlightening smile flitted across his face. "Sure, captain," he said pleasantly, "you're quite right. Why should he?"

A PROSTITUTED JUDGE

"The Socialist" has been investigating the records in the Probate Court of Franklin County, presided over by Sam L. Black. It has been reported, and in fact is common gossip among some of the attorneys practicing at the court house, that Sam Black has certain political friends to whom he hands out rich, juicy melons in the way of guardianships and administrations of estates.

"The Socialist" has found that Joy H. Hunt has been appointed administrator of seventeen estates and eleven guardianships in recent months.

Sime rich picking, hey? "The Socialist" also knows of one particular case where the litigant in the case asked for a certain party as administrator and as quick as Sam Black, through questioning, discovered he was a Socialist refused to appoint him.

The litigant then asked for another party, and as he don't belong to the same branch of democracy as Black he also got turned down, and Sam Black appointed Joy Hunt although the litigant never seen or heard of him before.

How do you attorneys like it? May be some of you mush headed workers who voted for Sam Black don't believe it. It's public record, go down to the court house and have a look.

SOCIALISM.

Briefly, Socialism will accomplish this:

It will give every worker the full value of the product of his labor.

It will reduce the hours of labor in proportion to the increased power of production.

It will do away entirely with child labor.

It will do away with the landlord, the lend lord, and the capitalist.

It will give employment to all who desire at remunerative pay.

It will pension the old.

It will do away with charity and give the people justice.

It will abolish poverty, want, destitution and the poorhouse.

It will permit every member of society to develop the highest and best there is in him.

It will do away with class legislation.

It will prevent strikes and lockouts.

It will make it possible for the people to make or reject laws for their government according to the principles of the initiative and referendum.

It will do away with the trusts by making them the property of the whole people, to be operated for the benefit of the whole people instead of for the benefit of a few rich men.

It will do away with private ownership of street railways, lighting plants, and all other public service plants, and make them public property to be operated for public benefit.

It will bring about the collective ownership of railroads, coal mines, iron mines, oil wells, gas wells, the ships, the forests, the lakes, the rivers, the canals, the telegraphs and the telephone system.

It will make labor saving machines a blessing to mankind instead of a curse.

It will eliminate not only the poor idler, but the rich idler as well, both of whom are now supported by society.

It will introduce a social and an industrial system which will put an end to all forms of usury—rent, interest and profit.

It will do away with armies organized for destructive purposes, and organize armies for constructive purposes.

It will remove the fear of want and poverty, and make this earth a paradise.

It will prevent crime and criminals.

It will encourage study, invention, exploration and art.

Socialism is what every one wants as soon as they know what it is. The reason why it is opposed by many is because they won't read.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

We are getting ready to take you out and show YOU A GOOD TIME ON

THURSAY, MAY 14, AT SMITH'S PARK

For information, ask us about it
GEORGE A. DANIELS and "JAKE" E. BLOCK

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

Next Tuesday evening Comrade James Hollingsworth fills a return engagement at Socialist Hall, 121½ East Town street. Drop everything and be sure and come, and bring your friends along. Comrade Hollingsworth is without doubt one of the greatest propagandists in the movement. Don't forget next Tuesday evening. Admission free.

Tomorrow (Sunday) evening the Y. P. S. L. gives an entertainment at headquarters (Socialist Hall), 121½ East Town street. Every body invited. A good time for all. Don't fail to come out. Encourage the young folks, and help them along. Some one will go away from the hall the possessor of a big $25.00 doll. Don't forget the date, tomorrow (Sunday) evening, March 15.

Activity in Local Columbus is very manifest. Keep your dues paid to date in order to assist in the plans for a big campaign.

STATE.

This office is in receipt of a marked copy of the New York Call, in which a letter was written to the editor in reference to Jacob S. Coxey, candidate for nomination on the S. P. ticket for Governor. This letter claims that Coxey is not a Socialist, and sights certain things Coxey has said to prove the claim.

The spectacle of Murray Youty sending out letters to the locals boosting Coxey for the nomination is the limit, and has killed any chances for Coxey's nomination, if he ever had any.

At meeting of Local Dayton, held by Comrade Charles E. Russell, last week, a collection of $106.00 was taken up and turned over to the Miami Valley Socialist to be used for putting farmers in that district on the sub list.

Jack London, the novelist, is being boosted as the prospective candidate for Governor of California on the Socialist ticket. It is claimed that the Prohibitionists would support him, but that is denied by London's friends as well as the Prohibs.

Milwaukee Socialists are chuckling because the "non-partisan" Republican, Democratic and Bull Moose bunch in control of the City Hall are being called upon to explain why, while they defeated the Socialists two years ago upon the issue of taxation and economy, they spent over $2,000,000 more than the "extravagant Reds." The explanations of the fusionists don't explain.

"From Dusk to Dawn," the Socialist photo play by Frank Wolfe, of Los Angeles, has become famous in North Dakota because of the action of the city officials in Minot in prohibiting it from being shown. No reason was given for the censorship. The film was shown at Velva the following night to a packed house, many of whom came as a result of the advertising given the pictures by the Minot officials.

A funny situation has arisen at Streator, Ill., which city the Socialists stand a good chance of carrying next month. The State primary law of Illinois was changed at the last election, reducing the length of time in which to file petitions to place candidates on the ballot. At Streator the Socialists were the only people who seemed to be aware of the change and were the only candidates whose names went on the ballot. Voters for other parties will be forced to write the names of their candidates on the ballot, and to prevent the Socialists from sweeping the city, all the other parties will probably be combined on a slate.

Here is a bit of Socialistic exemplification under capitalism that may serve as a lesson in a way:

Klingenberg, a town in Southern Germany, on the River Main, not only supplies every resident with well-paid work and relieves him of all his municipal and State taxes, but gives him an annual allowance of $400 for pin money with occasional gifts for holiday celebrations. The fortunes of Klingenberg, which has about 1,700 inhabitants, are founded upon its deposits of clay, which on account of its fire-resisting properties is widely exported, particularly to the United States. The deposits are worked by the municipality directly at an annual profit of $100,000, and every Klingenberger is entitled to a position as miner. The fortnightly payday is observed as a holiday, without a detriment to the regular German holidays, on which an extra payment of $1 to $1.25 is made to every citizen to enable him to celebrate properly. To prevent the flooding of this ideal place of residence by Germans from all parts of the Empire, it has been found necessary to limit rights of citizenship. No one is admitted without payment of $425 to the municipal treasury. More favorable terms are granted, however, to men taking wives in the town. Repeated efforts have been made by "enterprising" capitalists to obtain control of the clay mines, just as their tribe have gobbled up coal mines and other mineral and valuable lands all over the world but the Klingenbergers have merely laughed at them and gone ahead and "destroyed incentive" and "individual initiative." No statistics are published by European papers as to the number of homes that were wrecked by this socialistic defiance of capitalistic religion that private profit is a little tin god to be duly worshipped by all loyal and patriotic humans.—Cleveland Citizen.

PUBLIC OPINION.

This office is in receipt of letters from nearly every section of the U. S. commending us for our determination to stand firm and test this case out and see if this is Russia or the United States. Extracts from the following letters are typical of others on file.

Mt. Sterling, O.—Trust this affair will start the ball rolling that will eventually push Black off his high seat—and off his feet e'er he trample others.

Pinellas Park, Fla.—Dear Comrade Bates: I wish to commend you for your heroism and bravery in defending the solemn principles of the working class by you personally undergoing such fortitude inflicted by the tools of the master class. Such noble men as you should inspire a nation. It must be that whiskey has caused Judge Black to lose his bearings.

You should be ashamed to be a wage-slave.

As long as the world has masters, it also has slaves. One implies the other.

With the above as a standard, Bone-Head, which are you, Master or Slave?

You wage-slaves can become masters of your own lives next November. A Socialist ballot will do it.

But then if you would cast a Socialist ballot and the Socialist ticket not be elected, "you would lose your vote." John Boneheaded, you are a joke.

How can you lose your vote by voting for something that would benefit you and your family? Try and think it out.

Every Socialist ballot cast by a workingman means a vote against the insufferable and intolerable conditions under which he is compelled to work. Stand up like a man next November and be counted.

You have voted Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose tickets and where are you? You are like the colored man, you are getting "no whar" fast. Elect the Socialist Ticket in this county next November and note how this county will be governed scientifically in the interest of the working class.

With Zimpfer in Congress the working class in this district will for the first time in their lives be represented in that body.

Not only will Zimpfer represent the working class in this District but he will represent the workers of the United States.

How are you ex-Panhandle wage-slaves feeling by this time? Last fall your belly was full of cheap grub and your noodles empty. We don't like to think of anyone being hungry, but we sincerely hope that this spell of "short rations" and "no rations" will put something into that cranium of yours so that next November you will vote your own class ticket.

Revolt at the ballot box, Workers. There's where you have the Masters beaten ten to one.

Aren't you about sick of this farce comedy the Democrats and the Republicans are pulling off, calling each other liars, thieves and crooks. And they are all telling the truth about each other. How can you, as a self-respecting member of the working class, regardless of your race, color or religion, vote their dirty scab tickets. Avoid them like you would the pestilence and vote for your own class.

"When all mankind can have for the use of those who toil all that the toilers produce, poverty will move off the earth and the relations of mastery and servitude will disappear forever." —Walter Thomas Mills.

Our civilization is on trial. Envy, pride, greed, gluttony, vice, hate, slavery, war, idleness, crime, ignorance and poverty are all witnesses against it.

FIGHTING FOR POLITICAL LIFE, JUDGE BLACK ARRESTS SOCIALISTS FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

Last week, this paper published A PUBLIC DOCUMENT containing forty-four charges against Judge Samuel L. Black seeking to have him removed as Judge of the Juvenile Court of this County.

This document had been filed with the Common Pleas Judges AND WAS A MATTER OF PUBLIC RECORD, comments on which had been made by capitalist papers before it appeared in "The Socialist."

The report in the first place was made by a committee of three elected by Local Columbus Socialist Party and their report was unanimously accepted by that body and THE PROPAGANDA COMMITTEE (a committee other than those arrested) was ordered to proceed to recall Black as Juvenile and Probate Court Judge in the manner prescribed by law.

Comrade H. G. Creel says that "nothing hurts but the truth and that don't hurt unless it hits." It appears that we have got under some one's hide because last Saturday this public official, Samuel L. Black, who seems to think that the people, (especially Socialists), have not the right to criticise their public servants, appeared in Police Court and swore out warrants charging Comrades W. C. Bates, E. B. Eubank, M. C. Green, and J. M. Suddick, with criminal libel.

When this is written the case is set for Thursday the day on which we go to press, and we are therefore unable to state in this issue what the outcome is likely to be. We have hundreds of witnesses to prove our charges and they are still coming.

In this public document as handed to the Common Pleas Judges asking for Black's removal as Juvenile Judge, are forty-four specifications. Out of the forty-four charges, Black only denies twenty of them in his affidavit. By doing so, does he admit that the other twenty-four are true?

The only ones he claims are libelous are the following specifications: No. 1, 6, 8, 10, 15, 20, 25, 26, 27, 30, 31, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 43. The OTHER TWENTY-FOUR HE DOES NOT MENTION. WHY?

To prove one of these charges it is probable that a witness will be brought here on a certain Bancroft one thousand dollar deal.

Our Comrades who have been arrested ask nothing and expect nothing. Jails and prisons have no terrors for us.

The working class build the jails and then fill them. IF BY SACRIFICING FREEDOM UPON THE ALTAR OF LIBERTY FOR THE ATROCIOUS ACT OF ATTEMPTING TO RIGHT FLAGRANT WRONGS WE MUST GO TO JAIL, WELL AND GOOD.

This will be the beginning of the end of capitalist rule in this country. Comrade Debs has said that "THERE ARE TIMES WHEN A PRISON CELL BECOMES A SHRINE." Those who love humanity and those who struggle for liberty have all through the ages been sacrificed upon the altar of the master class.

Would you workers arouse yourselves and support your own class, those who fight your battles would not be in constant danger.

The action of Sam Black is a repetition of what happened in Milwaukee. After Victor Berger had been arrested and sued several times because of his determination to expose corruption, the working class in Milwaukee woke up and captured the city and sent Berger to Congress.

Our cases here are now in the Court of Last Resort. THAT COURT IS THE COURT OF THE COMMON PEOPLE. It is their fight. WITH THEIR HELP WE WILL FIGHT ON AND ON UNTIL EVERY VESTIGE OF DESPOTISM AND DESPOTIC POWER LIES CRUMBLING IN THE DUST.

YOUR GREATEST HELP IN THIS FIGHT WILL BE TO KEEP THE SUBSCRIPTION LIST RISING.

THE PEOPLE ARE OPENING THEIR EYES.

RESOLUTION.

To Whom it May Concern:

RESOLVED, by CUSTER COUNCIL No. 29, Jr. O. U. A. M., That, if, the charges filed with the Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio, be proven against Samuel L. Black, Judge of the Juvenile Court, we demand the removal of said Judge.

We strongly condemn the arresting of children while in attendance at school on account of the humiliation brought on said children by such a method and ask that more humane methods be adopted in said court in order that there may be an uplifting of a degrading influence wrought upon those brought before said Court.

CHAS. E. HEERY, Councilor.
S. O. GIFFIN, Secretary Pro Tem.

WORKERS TO THE RESCUE.

WHEREAS four of our Comrades have been charged and arrested for certain alleged offenses and,

WHEREAS, these charges and arrests were but the result of their loyalty in executing the instructions issued to them by Local Columbus Socialist Party and,

WHEREAS, the determination of the prosecution to convict these Comrades is very evident it will be necessary that they have the very best counsel that can be provided, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED that we the Socialists of Columbus and its vicinity, AND ALL their sympathizers in Mass Meeting Assembled this 17th day of March, 1914, feel that the injustice done them is an injustice to us. THAT THEIR TRIAL WILL BE OUR TRIAL,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that we assure these Comrades of our moral support by keeping posted on the situation at all times, ever on the alert for a new attack by the enemy, and FURTHER OF OUR FINANCIAL SUPPORT, by generously contributing to a fund set aside for the purpose of financing their defense.

THE ABOVE WAS UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED BY THE MEETING. At this meeting 13 new applications were received, over one hundred new subs taken to the Socialist and $24.00 taken up for the defense fund.

THIS DEFENSE FUND IS NOW VERY IMPORTANT. Regardless of where you live send in your contribution, and it will be used to defend our working class Comrades. SEND ALL CONTRIBUTIONS TO DEFENSE FUND, TO W. E. BUES, ROOM 68, 101 NORTH HIGH STREET.

WOMAN'S DAY IS ON THE WAY

By Eugene V. Debs.

The observance of Woman's Day on March 19th ought to be co-extensive with the socialist movement in which it had its origin, and on that day it should be made clear by all the means at our command that Woman's Day is on the way and that not only the vote is to be her's the same as the man's, but every other right, privilege and opportunity essential to her entire freedom her equal responsibility, and her highest attainable development.

The mere vote is not the end but only the means and of minor importance, compared to the great social transformation in the accomplishment of which the vote is but the one of the instrumentalities.

That in this so-called enlightened age the vote is still withheld from woman and that even the President of the United States, by his passive, non-committal attitude, is against her, would be surprising indeed if anything could be so in a "free republic" in which a woman absolutely void of offense can be seized, imprisoned and held with impunity by a herd of uniformed brutes, and a man quite as innocent assaulted, shot in the back, dragged through the streets and forcibly deported under the protection of the lawful authorities, and then indicted for the crime of having furnished the victim to these savage atrocities—and all this in the name of law and order and the great American Republic.

The brute-man still denies woman that of which he robbed her centuries ago and the democratic President of the United States dare not offend the brute-man by siding with the victim of his infernal burglary.

For it is the brute-man that rules the day, this enlightened day, and the cultured and scholarly President of the republic dare not incur the displeasure of the brute-man's power.

And this brute-man, whose paunch and jowls have far outstripped his intellect and moral perceptions in the dominion of his brute force, excuses his beastly instinct (if I may so call it without libeling the beasts) by professing himself too "chivalrous" to see the despoiled victims of his brute prowess with ballots in their hands. He prefers to see them in "society", or in sweatshops and brothels.

For one I don't want to see the ballot "granted" to women by the brute-man. I want to see the women conquer it—wrest it from him, the same as all other slaves are compelled to wrest their freedom from their masters, and in the heat of the struggle the "meekness" and "submissiveness" in woman's nature, so assiduously inculcated by the brute-man's "spiritual adviser", will melt away, her initiative will spring into life, she will come into possession of herself, and all the forces which so long conspired to keep her in chains will come into play to emancipate her from the prison-house of the brute-man and awaken all the dormant elements of her character and bring to light all the latent glory of her womanhood.

As to those unfortunate women who fight against the ballot, they are like the poor ignorant chattel slaves who fought against their emancipation. These women, like their black brethren have been so long under the dominion of the brute-man that they are his chattels and in consequence of their long subjugation their reasoning faculties have atrophied and their highest surviving aspiration is to be kept by the brute-man to whom they belong.

Horace Traubel said recently: "The more I see of anti-suffragists the better I like the idiots."

In every great strike women have demonstrated their courage, their loyalty, their devotion to principle and their aspiration to be free.

The women are as essential to our party, as the men and where the women and the men work together, hand in hand an dshoulder to shoulder, as they should everywhere, we have a stronghold of the social revolution.

All hail this day to the Socialist Women of America. You are doing a work which may be little noted now but which will link your names forever with the great revolution in its dawn, and when your days are ended you will sleep in the blessings on an unfettered sex and an emancipated race.

WOMAN'S DAY IS ON THE WAY.

TWO GREAT WOMEN OF OUR AGE

By Theresa Serber Malkiel.

Our loving sympathy goes out to Mother Jones and Madame Breshkovsky, the two great women of our age, one incarcerated in the blackest corner of the Czar's domain, the other in the Western mountains of our own free land.

Great in their youth and equally great in their old age they stand out today, in spite of their four score years, like two beakons of light, unfolding to the admiring world the true meaning of a useful existence.

Born to meet life's great occasions they carried with them through the thousands of skirmishes their mother hearts, and in all the wonderful world there are none so full of deep, strong, deathless love as theirs'.

Robbed of their own offspring, one by poverty and the other by religion, they stretched out their arms into space and, with a yearning to love and protect, embraced the children of the race.

Can the layman really understand the work, the hardship, suffering and joy which this act entailed? Each new morn meant new evils to combat, each new evening new troubles to be solved.

But, each new abuse shaped itself into a stronger badge of courage, each new difficulty resolved itself into a determination to fight until the very last breath.

And so from hour to hour, from day to day they fought the human enemies for forty years. One risking her very life to free the Russian peasants from the misery of poverty and the despotism of the Czar; the other ready to give her's in the attempt to put an end to the suffering of the American miners, to lead them out of wage slavery. For this work women loved them, men revered them, children worshipped them and the enemy abused them and drove them from pillar to post.

One in America, the other in Russia braved stony towers, solitary dungeons, long exile, iron chains and the brutal grip of Russian American cossacks. And, while many a man closed his eyes in dread of death, these women kept their's wide open and calmly waited for the summons, ever prepared to outwit their captors and trample their wicked designs under foot.

Released from captivity they would face about and fling themselves with superhuman effort at the enemy of freedom again. Anxious to die as free as nature intended woman to be they are yet resigned to pay the price when the day of judgment comes.

The enemy has recaptured them once more and who knows—perhaps, their end is really near? Unrelenting in spirit as these martyrs still are, it must be remembered that their bodies are weakened by age and long, merciless persecution.

We dare not wait, unless their blood should fall on our listless heads. Justice calls to us, it rebels and pants for breath under the weight of this most outrageous capitalist act.

Onward, comrades, duty bids us to send our protest East and send it West. Get busy, comrades, call meetings, gather money for their defense, do everything in your power. Prove to our common enemy that the beloved mothers do not stand alone in their fight, that by injuring Mother Jones and Babushka Breshkovsky, capitalism is inflicting an injury on the entire world of labor, and that labor is prepared to fight for their freedom, as they were ever ready to fight for labor's right to live.

Comrades, no ruse or wit can save them now. There are no two ways, no time to lose. We must act quickly, and speak strongly, if we want the enemy to heed us. We must without delay, raise our millions strong voice in protest of the most horrible spectacle of the twentieth century—the mediaeval torture of two women each over eighty years old.

The muskets of the enemy will not dare to drown the voice of the swarming thousands, nay millions. At the sound of it bolt and bar will part, the chains will be torn assunder to the very last link to set the world's mother free.

How long do you workers intend to run around in a circle like a dog after his tail? Dogs quit it finally. Isn't it about time for you to stop, and recover your senses?

Socialism would provide you with a home, if you were not too lazy to work for it. About all you get under capitalism is hell and you have to work long hours for that.

Of course, the interests of capital and labor are mutual. Every blast of the bugle and bark of the capitalist's militia Mauser proves it.

At the Gettysburg reunion the civil war veterans were fed by Uncle Sam at a cost of ten cents a meal. And the spread was good. This shows what can be done by buying and preparing the food in large quantities—even under capitalism.

We want to ask you to purchase from our advertisers and let them know that you appreciate their patronage. Helping them helps "The Socialist." Look over the advertising and make every possible purchase of those who by advertising with us help to support and keep our paper in the field.

This system is not the end of all things—not any more than feudalism was the end of all things.

It is, therefore, absolutely false to represent Socialism as intending to overthrow society—as an appeal to the brute passion of the masses.

We agitate for the organization of the masses. And organization everywhere means order.

We educate, we enlighten, we reason, we discipline.

The Socialists want to maintain culture and civilization and bring it to a much higher level.

We appeal to the best in every man—to the public spirit of the citizen, to his love of wife and children.
—Victor L. Berger.

Call for Volunteers

A WORD WITH MOTHER

Mother this is written for you. We want to have a word with you. It is you to whom the Socialist Philosophy should appeal. It is you to whom the children of today and the unborn children of the future are reaching out their little tiny dimpled hands asking for the opportunity to live right, and be born right.

Mother! how sweet the name. It is the one word we, your children, will not allow to be slightly used. Epitaphs may be flung at others, but let the vile tongue mention you, and we will fight—because we love you.

It is to your tender mother heart we now appeal. We call to your mothers eye, the countless thousands of homeless, forsaken and poverty stricken children,—the future men and women. We appeal to you to help us save them. We ask you to go to the "slave pens" of the master class, and see the little children who are having their young lives—their very souls ground up into dollars, to enrich the Plunderbund, who own the shops and factories.

Perhaps you to have a child who must toil long hours and add its pittance to that of father, to help keep the "wolf from the door." Do you enjoy seeing your child and for that matter, any child, get up early in the morning and be cooped up all day long in an unhealthy unsanitary sweat shop. You know that is not their place. Their place is out under God's blue sky, romping in the green fields in summer, and enjoying hoyish and girlish sports in the winter. Some children have these advantages. Why not yours? Why not every child?

The children of those who live on the labor of our child slaves, and our wage slaves, have every opportunity. Then why not the children of those who do all the useful work. You know in your mother's heart that there is something wrong with a system that denies your child or any child an equal opportunity with every other child.

The other night the writer was going home on the street car. Just across the isle from me sat a typical young child slave. His age was hard to guess. Probably about 15. The night was bitter cold—one of the coldest nights in early March. He had no overcoat. His little body was clothed in an old coat, all ragged and full of holes, and knee pants all frayed and torn. He had no underclothes because the bare flesh showed through his stockings which were also full of holes. The shoe on his left foot was barely hanging together, and his little toe and the next one, were exposed, and were bare.

Mothers! thats why we are Socialists. That was somebody's boy. Some fond mother loves that child as much as you do yours.

As I looked at him, and he caught my eye, he fairly shrunk into himself. The child felt ashamed of his condition. A condition over which he had no control.

What are you going to do mothers? It is true you have not the ballot, but you will have, soon. The Democrat, Republican and Bull Moose parties are responsible for the system that produces such conditions. The Socialist Party is the only party that believes that every child should have an equal opportunity. The Socialist Party wants the people to own the industries and manage them themselves, in the interest of all. We want to save the children. Will you come over and help save your own offspring? We know you will.

The old parties also know you will, and that is why they fight woman's suffrage. The Plunderbund that owns the old parties want your children for their sweatshops and convents.

The Socialist Party wants your child to walk in the halls of art and poetry. We want your child to go to the colleges. We want your child to grow up to be real men and women—true Americans indeed. If you will investigate Socialism you will find that is true. Are you with us?

HOW LABOR MAKES MILLIONARES

REPORT OF PENN'A BUREAU OF INDUSTRIAL STATISTICS.

BLASTING POWDER, DYNAMITE, ETC.

Average value produced by each employe	$6,366.90
Average yearly wage	677.84
Surplus Value	$5,688.84

The above are statistics showing the average production and the average wage of only one industry. It shows a surplus for each worker of $5,688.84.

In other words, each slave after his keep of $677.84 had been deducted, made his master a profit of nearly $6,000.

The working class wonder why they are poor. Study the above figures, if you are a member of the working class, and then just remember that that is just what you have been voting for. Demo., Repo., Bull-Mooso, all stand for that kind of thing, and when you vote their tickets you vote for a continuance of the skinning game, of which you are always the skinned.

A vote for Socialism means that you are voting against being skinned yourself, or any member of your own class being skinned. A straight Socialist Ballot means that if you produce $6,000 wealth per year, that no capitalist could step in between you and the said $6000, and take it all away from you but barely enough for you to live on.

Pray what right has any individual to confiscate the product of your toil? Under Socialism the people through their government will own and operate the industries for the benefit of themselves. Then will we have true freedom, true democracy, true men and women indeed.

MOTHERS OF AMERICA

By Geo. F. Hibner.

Mothers of America, you bearers of pain and bringers of joy, a group of your children are now passing down the street—just an average group of boys and girls passing down the street, and I'm wondering where they're bound. For these few days they are at the school, but on yonder ten years, I'm wondering where they're bound.

Precious souls these—as dear as the sun or stars—dearer to you, oh Mothers—I am wondering where they're bound. But, what matter? America has room enough. She is rich enough and fertile enough to feed and clothe and shelter, ah millions, millions. Coal, oil, copper, lumber, cotton, wool, iron, soil, and acres by millions and millions—ah there's room and plenty in America.

But, Mothers, have you been in the coal fields of America? Have you seen the mines "shut down"—the fathers of babes jobless by thousands and thousands, and children cold and hungry? Have you seen as I have seen, coal heaped by tons in thousands and thousands and children cold in the same county? Look today. This winter just ending has seen plenty of coal—and has seen children cold in most all of the counties of America. I would regret much to see these children go to the coal-fields. There's plenty of coal but, I'm wondering where these children are bound? I wonder too for what it is the "owners" of the mines are holding the coal-field of America?

Oh, Mother of America, does it matter nothing to you that in all the industries of America, these children must work only as wage-workers? That nothing at all can now be done in the industries of this nation except by permit of a few thousands out of the hundred millions of our population? That this nation cannot use any of the means of life except it profit these few? That these children grown strong, cannot work at all except it profit these few? (Profit is the taking more of life than is given, oh mothers.)

I come now asking you; Were all the things that are needed in common, to be brought under common ownership and control would not the people use them when they wished? Would they not have plenty? Would not want disappear from all the counties of America? Would not that be a life infinitely higher, nobler, sweeter than is possible while the few own the means of life of all? I come as a socialist, asking you these; forty millions of socialists are asking you these. But the socialists point too to the industrial developments that are daily fast increasing the need for this common ownership. And we ask you, oh Mothers, what will you do?—what, as to the children passing down the street?

EDUCATION AND THE BIRTH RATE

By Mila Tupper Maynard.

It always seems to require a woman properly to denounce the advancement of women. If an especially scathing attack on a "new woman" appears, it will be found to have emanated from some one in petticoats who revels in a freedom of the newest sort of newness.

And now a woman, evidently highly educated herself and quite accustomed to writing club papers, holds forth on the "terrible tragedy" of race suicide, and blames it all to the education of women, their "emancipation" and the like.

She even brings in the fall of Rome. Poor Rome. The number or reasons why she fell are enough to make one look for her remains deep down in the infernal regions. And now another is given. She fell because her women were educated and got ambitious.

The folly of this sort of talk is too great for serious attention. The women of the "six hundred" in any city are as little burdened with education as with children. The wives of college men, except from co-educational colleges, are rarely themselves college graduates, yet President Eliot has been bemoaning the decreased birthrate in the alumni of Harvard, and all college statistics would tell the same story.

France is surely not a nation of emancipated women, yet if Roosevelt, the anxious, lived in France he would have considerably more occasion than now to push on his crusade in behalf of the cradle.

Causes lie far deeper than the incidental matter of college degrees.

Idle parasites at one end of the scale, imitated by a larger number of would-be idlers, and at the other overworked women and parents fearful for the future support of possible children, are reasons enough to account for the decreased birthrate. When conditions are more nearly equalized and the pressure of abnormal dissipation on the one hand and painful anxiety on the other are removed, human nature will see to it that the hearts and homes of mankind are not left desolate. If it does not, the race had better become extinct and no great harm done.

After all, it is rather egotistical of us to be so troubled merely because the native population is not increasing with normal rapidity. The children of German, Swedish, Irish, Dutch, British and other nationalities will provide a population, and since we all come from those sources to start with, there is no great cause for terror if the Mayflower families do dwindle. The really important matter is that life should be made worth living for those little lives which do get into the world.

It will take a deal of straightening out to make this old globe a safe place to be born into. This is a fitter crusade than that which seeks to multiply the idlers, on the one hand, and the toil slaves on the other.

Solve the industrial problem and human nature will find its chief joy in the home, the child and their fullest blossoming.

SOCIALISM--WOMEN'S STAR OF HOPE

Socialism is the star of hope of women. It is the beginning of a new life and is the beacon that lights up the dark path of the past ages.

Woman has been the greatest sufferer from this senseless system of society. She has borne all the burden and ills of the men who have allowed themselves to become the tools of capitalism. While it is true that the men have had to get out into the world and struggle in the competition for business and wages, it is also true that the reflection of the failure to attain desired aims during the day is shown in his attitude when reaching home, even though an attempt is made to hide it.

The inequality and insufficiency of income into the home is cause for all the envy, dissatisfaction, incompatability and divorce.

With the wife of the working man the meagre sum with which she is expected to buy food, clothing and pay rent keeps her mind in a state of excitement bordering on hysteria from one end of the week to the other. Again, the treatment received by the husband at the hands of the bosses has a vast influence on his temperament when he reaches home.

The business man is also a hard proposition to deal with from the point view of the wife. If business is good or bad it has its effect on the home. Sometimes the success of a business man husband spells ruin for the wife, for with the increased finances he seeks increased pleasures, and troubles are in store for the wife.

The wife and mother as a dependent is in constant fear of losing her means of support, the death of the husband making her an almost immediate pauper; a few thousands of insurance does not last a life-time.

Socialism recognizes that woman is a worker, in the home as well as in industry, and as such she is entitled to a home, food and clothing for herself and children.

She is as much a citizen in a community as anyone and it is her right to live and receive enough to keep her economically free.

Capitalism is the downfall of woman.

Socialism is her only hope.

AND WHEN THERE ARE MORE THAN FIVE

By Theresa H. Russell.

How a family of five, father, mother and three children, can live on $9 a week, is to be demonstrated soon, according to the Washington Post, by Superintendent and Mrs. J. P. S. Neligh, heads of Neighborhood House, a Social Settlement of the city. A little four room house is to be the scene of the experiment, on which Supt. Neligh has expended $150 in making it "as sanitary as possible."

To adult minds that find interest in playing with dolls and in games of make-believe this project will doubtless prove to be diverting. As a sociological "experiment" however it has exactly as much value as the temporary appearance of Marie Antoinette and her court in the roles of dairy maids. Students of history may remember that this enterprise furnished much amusement to the court but was not regarded with the highest favor by the populace whom these ladies and gentlemen were pleased to fancy they were emulating.

It would be interesting to know just what Mr. and Mrs. Neligh intend to demonstrate by their experiment, to justify the attention that has been attracted to it. That five persons can sustain life on $9 a week and not die of actual starvation is a self-evident fact. It is evident because the average, (not the minimum) income of 96 per cent of the heads of families in this country of alleged "prosperity" is $601 a year. If $601 a year is an average wage it is plain that great masses of people must be receiving and subsisting on even less than $9 a week.

That no family can live in comfort, sufficiency or decency on $9 a week must also be self evident to any one except a ratuous theorist. I have examined many budgets of theoretical minimum expenditure and have yet to find one that allowed for such luxuries for instance as tooth brushes and dentifrice,—not to mention dentist bills.

A deprivation of this sort is doubtless in the interests of economy. When the members of the $9 a week household have lost all their teeth through decay they will need even less food than they do now. Also it enables those of the well supplied classes to maintain a superior air and to deplore the ignorance of the poor who "neglect" their bodily necessities.

In view of the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Neligh are to expend $150 in advance upon their living quarters before they even begin their valuable experiment this particular budget will be just a little more ridiculous than such budgets usually are. In the case of the typical wage earner, whose conditions of life by some violent stretch of the imagination they fancy they are simulating, this advance endowment of $150 will doubtless automatically drop from the skies whenever need demands.

I shall refrain from the obvious suggestion to Mr. and Mrs. Neligh that it is a pity to limit their interesting and valuable experiment to one week. Or from asking them why they do not continue it indefinitely and divide their own surplus income, whatever that may be over $9 a week, with the hundreds of thousands of wage earners in this country who are struggling along on even less than that.

But to them and various other persons that have expressed an interest in this project I should like to put one question.

Why should it be considered desirable to devise further methods of scrimping, scraping, saving, denying, repressing and of existing without the barest physical necessities in a country which every year produces more than it consumes? In a country in which two billion dollars are annually expended in advertising and "salesmanship" in order to get rid of the unconsumed surplus?

If they will put their intelligences to work upon the problem of effecting a fairer distribution of the commodities of the country, which are produced by labor, but of which labor is allowed to consume only the fraction that its scanty wages enable it to buy, they may arrive at some economic solution worthy the consideration of adult minds. But their present efforts to achieve a minimum standard of possible existence would seem to be about the minimum of achievement.

THE FACTORY MOTHER

(Ethel Carnie was a half-timer in an English cotton mill at 11, and has been a full-time factory lass the rest of her young life of 28 years. All her songs of nature, of children and of the working world have come to her, she says, while standing at her frame.)

A pale sweet face, with brave eyes, and a band
Of soft brown hair that peeps beneath the shawl,
And close against her breast a moving head—
Her child's—for whom she braves the wild wind's brawl.

The rain beats in her face, yet she fights on,
The whistle's shrilly music in her ears;
In other's arms she leaves her little son,
With other hands to wipe his childish tears.

She flings the shuttle to the whirling loom,
And marks the bird fly by on eager wing,
And almost wishes she, too, were a bird,
That she might hear her wee bird laugh and sing.

Night comes slowly, and she sees at last
Her home and infant. Sweet the blessed night—
So sweet that sometimes she could almost pray,
That nevermore would come the cruel light.

So, one by one, the days, weeks, years go by—
Whilst motherhood is slowly, subtly slain;
Its few fair flowers are stolen from her sight.
But she wears all its thorns of care and pain.

What would Christ think if he should stand to-day
And see the mothers waste their happy bloom?
The gentle hand, that should the cradle rock,
Just fling the shuttle to the greedy loom.

—Ethel Carnie.

MONKEYS are beings which have evoluted to a higher plane than wage-slaves and have an extension to their back bone which enables them to hang to the limbs of cocoanut trees and gather in the fruit with their hands instead of hanging to street car straps with both hands while the company pull your backbone until they make monkeys out of you.

Twenty-five cents for this paper for forty weeks, will grow a backbone strong enough to get a seat in a street car or milk the cocoanut of a street car magnate.

TO THE SOCIALIST MEN

By Metta L. Stern.

There's to the men who march for us,
Comrades in word and deed;
The Socialist men who with tongue and pen
For woman's freedom plead.
The men who woman's cause proclaimed
While other lips were dumb;
Here's to the gallant Socialist men
And the brotherhood world to come.

We've been man's slave or his pampered doll
Through ages dark and cold;
His faithful servant, his household drudge,
His idol bedecked with gold.
Now we are his equal, his friend at last,
And proudly beside him stand.
He calls us "Comrade" and cheers us on
And joyfully grasps our hand.

For under the waving banners of red
March the men with the women tonight.
The day of oppression and darkness is dead
And a better day is in sight;
And the earth will be fair as it ne'er has been
Since the story of life began,
When we usher the age of brotherhood in;
So here's to the Socialist men.

WORKING THE WORKERS

By Lucian Saint.

(Socialist Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 26, 1914.

"A better business system" is the phrase used by President Wilson to describe the hope of his administration, and in a "Record of Achievement" issued by the Democratic National Committee of this city, the workers of the country can for the first time fully realize that every effort of the Democrats has been to help business and to do nothing for the laboring man. Of the thirty-one "achievements" of the administration only one has anything to do directly with labor: this is the amendment to the Railway Arbitration Act, hurriedly enacted because of the obvious imperfections of the existing law.

It is clear that the Democratic party has done nothing for labor, and from the best sources of information in the Capitol, it is equally clear that the Democratic party is not planning to do anything for labor.

In fact the Democrats in Congress have shut down on labor legislation and have refused to resurrect bills which they talked about and even voted on when Taft was in the White House and when there was, therefore, not the remotest chance of their enactment into law. Among these bills, now dead, are the convict labor goods, abolishing the interstate traffic in contract convict-made goods; the anti-injunction and contempt bills; the bill exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust act; the seaman's bill, doing away with the involuntary servitude of seamen under the present archaic laws, and requiring steamship lines to make provision for safety; the national child labor bill; minimum wage legislation; old age pensions, and workmen's compensation. Not a word is being said about even the superficial kind of reform.

The "record of achievement" is full of half statements calculated to mislead the workingman who is not familiar with the true situation at Washington. For instance, it is stated that, as a result of the exposures made by President Wilson, the lobby has been eliminated from the halls of Congress. The lobby has not been eliminated. The National Association of Manufacturers is still on the job, and everybody knows it. The steamship lobby is also on the job, and as these words are being written the United States Chamber of Commerce, representing nearly a third of a million of business men, is holding a meeting at which it is co-operating with Wilson's cabinet officers to shape the pending trust legislation.

The Democrats also take credit for the income tax and direct election of senators amendments to the Constitution, both of which were adopted before they came into power. They point with special pride to the schemes of the Navy department to make the navy "attractive" to young men, and the fake dissolutions of the trusts are heralded as splendid works of statesmanship. Reform in the rules of the House bringing "an end to Cannon methods" is also credited by the Democrats to themselves. Of course, this is absolutely false, for the end of Cannonism, which happened four years ago, was the signal for the beginning of the Underwood tyranny of which the Democrats are the chief beneficiaries.

Woodrow Wilson's "achievements," in short, have profited two parties—the Democratic party and organized business. They have not profited the workers. They have not reduced the cost of living, raised wages, or cut down long hours of toil. These achievements have been many and the list is impressive to look at; but they don't amount t on hill o fbeans.

A BOYISH PRANK?

Under heading "boys get off easy", the capitalist press reports that the four South High School boys arrested some time ago for breaking into Milo high school and stealing books should not be prosecuted as criminals but that their action was only a boyish prank. Amongst the boys caught in the affair was Alfred Hoster, son of Hoster the brewery man, and reputed millionaire.

Say you working men had it been your son would it been considered "a boyish prank"? No, your boy would have been prosecuted to the limit.

Why is it always your class that is oppressed while those who live upon the toil of those who work, can violate the law and then be immune from prosecution? Stop and think. You have your own political party that you can put in power and then the working class will get Justice, and not before.

FLYING SQUADRON.

Well! Well! Two weeks have passed since we met through this column. Last week due to much important matter this column was omitted, and say things have surely been happening. Since the four comrades were arrested we have been so busy putting new Subs on the list that we have hardly had time for anything else. Do you want to help win this fight? Then work for subs. All along the line let the slogan be 10,000 new subs in Columbus alone. The boys and girls in the state will hold up their end. Capitalism has started opening the jail doors for our comrades, and the people will respond by opening the court house for our entire ticket. On with the good fight.

Comrade De Good encloses $1.00 for subs, and says this is my reply to Anarchist Black.

Comrade Schultz, Local Flushing enclose M. O. for $2.50 for 10 cards and says, "Those last ten went like hot cakes in a lumber camp on a frosty morning." We should worry.

Send in the subs. We will do the rest. Just as soon as the People vs. Black is settled we have a profound sensation coming that will once again show the people of this district what lovely public servants they have in this county.

Enclosing a club of five Comrade Mrs. Moody, Zanesville, O., says: "Sample copy received and read with much interest especially the Judge Black affair. At this rate we will soon become subjects of a monarchy without the trouble of buying a steamship ticket. To assist the aforesaid Judge in regaining his senses, we enclose $1.25 for five subs."

Report in Citizen last week says that Mrs. Belle Amlin, 867 Hamilton Ave., who is seriously sick, deserted by her husband, and penniless, was visited by Bill Sunday who left her a Bible. It is not reported whether said Bible was eaten raw, fried or boiled.

Gov. Cox has entered the fight for re-election this fall. Press dispatches report that after his two weeks hunting and fishing trip in Florida that he is "hard as nails." How many of you wage slaves have been to Florida this winter? Don't all hold up your hands at once. But then you are only a worker while Cox is a shirker and tool of the Plunderbund, that live off the labor of the working class. Besides after the hilarious times Cox had in high society circles in Columbus last winter he needed a recuperation.

SELL THEM.

Many of you comrades have sub cards on hand that are not working. Sell them, and reinvest in some more. Let's make next week a big week. Everybody boost.

HELLEN KELLER SAYS.

"Our blind leaders, whom we have sent away, told us that the poverty and misery of mankind were divinely ordained. They taught us that the words, "Ye have the poor always with you, mean that Christ sanctionel poverty as necessary and irremediable. Now we read the gospel with our own eyes, and we see that Christ meant no such thing.

"Much poverty is abominable unnecessary, a disgrace to our civilization, or, rather, a denial that we are civilized. Let us try to understand poverty.

"The ownership of the world by a small class is the main cause of poverty. Strange that we could not see it before, and that when we did see it we accepted it in blind contentment.

"This is not a time of gentleness, of timid beginnings that steal into life with self apologies and dainty grace. It is a time of loud-voiced, open speech and fearless thinking; a time of striving and conscious manhood, a time of all that is robust and vehement and bold; time radiant with new ideals, new hopes of a true democracy."

LAW REQUIRES ELECTION TO BE HELD WITHIN ONE YEAR

Editor of the Socialist,
108½ S. High St., City.
Dear Sir:

With reference to the attached clipping, (article from last week in reference to charter) I desire to call your attention to the following words to be found in Section 8, Article 18 of the new Constitution of Ohio: "Any Charter so framed shall be submitted to the electors of the municipality at an election to be held at a time fixed by the Charter Commission, and within one year from the date of its election." The Charter Commission was elected May 6th, 1913. The date of election is May 5th, 1914.

Very Respectfully,
M. A. GEMUENDER,
President of the Charter Commission.

THE LADY.

"We are accustomed to think that our own social sins endure chiefly because the lady sees so little of them. In every case others do the dirty work for her. If she had to shoot and skin her own bird the plumage would disappear from her hat. A military journal has lately cried out against the proposition to send out a woman as war correspondent. If the world begins to learn through women what goes on at the front (cries this voice in the wilderness) we may as well say good-by to war! Similarly if the sweatshop, the tenement house and the 'Raines law hotel' were picturesquely grouped under the elms of her country place, if her children spent their infancy in close playfellowship with the offspring of those institutions, if her husband was occasionally called out from his dinner to listen to a complaint of overwork from a gang of pregnant women, we like to imagine that the result would be a clean sweep of this class of our iniquities. We are so made that our victims must be out of our sight."—Emily James Putnam, in the Lady.

WHAT IS SOCIALISM?

How would you like to quit dividing up with the class that do no useful work? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to live in a community of real human beings and not have to endure being pestered and robbed by a lot of two-legged hogs? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to know that your children could receive the best education that the accumulated knowledge of the ages provide? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to know that success in life meant useful labor, and did not, as it does now, mean swindling? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to see yourself and everybody else guaranteed free and equal opportunity to work and enjoy the FULL product of their toil? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to see the hundreds of millions of dollars that are spent in pursuit of hate and war used to make America, beautiful. THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like to be able to own a home that the cunning claws of capitalism could not destroy? THAT'S SOCIALISM.

How would you like the public ownership of all the means of producing and distributing wealth, so that you and all the rest of us could have free and equal opportunity to produce wealth, and the private ownership of all the wealth you produced. THAT'S SOCIALISM.

To own their jobs the workingmen must own the machinery collectively and manage it democratically.

Every uneducated boy or girl, man or woman, is a living indictment of the capital system.

Municipal ownership of street railways is declared by Edward Troy, street railway authority, to be the universal practice in all countries but Spain, Turkey and United States. Nice company we're in, isn't?

And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plang vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat.—Isaiah 53:21-22. THAT'S SOCIALISM.—Iron City Socialist.

THE FALLEN WOMAN.

"The fallen woman was not she who lied or betrayed, hated or plotted, or she who made her home a hell for its inmates, not even she who stole and murdered, but the woman, who, outside of marriage, allowed herself the natural expression of one side of her life, even if the most soulful love caused her so-called fall. This point of view has lowered man's respect for the woman he has seduced or for the woman who has freely given herself to him. His conscience has remained asleep, for neither public opinion nor his mistress have awakened it. Female criminals are everywhere less numerous than male, partly because their position is more protected than the man's, but especially because where a man, unable or unwilling to work, becomes a thief, a woman becomes a prostitute."

ED. GETS MARRIED.

Owing to press of business this week we have been unable to investigate the Federal Glass strike. The boys however are on the job and are taking "scabs" out every day and shipping them out of town.

Quite a surprise was sprung on the boys last week when Secretary Edw. Zimpfer took unto himself a helpmeet, in the person of Miss Julia Carter. Ye editor was the first to grasp their hands and wish them all happiness. Ed is a good fellow and a loyal fighter for better conditions for the working class. May they live to see the complete emancipation of labor from the slavery of the master class.

Vote for what you want. What's the difference, whether you get it or not. You have at least asserted your manhood. But when you kick at the ballot box by voting the Socialist ticket, you make a noise that your masters hear and they will at least hand you a few crumbs, and that makes it easier to get the whole loaf next time.

LOCAL.

Last Sunday evening the Y. P. S. L. gave an entertainment in commemoration of the Paris Commune. The Socialist Hall was filled with an appreciative audience. Comrade J. L. Bachman gave a short talk on the Paris Commune which was well received. The young folks are to be highly commended on their excellent work.

Petitions are now ready to sign for our candidates. Come in and get one and have it filled up with signatures.

Don't fail to settle for Creel Sub Cards at once. This is imperative as we must settle with Comrade Creel before he comes here.

The campaign will soon be in full swing. Brace up all along the line and lets make this a hummer.

The meetings of Local Columbus are getting bigger each Wednesday evening. Don't fail to be there next Wednesday evening.

HELP US CLEAN UP.

Socialism is not against your religion. You can worship the moon, the sun or the stars. You can be a Mormon, a Doweite, a Jew, a Buddist or of any other religious faith, and still be a Socialist, because religion is a private matter.

It is only when church institutions, get onto the political field, and subsidize public officials to aid them in getting working class children to be used at machines to produce profits for the masters that Socialists object.

If you are honest you will come with us and help clean up these cess pools, that are continually swallowing up working class children.

You should know that there is a difference between religion and church. Religion is the relation between yourself and infinity. The church is an institution, and can be weilded for good or evil. Because it happens to throw its self on the side of capitalism at the present time, and is therefore a power for evil, is no sign that it will not be transformed into a power for good, when once the working class get control of it.

Let us strike down hypocricy wherever found, just as Jesus drove the money changers out of the temple in his day.

THE CHURCHES, SLAVERY AND SOCIALISM.

The church, both Protestant and Catholic, are making a grand-stand play against the sure enough rising tide of Socialism, and in doing so frequently make the hypocritical claim that the church—meaning both Protestant and Catholic churches—was largely instrumental in abolishing slavery.

To prove that such boasting braggarts are not only hypocrites but ignorant we have only to dig up and quote some history, viz.: "Let them (Abolitionists) understand that they will be caught (lynched) if they come among us, and they will take good heed to keep out of our way."—Rev. W. S. Plummer, D. D (Presbyterian); Birney's History "American Churches."

Again: "When the tardy process of the law is too long in redressing our grievances, we of the South have adopted the summary remedy of Judge Lynch; and, really, I think it one of the most wholesome and salutary remedies for the malady of Northern fanaticism that can be applied. I go to the Bible for my warrant in all moral matters."—Rev. T. S. Witherspoon of Alabama in Birney's History "American Churches."

"If there be any stray goat of a minister among you, tainted with the bloodhound principles of Abolitionism, let him be ferreted out, silenced, excommunicated and left to the public to dispose of him in other respects."—Rev. R. N. Anderson of Virginia (Presbyterian) in letter to "Sessions of the Presbyterian Congregation of the West Hanover Presbytery."

"I found our Northern brethren safe and sound on the slavery question. It is proper for me to state that the mass of our brethren, both in Philadelphia and New York, are opposed to Abolition."—Rev. Jonathan Davis, 1841, in Pittsburg, "The Church As It Is," pages 40-46.

Space will not permit further quotations or comments but here is a list of the ministers and churches who took a smash at the Abolitionists and in favor of slavery, just as those same churches with their hell-dispensers are doing toward Socialism. Rev. Freeman, Episcopalian; Bishop Levi S. Ives, Episcopalian; Rev. Wisner, Presbyterian; Universalists, Quaker, Campbellites, Baptists, and many more too numerous to mention.

OF GERMAN HISTORY.

When the North Americans were fighting England for their freedom, the German princes sold, as is known, their young men into the service of the English. The following figures show the extent that this was done:

Duke of Brunswig sold...	5,723 men
Count of Hese-Kassel sold.	16,992 men
Prince of Hanan sold.....	2,422 men
Count of Ansbuch sold.....	1,644 men
Prince of Waldeck sold...	1,225 men
Prince of Anhalt-Zerbst sold	1,160 men

This was at the rate of 4 per cent of the then existing population. Out of the above 29,166 men, 11,853 were killed, and because for every man who lost his life the German ruler received an indemnity, he was chiefly concerned to see that his subjects were killed off. The price for a man ran from 100, 120 and 150 thalers (about $75, $90 or $110). The historian Franz von Loher (1818-1892) published a letter of the Count of Schaumburg, prince of Hese-Kassel, to the baron of Hohendorff, leader of the Hessian army in America, which shows the characteristic sentiments of these princes. The letter was dated the 8th of February, 1777. The prince expressed in it his great joy because informed that at the Battle of Trenton, 1,650 of 1,950 Hessians had been killed, but he complains that the number of killed, as furnished him by the British ministry, only gave it as 1,455, thereby causing a loss to his treasury. At the end of the letter he wrote: "I am reminded that of the 300 Spartans who defended the Pass of Thermopylae, not one returned. I would be a happy man if I could say the same for my brave Hessians. Say to Mayor Mindorff that I am extremely discontented with his conduct, because he saved his 300 men, who escaped from Trenton. During the whole campaign he has not lost even ten of his soldiers."—Translated from the Ido Journal, Internacions Socialisto.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

Since the producers of wealth over here in General Washington's republic find themselves in the same economic condition as the producers of wealth over yonder in King George's monarchy, it does seem that they should get together and debate this question: "What doth it profit the toilers to gain a republic by shooting and being shot, and keep on losing most of what they make by working and being worked?"

When a man seeks to get possession of more of the things used in making wealth than he can use himself, what is his incentive? There is but one answer—it is that he may have other men use them for him, and thus get possession of wealth that their labor creates. Lofty incentive, isn't it! Full of the glorious Golden Rule, isn't it! Yet it is back of all that a Socialist has reference to when he speaks of the capitalist system, the profit system, the private ownership system, the wage system—and so forth.

No matter how downtrodden and desperate the condition of labor may be, at the very first signs of a strike the government gets its police on the grounds right now, to protect property. The strike may last until men, women and children starve and freeze, but this government police is never used in any case against the class that owns property and in favor of the class that makes property. If the property-making class ever gets its eyes open it will take possession of the government through the united political action of its overwhelming numbers, and use it as a means of nationalizing industry and removing the cause of strikes.

And again we say, just to fill this space, that the country needs a law, right now, confiscating all private property on which the owner swears off his taxes. We don't need to wait for Socialism for a few little moves like that.

Don't make a fool out of yourself by saying that Socialists believe in dividing up, in free love and in destroying the home and religion. Sensible people who are even half posted laugh at such silly assertions.

Your old Unncle Sammy can receive your money and turn it over to the banks. But he can't use the money like the banks do, because capitalism will not let him. Who said that capitalists don't rule this country?

Mistress (angrily)—Jane, what did you mean by wearing my low-neck evening dress at the bus drivers' ball last night? You ought to be ashamed of yourself.

Jane (meekly)—I was, mum. You never heard such remarks as they made.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

We have some inside information on the prospects of election of our State ticket from the viewpoint of the capitalist class.

Recently a letter was forwarded to certain individuals in this city from a bunch of Michigan capitalists, in which they refused to back a certain scheme, giving as their reasons "That the State of Ohio was seething with Socialism, and that they would probably elect their entire State ticket this fall."

Now, workers, get busy and make their predictions come true.

Many who object to Socialism on the ground that it is a foreign movement, go to Europe for their vacation.

A captious and flippant critic hands us a news item reporting a speech Governor Cox made to the honorable order of the Blue Goose at the Virginia Hotel recently.

According to this news item Governor Cox in his speech said: "I do not believe in the State or a municipality embarking in any business or taking over any public utility that can be conducted as well by private or corporate interests. For that reason I am glad we do not have to embark in the Fire Insurance business."

That Governor Cox was a so-called Progressive only for the purpose of riding into political power is now very evident. All of his twiddle-de-de and twiddle-de-dum about cities owning their public utilities, if this press report is correct, has been merely a bunch of wind-jamming to catch votes.

He is a so-called Progressive Democrat. As long as his Progressivism did not interfere with the profits of the Plunderbund, Big Biz allowed Jimmy to talk. Due, however to the constant agitation of the Socialist Party, the people are demanding that the cities take over and operate their own light plants, gas plants, street car systems, etc.

This would be a step toward reducing the high cost of living and would be a big step toward kicking the exploiters off our backs.

The owners of these corporations are for the above reasons bitterly opposed to any such outrageous action on the part of the people.

It is now very evident that Governor Cox has heard his masters' voice, and like the great Wilson in Washington has become the most reactionary of the reactionaries.

ANOTHER BIG VICTORY--WHY DID JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK NOT SEEK VINDICATION AT THE HANDS OF THE COMMON PLEAS JUDGES?

The working class of Columbus have from appearances won their first big victory in their struggle for a humane system of dealing with their children who are taken before the Juvenile Court presided over by Judge Samuel L. Black. If our exposure of the practices of this court have not been true, then why do they now announce their intention of cleaning up?

The following appeared in the Capitalist Press last Saturday:

"OFFICERS WONT FILE CHARGES IN THE FUTURE
—Against Children.

Officers of the Franklin County Juvenile court are no longer to stand in the position of both enemy and friend of children who are brought before the court.

Under a plan which Miss Virginia Murray, chief probation officer of Juvenile court, is to inaugurate unruly youngsters will look upon the probation officers as their friends and will not in the future be given cause to regard them as enemies.

In the past it has been the custom for Juvenile court probation officers themselves to file charges against children who commit crimes or misdemeanors, after they have investigated the cases thoroughly.

The new plan will leave the filing of charges to some one outside of the court. The probation officer will file no charges at all unless it is absolutely necessary. They will use their time to investigate the cases and help the children make amends, if possible, for the wrong they have done.

'Very obviously,' says Miss Murray, 'the old plan is much at fault. An officer who digs up some charge against a youngster and then files an affidavit accusing him of an offense, can little hope to win that youngster's respect and co-operation in righting the wrong, because a feeling of malice toward the officer will remain with the boy or girl as a result of the officer's filing of charges'."

"Very obviously" says Miss Murray, "The old plan is much at fault." Then why, Miss Murray, did you wait until The Socialist turned its sixteen inch gun upon this institution before you reformed and noticed that "the old plan is much at fault"? The columns of this paper are open to you for an explanation. A patient and long suffering public breathlessly await your answer.

The Socialist is happy to know that this court which in its admission of intending to correct the flagrant wrongs that have been practiced upon helpless children intends to do better in the future. The officials who have been responsible for these wrongs should however, be forced out of their positions and people placed there whose hearts throb for suffering humanity.

Is This Prosecution or Persecution?

Last Saturday this paper asked why Judge Black did not deny the entire 44 charges brought against him by the Propaganda Committee of the Socialist Party. He responded by arresting Comrade Bates once more. Here is a legal question for the working class to figure out. How many times can a person be arrested for the same alleged offense? In his affidavit arresting Comrade Bates last Saturday he includes all the charges. This is exactly what the people want. Black is reported in the Journal of last Sunday as saying that he wants an early hearing, as if the charges are true he is not fit to remain judge.

If he was so anxious for a hearing and is perfectly innocent, why did he not demand that the propaganda committee produce their evidence before the Common Pleas Judges?

Understand the case. The Propaganda Committee had filed charges against him with the Common Pleas Judges, asking for Black's removal as Juvenile Court Judge.

In place of meeting the accusations like one would think an honest man would do who has nothing to fear, he arrests four of our Comrades who were only carrying out the instructions of The Socialist Party, and then has Comrade Bates arrested again last Saturday.

This latest arrest has opened the eyes of the few who were hanging back and every mail brings in new evidence, and new witnesses anxious to testify.

Our office is thronged from morning till night with citizens making affidavits and asking to be called as witnesses.

Two prominent detectives called this week and volunteered information which when brought out at the trial wil cause a sensation. They both asked to be detailed on some of these charges, but as the Propaganda Committee has ample evidence on each charge, they were detailed on other matters connected with the case. They give their services absolutely free.

The cases of the four comrades first arrested goes over until April 20th. The trial of Comrade Bates arrested last Saturday we are unable to give details as it is set for Friday at which time this paper will be on the press.

Don't forget the Defense fund as this is the all important thing as we must provide adequate funds for our comrades that they may have a fair trial. Send all contributions to W. E. Bues, Room 68—101 N. High St.

Arrangements are being made to have The Socialist appear as a daily during the trial. We will have a stenographer who will take down the testimony, and it will be taken down verbatim and published on the front page of the paper and diatributed and sold all over town. This is the only way the people will have of learning the truth of the testimony brought out in the trial, as the capitalist press will absolutely not give us a square deal. All the testimony will be published just as given on the stand. Thus will the people in whose hands we now are, be advised from day to day as to the situation.

AN APPEAL TO HUMANITY

Mar. 25, 1914.

To our fraternal friends and comrades:

You are probably awgre of the arrest of four of our brothers on the charge of criminal libel for publishing of charges against Samuel L. Black.

You are aware that this is a fight for humanity and justice, and as such deserves the support of every right thinking man of the city of Columbus, and Franklin Co., the state of Ohio, and the United States.

When our sacred Benches of Justice, are used by a man so inhuman and unjust as to send our brothers, wives and children to various institutions of correction and destroying the homes of our brothers on trumped up charges, as outlined in the charges against Samuel L. Black, it is time that believers in humanity, brotherhood and fraternalism protest against such acts.

We, the defense committee ask your support both financially, and morally in this fight.

As it will take considerable money to secure attorneys, and also of putting our proofs before the people, we ask you to send all contributions no matter how large or small to W. E. Bues, Treas. of the Committee, Room 68 Wesley Block, 101 N. High St.

Hoping you will give this careful consideration at the next meeting of your organization, we are

Yours for humanity,

O. G. Van Schoyck, Chairman,
Walter I. Davis, Sec.,
W. E. Bues, Treas.,
A. C. Perkins,
R. E. Radebaugh,
Defense Committee.

WANTED--A MASTER

The following Want Ads appeared in the Columbus Citizen last Saturday:

WANTED—A master. Young able bodied man (American), reliable and trustworthy, willing worker, willing to sell himself. I have got to eat. State best price. Write L-53, care Citizen."

"WILL pay $3 reward for information leading to position. S-53, Citizen."

And this is "free America" where slavery is unknown. The country where everything is fine and lovely. The country where every one has an equal opportunity to become President.

For shame. Hide your faces all you "good" people who believe in this rotten system.

"Wanted—A Master." Fine thing for a boasted free people to have in their midst isn't it it—a man who advertises for a master because he must have bread.

Where is all the boasted prosperity the great Wilson promised? Where is all this boasted prosperity the capitalist papers tell us about? You free Americans are a huge joke.

And then another advertises a bonus of $3.00 for information leading to a job.

Here is some information that may be of value. Go out and steal a loaf of bread where a policeman can see you, and you can get a job in the workhouse for 6 months or more. (No charge for this information). Or you might criticise the official acts of a judge which might have the same effect.

Oh! America, once the home of liberty—now thy boasted freedom lies in the dust but crumbling powder. Our tears mingle with the groans of the dying, murdered and enslaved millions of workers. Our voice is raised pleading for labor to unite, to the end that we may conquer the world for the workers.

IS THIS A NEW LAW

Last week we called attention to the fact that the boys arrested for stealing from the Milo High School, were not prosecuted, the public officials who had the prosecution in hand having decided to look upon the matter as "a boyish prank."

So many inquiries have been made about the matter since our publication of last week that we have investigated further.

It will be remembered that one of these boys was a son of Hoster the Brewery Magnate.

Upon calling the Juvenile Court, and asking them the disposition of the case, they replied that it had been turned over to the Board of Education.

Upon calling the said board they replied that the boys had been placed on probation and reported to Supt. Shawan once per week.

Just when the board of education became a subsidiary of the Juvenile Court, and just where they get the law in the matter has not developed, but if Hoster's son had not been implicated, and all these boys had belonged to working class parents, where do you suppose they would have been now?

You know where they would have been. Either in Lancaster or on the road to the Penitentiary, according to their ages.

And then there is only one law in this country that applies to rich and poor alike. If you don't think so, the next time your child is guilty of some misdemeanor, watch him or her get let out on probation, especially if the crime is so serious as breaking into school buildings.

H. G. Creel all next week.

The ordinary ass knoweth his master's crib, but some two-legged ones don't know their own political party.

The fellow who says the Socialist is too radical, would make an excellent hitching post for a jackass.

That woman should be denied the ballot is a superstition which will shortly die a natural death.

The only way you can win the respect of the masters is to swat them hard—at the ballot box.

A skeleton washed up from the sea in California is [illegible] long and correspondingly stiff. If all the workers had that kind of a backbone there would be something doing.

There used to be a true old saying that "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world;' today this should read: "The hand that rocks the cradle furnishes 'cheap hands' for those who rule the world—the capitalists.

Ever notice how much more considerate of widows and orphans the bosses are when it is proposed to reduce the pluckings of some pirate corporation than when they order out the militia to kill workingmen on strike for more bread?

There is no man so bad but has a secret respect for Socialism.

Under capitalism a wealthy idiot can ride in a motor car, while a capable workingman rides on the breakbeams and votes to continue the outrage. Which is the real fool?

Charges of want of patriotism against Socialists should be instead, charges of Internationalism, or a belief in the brotherhood of man.

Truth is truth, no difference through what channel it may come. The man who will not receive it because it does not come from one he likes is a man who LOSES.

Every man is entitled to a job. Under the present system he must beg for the privilege TO WORK. Under Socialism he will OWN his job, and have the right to work whenever he PLEASES.

Saint J. P. Morgan, the red-nosed gink that lately took a trip to heaven (?) was another great patriot that got his start to wealth and fame by staying at home when the Civil War broke loose. He served his country by selling it crippled guns. Yes, hell is too good for him.

Though every hand is against him, the Socialist knows there is a strange joy in fighting for right that he cannot find elsewhere. The memory of one good fight for freedom or justice gives a thrilling sense of worth that lasts a life-time.

Do not deplore unrest, it is but an attempt at expression.

Hunger may lead to riot, but it will take more than a riot to change a system that leads to hunger.

When you say "He is a strong character" I want to know something as to the character of his strength.

Since the Catholic priesthood proclaimed war on Socialism, the working-class political party vote has doubled and industrial unionism has become a national economic issue. Keep up the fight, Holy Fathers.

An English explorer claims to have discovered a tribe in the wilds of Africa "that has absolutely no idea of morality or immorality." It is thought this may be a lost tribe of capitalists.

If war is conceded to be Hell, is not an armory an institution erected [illegible] and for the perpetuation of Hell? And are not those who are responsible for the armory then in league with the devil?

"I testify of myself and my testimony is true," was the reply Jesus made to those who were telling all manner of falsehoods about him. If you wish to know the truth of Socialism study Socialist books rather than believing what the enemies of Socialism say about it.

Every dollar in profits taken
Means children starved and homes forsaken.

A Socialist is simply a man or a woman, the hinges of whose knees have never oiled with oil of cringing.

Every prehistoric skull that is dug up proves that there comes a time when all men are equal.

Some of your fellows that only see things on the surface, wonder what makes "anarchists." Some judges (?) are the guilty ones.

Go to work, they tell you workers, but they do not point to you the direction to take where you will find work.

If the workers were alive to their own interests they'd force the masters to give them anything they wished.

In some parts of India they bury their dead like the trolly company carries a large portion of its passengers—standing up.

The coal corporations are still on the job of selling adulterated coal—slate, dirt and coal mixed. More of the first two than of the latter. Why don't some of you fellows get awake and get rid of adulterations and Bright's disease?

Do you suppose that a majority of the people who are workers would take the farms away from themselves as some say Socialism will?

The mills of Mammon are ever busy grinding children into dirty gold for the coffers of idle parasites.

If the farm holds out such inducements as the big bugs claim, why don't they get on the farm?

Non-partisan elections. It is to laugh. A non-partisan never existed. It is human nature to take sides. This part of the proposed city charter is only a trick of capitalism to keep you in chains awhile longer.

CONTEMPT FOR THE COURT

Dogberry sat on the bench, properly gowned, looking severe. The lawyer in front of him is trying his best for his client when, Dogberry, irritated and peevish, thunders at him: "Don't you dare to allow contempt for this court!" Quick as a flash came the answer: "Indeed, I am trying very hard to conceal it."

That story, current among lawyers, illustrates the proceedings against the members of the structural iron workers whose trial ended in conviction and long prison sentences. Their appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States having failed, their lawyer now tries to secure pardons for some of them.

In the petition for that pardon facts are alleged which, if true, or even partly true, fully justify the feeling of contempt now so widely held for the courts as run under capitalism.

It is asserted that the trial judge allowed only such exceptions to his rulings as suited his fancy; that he made long speeches to the jury commenting upon the facts in a way calculated to show that defendants were guilty; that a special train to convey the defendants to the Leavenworth Penitentiary was ordered forty days before the verdict by the jury; that the Judge, during the trial, frequently consulted with the attorney for the Erectors' Association and heard suggestions from him privately in the absence of the defendants and their counsel, and so forth.

These things are now published on inside pages of capitalistic dailies. In the Times, for instance, in the same issue that publishes a divorce case among the Four Hundred at length on the front page as important and "fit to print."

They are printed now, when the case is closed judicially. They were hushed up at the time it was pending.

The judges of the Supreme Court in Washington gravely inspected the records before them. They considered nothing else. They are very consistent, those high and mighty judges of our most august tribunal. By the way, it is the same tribunal that found in the Moyer-Haywood case that it had no business to interfere with the outrageous kidnapping of the defendants.

Yet we are constantly told that we must respect the "majesty of the law" and the judges that administer it. Contempt of court in this country is as awful an offense as belittling the mustachios of His Imperial Majesty of Germany.

Oh, no; we must not show any contempt for courts. We must be law abiding citizens even under the most trying conditions. At least, as long as the majority is on the other side.

Fudge!

LOCAL, STATE, NATIONAL

Local Columbus meets every Wednesday evening at Federation Hall 121½ E. Town St. 7:45. Secretary Mrs. Sylvia Vermillion, 1239 Michigan Avenue. Pay dues at your Branch organization or at this office, 108½ South High Street, or at meetings of Local Columbus. Attend the meetings and always see that your red book is stamped to date.

LOCAL.

Last Sunday evening the Y. P. S. L. gave an entertainment in commemoration of the Paris Commune. The Socialist Hall was filled with an appreciative audience. Comrade J. L. Bachman gave a short talk on the Paris Commune which was well received. The young folks are to be highly commended on their excellent work.

Petitions are now ready to sign for our candidates. Come in and get one and have it filled up with signatures.

Don't fail to settle for Creel Sub Cards at once. This is imperative as we must settle with Comrade Creel before he comes here.

The campaign will soon be in full swing. Brace up all along the line and lets make this a hummer.

The meetings of Local Columbus are getting bigger each Wednesday evening. Don't fail to be there next Wednesday evening.

HELP US CLEAN UP.

Socialism is not against your religion. You can worship the moon, the sun or the stars. You can be a Mormon, a Doweite, a Jew, a Buddist or of any other religious faith, and still be a Socialist, because religion is a private matter.

It is only when church institutions, get onto the political field, and subsidize public officials to aid them in getting working class children to be used at machines to produce profits for the masters that Socialists object.

If you are honest you will come with us and help clean up these cess pools, that are continually swallowing up working class children.

You should know that there is a difference between religion and church. Religion is the relation between yourself and infinity. The church is an institution, and can be weilded for good or evil. Because it happens to throw its self on the side of capitalism at the present time, and is therefore a power for evil, is no sign that it will not be transformed into a power for good, when once the working class get control of it.

Let us strike down hypocricy wherever found, just as Jesus drove the money changers out of the temple in his day.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

(about $75, $90 or $110). The historian Frans von Loher (1818-1892) published a letter of the Count of Schaumburg, prince of Hese-Kassel, to the baron of Hohendorff, leader of the Hessian army in America, which shows the characteristic sentiments of these princes. The letter was dated the 8th of February, 1777. The prince expressed in it his great joy because informed that at the Battle of Trenton, 1,650 of 1,950 Hessians had been killed, but he complains that the number of killed, as furnished him by the British ministry, only gave it as 1,455, thereby causing a loss to his treasury. At the end of the letter he wrote: "I am reminded that of the 300 Spartans who defended the Pass of Thermopylae, not one returned. I would be a happy man if I could say the same for my brave Hessians. Say to Mayor Mindorff that I am extremely discontented with his conduct, because he saved his 300 men, who escaped from Trenton. During the whole campaign he has not lost even ten of his soldiers."—Translated from the Ido Journal, Internacions Socialisto.

All legal matter given prompt attention. H. Anna Quinby, 215 Union National Bank Building, Columbus, O. M. 3864, Cit. 7073.—Adv.

Since the producers of wealth over here in General Washington's republic find themselves in the same economic condition as the producers of wealth over yonder in King George's monarchy, it does seem that they should get together and debate this question: "What doth it profit the toilers to gain a republic by shooting and being shot, and keep on losing most of what they make by working and being worked?"

When a man seeks to get possession of more of the things used in making wealth than he can use himself, what is his incentive? There is but one answer—it is that he may have other men use them for him, and thus get possession of wealth that their labor creates. Lofty incentive, isn't it! Full of the glorious Golden Rule, isn't it! Yet it is back of all that a Socialist has reference to when he speaks of the capitalist system, the profit system, the private ownership system, the wage system—and so forth.

No matter how downtrodden and desperate the condition of labor may be, at the very first signs of a strike the government gets its police on the grounds right now, to protect property. The strike may last until men, women and children starve and freeze, but this government police is never used in any case against the class that owns property and in favor of the class that makes property. If the property-making class ever gets its eyes open it will take possession of the government through the united political action of its overwhelming numbers, and use it as a means of nationalizing industry and removing the cause of strikes.

And again we say, just to fill this space, that the country needs a law, right now, confiscating all private property on which the owner swears off his taxes. We don't need to wait for Socialism for a few little moves like that.

Don't make a fool out of yourself by saying that Socialists believe in dividing up, in free love and in destroying the home and religion. Sensible people who are even half posted laugh at such silly assertions.

Your old Unncle Sammy can receive your money and turn it over to the banks. But he can't use the money like the banks do, because capitalism will not let him. Who said that capitalists don't rule this country?

Mistress (angrily)—Jane, what did you mean by wearing my low-neck evening dress at the bus drivers' ball last night? You ought to be ashamed of yourself.

Jane (meekly)—I was, mum. You never heard such remarks as they made.

THE CHURCHES, SLAVERY AND SOCIALISM.

The church, both Protestant and Catholic, are making a grand-stand play against the sure enough rising tide of Socialism, and in doing so frequently make the hypocritical claim that the church—meaning both Protestant and Catholic churches—was largely instrumental in abolishing slavery.

To prove that such boasting braggarts are not only hypocrites but ignorant we have only to dig up and quote some history, viz.: "Let them (Abolitionists) understand that they will be caught (lynched) if they come among us, and they will take good heed to keep out of our way."—Rev. W. S. Plummer, D. D (Presbyterian); Birney's History "American Churches."

Again: "When the tardy process of the law is too long in redressing our grievances, we of the South have adopted the summary remedy of Judge Lynch; and, really, I think it one of the most wholesome and salutary remedies for the malady of Northern fanaticism that can be applied. I go to the Bible for my warrant in all moral matters."—Rev. T. S. Witherspoon of Alabama in Birney's History "American Churches."

"If there be any stray goat of a minister among you, tainted with the bloodhound principles of Abolitionism, let him be ferreted out, silenced, excommunicated and left to the public to dispose of him in other respects."—Rev. R. N. Anderson of Virginia (Presbyterian) in letter to "Sessions of the Presbyterian Congregation of the West Hanover Presbytery."

"I found our Northern brethren safe and sound on the slavery question. It is proper for me to state that the mass of our brethren, both in Philadelphia and New York, are opposed to Abolition."—Rev. Jonathan Davis, 1841, in Pittsburg, "The Church As It Is," pages 40-46.

Space will not permit further quotations or comments but here is a list of the ministers and churches who took a smash at the Abolitionists and in favor of slavery, just as those same churches with their hell-dispensers are doing toward Socialism. Rev. Freeman, Episcopalian; Bishop Levi S. Ives, Episcopalian; Rev. Wisner, Presbyterian; Universalists, Quaker, Campbellites, Baptists, and many more too numerous to mention.

OF GERMAN HISTORY.

When the North Americans were fighting England for their freedom, the German princes sold, as is known, their young men into the service of the English. The following figures show the extent that this was done:

Duke of Brunswig sold...	5,723 men
Count of Hese-Kassel sold.	16,992 men
Prince of Hanan sold.....	2,422 men
Count of Ansbuch sold.....	1,644 men
Prince of Waldeck sold...	1,225 men
Prince of Anhalt-Zerbst sold	1,160 men

This was at the rate of 4 per cent of the then existing population. Out of the above 29,166 men, 11,853 were killed, and because for every man who lost his life the German ruler received an indemnity, he was chiefly concerned to see that his subjects were killed off. The price for a man ran from 100, 120 and 150 thalers

INSIDE INFORMATION.

We have some inside information on the prospects of election of our State ticket from the viewpoint of the capitalist class.

Recently a letter was forwarded to certain individuals in this city from a bunch of Michigan capitalists, in which they refused to back a certain scheme, giving as their reasons "That the State of Ohio was seething with Socialism, and that they would probably elect their entire State ticket this fall."

Now, workers, get busy and make their predictions come true.

Many who object to Socialism on the ground that it is a foreign movement, go to Europe for their vacation.

A captious and flippant critic hands us a news item reporting a speech Governor Cox made to the honorable order of the Blue Goose at the Virginia Hotel recently.

According to this news item Governor Cox in his speech said: "I do not believe in the State or a municipality embarking in any business or taking over any public utility that can be conducted as well by private or corporate interests. For that reason I am glad we do not have to embark in the Fire Insurance business."

That Governor Cox was a so-called Progressive only for the purpose of riding into political power is now very evident. All of his twiddle-de-de and twiddle-de-dum about cities owning their public utilities, if this press report is correct, has been merely a bunch of windjamming to catch votes.

He is a so-called Progressive Democrat. As long as his Progressivism did not interfere with the profits of the Plunderbund, Big Biz allowed Jimmy to talk. Due, however to the constant agitation of the Socialist Party, the people are demanding that the cities take over and operate their own light plants, gas plants, street car systems, etc.

This would be a step toward reducing the high cost of living and would be a big step toward kicking the exploiters off our backs.

The owners of these corporations are for the above reasons bitterly opposed to any such outrageous action on the part of the people.

It is now very evident that Governor Cox has heard his masters' voice, and like the great Wilson in Washington has become the most reactionary of the reactionaries.

ANOTHER BIG VICTORY--WHY DID JUDGE SAMUEL L. BLACK NOT SEEK VINDICATION AT THE HANDS OF THE COMMON PLEAS JUDGES?

The working class of Columbus have from appearances won their first big victory in their struggle for a humane system of dealing with their children who are taken before the Juvenile Court presided over by Judge Samuel L. Black. If our exposure of the practices of this court have not been true, then why do they now announce their intention of cleaning up?

The following appeared in the Capitalist Press last Saturday:

"OFFICERS WONT FILE CHARGES IN THE FUTURE
—Against Children.

Officers of the Franklin County Juvenile court are no longer to stand in the position of both enemy and friend of children who are brought before the court.

Under a plan which Miss Virginia Murray, chief probation officer of Juvenile court, is to inaugurate unruly youngsters will look upon the probation officers as their friends and will not in the future be given cause to regard them as enemies.

In the past it has been the custom for Juvenile court probation officers themselves to file charges against children who commit crimes or misdemeanors, after they have investigated the cases thoroughly.

The new plan will leave the filing of charges to some one outside of the court. The probation officer will file no charges at all unless it is absolutely necessary. They will use their time to investigate the cases and help the children make amends, if possible, for the wrong they have done.

'Very obviously,' says Miss Murray, 'the old plan is much at fault. An officer who digs up some charge against a youngster and then files an affidavit accusing him of an offense, can little hope to win that youngster's respect and co-operation in righting the wrong, because a feeling of malice toward the officer will remain with the boy or girl as a result of the officer's filing of charges'."

"Very obviously" says Miss Murray, "The old plan is much at fault." Then why, Miss Murray, did you wait until The Socialist turned its sixteen inch gun upon this institution before you reformed and noticed that "the old plan is much at fault"? The columns of this paper are open to you for an explanation. A patient and long suffering public breathlessly await your answer.

The Socialist is happy to know that this court which in its admission of intending to correct the flagrant wrongs that have been practiced upon helpless children intends to do better in the future. The officials who have been responsible for these wrongs should however, be forced out of their positions and people placed there whose hearts throb for suffering humanity.

Is This Prosecution or Persecution?

Last Saturday this paper asked why Judge Black did not deny the entire 44 charges brought against him by the Propaganda Committee of the Socialist Party. He responded by arresting Comrade Bates once more. Here is a legal question for the working class to figure out. How many times can a person be arrested for the same alleged offense? In his affidavit arresting Comrade Bates last Saturday he includes all the charges. This is exactly what the people want. Black is reported in the Journal of last Sunday as saying that he wants an early hearing, as if the charges are true he is not fit to remain judge.

If he was so anxious for a hearing and is perfectly innocent, why did he not demand that the propaganda committee produce their evidence before the Common Pleas Judges?

Understand the case. The Propaganda Committee had filed charges against him with the Common Pleas Judges, asking for Black's removal as Juvenile Court Judge.

In place of meeting the accusations like one would think an honest man would do who has nothing to fear, he arrests four of our Comrades who were only carrying out the instructions of The Socialist Party, and then has Comrade Bates arrested again last Saturday.

This latest arrest has opened the eyes of the few who were hanging back and every mail brings in new evidence, and new witnesses anxious to testify.

Our office is thronged from morning till night with citizens making affidavits and asking to be called as witnesses.

Two prominent detectives called this week and volunteered information which when brought out at the trial wil cause a sensation. They both asked to be detailed on some of these charges, but as the Propaganda Committee has ample evidence on each charge, they were detailed on other matters connected with the case. They give their services absolutely free.

The cases of the four comrades first arrested goes over until April 20th. The trial of Comrade Bates arrested last Saturday we are unable to give details as it is set for Friday at which time this paper will be on the press.

Don't forget the Defense fund as this is the all important thing as we must provide adequate funds for our comrades that they may have a fair trial. Send all contributions to W. E. Bues, Room 68—101 N. High St.

Arrangements are being made to have The Socialist appear as a daily during the trial. We will have a stenographer who will take down the testimony, and it will be taken down verbatim and published on the front page of the paper and distributed and sold all over town. This is the only way the people will have of learning the truth of the testimony brought out in the trial, as the capitalist press will absolutely not give us a square deal. All the testimony will be published just as given on the stand. Thus will the people in whose hands we now are, be advised from day to day as to the situation.

AN APPEAL TO HUMANITY

Mar. 25, 1914.

To our fraternal friends and comrades:

You are probably aware of the arrest of four of our brothers on the charge of criminal libel for publishing of charges against Samuel L. Black.

You are aware that this is a fight for humanity and justice, and as such deserves the support of every right thinking man of the city of Columbus, and Franklin Co., the state of Ohio, and the United States.

When our sacred Benches of Justice, are used by a man so inhuman and unjust as to send our brothers, wives and children to various institutions of correction and destroying the homes of our brothers on trumped up charges, as outlined in the charges against Samuel L. Black, it is time that believers in humanity, brotherhood and fraternalism protest against such acts.

We, the defense committee ask your support both financially, and morally in this fight.

As it will take considerable money to secure attorneys, and also of putting our proofs before the people, we ask you to send all contributions no matter how large or small to W. E. Bues, Treas. of the Committee, Room 68 Wesley Block, 101 N. High St.

Hoping you will give this careful consideration at the next meeting of your organization, we are

Yours for humanity,
O. G. Van Schoyck, Chairman,
Walter I. Davis, Sec.,
W. E. Bues, Treas.,
A. C. Perkins,
R. E. Radebaugh,
Defense Committee.

WANTED--A MASTER

The following Want Ads appeared in the Columbus Citizen last Saturday:

WANTED—A master. Young able bodied man (American), reliable and trustworthy, willing worker, willing to sell himself. I have got to eat. State best price. Write L-53, care Citizen."

"WILL pay $3 reward for information leading to position. S-53, Citizen."

And this is "free America" where slavery is unknown. The country where everything is fine and lovely. The country where every one has an equal opportunity to become President.

For shame. Hide your faces all you "good" people who believe in this rotten system.

"Wanted—A Master." Fine thing for a boasted free people to have in their midst isn't it it—a man who advertises for a master because he must have bread.

Where is all the boasted prosperity the great Wilson promised? Where is all this boasted prosperity the capitalist papers tell us about? You free Americans are a huge joke.

And then another advertises a bonus of $3.00 for information leading to a job.

Here is some information that may be of value. Go out and steal a loaf of bread where a policeman can see you, and you can get a job in the workhouse for 6 months or more. (No charge for this information). Or you might criticise the official acts of a judge which might have the same effect.

Oh! America, once the home of liberty—now thy boasted freedom lies in the dust but crumbling powder. Our tears mingle with the groans of the dying, murdered and enslaved millions of workers. Our voice is raised pleading for labor to unite, to the end that we may conquer the world for the workers.

IS THIS A NEW LAW

Last week we called attention to the fact that the boys arrested for stealing from the Milo High School, were not prosecuted, the public officials who had the prosecution in hand having decided to look upon the matter as "a boyish prank."

So many inquiries have been made about the matter since our publication of last week that we have investigated further.

It will be remembered that one of these boys was a son of Hoster the Brewery Magnate.

Upon calling the Juvenile Court, and asking them the disposition of the case, they replied that it had been turned over to the Board of Education.

Upon calling the said board they replied that the boys had been placed on probation and reported to Supt. Shawan once per week.

Just when the board of education became a subsidiary of the Juvenile Court, and just where they get the law in the matter has not developed, but if Hoster's son had not been implicated, and all these boys had belonged to working class parents, where do you suppose they would have been now?

You know where they would have been. Either in Lancaster or on the road to the Penitentiary, according to their ages.

And then there is only one law in this country that applies to rich and poor alike. If you don't think so, the next time your child is guilty of some misdemeanor, watch him or her get let out on probation, especially if the crime is so serious as breaking into school buildings.

H. G. Creel all next week.

The ordinary ass knoweth his master's crib, but some two-legged ones don't know their own political party.

The fellow who says the Socialist is too radical, would make an excellent hitching post for a jackass.

That woman should be denied the ballot is a superstition which will shortly die a natural death.

The only way you can win the respect of the masters is to swat them hard—at the ballot box.

A skeleton washed up from the sea in California [illegible] long and correspondingly stiff. If all the workers had that kind of a backbone there would be something doing.

There used to be a true old saying that "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world;' today this should read: "The hand that rocks the cradle furnishes 'cheap hands' for those who rule the world—the capitalists.

Ever notice how much more considerate of widows and orphans the bosses are when it is proposed to reduce the pluckings of some pirate corporation than when they order out the militia to kill workingmen on strike for more bread?

There is no man so bad but has a secret respect for Socialism.

Under capitalism a wealthy idiot can ride in a motor car, while a capable workingman rides on the breakbeams and votes to continue the outrage. Which is the real fool?

Charges of want of patriotism against Socialists should be instead, charges of Internationalism, or a belief in the brotherhood of man.

Truth is truth, no difference through what channel it may come. The man who will not receive it because it does not come from one he likes is a man who LOSES.

Every man is entitled to a job. Under the present system he must beg for the privilege TO WORK. Under Socialism he will OWN his job, and have the right to work whenever he PLEASES.

Saint J. P. Morgan, the red-nosed gink that lately took a trip to heaven (?) was another great patriot that got his start to wealth and fame by staying at home when the Civil War broke loose. He served his country by selling it crippled guns. Yes, hell is too good for him.

Though every hand is against him, the Socialist knows there is a strange joy in fighting for right that he cannot find elsewhere. The memory of one good fight for freedom or justice gives a thrilling sense of worth that lasts a life-time.

Do not deplore unrest, it is but an attempt at expression.

Hunger may lead to riot, but it will take more than a riot to change a system that leads to hunger.

When you say "He is a strong character" I want to know something as to the character of his strength.

Since the Catholic priesthood proclaimed war on Socialism, the working-class political party vote has doubled and industrial unionism has become a national economic issue. Keep up the fight, Holy Fathers.

An English explorer claims to have discovered a tribe in the wilds of Africa "that has absolutely no idea of morality or immorality." It is thought this may be a lost tribe of capitalists.

If war is conceded to be Hell, is not an armory an institution erected or maintained to the glorification and for the perpetuation of Hell? And are not those who are responsible for the armory then in league with the devil?

"I testify of myself and my testimony is true," was the reply Jesus made to those who were telling all manner of falsehoods about him. If you wish to know the truth of Socialism study Socialist books rather than believing what the enemies of Socialism say about it.

Every dollar in profits taken
Means children starved and homes forsaken.

A Socialist is simply a man or a woman, the hinges of whose knees have never oiled with oil of cringing.

Every prehistoric skull that is dug up proves that there comes a time when all men are equal.

Some of your fellows that only see things on the surface, wonder what makes "anarchists." Some judges (?) are the guilty ones.

Go to work, they tell you workers, but they do not point to you the direction to take where you will find work.

If the workers were alive to their own interests they'd force the masters to give them anything they wished.

In some parts of India they bury their dead like the trolly company carries a large portion of its passengers—standing up.

The coal corporations are still on the job of selling adulterated coal—slate, dirt and coal mixed. More of the first two than of the latter. Why don't some of you fellows get awake and get rid of adulterations and Bright's disease?

Do you suppose that a majority of the people who are workers would take the farms away from themselves as some say Socialism will?

The mills of Mammon are ever busy grinding children into dirty gold for the coffers of idle parasites.

If the farm holds out such inducements as the big bugs claim, why don't they get on the farm?

Non-partisan elections. It is to laugh. A non-partisan never existed. It is human nature to take sides. This part of the proposed city charter is only a trick of capitalism to keep you in chains awhile longer.

CONTEMPT FOR THE COURT
